Herman Backs Hold Open House on Anniversary

It was a happy day Sunday for Mr and Mrs Herman Back when they observed their 40th Wedding Anniversary by holding open house at the Klemme Methodist Church. A large group of relatives and friends was on hand to help make the occasion a memorable one for them, and all of their four children were present.

Have Lived In This Community For 26 Years

A large crowd of relatives and friends was on hand at the Klemme Methodist Church last Sunday afternoon to help Mr and Mrs Herman Back observe their 40th wedding anniversary. Their children planned and held the open house in their honor for the occasion.

Mr and Mrs Back were married on December 25, 1914, at the J. F. Kern home near Belle Plaine, Iowa, with about 100 relatives attending. Rev. Pritz, pastor of the Lutheran Church at Blairstown, Iowa, performed the ceremony.

Their wedding day was a cold day, with the thermometer standing at 20 degrees below zero. The guests came with horses and sleds, braving the extremely cold weather for the event.

They spent their honeymoon visiting at the homes of relatives until March 1st, when they moved to a 280 acre farm near Blairstown. Here their three eldest children, Lynford, Graydon and Marilyn, were born. They lived on this farm for thirteen years, then came to Hancock County and bought the 160 acre farm, four miles east and three-fourths of a mile north of Klemme, belonging to Fred Arnold, Sr.

They moved their furniture, stock and machinery by train, including the boys' dog and Shetland pony. Mr Back made the trip on the train in order that he might care for his stock, and the rest of the family drove the car.

It was a cold, rough March day when they arrived in Klemme, but neighbors and relatives made things easier for the Backs by helping them to get their things moved to the farm.

They lived on this place for twenty years, and their youngest son, Wilford, was born there. In 1948, they rented the farm to their oldest son, Lynford, and built the home in Klemme where they now reside.

Out of town guests included relatives and friends from Belle Plaine, Marshalltown, Mason City, and Garner.

To Observe 50th Wedding Anniversary

Pictured above are Mr and Mrs G. W. Lemke, long time residents of the Klemme community, who will observe their 50th wedding anniversary by holding open house at the Klemme Methodist Church between the hours of 2:00 P. M. and 5:00 P. M., Sunday, January 9th.

No invitations are being sent out, but all relatives, neighbors and friends are invited to be present and help the Lemkes observe this important day in their lives.

A short program has been arranged to get under way at 2 o'clock.

Shamrocks Down Rockwell In Conference Play

60 to 47 Win In First Action After Holidays

The Klemme Shamrocks stayed in contention in the North Star Conference Tuesday night by virtue of a 60 to 47 win over Rockwell. The win gives them a 5 and 2 record for the season in conference play and keeps them in third place with a percentage of .714.

The game wasn't all easy for the Shamrocks. At one time in the first quarter, they trailed by 6 points, and at the end of the quarter the score stood at 19 to 16 in favor of Rockwell.

By half time, the Shamrocks had managed to erase the lead and were out in front by a nose, 28 to 27. During the third quarter they began to work better and by the end of the period held a 44 to 38 advantage. In the final period they really went to work and out scored Rockwell 16 to 9 to wind up on the long end of the 60 to 47 score.

Haefner was the big gun for Klemme with 24 points on 7 field goals and 10 free throws, while Thiemann had 15 with 6 field goals and 3 free throws. Kramer and Barz got 9 and 7 respectively.

Cook was the leading scorer for Rockwell with 15 points on 5 field goals and 5 free throws.

The game saw a total of 35 personal fouls called; 21 on Rockwell and 14 on Klemme. Each team lost one man via foul route, and Klemme was without the services of Thiemann for some time as he injured an ankle in the first half.

The Little Shamrocks notched another win for their record when they outscored the Rockwell reserves 47 to 34. They took a commanding lead early in the game and were never in trouble. Bachman led the scoring for the Little Shamrocks with 19 points, while Neuberger had 12 and Larson 7.

This Friday night the Shamrocks will be host to Dows in a conference game, and this will be one that the locals really want to win. They will need to win to stay in the conference race and they will be wanting to avenge an earlier 73 to 57 defeat suffered at the hands of the Dows aggregation. They are a much improved team over what they were when they played Dows before and their chances for a win should be good. Either way it should be a good game.

Next Tuesday night, January 11, the Shamrocks journey to Sheffield for their second game of the season with that conference foe. In an earlier contest, the locals downed the Sheffield team 67 to 39 on the Klemme floor.

The only other conference action Tuesday night saw Fertile really pouring it on Ventura. They won by the lopsided score of 76 to 41 to make their season record in conference play 6 and 1, and stay just ahead of Klemme in the standings. Dows is still in the number one spot.

Other conference teams did alright in non-conference play except Franklin. They lost to Owasa 59 to 29. Sheffield downed Manly 67 to 50 and Dows got the better of Williams 52 to 41.

For the complete conference standings turn to the back page and read Gerardi's Score Board, a feature which he will run every week throughout the rest of the season.

Former Times Printer Marries Kanawha Girl

Miss Sharon Kay Evans, daughter of Mr and Mrs "Pete" Evans of Kanawha, and A3/c John R. Williams, son of Mr and Mrs H T Williams of Belmond, were married last Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Methodist parsonage here. Rev Melvin Miller performed the single-ring ceremony.

Present to witness the rites were Roger Shahan and Mrs Allan Shahan of Belmond and Mr and Mrs Lyndon Kilgore.

Airman 3/c Williams, who was employed as a printer and linotype operator at The Times Office before entering the U S Air Force, returned Friday to Lackland Air Force Base at San Antonio, Texas, where he is presently stationed. Mrs Williams will join him as soon as suitable living quarters can be found.

The newlyweds were honored at a family dinner last Thursday evening at the parental Williams home in Belmond, with the bride's parents being the other guests.

Shamrocks Attend Iowa-Stanford Game

Twelve members of the Shamrock basketball squad got a real treat Thursday when they were taken to Iowa City to see the game between the University of Iowa Hawkeyes and Stanford.

The boys left here at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in three cars, with Mr Westberg, Mr Johnson, and Mr Smith driving. They arrived in Iowa City in plenty of time for the game and were fortunate enough to see Deacon Davis back in his old form. The Deacon was injured early last season, and the Stanford game was the first time that he has really been back on his game.

Iowa had an easy time of it, coming out on the long end of a 74 to 46 score, and putting on a show that the local players really enjoyed.

After the game the boys spent the night at the home of coach "Bucky" O'Connor, who is a brother-in-law of Klemme coach "Bill" Westberg.

They returned to Klemme on Friday.

We have been following the comments that are being made by various and sundry organizations and officials with regard to the traffic problems in our state. Conseqeuntly, we read with considerable interest the following recommendations which have been sent to the Iowa State Legislature by the AAA Motor Club of Iowa:

1. "A 55 m.p.h. night speed limit. Properly enforced, this can aid in the reduction of traffic accidents. There is evidence that speeds in excess of this at night leave little margin of safety for the average driver.

2. "Speed zoning for both day and night on certain dangerous sections of the open highway. Such legislation would authorize the proper authorities to determine upon the basis of engineering and traffic investigations whether a different speed limit than that which applies for the state as a whole is appropiate for a given stretch of road.

3. "Higher speed limits on certain section of the primary road system in cities and towns. Limits on these sections, as now set by law, are usually violated by a majority of drivers. The Highway Commission should study speed limits on primary road extensions in cities and towns and recommend proper higher limits to become part of their traffic ordinances.

4. "A continuation of the present reasonable and proper daytime speed law. A daytime speed limit for all rural highways is impractical and incapable of enforcement. Passing such a daytime limit will not help to reduce traffic accidents. Highway Commission studies show that most traffic deaths occur at speeds below the usually suggested limits. Iowa, with only the basic speed law for the open highway, in many cases has maintained as good a traffic accident record as other states with similar population and topography, or better."

A further recommendation was made that the legislature make additional appropriations, is necessary, to increase the staff of the driver improvement branch of the Department of Public Safety, as a means of eliminating death and injury on the highways.

A local housewife reports having seen a dandelion in bloom on the afternoon of January 1st. We've heard of people seeing lots of things on New Year's Day, but their complaints are usually more in the pink elephant line.

We think it a fine gesture on the part of Klemme High School coach "iBill" Westberg and on coach "Bill" Westberg and on "Bucky" O'Connor, head basketball coach at the University of Iowa, to make it possible for the Shamrock basketball squad to see a top calibre college game at very little expense.

Coach Westberg arranged the trip, and O'Connor made room for the boys to stay over night in his home.

We would venture to say that very few high school basketball teams are priviledged to have such an experience.

Latest definition of an atheist: A man pays $4.00 for a ticket to see Southern Methodist and Notre Dame play football, and doesn't care which teams wins.

Navy Announces New Reenlistment Program

New Reenlistment Policy

It was announced today that former Regular Navy enlisted men who held certain ratings may now reenlist in the Regular Navy after 3 months but within one year of discharge and retain the rate held at time of discharge or release to inactive duty. Since 1942 the only Regular Navy enlisted men who were permitted to reenlist with the rate held at discharge were those who reenlisted within 3 months following date of discharge. This new program, the Navy said, will continue in effect until 30 June 1955.

The ratings for reenlistment under this new policy are numerous, involving practically all rating groups within the Navy. Contact your nearest Navy Recruiting Station for information.

How's Your Thread I. Q.?—

Consider New Threads for Sewing

If you're a home maker who does any home sewing you'll be interested in learning facts about some of the newer threads on the market—what their advantages are and some of the problems that arise with their use.

Here are two new words to add to your sewing vocabulary—Dacron thread and Nymo, the new twistless nylon thread.

If you do much home sewing you may already be familiar with nylon sewing thread. But you may wonder whether it is really important to use newer threads in new synthetic fabrics or if the old standby cotton thread wouldn't work just as well.

Opal Roberson, Iowa State College extension clothing specialist says if you've had the experience of owning a nylon slip or dress that kept coming apart at the seams, it was probably because it was stitched with cotton thread. Cotton thread doesn't have the stretch to "give" with the nylon fabric or the strength to resist nylon's abrasive action.

Cotton thread also has a tendency to shrink some, which will make seams pucker, if you have used it to sew newer fabrics.

New Thread Helps

The use of nylon or Dacron threads will overcome some of the problems encountered with some older threads.

Twisted nylon thread was the first type introduced. Nylon fiber is very stretchy, and more so when twisted. You may have used some of this twisted nylon thread and found it caused puckering. That's because it was held under tension while you wound the bobbin or stitched a seam. Later on, it relaxed and the seam puckered. Use of lower machine tension and ready-wound bobbins are two helpful (but not entirely successful) ways to reduce puckering.

Nymo Thread

Nymo, which is not twisted, was developed to eliminate the extra stretchiness of nylon thread due to twist. Nymo thread is stiffer, more lustrous and less kinky than the twisted nylon thread.

The clothing industry has been using Nymo thread for several years. In fact, the reason it has just reached the market is because the entire output was being used up by clothing manufacturers. Production has just recently been increased to the point where there is enough Nymo thread for the woman who sews at home.

It's easier to sew with the twistless Nymo thread than with a twisted thread because it goes through the fabric easier. Nymo is easy to use for hand sewing, too, because it's less kinky. Another advantage is that Nymo is transparent and picks up the color of the fabric. So you can use white Nymo on all pastel colors.

However, it's a very lustrous thread and its use may be objectionable on some fabrics. Try it first and see if it's too shiny.

Dacron Thread

Dacron thread is the newest thread on the market. It resists stretching and eliminates seam pucker. You don't need to worry about making needle or tension adjustments with Dacron thread.

New Thread Problems

If you use nylon, Nymo or Dacron thread on fabrics that you'll iron with a hot iron you'll find the thread may melt or stick when you iron the garment.

One problem that occurs with the new, smooth threads, especially Nymo, is thread "spilling" Prevent this by putting a felt pad on the spool pin under the spool of thread. Make a pad from an old felt hat or other felt material. Or you can buy pads at stores handling sewing supplies. The felt pad slows down the turning of the spool and keeps the thread under enough tension to prevent spilling.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

A group of highway patrolmen gathered at a district office for the grim business of refilling their first aid kits, sounded these low notes on the scale of things.

One partolman said he was called one night by a man who was so drunk that he dropped the phone twice while he was talking. What did the man want? He wanted to report a drunken driver who had just passed him on the highway. The patrolman got two that night.

Another officer covered an accident in which two drunk drivers had exchanged compliments by smashing into one another on a hill. The first drunk was sitting in a ditch making an outraged speech and the sceond man was picked up four miles away, grinding along in second gear, with two bent fenders wearing his tires to the threads.

One patrolman had stopped a weaving car. The driver jumped out, shouting, "I'm not drunk." He wasn't. "I just like to scare people," he grinned. had the statement of the year.

Another patrolman thought he He arrived at an accident just as a perfectly sober driver was stepping out of his smashed car.

The man looked around thoughtfully and observed, "I was just thinking this would be a perfect place to have an accident."

Then a partolman told of stopping a car traveling 87 miles an hour down the middle of the road. The driver had been doing a mile for every year of his age. He was 87.

Beardsley Memorial Gifts Help Handicapped

Over thirteen hundred dollars have been received by the Iowa Society for Crippled Children through William S. Beardsley Memorial gifts. Gifts designated for this memorial continue to come to the Society from all parts of Iowa according to Allen Whitfield, Des Moines attorney and long-time friend of the Beardsley family.

The past governor was a sincere friend to the handicapped and enjoyed his visits to the center which was then located just across the street from tthe governor's mansion on Grand Ave.

Early in December the Society began occupying the new treatment center recently completed at 2920 30th Street, Des Moines.

The Beardsley family are advised of each individual gift as this special memorial continues to grow.

H. Harold Hymans, executive director of the State Society, said "These gifts are a fine tribute and establish a living memorial for our late governor from which many of Iowa's handicapped will benefit."

Student Nurse Talks to Prospective Nurses

During the month of December, Miss Laurie Horn, student nurse from the University of Iowa, under the supervision of Hancock County Public Health Nurse, Helen Lemke, talked to all interested girls in Junior and Senior High Schools in Hancock County, on nursing schools in the state. The talks were informal with the girls asking many questions. There is a great need for nurses and there is a ot of personal satisfaction for services rendered far beyond the financial returns. Opportunities in nursing today are almost unlimited, working in hospitals, general duty in surgery, medical, obstetrics, pediatrics, private duty, school nurses, industrial nurses, nurses in doctors offices, public health, armed services—just to list a few of the openings for qualified personnel.

Talks were given to the following schools in Hancock county; Klemme, Garner, Kanawha, Britt, Woden and Crystal Lake. The others will be contacted before spring vacation.

Three and four year programs were discussed. For those unable to take the three or four years of training, a practical nursing course of one year was presented.

Any girl interested in nursing and who would like help in regard to schools, scholarships, etc., should contact the county nurse.

There are several girls in nurses' traning from last years high school graduation classes from the county. They are in schools in Des Moines, Sioux City, Mason City, etc.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Chicago wholesale egg prices are following a trend similar to last year, but 15 cents lower, reports Iowa State College Farm Economist Francis A. Kutish.

Seasonal peaks occurred in late September in both 1953 and 1954. And prices were bolstered somewhat by increased demand during the Thanksgiving period. This strength of improved holiday demand is expected to carry into the early part of January, Kutish predicted.

As for the rest of 1955, egg production will run 3 to 5 percent ahead of last year during early spring. Three percent more layers are expected on farms January 1 than in 1954.

In spite of the low prices for fowl, producers have done more culling. However, in the Northeast, they are reported to favor holding yearling hens rather than pullets because of the wide difference between prices of pullet eggs and large eggs, continued Kutish.

During November twice as many shelled eggs moved out of storage as a year ago, reported Kutish. Because of the poor returns from egg storage operations this past year, storage demand may be smaller than usual during the coming spring months of peak production. Breaker demand in Iowa at the present is termed "indifferent".

Auxiliary Receives Wheel Chair From American Legion

Neva Hartzell was hostess to the American Legion Auxiliary at her home Tuesday evening, January 4th. The meeting opened with the regular ritual. The Chaplain, Nellie Arnold, had prepared devotions around the New Year Theme.

Cora Schaefer presided over the business meeting. Additional coffee strips were sent in which brought a total of 2382 Butternutstrips sent in by the Auxiliary.

The membership committee announced 74 members, which is 2 short of our quota.

The American Legion has given a collapsible wheel chair to the Auxiliary, which is to be used in the Klemme community only.

Flora Back offered to send a gift to Billy Joe at Woodward this month.

Following the meeting, a delicious lunch was served by the hostess and her co-hostess, Veletta Schlei.

Hostesses for the next meeting will be Helen Stille and Ruth Tue.

Pranksters Pay for Damage to Signs

Pranksters, who have been damaging traffic regulatory signs in Klemme, have found that their pranks could have gotten them into trouble.

Lloyd Nedved, Garner young man, in company with Berleen Bridges and Rosalie Rosendahl, got a little too enthusiastic with their pranks, as young folks often do, and pushed over some speed limit signs; an act which could have found them charged with damaging town property.

They were not brought to trial, since Nedved, when told of the serious nature of their pranks, promptly made restitution to the town for the damage done.

Beware of a half truth—it may be the wrong half.

Regular meeting of the Eastern Star will be held next Tuesday evening at the Masonic Temple in Garner. New officers will be installed following the meeting.

Mayor's Court

Mrs Lena Lewis was apprehended Thursday at a local grocery store and charged with petty larceny. She appeared before Mayor V. A. Cook and was fined $50. $49 of the fine was suspended. She paid one dollar fine and two dollars costs.

THESE CHILDREN ARE LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

Farm Bureau Believes:

—that farm people have the right and are the best qualified to speak for themselves through their farm organization.

—that every man is entitled to own property, earn money honestly, save, invest and spend as he chooses.

—that monopoly in any form is dangerous whether it is by government, labor or agriculture.

—that property rights cannot be taken away without infringing on human rights.

—that the Constitution is the basic law of the land and should be interpreted as intended by its authors.

Farm Bureau believes that since approximately 56% of assessed valuation of Iowa is farm property and farmers pay this tax with only 22% of Iowa income: Property tax as it is, is no longer a fair means of taxing.

Farm Bureau supported requested increase of $10 million for agriculture research, of which $5.5 million is allocated to State Exp. Stations.

Farm Bureau supported increase of $8.3 million as funds for Extension Services.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Edith Haupt who passed away January 8, 1954:

There is some one who missed you sadly,
And finds the time long since you went
There is someone who thinks of you always,
And tries to be brave and content
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent the voice we loved to hear,
'Tis sad but true, we wonder why,
The best are always the first to die.

Sadly missed by her husband

Hancock County supervisors Monday set the schedule of wages and salaries for all county employees not specifically governed by the Code of Iowa. Wages and salaries generally will vary but little from the previous year. Employees were granted one day per month sick leave which can accumulate to a maximum of thirty days. Employees claiming sick leave must file a certificate form an attending physician with the County Engineer when claiming such leave.

Plan Double Anniversary Observance

Open house will be held from 2:00 till 5:00 P. M. Sunday January 16, 1955, at the Garner Memoria Garner Memorial Building, to observe the Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr and Mrs W. H. Greimann and the Silver Wedding Anniversary of Mr and Mrs Hilary Greimann, all of Garner.

A cordial invitation is extended to all relatives, neighbors and friends.

There will be a short program at 2:00 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lemke Married Fifty Years

Large Crowd Helps Couple Observe Happy Event

Mr and Mrs Otto W. Lemke, who were married January 4, 1905, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday afternoon, January 9th, by holding an "open house" at the Klemme Methodist Church from 2 until 5 o'clock.

A fine program was presented with Mrs Clarence Lemke acting as mistress of ceremonies. The program given was as follows: prelude, Mrs Robert Schulz; hymn, "What A Friend We Have In Jesus" by all; scripture and a p..m, Helen Lemke; piano duet, "Forever and Ever" by Evalon Schlei Fenton and Genise Hanselman, West Bend; accordion numbers, "You Are In My Heart."· "Anniversary Waltz", "Carnival of Venice", by Earl Lemke.

Vocal duet, "Side by Side" and "I Love You Truly", by Pamela Lemke and Franklin Neuberger; history of lives of honorees by Arthur Wellemeyer; "Count Your Blessings", and "Bless This House", by ladies' sextet; talk and closing prayer by the pastor, the Rev. Melvin E. Miller.

After the close of the program all departed to the church parlors where a lunch was served to about 240 guests. Mrs Wayne Lemke and Mrs Clarence Lemke poured. Mrs Walter Lemke served the wedding cake which was baked and decorated for the occasion by Mrs D P Anerson.

Waitresses were: Sharon Lemke, Janice Swanson, Erma Linda and Ada Linda Schmidt. The color scheme of gold and white was carried throughout. Miss Sharon Lemke had charge of the guest book and Mrs Irene Swanson and daughter, Janice had charge of the gifts and cards. Lunch was served by the Martha Circle.

Mr and Mrs Lemke received many useful gifts and cards in remembrance of this happy occasion by Mrs D P Anderson.

West Bend, Fenton, Whittemore, Forest City, Mason City, Nora Springs, Goodell, Belmond, Garner, Clear Lake, Ventura, Houston, Texas, and Klemme.

The following history of the lives of Mr and Mrs Lemke was written by Arthur Wellemeyer and read as part of the program.

We are gathered here this afternoon as relatives, friends and neighbors, to congratulate Otto and Mary Lemke on their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

They have lived in this community the entire fifty years of their married life.

To tell the life story of this honored couple completely, and in proper sequence, we must begin some years before they were born.

It was in 1854, just a hundred years ago, that Anson Avery, age 31, and his wife Lavine, age 23, came to Hancock County, from Cass County, Michigan, in two covered wagons, drawn by six yoke of oxen. The farm they chose is five miles S.E. of Klemme.

They were the first white people to settle in Hancock County. Eight more families arrived and settled near then the following year.

And this same year, 1855, John Maben and Jacob Ward started a settlement in Ellington township on Lime Creek.

Emory Weaver to Be Tank Wagon Man For Co-op. Oil Ass'n

Announcement has been made by Roy Railsback, manager of the Hancock County Cooperative Oil Association, of the selection of Emory Weaver as tank wagon man for the west route out of Klemme.

Since the resignation of Dwight Hummel, the route has been taken care of by Burdette Biers pending the selection of someone to handle the territory on a permanent basis.

Mr Weaver, who is well known to people in the Klemme community, will take over the tank wagon in a few days and for the present will continue to live in Garner, where he moved following his farm sale. His farm background should make him well qualified to give good and helpful service to his customers.

Fire Destroys Tenant House

The tenant house on the Harvey Harbert farm southwest of Klemme was destroyed by fire Saturday morning. The house was occupied by Mr and Mrs Donald Risins and baby daughter, Cynthia. Mr Risins is employed by Mr Harberts.

Mrs Risins discovered the fire shortly after her husband had gone out to work in the morning. The fire was in the kitchen and she was slightly burned in getting herself and her baby to safety, as the only door to the house was in the kitchen.

Mr and Mrs Risins had no insurance to cover the loss of their clothing and household goods, but Mr Harberts had insurance coverage on the house.

Fire companies from Goodell and Belmond fought the blaze but were unable to save the building.

Clark Lackore Gets Plaque for Corn Yield Of 145 Bu. Per Acre

Clark P. Lackore, Leonard Rayhons, and Gordon Schubert, all of Garner, Iowa, have been named Champion Corn Growers in Hancock County, it was announced by Farmers Hybrids of Hampton, Iowa, sponsors of the Champion Corn Growers Contest.

The records that brought honors to these men show the application of sound land management practices and the use of adapted hybrid varieties.

Lackore's record of 145 bushels per acre was made with "Farmers" 327 and 319. This yield is adjusted to a uniform basis of 15½% moisture. The 145 bushels is the yield of No. 2 corn.

A personalized, engraved plaque was awarded to each of these men at the Champions' Recognition Dinner held recently at Hampton. This is an annual award presented by Farmers Hybrids to those who produce 100 bushels or more of No. 2 corn per acre in a selected 5 acre plot.

There are 8 Areas set up. The Area Champion has been chosen from the County Champions in each Area. The announcement of the Area Champion was made at the Hampton event, and the 8 Area Champions will be taken on an expense paid trip to the National Western Stock Show in Denver this year by the sponsoring company. Clarence Kemna of Palo Alto County is the winner of the Area award this year.

Rayhons used "Farmers" 427A, produced 130.7. Schubert used "Farmers" 309, 319 and 259 and produced 132.8 bushels per acre.

To Be Married

Mr and Mrs Harlow Helps of Klemme announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Lois, to Francis Rayhons, son of Mr and Mrs Henry Rayhons, of Garner. The wedding will take place January 25th at the St. Wenceslaus Catholic Church at Duncan.

Begins Operation of New Bulk Plant Here

The Hancock County Cooperative Oil Association today began operation of their new Klemme bulk plant. The plant, which will make for better and more efficient service to customers serviced by Klemme tank wagon men, has three large storage tanks . . . two of 6,000 gallon capacity each for fuel oil, and one of 8,000 gallon capacity for gasoline.

The new plant incorporates all the latest devices with underground tanks, and is as nearly accident proof as such a plant can be. It will be a boon to both customers and tank wagon men. The customer can expect more promptness in deliveries, and the tank men will not have to drive to Garner for their loads.

With the possible exception of Herbert Hoover, George Washington was the United States' wealthiest president.

Will Hold Open House Monday

Mr and Mrs Fred Barz will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Monday, January 17, 1955. Open house will be held between the hours of 2 and 5 in the afternoon at the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church parlors, and between the hours of 7 and 9 in the evening at their home. A short program has been planned to begin at 2 o'clock at the church. Mr and Mrs Barz hope that all their relatives and friends will plan to help them observe the event.

Farmers raised enough summer pigs last year to prevent any substantial advance in the winter hog market. That's the belief of Francis A. Kutish after studying the December 1 U. S. Department of Agriculture pig survey just released.

June farrowings were up 20 percent, July up 23 percent. August litters were 17 percent ahead of 1953. This means plentiful hog marketings during the winter months, according to Kutish.

Seasonal advances in hog prices will come slowly and will be well below normal. However, hogs generally are in strong hands. So the Iowa State College farm economist doesn't look for any disastrous break in hog prices.

Meanwhile Kutish looks for continued discounts on heavy hogs. Nevertheless, he expects many farmers ot continue feeding hogs to 240 or 250, as they strive to feed up surplus corn that is stored outside or that is high in moisture.

Looking further ahead, the boost in August and September litters means to Kutish that hog prices during March and April of 1955 will be well below the $25 to $28.50 spring hog market of a year ago. The 1955 summer hog market likewise will be lower than the corresponding 1954 market for November litters were up 18 percent

The six-state survey of Corn Belt farmers indicates that the bulk of the 5 percent boost planned in the 1955 spring litters is coming in winter litters. Farmers were planning a 22 percent boost in December-February farrowings, but no increase in March-May litters.

If this pattern holds for the country as a whole, Kutish reasons that summer prices for hogs will be well below 1954 figures. But 1955 late fall prices won't be much below the prices of the last six weeks.

Trapping Seasons End

Iowa trappers have been reminded by the State Conservation Commission that the 1954-55 trapping season for most furbearers has ended. Trapping for beaver, raccoon, striped and spotted skunk, badger and possum closed at midnight, January 10, 1955. Mink and muskrat trapping ended at midnight, December 4.

There is still a continuous open trapping season for weasel, red and gray fox, groundhog and coyote over the entire state.

Applications for permits to hold furs after the close of trapping season may be obtained free of charge from any state conservation officer or from the Commission offices at East 7th and Court in Des Moines. The permits are free, and are necessary if trappers wish to keep furs on hand for more than 10 days after trapping seasons' close.

We won another game the other night. There were few there to see the game though. It seems that the loyal students of Klemme aren't so. There are some who come to all the games bless 'em, but they are outnumbered by the lazy, unpatriotic, people who belong to the Pep Club but never come to the games away. Too much work, huh, people? Too hard to change clothes, get on the bus, go to the game, support your team, (which by the way is better as a team than you are as individuals) and just yell a little.

Somebody said once that the Pep Club was the best thing a Student Council in Klemme ever did.

Things have changed, haven't they

First in a series on the Pep Club. Or lack of it.

Notes About Notes

On February 14, we will become the victims of another Festival. This time it is the Hancock County Festival. We are busy preparing for it with 7 new songs and 2 songs we previously have sung. "I Love Paris" and "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You", along with "Polly Wolly Doodle", "All in the April Evening", "Hallelujah Amen", "This Is My Country", "Because You're You". with Victor Herbert's arrangement, "Be Thou Not Still", and Fred Waring's, "Comin' Through the Rye" are our new selections.

Snowflakes always have six sides.

Inside K. H. S.

After a vacation of no snow, we are slowly but surely getting back to normal in our studies. Bookkeeping has consisted of finishing our practice set and having a test over it.

Typing continues to be the same, although the day before vacation we had a touch of variety added, we worked on mystery puzzles. That proved to be quite interesting to see what the picture turned out to be.

We have been studying about American life in country, town, and city. Although there was nothing much about the country we didn't already know, we found out a lot about the aspects and different zones in the city.

In business math we have been using the ratio in practical problems and also we have been studying about fire insurance and life insurance.

The home ec. girls are back to sewing. Gracka and Lois are working on jumpers and the rest are on the blouses.

History is taking up the subject of trade unions and other movements toward the better working conditions during 1865 and 1900.

Literature this time is similiar to history. Our unit of stories is about the development of our America. The famous authors of the stories we've read are: Carl Sandburg, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Thomas Jefferson, Edgar Lee Masters, and Fiorell H. La Guardia.

Short hand is beginning to become harder. After this lesson of 54 we have no more translation of our lessons to look back at. We hope to rely on our own resources of knowledge. Also the semester tests are coming up soon and we have to know all our brief forms 100%.

Christmas vacation over and we're starting on a new year. All of us had a nice Christmas. Dean Neuberger spent his vacation in Texas.

Jerry Stokesbary and Harold Paxton have been absent this week because of illness. We hope they will be back with us soon.

This week we have been busy taking state tests. Next week we'll be having our semester tests. We have a lot of studying to do.

Senior Interview

This weeks senior Darlene Janice Eichorn, was born May 17, 1937, in Pasadena, California. Darlene attended Forest City Public School from kindergarten through tenth grade except for second and third where she went to Buffalo Center Consolidated School. She has attended this alma mater for her junior and senior years. Darlene's favorite pastime is listening to the "Falstaff Hour". Her favorite hobbies are snipping, whatever that is, playing records, and seeing excellent movies. Her favorite actress and actor are, respectively, Ruth Roman and Sterling Hayden. When it comes to the topic of fine food, Darlene will take ice-box lemon chiffon pie in a graham cracker crust. Her favorite song is "Tchaikowsy's Piano Concerto No. 1". Darlene's favorite band is Spike Jones, and her favorite orchestra is Andre Kostelanety. Quite a difference, huh? Her favorite movie was "Four Fingers", and her favorite male singer is Frank Parker. Darlene has not decided on her future plans as yet.

Sophomore News

Well, Christmas vacation is over and it's time to get back into the groove again.

Equations having unknowns have been occupying our time in algebra class. We've learned several ways to solve these equations having the same unknown values, elimination by addition or subtraction, and are now working no solving them by substitution.

At present in world history, we are studying the German and Italian states in Europe between 1500 and 1518 and also the expansion of Russia during the same period.

In English we've gone back to literature for a while; this time to poetry. On Tuesday of this week we all were required to learn one stanza of the poem "If" by Rudyard Kippling. We've also been going over most of the individual poems stanza by stanza and line by line to find out or I should say try to find what the poem meant to the author and what it is supposed to mean to us. This is harder than it sounds.

This week in biology we've been studying the circulatory system in man. Before vacation we studied the circulatory system of the simpler animals working up to man. We found that the simpler the animal, the simpler the circulatory system.

I Ask You Now

What did you get for Christmas?

Lee G.: New tires for my car, Id. bracelet from Gracka, and clothes plus a few other things.

Harold A.: White shirt, fountain pen, money! I haven't gotten everything yet.

Gordon B.: 3 shirts, a swcater, and a pair of gloves—that's about all.

Roger B.: Suit shirt, tie, cufflinks, another shirt, and some other stuff.

Miss Peterson: No comment. (everyone knows)

Rosalie R.: Purse, two sweaters, 2 pairs of beads, a necklace, compact, and twin lamps.

Coleen G.: Dress, purse, perfume, compact, blouse, bracelet and a pin.

Joan L.: Chicken fryer, money, jewelry and some clothes.

Cackles From Band Coop

It has been very evident this week that a lot of the band members did not practice too much over the holidays. We just hope that they get back into the groove before Mr Whitford's patience runs out.

This week Tuesday and Wednesday all grade pupils had to leave band at five minutes to nine for tests and it is surprising how big of a hole this makes in the band. It's an excellent situation, however, because it shows that there are prospects for a good band in the future.

Last year at this time there were 13 solos and ensembles practicing for music contests. This year there are 29.

And so ends this column for another week.

Off The Boards

Maybe you've wondered what its like, coming home from a game with the players after a hard game. You'd be surprised.

The game with Rockwell was as hard-fought as any we've played, and maybe a little rougher. Yet the conversation went something like this?

"Where's this road go?"
"I don't know."
"It's the old road."
"Yeah."
Silence.
And on.
"Slippery isn't it?"
"A little."
That's what it's like.

Seventh Grade News

The end of the semester is here and we're taking our Iowa Basic Skills test. Next week we will be taking our semester tests.

We have just finished studying intensive, reflexive, and demonstrative pronouns in language and have started direct quotations.

In geography we have started studying farming in the Western Hemisphere.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Three miles out of town, just as the first dishwater light of dawn was mixing in the west, a young man driving home from an all-night dance, closed his eyes and went to sleep.

Ten minutes later, a highway patrolman awakened to the ringing of his telephone and listened to the night marshal's quick report of a "bad one about three miles out".

"Call Doc and tell him to grab his bag and be on his corner in five minutes." the patrolman said. "I'll pick you up coming through town." Five minutes later, a racing patrol car skidded to two quick stops in town and roared out onto the highway.

The patrolman had hardly finished his radio call for an ambulance and a wrecker before they sighted the scrambled wreck of the car, piled against a bridge abutment.

The driver was alive and conscious but horribly injured. The doctor reached through the broken window and gave him a shot in the neck, then the patrolman and the marshal started breaking into the twisted wreck with crowbars.

They had just cleared a way to the driver when the ambulance pulled up and the doctor and the victim were on their way to the nearest hospital. Two more patrolmen arrived just ahead of the wrecker and took charge while the first patrolman sped back to town.

There he roused the minister of the victim's church and took him to the home of the boy's parents to break the news. Since he had blood on his uniform, the patrolman stayed in his car.

When the dazed parents stumbled out of their house and into their own car, the patrolman led them quickly through early morning traffic to the hospital. They were there a half hour before their son died. The patrolman drove on home to change clothes and get ready to go on duty for the day.

Shamrocks In Third Place

Lose to Dows And Sheffield

The Klemme Shamrocks lost two conference games the past week, but are still in third place in the conference standings.

Last Friday night, they played a rugged game with Dows and although the final score was 61 to 51 in favor of Dows, still the outcome was in doubt until late in the fourth quarter. Dows held a 30 to 28 edge at the half.

Graydon Barz and Don Thiemann shared scoring honors for the locals with 16 points each, while Meyer was high for the winners with 24.

Tuesday night, the Shamrocks journeyed to Sheffield and after leading 32 to 21 at the half, saw the score go the other way in the second half and lost by a score of 49 to 45. Kramer and Haefner led the scoring for the Shamrocks with 15 and 13 points respectively, while Nolte of Sheffield was high for the night with 18.

The Little Shamrocks won over both Dows and Sheffield, beating Dows 38 to 10, Sheffield 37 to 24.

Next action for the Shamrocks will be this Friday night when they are host to Rockwell on the local floor. Tuesday night, the Kanawha Bulldogs will be here for a non-conference game.

Other action in the conference the past week, saw Dows beat Ventura 32 to 29 to retain first place. Fertile beat Sheffield 64 to 49 and Rockwell 69 to 59, to retain their close grasp on second place. Klemme's two losses left them in third place, while Sheffield's win and loss left them in fourth place. Rockwell and Ventura are in 5th and 6th places respectively, and Franklin is still in the cellar with no conference wins to their credit.

Conference teams had a perfect record in non-conference play the past week with Franklin downing Rowan 71 to 42, Sheffield winning out over Chapin 60 to 37, and Ventura beating Meservey 60 to 49.

Polio Drive Goes Into High Gear

Tuesday Meetings Instruct Women Campaign Workers

The 1955 March of Dimes is rolling in high gear as more than 3,000 volunteers rise to the challenge of meeting the need for $64,000,000 in polio-fighting funds for 1955. The hopes raised by the new vaccine are balanced by the sober realization that polio is not yet defeated—that tens of thousands of past victims still need aid and thousand more will be stricken this year. The March of Dimes is their helping hand. The job is not finished. In fact, "It's a bigger job now".

The East and West side county meetings were held Tuesday morning and afternoon, in Hancock County to instruct the women who participate in Polio campaigns. About fifty women attended the meeting and lunch at Hull's Cafe in Garner, and at the Methodist Church in Britt, which was highlighted by an address by Mrs Frank Green, assistant to the national director of women's activities, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Also discussed was the teenage and school program, the use of March of Dimes cards, and the house-to-house solicitations which will be made next week. Be ready for them.

Consider the following facts: 1403 polio cases reported in Iowa in 1954; 129 percent higher than the national average. Iowa raised nearly $1,150,000.00 to fight polio in 1954. Iowa Chapters have required advances of $92,000.00 from headquarters to meet their obligations.

A film on polio was shown by Mr Joe Osman, chairman for Hancock County. He expects to show it in all the schools. Any organization may show it by contacting Mr Osman in Britt.

List Tax Credits for County for 1954

Homestead tax credit to be allowed in Hancock County in 1955 credited to the 1954 taxes totals $142,343.84. This is asmall increase over 1953 credits allowed in 1954 which totaled $141,950.97 according to a report released last week by County Auditor Maynard Schoneman.

Agricultural land credit for the same period is approximately $10,000 less with the 1954 credit totaling $52,374.12 as compared to $62,147.83 credit a year ago.

Homestead tax credit is credited by the State on the basis of 25 mill credit on a valuation of $2,500 or a maximum of $62.50. New homes constructed in the past year have brought the credit up to the highest figure ever recorded in the county.

Agriculture land credit comes from an appropriation made by the Iowa Legislature and applies as a credit on general school levies in excess of ten mills on agricultural land. The appropriation was sufficient and money available was credited on approximately a 48% basis.

In his summary of taxes to be collected in 1955, Auditor Schoneman lists a tax of $1,046.61 (Grain Handling Tax) on 4,186,438 bushels of grain as against $930.37 on 3,721,501 bushels in 1953. Grain handling tax applies at the rate of 25 cents per thousand bushels handled and replaces certain taxes paid on grain inventories.

Crop Loan Deadlines Announced By ASC

Farmers of Hancock County were reminded this week of the deadline dates for applying for price support loans and purchase agreements on 1954 crops.

The time for applying for price support on new small grains, flaxseed and soybeans expires on January 31, it was stated by Alfred V. Josten, manager of the county ASC. The period for applying for loans and purchase agreements on 1954 corn will end next May 31, he said.

For loan purposes, as in past years, the grain must meet certain tests for quality and be acceptably stored either on the farm or in a commercial warehouse. In the case of corn, the applicant must have complied with his corn acreage allotment for 1954. The allotment compliance requirement also applies to wheat raised this year.

As of December 15, 1954, farmers of Hancock County had completed price support loans on the following amounts of 1954 commodities:

1954 oats - 9 warehouse loans; 34 farm-stored loans.

1954 soybeans - 162 warehouse loans; 96 farm-stored loans

1954 corn - 22 farm-stored loans; 300 applications for loans.

The 1954-crop price support loan rates for Hancock County are: oats - 73c; soybeans - $2.21 plus 4c for beans 12.2% or less in moisture; corn - $1.54.

Be Budget Wise—

Serve Plentiful Eggs Often

January has been designated as "egg month" so plan to use this versatile, healthful and low-priced food often in many different ways.

Eggs are plentiful and good. They can be served at any meal in almost any way. The smart homemaker who's watching her family's budget, will include lots of eggs in her wintertime meals, says Leslie Smith, Iowa State College extension nutritionist.

Eggs for Lunch

Here are some recipe you might like to try that fit eggs into your lunches and suppers.

Swiss Cheese Pie

1 9-inch unbaked pie shell, well chilled
1 tablespoon soft butter or margarine
12 slices bacon
4 eggs
2 cups heavy cream
¾ teaspoon salt
Pinch nutmeg
Pinch sugar
Pinch cayenne
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/4 pound natural Swiss cheese, grated (1 cup)

Start heating oven to 425 degrees F. Rub butter over surface of pie shell. Fry bacon until crisp; crumble into small pieces. Combine eggs, cream, salt nutmeg, sugar, cayenne, and pepper. Beat with egg beater just long enough to mix thoroughly. Sprinkle bacon and cheese into shell; pour in cream mixture. Bake 15 minutes. Reduce oven heat to 300 degrees F.; bake 40 minutes longer (or until silver knife inserted in center comes out clean.) Cut into wedges serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Egg Pancakes

4 eggs
1 tablespoon grated onion
½ cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ pound grated process American cheese (1⅓ cups)
½ cup fat or salad oil

Beat eggs; add onion; sift in flour, salt pepper, baking powder; blend well. Stir in cheese. Heat part of fat in skillet. Drop in large spoonfuls of egg mixture; brown on both sides, turning once. Add more fat as needed. Makes 8 pancakes.

Serve at once with cranberry sauce or marmalade.

Lunch Quickie

1 can condensed cream-of-celery soup, undiluted
8 eggs
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Empty soup into bowl; stir well. Add eggs and pepper beat just enough to blend. Melt butter in saucepan and pour in egg mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally with fork, until set but still moist. Makes 6 servings.

1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons chopped scallions
3 tablespoons snipped parsley
1/4 cup mayonnaise

During the first year of a child's life he grows more rapidly than at any other time.

Barber New Chairman Of Board of Supervisors

S A Barber of Kanawha was elected chairman of the Hancock County board of supervisors last week to succeed Clarence A Bird of Woden who served as chairman the past year. The board held its organization meeting at the courthouse on Monday morning. Barber served as the first president of the Hancock county farm bureau when it was first organized in 1917, holding the office for four years. He also is a member of the Hancock County Soil Conservation Commission.

Obituary of Mr. William C. Schmidt

By Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg

Mr William C. Schmidt was born on October 1, 1862, in Mecklenburg, Germany. As an infant he was baptized in the local Lutheran Church. He came to America as a youth of nine years and settled at Manitowoc, Wisconsin, where he lived with his mother and stepfather. He attended the country schools of Manitowoc County. After having been instructed in the doctrines of the Christian faith he received the rite of confirmation in a Lutheran Church of Manitowoc. He found employment on several farms in that area of Wisconsin, and later worked in a pinery, in Northern Michigan.

When he was about twenty-five years of age he came to Fayette County in Iowa where he worked on a farm near Olewein for four years. He then moved on to Hancock County where an uncle lived. Here he purchased a farm two miles south and five miles west of Klemme. In the spirit of the pioneer William Schmidt began to cultivate a half-section of land, facing the problem of the elements of poor roads and limited equipment, and the rigors of the prarie.

On July 24, 1891, Mr William C. Schmidt was united in marriage with Miss Lena Wacker by the Rev. H. Treick, then pastor of Peace Reformed Church (Elltown) near Garner, Iowa. This marriage was blessed with three sons, Albert, Fred and Herman. Mr and Mrs Schmidt made their home one mile south and four miles west of Klemme, where Mr and Mrs Fred Schmidt live. The Schmidts made their home here until 1920 when they retired from farming and moved to Klemme. Mr Schmidt was highly regarded as an industrious farmer and a beloved neighbor and friend.

Mr William C. Schmidt was a charter member of Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church of Klemme. He served his church as a member of the building committee and in the office of Elder. He was a faithful member, attending the services of worship and partaking of the sacrament of Holy Communion until recent years when he was confined to the home. Mr Schmidt made his home with Mr and Mrs Fred Schmidt and family since the time of the death of his wife on June 21, 1922, a period of thirty-two years.

Mr Schmidt enjoyed good health until August of 1952. From this time on he has been confined to his bed where he received faithful and loving care. On Sunday, January 9, 1955, he was called to his eternal home having attained the age of 92 years, 3 months and 8 days.

Mr Schmidt was preceded in death by his wife, two half brothers and one half sister. He is survived by sons Albert, Fred and Herman all of Klemme; three daughters-in-law; by a half sister, Mrs Emma Hoffman, of Marquette, Michigan; and by the following grandchildren: Luther Schmidt; Marie, (Mrs Eugene Kluckhohn) of Austin, Texas; Calvin; Arlene, (Mrs Irvin Rasmus); Irene, Mrs Mervin Barkema); Marvin Schmidt who is serving with the Army in Korea; and Luverne Schmidt. He is also survived by ten great grandchildren and several more distant relatives, and by a host of neighbors and friends.

• ANNIVERSARY

All of these early settlers came by ox team.

A few years later, the Civil War started and for the duration of this war, no more settlements were made in Hancock County.

After the Civil War, we had a period of "hard times" which lasted many years. Jobs were scarce in the cities and a number of young men from the eastern states, who owned a team of horses and a wagon, came west and worked for the railroad. For this they received their board, horse feed and maybe a dollar a day or less.

The Milwaukee road was extending its tracks from Clear Lake westward through the state of Iowa, and when they had rails laid as far west as Algona, they started running trains.

At this time, John Maben platted the town of Garner, Iowa, and it was in 1870, that the first train brought mail and passengers to Garner.

Then for twenty years, 1870 to 1890, every freight train brought in emigrants who were seeking new homes on the fertile prairie lands of our county.

The railroad company was so anxious to have people settle along their new railroad, that they hauled them in at half the regular price.

The Norwegian people settled at Forest City, built a Lutheran Church, and used their native language.

The Bohemian people chose farms around Duncan, built a Catholic Church, and used their native language.

The German people chose farms in Liberty township which was then called German Township and built a German Methodist Church.

During this influx of German pioneers into Liberty Township, fifty families arrived in a brief time, and built humble homes, some with dirt floors. They were mostly young people. Some were newly-weds. They were in debt to the money lenders and had very little money.

But for our consideration today the most important family to settle in Liberty Township was Henry and Albertena Lemke and their children which included Otto W. Lemke.

This family came from Germany in 1883. When Otto was three years old. Henry Lemke, the father, had been a buttermaker in Germany, and on arriving in Garner, found a job at once, in a private creamery, owned and operated by Wes Merten.

This creamery, which had a grocery store in connection, stood on the site where the Garner city water tower now stands.

One night the creamery and the store burned to the ground, and was not rebuilt.

Whereupon, Mr and Mrs Henry Lemke and their eight children, five sons and three daughters, moved to Liberty Township and lived for a number of years on a farm located a half mile south of the Liberty Church.

Now then, in these pioneer homes of Liberty Township, children were being born and were growing up and in a few years they became "teen agers". With the help of these young people, our farmers really began to prosper. It was very interesting. Everybody worked, both young and old.

This was the first "crop" of young people ever produced in Liberty Township, and it was, what might be called a "bumper crop." Same was true in the other three townships of the Klemme area; namely: Ell, Avery and Twin Lake.

Otto Lemke and I were both born the same year, 1880, and we were a part of that first crop of young people who over-ran Liberty Township in those early horse and buggy days.

One Sunday after church we learned, while chatting with other young folks, that the Klemme Drug Store, then owned and operated by J L Harr, Klemme's first druggist, would be demonstrating a new device called a "talking machine" at the store every evening during the coming week.

So my girl friend and I (she later became my wife) drove to town one night to see what we could see. This all happened in the summer of 1900. We strolled into the corner drug store, and the place was packed with teenagers and young people.

And there it was—an Edison phonograph, with a large tin, playing cylinder records. This was the first time we had ever listened to a machine of this kind It played a group of Irish songs, such as "That Tumble Down Shack in Athloen", some comic dialogues, some band numbers, and finished with a record by the world renowned Madame Shuman Heink, as she sang "Stille Nacht". It was all very wonderful.

About ten o'clock, the druggist wanted to close his shop, so amid much laughter and chattering, we drifted away into the night. Some of the young folks seemed to leave in pairs..

While driving home, the girl friend said to me, "Did you notice how many young folks paired off as we left"? "Sure", said I. "Wes Haefner was with Alice Schuldt". "Is that all you saw"? asked the girl friend. "Was there more?" I asked. "Young fellow," she said, "You need glassess". There was Fred Barz and Martha Hartbeck, Wes Schuldt and Malinda Lau, Albert Koerner and Lillie Lau, and Charlie Lenz and Lydia Sampson."

And did you notice that sweet little girl, the one next to the door, smiling all the time, and once in a while making a cute remark.?" "Yea", I said, "I saw her". "That," said the girl friend, "was Mary Busch." Mary left the drug store ahead of the crowd, maybe about nine oclock, and about that time Otto Lemke was missing. Could it be that he saw her home?

After that we got used to seeing Otto Lemke and Mary Busch together.

Otto Lemke was a thrifty farm lad, attended strictly to the business of farming, and was seldom seen in town in week day. On Sunday, of course, he attended church.

Mary Busch and her brother Charles, lived with their parents on the John Busch farm, a half mile southeast of Klemme. This farm is now owned by Wm. Thiel. Mary, the daughter was kept busy helping her mother, and thus became a good housekeeper.

Otto Lemke drove a well groomed horse, hitched to a new top buggy, and when ever Otto Lemke and Mary Busch were out driving, that horse pranced along as though he were proud of the nice turn out, and as though he enjoyed working for so nice a pair of happy people.

Otto and Mary attended Epworth League in the Liberty Methodist Church every Sunday night. They were a helpful pair. They took part in the programs and held some of the offices now and then. The Liberty Epworth League had a membership of over a hundred at that time, and the church would often be filled with young people.

The courtship of Otto and Mary continued for maybe three or four years, but they were making plans. Then all of a sudden. Otto rented a farm, attended auctions, purchased horses and machinery.

Then it was noticed that a seamstress, Emma Stratman, now Mrs George Neimeyer, was busy at the Busch farm.

Soon invitations were sent out for the wedding of Mary Busch to Otto W Lemke, at the John Busch farm home. The date was Thursday, January 4th, 1905.

The bridesmaid was Addie Schuldt and the bestman was Charlie Busch. The officiating Minister was the Rev. Albert Muehler, who was the first pastor of the Klemme Reformed Church. The marriage vows were spoken in the German language and the ceremony was witnessed by some forty relatives and friends.

It was a day of feasting and merrymaking, and in the evening after dark, the charivari led by Leppo Wessels, arrived and made racket and noise which could be plainly heard in Klemme a half mile away.

Otto Lemke, age 24, and Mary Busch, age 19, commenced housekeeping as Mr and Mrs Lemke, on the J J Stille farm in Liberty Township. Three years later they moved to the Will Beier farm. Here there two sons were born. After eight years they bought the Ernest Lenz farm just west of Klemme, where they lived thirty years. And now they are living in Klemme in a nice little home on east main street.

Their son, Wayne Lemke, lives in Houston, Texas, is in the real estate business and is the father of two children, Sharon and Larry.

And their son, Clarence Lemke, lives on the home farm west of Klemme, and is the father of one daughter, Pamela.

Mr and Mrs Otto Lemke are members of the Klemme Methodist Church, and enjoy their church work. They just naturally like people, and are happy to work with the young folks of the Sunday School.

In looking back over the years we must realize that all of the first generation of children, born to these Liberty Township Pioneers, have now reached, and some have passed the alloted time of three score years and ten.

Many of the happy marriage made in our group fifty or more years ago, have been terminated by the passing of one or the other of the partners.

However, we do feel happy and thankful that God did bless the marriage of Otto Lemke and Mary Busch and allowed them fifty years together.

Mr and Mrs Fred Barz, who were married on January 17, 1905, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Monday, January 17, by giving a three-course dinner to 125 relatives at noon, and having open house in the Reformed Church parlors in the afternoon. Some 200 people were in attendance at the open house.

In the evening they held open house at their home with some 50 guests in attendance.

It was a beautiful day for the observance of the anniversary and friends and relatives from Klemme, Garner, Clear Lake, Sheffield, Kanawha, Manchester, Lamont, Waterloo, Peterson, Newton, Rockwell, Swaledale, Ventura, and the states of Oklahoma, Minnesota, South Dakota, Colorado, and California came to help make the day complete.

A short program was given in the afternoon with son, Harvey Barz, acting as master of ceremonies. He extended a welcome to all the relatives and friends and introduced the various numbers on the program. Rev. Raymond Barz of Peterson, nephew of the honored couple, made a short talk to begin the program and then a quartet sang "Count Your Blessings" and "Oh, Happy Home". Lowell Greimann read a poem, and Allen Barz sang "Bless This House". Mrs Walter Rosendahl, daughter of Mr and Mrs Barz, read a history of their lives, and then five of their grand daughters sang "Count Your Blessings Instead of Sheep" and "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet". In the latter number Janette and Janelle Greimann were dressed as Grandpa and Grandma of fifty years ago. The program was completed by Rev Jaberg, who gave a short talk.

Fourteen ladies of the Guild served the noon dinner and helped with the serving during the open house. They were the Mesdames Leonard Kaduce, Ed Christians, Menno Albers, Ewald Josten, Glenn Terhufen, Don Christiance, Edgar Buss, Verner Priebe, Myrtle Jacobs, Edwin Thiemann, Martin Karsjens, Alvin Goll, Leroy Johnson, and Roy Swanson.

During the open house Mrs Walter Rosendahl and Mrs Eugene Greimann poured, Mrs Harvey Barz cut the cake, which was baked by Mrs Dale Linahon, Mrs Marvin Barz and Mrs Ronald Barz served the ice cream; Graydon Barz had charge of the guest book, Mrs Richard Trenary, Mrs Ardell Rosendahl, and Mrs Richard Snyder had charge of the gifts.

County Tournament Underway at Garner

The annual Hancock County basketball tournament gets underway tonight, Wednesday, at Garner, with eight teams in the running.

First action will be tonight between Crystal Lake and Garner, with Kanawha and Woden meeting in the second game of the evening.

At 7 o'clock Thursday evening Corwith meets Britt, and then at 8:15 Klemme and Hayfield tangle to complete first round play in the tournament.

If the Shamrocks win this first game they will play again Friday night at 8:15, meeting the winner of the Corwith-Britt game. The first game Friday night will see the winner of the Garner-Crystal Lake game meet the winner of the Woden-Kanawha game.

Finals of the tournament will be on Saturday night with the consolation game getting underway at 7:00 and the championship game at 8:15.

Hospital Trustees

Hancock County Supervisors appointed the following as trustees of the Hancock County Memorial Hospital located at Britt: Erwin L. Buck, Britt; N. E. Brear, Garner; Rufus C. Welter, Corwith; Oscar Johnson, Kanawha; Helen Stille, Klemme; and P. J. Kirkpatrick, Crystal Lake. The term of office is until the next regular election in 1956.

"March of Dimes" Aids in Vaccination

If the Salk polio vaccine is proved successful next spring, March of Dimes funds will make it possible for more than 568 Hancock County youngsters to take immediate advantage of the immunity it provides, according to W. K. Niemann, State March of Dimes Director.

"The March of Dimes is spending $9,000,000 nationally to stockpile the vaccine so that it will be available at once, if the evaluation study now being conducted shows it will protect against paralytic polio and the product is licensed by the government" Niemann explained.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has announced that the vaccine would be offered, without charge, to the following groups if it proves successful:

1. Children who participated in the 1954 vaccine field trials but did not actually receive vaccine.

2. Children enrolled in the first and second grades of public private and parochial schools as of next spring.

Niemann said the latest State Department of Public Instruction figures indicate 107,270 first and second grade youngsters in the state of Iowa. In addition 6,500 children participated in the 1954 vaccine trials in Sioux City, Davenport and Cedar Rapids as "controls" and received no vaccine.

Results of the 1954 trials are now being evaluated by Dr Thomas Francis, Jr. Chairman of the University of Michigan Department of Epidemiology. A report from Dr. Francis is expected in the spring, according to the National Foundation.

"The vaccine program is just one of several reasons why the March of Dimes urgently needs wholehearted public support in 1955. Funds for patient care are badly needed following the second worst year in Iowa's history," Niemann stated.

The March of Dimes continues through the month of January.

Auditor Resigns

Hancock County Auditor Maynard Schoneman recently submitted his resignation as County Auditor effective January 15, 1955, to the Board of Supervisors and his resignation was accepted by the supervisors on Monday. First Deputy Auditor Hattie Jass of Garner was named to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Auditor Schoneman, who resigned to accept other employment.

Shamrocks Win Over Rockwell and Kanawha

Rockwell Easy But Kanawha Tough

The Klemme Shamrocks got back on the winning trail the past week when they downed Rockwell here Friday night in a conference game 63 to 33, and then took a hard-fought 54 to 51 decision from the Kanawha Bulldogs here Monday night. The Shamrocks now have a conference record of 6 wins and 4 defeats.

In Friday night's conference tilt with Rockwell, the Shamrocks jumped off to a commanding first quarter lead of 21 to 8, and kept building up the score throughout the game. Rockwell got 8 points in each of the first three quarters and nine points in the final period.

The Klemme scoring was very evenly divided. Brinkman had 14, Kramer, Barz and Thiemann each had 12, and Haefner turned in an 11-point performance Bachman, who saw some action in the game added 2 points to make the 63-point total.

Cook was the big gun for Rockwell with 10 points.

The Little Shamrocks continued their winning ways by downing the Rockwell reserves 46 to 31, with Bob Larson getting 12 points.

Monday night's game with the Kanawha Bulldogs saw a different matter for the Shamrocks. They held a 13 to 8 first quarter lead and were in front 27 to 19 at the half. The end of the third period saw them leading with a 5-point margin 40 to 35, and by the end of the game, Kanawha made it a 3-point margin with the filnal score being 54 to 51.

Haefner banged home 15 points in this game, followed closely by Kramer with 12. Thiemann had 9, Barz 8, Bachman 7, and Brinkman 3.

Mewes, as usual led the Kanawha attack with 21 points.

The Little Shamrocks racked up another win, defeating the Bullpups by a score of 37 to 24. Neuberger was high for the locals with a 16-point scoring spree.

Next action for the Shamrocks will come Thursday night when they meet Hayfield in the first round of the County Tournament at Garner. Their next scheduled game will be on Tuesday, January 25, when they meet the high-geared Fertile Indians in a conference game on the local floor. The Shamrocks are the possessors of an earlier 49 to 48 victory over the Fertile aggregation . . . the only conference defeat they have suffered this year, so fans can look for a good game.

Since the much talked about meeting between UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and Red China's premier and foreign minister Chou En-lai, the concensus of opinion is that Red China is eyeing their illegally held prisoners as a possible key to UN membership.

We have no formula for obtaining the release of these men, but we hope that one can be found . . . and soon . . . that will get them back home without admitting the Red Chinese gangsters to the UN. They have shown their disrespect for the UN in many ways, and have broken the Korean War treaty made with the UN in just about every way conceivable.

In our opinion, they deserve no seat in an organization dedicated to world-wide peace. They are international gangsters and should be dealt with as such.

If the Red Chinese keep on taking small islands in preparation for a full scale operation on Formosa, the U. S. is going to find itself involved in a shooting war. We have vowed to defend Formosa, and it's going to be either carry through on the promise or lose a lot of prestige in the world. Besides the loss of prestige, it will give the communists that much more incentive to go ahead with their conquests in other parts of the world.

We would hate to see the U. S. involved in war again, but we would hate worse to see her shoved around by deceitful, bullying Red Chinese.

We realize that there is a lot of east-west traffic through our state, but if they are going to make a super-duper highway across it, then we think that north-south traffic deserves the same break. Highway 69 is one of the main north-south arteries through the midwest and carries an exceedingly heavy traffic load. It has been the scene of many fatal accidents . . . several in this vicinity . . . and in our opinion should rate near the top of the list in the order of attention for improvement.

There is proposed legislation afoot in Iowa to make schools have an average daily attendance of 600 before they can qualify for full state aid. In our opinion, this comes under the heading of blackmail. Either you reorganize into a huge district or you don't get all the help that is coming to you.

We hope that there are enough rural minded legislators at the state houses to keep this law from being enacted. All taxpayers furnish the money for this state aid, and certainly no percentage of them should be given a break on the return of this tax money because they happen to be in a larger school district. We say it sould be pro-rated pupil-for-pupil regardless of the size of the district they are in.

We have a suspicion that this year's County Tournament will be well worth seeing. Most of the teams should be evenly matched, and we are looking for some good close ball games. Klemme's chances of winning the annual affair should be as good as the chances of any other team.

We read that Governor Hoegh and Lt. Governor Elthon are having a disagreement as to whether our state should try and attract more industry or whether it should remain a predominantly agricultural state. In our opinion, their disagreement doesn't mean much. Iowa with all its resources of good rich land, will always be a predominantly agricultural state and we don't think that the addition of more industries, more industrial payrolls, and more dollars to be spent in Iowa will change it. Certainly the state is in an ideal location for industry, and we don't think that any businessman or farmer, either, would object to the added industrial payroll dollars being spent in Iowa.

The kind of weather we have been having has given little cause for anyone to go south to escape the bad winter. In fact, in parts of the southwest, they have been having rougher weather than what we have been experiencing. The south half of the state is covered with a good thick blanket of snow today, thanks to a fall of up to nine inches yesterday and last night.

Whenever one thinks of a lion it is with the feeling that he is a powerful beast; an animal to be respected, and one that deserves being called "the king of the jungle". This mental picture that nearly everyone has of the huge beast makes the following story that much better.

It was one beautiful morning in the African jungle that a huge lion woke to the brightness of the new day, and he really felt good. He was satisfied with everything around him . . . and especially satisfied with himself. In this mood he set out through the jungle. Upon espying a tiger, he squared off, took up a menacing position and said, "Who's the king of the jungle?"

The tiger wanting no part of a scrap with Mr Lion, said, "Why you are."

This made the lion even more chesty than he had been, so as he met the various animals throughout the day, he asked them all in the same manner, "Who is the king of the jungle?" Each, in the proper spirit of humility, replied, "Why you are," until he came to a huge old bull elephant.

Of course by this time the lion was really impressed with his own importance. He glared at the old elephant and said, "Who's the king of the jungle?" The elephant looked at him for a moment, reached out and grabbed the lion with his trunk, and hurled him against a tree some thirty feet away. Nearly killed him.

The lion lay on the ground completely dazed. Regaining some of his senses, he said, "Well for crying out loud. Just because you don't know the answer, you don't have to get so rough."

Twin Lake Organized A New Boys 4-H Club

A group of 4-H boys on the west side of Twin Lake Township organized a new club. The boys together with their parents met with Doyle Gordon at the Twin Lake center school on December 28. The boys decided to name their club "The Twin Lake Indians".

The following officers were elected: President, Keith Halfpop; vice president, Daryl Hansen; secretary-treasurer, Harlan Thompson; reporter, Richad Eliason; historian, David Eliason; and leaders, Ed Halfpop and Ole Eliason.

The club decided to hold their meetings on the second Monday of each month. The next club meeting will be February 14th with Richard Eliason as the host.

The best reward for a job well done is to have done it.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

COLORFUL START

Iowa's new Republican administration is now firmly in the saddle after one of the most colorful inaugural ceremonies the state has seen in many many years. The inauguration of Gov. Leo Hoegh was also attended by more persons than have witnessed such proceedings in recent history.

With the honors accorded and the ceremonies now history, the administration and the state's 56th general assembly, must meet headon such major assignments as increased aid to education, an accelerated road program, and the problem of paying for other demands for increased and expanded state services.

Money matters will concern this session probably as never before in recent history. No matter how they look at it the Republican controlled legislature faces a serious assignment. If it doesn't approve added expenditures for improved services of the state government, it will be criticized for not being forward-looking and progressive. If taxes are increased such action will certainly draw criticism from other quarters.

Legislators are giving serious thought to a special study of the entire state tax structure with the possibility of a special session to act on recommendations. Such a plan does not meet wholeheartedly with the ideas of the new governor.

AN EARLY LOOK

Judging from the temper of the legislature in its first two weeks of activity, newsmen are expecting that:

Maximum speed limits will be established in this session.

There will be a gas tax increase of one cent per gallon.

A legislative research committee will probably be approved.

A reapportionment measure will pass both houses.

A toll road authority will be established.

GETS FIRST CHOICE

A freshman senator, and a Democrat, was the first senator assigned a seat for the current session.

Edward P. McManus, 34, Keokuk attorney, was assigned seat 38 in the Iowa senate. He had good reason for wanting it. His grandfather, Edward P. McManus, also of Keokuk, had occupied No. 38 when he served in the senate in 1907. His great grandfather, John Downey, also of Lee county, had served in the senate back in 1894.

SENATE PICKS WATSON

Fellow who handled the Iowa senate in its first legislative days when the state was without a lieutenant-governor, was DeVere Watson, 61-year old Council Bluffs lawyer.

Watson, a veteran legislator who was named by the press corps in the 1953 session as the "outstanding senator" has been chosen this year by his colleagues as president pro tempore.

In this capacity Watson presides over the senate in the absence of the lieutenant-governor who is president of the senate.

Watson, an able legislator and popular in the senate ranks, was elected to the post without opposition. No Republican opposed him in the GOP senate caucus and the Democrats seconded his nomination when it came up on the floor of the senate on opening day.

NEWSMEN CALLS SESSION

An Iowa newspaper editor, Duane Dewel of Algona, is the fellow who called the senate to order for its 1955 session. Dewel, using a borrowed gavel that had seen better days but probably no more important ones, rapped the senators to order from his senate seat.

As the newly named floor leader for the Republicans in the senate, Dewel's first duties were to start the senate machinery rolling. Frank C. Byers of Cedar Rapids, dean of the senators was named as temporary president pro tempore. He presided until Watson took over the gavel.

This was probably the first session in recent Iowa history where the members of the senate were convened without a presiding officer. It occurred because of the absence of a lieutenant-governor and because the last president pro tem was defeated for re-election.

LIQUOR CRACKDOWN

A complete halt of liquor sales in Iowa is being asked by all law enforcement officers by the state's new attorney general, Dayton Countryman.

His crackdown is nothing new for its a followup of action launched when Governor Hoegh was attorney general, but Countryman has added a new twist.

He sent each county sheriff a list of places holding federal liquor stamps and urged monthly raids in order to assure no liquor is sold by the drink in any Iowa establishment.

A STATE FUND

Iowans are wondering if a first class feud has broken out in the statehouse.

Melvin Synhorst, secretary of state, as chairman of the state beer permit board quoted the board's investigator to the effect that liquor is being sold by-the-drink in some Iowa communities.

Synhorst said the information was made known to him by the board's employee, Ray O. Kuehl.

Almost immediately, Atty. Gen. Dayton Countryman demanded, in a letter to the beer board, that Kuehl be fired for "failure to notify enforcement officers" when liquor violations were found by Kuehl.

Countryman, after an interview with Kuehl, declared the investigator had no legal evidence whatsoever to substantiate charges of illegal liquor sales.

CUTS LIFE TERMS

In one of his last official acts as Iowa governor, Leo Elthon commuted life sentences of 17 inmates of state penal institutions.

The 17 whose life terms were reduced to a period of years thus making them eligible for parole were among 21 who had received clemency recommendations from the state parole board.

Lif sentence commutation does not mean that the 17 will be paroled but it does make parole possible for the 16 men and one woman.

LEGISLATIVE PAGES

Fourteen young Iowa lads, all juniors and seniors in high school are serving as senate and house pages for the 1955 legislature. The lads, out of school for three months, do their studying in off hours and during idle minutes in the session. They draw $5 per day, including Saturdays and Sundays when they don't work.

Pages from outside of Des Moines include: David Hanson, Atlantic; Charles Smith, Sioux City; Bruce Bloedel, Tabor; Jim Dirksen, Guthrie Center; Larry Young, Creston; John Kirstein, Mason City.

ASK SOLDIERS RULING

The Iowa supreme court will decide the issue of whether two million dollars of World War I bonus money can be used to build a new dormitory at the state soldiers' home at Marshalltown.

In the 1953 legislative session the lawmakers approved construction of the new dormitory, badly needed at the state home, but provided that the money be transferred from the first world war funds.

A group of seven men, all World War I veterans, have contested the transfer of those funds through court action. The supreme court now has the case after a Polk county judge ruled that the fund transfer is constitutional.

QUITS SAFETY JOB

Bob Hullihan of Boone, formerly publicity man in the department of public safety, has resigned his state duties to become public relations director for a Des Moines advertising agency.

Hullihan is originator and author of The Highway Story, a safety column that has been used regularly by more than 100 Iowa weekly papers for the last three years. He also originated the Good Drivers' Club, a popular organization sponsored through the now dormant Iowa Safety Council. The club succumbed last year when the Iowa Safety Council was permitted to lapse into inactivity.

STATE VITAL STATISTICS

A 218-page book dealing with Iowa births, deaths, marriages and divorces, reports, among other things that:

The average age of an Iowa groom at first marriage is 24.4 years and the bride is 21.5 years.

More than four of every five marraiges in the state is performed by a minister.

Among first-time divorce couples, more than one-fourth of the divorces are granted before the parties are 25 years old.

More than half of all women divorced in this state were gainfully employed outside the home.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

From the hospital bed, his view of the world was a square of sky beyond the window. When he first regained consciousness, the window had been open wide to the summer heat. Now it was closed against the cold winter. He did not really comprehend the change.

Sometimes the young man fell into a coma and, when he awoke, would not realize that days had past. Always it seemed to him that the accident had happened only the night before. Always he waited expectantly through the day for "those darn fools to show up".

"The darn fools" were the two girls and the boy who had been riding with him "last night". They were all friends, all young, all beyond the reach of personal disaster.

Yes, there had been an accident. He could remember only the beginning. It was in the darkness of early morning. They hadn't met a car for miles. Someone, Jane, had said, "The road's all ours."

And he could see the beginning of it in his mind. The highway suddenly twisted in front of him like a terrible, practical joke. His skin still prickled when he remembered the feeling of going too fast, too fast.

Then everything faded away on a high long note that must have been one of the girls screaming. Yes, an accident, but it couldn't have been serious. He had been in the hospital only "overnight". The doctors told him the others were not even in the hospital.

So why didn't those "darn fools" come to visit him? Every day he was conscious he waited, and, every day, his doctor decided he was not yet strong enough to know that the other three were dead.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Business has been improving in recent weeks according to Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. The stock market shot up and industrial production surged upward in November and December—largely as a result of doubling automobile production over September and October. Wage and salary employment also increased.

If this business optimism continues, predicts the economist, we may see some revision in plans for new plants and equipment purchases by businessmen. Since that was a depressing factor in the 1955 outlook, a revision might raise the chances for a better year than 1954.

Consumer income after taxes may even rise slightly in the months ahead, he continued. This would tend to nudge up consumer spending a factor which held up last year in the face of lower business as a whole.

Forecasters are predicting 100,000 more new houses will be started than in 1954. This follows the rising trend set in 1954 when most of the rise came from greater residential building.

On the other hand, Kutish continued, government purchases, a prominent force in business decline after the middle of 1953, will be less important in the immediate future. Most of the scheduled cutback in national defense spending already has taken place. Thus the continued growth in state and local spending will tend to offset any further drop in federal buying.

The decline in business inventories was another important force in business down turn last year. This liquidation began in October of 1953, stated Kutish. Since then business stocks—refrigerators, washers, etc. However, indications are that the liquidation process was halted last November.

But unless the business optimism spreads quite sharply, most of the business forecasters do not expect inventories to be rebuilt in the near future according to Kutish. Nevertheless, the end of the inventory decline is one of the leading factors in the 1955 outlook of better business conditions than in 1954.

In late spring another look will tell us how far the current optimism has carried. At that time we can tell how well automobile production can be maintained. Some people also question whether the current rate of building will be maintained for the full year.

But as things stand now, concluded Kutish, demand for farm products, should be a little stronger during the first half of the year than a year ago.

From Iowa Farms 7½ Tons of Grain Per State Resident

Iowa farms produced more than 7½ tons of grain for every person living in the state, last year, the Iowa Development Commission calculates.

Harvest of corn, small grains and oilseed crops in 1954 totaled more than 20 million tons, according to the Iowa Crop and Livestock Reporting service.

A brief session with long division results in a figure of 15,400 pounds for each of Iowa's 2,636,000 residents.

Anyone who knows the size of his own stomach realizes that hungry people outside Iowa's borders helped consume all that nourishment.

"It is good evidence to substantiate Iowa's position as the breadbasket of the country, and the source of ten percent of the nation's food supply," comments Bernard F. Nowack, chief of statistics for the commission.

Despite a dry year, corn production was above average. The 1954 oats crop ran 57 percent larger than in 1953, and 11 percent above the 10 year average, and soybean production was the highest in history.

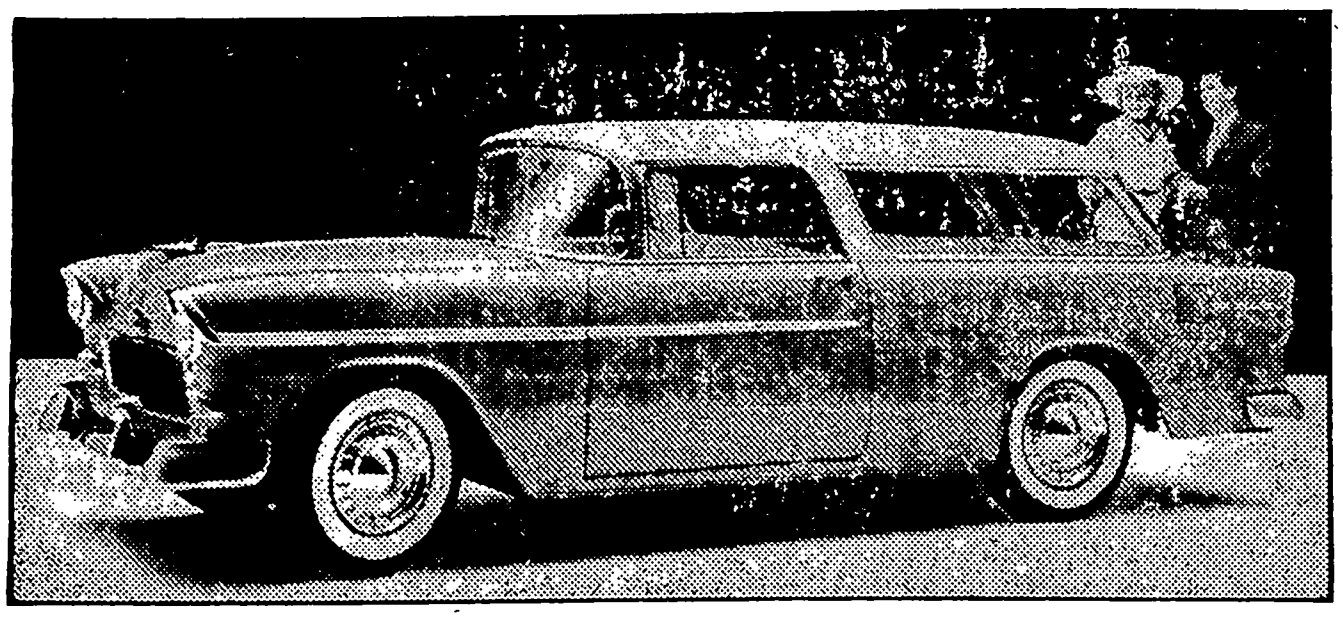
EXPERIMENTAL 'DREAM CAR' IS NOW IN PRODUCTION



Patterned after the "dream car" first displayed at the General Motors Motorama, Chevrolet's Nomad station wagon is now in production. This adds a fifth station wagon to the 1955 Chevrolet line. It reflects, the company says, a strong demand for a "different" styling in this type of car.

● ANNIVERSARY

was written an read at the program by Mrs Walter Rosendahl:

One nice May morning in 1880; May 12th to be exact; a little boy was born to Mr and Mrs August Barz, on the Barz homestead one half mile east of Klemme. When he was one month old, he was christened Fredrick Henry by the Rev. Moseback in the Ell Town Reformed Church.

He spent all of his childhood days on the old homestead, which is the place where the Edward Barz family now resides and included the territory where Klemme now stands. He spent many days herding cattle on the land where we now find the town of Klemme.

One summer before the town of Klemme was started they had a very severe drouth and Fred would drive the cattle from where the Guth farm now stands west across the railroad tracks and then follow the tracks up to the river to water the cattle, because the wells were going dry and the only place they could water the stock was at the river.

He went to catechetical instruction at Ell Town Reformed Church and would walk back and forth twice a week. He was confirmed by Rev. Gatermann in 1897.

When the Reformed Church was built in Klemme he transferred his membership there and has been a faithful member there to this day.

On July 4, 1885, when everyone was celebrating Independence Day a baby girl was born to Mr and Mrs John Hartbeck, in an old log cabin near Colesburg, Iowa. She was christened Martha Caroline on August 9.

When Martha was 11 years old, the John Hartbeck family moved from Colesburg, Iowa to a farm in Liberty Township and lived their for about four years. They were members of the Liberty Methodist Church and it was here that Martha received her catechetical instruction and was confirmed in 1898.

God moves in a mysterious way, His wonders to performs, so in the fall of the year 1900, Martha's father was suddenly taken from this life to his eternal home and left Anna Hartbeck with five small children. The Hartbeck family then moved to Klemme and lived there for a year.

In 1901, Anna Hartbeck and Henry Wille were united in marriage and then the Hartbeck family moved out to the Wille farm one mile east of Klemme.

It has been said that all true marriages are made in Heaven, so it was God's will that Fred and Martha should meet. After the Wille and Hartbeck families were united, the Hartbecks transferred their church membership to the Reformed Church.

After joining the church, Martha also joined the choir and it was at choir practice that Fred and Martha met.

In these days it was easier to walk if the distance wasn't too far, than hitching up the horse, and so the Barz, Beckers, Willes and Hartbecks had many good times walking back and forth to choir practice.

On January 17, 1905, Fred Barz and Martha Hartbeck were united in the Bonds of Holy Matrimony by the Rev. Muehlmier, the first pastor of the Reformed Church in Klemme. The couple was attended by Addie Hartbeck sister of the bride, and William Barz, brother of the groom.

The young couple set up house keeping on a farm five miles east and two miles north of Klemme. The first time they drove out there with their horse and buggy, Martha thought Fred was taking her to the ends of the earth. She said it seemed as though they would never get there.

When they started farming, they had three horses, six cows, fifteen chickens, one rooster, and four little pigs. Their first barn was so small and airy that they could hardly keep their fingers from freezing while milking.

The buildings were all very small and in very poor condition, but as the years went by they gradually improved the buildings and built up the place to be one of the first modern farm places in their community.

They attended church every Sunday that was at all possible for them to go whether in the warm summer or the cold winter.

On Sunday morning in the winter, they would heat a couple of soap stones, one on top of the stove and the other in the oven. Then they would wrap them in blankets and put them on the floor of the sled and Martha and the children would sit around these stones to keep warm while going to church.

When cars came into the community Fred and Martha were some of the first ones to have one. They went to church on Sunday morning feeling rather proud of their new automobile, and all went well until they wanted to go home. It seemed as though everyone was watching them and when they got to the corner by the parsonage, the thing stopped. Fred got out and tried to crank it; but try as he might, it wouldn't start until it was good and ready.

They lived on their farm for 37 years. Their five children were born and raised there. When the youngest daughter, Doris; Mrs Eugene Grieman, was married, Fred and Martha decided they would retire and let Eugene and Doris farm the old home place.

During their many years of farming they also purchased the farm directly northeast of their farm and Marvin and his wife reside on this place.

They had many humorous incidents and many sad experiences throughout the 50 years of their married life, but have said many times that they have been showered with many blessings and that God has been good to them and that they have many things to be thankful for.

We, their children also have many memories and fond recollections which Doris has expressed in a little poem:

To our parents: who have given us so many wonderful things
Both our thanks and congratulations today we as a family bring.
We're sure you've suffered in your own quiet way
For the trouble we've caused you many a day.
You guided our life—tried to shield us from harm,
Working and saving, each day
on your farm.
Only on Sunday did you rest from your labors
Of tiling the soil and helping the neighbors.
You took us to church—we all went together
Never did we miss—unless of stormy weather.
To God we give thanks for our Father and Mother,
If we had them to choose, we would pick none other.

Iowa A Bright Spot In Business Picture

Iowa is one of three bright spots in the Midwest business picture, the Iowa Development Commission comments.

It gained 900 business establishments during one year, while the surrounding area lost 13,000 firms.

The nation's business population for the year ending January 1, 1954, has just been computed by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

About four million concerns were operating during that year, it is estimated. The southern and far western states made the biggest gains, while largest losses occurred in the eight-state central region.

In that area only Iowa, Indiana and Missouri showed a net gain in the number of businesses. Iowa increased from 82,000 to 82,900 establishments.

Most of the change occurred in trades and services, although Iowa's neighbors also lost a substantial number of manufacturing firms.

Archers Asking Better Break On Deer Season

The Klemme Archers Club has joined with other archery enthusiasts and organizations throughout the state in petitioning the Iowa Conservation Commission for some changes in the bow and arrow deer season.

According to the archers, their method of hunting the animals must necessarily be much different than the method used by the man who hunts with a gun. They are almost forced to wait in concealment for the deer to approach them so that they can get a shot which gives maximum advantage to their limited weapon, while the man who hunts with a gun can flush the deer from its hiding place and still get a good shot at it as it runs.

The archery enthusiast would like several changes made in the existing setup in order that they might be given a better chance to bag their deer and have safer hunting.

At the present time their season extends into the season for gun hunters and if they are sitting in the brush waiting for a deer to get close enough for a good shot, they stand a good chance of getting in the line of fire from a gun hunter who sees the deer but not the archery enthusiast in his place of concealment. They would like their season entirely separated from that of the man who hunts with a gun.

The main points that they would like changed are as follows:

They would like the hours of hunting changed from the present 9:00 A. M. to 4:00 P. M., to daylight til dark in order that they might be afield when the deer are moving. In addition they would like a longer season —perhaps the whole month of November—and have it open in all counties where gun hunting is allowed. Besides these changes in the season they would like the bow hunter's license fee reduced from the present $15.00 to $5.00, a fee they feel is more in keeping with their chances of bagging a deer.

Profit From Improved Permanent Pastures

Many of the permanent pastures in Hancock County contribute to the farm business only some value in holding soil, some fair pasturage in the spring —when there is usually more pasturage available then needed —and exercise ground for livestock.

That's the opinion of Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director. But with improvement, he says, these acres could be producing season-long high quality pasturage. There are enough examples of the value of pasture improvement in the county and around the state to prove that.

The essence of improving the permanent blue grass and weed pastures is putting the land in shape and establishing productive legumes along with the grass.

Iowa State College agronomists who have studied pasture improvement and have seen results of improvement work in all parts of the state are recommending birdsfoot trefoil as the main legume for permanent pastures. This is a long-lived legume that can take heavy grazing.

Pasture improvement requires considerable work and power and sizable cash investment, Henderson points out, but it begins paying dividends in the first year. And where a good job of improvement is carried out with a long lived legume like birdsfoot trefoil a farmer is set up for 10 years or more of highly productive pasture. And the only usual later investments will be for fertilizers to keep the plants well fed and some time in weed control and management to keep the pasture at its best.

It's not a bit unusual, Henderson adds, for an improved permanent pasture to support double and triple the gains for livestock that you get from the bluegrass and weeds type pasture. It has an additional advantage, too, in that it will remain productive through the entire pasture season, where bluegrass offers an abundance of spring forage, then virtually stops producing during the hot, late summer period.

1955 will be a good time for many Hancock County farmers to get to work on pasture improvement. The agricultural Conservation Program offers a cost-sharing arrangement for pasture improvement.

Check with your Community Committeemen or the County A. S. C., office for details of the ACP program on permanent pasture payments.

Approve Bonds

The board also approved the appointment of Garnet Gelner as Deputy County Clerk.

Let's Have a Party—

And Serve Pizza Pie

Pizza pie—the Italian favorite that is fast becoming an American favorite too—is best served with and Italian tossed salad in a candlelight setting. Next time you have a party make it something special and different.

Next time the youngsters want to have a party (or you're having one yourself) why not be different and serve pizza pie in true Italian fashion? Pizza is fast gaining in popularity all over America. If you haven't eaten any yet, try it sometime and you will see why it's becoming such a favorite, says Leslie Smith, Iowa State College extension nutritionist.

Menu for your pizza party (besides the pizza) might include Italian tossed salad, fortune cookies and spumoni for dessert, and orange juice or milk to drink.

PIZZA PIE

Pizza base—

Here's a recipe Mrs Smith recommends for pizza:

3 cups sifted enriched flour
1 cup cornmeal
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons salt
2 3 cup shortening
11/4 cups milk (about)

Pizza topping—

1 4 cup olive oil
3 six-ounce cans tomato paste
1 3 cup water
1 pound pork sausage meat, cooked
1 clove garlic, minced
½ cup Parmesan cheese
1 teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups grated sharp cheese

For pizza base, sift together dry ingredients. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add milk; stir lightly until ingredients are dampened. Knead gently on lightly floured board. Divide the dough in 4 parts; roll each to fit in bottom of 8-inch greased pan.

Brush dough with olive oil. Combine tomato past and water and spread over dough. Add pork sausage and garlic. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese, oregano and salt. Top with grated cheese and bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 25 to 20 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

FORTUNE COOKIES

Here's a recipe for fortune cookies:

1¼ cups sifted enriched flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup shortening soft
½ cup sugar
½ cup honey
½ cup oatmeal (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)

Sift together flour, salt and spices into bowl. Add shortening, sugar and honey; beat until smooth, about 2 minutes. Blend in rolled oats. (Dough will be quite stiff.)

Roll dough out on lightly floured board to ⅛-inch thickness; cut into 2½ inch squares. Bake on greased cooking sheets in moderate oven, (375 degrees F.) 10 to 12 minutes.

Write fortunes on small slips of paper and fold. Remove cookies from oven and cool 1 minute. Remove cookies from cooky sheet one at a time; turn upside down and fold the four corners to center, enclosing a fortune in each. Cool folded side down. (If cookies get too cool to fold, return to oven a few seconds to soften.) Makes 2 dozen cookies.

ADD ATMOSPHERE

To make your pizza party complete, add a little atmosphere by using checked tablecloths, and eat by candlelight. They'll set a mystic mood for your party, which is bound to be a hit with young and old alike.

Stilbestrol Effects Still Under Study

Should Keep Sows Away From Drug-Fed Cattle

"I have some sows following the feeding cattle. Will this new drug, stilbestrol, affect the sows' pigs?"

This question is typical of many that are being received by Rex Beresford, extension specialist in livestock marketing at Iowa State College. Thousands of cattle feeding in the Corn Belt during the past few weeks began feeding the new cattle supplements containing stilbestrol.

Small amounts of stilbestrol in cattle feed in Iowa State College experiments stimulated the appetites of fattening steers and heifers, speeding up gains and cut feed costs. On the basis of experimental results, recommendations have been made for feeding it to growing fattening cattle. But varying conditions on farms are resulting in a flood of questions about how the new feed supplements should be handled on individual farms. Here's how Beresford answers the question about sows following stilbestrol-fed cattle.

No Trials With Brood Sows

No trials have been completed with brood sows following stilbestrol-fed cattle.

However, since there is a probability of some of the stilbestrol going through the cattle in the manure, Wise Burroughs of the livestock nutrition research staff recommends that brood sows be kept out of feedlots where stilbestrol is fed. They might not get enough to cause trouble, but until it has been proved one way or the other, it is better to stay on the safe side.

Stock hogs being fattened for market would appear to be the best "pickups" at this time in cattle lots where stilbestrol feeds are being used.

New Pamphlet Available

A pamphlet, No. 215, "Questions and Answers About Adding Stilbestrol to Feeds for Growing and Fattening Cattle", was prepared in November by the Iowa Agricultural Extension Service and Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station shortly before stilbestrol supplements came on the market. It is available through county extension directors or from the Publications Distribution Room at the Iowa State College.

Farm Labor Shortage Becoming More Serious

The shortage of well-qualified farm workers—for all types of farms—is growing noticeably more acute with each passing season, said John Schaal of the Iowa State Employment Service office in Mason City. Schaal cited two sources as evidence for this problem: first, the experience of the Employment Service working in North Iowa, and, secondly, the experience of the Bureau of Labor on a national scale. The Bureau of Labor has just released figures which might explain the situation, Schaal said. They show that over a period of 44 years the portion of the population working as farmhands has dropped from one out of every three working persons to one out of every eight. This drop has accompanied a rise in population—the Bureau states that a new citizen is being added to the population every 11.7 seconds! It is estimated by the Bureau that in 1975 the population will have risen to 217 million persons, and at that time, one person will be feeding ten—quite a change from the days when one person was helping feed only three! These figures show, on a national scale, the problem facing all of us: more food—fewer workers.

Schaal said this situation is intense in North Iowa, because of its heavy food producing capacity. He stated that the farm placement program of the Employment Service is devoting more and more time to the recruitment of qualified workers, and that this problem of recruitment grows steadily more difficult. Farm work, he said, must be made more attractive to qualified workers in order to combat this rising problem of more food and fewer workers.

The Employment Service, said Schaal, is attempting to relieve this situation by two methods: improved community understanding of the problem, and better recruitment methods to insure the availability of sufficient labor when and where the employer needs it. Recruitment, however, depends upon advance knowledge of labor needs. Schaal urged that all farmers and users of agricultural labor contact the Employment Service early in order to insure themselves of enough workers when needed.

After entertainment by hosts a short business meeting was conducted, with ways of earning money for our club being the chief topic. We decided to help the girls 4-H club pay for the piano in the community building. Each member turned in their project enrollment sheet to the leaders. Our leaders gave us help on the Estimated Budget section in our record books. On January 17, Monday there will be an officers meeting at Mickey Brouwers to plan a waffle supper for our fathers.

Mr J W "Bill" Johnson was the victim of a rather serious accident one day last week. As we understand it, Bill had been butchering a hog and in moving the porker, he slipped and the hog fell on him fracturing his leg. Mr Johnson has been in serious condition since. Troubles do not seem to come to Mr and Mrs Johnson singly. Since writing about the above accident, the report comes to us that Mrs Johnson had the misfortune to fall and break both the bones in her arm Tuesday morning. She was going to the basement to tend the fire and fell down the stairs.

Klemme and community is pretty well immune from smallpox as the greater percentage of the people have ben vaccinated. There are no cases here or in the vicinity but there are a couple of cases in Garner, and about 150 cases in Mason City.

Mrs R A Jorgenson was confined to the house all last week as the result of the grippe and a sore arm from smallpox vaccination.

Miss Geneva Schuldt was not able to be at her duties at Kluck's store several days the past week. She had a sore arm like many others at this itme.

Representative Riehm Reports His Activities In General Assembly

In a letter that accompanied the following report by Hancock County Representative Curtis G. Riehm, he stated, "I can assure you that I have been busy. I seem to be always able to find something to do that I think should be done." Following is his report on his activities since the General Assembly opened on January 10th:

The Iowa Fifty-sixth General Assembly opened January 10th. The first week was spent in organizing the Senate and the House. With as many people involved; 108 Representatives and 50 Senators, there was an organizational problem.

When the House is not in session—before 10:00 in the morning and after they adjourn—we have this time to work on bills and check the law in the State Law Library on the subjects on which we are working.

As attorney for the Kanawha School, I found that schools have many problems in seeking to issue bonds to build school buildings under the new school reoganization law. Since January 10th, I have been working on bills to correct these school bond problems.

One problem was: one section of the Iowa law provided that a petition for a school bond election must be signed by 25% of the voters at the last regular school election. This is an impossibility for some schools recently reorganized have not had a regular school election yet.

Another problem was the Iowa law did not clearly state a school could remodel, reconstruct or repair an existing school building. Another problem was the new school law did not clearly provide for limiting lawsuits to six months after organized, as was intended. Further the new law was not clear on exactly when a new school district was organized.

I have submitted bills to the Legislature to correct these legal difficulties. All these new bills were either approved by the Chicago Bond attorneys, Chapman and Cutler, or the two School Bond attorneys in Des Moines, H. N. Rogers and E. B. Carpenter.

If these bills are passed by the House and Senate, and they should be, they will save thousands of dollars and clarify the law in regard to school bond issues. Many, many schools now must come to the Legislature and ask it to legalize their school bond issues. This costs money.

Further, if school bonds are approved by Rogers or Carpenter, bond attorneys at Des Moines or Chapman and Cutler, the Chicago bond attorneys, they will sell for a cheaper interest rate, and thus mean a savings to all taxpayers in the school districts.

My bills must first be passed by different committees in both houses, then by both houses themselves. Securing the passage of a bill is a slow process.

Another bill I introduced today deals with a problem which could affect everyone of us. The present law provides that only $200.00 worth of kitchen and household goods is exempt from attachment (exempt from having the sheriff attach and sell it to pay a judgement). This means

Garner Wins In County Tourney

Hayfield Downs Klemme In One Point Thriller

The annual Hancock County Basketball Tournament is now history and Garner is the champ. They beat Crystal Lake 58 to 56 in the first round and, downed Woden 60 to 57 in the semifinal round. In the finals, they took Britt 63 to 51 to gain the championship.

Hayfield won the consolation game by beating Woden 72 to 62.

Klemme bowed out of the tournament in the first round when they lost an overtme thriller to Hayfield by one point, 64 to 63. Most people who saw the game agreed that it was one of the best played games of the season, and Shamrock boosters thought that their team looked better in losing this one than they have looked all year, with the possible exception of the first game with Fertile.

Haefner was the big gun for Klemme in this game with 20 points on 9 fielders and two charity tosses. Kramer was close behind him with 17, while Thiemann had 14 and Barz 12.

Hayfield's scoring was very evenly divided with high man, Kester getting 15, and low man of their starting five getting 11.

The Shamrocks have three more scheduled games to play before they go into the sectional tournament at Garner on February 8, 9, 10, and 11.

Triplets, Twins Galore in Klemme School District

Klemme may not be the largest school district in the state, but for the number enrolled, its percentage of twins must be high.

Average daily attendance in the district is some over 360, and of that number 19 are either a twin or one of triplets. Eight families send twins to the Klemme school, while one family has triplets attending Liberty No. 9, one of the country schools still in opertaion in the district.

The twins are from left to right, front row: Marilyn and Rosalyn Arnold, daughters of Mr and Mrs Asa Arnold of Klemme. They have a sister older than they, and twin sisters at home who are not yet of school age. The girls are 7 years old and in the second grade. Mr Arnold is head of the First National Bank in Klemme.

Janelle and Janette Greimann, daughters of Mr and Mrs Eugene Greimann, who farm 5 miles east and 2 miles north of Klemme. The twins are 8 years old and in the 3rd grade. They have one brother and one sister, making a total of four in the family.

Karon and Sharon Wessels, daughters of Mr and Mrs Fred Wessels, who have only recently moved to Klemme, where Mr. Wessels is employed by the Klemme Cooperative Grain Company. They are 8 years old and in the third grade. They have two sisters and one brother.

We wonder how the Red Chinese expect to create favorable propaganda by allowing families of their illegally held prisoners to visit them in China.

Certainly, it sounds like a fine gesture on the surface, and we have no doubt but what the trip could be made in complete safety, but we hope that the Red's don't think the world is gullible enough to think that they are doing a wonderful thing.

After all, they have no business holding these men in the first place, and we think that the only reason they are making this offer is in order to offset some of the adverse propaganda that has come out of their illegal actions.

While we are on the subject of the Chinese Red International gangsters, we would say that we are glad that the president of the U. S. and his congress have agreed to draw a line beyond which the communist aggressors dare not approach without fear of retribution.

President Eisenhower feels that this action by our government will act as a deterrent to the Reds, and although the decisions made sound a little warlike, still he thinks that they will do more for peace than would the continued appeasement of the Chinese.

They've been getting away with what they could by lies and trickery, but we believe they will think twice before they bring down the entire wrath of the U. S.

Although we have had enough snow to make the ground white, we still have very little of the white stuff in comparison to the southern part of the state. Des Moines claims nine inches on the ground. Our warm weather seems to have deserted us, though, and the thermometer hangs around the zero mark these mornings. Bet those blackbirds that have been here all winter, eating out of our backyard feeder, wish they had headed south last fall before the weather got so cold.

We don't know how the "Hypo" (Highway Post Office) is working out for other towns, but so far as Klemme patrons are concerned, the service is lousy. Mail connections between the inter-connecting star routes are missed, or the mail doesn't get worked in time to get sent when it should, or else it snows an inch or two and the infernal thing is forever in getting here.

We never saw so many people lounging around the Post Office waiting for mail as we have the past few days.

Our service was much better when we had the star route between Garner and Belmond. We suppose that we are stuck with the "Hypo", but we don't know anyone who likes it.

Paying state income tax right after federal income tax seems almost like adding insult to injury, but it's a necessary evil. The state has to have money in order to handle its many functions.

Most people don't grumble too much at having to help finance the state government, and we heard of one couple who said they didn't mind too much having to pay it, but they would mind it even less if they would use some of the money to improve our highways.

We don't know whether or not any of the income tax money goes into highway improvement, but we'll go along with the couple to the extent that we think the highways could use the expenditure of a little money in their behalf.

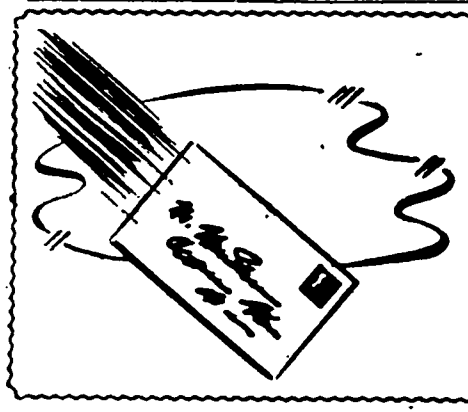
It seems like only a few short years ago that our state had more money than it knew what to do with. Now all of a sudden it's operating $9 million in the red each year. What happened?

We have driven the length of Klemme's main street many times and we have yet so see a speed limit sign that sets the limit at any more than 25 miles per hour. There are people who drive our main street like it was the open highway or a race track.

Either their speedometers are badly on the "blink", or else they just don't care. They would be just as sorry as the next person if they were to be in an accident and hurt someone, but they would always have to remember that the few seconds they might have saved by speeding down the street would have amounted to nothing, and that it was their recklessness that was the cause of a lot of grief.

We know what you are thinking. You're thinking it's those kids again. Well it's not all kids. There are some older drivers who are just as bad . . . possibly worse . . . because they should have more common sense than do the kids.

Did you hear about the society lady who was having her family tree checked? One relative was found to have been electrocuted in Sing Sing prison for murder, and the matron wouldn't stand for that in her family tree. She said that would have to be changed or she wouldn't pay for the family history, so the genealogist changed the wording to read as follows: "He was in the chair in the department of Applied Electricity in one of the country's more prominent institutions. He died in the harness.



LETTERS to the EDITOR

Realizing that many of our readers are public spirited citizens and that they quite often have good constructive comments to make with regard to puplic issues on the local, national and world-wide level, we are going to afford them the opportunity to air their opinions in a "Letter to the Editor" department in The Times.

Letters to be published in this department of The Times must be addressed to "Letters to the Editor", The Klemme Times, Klemme, Iowa, and must bear the signature and address of the writer. No unsigned letters will be published, and not more than one letter in any month will be published from any one contributor. The right to shorten letters or print just excerpts from them is reserved, and all letters become the property of this newspaper.

The subjects upon which letters could be written are many, and we hope that making this department available to our readers will bring forth some good and interesting comments.

We will begin publication of letters in this department as soon as we begin to receive them, so let 'em come. We're ready.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Iowa legislators are looking into every possibility for increased funds for operating state government. The state, engaged in deficit spending for the last two years, is going in the hole about $9-million per year.

Because of this some legislators have asked the state tax commission to study the possibility and estimate funds that might be raised through service taxes on various classes of businesses and individuals.

The commission reports that it would be "easily possible", by the application of service taxes, to raise not less than $20-million dollars of additional revenue without duplicating taxes upon activities now covered by retail sales and use taxes.

Service taxation would possibly involve state tax on such personal services as laundry beauty parlors, barber shops installation of plumbing and heating, repairing of autos and other equipment, greasing, and washing cars, dental, legal, medical and other professional service, transportation service, billboards, and newspaper display advertising.

QUALIFY POLLS

One state senator wants the Iowa public to know more about newspaper political polls conducted during election campaigns.

Under his plan, political polls would violate state law and be subject to a fine not exceeding $1,000, unless the newspaper or magazine conducting the poll listed the number of persons interviewed, the county or counties where the poll is conducted, number interviewed in each county, a tabulation of the purported votes for each candidate or for and against any public measure involved in the poll.

Such information, in addition to being published would have to be verfied and filed with the county auditor within 30 days after publication with any violation of provisions subject to fine.

SPEED LAWS

Driving habits of Iowans will get a thorough study from the state legislature this session.

In the first six days of the new legislative period four measures that would regulate maximum speeds on state highways were proposed, another would increase the strength of the highway patrol and still another would make safety and driving courses a "must" in Iowa high schools

There will be more.

Other measures are "in the mill" that would require regular inspection of vehicles, more stringent driver tests strengthening of the program involving issuance and revocation of drivers licenses, and stricter enforcements of safety regulations.

FARM BUREAU DIVORCE

Local Iowa Farm Bureaus have agreed to agree on the separation of the Farm Bureau and the extension service as proposed by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson.

Iowa's 100 local bureaus have agreed to the separation on two conditions: if the state legislature feels the program is desirable, and if the public is willing to properly finance the program.

In recent years the Farm Bureau has been contributing from its dues to the salary and other costs of the extension program. It is estimated that if the program is divided as Benson recommended it would cost the state or local county governments $370,000 a year to continue the county extension service at its present level.

CONCERNED OVER TOLL

The death toll on the state's highways is a major concern of the state's new governor. The accident death rate on the major highways this year is already ahead of the 1954 death toll for the same period and 1954 was a record year for highway fatalities.

Governor Hoegh, in one of his first acts as chief executive, asked state safety officials to make a close check on the causes of all fatal crashes to determine remedial measures and to make a daily report to his office.

Hoegh said he is "perturbed and alarmed" over the death rate.

FIRST APPOINTMENTS

First state appointments sent to the 1955 Iowa senate for confirmation involved the office of state superintendent of public instruction, and commerce commission council.

J C Wright of Keokuk has been named to succeed Miss Jessie Parker as superintendent of public instruction, pending senate confirmation, and Earle E Smith, Des Moines attorney, needs senate okay for the commerce counsel job.

PATIENTS CURED

About one-third of the persons who enter screening centers at state-supported mental centers as patients are cured, the state board of control reports.

Another third are released as improved, and the other third are returned to their homes as not improved, just stabilized.

Dr Charles C Graves, director of mental institutions for the board, said that those who go to the state mental screening centers are reporting sooner now than they did when the system was first established in 1949. More and more persons are visiting the centers voluntarily than ever before, he said..

ARMY PROJECT

The Iowa Natural Resources Council has been asked for review and comment on a proposed $233,000 improvement project for the Beaver Slough near Clinton. The army chief of engineers has asked the Iowa unit to complete its reviews on or before April 15.

The program costs, all of which will be assumed by federal funds, are estimated at $230,000 for initial construction, $3,000 for installation of navigation aids, and $1,200 annual maintainance.

SPECIAL SESSION

A special session of the state legislature appears in the offing for 1956 to consider major changes in the Iowa tax structure.

The proposal was recommended before the 1955 session got underway. The recommendation came before the state legislature budget and financial control committee.

A state tax study committee of 10 legislators is being proposed by the legislature to review, study and recommend changes in the tax picture in the state.

Governor Hoegh recommended a study committee but believes this legislature could take action on tax matters calling for revenues to meet needs in the next two years, with the committee reporting back in the regular session of 1857.

WATERSHED CONFERENCE

Iowa's first watershed conference is scheduled for Feb. 11 and 12 in Des Moines.

Watershed areas in the state are to be studied and discussed at this statewide meeting of conservation and watershed leaders.

MORE RECREATION

Iowans were more recreational minded during the summer of 1954 than ever before. The state conservation commission reports a new all-time high mark was set for state park attendance during the season just past.

Attendance in Iowa parks was 4,898,627 as compared to the previous high of 4 885,981. Useage of state park recreational facilities has gradually gained since the post-war year. of 1946 when 2,292,000 visited the state park system.

Lake Manawa at Council Bluffs attracted the biggest crowds with 722,265 visitors and Clear Lake Park was next with 270 930.

HUMAN RELATIONS

The first National Institute of Human Relations will be held in Iowa February 21 and 22, the first two days of Brotherhood Week. It will be held in Des Moines.

Gov. Leo A. Hoegh, general chairman of the statewide program, said that more than 50 Iowa citizens have accepted invitations to serve on the general committee for the program.

Purpose of the institute, he said, is to provide a public forum for thorough, objective and open discussion of current human relations problems confronting the world, nation, state and community.

NEW OFFICERS

New officers for the Iowa Utilities association to serve for 1955, include: J T Schilling of Des Moines, president; C P Conrad, Davenport first vice-president; L G Hawkins, Mason City, second vice-president. Ben A Webster, Des Moines, was re-elected executive secretary, and Carrol E Worlan, Des Moines, assistant secretary.

LABOR COUNCIL

Iowa labor forces have formed a new organization "The Federated Legislative Labor Council" to promote legislation for the welfare of the workers of Iowa. The new unit, called a non-partisan council, unites representatives of AFL, CIO, United Mine Workers and the Railroad Brotherhoods.

Officers are Ray Mills AFL, chairman; Edris Owens, CIO; J C Lewis, United Mine Workers; Frank J Lynott, Railroad Brotherhoods, and a board of directors of 12 members.

Ducks Stay In Iowa During Early January

Large numbers of ducks were still being reported in Iowa lakes by state conservation officers in early January, and the birds showed little desire to head south.

Iowa's mild winter and scanty snow cover have enabled mallards to remain on open water in many lakes and the birds are having no trouble in finding waste corn in fields.

On January 5, officers reported 1,500 mallards on Nine Eagles Lake in Decatur County. Storm Lake had about 4,000 mallards, two of which were snow-white albinos. On Black Hawk Lake counts of 8,000 mallards were made in early January, and there were about 4,000 mallards on the Des Moines Reservoir.

Commission spokesman said that some ducks may remain as long as there is no excessive snow and no extreme cold. Mallards may stay in Iowa throughout a mild winter, swimming and splashing in open water in relays to keep it from freezing.

New Jersey is the only state which elects its governor for a term of three years.

Freshman News

General Science: We have been studying the different sources and controls of power in industry, and different types of motors. We have taken our semester test and have now started on a new chapter named "The Factors of Transportation".

General Math: We have been finding the perimeter of rectangles, squares, triangles, and circumferences of circles, the area of a rectangle, square, parallelogram, triangle, trapezoid, and circles. We have taken our semester test and have now started finding the volume of rectangles, solids, and cubes.

Home Ec.: Christmas decorations were in our home ec. room before Christmas. We have studied good grooming, and have had one semester test and now have started a unit on "Making Friends".

Shop: The majority of the class has come to the finish of their first projects. Many of the members of our class have directed their efforts toward small projects in order to acquaint themselves with the proper handling of equipment and tools. Lamps, hall trees, book cases, end tables, and lawn chairs have gradually been erected to their specific sized shapes. The class has learned a great deal since the beginning of the year. We think that we will learn more as the year goes on.

English: We have studied about adjectives, adverbs, prepositions, and prepositional phrases, punctuating direct quotations, the different parts of verbs, using verbs, plurals of nouns, possessive of nouns and agreement of subjects and verbs. We have had our semester test.

—Senior News—

Now that the semester tests are over, we are settling back to regular class work. Just think, when writing this news, (January 19), there are only 82 days of school left for the seniors.

Bookkeeping has been spent learning what to debit and what to credit when we have a cash discount on sales credit or discount on purchases debit. It's quite confusing at times. We have started Project 4 as of today.

History has pertained to how the farmers organized groups to help solve their problems. This association was to spread education in the agricultural field.

Business Law: So far they have studied the laws and how a court is conducted from trial to finish.

Business Training: Studying money. Nice subject, huh? They are studying the forming of it and what its standards are.

English Literature consists of stories by famous authors, telling their ideas of the ways to pursue happiness. Their ways of pursuing happiness are quite different from our ideas.

Shorthand is the usual scribble. Mr Johnson will believe it after he has read our master pieces from his dictations for our semester tests.

Home Ec. will proceed to cooking after the girls finish their sewing projects .They must be done by January 28.

This semester there may be a change in the typing class that will enable students to have a course in filing, spelling, and typing. The students are hoping that this can be arranged successfully.

The Once Over

Semester tests are finally over and many of us are surprised to find we passed. Some aren't so surprised either. The test that was hardest on the pupils physically was physical training. Many of us came to school afterward with a lot of aching muscles and bones. Each pupil is required to get at least 130 points in order to get an "A". To get these points you have a choice of doing push-ups, set-ups, or squat thrusts. It didn't matter how many of these you did, just so you got 310 points. Most of us got our points along with some aches and pains, but I guess we have to take the bad with the good.

First Grade News

Steven Smith is back in school with us again after being absent for five weeks. We are glad he is back.

Mary Jaberg treated us to candy bars on her seventh birthday. We all drew birthday cakes for her.

Mrs Lowell Mau and Mrs Jake Nannenga visited our room recently.

We have had three with perfect attendance for the first semester. They are Margaret Clayton, Janelle Lau, and Cynthia Nuehring.

Editorial

President Eisenhower has recommended a new Universal Military Training bill. It states that all eligible males between the ages of eighteen and eighteen and one-half will have to attend six months of training and then remain in the reserves for eight years. In the past there has semed to be much opposition to UMT.

We have conducted a very minute poll, not to find out whether UMT is right or wrong, but to find out some of the opinions of the boys who will be directly involved and the girls who will be indirectly involved because of the aforesaid boys.

Here are the results of the question: "What do you think of the new UMT set up?"

Graydon Barz: It would be all right, because there would be less conditional deferments, but it shouldn't have to be. There should be enough patriotism to make UMT unnecessary.

Ina VanBuskirk: Let them draft them.

Lee Gruis: I don't like it. The training's all right, but you don't get any GI rights when you get out.

Gary Day: I believe it's all right all the way around, because it doesn't take up as much of your time, though you're still in the reserve. Besides, if there's a war you'll be in anyhow.

Marlene Blumer: It's basically a good idea.

For myself I believe that no matter what its inconveniences are, if its going to keep us out of an atomic war, as it well might, it's more than worth it.

—Terry Koerner

Question of the semester: Is it true, or is it not true, that some students copied the answers for a semester test from the teacher's answer book? We hope it is not true, but if it is true, then why did these students do this dishonest deed? Didn't they know that "cheating" was dishonest? Didn't they know that "cheating" hurts not only themselves but the school, the community, and their fellow students? Didn't they ever learn the consequences of dishonesty from their parents, teachers, or pastors? And don't their consciences bother them?

If anyone finds the answers please put them in the suggestion box.

Cackles From Band Coop

Wanted: A day with at least 26 or 28 hours. If you can arrange such a thing, please contact Mr Whitford. With 29 solos and ensembles practicing for contests, the big problem is where, oh where, can he find the time to listen to all of them.

Notice to all band members: Band starts at 8:30, not 8:35 or 8:40 as too many seem to think.

And so ends this column for another week.

I Ask You Now

Who do you think will be the finalists in the Hancock County Tournament and who do you think will win?

Dick D.: Woden and Klemme.

Roger O.: Klemme and Garner.

Mr Westberg: Woden and Hayfield. (Kanawha as a dark horse)

Don T.: Woden and winner of Klemme and Hayfield game.

Graydon B.: I'd like to have Klemme win or at least place in the finalists, but Woden and Hayfield both have strong teams. I expect to see Woden as champs.

Hairpins & Tennis Shoes

Playing off our basketball tournament is the chief concern of the high school girls after our wonderful Christmas vacation. Unlike the volleyball tournament, it was decided to have the high school grades play each other to find the champs. The pairings were: juniors vs. sophomores in the first game, and seniors vs. freshman in the second game. In the game Tuesday the juniors defeated the sophomores 34-22. In the games on Thursday the seniors downed the freshman by the score of 34-28.

So far Joan L., Joyce L., Carol B., and JoEllen C. have been the refs. Blow that whisle hard, girls.

Hold on to your hats, folks. The seniors won the basketball tournament. Believe me, it was just as surprising to the seniors as to the general public. The seniors didn't win by a great score, nor did they win without fighting. The final score was 21-18. Ina VanBuskirk made a basket in the closing 3 seconds to make the victory final. Here is the run down on the scoring, but remember that the freshman and sophomores played only one game since they were defeated in the first round. Leading the freshman was Dorothy Kroehnke who had 14 points, second high was Joyce Lassahn who had 10 points. Sophomore Eva Thiemann had 16 points and Berleen Bridges had 6. Juniors, Carol Bridges 25 points, JoEllen Clabaugh 22 points. Seniors, Lois Boland 26 points, Carole Montgomery 23 points.

Now that our basketball tournaments are over, we're going to learn how to play badminton. We all had one consolation, we didn't have a semester test in physical education. Whoopee!

The fifth and sixth grades have been jumping rope and playing basketball, while the seventh and eighth grades are reviewing and playing volleyball.

Have you ever thought a person could develop rhythm and timing by jumping rope? You can as the grades are finding out in their physical education periods.

Kindergarten News

We have started working in our new workbooks. They are called "We Read Pictures", and we have been thinking and talking about Dick, Jane, and Sally as we look at pictures about them. They have a little puppy named Spot and a fluffy kitten named Puff.

We are also learning to count. Some of our counting charts show that we can count as far as 100.

We know the most important colors now, and are learning to tell their names when we see them.

Soon we will begin a unit on "Community Helpers", and will learn about the milkman, mailman, grocer, baker, doctor, and others, and what they do for us.

Notes About Notes

We have been combining boys' chorus and girls' chorus into mixed chorus on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday every week. With the exception of a few practice periods used by the sextette, we have been making us of every practice session because we have 9 numbers which will have to be learned within 9 weeks because the festival is on February 14. Since the songs are familiar we have been doing all right so far.

Fourth Grade News

We are very happy to have a new member in our class. She is Terry Hirsch who transferred here from Alexander. We now have a total of twenty-eight in our class.

We've received two dental cards from Bruce Waddingham and Harley Nuehring.

This week five committees made five different posters on desert people, animals and plants which we are studying in social studies.

Those who have perfect attendance for the semester are Lois Block, Charles Clayton, Sharon Heginger, James Hrubes, Harlan Langlitz, Graydon Lau, Richard Miller, and Linda Waddingham.

Graydon Lau's mother was a visitor in our room last week.

Our room now has twenty-eight new desks. We talked about keeping them nice because they certainly brighten up the room.

Jokes

Teacher: "What have the various expeditions to the North Pole accomplished?"

Jimmy: "Nothin', except to make the geography lesson harder."

The teacher had taken her pupils for a trip through the Museum of Natural History.

"Well, my lad," asked Papa of little Sonny on the latter's return, "where did your teacher take you this afternoon?"

"Huh," replied Sonny with disdain, "she took us to a dead circus."

"How was the attendance at your new musical comedy?"

"Well, on the opening night nobody came but the next day at the matinee the atendance fell off a bit."

Off The Boards

We lost last night.

The fourth time, it was. We stayed in there and fought to the end but still,--- we lost.

Everyone in Klemme knows it by now. They know of Thiemann's technical and the way the referees let Hayfield's 33 argue. They know of the overtime and the final score 63-64, and they know,--- we lost.

What can you say?

It seems Gary D. has eyes for a certain senior girl but the other night he took two freshman girls home. Their names are Dorothy and Karen. We wonder which one he took home first?

What has happened to Elaine J. and Chuck B.? We haven't heard much about them.

Does Jeanne B. like Marvin M. now? Looks that way, doesn't it?

Total Fines Decrease As Hunting, Fishing Violations Increase

Hunting and fishing law violations showed a slight increase in 1954, the State Conservation Commission said today, but total fines decreased.

State Conservation officers reported 1,540 convictions for hunting and fishing violations in 1954, as compared to the total of 1,377 convictions for 1953. Last year's violators paid a total of $31,532, a marked decrease over the 1953 figure of $35,168. Commission spokesmen believed that the decrease in total fines, in spite of an upswing in convictions, was because more of the violations were of a minor nature.

Last year there were 613 convictions for fishing violations, 942 for hunting and 23 for trapping. In 1953 there were 525 convictions for fishing violations, 755 for hunting and 42 for trapping.

All revenue from hunting and fishing fines is turned over to county school boards in the counties in which the fines were assessed.

Soil Conservation District Busy In Aid to Farmers

Thirty new Conservation Plans and fifty-nine new requests for Conservation planning assistance are figures reported in the year end summary by Vernon Moss, Work Unit Conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service assisting Hancock County Soil Conservation District. This makes a total of 361 district cooperators, 217 of which have complete conservation plans. Other accomplishments reported by Moss are 270 acres of new contouring and 2500 lineal feet of new terracing. The new terraces were constructed this past fall by Merle Hall in Ellington township. Other terraces in the county are in Ellington township on Kenneth Olson's farm and in Concord township on Mrs Hoeft's farm operated by Jake Blumer, and in Avery township on J J Cook's farm operated by Wm Reinhart.

Total terracing in the district is now 1.9 miles.

These figures of contouring and terracing are not very impressive when compared with the 136,900 lineal feet of tile drains installed on district cooperators farms and the 175,400 lineal feet of tile drains installed under ACP on non-district coopertor's farms. The new accomplishments in contouring and terracing shows a continued interest of more people in the district in getting erosion control practices on the land. Tile drainage has been practiced since farming started in this area while contouring has been practiced only since the beginning of the Soil Conservation District in 1946. The first contouring in the district was practiced by Roy Rogeness of Crystal township and the first terraces were built by Kenneth Olson of Ellington township in 1949.

Erosion control with terracing was outstanding during the June rains of 1954. These rains proved to many people that loss by soil erosion in Hancock County could be serious. Loss to the county of future production through erosion of top soil was far greater than the loss of crops drowned out in the June rains.

Other highlights of the year were the Conservation Air Tour held on June 16 at the Garner Airport; the Des Moines Register and Tribune contest, and two field trips by the Garner Vocational Ag. Class.

The air tour was held during Soil Conservation Week and in conjuction with the election of a district commissioner. Henry of Wesley, was re-elected for a six-year term. Mr Swanson is now serving as chairman of the Soil Conservation District Commissioners. Other members are S. A. Barber of Kanawha serving as treasurer and Ben Riemer of Garner.

Ditrict commissioners listed farms for the Des Moines Register and Tribune Iowa Soil Conservation Achievement Award Program. They then visited the farms to review conservation plans and applications of practices. Winners were: Division I; owner operated, Wm. Titus of Orthel township; Division II tenant operated, J J Cook farm in Avery township, operated by Wm Reinhart; and Division III new cooperators since 1952, Joe Mikkleson of Crystal township.

Allen Hidlebaugh, SCS Soil Scientist at Algona with the assistance of Vernon Moss, local technician conducted a field trip on soils for the Garner Vocational Agriculture class at the Harlan Haberkamp farm. A second trip with the class to demonstrate contour layout was conducted by Moss on the Ed Formanek farm.

We can show considerable progress for the year when accomplishments are totaled up, but have a long way to go to get conservation on the land that needs it. More terraces, contouring and grass waterways are needed to do an effective job was the opinion expressed by Moss in his year end summary.

the Highway Story
IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

George listened to the late news with its bitter weather forecast, then went about the house turning out the lights and trying doors. He listened a moment to the cold wind heaving against the windows, thought of his neighbors and shook his head.

Really he thought, it is amazing how haphazardly some people live. Some of the people around the block still were not prepared for the plunging temperature.

And, he imagined, some of them would be making frantic calls to the coal and oil dealers in the morning, demanding deliveries they should have taken days ago. George thought contentedly of his own basement well stocked with fuel these past many weeks.

Earlier in the evening he had heard a couple of the neighbors drive off hurriedly. He knew they were going off to try the patience of some service man with the last minute addition of anti-freeze.

Really, he thought again, some people are never prepared for the things they know are coming. His sleep was soothed by the troubles of his foolish neighbors.

Next morning he walked solidly to his garage, removed the heater that had been warming the oil in his car all night, started the engine on the first try, and drove toward work through the freezing weather.

Along the street he passed a car with a steaming radiator, and he smiled. It was his last full-toothed smile. A moment later his face struck the steering wheel as he futilely hit the brakes and crashed into the car ahead. George had forgotten safe driving habits.

He had been following too closely and there was a patch of ice on the road. His two front teeth were on the floor of the car along with his pride in always being prepared.

Landlord Eligible for Social Security Under College Form of Lease

Rules outlined by United States Social Security officials at district agricultural extension service conference last week, clearly would make both the owners and tenants on the regular Iowa State College livestock-share (non-partnership) lease form eleigible for social security.

This is the report of I. W. Arthur, an extension farm economist, specializing in farm rentals at Iowa State College, it was announced here today by County Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

Extension Director Henderson estimates that about twenty-five farms in this county are operating under this Iowa State College lease form. Arthur says a farm owner on a regular cash lease or crop-share lease cannot qualify for social security.

Social security representatives attending the Iowa district extension conferences this month have outlined the tests which determine whether or not the owner of a rented farm can participate in the social security program. Extension Director, Paul Henderson, attended the district conference at Mason City on January 24th and 25th.

Arthur reports that while the social security officials could make no blanket statement regarding any certain lease form, it is clear that a lease in the exact form used in the college's recommended livestock-share lase should meet the tests for eligibility. The officials said, however, that each case will have to be considered individually.

The major test which determines whether or not the owner of a rented farm can qualify is this: Does the farm owner have only an investment return from the property? If so, he cannot quality. The cash lease and crop share lease fall into this class.

But the farm owner who also owns a share of the livestock, shares in operating expenses, shares in making the major farm operating decisions such as buying and selling, planning rotations and feeding operations, and shares the risk of profit or loss from all of these operations is viewed by the social security people as being in a joint venture with his tenant. Therefore, he may participate in the program, even though he does no actual farm work.

Farm owners also can qualify if they are in a legal partnership which requires their active participation in the operation and management of the business. Owners who operate their farms with employees can qualify.

Rabbit Season Will Close on January 31

The 1954-55 Iowa rabbit season is slated to close on January 31, with hunters and conservation officers reporting good supplies of rabbits but no snow to hunt them in. Snow, generally considered a necessity for a rabbit hunt, has been lacking in most parts of the state.

With the rabbit season ended, outdoor sports will be headed by ice fishing and fox hunting. Ice fishing for most species of fish will end February 15, but there is a continuous open season on red and gray fox throughout Iowa.

Late January and February marks the season when many hunters organize circle hunts for foxes, often contributing bounty and pelt fees to the March of Dimes or other charitable causes.

if one had a $200.00 stove, the rest of the kitchen and household furniture could be attached and sold to satisfy a judgement.

This is not right, so the bill I have introduced will exempt from attachment by the sheriff all household and kitchen furniture.

Two other bills I introduced, have to do with a legal point in regard to guardianships, to save money and trouble in the guardianships of minors and non-residents. Judge Tom Boynton of the 12th Judicial district called my attention to this problem.

The Legislature, this year, has many problems. One of the biggest is how to raise more money to pay for the increased demands on the state for more state aid to schools, full payment of the Agricultural Land Tax Credit, more and better roads, and many other needs. The answer to this money problem lies with the leadership provided by the Governor, Lt. Governor and the majority floor leaders in the Senate and the House.

All matters and problems that will be coming up in the Legislature will receive my most careful consideration. I want to do my best as your State Representative.

Fertile Wins Over Shamrocks 63 to 57

The Fertile Indians were in Klemme Tuesday night and in a fast game downed the Shamrocks by a score of 63 to 57. The winners jumped out to an early lead and were in front 13 to 7 at the end of the first quarter. However, the Shamrocks came back strong in the second period and the game was tied at 25-all at the half..

The third period proved the undoing of the Shamrocks when they allowed Fertile to get 22 points while they were able to manage only 9 for themselves. They trailed by 13 points at the end of the period 47 to 34.

In the final period they fought back hard and outscored the Indians 23 to 16, but to no avail. Final score, 63 to 57 in favor of Fertile.

Haefner led all scorers for the game with 20 points, while team mate, Don Thiemann got 17. Rodberg looked best for the winners with 19.

The Little Shamrocks stayed on the winning side of the ledger by downing the Fertile reserves 22 to 21. Larson and Jacobs led the Klemme attack wtth 8 and 7 points, respectively.

The loss gives the Shamrocks a coneference record of 6 wins and 5 losses and leaves them in third place in the conference. A win over Franklin this Friday evening will insure their finishing the season in third place.

Friday night will see Dows and Fertile tangle at Fertile to see which team will be the conference winner. Each has lost only one game in conference play this season.

Other conference games the past week saw Ventura defeat Franklin 65 to 60, and Dows win over Sheffield 60 to 48.

Next action for the Shamrocks will be on the home floor when Franklin comes here for the last conference game of the season for the Shamrocks. Then on next Wednesday night, February 2, Crystal Lake will be here for a non conference game, the first meeting between the two teams this year.

Troffic Accidents Damage Car, Truck

A traffic accident involving a gasoline transport and a 1954 Buick automobile occurred at the Rock Island track on Highway No. 18 just east of Garner at 6:45 A. M. on Tuesday morning. The Buick owned and driven by Edward Luppen, Kanawha, came up behind the transport driven by Roy McCall of Clear Lake. When McCall stopped for the railroad crossing, the car was unable to stop and struck the rear end of the transport and then ran into the crossing signal. The car was badly damaged according to Highway Patrolman Angle who investgated. Swirling snow made driving hazardous.

On Thursday afternoon Sheriff L. M. Brower was called to investigate an accident involving a car driven by William Brouwer and a truck loaded with corn driven by Furn Utley of Avalon, Mo., on Highway No. 69 north of Klemme. Brouwer momentarily lost control of his car which spun around on the icy highway in the path of the oncoming truck. The truck n trying to avoid hitting the car broadside, took to the ditch and badly damage his truck. The car was only slightly damaged according to Sheriff Brower.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Cattle feeders had 8 percent more cattle on feed January 1 in the nation than a year ago.

An unusually large percentage of these cattle were calves. It's hard to prdict how feeders will handle a calf crop, says Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. They can bunch cattle for a summer sale. Or they can carry them on and bunch sales late in the season. Or they can spread the marketings out.

These decisions lie solely in the hands of the cattle feeders. How good a job of marketing will they do?

Meanwhile, cattle prices began the new year on a firm note. During the Christmas holidays stocks of turkey and fowl piled up in trade channels, Kutish points out. The result was a sticky beef market for the first 10 days or so. Once this was worked off, the cattle market shot up again.

Spread between grades is unusually wide. Choice and prime cattle were selling well above last year while bottom grades just couldn't make any headway.

Part of this is the result of supply, Kutish believes. We do not have quite as much beef in total as at this time last year. But the decrease in supply is concentrated in two areas: Fewer long-fed prime steers, and especially fewer of the lower-grade fed steers.

And here is where the demand change comes in. People apparently want to eat a better grade beef than they did at this time a year ago, says Kutish. Thus, they have shifted from the lower grades of beef into the upper grades. This increase in demand for upper grades of beef coupled with the supply picture, holds the explanation of the unusually wide spread between different grades of cattle.

ASC Office Reports On Corn Deliveries

Deliveries of Hancock County corn to the government in the price support settlement period just ended will total 2,437,310.30 bushels, it was announcel this week by Alfred V. Josten, office manager of the county ASC.

At least 981,429 bushels of Hancock County corn will be kept on the farms under resealing agreements. By keeping the resealed corn another year, farmers will not only earn a storage payment of 15 cents a bushel but will have the corn at hand if they decide to redeem it for sale or use. They will also be assisting the government in the problem of providing storage space for excess supplies.

A total of 634,900 bushels was resealed in this county last year, office manager Josten said.

At the peak of the current settlement period, around 3,406,203 bushels of corn were stored in government bins located in the county. Most of this was 1953 corn, while the remainder was 1952 reseal corn delivered this fall and winter, 1952 corn delivered last year and a small quantity of still older corn delivered in recent yers.

Approximately 159,667 bushels of all the price-supported corn in the county at the end of the loan period last spring were either redeemed by repayment of the loans or not delivered by those having purchase agreements.

In the state as a whole, deliveries of price supported corn to the government this fall and winter totaled a record 121½ million bushels, according to information received by the Hancock County ASC office. The previous high delivery mark of 120½ million bushels was set last year. At the peak of the present delivery period, betwen 190 and 200 million bushels of 1953 and older corn were in the 1,000 government binsites scattered over the state.

None were injured but all were thoroughly frightened for a time.

Lee Ridder, manager of the local Independent basketball team entertained the members of the squad on Monday night, after the game with Rudd. As a result of the business meeting, four members of the team spent the next day standing up, or else were very careful about sitting down. This inconvience was caused by too close contact with the paddling machine—punishment for failure to attend a recent game.

"Dress Up" Everyday Foods—

To Celebrate February Holidays

You can make party meals out of everyday fare with a few simple tricks to "dress up" some of the foods. The homemaker who prepared this lunch made it suitable for a Valentine party just by cutting the jellied cranberries in a heart shape.

If your meal planning seems to have hit a "midwinter slump", February and its special days offer a good opportunity to perk up your family's meals.

There are lots of quick little tricks you can do with everyday foods to enter into the spirit of Valentine's Day and Lincoln's, and Washington's birthdays, says Jewel Graham, Iowa State College extension nutritionist.

Sweetheart Meringues

For an easy Valentine's Day dessert, make meringues from your favorite recipe. Form them into heart shapes instead of the regular circular shape. Top meringues with strawberry ice cream.

Valentine Cake

Bake a chiffon or angel food food cake in a heart-shaped pan, if you have one. If not, bake it in a square pan. Turn cake out of the pan and frost with a 7-minute or butter frosting. Then form a heart-shaped outline on the cake with gum drops. Pierce the heart with an arrow made from more gum drops.

Valentine Cheese Cake

Make a no-bake cheese cake in a heart-shaped pan. Mold the cake in the pan and put crumbs just on top. Be sure to grease the pan well, so the cheese cake will unmold easily. After you turn it out, top it with glazed raspberries. If you don't have a heart-shaped pan, make the cheese cake in a square pan and arrange berries in the shape of a heart.

Here's how you glaze the raspberries: Drain juice off berries. To ach cup of juice add 1½ tablespoons cornstarch or 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon butter and sugar to taste. If the berries are unsweetened you'll need about ½ to 1 cup sugar for each 1½ cup berries. If they're sweetened you won't want quite so much sugar. Cook juice, thickening agent, butter and sugar until thick. Add berries, cool and top the cake with them.

Frozen Lincoln Log

To celebrate Lincoln's birthday, you might make a Lincoln Log. You can make it ahead of time and freeze it in your home freezer or the freezing compartment of your refrigerator. Miss Graham suggests you let it mellow in the refrigerator for a few hours before you freeze it.

The Lincoln Log is made by alternating layers of chocolate wafers and sweetened whipped cream. Then cover the entire "log" with whipped cream. Shave chocolate on top. Cut the log in diagonal slices to serve.

Washington's Birthday

Naturally, you think of cherries when you think of foods to celebrate Washington's birthday. Miss Graham suggests making a sheet sponge cake (like you'd make for a jelly roll). Fill with thickly glazed cherries and whipped cream.

Washington Hatchet Pie

For a quick and easy pie that's a little different, try this one. Make a crumb crust with 1⅔ cups ginger snaps, ¼ cup butter or margarine and ¼ cup sugar. Spoon in vanilla ice cream and chill. Cut hatchets from ginger snaps to decorate the pie. You can use the same ginger snap crust and hatchet decorations with chiffon pies, a cream pie or an eggnog pie.

When you're making a cherry pie, cut out little pastry hatchets for decorations instead of a top crust.

A rich tapioca pudding with cherries folded in is another dessert appropriate for Washington's birthday celebration.

Arctic Owls Visiting Iowa

A migration of arctic visitors has been reported in Iowa this winter, and the State Conservation Commission is urging hunters to hold their fire.

Snowy or arctic owls have been reported from many points in the state, and it is believed that a major snowy owl migration is taking place. The big owls, almost pure white, may have wingspans of 5 feet and are easily seen when there is no snow cover. They migrate from their native home in The Canadian Barrens every 4 or 5 years, driven on their journey by the regular disappearance of lemmings, mice and hares in the northern tundra. In recent weeks snowy owls have also been reported in Missouri.

Conservation Commission bird experts claim that the snowy owls are not harmful to our game populations, preferring to feed mainly on mice, rats, and other small rodents. It is unlawful to shoot snowy owls in Iowa.

BULLET

Forrest Shropshire, 13, Mason City youth, was struck in the face by a .22 rifle bullet recently. It was fired by a lad playing in the woods at the north edge of Mason City, about 150 yards away.

Lois Helps Bride Of Francis Rayhons

Couple Will Farm Near Garner

Miss Lois Helps, daughter of Mr and Mrs Harlow Helps became the bride of Francis Rayhons, son of Mr and Mrs Henry Rayhons of Garner on Tuesday, January 25, in the St Wenceslaus Catholic Church at Duncan with the Rt. Rev. Msgr. W C Hradecky officiating at the double ring ceremony. Acolytes were Marvin and Jerry Wellik, Kenneth Brcka and Bernard Nedved, cousins of the bridegroom. The church choir sang the nuptial high mass and "Ava Maria". Marian Nedved was the organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white velvet trimmed with pearl beadwork at neckline and points of sleeves. Her fingertip veil of nylon net was held by a crown of pearls and rhinestones. She wore a pearl choker and earrings, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of white carnations with a lavender orchid in the center and a white lace handkerchief.

Teresa Rayhons, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a gold floor length velvet formal, with a matching headband. She carried a colonial bouquet of purple carnations and ribbon and wore pearl earrings and carried a gold lace handkerchief, gifts of the bride. Marlys Marshall, cousin of the bride, and Evelyn Rayhons, sister of the bridegroom, were bridemaids. They wore identical formals of green velvet with matching headbands. They carried pink carnation colonial bouquets with matching ribbon. They wore pearl earrings and carried lace handkerchiefs, gifts of the bride. The bride's gown and all formals were made by Mrs Melvin Schaefer of Klemme, friend of the bride.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Henry Rayhons, Merlyn Helps, brother of the bride, and William Chizek, cousin of the bridegroom. The bridegroom and his attendants wore navy blue suits and ties, each wore a white boutonniere. The ushers were Dale Barkema, friend of the couple, and Joseph Wellik, cousin of the bridegroom.

The mothers of the bride and bridegroom wore navy dresses and had identical corsages of white carnations and baby red garnet roses. Both grandmothers wore corsages of pink carnations.

A wedding dinner and reception was held at the Garner Memorial building for about two hundred-thirty guests. Mrs Merlyn Helps, sister-in-law of the bride, was in charge of the guest book. Mrs Raymond Prohaska, and Mrs Edwin Chizek opened the gifts. Mrs Robert Marshall and Mrs Vincent Kopacek cut the four-tiered wedding cake, baked and decorate by Mrs Linahon of Klemme. Mrs George Brcka and Mrs Ernest Helps poured.

A wedding dance was held in the evening at the Duncan hall. After a wedding trip to Minnesota, Wisconsin and Chicago, the couple will be at home on a farm near Garner.

The championship game will be played at 7:30 o'clock on the evening of Thursday, February 10.

Finish Conference Season With 73-59 Win Friday Night

The Klemme Shamrocks downed Franklin Consolidated 73 to 59 on the local floor last Friday night to finish play for the season in the North Star Conferecne. The Shamrocks had been in third place for some time and the victory insured their finishing there. The loss kept Franklin in the cellar with no conference wins to their credit for the season.

The Shamrocks were out in front all the way, leading by 35 to 22 at the half and 57 to 39 at the end of the third period.

Thiemann led the scoring for the locals with 21 points, while Haefner had 12, Terhufen 10, and Kramer 8. Kellerman looked best for Franklin with 13.

The Little Shamrocks stayed on the winning trail by taking a 39 to 27 decision from the Franklin reserves. Bachman led the scoring for the locals with 10 points, while nearly every player that Coach Westberg used broke into the scoring column.

The Shamrocks journey to Hayfield this Friday night and will be looking for revenge for the one-point overtime defeat they suffered at the hands of the Raiders in the county tournament. The Shamrocks have only two regularly scheduled games left after tonight's game with Crystal Lake. Both are with Hayfield: There Friday night, and here on Tuesday, February 15.

10 YEARS AGO—

Rev and Mrs H E Harvey were guests at a reception for Mr and Mrs Herman Gast on their thirty-fifth wedding anniversary last Sunday afternoon.

Miss Avis Barz has completed her business training at Hamilton's at Mason City and returned home Friday. She will be employed at the First National Bank in Klemme.

Pvt. John Schwichtenberg of Maxwell Field, Alabama, arrived in Klemme, Friday afternoon to spend a furlough visiting with his parents, Mr and Mrs Dave Schwichtenberg.

Mr and Mrs Ben Neitland have received word that their son, George, was recently promoted from Technician 4th class to Staff Sergeant. George has been overseas more than two years in the Pacific area and at present is in New Guinea. He is an engineer and writes that he expects to receive a transfer and may be home in a couple of months.

20 YEARS AGO—

Near Liberty No. 8 school house, Sunday, Wm. Lemke and family, who were returning from church, skidded and went into the ditch. Luckily, no one was injured. This is the same spot where Violet Schaefer and a group of Liberty young folks upset while on their way to school one morning last week.

Paul Stromer and Laurence Greimann went to Chicago, Tuesday evening, where Paul will dispose of his 800 head of sheep.

A number of ladies had a party on Mrs Melvin Neuberger at her home last Thursday afternoon. The afternoon was spent in visiting and sewing. Lunch was served.

LuVerne Hammitt had the misfortune to break his arm the fore part of the week when he attempted to crank a Ford.

30 YEARS AGO—

We had some 15 degrees below the zero mark weather Monday and Tuesday of this week. Warmer since then and about three inches of snow fell last night.

Conrad Quandt, Herman Stromer and son, Verner, all returned last Friday from Chicago. They had accompanied a stock shipment to the city the Saturday previous.

The new electric fire siren was installed Monday. A time signal will be given as follows each day: Two short blasts and one long at 7:00 A. M., 12:00 noon, and 6:00 P. M. The fire alarm will be one long blast. At their next meeting the council will form a regular schedule for alarms in different parts of the town.

Mrs "Bill" Johnson was in town yesterday for the first time since several weeks ago when she fell down the stairs and broke her wrist. She is not getting along as well as hoped for as the break proved quite serious. Mr Johnson though, is getting along fine. He broke his leg about the same time Mrs Johnson had her accident.

Martha Circle Met

Martha Circle met at the home of Mrs Lee Ridder, Wednesday afternoon, January 28 with Mrs Koerner as co-hostess.

Mrs Don Bacon, as chairman, opened the meeting by giving a reading "What Kind of Doer.". Mrs Chester Renner gave the lesson and after singing a hymn, the meeting was closed with a prayer.

A lovely lunch was served by the hostesses to the ten members one visitor and two children present.

The next meeting will be held February 23 at the home of Mrs Art Kudje.

HOGS

There were plenty of hogs on the highway near Glenwood one night recently. A semi-trailer overturned when the air brakes failed, and the hogs were released by cutting a hole in the roof of the trailer.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

SPECIAL SESSION

Any recommendations for a specal legislative session late next year may encounter rough sledding in the Iowa senate. Such a recommendation was made by the legislative budget control committee last December and members of the house of representatives seem to favor such a proposition.

The special session would act on recommendations of a special study committee which would spend some 18 months studying the entire state tax structure. Governor Hoegh has indicated he would call a special session late in 1956 if the committee made definite recommendations for changes in the tax structure.

A majority of the senate now, seems to feel that the committee's study could be acted upon by the regular legislative session in 1957.

Everyone is in apparent agreement on the need for a complete study of the state taxation system. Tax revision committees of the house and senate have already launched efforts to draft a bill that would set up the special study committee. The demand for more money for operation of state government services has brought about the recommendation for the special study.

STATE VACATIONS

State Rep. Scott Swisher of Iowa City and others have filed a measure that would give all state employees with 10 years of service three weeks of paid vacation. The measure includes all employees including the maintenance personnel of the state highway commission.

Under present law state employees get one week of paid vacation after a year's employment and two weeks for all subsequent years of service with the state.

UTILITIES COMMISSION

An Iowa Republican, State Rep. Martin Sar of Charles City has drafted a bill to create a public commission for Iowa. Under Sar's plan the commission would regulate utility rates and financing. Rural electric cooperatives would come under the commission's jurisdiction as well as private and municipal corporations.

Similar measures have been filed in previous legislative sessions but they have died in committees. Generally it has been the Democrats who have been pushing such legislation in recent years.

EXTEND TERM

A bill to extend the tenure of the president pro tempore of the Iowa senate, if passed, will not find the senate in the position it was this year when it faced the task of getting underway without a presiding officer.

This year the presiding officer, the lieutenant-governor was serving as Iowa's governor, and the president pro tem, defeated for reelection, couldn't preside because his term ended with his defeat at the polls.

Under the new proposal, the president pro tem would serve to the first day of the next regular session after the one in which he held office. Technically there is an interval now between regular sessions when there is no president pro tem.

TWO CENT GAS TAX

Legislation asking a two-cent increase in the state gas tax has been filed in the legislature. The bill, a part of the program of the Iowa Good Roads association, also asks that the one-cent increase approved temporarily by the 1953 legislature, be made permanent.

The additional two cents would be divided this way: A cent and a half to primary roads, one-fourth cent to secondary roads, and one-fourth cent to city and town streets.

Another measure, not a part of the Good Roads program, asks that the temporary one-cent be made permanent and that the funds from that additional cent go into a program for building a four-lane divided freeway across the state. This plan is in opposition to a toll road plan for the state.

FIRST CONFIRMATION

First appointment confirmed by the Senate in the 1955 legislative session is J C Wright of Keokuk, who has been approved for the $10,000 a year job as superintendent of public instruction.

Wright, already at work, is the first official named under the new state law which makes the office appointive rather than elective. He succeeds Miss Jessie Parker of Lake Mills who retired.

Miss Parker was the last superintendent to be elected on the regular election ballot. Wright had been named by the new state board of public instruction subject to senate confirmation.

TRUCK TAX LAW

Possibility of additional truck taxes in the present session is seen in the filing of a measure involving special axle tax on heavy truck.

Nine house members suggest their proposal will produce an additional six million dollars annually.

The bill would levy a tax ranging from one-half cent a mile for three-axle trucks to two-and-a-half cents a mile for six-axle trucks.

WHAT'S IN A NAME

State legislators have at least two proposals recommending changes in names in present laws.

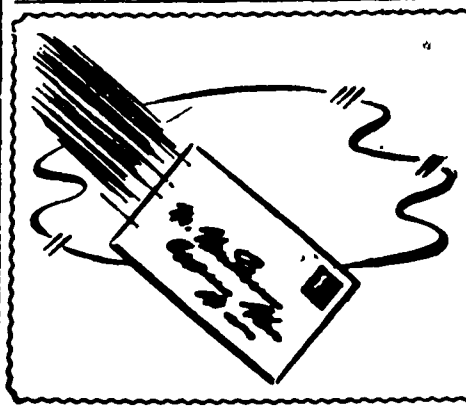
A bill is on file to change the name of the Iowa state board of education to the state board of regents. The change is asked to avoid confusion between state board of education and state board of public instruction, two distinct state agencies.

Another measure would change all references to "undertakers" in the Iowa code to "funeral directors". No one is confused over either reference in this instance, however.

CHILD LABOR BILL

A measure sponsored by two senators, George O'Malley of Des Moines and W C Molison of Grinnell, would increase from 14 to 16 the minimum age for employment during school hours and for employment in occupations which are deemed hazardous.

Regulations for street trades are similiar to those now in the law. A minimum age of 14 is fixed for most other work outside school hours except domestic and farm employment. Work permits are required for all under 16 who are employed, according to the new bill.



LETTERS to the EDITOR

Warns of Flammable Plastic Toys; Has Idea for Trucks

People should be alerted to highly flammable plastic toys which are appearing on the market for the coming Easter season. Buyers of these plastic toys are urged to be extremely careful in their selection of them as they are really dangerous.

These articles are made in Japan and are so marked, in accordance with the law. Made of thin plastic material; apparently pyrozylin type, toys are of wind up self propelled variety.

Easter items could be baby carriages being pulled by dolls with plastic parasols over carriage hood with plastic baubles hanging from the rim. Other items could be whirligigs, resembling bird houses, revolving birds, etc.

Sale of these items has been prohibited in some sections. Buyers are urged to exercise caution when purchasing these plastic toys.

Some people in the east have reported seeing a group of New York Central Railroad "brass" headed east on Peoria and Eastern Illinois tracks. . . but they were not in a train. They were riding in an eight-passenger limousine on railroad tracks . . . really quite convenient means of travel inasmuch as the limousine can also be driven on the highway.

The secret is in the dual set of wheels; one set for railroad track travel and another for regular highway driving. This is perhaps not official, but it appears that this could be a way of solving part of the narrow roads problem. Put trucks on dual sets of wheels and let all trucks use railroads to certain places. This would help do away with congested highways . . . at least until government administration can arrange to have state affairs so that we may have wider pavements for travel.

It would counterbalance the increased expenditures for new paving on highways and save waste in many places.—LieuEllenwen (Mrs. Bert Lieuwen)

AAA Club Lists Expenses Deductible in Filing Tax Returns

Automobile operating expenses allowable as deductions in making out income tax returns this year have been announced by the AAA Motor Club of Iowa.

On the basis of information provided the American Automobile Association by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service, Glenn Logan, Club General Manager, advised area motorists that deductions may be made for most business expenses and some personal expenses incurred in driving their cars in 1954.

Mr Logan itemized these deductions as follows:

For an automobile used in trade, business, or profession—costs of gasoline, oil, repairs, garage rent, insurance depreciation, and any other necessary operation and upkeep; also unreimbursed damages paid as a result of accidents resulting from business use.

For an automobile used in the service of an employer—all automobile expenses incident to such use (as above). However, reimbursement received from the employer for such expenses must be included as taxable income.

Non-business expenses—costs of auto license tags or plates, gasoline taxes (except Federal), taxes on autos, interest on money borrowed on the security of an automobile, unreimbursed losses from fire, accident, storm or theft, annual State title registration fees paid for the right to operate over highways, and damages to an automobile not resulting from willful negligence of the taxpayer.

Cackles From Band Coop

From now until contest those band members who are in small groups will have to get up a little earlier than usual in the morning.

Each week Mr Whitford will have one of the ensembles every day of the week at 8:00. On Tuesday he will have another ensemble at 8:30 with band at 9:00 and on Monday, Wednesday and Friday there will be band as usual at 8:30.

This schedule must be very hard to understand. At any rate, on last Wednesday morning about ten band members came gaily out to the band coop at, you guessed it, 9:00. The next morning when the members of the brass sextette arrived at 8:00 Mr Whitford's car was not in sight. They stood inside the school house for awhile, and then someone discovered that he was out there waiting for them. They found out that his car wouldn't start, so he had walked to school that morning.

As a rule men are more interested in getting their bite than in giving their bit.

Editorial

Since February 2 is Ground Hog's Day, predictions will be made concerning future weather. These predictions depend on whether or not the ground hog decides to wake up and come out of his dark hole.

That action should be a suggestion for some students, depending on whether or not such student has decided on his future weather. If his weather is to be successful, he should wake up, come out of dark uncertainty, and decide his future career. That would be the best solution for keeping his weather out of unhappiness, monotony, and failure. So decide your future plans soon. The sooner, the better.

Notes About Notes

Recently our mixed chorus has been skipping its regular sessions because that practice period is being used by the different sextettes. The particular sextette that I'm in along with June Mayland, Barbara Shoop, Anita Katter, JoEllen Clabaugh and Gracka Gerardi meets every morning at eight-thirty. We have been practicing "Green Cathedral" and "A Brown Bird Singing". We have a lot of fun in spite of our colds which certainly seems to be the case with everyone.

I Ask You Now

What do you think you should gain from going to school?

Elaine J.: Gain enough education so you can go to college and make a living.

Doug R.: Gain enough education so you can quit.

Harriett A.: Gain enough education so when I get out of school I can get a good paying job.

Terry K.: You should gain an education; after all, that's what school is for.

Leila A.: Get enough education so I can go to college after I graduate.

Marvin M.: Get an education.

Kay B.: Get an education so I can get a good job.

Janis S.: I think I should get enough education so I can go out into the world by myself and get along.

TWINS

Arby Mizell of Villisca has a twin brother; and also two other brothers who are also twins. Arby and his twin are 69, the older twins are 71.

Hairpins & Tennis Shoes

"Watch the birdie" has been a common pharse heard in the physical education classes. Why? Because the high school girls have been learning how to play badminton. First we learned the parts of the racket. The object we hit with the racket is the birdie, sometimes called the shuttlecock. We have also learned how to serve and to hit four different types of shots. The court and more of the rules will be taken up in the following weeks, but mostly so far it is an introduction to the double game.

Since the end of the first semester and the changing of classes, one PT class, the last period in the afternoon on Tuesdays and Thursdays, has grown considerably larger. Because there are so many of us, some will be learning how to play badminton while others are tumbling, and the next time we will alternate so that everyone gets a chance to do both. In tumbling we have learned how to do frontward and backward somersaults, stand on our head, do the elephant walk, and build pyramids.

This week the seventh and eighth grades had the choice of what they wanted to do during their physical education class. Some chose tumbling while others chose basketball. They have also been doing some self-testing activities with tthe fifth and sixth grades. Some of these activities are as follows: (1) chinese push-up which consists of two partners sitting on the floor with their arms locked. They then attempt to stand up without releasing their arms. (2) the heel and toe jump. Lean over and take hold of the toes of the shoes, grasping them between the thumb and fingers. Keep a tight hold. Jump backward and forward without letting go of the toes. (3) the heel slap. Jump high into the air, kick both heels backward, and slap them with the hands. (4) push up. Support weight in the hands and toes with the body in a straight line. Lower the body until the chest nearly touches the floor, and return to starting position. (5) stiff leg bend. Place a small stone or similar object close to the left heel. Stand with knees straight, lean forward, and pick up stone with left hand. Knees must always be straight. (6) walrus walk. Rest weight of body on hands and toes, walk forward using hands only, dragging feet. Body should be in a straight line. These are only a few examples of the many self-testing activities.

Sugar Cookie Workshop

"Making Sugar Cookies" led by Pat Legge and JaNell Johnson was the workshop lesson for the Liberty Busy Bees girls at their meeting January 22, at the home of June Mayland. We had a perfect attendance.

A talk was given by Nancy Farquhar. Interesting demonstrations were given by Gail Knutson, Marion Stromer and Barbara Hughes.

We voted to give $5 to the International Youth Exchange.

We decided to have a bake sale to be held in Garner, February 26. Sometime this spring we are planning to have a folk dancing school in the Liberty Community Building to which two other girls clubs will be invited.

We were happy to have Miss VanWert present to give us some helpful suggestions.

Our hostess, June Mayland had charge of recreation.

Lack of Winter Cover Kills Iowa Game Birds

Providing winter cover for game birds is more important than providing winter feed, according to Ed Kozicky, wildlife researcher at Iowa State College.

Though many people don't realize it, there's usually plenty of corn easily available for the birds around feedlots, corncribs and in fields. What the game birds really need is cover to protect them from exposure during severe weather.

Kozicky says there's a definite lack of cover in certain parts of Iowa. This has been the main reason for the loss of thousands of birds during abnormal winters.

Using pheasants as an example, Kozicky points out that up to 50 percent of the total population of these birds are killed in a winter such as that of 1935-36. When bodies of many of these birds were examined, they were found to be plump and apparently healthy, and had died of exposure instead of starvation.

Kozicky says pheasants invariably turn their backs to the wind and blowing snow when they can't find cover. The snow blows under their feathers, is melted by the heat of their bodies and soon frezes under severe temperatures. Ice not only encases their bodies, but covers their eyes and nostrils, blinding and eventually choking them.

Kozicky would like to see more farmers combine good game management with good farming. They could do this by adding a good windbreak to their farmstead.

One such windbreak per section of land would be adequate Kozicky says, because game birds will travel in search of such areas during the winter months. More than 200 birds have been found in a single area.

Young Married Met January 25

The Young Marrieds of Hancock County held their first meeting this year at Britt Memorial on January 25.

Mr and Mrs Bille Pigman and Mr and Mrs John Liska served on the food committee for a pot luck supper. Mr and Mrs Laurice Lemke had charge of the entertainment.

Paul Henderson, County Extension Director, gave an interesting talk and showed slides on farm and home management and is making plans for a follow up on this subject.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

This writer sometimes has been accused of having an unnaturally grim viewpoint of things automotive.

If it's true it must be because there's very little opportunity for the gentler things in a column that simply reflects things that happen on our highways.

All of which is a build-up for what some may consider strained comments on what is billed as a happy occasion.

According to advance publicity an auto show to be held in Des Moines is going to be a sparkling affair, with a well-known young singer shedding his tones over an array of more than 100 new model cars.

But the thought occurs that if you would put six people into each of those 100 new cars, you would just about have the total to be killed on Iowa highways this year.

And if it were suddenly announced that a safety speaker was about to appear instead of the promised young singer, the 600 people would move quietly out of the hall.

And if you were to scatter among the new cars displays of the latest thing in crutches, wheelchairs, braces, artificial limbs and the like, most of the viewers might thing someone with very poor taste had been at work.

And if some surgeon were retained to lecture during the auto show on "Accident Victims, Their Repair and Salvage" probably people would stay away in impressive numbers.

All of which seems to make the curious point that our great desire is to glorify the automobile, not to control it.

BONFIRE

Guttenberg folks enjoyed an unusual bonfire shortly after Christmas, with a general "burning of the greens." The event, a revival of a common European custom, was revived at Guttenberg and all residents were asked to bring their Christmas trees and green decorations to the site of the fire.

GASOLINE

A loaded gas transport tipped over near Mount Vernon recently, rolling over five times down a 75 foot embankment. About 300 gallons of gas were spilled. The driver, Howard Swanson of Illinois, and his passenger received minor injuries.

Farm Clinic Will Be Feb. 11 at Mason City

The 15th annual Farm Clinic program gets under way Friday, February 11, at the Mason City office of the Iowa State Employment service, reports John Schaal, Farm Placement man for the Employment Service. These programs were started in North Iowa in 1940. They became so popular that they have spread all over the United States since that time. They bring farmers and farmhands together in the office—saving time, trouble, and expense for all concerned. Schaal urged anyone interested in finding a worker or a job to attend. They will be held each Friday afternoon at 1:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. in the Iowa State Employment Service office in Mason City at 19 3rd Street, North East.

Vending Machines Up Milk Sales

A report from Michigan State College gives results of a survey which compares the selling power of cold milk with carbonated beverages. The report says that two milk vending machines and a soft drink machine were located side-by-side at the college. During a recent month the milk machines sold 2,593 ten-ounce cardboard cartons of milk while the soft drink machine sold 2,112 six-ounce bottles of carbonated beverage. The milk sold for 10 cents per carton and the soft drink for 6 cents a bottle so the cost per ounce was the same. On the average, the survey shows, each student bought an everage of 7 of the ten-ounce cartons of milk each month from a vending machine.

An estimated 1.5 billion dollars worth of products were sold in the United States through vending machines in 1954. Dairy products sold through vending machines lead the field in percentage increase with estimated ice cream sales up substantially and milk sales up 32 per cent over the previous year, according to the National Automatic Merchandising Association.

January Dry Month; Warmer Than Usual

January 1955 went into the weather records both dryer and warmer than the same month a year ago according to weather records kept by Earl Henschen, Custodian at the Hancock County courthouse. The average temperature for the month was 17.66 as compared to 12.45 for the same month last year. The minumum average for the month was 9.26 and the maximum average 26.06.

The highest mark recorded during the month was 41 above on January 14 and the low was a minus 16 on the morning of January 27. The low mark recorded in 1954 was 20 degrees below zero. The 16 below zero mark on the 27th was the first below zero temperature recorded here for the current winter.

Precipitation for the month was .39 of an inch which fell as snow during the month with eight inches of light snow recorded. Precipitation in January '54 was .55 of an inch. Seventeen days of the month were listed as cloudy or partly cloudy and fourteen were listed as fair. Winds during the month were of relatively low velocity and no usual January blizzards were recorded.

Egg yolks keep 2 to 3 days stored under water in a covered jar in the refrigerator.

Buy Wisely and Often—

When Children Need New Shoes

It doesn't take long for an ac ve, growing youngster to wear out and grow out of a pair of shoes. The proper fitting shoe can mean a lot to a child's health now, and in years to come. So parents should be on the lookout for outgrown shoes, and buy new shoes often and wisely.

You probably don't consider aching feet a blessing, but in a way they might be, says Lucille Rea, Iowa State College extension textiles and clothing specialist. When your feet hurt, you know there's something wrong. Perhaps it's in the fit of your shoes, or the way you walk. Whatever it is, you try to remedy the matter.

But remember when you were a child. Did your feet hurt then? Probably not. Most children do not complain about their feet hurting because the bone structure in their feet is soft and pli able. Your shoes might have been too tight then, but they twisted your feet out of shape without giving noticeable pain. So you went happily on about your play—all the while developing future foot troubles.

TOO TIGHT SHOES

Nationwide studies show many children's illnesses stem directly from—or are aggravated by—out-grown shoes. Too-short shoes cramp the whole forefoot and distort growth. Even the slightest tightness in shoes will start bending the delicate, growing bones of a childs foot and may cause other complaints, such as backaches, nervous irritability and even stomach upsets.

IT'S UP TO YOU

Since your children's feet probably don't hurt, you can't count on them to tell you if their shoes don't fit right. So it is up to you to watch your children's feet and buy new shoes just as soon as the old ones are outgrown.

You may be surprised how fast your youngsters' feet grow. A child's foot probably may change a whole size every 4 to 8 weeks until he is about 6 years old. From then until he is 10, his foot size may change every 8 to 12 weeks. For the next 2 years, his foot size may change every 12 to 16 weeks; from 12 to 15 years it may change every 16 to 20 weeks. After that it may change every 6 months and up.

START RIGHT NOW

Practically everyone is born with perfect feet, so the first shoes a child wears are the most important. Miss Rea says nothing should ever be put on the baby's foot that would tend to restrict normal growth of the bones, muscles, and nerves. This means shoes shouldn't be put on the baby until he tarts to walk. It's a good idea to leave off stockings and bootees too, unless his feet get cold. Even tight stockings can restrict feet and cause deformities.

CORRECT SIZE

There aren't national standards for sizing footwear, so you have no assurance that a certain size shoe will fit your child. Because of this, a child's foot should be carefully measured, and the shoes should be tried on each time a new pair is purchased. A good shoe salesman will fit the child's foot, rather than fitting the foot to the shoe.

SHOE BUYING GUIDES

1. Check accuracy of it while the child is standing up. The foot really has two lengths: when it's holding the body weight, and when the weight is not on the foot. The shoe should be ½ to ¾ inch longer than the foot.

2. The heel should fit snugly, but not grip the foot so tightly that it can't make a slight up and down movement. The heel counter (stiff piece of shoe around the heel should be so strong that you can't squeeze the two sides together with your hand.).

3. Unless the doctor has recommended high top shoes, the top of the shoe should be below the ankle bone that sticks out at either side.

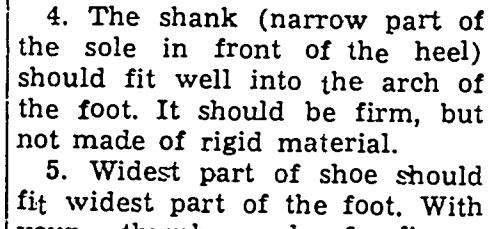
4. The shank (narrow part of the sole in front of the heel) should fit well into the arch of the foot. It should be firm, but not made of rigid material.

5. Widest part of shoe should fit widest part of the foot. With your thumb and forefinger, check to see if a little bit of leather can be pulled up or creased over widest part of the shoe. It should be flexible enough to permit the foot to bend at the toes in walking.

6. Toe of the shoe should be rounded and firm, but not so stiff you can't feel the toes through it. From top to sole, shoe should be thick enough to avoid pinching.

7. Buy a shoe with cloth lining inside, particularly around the toes. It will help absorb moisture and prevent friction.

8. Top of the shoe should fit close to the foot and not gap out at the sides.



By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

There will be fewer early hatched chicks than a year ago. But we may have more late-hatched chicks than the unusually low number hatched in 1954.

That's the prediction of Iowa state College Farm Economist, Francis A. Kutish. And it's all because poultrymen looked at the low prices for eggs and hesitated in buying chicks.

Egg prices, on the other hand, are expected to average below those of last year until late spring, continues Kutish. Then they may average near the prices of last spring.

However, with prospects for fewer early hatched chicks, egg production should not be as high during the fall months as was the case in 1954. This in turn should boost egg profits above those of last fall, predicts Kutish.

On the other hand the cut is not expected to be sharp enough to put poultry in the highly profitable bracket, says the economist. It should be sufficiently high to keep good poulttrymen in the business.

Also, he continues, feed prices should be lower next fall because price supports have been cut. Thus, indications make it look as if profits on early hatched chicks will be better than on the late hatched ones.

In the grain picture, total corn stocks are down slightly, but farmers had more small grain on farms January 1, than a year ago.

But, says Kutish, the large amount of off-quality corn has held down the winter corn market. Thus, the major advance in corn prices is not expected until warm weather comes and this off-quqality corn has either been fed or sold.

Meanwhile corn prices are expected to average slightly higher than last year, but no sharp advance is likely to occur, predicts the economist.

Agricultural Specialists Brought to County Folks By Radio

Expansion of radio services by the Iowa Agriculture Extension Service may bring Hancock County farm folks more opportunity to get the ideas and recommendations of agricultural specialists from their radios.

Paul Henderson, Hancock County Extension Director, reports that the Tall Corn Network, including KRIB, of Mason City, will start carrying daily recorded interviews with Iowa State College agricultural specialists on February 1.

With addition of service to this radio network, with 14 stations that reach most parts of the state, the Agricultural Extension Service is expanding a service that has been used by about 15 stations for a number of years. The service now will offer seven recorded interviews per week to a total of 26 stations, including Station KRIB of Mason City, Iowa

These programs present specialists in all fields of agriculture, interviewed on timely farming subjects by Dale Williams, assistant extension editor for radio and television at Iowa State College. Henderson believes farm folks who make a habit of hearing these programs will pick up many useful ideas.

Obituary of Mr. Herman Thiemann

By Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg

Mr. Herman Henry Thiemann, whose death is mourned by his loved ones and friends, was born on May 8, 1880 at Osnabrueck, Hanover, Germany. He was the son of Henry and Elisa nee Duhme Thiemann.

He received the sacrament of Holy Baptism at the Lutheran Church of his native town of Osnabrueck. He came to America with his parents as a child of two years. The Thiemanns settled originally in Ohio in the vicinity of New Knoxville and later moved on to Hancock County in Iowa. Mr. Thiemann was received into the fellowship of the Christian Church through the rite of confirmation at Peace Reformed Church (Elltown) by the Rev. Henry Treick.

Mr. Thiemann was united in marriage with Miss Minnie Warner on November 27, 1906 at First Evangelical Reformed Church in New Knoxville, Ohio by the Rev. John Bachmann, pastor of the church. This marriage was blessed with three children, Alvin, Edwin and Mildred.

The Thiemanns started farming seven miles northeast of Klemme and after five years they purchased the farm where Edwin now lives. They continued to operate this farm until they retired and moved to their present home in Klemme in 1943. Mr and Mrs Thiemann were highly regarded by their neighbors as industrious and cooperative neighbors.

Mr. Thiemann was a member of Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church where he served his church and his Lord as Deacon, Sunday School Superintendent and a teacher in the Sunday School.

Mr. Thiemann has been in ill health for the past twenty-five years and has been confined to the home for the past six years where he was bedfast for the past month. During this time he received faithful and loving care. Although his health failed he was not given to complaint, but maintained a cheerful disposition. He was called to his eternal reward on Thursday, January 27 at 3 A. M. having reached the age of 74 years, 8 months and 19 days.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, Alvin and Edwin of Klemme and one daughter, Mildred, (Mrs Arnold Hoveland) of Mason City; and two brothers, Henry and George, both of Klemme and two sisters, Mrs Sarah Goll and Mrs Marie Wille also both of Klemme.

Mr. Thiemann was preceded in death by his parents and one sister Anna, (Mrs Henry Jahnke) in August of 1944 and by brothers, William, Benjamin and Carl who died of diphtheria while the family lived for a short time in Missouri. He is also survived by ten grandchildren and many more distant relatives and friends.

"Lord, now lettest thou thy servant, depart in peace according to thy word: for mine eyes have seen thy salvation, which thou hast prepared before the face of all people." Luke 2:29-30.

County Allotment for Conservation Practices Announced for '55

Hancock county has been allotted $85,900 for government cost-sharing soil and water conservation practices in 1955, it has been announced by Alfred V. Josten, manager of the Hancock county ASC office.

The amount is $21,900 greater than apportioned the county for the 1954 ACP conservation program.

Except for comparatively small expenditures for necessary technical services and for special services such as taking of soil samples, all of the funds will be available for sharing the cost of approved practices completed on farms of the county next year.

The allocations to all Iowa counties were made from the appointment of $8,972,000 made to the state from the national fund for 1955, which was increased over that for 1954 to permit greater encouragement of conserving and building up cropland taken out of production through acreage allotment programs. Factors considered in determining each county's share of the state allotment were: amount of farmland, productivity needs, comparative erosion hazards, drainage needs and value of completed ACP practices in 1952 and 1953.

The initial period for filing requests for cost-sharing practices to be carried out in 1955 expired on December 10. However, requests may be filed by farmers with their county ASC office at any time during the year 1955 and such requests will be considered for approval if and when county ACP funds become available.

However under the provisions of Section 311 (a) of the Agricultural Act of 1954, Public Law 690, 83rd Congress, approved August 28, 1954, any farmer who knowingly harvests either cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco, peanuts, or rice in excess of the 1955 acreage allotment for any of these commodities on any farm in which he has an interest as landlord, tenant, or sharecropper, will not be eligible for any Federal cost-sharing under the 1955 Agricultural Conservation Program on that farm, or on any other farm.

Farmers will have to certify to compliance with this provision before receiving cost-sharing.

The list of practices being offered for 1955 includes those necessary to meet every ordinary soil and water conservation problem found on farms in Hancock county.

Farmers interested in taking part in the program are urged to check the following practices adopted for Hancock County and contact the county ASC office before carrying out the practice as prior approval is required.

Initial establishment of a permanent vegetative cover for soil protection or as a needed land use adjustmnt:

Initial treatment of cropland to permit the use of legumes and grasses for soil improvement and protection;

Initial improvement of contour stripcropping on non-terraced land to protect soil from water or wind erosion;

Initial improvement on an establishment vegetative cover for soil or watershed protection;

Initial establishment of permanent sod waterways and terrace outlets to dispose of excess water causing erosion;

Initial establishment of grass headland waterways to prevent erosion, stabilize and protect gullies, diversion terraces and field borders;

Construction standard terraces to detain or control the flow of water and check soil erosion on sloping land;

Construction level terraces to detain or control the flow of water and check soil erosion on sloping land;

Construction diversion terraces to intercept runoff and divert excess water to protect outlets;

Consructing erosion control dams to prevent or heal the gullying of farmland and to reduce runoff of water;

Construction of permanent open farm drainage ditches;

Tile drainage;

Shaping or grading land to permit effective surface drainage;

Initial establishment of contour farming operations on non-terraced land to protect soil from wind or water erosion;

These practices are regarded as the most needed in the county as a whole at this time and maximum encouragement is to be given to farmers who have such problems.

County RYP Group to Leadership Meeting At Mason City

The Hancock County Rural Young Peoples Club will be represented at a district leadership training program at the YMCA in Mason City on February 1st, according to the announcement of Paul Henderson, County Extension Director.

The local delegation will include Calvin Bredlow, Vincent Woewod, Eunice Ball, Donna Jean Willret, Bill Katter, Richard Baack, Lois Hueneman, officers and Mr and Mrs Clarence Smith and Mr and Mrs James Devine, advisors. Similiar delegations from other counties in this area will also attend the meeting.

Leadership training will be the theme of this evening meeting. The young people will hear a presentation on understanding basic needs of people as an insight into organizing group activities that will interest group members. G. A. Lineweaver, state boys club leader and Paul Henderson, Hancock County Extension Director, will present this part of the program. Then in small "huddle" groups, the young people will consider common problems of RYP clubs in the leadership keys suggested in the opening presentation.

A recreation party will conclude the evening's activities for the young people from this and several neighboring counties. This will be the second meeting for rural young peoples club officers and leaders this year. In early January county RYP officers attended training school.

Riehm Tells of Activities During Past Two Weeks

Is on Special Committee for More Efficiency

Some of you have told me you liked my report, so I will try to give a brief summary of the last two weeks.

Last week the committee in the Iowa Legislature were very busy meeting when the House was not in session, considering and studying the many bills that have been filed. Committees meet at 9 o'clock in the morning and in the afternoon. Incidentally, if any of you intend to visit the Legislature, come to you will be there at 10:00 a.m. when the House or Senate convenes.. I would be glad to see you. I was happy to see some of the people from Hancock County last week.

The Agriculture Committee had a very good public hearing on the crown rust, which damages oats and which is harbored on the buckthorn or tree, The hearing was to educate the members of the Legislature to secure the passage of the bill to eliminate the buckthorn. We have a leaf (crown) rust and a stem rust here in North Iowa, and if the buckthorn is eradicated, millions of dollars will be saved by Iowa farmers, even though we will have some rust blown in from southern states. In 1953, farmers lost in poor oat yield 75 million dollars, in 1954 the loss was 24 million, as estimated by men at Iowa State College.

Other committee meetings were held throughout the entire week working on bills relating to hundreds of topics, ranging from fire departments, weeds, schools, speed limits roads, fishing, and everything else.

Friday morning, January 28th was the first morning that bills came on the floor of the House to be considered and passed. Some were passed without too much comment, however, some had a spirited discussion.

This week, January 31, through February 4, proved to be another busy week of Committee meetings studying the many bills that have been introduced.

Something very interesting happened this week. A bill came out on the floor of the House. It was H. F. 12, a law to make available information from sales and income tax reports to assessors of the State of Iowa. An amendment was offered which changed the bill almost entirely so far as how this information could be obtained, putting many restrictions on methods of securing it, and prescribing a penalty for an assessor who receives this information and gives it out to an unauthorized person. Before we voted on the bill it was voted to add three amendments and after the amendments were added to the bill or law, the House voted to pass the law as amended. Now here is the interesting point: The sponsor of the bill then moved to kill the law, either because it was not what the original bill was or because of some other reason unknown. However, the House overruled this motion by the sponsor to kill the law, and sent it to the Senate to be considered. There the same thing may happen.

Thus, what goes in as a bill or law, may come out looking entirely different.

Another bill requiring examinations of life insurance agents had an amendment added, which changed the original intent of the act. Before the amendent I considered voting for it, howver, because of the amendent, I voted "no" on it, and in this case the amendment which was added killed the law.

Another bill this week was first killed, then upon a motion to reconsider, was passed the following day.

Thursday, February 3, the Governor delivered his budget message asking for 18.9 million more for schools, 1.8 million for State Institutions and 2.8 million for increased operating expenses of state offices, a total increase of 23 million, and proposed raising 31 million by sales tax on services, beer, cigarettes, capital gains tax and increased liquor sales revenue. However, many of the legislators do not agree with the Governor, they believe that even though roads, schools, etc., need money, so do the taxpayers. However, some money must be raised since the state is spending about 9 million a year more than it now raises in taxes.

I have been put on a special sub-committee to study consolidation of state agencies and strive to get the most efficient form or state government. This will take time. I am in favor of any change that will bring more efficiency and economy in the branches of our government and save the taxpayers money.

We have now completed four weeks of legislating; a slow process in our democratic way, but much better than Russia's Communistic dictatorship whose legislature does what the dictator tells them to do.

Klemme School Election Will Be March 14th

Two to be Elected For 3 Year Terms

The first regular election of directors for the Klemme Community school will be held on Tuesday, March 14th.

The one year terms of two of the directors elected at the special election held on April 5th have expired, and candidates must be nominated and elected to take their places.

The two whose terms have expired are Milvern Barz and Glenn Lang and those who are elected in their place will serve three-year terms. Nomination papers will be available February 12th at the secretary's office or at the First National Bank.

These papers must have the required number of signatures and be filed with the secretary of the board not later than Mar. 4th.

It is hoped that more people than voted at the special election will show an interest in school affairs at the polls on March 14th. Only a third of the voters were out at that time.

The men to be elected are to help run the school for the next three years, so it's to everyone's advantage to get out and see that good competent men are elected.

Shamrocks Down Meservey In Sectional

Will Meet Thornton For Championship

The Klemme Shamrocks finished first round play in the sectional tournament at Garner with an easy 77 to 33 victory in a ragged game.

The Shamrocks took over the lead immediately and by the end of the first quarter had drawn away to a 17 to 5 lead. They steadily increased the margin throughout the game, and although it wasn't one of their better games for the year, still the 77 to 33 score was quite impressive.

Don Kramer had a field day at the expense of the Meservey quintet when he fired in 28 points on 11 field goals and 6 free throws. Denny Haefner was hitting well, too. He connected 10 times from the field and once from the charity lane.

Diddy was the biggest scorer for Meservey with 12 points.

Thursday night at 7 o'clock the Shamrocks will tangle with Thornton for the right to advance to district play in Class B. The Thornton cagers had a hard time of it Tuesday night against Corwith, but finally came from behind to win 49 to 47 in an overtime period.

The Thornton team boasts an impressive season's record, having won 21 out of 24 games. The Shamrocks will have to be at their best when they play Thursday, but fans are looking for a good game.

In the Class A division of the sectional at Garner, Belmond downed Ventura 87 to 36 and Garner knocked Clear Lake out of the running by a score of 56 to 38. This means that Garner and Belmond will tangle again on Friday night of this week to see which club will advance to district play.

Their last game was a honey with Belmond winning out 53 to 51. We imagine that anyone who wants to see that game had better be on hand plenty early.

STATE TAXES

Taxes are a touchy subject no matter how you look at 'em. The Iowa legislature is looking at 'em from two different viewpoints—short-range and long-range.

A legislative committee is taking a close and quick look at the operations of the state tax commission to determine what, if any, immediate legislation might improve the efficiency of the commission. The committee will complete its study in the next two months and make its recommendations, if any, to the present legislature for action.

This investigation committee is headed by State Sen. Alan Vest of Sac City and Sen. W. C. Stuart of Chariton. State Representatives Tom Frey of Neola and Frank Thompson of Guthrie Center complete the four-member group. All are Republicans.

A long-range look will be made when a legislative unit will be named to take a more comprehensive glance at the Iowa tax structure and make recommendations within a year or 18 months for possible sweeping changes in the Iowa tax laws.

This report may result in legislative action in a special session next year, or in the regular session in 1957.

ROUGH ROADS

Iowa highways couldn't be as rough as the treatment widely predicted in some quarters for the governor's nominations to the state highway commission.

First batch of state appointments made by Governor Hoegh, and needing senate confirmation were four members to the highway group. Prior to sending them to the senate, the governor had been warned that they might find a cool reception. He stuck by his guns, however, and nominated three new Republicans and a Democrat.

Lt. Gov. Leo Elthon let the list cool on his desk a couple days before passing them to the senate for customary investigation and approval or rejection.

Opposition seemed centered on the fact that Hoegh is replacing all the Republicans, all of whom are former senators, plus the fact that he obtains, in one move, complete control of the commission.

His appointees are Russell Lundy, Des Moines; Robert Beck, Centerville; and Chris Larsen, Jr., Sioux City, Republicans, and L. L. Caffrey Cresco, a Democrat.

GETS ANOTHER JOB

Charles J. Knickerbocker, Fairfax Republican, has been named as a district grain and bin supervisor for the Iowa ASC. Seven others will be named to similar jobs.

Knickerbocker, a month ago, was in line for appointment to the state ASC board to replace a Democrat, Edmund Gibbs of Bellevue, whose term expired. Congressman Talle had announced in Washington, prematurely, that the Linn county farmer would get Gibbs job.

Reportedly, the Iowa Farm Bureau and other groups objected. The vacancy on the ASC committee still exists. An Estherville Republican, Max Soeth, may get the post.

KOREAN BONUS?

Iowa veterans of the Korean fighting may get a state bonus if a bill, in the legislature obtains approval of both houses, and the governor, and Iowa voters.

Twenty-six representatives are sponsoring a $35,000,000 Korean soldier's bonus. The bill, backed by the American Legion, would set up a maximum individual bonus of $500 same as the state World War II maximum.

Approval of the bond issue to pay the bonus would be put to a vote of the people in 1956.

It is estimated 98,500 Iowans would be eligible for the bonus.

LEGISLATIVE CRASH

State Sen. Lawrence Putney, Gladbrook Republican, made his first speech on the senate floor the other day. He told his colleagues that his auto, parked in the senate's private parking area, had been bumped and damaged.

No one apparently knew who did it. The driver of the other car left no name, identification or other information. Putney, estimated the damage at more than $50, asked for information on the incident, advised his fellow lawmakers he wasn't worried over the principle involved but the money.

Couple of days later a flustered red-faced house member admitted he was the culprit, picked up the tab for repairs.

FOOD SALES TAX

The state tax commission estimates that Iowa would lose some $14,000,000 in annual income if the sales tax is removed on food and the tax rate continued at 2 percent.

Louis E Cook, the commissioner reseacher, said that sales tax on food last year produced $13,739,016, about 22 percent of the $62,000,000 that came from sales tax.

LABOR BILL

A bill to legalize the union shop in Iowa is on file with the legislature.

Governor Hoegh, in his campaign, declared that Iowa employers and employees should have the right to choose a union shop agreement if they desired. Iowa law now prohibits it.

A similar measure, sponsored by Democrats, didn't win legislative approval two years ago. Most sponsors of the present measure are Democrats.

BLUE LAWS

Iowa's so-called "blue laws" would be repealed by a bill awaiting action in the legislature. The measure has been reported out of a house committee for debate on the floor.

The blue laws have been in effect in Iowa 100 years. They forbid hunting, dancing, shooting, business activity and the like on Sundays.

Blue laws have not been enforced for years.

MANSION REPAIR

A $9,000 redecorating job is almost completed on the state governor's mansion. The work started after the Beardsley family had moved out, and before Governor Hoegh and his family moved in.

The mansion was bought by the state in 1947 for $27,200. Some $45,000 as spent on it then for decorating, remodeling and furnishing.

ROAD BOND

State Sen. D C Nolan, Iowa City, is author of a measure in the senate proposing a $300,000,000 state primary road bond issue. It provides for submission of the bond issue to the voters in 1956.

Nolan, two years ago, filed the same bill but without the provision for referendum by the people. The senate passed it but the house failed to act.

"USE THE STAIRS!"

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Mullihan

The winter sweepstakes for wrong-headed drivers is just entering its final round; and this may be a good time to point out a few of the leaders.

Conceded a good chance to win in the silly-explanation-division is the Iowa 18-year-old who said, in a recent accident report, that he had cracked up his father's car and broken an arm because "I couldn't see the corner for fog. But that didn't make any difference because the road was so icy and I was going so fast I couldn't stop anyhow."

The top prize for team effort probably will go to three Iowa brothers who ended up in the same jail on the same night on three different driving charges. One brother was jailed for allowing an unauthorized person to drive his car, the second brother was hauled in for being the unauthorized person.

In the jail they met the third brother who had just been arrested for the second time that night for driving while under license suspension.

An almost certain winner in the "everybody-but-me" division is the school bus driver who sailed past another school bus stopped on the highway discharging children.

A nearby highway patrolman grabbed the passing bus driver for violating the school bus stop law.

Judges probably will disagree on the award a Florida trucker should receive. Some will want to put him in the "most-sensible" competition. In any case, here's his story.

An Iowa highway patrolman found him stopped in his semi-trailer outfit smack on top of an ice-covered hill. His engine was switched off and he sat there staring with horror at the icy road ahead, ignoring the horn-blasts from cars and trucks stacking up behind him.

He told the highway patrolman he had never seen such ice in his life and just got so scared that he was going to sit there 'til it melted.

"Kindness is one thing you can't give away — it always comes back."

Letters to the Editor
Times, Klemme, Iowa

I have 3 things on my mind: heavy fur lined parka hoods on children, farmers' state income tax, and refereeing basketball games. Just what do these 3 have in common? Nothing but . . .

1st: these parka hoods. My knees are still shaking. I just got out of a car which hit a boy and the boy was wearing one of these fur lined hoods.

Now it may have kept his face nice and warm but, in this case, that heavy fur worked like "blinders" on a horse. (For the younger set, blinders are a part of the bridle; heavy pieces of leather about the eyes so the horse don't see to the side of him.) He probably looked in our direction but was limited in his vision to the side. We thought he saw us but like a flash he was in front of us and was running across in the middle of the intersection.

We skidded on ice and pushed him with the front of the car. He didn't go down and he wasn't hurt but . . . . (Wonder if I'll ever buy one of 'em for my boys. I doubt it. Not after a scare like that today.)

2nd: We have read a lot lately about Mr. Farmer not paying his share of state income tax, based on figures of the year 1953. The only fair comparison, it seems to me, would be to take Mr Farmer's average over a 2 year period.

All who deal with a farmer's income tax reports know that his income is way up one year and way down the next. He gets "socked" hard one year and gets off with a light tax the next, or none at all.

On the other hand, a salaried worker's income is fairly stable; he may have to pay some each year.

As a result on one particular year it may seem that Mr. Farmer is not paying his share. But I believe a two-year comparison would bring out the fact that he does pay his share but probably in one of the two years.

This may come about by one advantage he has. (If it is an advantage, and I doubt if it is,) He may, for example, hold over selling grain or hogs until after the 1st of the year, thus keeping his tax low in the year just completed. "Ah, yes," thinks he, "I got off easy this year". (But will he ever snort when he sees the tax he must pay by bunching 2 years hog crop or two corn crops into one year when the next income tax time rolls around.)

I had a customer who had a farm income of $684.00 this year. (He held 60 had of hogs over until 1955.) He would have been much wiser to sell off part of them in 1954, and pay some tax. As it is, he will really get "clobbered" next year.

The day is here when an adding machine is a necessity on the farm (and a nice blonde secretary would also help to keep the farm records straight.)

3rd: I've refereed my last basketball in my life. I'd sooner sit on th sidelines along with the rest of you and tell them "whistle tootin' referees" what a lousy job they were doing.

I was the world's biggest and loudest and longest booer (until I started to referee two years ago.) My, how times change!

I never minded the crowds. A referee is too busy to pay any attention to them, but I sure have it in for the fellow who comes down after the game and tries to tell you what you did wrong up there and tries to pick a fight. A referee runs into them most everywhere you go (and it's gnerally some fellow who did some playing in his day).

One false move on the part of this type of fan will get him and his whole town in plenty of trouble, for referees have authority to refer any such incident to the athletic ass'n and it can and does often lead into blacklisting this particular town from public participation in any sport for at least 1 year.

Personally, I don't believe Klemme has that type of fan. We've got booers and belly achers and I don't believe, from the referee's standpoint, they mind that. After all, I always figured that was one of the reasons you got paid $15.00 a night; to listen to that sort of thing. It wasn't always "music to my ears" but I didn't let it get me down.

So the next time any of you bee me at a ball game and I holler out from the crowd to the referee, "Get your glasses on, you bum"; what I really am trying to say to him is, "You're doing a swell job, Jack; but I'm sure you're going stone blind, so you'd better retire, like me, and stay home with your wife and kiddies".—Allen Barz Klemme, Iowa.

Fourth Grade News

Our room is busy decorating for Valentine's Day. We also have pictures of Lincoln and Washington around our room.

In arithmetic we began the chapter on multiplying and dividing by the 6's.

This semester we are having science instead of health. This week we did our first experiment to discover which foods contained fat and which foods contained starch.

Inside K. H. S.

—Senior News—

Now that we have learned how to find the state unemployment and federal unemployment taxes, we have put them in a combined cash journal. We are having a test over four chapters in bookkeeping.

Typing is about the same, but each day we have a new problem to work on, such as, typing business letters, order blanks, invoices, and purchase requisition.

Business Training: We just got our workbooks, and so now we are catching up to where we have been reading. We are still working on our personal budgets and so far no one has spent much money.

Business Law: We have been studying more fully the elements of a contract and soon will be having a dreadful test.

Home Ec: The girls are finishing up their projects and are discussing what they will cook this semester.

We students of English are renewing our skill in punctuating paragraphs and dialogues that have direct quotations and descriptions in their context.

History is very interesting. We can still see back into the beginning of the twentieth century when a wealthy person showed his wealth by being elaborate in clothing, homes, bicycles, and mostly jewels and ruffles. The fashions between then and now have surely changed to the Charles Dana Gibson's ideal figures, the "Marilyn Monroe" of yesteryears. The lengthened as have the hair styles. Moral, "What is good for one generation is poisonous for another."

Progress is being made! We've graduated from our blue shorthand book to the red one. "Variation is the spice of life." Speed is our destination. We're all hoping we can make the speed limit.

I've Got a Secret

Say! It seems that the Garner theater was the gathering place for quite a few Klemme couples last Sunday night. We saw Karen and Roger, Berleen and Lloyd, Marge and Lyle, Ann and Harry, Sharleen and Larry, and Rosalie and John.

Whose ring was it that Karen C. was exhibiting last Friday? We had just figured out whose it was and then she didn't have it anymore.

Whose car is it that is always down at Berleen's? It couldn't be someone from Garner could it?

Who is Eva going with now? Can't anybody tell us?

Who was it that Herb took to the show Friday night? Was it Colleen, Herb? Let's hear more. Maybe this is a new couple around KHS.

What's this I hear about Joan and Gary taking a trip. Better watch it, Gary, there might be a little jealousy on someone's part.

So Terry has a pen-pal. It's a girl too, and I hear she's got it. I guess that's the reason he wants to go to Des Moines so bad.

I bet Fonda B. will be a hairdresser when she gets out of school. I heard she's already practicing—on Art Carlson. It seems he had a barrette in his hair Wednesday morning.

We smell that "Terry's friend" is here, but we are glad that his skunk doesn't really smell! !

Senior Interview

LaVurne Harvey Josten is the young man we are interviewing today. LaVurne was born near Klemme and has lived here all his short life of seventeen years. The birth date we set aside on our calendar is July 13, 1937. Ell No. 5 was LaVurne's first encounter with school. He went to Ell No. 5, about a quarter mile from his home, for seven years, then he came to Klemme.

Movies, skating, T V, and dancing are some of his favorite pastimes. LaVurne has rather an unusual hobby for a boy. It is cooking. Oh, well, he won't starve. Clark Gable and June Allyson are his favorites in the movie field. As for eating, he has no special dish, but he does say that he doesn't like any kind of meat.

"Drink, Drink, Drink", a song hit from "The Student Prince", is his favorite song. After long thought LaVurne decided that the "Glenn Miller Story" was his favorite movie. The music of Ralph Flander's Band seems to enlighten him the most.

LaVurne's pet peeve is aimed at the fair sex, because it is, "Women that talk too long on the telephone". Volleyball, football, and fishing are LaVurne's favorite sports. To own his own dairy farm is his only future plan.

This week's senior, and also my partner in crime, Cecil Eugene Jacobs, was born December 12, 1937, at Klemme, Iowa. Cecil attended Ell No. 7 before coming to our good old Klemme Grade and High School. "Jake's" favorite pastimes include watching T V and reading war stories.

His hobby is collecting wine bottles. (I presume they are empty when he gets them.) Cecil's favorite actor is the English actor Stewart Granger. His favorite actress is Grace Kelly. Cecil's favorite movie was "Sands of Iwo Jima".

I forgot to mention eating as one of Cecil's favorite pastimes; when it comes to that sport, he'll take a good, good shrimp dinner any day. When it comes to favorite songs, "Jake" likes Julius LaRosa's "Mobile". His favorite band is the Dorsey Brothers. Cecil listed his pet peeve as quote: "Guys that drive Goop Boats."

Now for the benefit of you readers that don't understand hot-rod terms, that simply means a Jerk that drives a car with a lot of "Junk" on it, and drives it carelessly, besides. Cecil's favorite sports are hunting, basketball, and baseball. After high school, Cecil plans to take engineering in college.

Sophomore News

In algebra class, Mr Andreae has been trying to teach us factoring of trinominal and complete factoring.

One of the students remarked it was just like trying to pound it into a telephone pole and I am sure Mr Andreae agrees.

History class has brought us to the 19th century and the unification of Germany and Italy. Our instructor, Mr Smith, has been kind enough to let us outline the entire chapter!

The poem "Gareth and Lynette" by Alfred Lord Tennyson has filled our time in literature class. It has been rather difficult to understand but I hope the knowledge is widening.

Biology class has been filled with the knowledge and discussion of our responses and instincts. I am sure our interest will be tested today by a "short quiz".

Hairpins & Tennis Shoes

The past week we have been square dancing. What Fun! We have first been learning the vocabulary and terms of the different dances and then practicing them. Here are some of the terms:

1. Allemande Left—Gent turns to his corner lady (lady to his left) takes her left hand and both circle once around.

2. Allemande Right—Gent passes behind his partner and takes hand of the lady on the right, both circle once around and return to original position.

3. Grand right and left—Gent faces his partner and takes her right hand. Partners walk past each other and offer left hand to next person, right to next, and so on until partners meet again. Gents move in a counterclockwise direction, ladies move clockwise.

4. Balance—Couple face each other; each take 2 steps backward and 2 steps forward. A dip may be added on the second step backward.

5. Home—Original position in the formation.

6. Promenade—To walk with partner; lady on gents' right; hands joined in front, walk in counterclockwise direction around the set.

7. Dos-a-dos—Lady and gent advance toward each other passing right shoulders, then pass back to back and return, walking backward to original positions.

8. Head of the hall—Where music or caller is.

9. Head couple—Couple nearest the head of the hall.

We have learned some complete dances such as the Virginia Reel, Take a Little Peek, Glowworm, Old Arkansas, Old Suzanna, and the Hokey Pokey. We first did these songs by our own singing, and then graduated to phonograph records which are much faster.

I Ask You Now

What would you do if you received a mephitis in the mail?

Mr Hiller: It's a disease and I'd probably contact it.
Dick D.: I'd send it back.
Cecil J.: I'd give it to Mr Hiller.
Betty C.: I'd burn it.
Sandra M.: I'd sew it.
Barbara A.: I'd give it to Mr Smith to "pickle".
Miss Peterson: I'd put it in isolation.
Harriett A.: Take it to bed with me for a foot-warmer.
Carole M.: I'd bring it to school and have Miss Peterson teach it how to Mambo.
Denny H.: I'd put it in the refrigerator and freeze it.
P. S. It's a SKUNK! ! !

County Chorus Festival

The Hancock County Chorus Festival will be held at Crystal Lake Monday, February 14, at 8 o'clock. It promises a pleasant evening of songs, and the public is cordially invited.

The Klemme Community High School mixed chorus, 36 members, will participate. They have been working on the nine numbers that are to appear on the program which includes sacred, secular, folk and novelty numbers.

The chorus begins rehearsals at 1:15 p. m. and works with the guest director until about 4 o'clock. Then there will be some entertainment for the students after the last rehearsal until supper time.

The band mothers of Crystal Lake will prepare the meal for all visiting students for fifty or sixty cents.

First Grade News

We have all finished our first 1st grade book and have begun to read the second book "Our New Friends". We also have the new workbook to go with the new book.

We are busy learning our subtraction and addition number combinations. Some of us catch onto them very quickly.

Mrs Harvey Barkema and Mrs Merlin Neuberger visited our room recently. We were happy to have them visit.

Marolee Neuberger has returned her dental card. We now have 23 signed dental cards. Anita Gerardi had a birthday party for the boys and girls in her room. It was fun.

We're all anxiously awaiting the Valentine Party that we will have on the 14th.

Second Grade News

The Fairy reading group has finished reading their basic reader and are now reading "What Next". We are looking forward to reading our second basic reader "The More New Friends and Neighbors".

In arithmetic we are developing an understanding of the relation between the idea of ten and the ideas of eleven through nineteen. We think it is fun working with the ten numbers.

Connie Kuhbers and LeAllyn Josten celebrated their birthdays recently. Each gave treats to the boys and girls.

We plan to have our Valentine Party Monday.

Friday for art we did some finger painting. We hope to do it again sometime.

Important News For Wool Producers

News of great importance to wool producers of Hancock county was announced this week by Alfred V. Josten, office manager of the county ASC.

First of all, he said, wool producers desiring to benefit from the National Wool Act of 1954 should thoroughly understand that to be eligible for the new incentive payments the wool must have been sheared after January 1, 1955, and marketed beginning April 1, 1955.

Wool producers who shear between January 1, and April 1, 1955, and who want the wool to be eligible for the wool payments provided under the National Wool Act of 1954 must retain ownership of the wool until after April 1. Wool sheared during the January-March period may be stored in a commercial wool warehouse or consigned for future sale but the owner must retain title during the period if the wool is to be eligible.

Under the National Wool Act of 1954 the secretary of agriculture has announced an inculture price of 62 cents per pound for shorn wool, grease basis, for the 1955 marketing year. If the national average price received by all producers of wool falls below the incentive price, payments will be made to producers.

Payments made to producers will be based on the percentage needed to bring the national average price received by producers up to the incentive level, and that percentage will be used in calculating the payment to be received by each grower for his wool. For example, if the incentive price is 20 percent above the national average price each producer's incentive payment would amount to 20 percent of the net sales proceeds he secured for his wool.

The method of determining any payment made means that each producer should sell his wool for the best possible price because his incentive payment will be a percentage of the net amount he obtains in selling his wool.

Further details of eligibility and other requirements will be announced later. Payments cannot be made until after the marketing year when the national average price can be determined.

Shamrocks Down Crystal Lake 90 to 65; Lose to Hayfield

The Klemme Shamrocks trailed by two points, 35 to 33 at the half in a game with Crystal Lake night, but they roared back on the local floor last Wednesday strong in the second half to win by a score of 90 to 65.

They held a 62 to 52 lead at the lead at the end of the third period and then in the last four minutes of the game went on a 20-point rampage.

Haefner was the big gun for the night wiht 29 points, while Kramer who played on an injured foot and was in the game only about a half, dumped in 24. Thiemann had 21. Austin scored best for Crystal Lake with 20.

Friday night at Hayfield the game went the other way. The Shamrocks were behind 31 to 19 at the half and with only five minutes left in the game were final five minutes they gave a behind 31 points, 63 to 32. In that good account of themselves, outscoring the Raiders 20 to 3, but to no avail. Final score was 68 to 52 in favor of Hayfield.

No one scored particularly heavy for the Shamrocks, but nearly everyone broke into the scoring column. The Hayfield scoring was evenly divided, too, with Lackore being the big gun with 15 points.

The Little Shamrocks kept their victory string going by downing Crystal Lake' reserves 37 to 34, and edging past the Hayfield reserves 45 to 42. The scoring in the Crystal Lake game was evenly divided with no one of the Little Shamrocks making more than 7 points, but in the Hayfield game Neuberger and Bachman handled a good share of the scoring with 16 and 12 points, respectively.

Hayfield has beaten the Shamrocks twice this year, and next Tuesday in the final scheduled game of the season the locals will be trying to get even when Hayfield comes here for a doubleheader.

DON'T Let your hogs take a back seat to anyone!

Good hog raisers know that "tail-enders" don't make money. It's those fast growing hogs that reach market weight first that make money.

You can put all of your hogs up front in the race for those early markets with the FELCO feeding program. There's a FELCO feed for every stage in a hog's growth toward market.

1. Start your pigs on FELCO Sweet Creep.
2. At two weeks, shift to FELCO Pig Starter.
3. After weaning, put them on FELCO Dry Lot Supplement, or FELCO Hog Balancer if they're on good pasture.

Third Grade News

We have been very busy since the last time you heard from us. In social studies we have been learning about vegetables. It was fun to learn what we eat of the different vegetables. We are going to finish our bulletin board on vegetables this week.

In arithmetic we learned how to carry. We enjoyed learning new things in arithmetic.

We worked in groups on our bulletin board. Each group made a picture for each of the day's we like to remember in February. We think we have a very nice bulletin board.

Kindergarten News

We have changed our kindergarten house into a grocery store now, and are busy bringing things to put in it. We already have lots of things to "sell" for p y money which we made ourselves.

We have decorated our room with the Valentines we made, and are planning our Valentine Party.

It is fun to paint on the easel which we have in our room. We like to make pretty, bright-colored pictures.

Jokes

Daughter: "Father, why was Adam made firsa?"

Father: "To give him a chance to say a few words."

An old gentleman was fussing around in the dark on the floor of a nearby theater. Finally a lady asked him what he had lost.

"A chocolate carmel," replied the gentleman,

"All the fuss over a piece of candy?" said the lady in a disgusted voice.

"Yes,' said the old gentleman, "My teeth are in it."

Salesman: "I say, sonny, is your mother at home?"

Small boy: "Yes, sir."

Salesman: (After knocking in vain.) "I thought you said she was home."

"Small boy: "Yes, sir, but I don't live here."

Notes About Notes

What has happened to the spirit of mixed chorus? I feel we could do a lot better. This means the boys especially. We have to get on the ball if we are to make a good showing at Crystal Lake.

Freshman News

In science we have seen a couple of movies this past week. We have completed a chapter on "Travel on Land" and are going to have a test over it.

In math it has been learning how to find the volume of a right circular cylinder of sphere, of right circular cone, and square pyramids. We are going to have a test over these to see what we have learned.

The girls have been discussing relationships between themselves and their parents; and discussing dating manners. We have now started cutting out our skirts and some have started sewing.

It is mostly the same thing in shop, meaning squaring up boards and erecting our projects. Harlen B., Larry H., and Raymond H. have completed table lamps. Richard M. has finished a slicing board. Douglas R. is putting the finishing touches on a lawn chair. Roger O., Larry V., and Gordon J. are working on bookcases. Paul G. is constructing a typewriter desk and Howard A. is making a magazine rack. Charles G. is putting a finish on his end table. We are all kept busy in shop.

We are trying to avoid faulty expressions in English. Other lessons we had our word building and review and we are going to have a test.

140 Boy Scouts were honored in one year by their National Court of Honor for saving or trying to save life.

Spearing Season Now Closed on Rough Fish

Fishermen have been reminded by the Conservation Commission that the Iowa rough fish spearing season is now closed, and that fish spearing is unlawful in most inland waters of the state.

The 1954 rough fish spearing season ended October 31, although some Iowa waters are always open to spearing.

Waters with a continuous open spearing season are the overflow waters of the Mississippi River, the Cedar and Iowa rivers in Muscatine and Louisa counties, and the Winnebago river in Worth and Cerro Gordo counties. Only rough fish may be speared at any time, and no game fish may be taken by spear or bow and arrow.

Iowa conservation officers report that some violators, apprehended while spearing in closed waters, said they "thought the season was open".

Last September, Boy Scouts distributed a million fire prevention posters.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

The spring lamb outlook is nearly the same as that of a year ago, according to Iowa State College Farm Economist Francis A. Kutish.

The bulk of lambs went off feed early this past fall. So supplies of lamb available for late winter and spring market will be down considerably from supplies sold in December and early January.

From a supply standpoint, continues the economist, the outlook thus indicates a pattern about the same as a year ago. However, lambs are also affected by the supply of beef.

By late winter or early spring we may have more fed beef than last year, predicts Kutish, but, in total, the outlook for lamb feeding for the late winter and early spring market is good.

In addition to the prices received for the lambs, this year, under the new price support program, lambs sold April 1 will have an incentive payment for pulled wool, continued the farm economist. This will add 40 to 50 cents per head to the returns received by feeders for lambs which they have owned for over 30 days.

This incentive payment will come as a windfall to lamb feeders this year says Kutish. Looking ahead to next fall, however, we probably can expect that the incentive payment will be bid into the price of lambs and thus work back to the rancher. But for this year, most of it will go to the man who feeds the lambs.

EGG OUTLOOK BETTER

Egg prices have moved upward from their December low. The price increase is about twice the level of a year ago.

Flocks were culled heavily during November and December, says Kutish—particularly by poultrymen on the East and West coast.

Total number of layers on farms on January 1 was only 1 percent ahead of a year ago.

Kutish expects the supply of eggs for consumption will increase in the next two or three months. Egg production will remain larger than last year through February, and about the same to slightly larger in the flush months of March and April. By late spring, production is expected to be smaller than a year earlier.

Thus concludes Kutish, by late spring prices should be equal or above the levels of last year. Fall prospects look better. The outlook points strongly to buying early hatched chicks this year.

Farmers Busy With Soil Conservation Plans During Winter

While winter's winds are blowing around the corners and the thermometer seems to have no bottom, it's a good time for farmers to be thinking about spring work and making plans for this year's operations. If you are a farmer you know that your farm is different from any other farm. In fact, any two fields on your own farm are not exactly alike. And, you don't run your farm in exactly the same way as anyone else.

In one way, however, you are probably like all other farmers—you continually make plans about how to run your farm. You may keep them in your head or put them on paper; but you do have a plan. You plan for crops, livestock, remodeling buildings, increasing yields, and hundreds of other details. When you make plans about how to conserve your land for the future while increasing its production now, you are doing conservation farm planning.

More than 200 farmers in Hancock County now have a written Conservation farm plan prepared through their Soil Conservation District. Another 100 have made a request for a Conservation Farm Plan. Each plan is especially made to fit a certain farm. It is designed not only to control erosion and provide drainage, but also to increase and maintain production on the farm.

If you would like help on some of your conservation problems you should contact the district governing body; Henry Swanson, S. A. Barber, or Ben Riemer; or stop at the Soil Conservation Service office located in the basement of the bank building in Garner. They will ask you to fill out an agreement, because the district furnishes help only to farmers who apply for it.

After the District Commissioners have approved your application, you will become a District Cooperator and eligible for help on any practice you feel is necessary. You will also be put on the schedule for a soil conservation survey of your farm, by a soil scientist of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. This soil conservation survey will show the type of soil, the percent of slope, and the amount of erosion. The soil conservation survey is like an inventory to show you the basic capabilities of each acre of your farm. During the time you are in the District Cooperative stage you will be furnished an aerial photo and soil conservation survey map of your farm and information on rotations and conservation practices which will fit your farm. You can study this information and ask the Soil Conservation Service Technicians for their advice and assistance. Vernon Moss is the Work Unit Conservationist or farm planner in Hancock County and Robert Read is his assistant.

When you feel you are ready to make decisions on the type of rotation you would like to use, the Conservationist will go over the farm with you. You tell him what kind of farming you want to do, what crops and livestock you want to use for your program. After going over the entire farm and discussing the problems with the farm planner you decide what crop rotations to use, what parctices to use and what fields to use them on. You plan how and when you can best install needed conservation practices. You figure out the best time to make any needed changes in field boundaries. In fact, you decide just when and how you will go about making all the changes and installing all the conservation measures. You figure about what it will cost you and what you will get out of it. Mr Moss can give you many good suggestions, but you must make the final decisions about what you want to do and when you want to do it.

After you have decided on all the details of your plan a copy of your rotation plan will be furnished to be included with the aerial photo and soil conservation survey of your farm. Your conservation plan should serve as a blue print for your farming operations for many years. Since it is written, you do not have to trust your memory. If changes in markets, prices, livestock program, or other conditions make it desirable to change the plan, the technicians will be glad to help you.

If you are interested in a plan and would like more information feel free to stop at the local office located in the basement of the bank in Garner.

$23,484,632.00 to Lighten Your Tax Load

The brewing industry is a BIG taxpayer in Iowa. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1954, these tremendous sums were paid:

- $11,520,283.50 — Federal Tax paid on beer sold in Iowa.
- $3,174,478.14 — Iowa Tax paid by Iowa wholesalers on beer sold.
- $1,289,871.00 — paid in license fees by tavern operators and wholesalers to local communities and the State.
- $7,500,000.00 — a conservative estimate of other State and Federal taxes paid by beer wholesalers and retailers.

It adds up to $23,484,632.00 in taxes paid by the brewing industry on beer sold in Iowa.

More Wealth To Boost Iowa Incomes

The brewing industry's contribution to Iowa's wealth and prosperity is shared by every Iowan. Millions of dollars invested in property and equipment provide tens of thousands of jobs for Iowa people. And of the quarter billion dollars worth of agricultural products purchased by the nation's brewers each year, Iowa farmers receive a giant share.

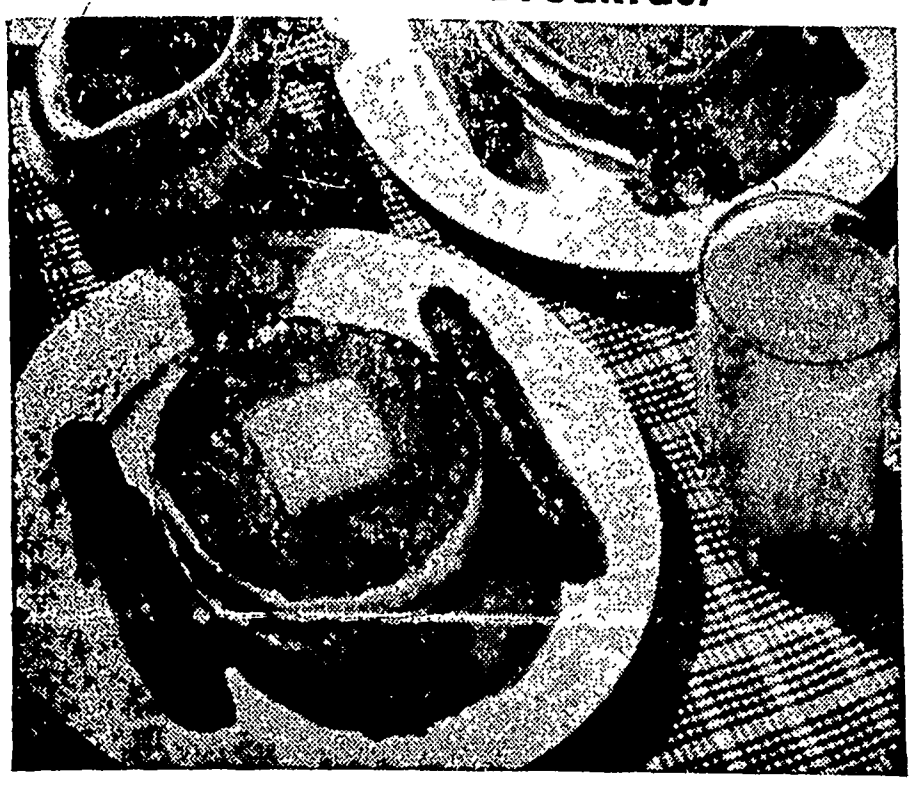
Start the Day Right—

Eat a Good Breakfast



Pancakes make good breakfast eating any time. but you might plan particularly to serve them on Shrove Tuesday, the day before Ash Wednesday, which is traditionally national pancake day.

What's breakfast like at your house? If that question makes you shudder maybe you'd better take stock of your family's breakfast eating habits, says Harriet Roberts, Iowa State College extension food and nutrition specialist.

With so many breakfast foods (like eggs and citrus fruits) plentiful and economical right now, this is a good time to emphasize breakfast.

If you or anyone in your family is guilty of eating a skimpy breakfast or skipping it entirely what's the reason?

Is it that they don't get up in time? That no breakfast is prepared for them? That they just aren't hungry in the morning, Or are they counting calories?

Balance reasons for not eating breakfast against reasons for eating breakfast and you'll find the latter outweigh the former. There are lots of reasons you should eat a good breakfast: You haven't eaten for about 12 hours (you wouldn't think of going that long without eating at any other time of day); any good breakfast will give you foods from four or five of the basic seven food groups; and foods you generally consider as breakfast foods are economical.

What's more, breakfast provides energy and other nutrients you need whether you need to gain, maintain or lose weight.

TIME SAVERS

If the breakfast problem in your family stems from lack of time in the morning you'll be interested in time-saving suggestions:

You might set the breakfast table before you go to bed. Some food preparations can even be made the night before. If you're going to serve pancakes, muffins, or waffles, you might mix the dry ingredients and measure the liquids (leave in the refrigerator over night). To save even more time, serve frozen waffles or pancakes. All you have to do is take them out of the freezer and heat in the toaster. Ready-mix foods, prepared cereals, frozen and canned friut juices and instant coffee are other time savers.

EGG DISHES

If your family turn up their noses at breakfast, saying they just aren't hungry that early in the morning, maybe some tempting new dishes would make them change their minds.

An eggnog topping served on perpared breakfast foods in place of milk is a little different. To make it, combine 1 beaten egg, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 cup milk and ¼ teaspoon vanilla.

If your youngsters life French toast but you'd like to vary it occasionally, try this recipe for Orange Toast Deluxe: Combine 2 beaten eggs with ¼ cup milk, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 tablespoon orange rind and a dash of salt. Dip 6 slices of bread in the mixture and brown in butter or margarine. Serve hot with honey, sirup or apple sauce.

Both these recipes use eggs, which are plentiful now, and milk, which is always a good nutritional buy.

Another way you might fix eggs is to bake them. It takes about 20 minutes, so you can set the table and prepare the rest of your breakfast while they bake. Put them in greased custard cups in a moderate oven. Add a tablespoon of milk, cream or tomato juice to each egg if you like.

CITRUS FRUITS

Oranges, grapefruit and tangerines are popular breakfast fruits abundant now. They are good served sliced, sectioned or a juice.

Broiled grapefruit is particularly good on a cold morning. Just halve the grapefruit, cut around sections, and place under the hot broiler (or in the oven, if you prefer) until it begins to brown. Add sugar if you like.

Allen Barz Tangled With Train Tuesday

Tuedsay morning as he was leaving Klemme to go to his office in Garner, Allen Barz had the misfortune to tangle with the Rock Island train at he west edge of town.

Barz, who was travelling west in his car, failed to hear the train, and the first that he knew he was in danger was when the train loomed up from behind the elevator.

Given dry pavement, he might have stopped in time to avoid hitting the train, but with the ice and frost conditions that prevailed Tuesday morning, he didn't have a chance. He slid about twenty feet and struck the side of the engine.

The impact smashed up the front of his car to a considerable degree, and although Barz was thrown forward against the steering wheel with sufficient force to bend the steering column, still he received no broken or cracked bones. His only injury was a bruised and sore chest.

Allen has taken considerable razzing for trying to "whip" a train with his Ford, but he feels so lucky not to have been seriously hurt, that he is not minding the razzing at all.

Shamrocks Fail In Sectional Tourney

In the finals of the sectional tournament at Garner last Thursday night, the Shamrocks came out on the short end of 63 to 57 score, ending their chances of going on to district play.

The Shamrocks controlled the game during the first half, at one time leading by 14 points. By halftime, though, their lead was cut to 7 points and the period ended with the score at 37 to 30.

Thornton came back strong in the second half and by the end of the third quarter they led by a score of 48 to 45. The last quarter was a see-saw until the final minute, when Thornton drew away to gain their 7 point victory margin.

Haefner led the attack for the Shamrocks with 21 points, while Kramer had 17. Nelson led the Thorton attack with 20.

In the Class A division of the Garner sectional, the final game between Belmond and Garner was a thriller all the way, with the outcome in doubt until the final minute of the game. Belmond finally won out by a score of 65 to 63 and will advance to district play at Mason City, where their first opponent will be Osage. The winner of this game will meet the winner of a game between Holy Family and Lake Mills to decide who will go the sub-state in Class A.

Thornton will meet Fertile in the first round of the district at Fertile and the winner of this game will play the winner of a game between Hayfield and Rake to see which of the four B teams will advance to sub-state play.

Riehm Has 7 Bills Out of Committee

Will Lead Discussion Before Legislators Vote on Bills

The week beginning February 7th, opened with the repeal of a blue law, relating to breaches of the Sabbath Day, which was enacted in 1855. The law has never been enforced and is a relic of the puritanic days. The law actually made it a crime to do almost anything on Sunday. Laws should be enforced, and if not they should be repealed. The obligation of the peace officers is to enforce all laws, not just part of them.

Another bill was passed by the House, prohibiting the sale of beer on the four legal holidays: Christmas, Memorial Day, Armistice Day, and Thanksgiving Day.

An interesting situation has developed in the House, Wade H McReynolds, elected to serve as State Representative from Ottumwa, has been sick and unable to attend any session to date. The Representative who was elected two years ago, has announced he

Those of you read Allen Barz's contribution to the "Letters to the Editor" deparment of The Times last week will recall his having written about parka hoods and how he felt that they limit vision. He swears up and down that he wasn't wearing one Tuesday morning when he hit the train.

In all seriousness, the crossing is a rather dangerous one. When you approach it from the east, you are absolutely blind insofar as a train coming from the south is concerned. We have often wondered what kept people from getting into more accidents there, and we are sure that everyone would be quite agreeable to the installation of some sort of a warning signal.

The change in command in Russia has brought forth considerable mixed comment on what will be the intentions of the "powers that be" in that country. Some predict dire things from the new regime, while others see a chance for some agreement with the communists. We rather expect that pretty much the same group of crooked tongues will be doing the clattering, and that regardless of what they say or do on the outside, on the inside they will still be at work plotting and planning for the eventual communstic conquest of the entire world.

We don't like to wish anyone bad luck, but until they wise up and decide to live and let live, we hope that all their plotting back fires on them and that all the plans of their "big guns" prove to be duds.

The situation in the Formosa area has taken on some "powder keg" aspects, but so far the Chinese Reds have not seen fit to tangle with the might of the U. S. 7th Fleet and its available air might. We are still glad that President Eisenhower and the Congress saw fit to draw the line in that part of the world.

The legislators haven't yet decided on what they are going to levy to raise more taxes with which to finance the workings of our state government, but we are willing to wager that they will find a place to make the increase.

With a $9 million dollar deficit already staring us in the face, it's quite apparent that either more money is going to have to be raised . . . or else there are going to have to be some drastic cuts in state expendiures.

No doubt there are plenty of places where state expenses could be cut down, and almost everyone is in favor of the idea . . . until the cuts start taking place on some "pet" project. When that happens, the cry is long and loud.

Consequently, unless some new and painless method can be found whereby the state can raise the extra money it needs, it appears to us that there are going to be either some new taxes or some increased levies on the ones we already have . . . and maybe both.

Guess we'll just have to grin and bear it.

We hope, though, that if there is an increase in the gasoline tax, the money will be put to the use for which it is intended. We don't believe that anyone would mind paying a little more for their gas, if they could see that they were getting better highways for their money.

Don't forget that there is a school election coming up on March 14th. Now is the time to get nomination papers in order for your favorite candidate for the board. There are two directors to be elected and each will serve for three years so it behooves you to pick good men. Nomination papers can be had from the secretary of the board or at the First National Bank. They must be turned in to the secretary not later than March 4th. If you've got a candidate in mind, better get at it.

We know it is only a few days ago that the thermometer was hovering down between ten and twenty below, but a few more balmy days like the last two and we will be seriously considering getting out the golf clubs and cleaning them up, preparatory to the coming of spring.

We don't know how many of you have parakeets or how many of you put out feed for the birds during the winter, but Dad and Mother have a feeder built right into the window in the breakfast nook. All they have to do is open the window to put in feed and the chickadees and nut hatches really enjoy it.

Recently a couple of squirrels have shown considerable interest in the feeder, so Dad built a shelf above the bird feeder and fastened a couple of ears of corn to it. The squirrels sit on the shelf and eat and one of them will even try to sniff at your hand through the window.

The folks have a yellow parakeet that is a regular busybody, and the other day when the more venturesome of the two squirrels was at the window eating, we got the parakeet on a stick and held him up to the window by the squirrel. The squirrel took one look at the parakeet and went back to his corn. Not so, the parakeet. He jumped up and down, flew against the glass, and called that squirrel everything he could think of. It's a good thing that he hasn't learned how to talk like humans do, because the way he was laying it on that squirrel we think he had some very uncomplimentary things in mind . . . might even have been unprintable.

Did you hear about the drunk who bet the bartender that he could name all the ingredients in any drink that he mixed? The bartender fooled him. He gave him a glass of water. The drunk sampled it, made an awful face, and said, "You win! I don't know what it is, but it won't sell."

is willing to serve, on the basis that his term was for two years or until his successor 'McReynolds) is duly qualified by taking his oath of office. The ruling has been that McReynolds must appear in the House to be sworn in. Now an oath of office signed by McReynolds at Ottumwa before another State Representative has been filed. The result to date is that the Committee on Credentials has been given the job of determining who is entitled to be seated in the House.

The unpaid personal property taxes has become a serious problem in the State of Iowa. $1,432,674.36 was the amount of unpaid delinquent personal property taxes as of December 31, 1953. Polk County had $150,802.90, Cerro Gordo County had $24,421.71, Winnebago had $8,942.72, and Hancock County had $3,735.43 unpaid personal taxes on said date..

It is interesting to note that Hancock County had the least amount of unpaid delinquent personal taxes of all the counties in the State of Iowa. This is a compliment to our County Treasurer, for his attention to duties.

Really have been busy, had a pulic hearing on House File 41 which relates to the inventory valuation method of stocks of merchandise. Some of the merchants of Hancock County attended the hearing. After listening to all arguments for and all arguments against, I heard one merchant comment that it would be a big job to decide whether to vote "yes or "no" on the bill.

It is a big question since the bill if passed will benefit some and hurt some. I have received letters for the bill and letters against the bill and many business men have talked for it and against it. The question must be solved by deciding whether the bill is fair and equitable and will be to the benefit of the majority of those affected by the bill, and this will be the basis for my decision when the bill comes up for debate and passage.

Many many committee meettings are held studying bills, the bills introduced must be studied to see what they are dealing with.

A bill was introduced requiring drivers training in all high schools. A debate developed which was very spirited. The purposes and objectives of this bill were good. However, this bill involved the principals of whether we subscribe to State Control against Local Control; also on the basis of State dictation without an appropriation; also, o drive upon the highway is a privilege which the legislature has said the Dep't of Public Safety shall be in charge of.

If a need does exist that more training is necessary, then the Dep't of Public Safety should be authorized to conduct or sponsor such drivers training as is necessary before a driver's license is issued.

Drivers training is given today by many schools, this is local control and direction. The bill was killed.

This past week I have had to spend considerable time explaining to committee members the objects and purposes of the various bills I have introduced correcting some of the present school laws to give the State of Iowa some better school laws.

I am happy to report that all seven school bills have been reported out of committees and will be coming up for passage on the floor of the House and at that time as the author of the bills, I will have to lead the discussion and debate thereon and try to explain all objections to them (and there are always some objections).

I have received many letters over the State of Iowa from various men who have been dealing with the present school laws, stating that they are happy to see an attempt being made to correct some of the technical difficulties in the school laws.

CAPITOL LETTER

TYPE OF SURFACE

In recent years there has been considerable argument over the type of surfacing most suitable for primary road construction not only in Iowa but other states. It's the old struggle between asphaltic "black top" surface and concrete paving.

This issue apparently has now been injected into the controversy between the Iowa senate and Gov. Leo Hoegh's recommendations to the state highway commission.

Reliable reports have brought out that L. L. Caffrey, Cresco Democrat, was turned down by the Iowa senate which must confirm many gubernatorial appointments, because he is too closely associated with a "black top" contractor.

Then, Russell Lundy, Hoegh's campaign manager and another of four Hoegh appointments to the highway board, denied in a letter to a state senator that he is interested or holds stock in a company selling asphaltic surface material.

Most senators feel that highway commissioners should be neutral on the issue of highway surfacing and should always be able to act on such matters for the best interests of the state.

TRADING STAMPS

Iowans haven't heard the last on trading stamps.

They hit the headlines when Gov. Leo Hoegh was serving as Iowa's attorney general. He brought an injunction to prevent trading stamp operations but was unsuccessful.

Now a measure is on file in the state legislature that would impose an annual license fee of $4,000 to $7,000 a year on Iowa stores and shops using the stamps. The bill also calls for the same graduated fee to be paid by the stamp company in every county where it operates.

At Monticello a group of half dozen business firms bought newspaper space to tell their trading public that the firms, after a 90 day period, were going to stop the trading stamp plan.

ONE IN, ONE TO GO

The state legislature is almost working at full strength.

The other day a new legislator, John Carlsen of Clinton, was sworn in as a state representative. He was picked in a special election to succeed William Judd who died in the early days of the session.

Carlsen is a Democrat, Judd was a Republican.

But there is still one more to go. Wade McReynolds, Ottumwa Democrat, was still to take his oath as a member of the house, after the first month. He hadn't been sworn in because of illness.

A Republican from the last session, Otto Armstrong of Ottumwa, appeared on the scene to serve until McReynolds showed up, but the Democrats objected.

SOLID VOTE

The warring Iowa commerce commission, all three members, were called in for a conference with Gov. Leo Hoegh.

Thirty-five minutes later the commissioners, whose disputes prompted a senate bill making their jobs appointive rather than elective, walked out of the governors office.

"Any statements will have to come from the governor," the commissioners told waiting newsmen.

Said the governor:

"We have all decided that this (internal friction in the commission) is something we can work out ourselves. The commission has decided to work in harmony and as a family to get the best (efficiency) for the least money."

Reporters asked the governor if all commissioners were in accord. He said yes and was then reminded this was the first time the three had agreed unanimously on any subject in months.

GOP BEHIND

One elective state official made this comment after Atty. Gen. Dayton Countryman, who took over his duties in December, ruled that private clubs couldn't keep liquor where beer is sold, or that liquor couldn't be kept in private lockers where beer is sold:

"It will take the Republican party months and months to overcome the harm he has done by that decision."

Another official said:

"Countryman's opinion means that Robert Larson (now a supreme court justice) and Leo Hoegh, (now governor) apparently didn't interpret the law correctly when each served as attorney general."

PROTESTS TAX

The proposed axle mile tax bill filed in the Iowa house is being opposed by Iowa trucking interests through the Iowa Motor Truck Association. They call it "basically unfair".

The bill would levy a tax of one-half cent a mile on trucks with three axles and up to two and a half cents a mile on combination vehicles with six or more axles.

The house measure, it is estimated, would produce more than $6-million dollars revenue for the state annually.

DELAY PAIN

Iowans will get a month longer in which to file their state income tax returns this year.

The senate and house have concurred in a bill that will extend the state income tax filing deadline to April 30 from March 31.

The measure, which will be effective for returns to be filed this year, is in line with the delay from March 15 to April 15 for filing of federal income tax returns.

A house amendment, tabbed on the measure, needed concurrence before the bill was scheduled to go to the governor for signature.

NO HOLIDAY SALES

No beer will be sold on holidays in the state if a house measure obtains approval in the state senate.

Known as the "Stuart bill" such a proposal passed the house on an 88 to 9 vote. It would prohibit the sale or delivery of beer on Christmas, Thanksgiving, Memorial Day or November 11 now called Veterans Day.

The bill was filed at the request of Stuart citizens after a town marshall was fatally injured in a Christmas night fracas with men who had reportedly been drinking beer in a tavern.

NO EASY MATTER

It's no easy task to prepare a state budget.

The one Gov. Leo Hoegh just presented to the legislature, and the state in general, took lots of work and thought.

Hoegh estimated he alone put in over 200 hours in study on the budget before he made his proposals. He talked with all state departments on their budget matters and met three times with the state legislative budget and financial control committee, something no other Iowa governor has done though the committee was set up for that purpose.

Further, the state comptroller's staff has been working since a year ago, in September to complete the budget this month. Extra employees had to be added to get the work completed in time.

Camping Equipment valued at $51,000 was contributed by members of the Boy Scouts of America to fellow Scouts in South Korea in a "good turn" project.

Are you superstitious? Do you have a lucky number? If you don't, you're out of luck. There is a choice of numbers from 1 to 1 "vigintillion" (63 zeros); thus, there are plenty of choices to choose from.

It seems that a number in the forties should be suitable for many Klemmians. You see, we are located in Iowa forty-first county (numbered alphabetically), and we're located right on the forty-third parallel. Of course, many of the people in their forties might not think a number in he forties to be very lucky. But we in K H S aren't that old, at least I hope not.

Speaking of the forty-third parallel, if we go approximately 160 degrees west along it, we would land in Mongolia. It's not only cold there but communistic. Thus, we should be glad that we live on this part of the forty-third parallel.

Hairpins & Tennis Shoes

The past week we have been learning e few dance steps, different types of waltzs and 2 different types of polkas. Thus, I'm going to make a little poll on our latest activities.

1. Do you enjoy the rythmic activities, or would you rather discontinue it now and start something new?

Blanhe S: I like the dancing best, since before I did not know how. I think it's lots of fun and can be useful for entertainment and health purposes.

Marvalyn: Yes, I enjoy the rhythmic activities very much.

Darlene E: I think it's really in the groove.

Audrey L: I didn't know it before, and I like it.

2. Is there some particular type of activity you would like to learn?

Carol B: I think archery would be a lot of fun.

Juda Stahl: We're learning it right now, for it's dancing.

Harriett: I'd like to learn to swim, but as long as they can't make it possible, I'll settle for dancing.

Carole M: Learn to Mambo.

3. What do you think of our physical education uniforms?

Shirley Barz: It looks nice when everyone is dressed alike, but it's very confusing.

Coleen G: I think they look very neat and orderly when everyone is dressed alike.

MarleneW: I think it's unnecessary to have the expense of uniforms if the girl already has a nice sports outfit in a solid color.

How are Anita K and Maynard W managing since some people know about their little romance? (Don't tell anyone.)

Read all about it!!! Herbert G and Colleen G are keeping company.

What about Fonda B and certain boys? (3 to be exact.)

How do Karen C and Roger B and Gene W and Janice S ever manage to stay together?

What heppened to Lois H Sunday night?

Tom Waddingham's green Plymouth has been seen with another occupant these last few noons! Maybe the ring on Jo-Ellen's finger will explain things.

Just who is Dorothy K going with? Are you playin the field or going with Martin B.?

Is it true that Margarite Keeper and Gene W will be going down the aisle in the future? It happened that way in someone's dream.

Say! I hear Carole M and Harriett drew quite an attraction at the ball game Monday night. It seems that it didn't work so well for Marlene B though, did it, huh? I hear the attraction left about that time.

Marlene W was at the game Monday night with Donald A. How long has this romance been going on?

I wonder if Blanche and Chuck have broken up. I have heard he hasn't been down in centuries.

Say Roger O who was the girl that Raymond wanted you to go with the other night?

Who does Elaine J like now? We wonder.

This is quite a romance going on between Margaret and Ray. I hear he is meeting her in Klemme after the game Thurs. night, or is this someone else. By the way who is the person meeting Shirley B? What happened to Noel, Shirley?

I hear Jo Ellen is now sporting Tom's ring, but it was only a few days ago that I saw her with Harlan A. I wonder how Tom is taking that.

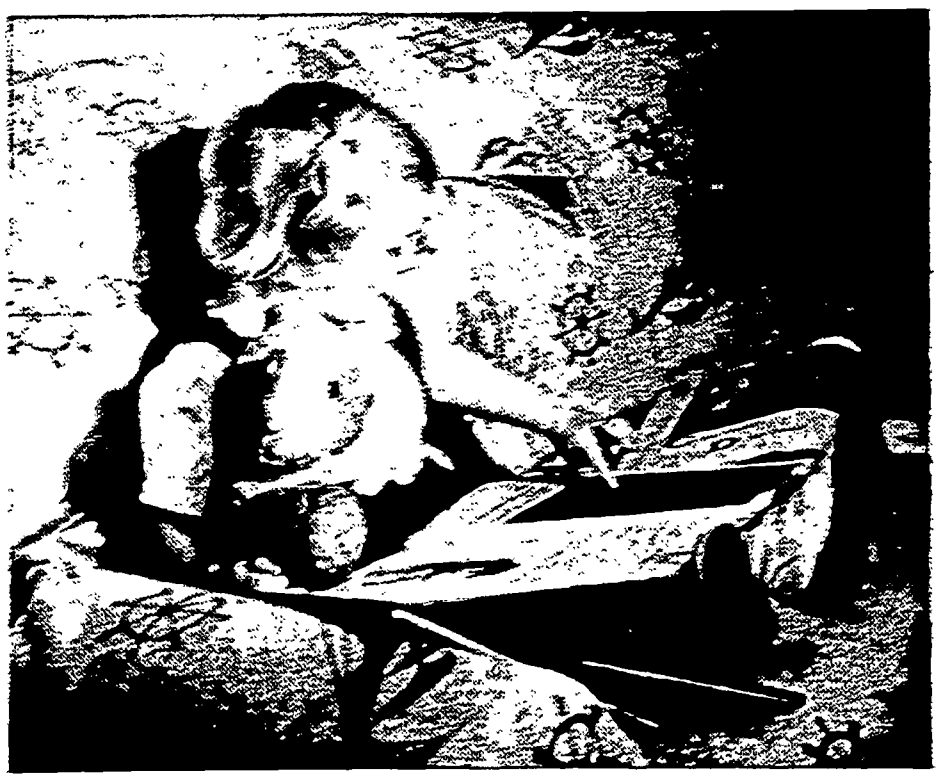
When Your Child's Sick—

Give Him Simple Toys



A stuffed animal for every child and a picture book to look at are always popular with children, and even more so when they're ill or convalescing and can't be very active.

Toys are as important if your child when he's ill or convalescing as they are when he's healthy and can play actively outside and in fact a child who is used with play activity gets along faster than one who isn't.

But toys for sick or convalescing child should be somewhat different from those he plays with when he's well.

Spending a little extra time in choosing toys for your youngster to play with when he's sick or recovering from an illness will pay you dividends. For the thing something to do will keep his mind off himself and his illness. For instance if he's interested in watching as much of it as he can from his window.

Dena Mickelson, Iowa State College extension specialist in child development and family living, says it's important to give sick toys for play that require little energy. They must be toys the child can play with quietly while he has to stay indoors or in bed.

FAVORITE TOYS

No matter the age of your child and no matter how ill he is, will make a difference in the toys you select for him. But Dena Mickelson tells below is a number of general favorites for children of different ages.

A child gets lonesome when he has to stay away from his playmates so dolls and stuffed animals that give companionship are good playthings for him when he's confined indoors.

One way to do this is to give him a new doll every morning or

And part of his life is behind him in the old records of companies where he worked. And part of his life is behind him in boxes and drawers in letters that he wrote home mentioning the weather, in letters that he wrote to the girl he finally married.

Then there are the snapshots some creased and cracked. Pictures of the kids when they were babies. Pictures of the wife when she was short skirts because it was the style. Pictures of himself when he wore a sailor straw.

And just behind him, just an hour behind him, is the home with the bed he slept in the night before with his wife in the kitchen making up the grocery list with the list he closed so carefully after he said goodby for the day.

In the office the little notes piling up on his desk for when he returns. "Mr. Thompson called—Call Farley Brothers—The shipment will be delayed—"

Everything he lived through and for is piling with him up that hill on the wrong side of the road. But now there's no more time. He'll see the point coming in a second and there's no more time at all.

every morning or two. Or a balloon tied to a string can be fun. Even a very small child will enjoy waving a balloon if you show it to him and tie it to the foot of the bed.

A toy telephone the child can use for pretend conversations will keep him occupied for a while as will modeling clay which he can use on a tray or a piece of plywood.

A simple puzzle, toy phone books and crayon books are fun for him to play with if they are about a subject he is interested in.

A pair of scissors and old magazines he can cut up can provide entertainment for a long period of time. Give the child some paste and a teacher's to put his cuttins in. Keep a scrapbook use in the bed post to catch cuttings.

GENERAL REMINDERS

Remember whatever toys you provide for your convalescing child should be easier for him to play with than those he enjoys when he's well.

Supply him with a variety of toys because he won't have a very long interest in any one thing. Choose toys that won't call for long-continued eye focusing because eye strain should be avoided.

Hang a shoe bag over the side of the bed for him to store small toys, scissors, crayons, and so forth.

Put a card table beside the bed for him to set toys on when he isn't playing with them. This will keep them from being scattered all over the floor.

Be sure the child has support for his back if he has to stay in bed. This will keep him comfortable and he won't get so tired.

You might plan a special box of toys to keep for a surprise when time begins to drag for him, as it will sooner or later.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Hurry! We have only seconds to review this man's life before it ends. He is pushing the car up to seventy miles an hour. He is pulling out to pass. The top of the hill is only yards away. There is very little time.

Somewhere, years and miles behind him, there is an old baseball mitt, once carefully oiled and pliant to the hand, but dry and stiff and lost in an attic.

That's all we can say about his boyhood. There's so little time.

And somewhere far up on a darkened wall in a high school building, his younger face stares out from all the faces of the class of 1922.

Now 250 Members In Hospital Auxiliary

Did you know that you are welcome to join the Auxiliary of the Hancock County Memorial Hospital? A total of 259 ladies now belong and the membership is open to everyone. There is, at some time, something very worthwhile that every member can do for the welfare and general good will of the hospital. This could be a small part for you in the community.

Two ladies make up a new committee for the Baby Picture Service-Mrs Mahlon Yaggy and Mrs Kenneth Boughton. A third will be available for this, also.

Mrs Thomas Cosgriff, chairman of the "Remembrance Fund," has received the beautiful new "Remembrance Book" given by the King's Daughters. In this is recorded permanently all names of those whose gifts are memorials. A table is being arranged for this so it may be available for you to examine.

Another very fine picture has been given to the hospital by Mr and Mrs Clifford Schaper. This Solomon's "Head of Christ."

An appropriate frame has been selected by Mrs Paul Wolford, chairman of the Picture Service, and now this beautiful painting can be seen as one approaches the inside stairway.

This Friday, February 18, at 2 p. m. the Auxiliary again meets at the hospital for business, program and tea. Ladies from Garner have planned for an instructive panel, including Hugh Roberts of the Credential Insurance Company of Mason City, and Mr Urbatch of Garner, stressing important types of insurance for women and children. Britt ladies will serve a February "Patriotic Tea." Everyone plan to attend and bring a guest. You will enjoy the Auxiliary once you have come.

Mrs Clifford Schaper, county vice chairman, is presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs Frank Senneff.

See you Friday! !

Study Stilbestrol Use for Calves

They Seem to Respond Much As Yearlings Have

Iowa cattlemen, interested in feeding stilbestrol to stimulate gains in their feeder cattle, are asking now about feeding this supplement to calves. A recent letter asks, "Have any experiments been made on calves from 400 to 500 pounds—baby beef size? If so, what are your recommendations?"

Here's how Rex Beresfoord, extension animal husbandman at Iowa State College, answers the questions:

NONE COMPLETED

"No experiments in feeding the stilbestrol supplements to calves have been completed at Iowa State College. We do have one under way. The first 2 months' figures indicate that the calves respond much as the yearlings have done. Evidence so far is that 5 milligrams with calves—perhaps more. How far into the feeding period this will be true we do not yet know.

"What happens from here on remains to be seen; but I would have no hesitancy about feeding 1 pound of the 5-milligram stilbestrol supplement for the first 3 or 4 months on feed and then perhaps increasing the amount to 2 pounds when the cattle weigh 650 to 700 pounds."

To another inquirer on the same subject, Beresford wrote:

"Present indications are that 1 pound per day of a 5-milligram stilbestrol supplement is right for starting calves on feed. They may need additional protein supplement, depending on the rest of the ration.

There are more Navy personnel serving in destroyer-type vessels than in any other category.

One of the outstanding features of a Navy destroyer is versatility. In the crew no man serves aboard for one job alone.

The destroyer is one of the Navy's oldest ship types. It has kept pace with modern developments since the 1870's.

The Navy's destroyers were originally designed to carry one specific weapon—the torpedo. Their primary mission now is anti-submarine warfare.

Public schools in Hancock County received $29,197.43 in State Aid for transporting pupils the school year 1953-54. There were 11 claims paid to public schools in Hancock County by a limited appropriation which meant that the claims had to be prorated.

Obituary of Mr. Emil Beier

By Arthur Wellemeyer

Emil George Beier was born on the night before Christmas, December 24, 1881, on a farm in Liberty Township, the seventh of a family of eight children born to William John and Louisa (Schlei) Beier.

He completed his early education in District No. 8 of Liberty Township and continued to learn, by observation and by reading the worthwhile books and papers which came to his desk throughout his lifetime.

He was a student of the Bible and in his early years embraced the Christian religion, becoming a member of the Liberty Methodist Church. He was helpful everywhere he went, always thinking of the welfare of others.

In the Liberty Church, he was superintendent of the Sunday School, president of the Epworth League, and a member of the church board. For many years, he taught a class of "teen age" boys in Sunday School. His work was outstanding and these boys, now grown to men, will never forget him.

He was thinking of others when he continued to operate the home farm after the death of his father in 1911. He took good care of his mother and his brother, Frederick, who later died in his home. He was sincere and true in his dealing with his fellow men.

On February 21, 1923, Emil G. Beier and Elizabeth Riemer were married at the parental Albert Riemer home in Garner, Iowa. During their life on the farm, they took into their home and hearts, two children from a troubled family: William and Gloria Utterback, who lived with them for five and two years, respectively.

Emil and Elizabeth Beier continued to farm the home place for twenty-one years, until in 1944, they moved to Klemme. Here he worked in the Swanson Hatchery for eight years. He drove a school bus for four years, and enjoyed this work very much because he liked children. And, of course, he helped with the church work in whatever way he could, and was a member of the Klemme Methodist Church board.

This poem was the theme of Emil's life:

Lord, help me to live from day to day,
In such a self-forgetful way,
That even when I kneel to pray,
My prayer shall be for others.

Help me in all the works I do,
To ever be sincere and true,
And know that all I'd do for you,
Must need be done for others.

Others, Lord, Yea, others,
This was his motto true,
Help us to live for others,
That we may live like You.

Emil G. Beier died quite suddenly on Friday, February 11, 1955, at the age of 73 years and two months. He leaves to mourn his passing: his wife, Elizabeth; three sisters, Mrs. Ida Ridder, Leland, Iowa, Mrs. William Kulper (Emma), and Miss Lydia Beier, Waterloo, Iowa, and many more distant relatives and friends.

Wisconsin Hunter Pays "Conscience Money"

Put away your lantern—an honest man has been found.

A Madison, Wisconsin hunter recently made a special Des Moines trip to visit the Conservation Commission offices and soothe his conscience.

It seems that in November, 1953, the man purchased a resident Iowa hunting license under the guise of being an Iowa citizen. His conscience bothered him. So last week he came to the Commission officials to pay the remaining $23.50 and make up the difference in the licenses fees.

Such payments are unusual but not rare, Commission officials say.

They once received a $10 bill from an Oregon woman, who wrote that during her Iowa childhood she once captured a baby quail during closed season. To make peace with herself she mailed in $10 for "unlawful possession of game"—35 years later!

Easter Seals Go Into Mails March 10; Aid Crippled Children

Crews of volunteer workers are answering the call to help crippled children throughout the state during the annual Easter Seal Campaign which opens March 10 and continues through Easter Sunday according to Don C Roe, Easter Seal sponsor for Hancock County.

Must Remove "Shanties" From Lake By Feb. 20

Ice fishermen must remove all fishing shelters from state-owned lakes on or before February 20, the Conservation Commission said today.

According to law, all structures and materials must be cleared from state-owned waters by that date, to prevent littering and the chance of serious boating and swimming accidents later in the spring.

Commission officals cautioned fishermen that the ice on some lakes is still very dangerous, in spite of recent cold snaps. Fishermen are urged to remove the shacks by hand, rather than chance driving on the ice. Several vehicles have broken through Spirit Lake ice this winter.

County Corn Allotment Announced For 1955

Hancock County's 1955 corn acreage allotment is 122,175 acres, or 9,165 acres more than for 1954, it was reported this week by Alfred V Josten, office manager of the Hancock County ASC.

Every county in Iowa will have a bigger allotment this year as a result of the State allotment being greater but the percentage of increase will not be the same for all counties, manager Josten said. The variance is due to the fact that each county's allotment is based on the average of its historical planted acreage in the five-year period, 1950 through 1954, in relation to similar figures for all counties in the state.

The state allotment for 1955 is 9,636,620, as compared with 9,063,929 for 1954.

Manager Josten said that computation of actual corn acreage allotments for individual farms of the county will be started immediately so that notices can be mailed out to farmers by the end of February.

As in 1954, only farmers who comply with the corn acreage allotments will be eligible for price support on corn produced this year. In addition, farmers must comply with their wheat allotment as well as their corn allotment to qualify for cost-sharing payment on conservation practices carried out in 1955.

In Hancock County last year, 51 percent of the farms and 52 percent of the cropland were in compliance with corn acreage allotments.

In the state as a whole, 43.4 percent of the farms and 45.2 percent of the cropland were in compliance to make Iowa's record one of the best in the nation for 1954.

Mr Josten expressed the belief that a higher percentage of compliance may result in Hancock County this year because of the higher allotments and the complaince requirements for price supports and conservation assistance.

Hancock County farmers shouldn't wait to get their social security cards. Robert W. Talbott of the Iowa State College farm economists staff, says there is too much to lose by not acting now.

Social security is not just an old-age pension program. Talbott says. It is also a complete plan of survivor insurance. That means your family probably could be kept together in case you suddenly died, says Talbott.

There are nine separate and distinct benefits to the program. Five of these are death benefits. They pay your descendants a monthly sum, either individually or as a family payment. At the time of death, there's also a lump sum payment to help with funeral expenses, Talbott explains. This insurance feature of social security is especially important to young farmers, he says.

The other four social security benefits are paid when you retire. There's your benefit, your wife's and two others to take care of your dependents. These are the better known provisions of the law, says Talbott.

This protection is cheap, he says. What you pay depends on two things—your age and income. However, no matter when you start paying, if you live to be 70 you can have it back in retirement income, Talbott asserts. For every year over 70, at present rates, it's money in your pocket, says Talbott.

To get such protection, you must be a farmer or you must work at a job included under the plan. You may be considered a farmer even if you live in town but own a partial interest in livestock and help manage it. says Talbott. Only a stock-share arrangement works in this way. Crop share and cash leases don't qualify a landlord as an eligible farmer under the social security program.

Atomic Energy Works For Health Improvement

The world of the future: cars with atomic engines, houses atomically heated. We think of things like this when people talk of the peaceful uses of the atom. But atomic energy is already at work for use in the laboratories of medical researchers seeking ever better ways to cure and prevent diseases.

Scientists have found that by "labeling" a substance they are studying with radioactive isotopes are by products of the manufacture of atomic energy and are allocated for research by the U S Atomic Energy Commission.

A group of investigators at the University of Chicago has been studying the action of isoniazid, a drug used in the treatment of tuberculosis. They first discovered that tuberculosis germs susceptible to the drug became radioactive when the drug was labeled with an isotope named Carbon 14, whereas resistant germs did not become radioactive. Now they are able to study just how isoniazid attacks the susceptible TB germs. With this information, doctor treating TB will know better how and when to use the drug to help TB patients.

This is only one of many medical research projects in which radioactive isotopes help the scientist to "see" things beyond power of any microscope yet invented. These test tube experiments may seem far removed from the problem of the tuberculosis patient lying in his hospital bed. But because of them, the doctor knows more about his disease, the germ that cauess it, and the means of curing it.

Then, my LIFE INSURANCE; (I now apppreciate its value)

Then, my car insurance; it's nice to have at a time like this.

Then, MY FAMILY; it was nice to stop in after it was all over and be able to see them again. (Had I been a second sooner, at the crossing, I might not have had that chance).

Then, to realize that some good could come of this experience; maybe a blinker or gate at the crossing before it's too late;

School Taxes Unjustly Blamed

We have heard several rural residents of the Klemme Community School District make the statement, "Boy, my taxes have sure gone up since we have this new school district."

On the face of it, it would appear that the new school district was a very expensive item. We don't think, though, that is quite the case. No doubt, in most instances the school levy for 1954 is a bit higher than it was in 1953, but only a bit.

To get the story straight, let us quote from a story on Hancock County taxes which appeared in the December 22, 1954 issue of The Times:

"Taxes generally will be higher in rural areas and lower in corporations, due in part to school reorganization and an attorney general's ruling that the two mill road levy, previously spread against all property in the county, cannot be levied against property in cities and towns controlling their own bridge levy.

The two mill levy for road maintenance was not levied on town proprty this year. Last year the two mill levy on town property added a total of $14,025 to the road fund. This shift in levy has caused an increase in road levies in rural areas.

Total road levies in 1954 are $378,092 as against $263,004 in 1953. An increase of $115,088, or 43.76%, and this increase falls on rural areas."

We feel that this quote explains a part of the tax raise and shows why it shouldn't all be attributed to the school reorganization. However, to add more weight to our argument, we would like to quote some figures taken from a tax sheet put out by the County Auditor's office. These show that people in Twin Lake Township in the Klemme district are paying less school tax for 1954 than in 1953, and that Ell Township-Klemme district took the biggest increase with a raise of a little more than five and one half mills.

Of course, taxpayers in the Klemme Corporation got quite a lightening of their tax load for school purposes, but they have ben under a heavy school tax burden for years in order that there might be a good school in Klemme . . . not only for the benefit of the town but for the benefit of the surrounding community as well.

Following are the figures for School and General County for the years 1953 and 1954:

	Liberty	Twin Lake	Avery	Ell	Klemme Corp..
1953
School	16.338	22.287	18.767	13.427	38.864
General County	15.694	15.591	16.026	15.865	23.405 (Corp.)
Total	32.032	37.878	34.793	29.292	62.269
1954
School	19.175	19.175	19.175	19.175	19.175
General County	21.110	20.757	21.300	21.033	25.417 (Corp.)
Total	40.285	39.932	40.475	40.208	44.592

Increase in road levy for maintenance, construction and clearing for 1954 over 1953 is 6.270 mills, while the highest increase in school millage is 5.748 for Ell. Thus, it can be seen that in no case does the new school district account for half the increase for the year 1954.

We know that any increase in taxes is no fun, but we don't think it fair to blame it all on the school.

Riehm Gives Dope On Dagmar Visit

Has Two Bills Passed by House

The inside story on Dagmar's visit:

The press agent for Dagmar with the assistance of the newspaper reporters succeeded in making a news story last Friday. With the photographers, and news reporters following her, Dagmar invaded the Governor' office, the Senate and then the House. She probably only took five minutes of our time, but during that short five minutes succeeded in kissing the speaker of the House and several of the Representatives along the aisle on her way out. Since I am seated in the northwest corner of the House chamber, I had a ringside seat in observing how news coverage is made with the cooperation of an entertainer. By kissing three or four representatives and losing five minutes of our time, Dagmar was able to furnsh the newspapers material for a very well read news item, not only for the people of Iowa, but elsewhere. Some of the people, last weekend, kidded me about this visit by Dagmar to the Capitol, but when I asked them what other bills were passed or introduced on this date, they could not answer.

The House of Representatives met Monday, February 14, pursuant to adjournment Frday, February 11. Aside from the usual routine of business before the house, the day was highlighted with a visit by Senator Bourke B Hickenlooper who addressed the Assembly. His remarks were primarily concerned with the situation prevailing among the Nationalist held islands off the coast of China and the importance of the stand that the people of the United States must take. He emphasized the importance of a firm stand, citing examples where just such a firm stand had repelled Communistic progress or threats of such progress. He also underlined the idea th.t our position as a world leader imposes upon our people the responsibility of such a stand and that we must be firm and united in such action.

As yet, afternoon sessions have not commenced for the House and the rest of the day was spent in the numerous committee meetings and in the business of preparing and amending pending legislation for its eventual presentation on the floor.

Probably one of the most popular items to come before the House on Tuesday was the discussion upon House Resolution 7, which arose from a survey made by the Bureau of Pubsity of Iowa on the cost of clerlic Affairs of the State Univerical help in other state legislatures. The resolution actually did nothing more than request that it be resolved that a committee of four members of the

Will Hold Panel Discussion on Cancer Here

Is First Time for Such a Meeting In North Iowa

The Farm Bureau Women of the southeast part of Hancock County are sponsoring a panel discussion on Cancer for men and women at the Klemme High Gym, March 10 at 8:00 P. M. The program will consist of a panel of three doctors, Mrs E. E Hunsley, Hancock County Cancer Chairman, and Hancock County Public Health Nurse, Helen Lemke, along with a moderator, one of the Farm Bureau Women.

This is the first time such a program has been offered in North Iowa on Cancer.

A film will be shown at this meeting, and questions will be answered by the panel. So that you might be thinking about questions you would like to ask we are listing the seven danger signals.

I. Any sore that does not heal.

2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.

3. Unusual bleeding or discharge.

4. Any change in a wart or mole.

5. Persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.

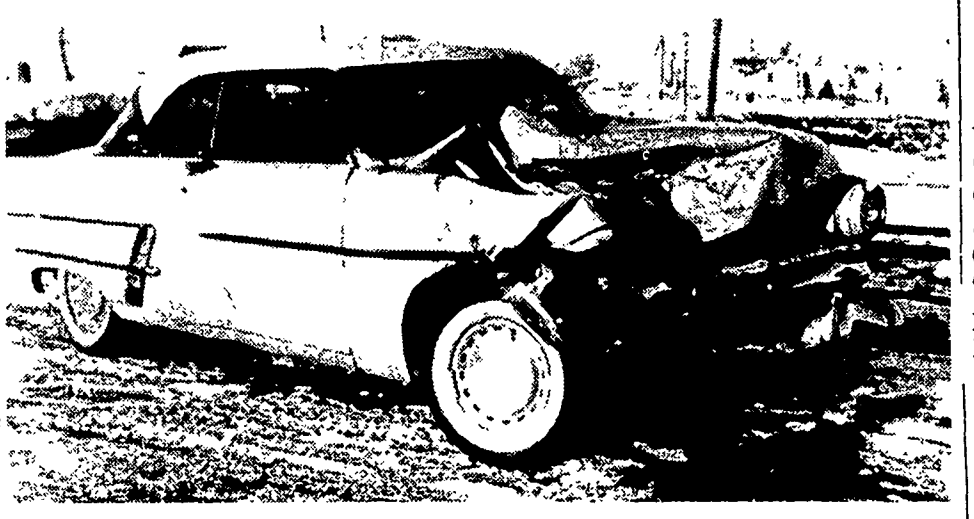
6. Persistent hoarsesness or cough.

7. Any change in normal bowel habits.

It is as important to realize that each of these so-called "danger signals" seldom means cancer. In fact, most often a "danger signal" warns of a relatively benign condition which should, however, receive a physician's attention.

Physicians throughout the United States endorse these suggestions. Careful statistical studies have proved that cancer, dicovered early and treated promptly can be cured. Every sensible person would be grateful, we believe, for the feeling of security achieved from his physician's report "no evidence of cancer". And it is every citizen's responsibility, both to himself his family and his community, to to give his physician every opportunity to achieve a cure—if cancer is found.

And The Train Won



This is the way Allen Barz's car looked last week after it had come out second best in an argument with the Rock Island train here in Klemme.

Icy Roads Bring Many Accidents

Two Local Drivers Involved But not Hurt

The Hancock County Sheriff's office and State Highway Patrol have received a number of calls to investigate highway accidents, most of them due to icy highways.

A 1953 Ford tudor driven by Merle E LeBohn of Owatonna, Minn., went out of control on Highway No. 69 about three and a half miles south of Forest City at 3:30 P. M. on Sunday and overturned, badly damaging the car. Damage was estimated at $500. Riding with LeBohn was his wife, and both escaped personal injury.

At 7:25 A. M. on Monday, February 21, a 1954 Chevrolet driven by John J. Pannhoff of Klemme was going north on highway No. 69 about a mile south of Garner and as the car was making a right turn to leave the highway a car driven by Jon Akers of Clarion approachinng at a rapid pace spun around on the highway and both vehicles were damaged when the rear of both cars collided. Damage in this accident was estimated at $250.

At 1:15 on the same day a 1946 tudor driven by Joseph Rognlein of Ames went out of control on Highway No. 18 just east of Garner and crashed into the Rock Island signal light. The car was damaged and the signal demolished. Riding with Rognlien was his wife and both escaped injury. All of the accidents were investigated by State Patrolman Elmer Angle.

About noon Monday a truck loaded with 135 crate of Florida citrus fruit was traveling north on Highway No. 69 five miles north of Garner when two tires blew out causing the driver, Louie C Weeks of Lakeland, Florida, to lose control of the vehicle. The truck spun around and turned over. Damage, however, was slight according to Deputy Sheriff R E Nesbit, who investigated, and reported that the cargo was loaded on another vehicle and brought to Garnner, where the truck was repaired and the cargo reloaded and the driver headed for the Twin Cities. The driver was uninjured.

On Tuesday forenoon, a truck owned by Verner Stromer, driven by Byron Stromer, was damaged slightly, when a derrick fell from a truck driven by Myron Benton of Eagle Grove, causing the Stromer truck to run into it. Both trucks received minor damage according to Sheriff L M Brower, who investigated. Both drivers escaped unhurt. The accident occurred on Highway No. 69 about a mile north of Klemme.

Minneapolis Man Hurt In Accident West of Town

James E Carlson of 1817 La Salle Ave., Minneapolis, Minn., was rushed to the Hancock County Memorial Hospital in Britt Thursday evening following a traffic accident on Highway No. 69 just west of Klemme in which the 1949 Lincoln driven by Carlson, collided almost head on with a 1950 Ford Truck-Tractor, owned by the Fluor Corporation Ltd., of Paola, Kansas, driven by Walter H Lohaus of Paola.

Carlson suffered some broken ribs and other bruises and injuries. His car was badly damaged and both the tractor and car went into the road ditch following the collision. The tractor-trailer jackknifed as it went into the ditch but did not turn over. The truck driver escaped unhurt.

State Highway Patrolman Elmer Angle and Hancock County Deputy Sheriff R E Nesbit, investigated.

Buys Feed Grinder From Wilbur Haefner

Merlyn Helps, who for the past several years has been trucking, last week completed a deal whereby he became the owner of a portable feed grinder. The grinder was the property of Wilbur Haefner and until last week had been operated by him since 1951.

Mr Helps plans to continue portable mill service in this vicinity and has been operating the grinder since be made the purchase.

Mr Haefner, is at present working with his son-in-law, Francis Sherwood, in a Standard Oil Station at Mason City. He has considerable experience in this work, having been owner and operator of a station here at one time.

Auxiliary Meeting

The American Legion Auxiliary will meet at 8 o'clock next Tuesday evening, March 1st, at the home of Mrs David Schwichtenberg.

Silver Anniversary

Some over seventy relatives and friends were on hand at the parlors of the Klemme Methodist Church Sunday afternoon to help Mr and Mrs Harlow Helps observe their silver wedding anniversary.

Mr and Mrs Helps held open house in honor of the occasion, and an enjoyable time was had by all who attended. Had it not been for the extremely bad weather, Sunday, no doubt many more of their friends would have been present to help make the occasion a memorable one for them.

Followup Meeting

Following up Meeting of "Mendtng and Patching" will be held at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, March 1st, at the home of MrsNaskaBock. Those who plan to attend are asked to bring some overalls to patch, socks to darn, or some material for sample patches.

Each person is also asked to bring a few cookies, and their own sewing equipment.

HALF-WAY POINT

The 1955 legislature has reached the half-way point and adjourns tomorrow for the usual spring recess. Legislators will return to Des Moines, March 7 for the final hectic week that will wind up lawmaking in early April.

Today was the final day an individual legislator could file a bill in either the house or senate. From now on bills can only be introduced by committee and that isn't always the easiest way of getting proposed laws before the legislative bodies for consideration.

House steering and senate sifting committees will be named but won't go into immediate action. These are the powerful groups that can give life to proposed measures or kill them for this regular session.

SLOW ON OKAYS

The Iowa senate didn't move fast in the first half of the 1955 session in confirming state appointments.

J C Wright, Keokuk, was okayed for the job as state superintendent of public instruction; Mrs Martin Van Oosterhout, Orange City, was approved for state board of public instruction; William P Housel of Humboldt, a Democrat, was confirmed on the Iowa liquor control commission, and Robert Beck of Centerville has been approved for the highway commission.

Two recommenndations for the commerce commission counsel have been denied or withdrawn, and two appointments to the highway commission have been rejected. Turned down by the senate as highway comissioners were L L Caffrey of Cresco, a Democrat, and Russell Lundy of Des Moines, Governor Hoegh's campaign manager.

FINALLY SWORN IN

The last of the "missing" legislators have been sworn in to serve in the current legislative session.

State Rep. Wade McReynolds, Ottumwa Democrat, was sworn in just a month after the session began. McReynolds had been ill and unable to attend any legislative sessions prior to this month. In fact he had been absent so long an Ottumwa Republican, Otto Armstrong, who served two years ago, appeared in the house to claim the seat to give Wapello county representation until McReynolds appeared. He didn't get it.

McReynolds, 64, returned to Ottumwa the day he was sworn in to "get some more rest" before moving to Des Moines to serve out the legislative period.

John Carlsen, Clinton Democrat, elected in a special election, was sworn in a week ahead of McReynolds.

HOMESTEAD CREDIT CUTS

Homestead tax credits would be reduced under terms of a measure filed with the Iowa senate by Herman Knudson, Clear Lake Republican.

The maximum credit which now can be given against the property tax levied on a homestead is $62.50. Knudson's bill would reduce the credit to a $50 maximum.

Purpose of the bill, according to its sponsor, is to save state revenue. The homestead tax credits are financed by taking from the state treasury sale and income tax receipts and using them to pay local taxes which otherwise would be collected by property tax on homesteads.

Knudson estimates his bill would save the state $5,000,000 annually.

MORE LOBBYING

Paul Parker, the secretary to Governor Hoegh, told a Des Moines group the other day "people should quit letting the big lobbyists try to run the state" Then he advisesd individual lobbying by members of groups without such spokesman, such as housewives, clerks, small businessmen.

Not all legislators were happy over his remarks. Some are hampered by lobbyists but Parker's suggestion may well add further to the confusion for Parker admitted that the governor is being contacted too much by individuals and small groups.

"The result is", said Parker, "the poor guy doesn't have time to think."

Legislators can easily picture themselves in the same boat if many folks take Parker's advice.

WANTS JUDGE

State Rep. Wendall Pendleton of Storm Lake has asked the help of the governor in obtaining another judge for the 14th judcial district. It now has three judges.

The district has too much business for three judges to handle, Pendleton reports. A recent survey, he said, showed 85 jury cases in the district and 1,181 court trials.

AUDIT ANDITOR

Many times in recent years folks have asked "Who audits the state auditor?" Now, apparently, some state senators are interested.

Four senators have filed a bill to require the governor to employ certified public accountants to audit the books of the state auditor annually.

Sen. Harry E Watson of Sanborn, one of the sponsors, said only purpose of the measure is to have audited the accounts of the only state officer who is not subject to audit.

MARRIAGE AGE

A house committee in the Iowa legislature has recommened passage of a bill that would change the minmum age for a girl in this state from 14 to 16 years.

This minimum would apply to marriages arranged with the consent of parents. Under certain other circumstances a district court judge would have authority to permit marrage at 14. The measure would not affect the 16-year old requirement for boys where parental consent has been obtained. Without consent, marriages would remain at 18 years for girls and 21 for boys.

FIRST OFFICIAL GUEST

Governor and Mrs Hoegh entertained their first official guest of the state the other day at the Iowa governor's mansion. He is Herbert Hoover, Jr., U. S. undersecretary of state.

Hoover had come here, with another brother Allan, for an organization meeting of the Herbert Hoover Foundation Inc. The foundation was organized to advance the educational, scientific, and public welfare principles of former President Hoover, and to aid in preserving his birthplace at West Branch.

The governor has indicated he will make an efort to entertain all visiting dignitaries who come to Iowa for visits. The Iowa governor's mansion, Hoegh has said, should be used for the entertaining of official guests and visitors.

STUDY PAROLE LAWS

A special study committee in the Iowa senate is reviewing state parole laws and will make recommendations for changes in the present session.

State Sen. X T Prentis, Mt. Ayr Republican, chairman of the committee, has been using a tape recorder at the men's state prison at Fort Madison to interview inmates and compile data on parole procedures.

Prentis said one inmate, who had been confined more than 30 years, was recorded in a statement that he had never been interviewed by a parole board in all those years. Another confined 20 years, made a similiar statement.

The committee was appointed by Lt. Gov. Leo Elthon to make recommendations in a field which, Elthon believes, the legislature has too long overlooked.

TRAFFIC TOLL

Iowa in 1954, had its highest traffic death toll in history. Its rate of such deaths however, was well under the national average and better than that of three of six neighboring states.

The Nationad Safety Council reports that this state's 1954 traffic death rate was 5.9 killed per 100 million motor vehicle miles traveled in Iowa.

This compares with the national average of 6.5 person killed for each 100 million miles of motor vehicle travél.

According to the Council's figures, Iowa had 612 traffic deaths in 1954, three above the previous all-time high of 609 in 1951 and 12 more than the 1953 total of 600. Thus the 1954 death total showed a two percent increase over the 1953 traffic deaths.

● RIEHM'S REPORT

House be appointed for the purpose of studying the situation and report back to the House any suggestions or conclusions they might arrive at which would offer the possibility of reducing costs, equalizing efficiency. Fortunately or unfortunately, the resolution lost after a rather heated discussion of the subject.

It should be pointed out that the resolution was in no way personal or critical but was an earnest attempt to promote some measure of economy in our government and for this reason I spoke in favor of the resolutions.

Wednesday morning found the legislators considering the passage of several bills; one concerning the scope of re-insurannce business done in the State of Iowa, another for exemption limitations from levy of execution and one to legalize the incorporation of reorganized school districts. This last bill would make it unnecessary for each school district to come before the House and request legislation to legalize its existence so that bond issues might be completed.

As author and sponsor of this school bill and the exemption bill, I add with satisfaction, that they successfully passed the House.

A public hearing was held Wednesday afternoon by the Committee on Public Affairs on House File 1 which relates to the creation of a legislation research body to study possible future legislation. There has been a great amount of interest expressed in this bill. As usual the committee met and research was carried on to promote a better understanding of the bills remaining to be considered.

Thursday morning commenced as usual with nothing to mark the fact that today was to contain one of the most controversial floor debates to be carried on thus far in this session. Wendall Pendleton sponsored House File 218 which relates or would provide for a state tort claims act. You will recall that ever since medieval times the king could do no wrong and this theory of thinking dominates in certain fields even today as expressed by the fact that the state cannot be sued without its consent. For this reason it has been the practice of the State of Iowa that the claims of persons against the State shall be processed by the claims committee of the Legislature. This is a lengthy, time consuming and uncertain method. The bill proposed is more in keeping with the safeguards and ideals of the State Constitution in that it would provide for the processing of these claims in the courts of the state where judicial process may be given in behalf of the claimant.

The chief opposition to the bill, voiced by a few, seemed to rest upon inertia and reluctance to accept change as the most obvious reasons. They seemed to indicate that since it had always been done that way, efficient, just or not, that it for that reason alone should contnue.

It should be noted specifically that this is a bill designed for each and every person in the State of Iowa to safeguard his rights, to promote an efficient and just method of recovery for rightful tort claims, and most certainly not an attempt to usurp the power of the Legislature. The power so claimed is one of judicial nature and as such and in keeping with the Constiton of the State of Iowa properly should be handled within the judicial branch of our government.

After the smoke cleared away Friday morning and the vote was counted, it was found that the House had passed a law which will allow anyone who suffers damage because of the negligence on the part of the state to either file a claim with the department of the state which caused the damage, to sue in the district court to establish by competent evidence a rightful claim or to file a claim with the legislature as has been done in the past

The House also passed a bill to allow the public to vote on whether or not the 18 year olds could be allowed to vote.

As the days pass here, the work increases and the arguments become more plentiful as to whether a bill is a good law or not.

Senior Interview

This weeks sparkling personality, Terry Leon Koerner, was born March 29, 1937 at Dows City, Iowa. Terry has spent all his school life here at Klemme. (Terence) listed his favorite pastime as women! ! ! For all of us that know Terry, the fact that airplanes are his favorite hobby is no surprise.

All the men and all the women that are in the movies are Terence's favorite actresses and actors.

When it comes to hash, this boy likes to render himself immobile with shrimp and French fries.

When it comes to music Terry likes "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue." His favorite movies were: "The High and the Mighty" "Flying Leathernecks" and "Sabre Jet".

When you mention dance bands, Terry will inevitably say his favorites are Ralph Flanagan and Glen Millers old band. Terry's favorite sports are hunting, swimming, horseback riding and basketball. Terry is our basketball manager, co-editor of the newspaper and the annual.

Terry was nominated to the Air Force Academy and is planning on the United States Air Force as a career.

Cackles From Band Coop

Our hat is off to the County Schoolmaster's Association for making possible the county vocal music festival at Crystal Lake, and to the Crystal Lake Music Mothers for the swell lunch they served. Let's do it again next year!

The band coop has been fairly peaceful lately, so this week we will start giving you the low down on the various ensembles that are practicing for contest. We will start with the brass sextet. This is composed of Cecil Jacobs, a senior, 1st cornet; Val Stromer, a sophomore, 2nd cornet; Rosalie Rosendahl, a freshman, trombone; Arthur Carlson, a sophomore, baritone; Ione Rosendahl, a junior, French horn; and La Vurne Josten, a senior, bass hornn.

And so ends this column for another week.

Notes About Notes

We had a grand time at Crystal Lake last Monday even though the town was a lot smaller than Klemme. We went there leaving the school at 12:30 sharp, and had rehearsal all afternoon under the direction of a music instructor from Olwein. We were left on our own from 5 p. m. until 8 p. m. After eating either uptown or at the school, the students enjoyed themselves at dancing or watching a movie.

The chorus all sang together that evening and think we did well. Intermissions were filled with sextette, trio and quartette groups.

Overcoat Caper

After the basketball game Monday evening, a week and a half ago, at the Garner Memorial Building a mix up of men's coats occurred in the checkroom. A Belmond man is without an overcoat. There remains one grey coat with a pair of gloves in the pockets. No other identification is present.

We request tthat anyone having any information about the missing overcoat to please get in touch with Principal Andreae at the Klemme Community High School.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

"You talk about the people who got killed in these accidents," the highway patrolman said, "but maybe they're the lucky ones.

"See that old farm house up there, the one that needs paint? There's a woman in bed there and she'll never get up. Young, too.

The patrolman drove on past the house in silence. He waved to a youngster walking aimlessly along the lane. "That's her oldest boy. The kids have to get out of the house when she's being tended to. They can't understand why she cries.

"About four years ago I found her in a wreck just a few miles from here. She was twisted up in a way bones just won't bend. She was mostly unconscious but she kept whispering 'hot breakfast, hot breakfast' all the time we were trying to get to her.

"We waited for a doctor before we moved her, she was that bad. Nobody thought she'd live, but she did - in a way.

"She stays in a special bed in the parlor where she can watch the kids through the door. She can't even sit up.

The patrolman lapsed into another silence. "Her shoes were knocked off her feet in the accident," he said, "and we could only find one shoe in the car.

"I stopped by the place about a week later and finally found the other shoe off in the weeds. I felt a little funny taking that one shoe back to her husband.

"No, sometimes you think the dead ones are the lucky ones. It is terrible, but it's final. You don't argue with death. You don't have to try to understand it the way that woman has to try to understand what happened to her.

"And there's another house, about seven miles from here, where . . . . "

Taken from Our Files

10 YEARS AGO—

Pvt Lowell C Mau and wife of Dayton, Ohio, came Sunday to visit for a week with parents and relatives. Pvt. Mau expects soon to leave for overseas. He has been stationed at Wright Field, Dayton.

Mrs Lester Neuberger received a letter from her husband, Pvt Neuberger stating that he had been promoted to Private First Class.

Nineteen families of the neighbors held a farewell party for Mr and Mrs George Schoenwetter at their home in Liberty township Friday evening. The evening was spent visiting and movies shown by Mr and Mrs Elmer Schaefer were also enjoyed.

About the heaviest snow fall of the season fell in North Iowa today, Wednesday. Snow began falling before noon and continued falling heavy all day. As The Times goes to press at 5:30 p. m. nearly one foot has piled up.

20 YEARS AGO—

Klemme friends are always glad to hear good reports from Klemme students at college. Last week, Dorance Day had the privilege of broadcasting in his public speaking class and Miss Gracka Quandt won a place on the honor roll with her piano recital, giving a perfect presentation of the number. Congratulations!

Mrs Art Kudje spent the day, Monday at Duncan attending a wedding of Art's neice. Art went over in time for the big dance in the evening.

Neighbors and friends gathered at the Les Hartbeck home with well-filled baskets last Wednesday evening for a farewell party. The Hartbeck family will move to the old Albert Barz farm, Les said they had a fine time, although the ladies were filled with envy at the fine cake that Harry Sandry brought.

Monday, J C Thomas sold his barber shop in Klemme to Harland Trees, who took immediate possession of the business. J C Thomas has conducted a barber shop in Klemme for the past nine years and has always enjoyed a fine business.

30 YEARS AGO—

Mr and Mrs John Neuberger entertained a number of friends at a birthday party, in honor of their daughter, Fay. The afternoon was enjoyably spent by all playing games and talkin' "politics". About 4 o'clock a delicious lunch was served which was enjoyed by all.

Albert Yahnke enjoyed a visit from his cousin, Mrs Lock, of Chicago, whom he has not seen for 36 years.

Herman Paul had a good sale and everything brought a good price, Herman had his sale well advertised.

About ten young men surprised Clarence Elder at a birthday dinner Tuesday evening at his home. Mrs Elder had prepared a fine meal for the occasion.

It seems Elaine J likes some boy from Hayfield. Tell us more, Elaine.

Say, Karen C who took you home Tuesday night after the game?

Where did Dorothy K go after the game Tuesday night? We wonder. ???

It seems that Harlan B has a crush on a freshman girl. It couldn't be Elaine, or could it?

Why doesn't Donna C tell us about her new romance? Maybe we better ask Raymond H.

Who's your latest heart throb Barbara A? I hear the new romance is with Martin B.

Green Manures Up Corn Yields

Yield Increase Holds Even in Drouth Areas

Green manure crops of legumes offer cheap sources of nitrogen for corn in Iowa. That was borne out again in 1954 in Iowa State College studies of corn grown on soils that had a legume green manure crop plowed down the previous fall.

In this study, which has been under way since 1951, six legumes are seeded with oats and grown as green manure, plowed down in the fall of the seeding year, with corn following the next season. Corn following the green manure is also compared with corn fertilized with commercial nitrogen fertilizer.

TOP YIELD BOOSTER

Agronomist Harvey Thompson reported this week that the top yield booster in 1954 was a green manure crop of Madrid sweetclover. As an average of three locations—Ames, Kanawha and Marcus—the 1954 corn following sweetclover in 1953 yielded almost 33 bushels higher than the check. The check plot did not follow green manure and and did not have nitrogen fertilizer applied.

Next among the legumes was red clover, which boosted yields by an average of 27 bushels per acre. Ladino clover supported an increase of 25 bushels per acre; southern alfalfa accounted for a 24-bushel increase, and Grimm alfalfa averaged a boost of 19 bushels per acre. Low was Hubam sweetclover, averaging about 10 bushels more corn than the check.

RESULTS FROM NITROGEN

The average yield increase for commercial nitrogen fertilizer at the three locations were 12 bushels for 20 pounds of actual nitrogen, 24 bushels for 40 pounds and 29 bushels for 80 pounds.

In general, Thompson said, the results followed the pattern set by the first 2 years of the study. Madrid sweetclover—where the sweetclover weevil was controlled—was the best yield booster. The actual pound-for-pound efficiency of the nitorgen has been greater with commercial nitrogen fertilizer than with nitrogen from the green manure.

Significant this year, in Thompson's opinion, was that the green manure showed to best advantage under the more adverse conditions. At Ames moisture was definitely short. The check yield there was less than 44 bushels. The best yield with legume green manure was 50 bushels higher than the check, and the best yield with commercial nitrogen was 40 bushels higher than the check yield.

At Kanawha, where moisture conditions were more favorable, the check yield was 81 bushels. Biggest increase for green manure was 27 bushels more corn; the biggest increase for nitrogen fertilizer was 26 bushels more.

"DO BUSINESS WITH YOURSELF"

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

This year's January and early February hog market looks a lot like 1952. Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist reports. That year we didn't get any real strength in the hog market until spring.

Our late 1954 fall litters showed a smaller increase over the previous year. So we should have some spring or early summer advance in the hog market this year, Kutish believes. Not as much as in 1952, however.

In 1952, hog prices rose $5.50 per hundred between April and May. That year we were decreasing spring pig production. The 1952 spring pig crop was 13 per cent below the crop of 1951. This year we have a 5 per cent larger spring crop coming up. Most of that increase is concentrated in the early farrowings—22 per cent more than a year ago and 35 percent more than in 1952. This will hold down the summer price advance.

So Kutish expects the summer hog prices to return about normal profits. This could be well below the highs of a year earlier, however.

Cold storage stocks of pork have mounted rapidly this fall and winter. With current holdings over 500 million pound mark, packers are reluctant to put more pork away, particularly with the large winter farrowings coming up. We now have nearly a fifth more pork in storage than we had at the peak last spring, Kutish points out.

Thus, the packers are paying prices which will let them come out on the current fresh pork market. Any sharp price rise would bring some pork out of storage. Under the circumstances Kutish finds it hard to see any sustained price rise for hogs before spring.

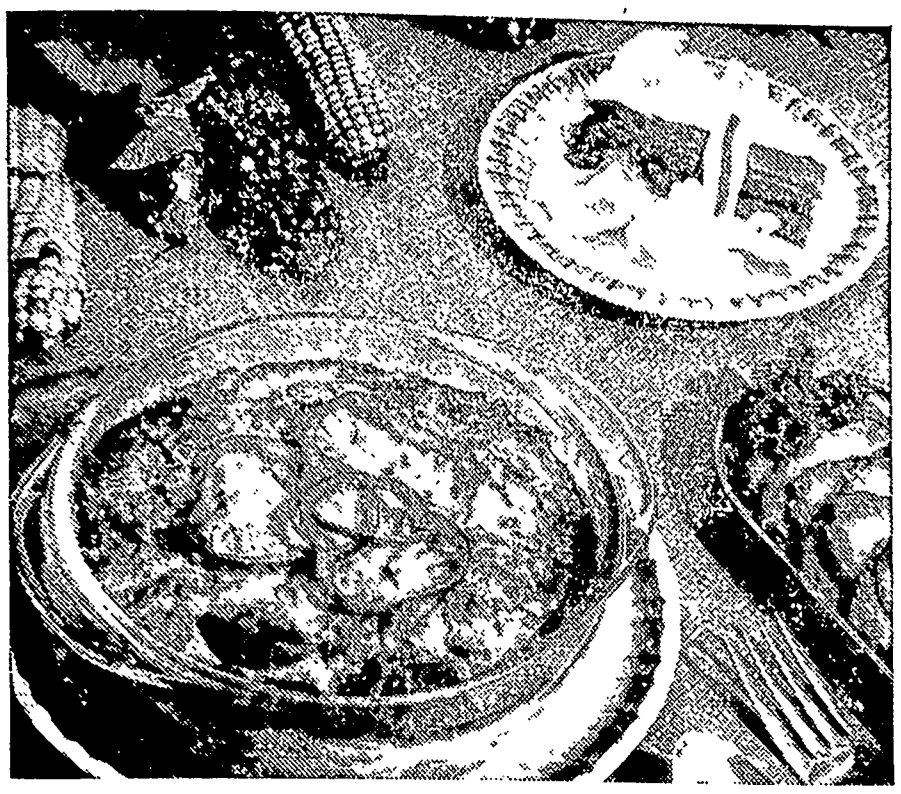
Try These Main Dishes



Corn pudding is good served as a main dish whether you're serving meat or not. It makes a hearty hot dish by itself. But if you want to serve meat too, try Canadian bacon or slices of baked rolled shoulder.

Whether your family observes meatless days during Lent or not, here are some main dishes you'll be interested in. They're suggested by Iowa State College Extension Nutrition Jewel Graham, who says they're good served with meat as an accompaniment, or as the basis of a meal themselves.

CORN PUDDING

2 cups corn, whole kernel or cream style
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 cups coarsely crumbled cracker crumbs
3 beaten eggs
2 cups milk
2 teaspoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons melted table fat

Mix ingredients and pour into a greased baking dish. Set in a pan of hot water and bake about 1 hour and 15 minutes in a 350 degree F. oven, or until a knife inserted comes out clean. Miss Graham warns you not to overcook this dish.

SPINACH SOUFFLE

1 box chopped frozen spinach
¼ cup butter or margarine
⅓ cup flour
1 cup milk
1¼ teaspoons salt
Dash pepper
1 tablespoon grated onion
Dash nutmeg
4 eggs separated

You can use a short-cut method to make Spinach Souffle and not make a separate white sauce. To do this, put butter in a saucepan. Add onion, and spinach and cook for 5 minutes. (If spinach is not shredded, chop it finely while it's still frozen.

Blend flour, milk and seasonings together. Pour into cooked spinach mixture and cook until thick. Cool slightly, add beaten egg yolks and mix well. Fold into stiffly beaten egg whites.

Pour into 1½ quart casserole greased only on the bottom. (That's so the souffle will cling to sides as it rises.)

Bake at 325 degrees F. for about 1 hour, until set. Serve immediately with a cheese sauce made by adding 1 cup grated cheese to a 2-cup recipe of medium white sauce.

HADDOCK TURBANS

For a fish main dish try Haddock Turbans:

2 pounds haddock fillets
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Bread stuffing
¼ cup butter or other fat, melted
3 slices bacon

Skin fillets and sprinkle both sides with salt and pepper. Line 12 well greased muffin tins with fillets, overlapping ends of fillets. Place ball of bread stuffing in center of each. Brush tops with butter and place ½ slice of bacon on each. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 25 to 30 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork

To make the bread stuffing:

3 tablespoons chopped onion
¾ cup chopped celery
6 tablespoons butter or other fat, melted
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1 teaspoon thyme, sage or savory seasoning
1 quart day old bread crumbs

Cook onion and celery in butter for about 10 minutes or until tender. Combine all ingredients. Mix thoroughly. If stuffing seems very dry, add 1 tablespoon water, milk or fish stock to moisten.

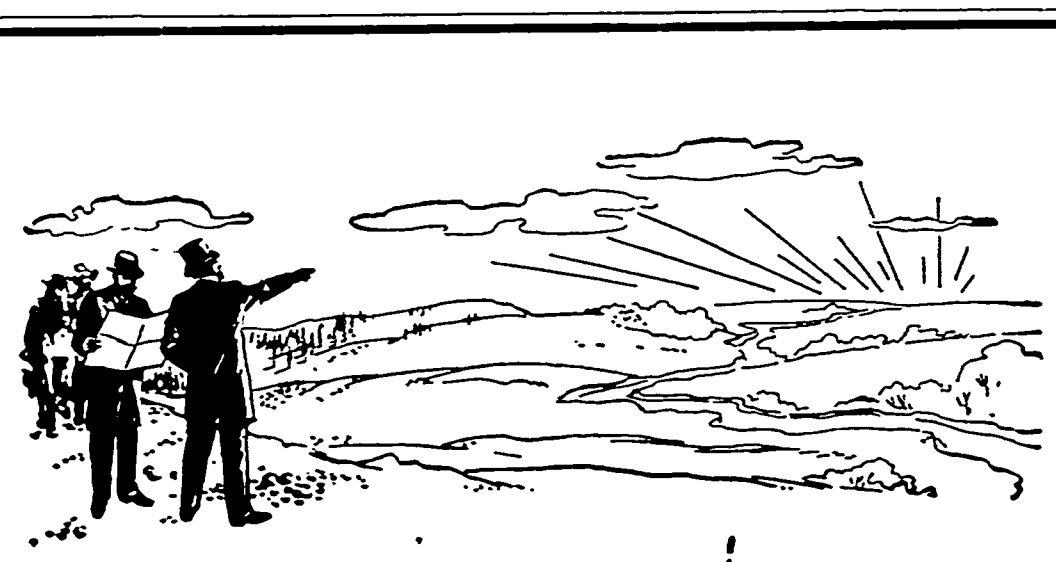
Many years ago a phrase was coined.



"The Road of Planned Progress"

This phrase is usually referred to as the Rock Island Lines' slogan. But it is more than a slogan—it's an inspiration, a business directive, a constant reminder that this is one railroad where planning is habitual and progress the rule.

Planned progress! Just what does it mean to the Rock Island . . . to YOU? Expressed in terms of efficient operation, it means a smoother roadbed—fewer curves, dips and elevations—modern yard facilities—diesel powered ROCKET FREIGHTS—the popular streamlined ROCKETS, including the GOLDEN STATE—and, in late '55, the new Jet Rocket between Chicago and Peoria.

And in areas of industrial expansion, Rock Island service is keeping pace, too—new improvements, finer service!

Yes, this continues to be* "The Road of Planned Progress"

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, March 2, 1955 | VOLLME 60 | NUMBER 10

Lease Ends . . .

Times Sold to Present Editor

A lease agreement which began in October of 1952, came to an end as of March 1st, when we became the owner of The Klemme Times and the property where the newspaper is located.

We had been leasing The Times and the building from Mrs Mary Jane Jorgenson, whose husband had published the paper for some 35 years prior to the beginning of our lease, but now that the deal has been completed and the property belongs to us, we feel more like we belong to the community.

Back in 1936 when we got our first taste of printer's ink right here in this office, little did we dream that one day we would be editing and publishing the paper. However, we often thought that to some day own The Times and be able to work at a job we liked in a community we liked, among our friends, would be as good a thing as could happen to us.

We still think it is a good thing. We know the town and the surrounding countryside, and we know the people of the community. It's home and we hope to be able to call it home for many years to come.

CAPITOL LETTER

RECESS

With the session about half-way over, members of the Assembly have won the substantial respect of observers who have observed it closely.

In general, it has worked hard. Some are prone to judge the legislature by the amount of time spent in debate; whereas, actually most of the work is done in the comparative anonymity of committee rooms.

It has perhaps caught more abuse than its immediate predecessors, doubtless due to the fact that its problems are greater..

The fact that it must raise additional funds places it in a particularly difficult position.

Nor has it had a great deal of constructive help from its constituents.

Veteran representative Russ Patrick, chairman of the House appropriations committee, said earlier in the session he wished those who contact the legislature would follow two basic rules.

"Those who want taxes reducduced," he said, "could help us if they'd tell us in what specific areas they want the cuts made."

TAX PROBLEMS

Iowa legislators this week have been home sounding sentiment on a matter that has been bothering them for at least eight weeks—taxes.

No one likes to raise taxes, especially legislators who plan to seek reelection.

The state lawmakers must raise taxes this year. If they don't the state will continue to spend $9-million more a year than it takes in, a situation which will force the state comptroller to levy a property tax to balance the budget.

The problem is simply one of where to start and where to stop.

Does Iowa want another cent added to its sales and use tax law, or would the taxpayers prefer extension of the sales tax program to certain services not now taxed under the two-percent on the dollar program? Should the income tax be increased, or is it better to levy a property tax.

How do Iowans feel about an increase in the state gas tax program for improving the primary highways, or do they want to leave well enongh alone? Should the homestead credits be reduced to save money? Should there be a Korean war bonus? What about the need for new buildings at the various state institutions?

It isn't easy to be a legislator in times like these, but the state's senators and representatives must face the financial issues.

Already the senate has voted a one-cent increase in the sales tax program. The house has on file its own measure that would extend the sales tax law to services not now taxed. There are bills on file to increase the state gasoline tax by two-cents a gallon. All state departmens have requested increased funds for the next two years. Governor Hoegh's budget message asked increases totaling $30-million.

Next Monday the legislative ends its spring recess. The final weeks will be spent in settling state appropriations matters for the next two years. The final results will be an increase in taxes. The problem is to find the least painless way to levy larger assessments against the taxpayer assessments against the tax payer.

FISHING REGULATIONS

Iowa's conservation commission has announced the fishing regulations for the 1955 season on inland and boundary waters. The regulations become effective March 1.

Here are the open seasons on on Inland Waters announced by the commission:

Catfish, April 15 to Nov. 30; Walleye, May 15 to Feb. 15; White or Silver Bass, May 15 to Feb. 15; Northern Pike, May 15 to Feb. 15; Smallmouth Bass, May 30 to Feb. 15 Largemouth Bass, May 30 to Feb. 15; Rock Bass, May 30 to Feb. 15; Rock Sturgeon, Aug. 1 to Nov. 30.

The commission announced a continuous open season on Bullheads, all species of Trout, and Crappie, Yellow Bass, Sunfish, Bluegill and Perch, and on Sheepshead, Red Horse, Suckers, Carp, Buffalo, Quillback and Chubs.

With the exception of Smallmouth and Largemouth Bass, the open seasons on boundary waters are the same as for Inland Waters. The Bass season on boundary waters is from May 2 to Feb. 15.

LOWER VOTING AGE

The Iowa senate has yet to act on a measure approved by the house which would approve lowing the voting age from 21 to 18 years.

State representatives approved a constitutional amendment to lower the minimum voting age by an 80 to 11 vote.

This was only a first step, however, for the measure must not only be approved by both houses this year, but again in 1957, and in 1958 would be subject to vote of the people at a general election. If all steps were approved 1960 would be the first general election year in which the amendments would be in effect.

Lowering the minimum age for voting was favored by the Republican state platform and is also one of the recommendations of President Eisenhower Iowa Democrats, in recent years, have advocated a lowering of the minimum voting age.

STATEWIDE SAFETY MEET

Nearly all county safety leaders were to meet in Des Moines today at a statewide parley called by Governor Leo A Hoegh.

The governor, seeking steps to help halt the mounting traffic toll on the state's highways, hopes to obtain from this meeting some concrete ideas for launching an Iowa safety campaign that will result in the saving of lives.

W Earl Hall, managing editor of the Mason City Globe-Gazette and longtime safety leader was to chairman the confab.

Hall, who a few months ago received a $10,000 national award for his safety work, had headed up the old Iowa Safety Council several years ago.

COMMERCE COMMISSION N

The Iowa house of representatives is expected to make some changes in a senate-approved measure that would make the state commerce commission appointive rather than elective.

The senate voted 40 to 9 to make the jobs appointive by the governor. The change would not occur for several years, however, under the senate bill. The action was a vote of disapproval for the present elective commissioners because of their frequent disagreements. GOP leaders said it was a "disciplinary measure."

In recent years legislation has been proposed to obtain the same result, to take the commerce commissioners off the election ballot, but the proposals never received support in the two houses.

Present commissioners are Carl Reed, John M Ropes, and John Tallman, all Republicans Reed and Tallman have been voting consistently against Ropes in cimmissioner business. They have been before the governor twice and a senate committee at least once in the last eight weeks.

ASK STRICTER AUDIT

A state auditor's report recommened that the University of Iowa establish a more comprehensive system of internal auditing, and also pointed out that the university is not observing the pre-auditing law voted the legislation some four years ago.

State Auditor Chet Akers reported that about one-third of the bills paid by the University in the last year did not have prior approval of the state's preauditor.

The board of education, and university officials, have frequently criticized the pre-audit program as being a rubber stamp operation that has held up payments of bills thus losing discounts for the institution. In September 1953, the state board passed a resolution authorizing payment of some bills without the pre-audit.

The annual state audit report also showed that the cost of educating one student at the university has risen $28 over the previous fiscal year.

OK'S DRIVING TRAINING

Iowa's house of representatives, after voting down a compulsory driver training program for Iowa schools, has now passed a resolution asking the schools in the state to go ahead and give the driver training courses.

Main objections to the bill was defeated were based on the theory that passage of such bills would amount to establishing "curriculum by legislation".

The resolution passed by the house has no legal authority but is a means of advising schools in the state that the legislature does favor such training courses.

UP LICENSE FEES?

A bill now pending on the house calender in the state legislature would increase driver's licenses in Iowa from $1.50 for two years to $3.

The measure which would directly affect the state's 1,250,000 motorists, has been voted to the house floor by the house motor vehicles committee.

It would also increase the cost of the chauffeur's licenses from $2 per year to $3. There are about 145,000 licensed chauffeurs in the state..

The added revenue sought by the action would pay for increasing the state highway patrol from 225 men to 300 members and boost the patrol salaries $40 a month.

The measure still needs house and senate approval.

TOLL ROAD HEARING

Proponents and opponents of a proposed toll road east-west across Iowa will have opportunity to discuss their ideas publicly at a hearing scheduled in the house chamber of the legislature at 1:30 p. m. March 7.

This hearing has been arranged by the toll roads committees of the house and senate.

There is considerable interest in the toll road proposition and this hearing, on the first day of the session after the spring recess, will mark the first time that public debate will be held on the proposition in the legislature.

Riehm Reports On Legislative Activity

Remarks on Taxes And School Aid

The House met Monday morning, February 21st, and another week of legislative work was officially commenced and it promised to be a very busy week for the reason that this is the final week in which the individual legislators may introduce or submit legislation. After the recess February 28th through March 6th, the only bills which may be introduced are those drafted and sponsored by the various committees. There have been some 500 of these bills introduced thus far. Judging from the Journal of the last session, the House has introduced very nearly the same number of bills and if this comparison holds true, they may expect in the neighborhood of 100 committee bills to be introduced after the recess.

Several bills were introduced Monday and others came up on the calender for final disposition. One of those was House File 233 relating to assignment of accounts receivable but due to some confusion concerning understanding and amendment final consideration was deferred until Wednesday. It will be interesting to note that Glen Hamm, State Commander for the American Legion was present in the House and later his introduction, addressed the assembly briefly. The afternoon was taken up with committee meetings. They will be particularly frequent this week in an attempt to finish up the business on hand before the recess.

There have been a great number of visitors to the House during this session thus far and even though we sometimes seem unable to speak with them as we should like to do if time would permit. Let me say that they are extremely welcome and that their interest in the legislature is certainly encouraged.

On Tuesday morning one of the first items of business was the consideration of House Joint Resolution 10 which proposes amending the Constitution of the State of Iowa relating to the sessions of the General Assembly and concerned with meeting of the regular, the extra and the interim sessions. Having passed the House, and if successful in the Senate, the proposed amendment will be referred to the General Assembly to be chosen at the next general election. Another was H. F. 141, relating to preferences under civil service and the extension thereof to veterans of the Korean conflict, which was read for the last time, placed upon its passage and passed the House with all voting in favor of it.

On Wednesday one of the most interesting discussions came up with the floor debate on House File 225 which proposes the simplified form of Iowa income tax return. The bill provides for the use of federal income tax definitions of various words and phrases in determining the base to which Iowa income tax rates and credits will be applied. It is proposed as constitutionally sound and would not constitute a delegation of the power of the legislature or of the State of Iowa to the Congress of the United States. Representative Miller of Woodbury gave a very fine explanation of the bill, setting for the benefits and the possible objections.

On Thursday the House resumed consideration of House File 225, for the final floor debate which had been interrupted by adjournment on Wednesday. After some discussion and the adoption of an amendment submitted by Representative Miller, the bill was read for the last time and was passed by the House. House File 262, relating to the length of mobile homes (trailers) was next considered and, after an amendment concerned with the permissible length of portable live stock loading chutes was adopted, the bill was read for the last time and successfully passed the House.

the new poor law which had

Friday saw the House pass been discussed Wednesday and Thursday. If the Senate passes the bill and the Governor signs it, the service of notice of poor people will be done away with and thus after two years a person can obtain residence for poor relief.

SOME REMARKS ON TAXES, SCHOOL AID, ETC.

May I ask a few questions?

Snould the State provide funds for direct State Aid to schools in the amount of 35 million dollars? Answer: Yes or no.

Should the State provide funds for full payment of agriculture land tax credit? Answer: Yes or no.

Should the State provide funds for various other needs which are important to the welfare of the State of Iowa? Answer: Yes or no.

Now, if you have answered the above questions, would you please read the following letter I have written to Mrs L. H Hopson, Chairman of the Action Committee for Education Legislation.

"Dear Mrs Hopson:

I received your letter in which you as chairman of the Action Committee for Education Legislation request as follows:

"We urge that you support the 35 million dollar direct state aid to schools as recommended."

"I understand your Committee, from your letterhead, represents or has associated with your committee the following groups:

Department of Iowa, Ladies Aux. V. F. W., Congress of Industrial Organization, Delta Kappa Gamma, Disabled American Veterans, Iowa Association of County Superintendents, Iowa Congress of Parents and Teachers, Iowa Division of American Association of University Women, Iowa Federation of Women's Clubs, Iowa Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Iowa State Association for Childhood Education.

"Now my question is this:

"How would you propose to raise this 35 million—by property taxation? By more income tax? Sales tax onn services or some other tax measure?

"This question must be answered before more millions can be appropriated to school aid.

"In addition to asking for more state aid to schools, has your committee considered what tax revenue bills your committee and all its members will actively suport? If you would do this, you could do a most valuable service. (Anyone can ask for money).

"Why do I answer your letter in this manner? The reason is that I have heard some people speaking for schools ask for more state aid and then in the same breath state they are against any tax increase whatso-ever. This is not logical or reasonable, since the State is now spending 9 million dollars a year beyond the taxes collected, and the budget committee is cutting all requests to the minimum.

"Are all your members in favor of and will they actively talk for the most logical and reasonable tax measures the General Assembly have under consideration?

"Will your members tell the story that in 1953, 138½ million dollars raised by the State was returned to counties, cities, towns and school districts in the following manner:

Homestead Credits, 23.7 million; County farm to market roads,, 36.4 million; County primary roads, 25.6 million; Wel-

Editorial

One of K H S's minor farlts, which is sometimes one of its most irksome, is the pitiful plight our our dictionaries and encyclopedias. These reference books are used by us students sometimes because of requirement and sometimes because of curiosity. It is fortunate that we use them, for they were purchased for that purpose. Unfortunately, being in a hurry or being just careless and negligent, we sometimes return these books in a slipshod manner—on top of each other, upside down, and out of order; and sometimes (Horrors!) we never return them. We excuse ourselves by thinking that the next guy will rearrange these slighted books. However, the next guy is usually just as hurried or just as careless.

Thus is the sad situation of our reference books. Fortunately there is a simple solution If each student would take about three extra seconds to return and place the book in its proper position, there wouldn't be any disorder or disarrangement. We can try, can't we- You know, there's no harm in trying.

General News

One of the best known and most entertaining assembly programs will be coming up on March 1. Al Bell will be back to tell of his experiences in Ireland. Al usually has a very interesting movie each year when he visits us. He films the movie himself. He also has some jokes and gags to present to us. This year his adventure will be how he searched for his grandfather's treasure in "Sons of Ireland." For the price of fifteen cents there is no more interesting, comical, and educational hour than that which will be spent with Al Bell.

Most of the seniors have their announcements and their name cards well distributed, and now we are impatiently waiting for the time of graduation.

Career Day at Britt has been set for sometime in March. The sophomores and we seniors will attend it. We are all glad, for we seniors will miss one more day of school. Each person is to choose two possible occupations to attend, one is the morning session and one of the afternoon session. Most likely all the boys will attend the "Military Service" sessions, because our "Uncle" is breathing down the senior boys' necks already.

Fifth Grade News

We have been studying about the Civil War in social studies. After we finish our unit, we will combine our worksheets, pictures, maps, and tests into booklets.

On Monday Tommy had a birthday and treated the class to ice cream. On Tuesday, Janet and Jerry had birthdays and treated the class to candy bars and ice cream.

In art class we have been finger painting. We think it is a lot of fun.

Junior High Operetta Will Be Next Wednesday

"Howdy Cowboy", an operetta in three acts, will be presented by the 7th and 8th grades Wednesday, March 9, 1955, at 8:00 p. m. The admission will be $.40 for adults and $.20 for students.

The story consists of the following:

Howard, a conceited Eastern teen-ager, arrives at the Circle Heart ranch prepared to dislike eveything about the crude Western life his father has ordered him to try for the summer. He is greeted with typical rousing Western hospitality by Mr Rawlins, the ranch owner, and his live-wire daughter Gabby, who have organized a jamboree to welcome him. Especially anxious to meet the "dude" are Patches, a drawling farm boy, and Patty, his sister, whose father is ranch foreman. Howard's Eastern air and "killing" ways soon kill even Patty's enthusiasm for the newcomer. Patches tries to help, but is overlorded by Howard, who misses his "city club". During the excitement, a valuable camera belonging to Mr. Rawlins is found broken. All the evidence points towards Patches, who has been trying to save enough money to buy a Geiger counter; he is too shy to defend himself against Howard's accusations, and in the face of Mr Rawlin's anger runs away in the night The jamboree breaks up into search parties with Gabby comically telling Howard to "go back to his mother", for his attitude has brought nothing but grief to he ranch. Howard, the real culprit, is left to face the prospect of losing his new friends, especially the attractive Patty, if he doesn't confess and find Patches, who he knows has fled to his private cave, where he thinks there is a valuable mineral deposit. Howard's change of heart bring about a truly happy ending for all concerned at the neighborhood square dance the next evening.

Plans Completed for Farm Bureau Women's Tour to Des Moines

The Farm Bureau Women's committee is making plans for another educational tour this year. Last year 74 women went to Pella to the Tulip Festival. This year plans are being laid to go to Des Moines on March 25. It sounds as if the tentative plans would be to visit the legislature, WHO-TV shop, and end the day by going to the Ice Follies. Reservation for the follies would need to be immediately. Reserved seats at $2.50 would need to be sent in. The money must accompany the reservations.

The Farm Bureau women's committee is asking that the reservation with the check for $2.50 be in the Farm Bureau Office, Garner, Iowa, by Friday, March 4th. The transportation will be about $3.50 per person by bus. Anyone making a reservation will be expected to pay the bus fare even though they cannot go. They could get someone to go in their place, however.

Send your reservation immediately to insure a seat on the bus and a ticket to the Ice Follies.

Adult Bible Class to Have Guest Speaker

The guest speaker at the March meeting of the Adult Bible Class of Immaunel Evangelical and Reformed Church will be Mr Harold A. Young of Des Moines.

Mr Young was born at Waterloo, was raised in Iowa, attended school at Clarksville, and graduated from High School at Estherville, Iowa. He attended the University of Minnesota, where he majored in business administration.

He started Temperance work in Minnesota in 1938, and there in a full or part time capacity until 1947, he was employed as an investigator during the war era, principally in confidential government work. The years 1947-49 were spent in Temperance work in Colorado, Kansas, Arizona, New Mexico and other states as a representative of the national organization. Early in 1949 he became superintendent of the United Temperance League of South Dakota, and came to Des Moines from there on April 1, 1952.

Most of Mr Young's time has been spent in church contacts and speaking activity along with legislative campaigns, etc.

This meeting will begin at 8:00 P. M.

Records Show February Colder Than Normal

February 1955 was a very cold month with temperatures considerably below normal according to Earl Henschen, Custodian at the Hancock County Courthouse, local weather observer.

The average temperature for the month was 15.57 as compared with 33.57 a year previous. This average was about 2 degrees below January of this year. The minimum average for the month was 5.57 degrees and the maximum was 25.57. The coldest temperature recorded during the month was a minus 14 on the morning of February 12, and the highest was 46 above on February 15. The mercury dipped to zero or below on nine of the 28 days druing the month and on February 13, the highest temperature was a minus 5.

Precipitation during the month totaled .86 inches as compared with .81 for the same month a year ago. The largest amount fell in the form of sleet, rain and 1½ inches of snow in the 24-hour period ending at 7 A. M. on February 19. when .41 inch was recorded. Snowfall during the month totaled about 4 inches.

Eleven days were listed as cloudy or partly cloudy and 17 were listed as fair. In spite of low temperatures there were no blizzards during the month and the weather was brisk but relatively pleasant.

Steaks or Fillets . . .

Serve Fish Often in Different Ways

These salmon steaks were broiled, then placed on dishes of noodles for individual servings.

Fish make good eating the year around, and with so many kinds of frozen fish available at your grocer's nowadays you don't have to wait until fishing season to serve it often.

Jewel Graham., Iowa State College extension nutritionist, offers the following recipes and general suggestions for cooking fish.

STEAK OR FILLET?

Do you know the difference between a fish steak and a fillet? The steak is cut crosswise and the fillet is cut lengthwise of the fish. A fish steak that's an inch or two thick will need turning during the cooking process, but a thin fillet won't need to be turned.

Incidentally, Miss Graham says fillet is now being pronounced with the "t" sounded, to rhyme with skillet.

HADDOCK FILLETS

Haddock fillets have been particularly plentiful since the first of the year. Miss Graham suggests broiling them with the skin side down to prevent curling. It isn't necessary to turn them.

Two pounds of haddock fillets will serve 6. Sprinkle fillets with 1 teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper. Broil on a preheated, greased broiler pan about 2 inches from the heat. Brush with ¼ cup melted butter or other fat. Broil 5 to 8 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Since fish is tender and falls apart rather easily after it's cooked, Mis Graham suggests putting aluminum foil under the fillets to broil them. When they are done you can pick them up, foil and all, and slide them off onto the serving dish.

SALMON STEAK

To broil four 1-inch thick salmon steaks, sprinkle them with salt and pepper. Place on a preheated greased broiler pan, 6 inches from heat. Brush with a mixture of 3 tablespoons melted butter and 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Broil 8 minutes. Brush again with lemon-butter. Sprinkle lightly with paprika and broil 6 to 8 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Remove steaks carefully to a hot serving dish. Serve at once.

DEVILED OCEAN PERCH

For a spicy fish dish try this one sometime:

2 pounds ocean perch fillets
1½ teaspoons salt
Dash of pepper
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
¼ cup chili sauce
3 tablespoons chopped onion
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Skin fillets and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Roll each fillet and fasten with a toothpick. Place rolls in a well-greased baking dish. Combine remain- ingredients and spread on top of of fish rolls. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 25 to 30 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Serve hot.

FLAKED FISH

Many fish are good cooked by simmering and then flaked and used in salads or hot dishes. To flake ocean perch, simmer 1 lb. of fillets in 1 quart boiling water to which 1 tablespoon salt has been added. Simmer 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Skin and flake.

You might make the following Molded Ocean Perch Salad from flaked perch:

2 cups flaked ocean perch
1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup cold water
½ cup mayonnaise-type dressing
¼ cup catsup
2 tablespoons lamon juice
½ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons sweet pickle
2 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives
¼ teaspoon salt

Soften gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes. Add boiling water and stir until dissolved. Cool. Blend salad dressing, catup and lemon juice. Combine all ingredients and mix well. Pour into a mold and chill until firm.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

Harry's first mistake was in under-estimating the power of a woman—his wife. That, joined with another error in judgement, was enough to put him is bed for a month.

Harry had built a new home beyond the city limts and when he took the car to work in the mornings, that left his wife "stranded in the sticks", as she put it. "I need a car of my own," she announced.

Now Harry loved his wife, loved a joke, and loved to keep the budget in some reasonable balance. These things led him to pick up "an old clunker" that a high school owner had painted a brave color.

"Wait till you see the wife driving that old wreck around town," he burbled to the boys. He gave the old car to his wife and she accepted with a strange calm smile.

The next morning it was Harry who drove the "clunker" downtown and the wife who kept the family car at home on the errand run.

All Harry could do was carry the whole thing off as a joke. He took to turning up the brim of his hat when he drove the old car through town and told the boys he had turned "hot-rod" in his old age.

The more things that went wrong with the old car, the bigger the joke, or so Harry pretended. The horn failed, the windshield wipers wouldn't work, and the lights dimmed with age. Harry made no effort to have the car put in safe condition; that would have spoiled the joke.

So it happened that when the brakes finally failed, Harry spent the next month in a hospital with both legs raised to the ceiling.

It is good to remember that nothing on wheels is a joke.

time the head of the Dairy Husbandry Department of the college. In 1948 he was a member of the Iowa State Board of Education, and he is a former member of the Iowa Legislature. He is well acquainted with the National Farm Loan Association Federal Land Bank and the for he has served as president of the association at Spencer, Iowa for many years.

Iowa and northern Illinois farmers had 4 percent more cattle on feed January 1, 1955, than a year earlier. Francis A Kutish, farm economist at Iowa State College, cites this figure from the cooperative study by Iowa State College and the Chicago Union Stock Yards.

This survey was started in April, 1953. It represents on-the-farm interviews of some 600 farmers in Iowa and the northern two-thirds of Illinois—an area that produces nearly a third of all hogs in the nation.

This data, says Kutish, is subject to errors associated with any probability sample in a population. There's no basis as yet for determining the accuracy of the prediction. But with these reservations the results are published.

The survey indicated the increase was mainly in light cattle. The number of cattle over 800 pounds was 5 percent below last year, stated the economist. He predicted that marketings of prime, heavy cattle from farms in the area will continue relatively scarce through the winter. There will be nearly as many finished cattle in the early spring as there were last year. But more fed cattle will be available after late spring or early summer than a year ago.

Prices of the upper grades of cattle are quite sensitive to changes in supply, Kutish pointed out. Feeders can market their cattle at lighter or heavier weights—depending upon their appraisal of the price outlook.

But if a normal pattern of sale is followed, these data indicate relatively strong market for cattle finished for their grade through the winter will less usual seasonal price declines. The main risk to the winter cattle market, he said, is bunching or underfinished cattle. Even though fed cattle sales, according to the survey, will exceed those of a year earlier, total poundage of beef produced during this period is likely to be less, he says.

With average weather, Kutish pointed out, the cattle industry plans to get back on a re-stocking basis. Thus the 1955 total cattle kill (with average weather) is expected to show an increase in fed cattle—but fewer grass cattle than in 1954. Thus, it should mean a more narrow price spread between grades in 1954.

"The State of Iowa is no magician, it should and must raise the money by taxes before it can be allocated to schools, roads, cities or town to be spent.

"The State of Iowa has a very serious problem to solve concerning how to raise more money. It is your problem and the citizens' of Iowa's problem also. Your assistance as set out above will be a tremendous help.

Very truly yours,

Representative
Hancock County, Iowa

Governor Hoegh has asked for a tax increase of 31 million. With the economy measures certain to be adopted by the legislature at least 20 millions of dollars must be raised.

This is the problem the Legislature faces, how to raise this additional money, it also is your problem. Also more aid to schools, agriculture land credit, and other state help cannot be given without the money coming into the State Treasury.

Iowa is not alone in this problem, many states surrounding us have this same problem.

You and I can not say we want these aids and at the same time say we are against any type of new tax proposed. If we are for these additional aids, then we must support some new tax measure to raise the money for the aids.

Nice problem isn't it? Regardless of what is done, everyone will not be satified, the most that can be hoped for is that the majority of the people are satisfied.

Thank you for your consideration of this problem.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, MARCH 9, 1955 | VOLUME 60 | NUMBER 11

To Wed March 12

Mr and Mrs Emil Lau announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Lois Ann, to Richard Happel, son of Mrs Theodore Happel of Latimer. The wedding will take place at the Evangelical and Reformed Church in Klemme at seven o'clock on the evening of Saturday, March 12.

Observe Anniversaries

Mr and Mrs R C Ludeke of Clear Lake entertained relatives to a delicious turkey dinner with all the trimmings Sunday. The dinner was in honor of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr and Mrs Art Schoenwetter which was March 1st, and in honor of the following anniversaries which were on Feb. 28th.

Mr and Mrs George Schoenwetter, 43rd; Mr and Mrs Ralph Ludeke of Clear Lake, 38th; and Mr and Mrs Eldon Coulter of Redfield, 1st.

The afternoon was spent socially after which a nice lunch was served, including a lovely wedding cake which was baked and decorated by Mrs Jack Dominic of Clear Lake.

Athletic Banquet Tickets Available

Tickets are now available for the second annual Klemme Lions Club athletic banquet which will be held on Saturday evening, April 2nd.

Last year's banquet drew a large crowd and was very successful. Sponsors of the event are expecting an even larger turn out this year.

As yet, we haven't been able to learn just what will be on the program for the evening, but we do know that "Bucky" O'Connor, head basketball coach of the University of Iowa, will be on hand again this year, as well as Bud Suter, KGLO sportscaster, who will act as master of ceremonies.

In addition to the contribution of these two men to the evening's fun, there will be a short program by local talent, and a good meal.

You won't want to miss it, so see a member of the local Lions Club and get your tickets.

Boys State Tourney Will Be Televised

WOI-TV will originate the entire Boys State Basketball Tournament from the new Veterans Memorial Auditorium in Des Moines for an Iowa network consisting of at least four stations. WOI-TV in Ames, WMT-TV in Cedar Rapids, KWWL-TV in Waterloo, and KGLO-TV in Mason City, will all carry the tournament under the sponsorship of the Ford Dealers of Iowa.

WOI-TV, through arrangements with the Iowa Boys High School Athletic Association, will also make the telecasts on March 17, 18 and 19 available to any other television station serving Iowa. These stations may obtain local sponsorship for the tournament games or carry them as a public service.

Mail Late . . .

"Hypo" Ditched West of Town

Klemme folks have become used to the mail being late in the morning since the inaugural run of the "Hypo" (Highway Postoffice) last fall. So they weren't too surprised when it wasn't on time Saturday morning. Events that made it late were rather involved.

First of all, the driver of a semi went to sleep and hit the ditch between the two bridges just south of town on Highway 69. This happened early in the morning, but by the time they got around to pulling him out, it was almost time for the "Hypo" to make its run into Klemme.

Pulling the semi out of the ditch made it necessary to block off the highway and detour traffic around the section west. While all this was going on, people were coming to the postoffice and looking for their mail; which of course, wasn't here.

The word got out that the "Hypo" was held up waiting for the highway to be cleared, so everyone figured he would be in as soon as possible. Then Dave Schwichtenberg came in and said that they nearly had the semi back on the road and that he didn't see the "Hypo" down there. About that time, Jack Etchen came in and said that his son-in-law, "Bill" Westberg said that the "Hypo" was in the ditch, too.

The assemblage was hardly through arguing that one, when Harvey Barz stopped in and said that he had seen it going north by the Bruhl farm a mile west of the highway about a half hour earler.

All sorts of theories were advanced, even on to the affect that he probably just by-passed Klemme. A lot of good-natured banter was directed at the postmaster and passed back and forth as to what might have happened to the "Hypo", and some good ideas were pointed out as to just what the postoffice department could do with the blasted thing.

Anyway, our curiosity was finally aroused, so we jumped in the car and went looking. We found it in the ditch right in front of "Freddy" Danger's farm. A wrecker was there and they had him back on the road shortly after we got there.

We asked the patrolman what had happened and he said that the driver of the "Hypo" said he was crowded off the road. The implication was, though, that he doubted it.

Anyway, the mystery of what happened to the "Hypo" was cleared up, and the mail finally got here . . . not nearly as late as it has been on many mornings this winter.

We always thought that "Hypo" meant shot in the arm, but if that thing is a shot in the arm for our mail service . . . . . .

School Election Brings Forth Four Candidates

Local 4-H Clubs to Join In National Observance

Hancock County 4-H clubs are joining with other clubs throughout the nation, March 5 to 13, to observe National 4-H Club week. During these nine days a special effort will be made to complete the 1955 enrollment program and to emphasize the opportunities 4-H work offers young people, according to Doyle Gordon, County Extension youth assistant. Boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21 years are eligible for the membership.

The nation's 4-H clubs have adopted as their 1955 theme, "Improving Family and Community Living". Successful project work is the first step toward bringing about these improvements, Doyle says. Therefore every member is encouraged to conduct projects that will be practical and at the same time increase the member's skill in agriculture or home making, and improve his work habits.

An equally important part of the 4-H program is the emphasis that is put on training the members to be good citizens. Through the procedures of their meetings they practice citizenship and learn some of the responsibilities that individuals have in a democracy. In addition, music, recreation, demonstrations, judging, and all the other activities in which members engage, tend to bring satisfactions to the individuals and their families.

Last year 750 young people were enrolled in this county's 4-H clubs. In Iowa there were 48,116 members and the most recent available figures for the United States show 2,058,144 boys and girls enrolled.

It is estimated that 600 members are enrolled for 1955 in Hancock County's 4-H clubs. Of this number, 300 are enrolled in 4-H home economics clubs and 300 in 4-H agricultural project clubs.

Individuals who are serving as local club leaders and the clubs with which they are associated are: Bob Schneider and Donald Burk, Avery-Twin Lake Hustlers; Edwin Thiemann and Clifford Anderson, Ell Midgets; Kenneth Zwald and Walbert Mayland, Liberty Go Getters; Ed Halfpop and Ole Eliason, Twin Lake Indians.

Lois Christians On Tour With Luther Band

Miss Lois Christians, daughter of Mrs Ann Christians of Klemme, is preently on tour wtth the Luther College Concert Band. Miss Christians is a clarinetist in the band which is presenting 13 concerts in six mid-central states.

The tour began on March 3rd and will continue to March 14th. A highlight of this year's tour was an appearance on March 8th at a Music Educators Conference in Clevelnd, Ohio. Several thousand educators from a ten-state area were in attendance and the Luther band was the only band to appear before the conference.

The band has appeared or will appear in the following cities: Portage, Wis., Waupaca, Wis., Milwaukee, Wis., Nappanee, Ind., Columbus, Ohio, Cleveland, Ohio, Detroit, Mich., Hicksville, Ohio, Columbia City, Ind., Chicago, Ill., Beloit, Wis., and Decorah, Ia.

To Go Overseas

Word received from Pvt. Larry Stille, son of Quentin Stille, indicates that he will soon be in an overseas command. He has graduated from a Dial Central Office Maintenance Course at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey, and is now at Camp Kilmer, waiting orders which will send him overseas.

Prior to entering the service, Larry had spent considerable time in telephone work. He says it is work that he likes, and as a result he is enjoying his time in the army.

Approve 25 Miles of Road For 1955 Construction

Representatives from eleven township boards of trustees met with the County Board of Supervisors and County Engineer Charles K Paulson at the courthouse on Monday forenoon to discuss the 1955 road construction program for Hancock County.

The group organized as a County Board of Approval and approved the program as outlined by County Engineer Paulson. The program as outlined and adopted is a two-year program and will involve the construction of approximately 25 miles of local road, a part of which will be stabilized base.

Emphasis will be placed on such construction and on the construction of adequate bridges and culverts.

Voters Will Elect Two For 3-year Terms

Voters of the Klemme Community School District will go to the polls next Monday, March 14th, to elect two directors for three-year terms and a treasurer for a two-year term. The polling place will be the Klemme fire station and the polls will be open from 12 o'clock noon until 7 o'clock in the evening.

Voters will have the opportunity to select thir men for directors from four who have filed nomination papers. They are Alvin Goll, Ell Township; Glenn Lange, Twin Lake Township, Bernard Pringnitz, Liberty Township, and Herman Schmidt, Twin Lake Township.

Only one name is on the ballot for the position of treasurer and that is the incumbent, Mrs Stella Lemke.

At a special election to select directors, held last April 5th, only one-third of the eligible voters in the district went to the polls. This would seem to indicate a decided lack of interest in the school.

Everyone, however, is interested in the school and in seeing it run as efficiently and as much to the best interests of the pupils as possible. One way of making certain that this results, is to pick good men for directors and then go to the polls and vote them into office.

Have your say-so about who will direct the school. Get out and vote next Monday.

First Robins Reported

Friday was not the balmiest sort of a day, but the warm weather we had a couple of days previous must have fooled some robins.

Mrs. Howard Spitler, who lives northwest of Klemme, called us Friday noon to report that there were a dozen of the red breasted birds at their place. She said they came that morning.

BLIZZARD

A former Gowrie resident was a victim of a recent blizzard in South Dakota. Apparently his car stalled in the snow and his frozen body was found 300 feet away.

For the last month before it finally makes itself really felt, spring has the elusive quality of always being just around the corner. Trouble is, that sometimes it takes so long to find the right corner.

We had a couple of nice warm days the latter part of last week and on Friday we got a "first robin" report. We would be willing to make a small wager that by the time Sunday's cold wind and snow flurries had gone to work on them, they wished they had been more prudent and stayed in more sunny climes a bit longer.

Tuesday was a beautiful day, though, and today (Wednesday) promises to be even warmer, with the temperature supposed to go over the 60 mark all over the state. We like it!

Now, if we've just gone around the right corner, we should have mostly nice weather from now on. We'll keep our fingers crossed.

We have been a little more than slightly rushed this week. Mrs Clifford Montgomery, who normally sets most of the news type for The Times has been laid up with the flu. That has left us with all the type setting to do in addition to our usual news gathering, ad soliciting, writing, layout work, etc. We've had to burn the candle a little at both ends, but with the help of our "Devil", Merlyn Olson, who comes in for an hour in the mornings and after school, we guess we'll make it okay.

We notice in this week's Capitol Letter that four of our legislators have been stopped by law enforcement officers for traffic violations during the current legislative session. One of the four waived the immunity which he legally has while the legislature is in session, one was sent on his way after a lecture by the officer who stopped him, and the two others claimed the immunity. One of these, though, had a change of heart and went back and took his "medecine".

What we can't see is why a member of the legislature should be any more immune from arrest than any of the rest of us. They are the same kind of people as we are and drive cars that when improperly handled are just as capable of killing as those we drive. If a legislator chose to abuse his immunity privilege, he could get by with a number of things for which, to quote an old army saying, "we would be put in the guardhouse so deep they would have to pump in the sunlight".

Maybe we've got the wrong slant on this thing, but from where we sit, it looks like if they can make laws by which the rest of us must abide, they can do the same . . . and certainly their position in our social structure calls for a good example.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

LAST HALF

Iowa legislators are back at work for the second half of their 1955 session. No more bills may be filed by individual legislators though committee bills can still be submitted in the two houses.

Direction on the legislation now pending will be given by the steering committee in the house of representatives and the sifting committee in the senate. In the house, the steering committee regulates the order of bills on the calendar now, and later a sifting committee will be named to take over all bills not acted on. The senate calendar has not yet been turned over to sifting rules.

Committee assignments on these two important groups made by the presiding officers of the two houses are:

Senate sifting: Duane E. Dewel, Algona, Chairman; J K Lynes, Plainfield, ranking member; and DeVere Watson, Council Bluffs; Harry Watson, Sanborn; J. G. Lucas, Madrid; Geo. L Scott, West Union; X T Prentis, Mt. Ayr; A. J. Johnson, Elkader; Armch McFarlane, Waterloo; D C Nolan, Iowa City; Alan Vest, Sac City, all Republicans, and two Democrats, George O'Malley, Des Moines, and Thomas Dailey, Burlington.

ON TOLL ROADS

First public legislative meeting on the Iowa toll road proposition was held Monday in the house of representatives. The meeting was sponsored by the special toll roads committees of the house and senate.

State Sen. C S Van Eaton, Sioux City Republican, a toll road advocate, spearheaded the discussion favoring the east-west cross-state highway for Iowa. Opposition to this proposal was primarily guided by the Iowa Free Roads ass'n, which is composed in the main, of motel owners, service station operators and owners of other roadside establishments.

The proposed toll road would run from near Davenport to the western Iowa border near Council Bluffs. That's the route recommended by an out-of-state firm that made studies for the toll road last year and presented its report to Governor Beardsley last April.

Gov. Leo Hoegh has advocated the construction of a toll highway across Iowa under the requirement that "no state funds whatsoever" be used in the project.

GAS TAX FIGHT

The state legislature faces a fight on the proposition of a gas tax for speeding up the Iowa highway modernization program.

The Iowa Good Roads association is on record favoring a two-cent gas tax increase to speed the highway improvement program.

When the session started in mid-January, feeling was that a one-cent increase approved temporarily in 1953 would be permanent, asd another one-cent hike approved.

Now, however, opposition to gasoline tax increases has mounted under the spur of the Iowa Petroleum Industries Committee and the Iowa Farm Bureau.

Both of these groups would go along with the present five-cent state gas ax but do not want another cent added by this session.

Republican and Democrat party platforms are committed on a speedup of the highway modernization program, and Governor Hoegh has advocated another cent of tax over the present gas structure.

IMMUNITY QUESTION

Probably few citizens realized, before the current legislative session, that state legislators, while engaged in their lawmaking duties, are immune from arrest under centain conditions.

This year, however, legislative immunity from traffic violations has been widely publicized. Four legislators have been halted by enforcement officials in different violation situations.

State Rep. Raymond Cornick of New London, had his traffic summons, issued for using Des Moines streets for automobile storage, dismissed. State Rep. William Denman, Des Moines, got a pair of tickets for parking in a Des Moines loading zone. Denman decided not to claim the immunity but paid the fines.

State Rep. Vern Lisle, Clarinda, was halted at Bedford for "Improper passing" but the enforcement official waved him on after determining Lisle was enroute to a legislative session. State Sen. Lawrence Putney, Gladbrook, was halted at Marshalltown when, officers said, he ignored a flashing stop sign.

GILLETTE GETS JOB

Former U S Senator Guy Gillette, defeated in the November elections by Republican Thomas Martin, has accepted a job as special counsel to the internal security subcommitte of the senate post office and civil service committee.

The committee job pays $11,600 annually.

The Iowan said he had agreed to take the post "for a few months at least."

Iowa Republicans had been opposing the offering of any type federal post to Gillette, a Democrat. But inasmuch as the Democrats hold majority position there are certain patronage jobs over which the GOP has no control.

TAKES STATE JOB

Atty. George E West, 27, of Des Moines, chairman of the Polk county Young Republicans last year, has been named an assistant attorney general by Dayton Countryman, state attorney general.

West's appointment brings the staff to full strength with nine assistants now working under Countryman.

ASK HIGHWAY PROBES

Some state legislators want the highway commission investigated.

Two Republicans, Representatives Roscoe Pollock of Douds and William Dillon of Columbus Junction have filed a resolution in the house proposing an investigation of the activities of the commission.

They asked the appointment of a committee of five to be named by the speaker and want a committee report made to the house by April 4.

The second such action was filed by the Democrats in the house. The minority party members suggest a bi-partisan committee of nine be selected to hold public hearings and issue subpoenas to aid in the necessary investigation.

The Democrats also suggest a $30,000 appropriation to finance the probe. Under this plan a deadline of Jan. 1, 1956 has been suggested for filing of the complete report with the governor.

At the halfway mark the house had taken no action on either proposal.

COMMUNITY KLEMME SCHOOLS

VOLUME NUMBER 6 | KLEMME, IOWA, MARCH 9, 1955 | NUMBER 20

Editorial.

This high above the earth the sky is a deep blue; the clouds are below them; oxygen has to be pumped into their lungs. From side to side, stretching forever below them, the white wastes, speckled with trees, moved here and there by a frozen lake.

The pilot sits in his cramped seat, dreamily regarding the starboard wing, the three huge intakes next to the fuselage, and one hundred fifty feet farther out, the two lonely engines in the single pad.

A tap on his shoulder, the navigator-bombadier sits with his finger pointing over the pilot's shoulder to the odd-shaped lakes.

Checkpoint.

Now, phase two of the flight. His hands sweating under the heavy flight gloves, the pilot eases the heavy yoke forward, probes the throttle quadrants to the maximum and holds on. The air in the bubble becomes electrified. The other two men know what the dive and increase of speed mean.

Radar.

Go low, their instructor had said. Go low and fast. All land based radar has gaps near the ground. Go low and fast. Don't worry about observers on the ground. In this area they are not organized.

They are low. At this altitude their bomber is consuming 180 pounds of fuel a minute, but it is imperative that they fly at this altitude.

Checkpoint.

Horse back on the yoke that minutes ago sent you plummeting earthword, pilot! Horse back on the yoke and send your plane and crew and precious cargo screaming up. Let the fools on the ground blow their horns and scramble their planes. It takes one minute to get an interceptor in the air. Two minutes to activate a ground to air missile station.

Intelligence has reported no radar controlled antiaircraft guns in the area. How can interceptors flying at 650 miles an hour intercept a bomber flying at 675? You have two minutes pilot. Two minutes before the rockets come streaking at you. Two minutes to deliver your bomb.

Bomb. One bomb. One city.

But don't worry, pilot. You're on course, on your bomb run. There, beyond the water, is your target. Now . . . . BOMB AWAY!

The plane leaps up, high into the air.

Stabilize, pilot. Get her level, then push over and hit the deck.

But it's too late. Even as the nose dips you hear the cannons in the tail chatter. Then the earsplitting explosion as the rockets from the new-type interceptor rip into your belly, tearing the plane in two.

Rest easy, pilot, because even as your plane disappears in a sheet of flame, the bomb goes off.

People die in the streets—living organisms one second, charred remains, the next; then smoke.

Children, women, men. Killed instantly.

Others aren't so lucky. Theirs is a lingering death. The radiation eating their blood.

Simultaneously, submarines rise from the water along the east and west coasts, firing rockets from their decks. Their targets are New York, San Francisco, the ports, the refineries, steel mills, and army camps.

But you, pilot, you've done your job.

You've destroyed Chicago.

It could happen.

Civil observers could prevent it.

Hairpins & Tennis Shoes

For the past week we have been doing a variety of things. One day we learned a new square dance and reviewed the others we have already learned. The next day we marched. This is called grand marching which is similar to the grand march in roller skating. Another time we had conditioning exercises. Oh, what sore muscles. I guess some of them hadn't ever been used before, or not for a long time, anyway.

This month we plan to learn how to play tennis, that is, of course, if we get enough rackets. If any of you girls, have a racket, please put your name on them and bring them to use in school. From the comments which I have heard, you all want to learn. If you want to get into this racket, bring those rackets. The sooner the better.

General News

On Tuesday of last week Happy Al Bell presented us with an assembly program, "Sons of Ireland". As usual he had some of his jokes about his adventures.

He went to Ireland in the hope of finding his grandfather's treasure which was hidden there. He thought for sure he could live the rest of his life in ease. But when the treasure was found and dug, it was a shillelagh that belonged to his grandfather.

Al was wearing pants that were three-eighths of an inch thick and also he was wearing a sheep's wool sweater.

After his jokes and lecture. he showed us his own movie.

He is off on another expedition. This time he is going to Canada to hunt for uranium. Al will probably be back next year with a suit made of $100 bills if he discovers uranium.

It seems that Denny and Dave have the habit of putting things in the paper that aren't true. How about this, boys?

So now Jeanne and Marvin are going together. Could this really be true? We wonder.

What is the attraction in the library each day in last study hall period, Barbara? It couldn't be Martin B, could it?

How are Herb and Colleen coming along? We haven't heard much about them lately.

Tractor Accidents Numerous in Spring

Iowa farmers are heading into the planting season when a tractor makes its biggest contribution to farming. And it's also the season when the tractor takes its biggest toll of the year in lives and suffering from accident victims.

Norval Wardle, farm safety specialist at Iowa State College, says past records show that through March, April and May tractors are involved in more farm accidents than any other single implement. Last year, 20 of the total of 51 fatal accidents reported by Iowa newspapers occurred during these three months.

Wardle has recently completed analysis of newspaper reports of farm accidents covering the period from May 1953 through the end of 1954. His analysis shows that more than half of the accidents reported in the spring months involved tractors. But after that time tractors were not the leading accident cause in any month.

In the period covered in this analysis, Wardle reports, there was a total of 384 tractor accidents reported in Iowa newspapers. Fatalities occurred in 103. In 165 cases the accident resulted from the tractor tipping over—more than half were sideways tips—94 happened to tractor operators who were under 15 years of age, and 80 were reported in which a person was run over by a tractor.

It's not the tractor that's at fault, Wardle emphasizes. Thousands of Iowans have shown that they can take advantage of the great work-saving and time-saving benefits of the tractor without injury. Others have failed to approach tractor operation seriously enough.

Wardle urges farmers to give some advance thought to tractor operation before this year's field work begins. Put only persons of mature judgement, experience and physical stamina on tractors. And resolve that speed is not all-important—that at least one key point, safety, always rates first.

Hog rustlers struck again recently in Clinton county. 25 hogs were stolen from the Leo Spain farm, between Charlotte and Petersville.

POLTRY

Poultry raisers can look for better profits in the coming months, according to Donald J Hunter, farm economist at Iowa State College. Egg prices rose steadily during January and the first half of February.

Egg production during January was up five percent from last year for the United States as a whole. Iowa egg production rose eight percent, says Hunter. Even so, egg prices have been running 1½ to 2 cents higher than in 1954 for large extras at Chicago.

Prices climbed more steeply during February than in January, says the economist. This probably occurred because of severely cold weather over much of the producing area. A report from a neighboring state indicated a 30 percent drop-off in production during the recent sharp freeze. In Iowa, trade sources indicated a slight decrease in egg collection in part due to reduced production. Also, more eggs are being sent to the hatcheries now than earlier in the season. Because of the advancing prices, buyers, assemblers, and even producers have been reported to be withholding eggs from the market.

As the prices advanced, storage interests slowed down their operations, says Hunter. Many are temporarily out of the market and are processing previously acquired stocks.

However, says the economist, cold-storage stocks show a large increase in all classes over last year. Shell eggs showed the biggest rise, more than three times as large as last year. But, he predicts, at the prevailing prices, storage operation won't continue at a high rate, especially since last year's egg prices were lower in the fall than in the spring months.

One important consideration is: "What effect will the egg price have on producer's intentions in regard to flock replacement?"

Hunter indicated the intentions on February 1 were for 20 percent fewer chicks than in 1954. And, he says, apparently the egg price rise in January was not sufficient to induce many more early chicks. If producers should increase flocks to a great extent, this will tend to dampen profit prospects for next fall. However, recent reports from the principal broiler-producing areas tell of a switched pattern from November and December, and more chicks are being bought by broiler producers.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

If the rope had been strong and if the driver had been headstrong, this would be the story of the most pathetic Iowa traffic accident of the year. It turned out to be only one of the most unusual, but it still makes frightening reading.

Traveling along a busy highway, a driver noticed what seemed to be a rope lying across the pavement in his path. He slowed down immediately. That simple little action saved him months of sleepless nights. For just as his front tires were about to pass over the rope, it sprang into the air and stretched taut in front of his car.

The amazed motorist jammed on his brakes and hit the rope at a blessedly slow speed. He got the car stopped in about ten feet and climbed out weak in the knees. What he found made him weak all over.

A small boy lay on each side of the highway. One boy was seven and the other eight years old. Each boy still had one end of that rope tied around his waist. They had been playing a game with the passing cars.

When the car hit the rope it had broken close to the biggest boy and he had only been knocked down. The smaller boy had been dragged a few feet but, except for rope burns and scratches, he too was unhurt.

What if this motorist had been of the headstrong variety; the kind who might have noticed the rope lying on the highway but who would have plowed on at his usual rate of speed? It is too easy to imagine the children being snapped to their deaths at the ends of the rope.

The driver involved in this strange accident was a wise man. He knew that danger on the highway is often revealed by the most insignificant signs.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Letters to the Editor,
The Klemme Times,
Klemme, Iowa
Dear Editor:

Setting here tonite beneath the burning cathode ray, I was just thinking about my favorite uncle; how today he handed me an old, long-lost address book containing among other names, some names of friends of mine with whom I had been in the service. As he gave it to me, he remarked, "I see a notation beside a couple of names. What does that mean?"

So, as I was thumbing through the book, I came to the "G" section and I saw the name HAROLD GIBSON, CANTWELL, MO., KILLED IN ACTION ON HIS THIRD STRIKE. Now I remember Harold well. "Hoot" Gibson, as he was known in the squadron, and as I set here thinking about my life and rolling back the calendar, I can't help thinking what Hoot's mother would or could have offered just to have her son's life spared. Now, as I recall, she was widowed and "Hoot" was the only son, so naturally I guess they weren't too well fixed. But I'm certain she would have figured out something.

In fact, I'm wondering what I would be willing to pay or how much I would be willing to sacrifice if I knew I was going to have to leave God's earth? It's really something to think about. Seriously, now, if all the chips were down, all the raises in, and the last round of cards coming up, I wonder how much any of us would sacrifice to see another sunrise?

As Chief Observer of the Klemme Ground Observer Corps, I do know one thing all of us can do, and that is: WAKE UP! SIGN UP! LOOK UP!

Now, let's face it. Wars are man made—strictly manufactured. Nature has nothing to do with it. Most of us don't know why or when the gears are started in motion that brings on war, but as for the ground observer corps, many of us have different ideas and attitudes.

Now, it's a known fact that radar is practically worthless on any aircraft flying below 4,000 feet—or low-flying aircraft. Just about 10 minutes ago a DC3 went over and I know he wasn't on the radar screen at Waverly, because he wasn't an inch above 2,000 feet. The reason I noticed him was because I believe No. 5 spark plug of the rear bank on the starboard, or right engine, was fouling up a bit.

As for the attitudes taken, here is one I found quite amusing.

I. The experts claim that if the U. S. is attacked, it will be from the north or polar route, because the great circle route is the shortest. Anyway, this chap remarked, "Nuts! Why should we waste our time? Let the observers up in Minnesota watch." To my knowledge most of Minnesota is on a 24-hour watch now. I say, "Fine, let the boys up north watch, but let us watch too." Now let's just get dreamy here for a moment. You know, it's the unexpected that always happens.

I'm wondering if this person that made that remark ever looked at it this way. Suppose he had a brother or sister, or some other relative up north who was assigned a watch or was asked to help. And as this person was setting in front of his TV or doing something else when an aircraft—let's say hostile—flew over and this person who had the watch said, "Nuts! If that is an enemy plane, it won't drop any bombs here. It's looking for bigger targets. Maybe the Quad Cities or Kansas City, Mo. I won't even bother calling it in." Now I'm wondering if this boy back here knew that his "boy up north" took this attitude, what opinion he would have. Or suppose this person had a brother or maybe his parents living in St. Louis or possibly Witchita, Kansas, where our Strategic Air Command bombers are built, and one of these cities was the target. If he knew that in 30 or 45 minutes they would all be dead, I'm wondering then what his opinion would be of "the boys up north". Actually, all he would have had to do was say 14 little words to start the ball rolling: 1 multi-motor, low, Metro Papa 2-0 Red, west, 1 mile, going southwest. Yes, I'm wondering if he could have torn himself away from the TV long enough to do that. I just wonder.

Or let's look at it from this angle. Shall we say the Captain Midnight or Captain Video angle?

2. Let's say a hostile aircraft is headed for Oak Ridge, Tenn., and he's flying at 1,500 feet. Naturally, he isn't picked up by radar; so here he is, toodling along south of Minneapolis at about 'skatey-eight" miles per hour, undetected, and just as free as the snow that falls, when about 50 or 75 miles north of the Mason City airport, the cylinder head temperature on No. 1 engine starts rising like a homesick angel and No. 2 engine breaks out in a fire. Now, no one knows when an aircraft will quit, but they do come down as we've seen by the papers lately, and this thing is coming down. So the pilot says "Boys, we have to ditch this thing." But first he looks at his map and gets his bearings and says to himself, "All is not lost. We'll make a mission out of this yet."

Well by now my boy here is all but astraddle of the TV set cause there is a hot ball game going on. Back to the aircraft in distress. By now she's just coming over the north end of the north-south runway of the Mason City airport with the bomb bay doors open! Wonder why

Well, I would guess that he's going to part with that A-bomb that's occupying the belly of the plane, because who wants to belly land with an A-bomb or even a 100-pounder for that matter. They can't bail out with it in there or she'll do a slow 180 degree turn to the left and land practically on top of their parachutes, so . . . Bombs Away!

There's no two ways abut it. He will jettison that thing. So, we can scratch Mason City, Ventura, Clear Lake, Sheffield, and many other towns, including dear old Klemme. Now what's my pal doing? Oh, he's practically crawling in the TV set cause we're in the last seconds of the fourth quarter and coming down to a hot finish! Yea, what a finish. Really now, should we leave it all to the boys up north?

Now, my dear Editor, I like to go fishing, and I like to go hunting, and even like to do a little pleasure flying myself when I can afford it. In fact, I even like a good TV program now and then, but I'm not married to the dern thing, so please don't think I'm too fanatic about this and throw this letter in the circular file. The point I'm trying to get across to my dear friends is this: I don't want you to donate any of your money now. All I ask is for you to offer no more of your time than possibly 2 hours per month, maybe not that much. That's 2 hours out of 720. Just a promise that if such a thing were to happen and we needed you, you would LOOK UP!

Qualifications: Reasonable eyesight, hearing, and the ability to speak English.

How to volunteer? Simple. Just listen. Pick up your phone now. Yes, now; not after lunch or this evening, but now while you're thinking about it and telephone KLEMME 80. Give them your name and say "I would like to join the GROUND OBSERVER CORPS.

Would you do that, just for me and 7 million friends of yours and mine?

Respectfully Yours,
D. J. SCHAEFER,
Citizen, U.S.A.

You see by the report that some townships lacked workers. Please remember next year, the old saying—"You will never find time for anything. If you want time, you must make it."

A safe and promising Polio vaccine ,developed through the March of Dimes financed research, is now being tested, and they expect to give it in the first and second grades in Iowa schools this spring.

Contributions purchase hot pack machines, iron lungs, rocking beds and other respiratory aids. Mr Arden C Pommering of Kanawha, has been one of our patients we have been spending money on, in our county. He has been in the iron lunng at Fort Dodge for some time, then out in the rocking bed, and had to go back in the iron lung again. Now he is able to be out of it again. Up to date we have paid $1407 for his care. Would you like to change places with him? Or would you prefer to give donations so that the research labortory can soon conquer Polio?

We thank each who donated and especially those who worked for Polio. If any were not contacted, you may mail your check to Mr Joe Osman, chairman, Britt.

Hancock County Drivers In Fewer Accidents In '54 Than in '53

The state safety department reported Thursday that Hancock county drivers were involved in 202 traffic accidents at a total of $183,335 in damages in 1954.

The county's traffic accident loss last year was accounted for by a cost of $82,485 for property damage and $100,850 for personal injury in accidents.

The figures compare with a record of 209 accidents and a loss of $71,845 for property damage and $77,400 for personal injury accidents in 1953, according to Milo Chalfant, Director of the state safety responsibility division.

Hancock county's traffic accident record was part of last year's all-state total of 50,869 accidents and a total economic loss of $27,638,779.

Tragic and costly as this record was, it still marked a general reduction compared to 1953 when there were 54,841 accidents.

Chalfant said 1954 was the fourth consecutive year in which total accidents have decreased in Iowa.

THE KLEMME TIMES

PUBLISHED WEEKLY
On Wednesday Afternoon

Lyndon E. Kilgore, Publisher

Although the 231 ballots that were cast in Monday's school election, constituted a light vote, still it was much better than in most of the other districts in this part of the state. In fact, the vote was larger here than was the vote in Mason Ciy, and in one town not too far distant, only 26 votes were cast.

We have yet to see a sign on our main street making it legal to drive at more than 25 miles an hour, but we have seen plenty of people exceed that limit by at least 20 miles. We would hate to see them have to stop quick to avoid hitting a child dashing into the street. We just don' think they could get the job done.

Basketball fans should get their fill this week. The boys state tournament will all be telecast, and the NCAA tournament at Kansas City will be broadcast for as long as Iowa remains in the running.

We wouldn't venture to pick a winner in the boys tournament at Des Moines, but of course our sympathies are with the little fellows . . . so we would like to see either Roland or Sioux Center come through. And we would really like to see Iowa win out at Kansas City. Especially since it is their first appearance in the NCAA tournament.

We wonder just how much tooth gnashing is going on in Red China since they apparently aren't going to get the jet fuel on the Polish tanker. We also wonder if somebody isn't going to lose quite a batch of money on the deal. The men with the money in that jet fuel are either going to have to find another buyer soon or be out a lot of money for the use of the ship, Good enough for them!

We're still looking for the corner that spring is just around, but we haven't seen anything that even looks like it for about a week, now. We're ready, though.

CAPITOL LETTER

TRUCK BILL FAILS

Increased efforts are being made in the Iowa house and senate for adding another cent to the state gasoline tax.

Impetus to this drive came after a house committee killed a controversial ton-mile tax proposed toll road for Iowa came in truck taxes in Iowa and raised an estimated $6-million to $7-million. Had the measure been voted out of committee, and passed by the legislature, the added funds would have gone into the state road program.

There was little likelihood of legislative approval of the plan, however, but it did hold in abeyance any activity on a program for increasing the gasoline tax to speed up the modernization and improvement of the primary highways.

TOLL ROAD

First formal action on a proposal toll road for Iowa came in the form of a public hearing in the legislature. The hearing was only for the purpose of informing legislators and the general public on the pros and cons of the toll road proposition. The matter still must be taken up by the senate and house.

State Sen. C. S. Van Eaton of Sioux City led the discussion favoring the 300-mile east-west toll highway across Iowa, and several other legislators spoke in favor of the plan.

No legislators spoke against the toll road. Main opposition came from Robert Bliss of Sioux City, executive secretary of the Iowa Free Roads Association, which is opposing an Iowa toll road project.

Most opposition comes from operators of private businesses along the state's present east-west primary highways.

SEEK TAX REPEAL

A bill in the state legislature would repeal the 5-cents a gallon motor fuel tax on naptha and other solvents and save the state money.

Normally exemptions cost money but in this instance about $20,000 a year would be saved the state, officials in the Iowa treasurer's office report.

Through allowances for shrinkage in shipping of naptha into Iowa, and through refunds for the 5-cent tax because the fuel is not used on the highways, it costs the state about $20,000 to administer and handle the program.

10 SAFETY HINTS

A statewide safety meeting in Des Moines outlined a 10-point program and recommended action on it for improving the state's highway death toll. The recommendations are:

1. Compulsory motor vehicle driving instruction courses in high schools.
2. Daytime and nighttime highway speed limits.
3. Statewide motor vehicle testing program.
4. Increased efforts in suspending drivers licenses for violation of traffic laws.
5. More strict driver's license requirements.
6. An increase in the size of the Iowa highway patrol.
7. Increased enforcement of the drunk driving laws.
8. Regularly planned drives against traffic violators.
9. Safety discussion meetings.
10. Improved and modernized highways.

SET LOAN MARKS

Iowa's state auditor's office reports that 56-state chartered savings and loan association hit new highs in practically all activities during the year just ended.

The annual audit indicates that Iowa's 56 savings and loan firms have assets totaling $168,400,000. The previous high was $149-million a year ago.

During the year the associations loaned a total of more than $48-million through 8,800 mortgage loans.

HOTEL BEER SALES

The Iowa attorney general's office has ruled that a hotel beer permit must also have a regular Class B. tavern permit if it operates a bar open to the public.

The opinion also held an establishment with a hotel beer permit which operates its own dining room, may serve beer to guests in that dining room. However, if the dining room is leased to another operator, he must obtain a Class B permit to serve beer.

OFFICERS NOMINATED

Henry J. TePaske of Orange City has been nominated for president of the Iowa State Bar Association, and R. R. Bateson of Eldora for vice-president.

Announcement of the action by the board of governors of the association was made by Clyde E. Jones of Ottumwa, bar association president.

Jones said that nomination is tantamount to election and that the new officers would assume their duties in June. Ballots will be mailed to all lawyers in Iowa who are members of the association. Final action will be announced at the state convention in the first week in June.

TePaske would succeed Jones, and Bateson would replace TePaske as vice-president.

Cackles From Band Coop

Our hat is off to everyone who had anything to do with the operatto. Let's hope for more in the future.

This week we will introduce to you the saxophone quartet. It's members are Sharleen Swanson, a sophomore, first alto saxophone; Elaine Jurgemeyer, a freshman, second alto sax; Jerry La Favre, an eighth grader tenor sax; Joyce Lassahn, a freshman, baritone sax. This is the first time Klemme High School has had a group of this kind, and it's a refreshing change from the ordinary.

Fifth Grade News

In social sudies we are studying the South Central States. We have made maps and have taken a quiz over each section.

In health we are studying about our teeth. Each one of us has made a sketch of a tooth. The best ones we put on the bulletin board. We are hoping those who haven't visited the dentist will do so soon.

In arithmetic we are estimating answers for our problems before we do our work.

Darlene Brekke has entered our room. She came here from Garner. This gives us seven girls and fifteen boys. We hope she will be very happy with us.

Billy Renner had a birthday last week and treated us to ice cream.

Jim C. and Keith made us a book chart to see how many library books we will read between now and the end of the year.

Hairpins & Tennis Shoes

The high school has been rope-jumping. We have also been jumping to music to try to increase rhythm and ability.

And here's a little reminder.

If any of you have tennis rackets and tennis balls, please put your name on them and bring them.

In the grades, one class each PT period has charge of the whole class. This group introduces the game to the others. That way each class has an opportunity to play the game they like. We have five new students, Karen and Darlene Breekke, Linda and Karen Michelson, and Velma Christensen. We now have 44 students.

General News

The seniors are about to start on their class play. The name of it is "Nearly Beloved" Tryouts for the cast were held last Wednesday and Thursday, and the cast was picked on Friday. Monday the first rehearsal was held. The cast is comprised of eight girls and five boys. By the looks of the name of the play, rehearsal should be very interesting.

Editorial

Questions of the Future:

1. Will the Student Council in co-operation with a class of KHS sponsor any more parties this semester? If so, when? If not, why? Since the Christmas party seemed a success and since the students have all improved in P T classes, some definite anwsers to the preceeding questions should be decided—soon.

2. With the coming of spring, will the suggestions in the suggestion box increase in number?

3. Will there ever again be a girls' basketball team in Klemme? Has this form of sport been dropped forever from our record books? If so, unfortunately that girl's state trophy will never be presented to Klemme, either now or in the next 100 years.

4. Will everyone be happy when school is dismissed in May?

Seventh Grade News

Last Friday we put our arithmetic skills to work at making circle designs with our compasses and protratcors. A few of the pupils made an arithmetic bulletin board using facts about lines and angles.

An attractive board for geography on Buildings Around the World was made by other pupils.

We are having a good grammar contest in which we are trying to improve our grammer. The grammar champs for this week are Candace Carlson, Janice Beier, Roxanne Back, Eugene Zwald and Gordon Lassahn.

Senior News

English: Mr Hiller has picked our senior play and will pick the cast today.

Shorthand: We're still writing away our time. It looks as if there will be plenty of good secretaries on hand at the end of the year. But of course to be an excellent secretary, college is needed before the job.

History: We're dealing with the first world war in history. Woodrow Wilson was the president who unwillingly led us into that war. But his second term as president put him in the class of truly great presidents. He was a world leader, under the Democratic government.

Home Ec: In the recent past the home economics girls made all the different types of potatoes, such as French fried, baked, mashed, fried, and scalloped potatoes. Today they will make cheese souffles, cheese omelets, and macaroni and cheese. Doesn't it sound good? I wonder if they'd consider treating the school kids. We'd appreciate it!

Bookkeeping: We have just started a chapter on notes and interest. We find that figuring interest has some of us stumped.

Typing: We are still working on our projects and ten-minute timed writings.

Business Law: Studying guarantees is now our subject.

Sixth Grade News

We really got our class enrollment increased the past two weeks. We welcomed in Karen and Linda Michelson who have come in from a country school and also Karen Brekke from Garner. So now we have 11 girls and 12 boys.

We have our puppet heads all done. Now we are in the middle of writing the plays. If they are good we hope to put it on for the 5th and 7th grades. We are having two different plays. One funny one, the other is a murder one. Our new girls who weren't here in time to start puppets are making the stage.

How does Gary rate in biology class? It seems to us that he is trying to be friendly with Sharleen.

It seems that Raymond H has a new heart throb. Could it be Beverly L.?

We see that Richard M. has been making eyes at Jeanne B.

What is this we hear about Merlyn having a girl at Mason City? How about it, Merlyn? Does she have your ring, too? I haven't seen Winola wearing it lately.

It seems Harry had quite a time trying to find his car Friday night. Is it true, Harry?

What Klemme girls were flirting with Kanawha boys last Thursday?

Marlee B and Cecil seem to be a pretty steady couple lately.

I think Harriett is kind of giving Merlyn the eye since Winola and he broke up.

Gordon L has his class ring back. Don't tell us that he isn't going with Linda anymore.

vestigate the state highway commission.

The Republicans killed, by a 56-34 vote, a bill sponsored by two GOP house members that would provide for an investigation of "certain questionable practices."

Roscoe Pollock of Douds and William Dillon of Columbus Junction were the two house members sponsoring the proposition.

A Democrat resolution, filed just a few days after the GOP's, asks for a $30,000 appropriation for an interim investigation of the commission by a by-partisan ninety-member unit. No action has been taken on this proposal.

NO STATE ACTION

An eight-week state investigation on an alleged liquor ee payoff did not reveal sufficient evidence to warrant a successful prosecution, Gov. Leo A. Hoegh reports.

The investigation was launched on the basis of reports that a former state appointive official had engaged in the promotion of a certain brand of liquor and trying to get such liquor placed on sale in Iowa liquor stores.

Hoegh said the attorney general's office reported to him that there is insufficient evidence and corroboration necessary to sustain a criminal conviction under Iowa law.

The governor said that legislation will be sought making it a crime for any state official or employee to work for a liquor company. A state law now forbids employees of the liquor control commission from such activity but does not cover specifically other state employees.

ACTS ON EGG GRADING

The Iowa house is now studying a measure passed by the senate that would provide a uniform egg-grading law. The measure, if passed into law, sponsors say, will bring farmers $14-to $20-million more income on eggs. Senate vote on the proposal was 36 to 12.

The bill provides that dealers and processors of eggs pay license fees of $12 to $50 a year. Candlers and egg graders would pay a license of $2 annually.

Governor Hoegh has recommended such a law for Iowa.

Under the proposal Iowa eggs could command pemium prices for top eggs on eastern markets.

"We'll Drive, Buddy"

Here's a story that should officially end the winter fishing season:

A E McMahon, conservation officer for Carroll and Greene counties, approached a river last winter to check two young men on the ice. One of the men was earnestly beating on the ice with an ax while his friend, armed with a spear, stood over a distant hole in the ice waiting for fish to be driven by.

When Mac appeared the man with the spear instantly saw him.

Without hesitation, he ran up to Mac and handed him his spear, saying "Here, buddy, you spear for a while. We'll drive."

And drive they did. Right into court.

Riehm Has Three Bills Passed By Both Houses

All Three Pertain To School Matters

WEEK OF MARCH 7TH

The Legislature reconvened Monday, March 7th, after a week of recess in which the members were able to look after some of their personal affairs at home, talk with the people in their home counties and devote extra time to the consideration of the legislation yet pending.

Thus refreshed, everyone seemed anxious to be back and to get started on the work which remains. As I told you in my last report, the bills now must originate in committee rather than from an individual member or group of members so perhaps there is a little more time which can be devoted to committee meetings and consideration of the bills.

The activities of the steering committee have taken a considerable amount of time and it is the work of this committee to report out the bills on a calendar which schedules when they shall be considered by the house in general. This committee will continue to function until such time as the sifting committee is announced, which may be around the first of April although there is no set time. Then the sifting committee will dispense with the calender and elect which bills the house may consider in light of time remaining the session.

Personally, I have had a rather busy week for several of the bills which I sponsored came on for consideration. These bills represent an attempt to correlate and correct existing legislation with the goal in mind that the reorganization of school districts which the law has provided for may be effectuated with a minimum of confusion and delay. You may have noticed in the papers that H. F. 100 dealing with school elections for bonded indebtedness, H. F. 71 relating to provisions concerned with remodeling, repair, and reconstruction of existing school buildings, and H. F. 102 relating to the change of boundaries of school distrcits, successfully passed the house. Action on House Files 70 and 73 have been deferred until next Monday for the purpose of permitting the members to confer with their people at home so that they may represent this opinion.

A public hearing on the toll road for Iowa was held this week and both sides were well represented. Those in favor of a toll road from New York to San Franscisco said that it would be well for Iowa to do what it can to secure the commercial as well as travel benefits to be derived from having it go through our state. The opposition pointed out there is considerable difference of opinion on the matter of whether traffic in this portion of the country is heavy enough to make a toll road self-supporting and that in any event there is no real rush and that it is not imperative that a toll road authority with an appropriation be provided for at this time. These public hearings, although few in number, have been very well attended by the public and it is always gratifying to see such an expression of interest in legislative affairs.

Pavey and Clements Injured In Accident Sunday Near Belmond

Wallace Pavey and his son-in-law, John Clements were injured Sunday evening when they were involved in a traffic accident south of Belmond. Neither were seriously injured. John was taken to the Belmond Hospital, treated and released that evening. He was pretty badly cut and bruised, but is able to be up and around. However he has still not returned to work.

Mr Pavey was not cut nearly as badly as John, but was thrown against the steering wheel, badly bruising his chest. He is still in the Belmond Hospital receiving treatment. His car was practically ruined.

The accident came about as Wallace and John were returning from a blacksmith and welders meeting at Rowan. Sunday's storm had made the highway slippery and visibility was poor. A car driven by Carl Gillum of Des Moines was travelling south on Highway No. 69 just below the long hill 5 miles south of Belmond and as it approached Pavey's car it skidded and swung directly in front of it. There was no chance to avoid the accident.

Gillum was injured only slightly; his son was not injured at all, but his two daughters are still in the hospital at Belmond with head injuries.

Mrs John Clements drove to Belmond Sunday evening to bring her husband home and on the way home her car was sideswiped by a southbound car. This accident happened two miles south of Goodell. Mrs Clements said that she noticed the oncoming car was crowding her lane and that she pulled over and came a complete stop. The southbound car still hit her car and knocked off the door handle. It bent the door so badly that they were unable to open it.

The southbound car did not stop after the accident, so Mrs Clements didn't know who the guilty driver was, but she said she knew what color car he had, because she had a lot of paint off of it.

All-in-all, it was a bad day on the highway for the Pavey and Clements families.

Klemme Students Take Part In Music Festival At Luther College

March 17 and 18th, Gracka Gerardi, flute; Fred Arnold, cornet; and Arthur Carlson, trombone were among the students selected from surrounding schools in Iowa Minnesota and Wisconsin to take part in the Dorian Music Festival held at Luther College, Decorah.

The 280 piece band was directed by Frank A Piersal, assistant professor of music at Iowa State College. The students did not see the music to be played until the first rehearsal Thursday evening, after which Sigurd Rascher, world famed concert saxophonist presented a recital.

Friday was spent rehearsing and various solos and ensembles were heard and criticized by S. Rascher, Vincent Back, Kermit Henricksen and Donald Djerdrun.

At 8:00 P. M. the massed band presented the following program:

Brighton Beach, Sir Lencelot Overture, Celito Lindo, Introduction and Samba (S Rascher, saxophone soloist), Spiritual from Symphony No. 5½ and on the Mall.

The last number was one the audience had to take part in with "La La" and whistling. A pleasant climax.

Several outstanding students played solos. Followed by a concert by Luther College Concert Band. We are very proud to say that Lois Christians of Klemme is a member of this band and was one of the 50 students selected to go on tour. This is her first year at Luther College.

Those who attended were very much impressed with the wonderful evening of music and we can feel justly proud to have three high school students selected to take part.

Interested Klemme People Invited to Hear Lecture On Comic Books April 4

Mr. Beckman will illustrate his comments by showing on the screen actual pages from undesirable comic books.

Progressive Club would like to extend a special invitation to all groups and individuals in the Klemme community who are interested in improving reading material in the home. There will be no admission charge.

WEEK OF MARCH 14TH

This week proved to be another busy week. All people interested in school reorganization, should know that both the Senate and Houses approriations committees have approved a bill to increase the state appropriation for Agriculture Land Tax Credits from 5 million to 10½ million dollars which should allow full payment of school taxes on agricultural lands above 15 mills. Property owners in towns will receive an indirect benefit from the Agricultural Land Tax Credit because with school reorganization, a large tax base is obtained and thus the school tax in the towns will be lower. If reorganization of school districts succeeds in creating more efficient and economical school units, together with added state school aid, then everyone's school taxes should be reduced. I fully expect the Agricultural Land Credit to be passed by this legislature.

The Union Shop bill which was recommended for indefinite postponement by the Labor Committee by a vote of 14 to 10, came up for debate on the House floor by a motion by Representative Frommelt of Dubuque to have the House refuse to concur with the Labor Committee's recommendation. After considerable discussion the Union Shop bill was killed by another motion to table Frommelt's motion which carried 61 to 46. Had Frommelt's motion been successful and the bill open to debate and consideration and passage the union shop would have become legal and thereunder it would be possible for the union to negotiate with the employer for a union shop contract which would mean that the employer could hire anyone but that the employee must become a union member in a certain length of time, say 30 to 60 days. In effect this would have forced employees to join whether they wish to become a union member or not. I was not in favor of the bill.

In all fairness with reference to the discussion of the Union Shop bill it should be remarked that Representative Gus Kuester. Cass County, co-sponsor of the bill and Republican of long standing in the House, offered a friendly amendment to the bill which would prohibit union members from picketing the employer's place of business during the term of contract negotiation. The proposed amendment failed to materialize for the reason the motion to disregard the indefinite postponement and to consider the bill was tabled.

People in Iowa may have a law that will provide that divorces cannot become final until six months after the court hears the evidence. This would allow a six months period for the parties to consider their action in breaking up a family. The Senate passed this bill and it is expected that the House will do likewise.

Monday evening, March 14th, I attended a dinner at the Grace Methodist Church here in Des Moines, at which Governor Hoegh gave a very interesting talk. Wednesday evening was spent listening to the Polk County medical association presentation of the Virginia medical examination which would replace the coroner system if adopted. Farm bureau delegations from various counties, including Hancock County, came to Des Moines Thursday to see the legislature in action and that evening after dinner legislative problems such as taxes, state aid, etc., were discussed. Some were for increased income tax, others 3% sales tax, others a service tax. It seemed to be agreed that some added tax was necessary.

To date the House has passed about 150 bills, the Senate has passed about the same, however, only 40 or so bills have been passed by both House and Senate and sent to the Governor, and out of this 40, three of them are bills which I introduced.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

TAX STUDY PLANS

This week the Iowa house was to act on plans for a lengthy and complete study of the state's tax structure. The senate had gotten things underway by voting approval of the 12-man committee to study taxation methods and problems for the next 18 months to two years.

With house approval the study would begin. Recommendations are to be made to the governor, and legislature, and would include any suggestions for altering present tax programs, increasing taxes in certain areas, or reducing them.

There's probably little reduction in sight for increased demands for state services which, of course, occasion additonal state expenditures, is the reason for the legislative study.

The senate approved plan limits committee membership to the legislature. Four each would be named by the presiding officers of the senate and house, and the governor would select two legislators from each house.

With the study in mind, this legislature will probably hold tax increases to a minimum for the biennium.

SMOOTHING OUT

Governor Hoegh has taken the initial steps to bring about smoother working relations between the executive and legislative branches of state government.

The first eight weeks of the session were highlighted by the struggle between a senate block and the governor's efforts to obtain confirmation of four highway commission appointments. The senate denied two of the Hoegh appointments.

In a first compromise effort, the governor withdrew the name of L L Caffrey, Cresco, as a Democrat appointment to the commission, and chose instead to reappoint Caffrey to another six-year term on the state board of social welfare. Russell Lundy, Hoegh's campaign manager, who has been turned down by the senate, still remains as the governor's choice for the commission. Hoegh must find another Democrat for the commission to replace the Caffrey recommendation.

The other day Governor Hoegh took another step to further cement cordial relations between his office and the legislature. He had the first in a series of breakfasts at which he will be host to legislative leaders of both houses. At these sessions plans will be developed to implement the GOP programm in the legislature.

LIQUOR STAMP BILL

A bill recommended by Atty. Gen. Countryman was tabbed for indefinite postponement (death) by a house of representatives judiciary committee. The blow came on an 8-4 vote.

The liquor stamp bill, which would make possession of a federal liquor stamp evidence that the holder was selling liquor illegally, found the going rough in the Iowa house.

The attorney general has been urging law enforcement officers to raid regularly all business establishments who hold the federal liquor tax certificates.

Frank Thompson, Guthrie Center Republican, chairman of the house committee and sponsor of the measure, indicated that eight members opposing the bill felt the fact of guilt in the case of stamp holders was a matter for the courts and not the legislature to decide.

COMPELS ACTION

On an 89 to 5 vote, the house of representatives passed and sent to the senate a bill that would subject local government offcials to fine or jail sentence if they tried to keep an official state audit from the public.

The penalty provision includes a fine of $50 and up to 15 days in jail.

The measure, heavily amended from its original state, requires that the state auditor's office notify newspapers and radio stations in a county whenever an audit of a local governmental agency in that county is completed.

NEW SAFETY COMMISSIONER

Clinton Moyer, a Linn county attorney, will be the next Iowa commissioner of public safety beginning next July.

Moyer, who practices law in Marion, was appointed commissioner by Governor Hoegh and has received confirmation of the senate.

Moyer will succeed Pearl McMurry who was named commissioner by Governor Beardsley when Alfred Kahl resigned the position about five years ago.

FISCHER RENAMED

Charles Fischer has been renamed state insurance commissioner. A native of Onawa, Fischer was renamed commissioner by Governor Hoegh and has won senate confirmation. Fischer was campaign manager for the late Governor Beardsley in his 1948 campaign.

WHITFIELD NAMED

Another of Governer Beardsley's campaign managers figured in the state and national news when Allen Whitfield, Des Moines attorney, was nominated by President Eisenhower to a fulltime position on the Atomic Energy commission. Whitfield is yet to be confirmed by the U S senate.

Whitfield has been an important figure in the Iowa political scene in recent years. He managed the last two Beardsley campaigns. He also is a member of the Republican state central committee where he represents the fifth district, and also serves as general counsel for the committee.

Confirmation of Whitfield will mean his leaving the state poltcal scene to assume the fulltime duties on the commission.

UNION BILL FAILS

A bill designed to legalize a union shop in labor contracts, one of the platform planks of Governor Hoegh, met a setback in the Iowa house where, on a 14 to 10 count, the labor committee recommended indefinite postponement.

The action killed the bill.

Under the union shop agreement a laborer would not have to be a union member at the time he takes a job, but would have to join the union within a given period of time, usually 30 to 60 days.

REDISTRICTING LOSES

A major redistricting bill, proposed by Sen. Frank C Byers, Marion Republican was defeated in the Iowa senate by a vote of 23 to 18 vote.

The measure would have effected redistricting of the senate on a population basis effective in the 1956 and 1958 elections.

Opponents defeated the bill largely on two alleged defects. They contended that the Byers proposal would find seven counties with two senators each during the 1956 to 1958 period, and two other counties, Ida and Franklin, without representation in the senate in that period.

Sen. D C Nolan, Iowa City Republican, led the opposition forces.

Defeat of the measure does not mean that other redistricting measures cannot be considered in the senate this session.

CAP PISTOLS

The Iowa senate will toy or toil with a measure approving the sale of cap pistols as well as caps in Iowa passed the house, 69 to 22.

Several years ago the caps were banned. So, it seems were the guns, though hardly anyone knew it.

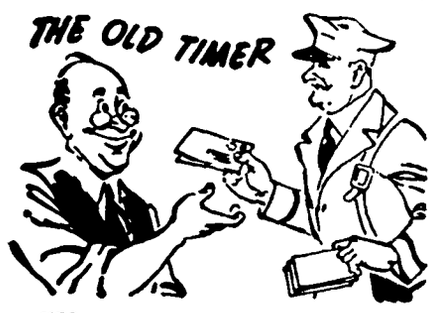
This year's original measure to legalize the toy guns was amended to include the use of powder caps in the pistols.

FOR CONSOLIDATION

Four state agencies now handling truck enforcement laws would be consolidated under a committee bill apprcved by two groups in the Iowa house.

The roads unit and the committee on consideration of state government joined in approving a measure that would establish a new division and would include the weight checkers of the highway commission, the compensation tax agency now under the commerce commission, gasoline tax checkers now under the state treasurer, and truck licensing divivsion in the motor vehicle registration division.

The bill would bring all the divisions together in the department of public safety under the direct supervision of the commissioner of public safety.



"No matter how fearful a person may be of the future, he hopes he will live to see a lot more of it!"

Legislative Committee Visits State House

The Hancock County Legilative committee spent last Thursday and Friday visiting the State House in Des Moines and watching the 56th General Assembly in session.

As has been the practice in previous years the committee met with Co. Representative Curtis Riehm and State Senator Herman Knudsen in the evening along with legislative committes from Cerro Gordo and Franklin Counties and their legislators to discuss various issues of importance to Farm Bureau members. A great deal is gained from a meeting of this sort and at the close both groups had a better understanding of the other. With 1000 bills being introduced this year, it is impossible for any legislator to have a thorough understanding of them all. One of the primary purposes of the Farm Bureau organization is to help acquaint our legislators with the problems of agriculture today so we can get favorable legislation for the farmers.

The main concern of most legislators this year is that the state cannot continue to operate at a deficit of nine million dollars as was the case last year, and the problem is where they are going to cut appropriations or increase revenue. Neither is good sales material.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

What causes the fatal accident? There is no simple answer. Usually the dead and injured in the wrecked car were caught in a couple of causes, meshed together with sudden precision.

One night on an Iowa country road, a stock truck ran out of gas. Because the road was little used, the driver left his vehicle where it stopped and began walking back to town. He did not put out flares.

Two young brothers were driving home along this same road. They were thought to be traveling about 65 miles an hour when the driver was blinded by the bright lights of an approaching car.

At this instant, at least three causes of death moved in upon the brothers. Speeding, blinded and unwarned, they crashed into the rear of the stalled truck and died together.

Three persons contributed to this fatal accident. One driver left an unlighted vehicle on a dark road. The second driver was traveling so fast he could not possibly stop within the throw of his headilghts. And the third driver, by failing to dim his lights, closed out the last chance that this accident could have been avoided.

Yet each driver made his deadly contribution out of years of driving experience. The mistakes we make as drivers come from habits we have developed or neglected to develop—in the past.

Plan to Certify Healthy Swine

Veterinarians to Assist By Inspecting Herds

Iowa swine producers will have an opportunity to buy health-certified breeding stock under a plan announced March 15 by the Iowa Purebred Swine Council.

The swine herd health certification program, when it gets into full operation, will provide a backlog of health-certified herds whose owners are focusing attention on health tests and approved sanitary practices and are fostering the distribution of holthy breeding stock.

RECEIVING APPLICATIONS

Dr. Maynard L Spear, extension veterinarian at Iowa State College and executive secretary of the Iowa Purebred Swine Council, is receiving applications for certification from purebred swine breeders now. More than 400 practicing veterinarians in Iowa have agreed to act as official inspectors and to help breeders with the program.

The announcement March 15 followed a year of preparatory work by the Swine Council in developing details of the program and setting up its administration.

To qualify as "health-certified" under this program, a herd must qualify as certified brucellosis-controlled under the Iowa State brucellosis-control program and must maintain this standing. In addition, the herd must show no conclusive evidence of the presence of any other contagious diseases, such as atraphic rhinitis, transmissible gastroenteritis, dysentery, cholera, anthrax, vesicular exanthema, erysipelas or tuberculosis.

PASS TWO INSPECTIONS

Herds which are certified under the Swine Council's program must pass two successive saisfactory inspection ratings by veterinarians not regularly employed by the herd owner. To maintain the rating, the herd must submit to further herd inspections about every 6 months.

Dr. Spear says the program can be expected to expand as fast as is warranted by the interest and patronage shown by commerccial swine producers. The Purebred Swine Council's executive committee is authorized to set up regulations regarding the use of the "health-certified" rating in the breeder's advertising.

SURGERY

For the past two years, Chris Detje, Traer youth, has carried a piece of lead pencil in his leg. Its presence was dicovered only recently when a hard lump developed on the leg, and in resulting surgery the pencil was discovered. Two years ago, a playmate slipped a pencil under Chris as he was sitting down. A doctor removed part of the pencil at that time.

Some farmers are selling their cattle too soon to make the most profit. The cattle are not being finished for their grade.

That's the observation of Francis A Kutish, farm economist at Iowa State College. He believes that feeders who have cattle that border on choice grade should be sure to feed them long enough that they will grade choice. The spread between good and choice is wide enough to warrant taking cattle of quality to choice grade.

Prime catle are showing less than the average seasonal price decline so far his winter. Choice cattle prices have shown about an average seasonal drop. Good grade cattle have dropped more than normal.

The main reason, says the economist, that good cattle have dropped more than usual is in the increased supplies. Many farmers are selling their cattle before they are finished for their grade.

Besides that, on January 1, there were fewer heavy cattle on feed than a year earlier, according to the survey of Northern Illinois and Iowa farmers conducted by Iowa State College and financed by the Chicago Union Stock Yards.

The USDA survey of cattle on feed January 1, also indicated fewer long-fed cattle on farms than a year earlier.

When prices are compared with last year, says, Kutish, the same general pattern shows up. The better the finish, the more the price is above last year.

The total number of all grades of steers is less than in February 1954. However, the average price was only 6 percent higher because commercial and utility beef was selling below last year's prices.

Hog slaughter is running well ahead of last year. Kutish says this is a price-depressing factor on beef.

On the other hand, lamb supplies are down and fewer broilers are available. Spendable income is higher than last year and weekly federal inspected slaughter of cattle during February was somewhat below last year. According to Kutish, these forces should be price-supporting for beef, compared with a year earlier.

Fix Corn and Snap Beans Many Ways

Corn pudding may be baked and served in a large casserole or in individual baking dishes. These individual corn puddings are garnished with slices of quartered tomatoes.

It may not be news to you that both canned corn and canned snap beans are especially plentiful and low priced right now. But here are some suggestions for tasty ways to serve them that may be news to you. These ideas come from Jewel Graham, Iowa State College extension nutritionist.

Canned Snap Beans

Combine snap beans with other vegetables, season with butter, margarine or bacon fat, and serve hot. Cooked combinations that are particularly good include snap beans with tomatoes, carrots, cauliflower, lima beans, corn, potatoes, onions or celery.

Chilled beans are good in salads. Try them with diced celery, cooked diced carrots or grated raw carrots, beet pickles, potatoes, minced onion, chopped pepper, cucumbers, leftover ham, hardcooked sliced eggs, cubed or grated cheese, crisp bacon bits or pickles. Chill all ingredients well and add raw vegetables just before serving.

Canned snap beans add flavor and color to almost any soup or chowder.

A sour cream topping is particularly good on snap beans. Heat beans and drain them well. Pour over them ½ cup thick sour cream seasoned with 1 tablespoon vinegar and 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion. Heat until cream is hot.

Chili sauce is another topping you might like to try: In a saucepan cook a finely chopped onion with drippings or other fat until the onion is yellow and tender. Add ½ cup chili sauce to the onion and a can of snap beans and heat together.

To improve flavor of canned beans and save some of the nutrients that are dissolved in the liquid, drain the liquid into a saucepan and heat until it evaporates to half its volume or less. Add beans and seasoning and cook until well seasoned.

Canned Corn

Corn pudding can be made with either whole-kernel or cream-style corn. For 4 servings mix together 1 and 1-third cups milk and 1 tablespoon melted butter, margarine or bacon fat. Season with one-fouroh teaspoon salt and a little pepper. Pour into a greased baking dish, set in a pan of hot water and bake at 350 degrees F. until set (about 50-60 minutes). If you prefer cream-style corn use 1½ cups corn and reduce milk to one-third cup.

For some quick corn dishes to cook on top of the range, try the following:

Fried corn— for four servings melt 2 tablespoons butter, margarine or bacon drippings in a fry pan. Add ½ cup chopped onion, ½ cup chopped green pepper, 2½ cups drained whole-kernel corn, ½ teaspoon salt and a little pepper. Cook until the vegetables are somewhat dry. Then add one-fourth cup milk or cream and heat all together.

Corn, tomato and cheese on toast— for six servings cook 1 chopped onion in 3 tablespoons melted butter, margarine or bacon fat. Add 3 tablespoons flour and blend thoroughly with fat and onion. Add 2 cups canned tomatoes, 2 teaspoons salt and cook about 10 minutes. Add one-fourth pound sharp cheese grated or sliced thin. Stir until cheese melts. Serve over thin slices of crisp toast.

Corn chowder— this hearty soup is almost a meal in itself. Ingredients for four servings include 1 cup diced potatoes, 1 cup boiling water, 3 slices bacon, 1 medium-size onion, 1½ cups canned corn, 1 cup milk, salt and pepper to taste, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley.

To make corn chowder: cook potatoes in the water in a covered pan for 10 to 15 miutes. Meanwhile, fry bacon until crisp. Take out bacon. Chop the onion. Add it to the bacon fat and cook until onion is soft. Mix corn with potaoes, add onion to them and cook slowly about 10 minutes. Add milk, salt and pepper. Heat just to boiling and sprinkle with parsley and chopped bacon bits.

BEARDS

When Johnny McLain and Al Treinen of Sioux Rapids made a business trip to Storm Lake, they were adorned with the full beards which men of that community are wearing to advertise the community's centennial. Meanwhile, two men with beards had been arrested at Storm Lake on a stealing charge and when the two Sioux Rapids men showed up, a nervous employee phoned the sheriff. He let them go, of course.

From April, 1944, to July 31, 1954 the American Red Cross prepared and donated 18,114,656 cubic centimeters of gamma globulin to State Health Departments and the Office of Defense Mobilizaion for free distribution to physicians for use in the prevention or modification of measles and the treatment of infectious hepatitis.

Fido, This is a Squirrel

While riding herd on the annual spring goose flight, conservation officer Dick Jacobson of Onawa watched a man walk down the Missouri River levee with a shotgun and a dog.

As Jacobson moved toward the hunter the man aimed his shotgun at some flying ducks, but luckily didn't fire.

When the officer finally reached the hunter he asked, "What, are you doing, sir, trying for a duck dinner?"

"Nope; I'm hunting squirrels."

"Didn't you know squirrel season was closed?"

"Well, I'm not just exactly hunting squirrels," came the answer. "I just wanted to show some to my dog so he'd know what they looked like. . . "

1954 Small Grains May be Resealed

A reseal program for farm-stored 1954 barley, oats, rye, wheat and flaxseed will be in effect in Hancock County, it was announced this week by Alfred V Josten, Office Manager of Hancock County ASC.

This program will permit present loans on these commodities which are stored on the farms to be extended for another year at 3½ percent interest. Producers having purchase agreements on these commodities which are stored on the farms may convert their agreements into loans running for the extended period.

A storage payment in line with current Uniform Grain Storage agreement rates will be paid to farmers who reseal or convert purchase agreements but the exact figures have not been announced to date, according to Mgr. Josten.

He emphasized thatt the reseal program announced this week is for 1954 small grains and flaxseed. Loans on the relatively small amounts of 1953 small grains resealed a year ago in this state will not be extended for another year since it is desirable to move such stocks.

As of February 15, there were 32,579 bushels of 1954 oats under farm-storage loans in Hancock County. There were additional quantities under warehouse-storage loans but only farm-stored commodities are eligible for resealing.

Quality and storage requirements for resealing will be the same as in the regular loan period. In addition, wheat must meet Food and Drug Administration requirements in effect at the time of resealing in regard to contamination by birds, rodents, insects and vermin.

Farmers who hold their resealed commodities for the entire extended period will receive a full storage payment and those who pay off their loans earlier will receive a pro-rated payment providing redemption comes more than 60 deys after the maturity date of the original loans and purchase agreements.

Loans mature on oats on April 30. The extended period will run to April 30, 1956. Producers who wish to take advantage of this reseal program should make application at the county ASC office before the maturity of their 1954-crop loans and purchase agreements.

As of March 15, farmers of Hancock County had completed price support loans on the following amounts of commodities:

Riehm Active In Behalf of Veterans

Has Klemme Seniors For "Skip Day" Visitors

The House voted to concur in the Senate amendment to H. 167 to provide that if a person whose body has been used for scientific or medical research, after death, owns or has a right of burial in a private or family cemetery lot in the State of Iowa, that that person's body shall be so buried by the State of Iowa.

Among he bills considered and passed in the House was one requiring the appointment of assistant attorneys general to perform and supervise legal work of various state departments rather than each department having heir own attorney. The bill relating to salaries of deputy superintendent of banking and bank examiners was thoroughly discussed. Proponents pointed out that several senior examiners had been lost to the state banks for the reason that these men had been attracted elsewhere by larger salaries. The original bill was amended to provide for one-half the increase requested for the various categories of examiners. This would seem to be representative of the School Board Holds Organization Meeting

The new board of directors of the Klemme Community School District met Monday afternoon for a postponed organization meeting. The meeting was to have been held the first Monday after the election but sickness and absence made it impracticable to have the meeting then.

Asa Arnold was elected president of the board for another year, and other business was taken up, including the closing of two schools in Liberty Township. The two schools that will be closed are Liberty No. 6 and Liberty No. 7. This will leave three country schools in operation as a part of the district. They are Liberty No. 8, Liberty No. 9, and Twin Lake No. 5.

Resignations of four teachers were accepted at the meeting. They are Forrest Hiller, English and dramatics; Donald Smith, social science and science; Miss Rachel Peterson, home economics and girls P. T., and Mrs Dorthe Mernin, kindergarten.

It was also decided at the meeting that due to the large number of children who will be of kindergarten age next year, they will only attend school every other day.

The Navy requisitioned its first airplane on May 8, 1911. It was constructed of wood, canvas, and bamboo and capable of flying at least 45 miles an hour.

"Bucky" O'Connor to Speak at Lions Banquet

Affair Will Honor High School Athletes

Seven o'clock this Saturday April 2nd, is the time set for the second annual Klemme Lions Athletic Banquet, and advance ticket sales indicate that there will quite probably be some over 200 persons in attendance besides the guests.

Guests at the affair will be all the Klemme High School athletes, their coaches and some other of the school personnel. The banquet is in their honor and a program has been arranged which should be especially interesting to them. Sports fans who attend will also find the program interesting.

"Bucky O'Connor, head basketball coach at the University of Iowa will be the guest speaker and will show movies. Those who were on hand for last year's banquet will remember the fine short talk and the entertaining commentary that "Bucky" had in conjunction with his film.

Also on hand will be "Bud" Suter, KGLO sportscaster, who in addition to having been guest speaker and master of ceremonies at many sports banquets, has covered many sporting events in the past years, and was himself a high school and college athlete. He will act as master of ceremonies for Saturday evening's program.

Dinner music for the banquet will be furnished by Joyce Thiemann at the piano, and Marvin Josten will furnish some accordion music during the meal. In addition there will be selections by Ruth Pringnitz on the accordion, by Cozette Lau on the piano, by a cornet trio consisting of Fred Arnold, Jr., Val Stromer and Cecil Jacobs, accompanied by Joyce Thiemann, and by a mixed quartet, consisting of Ione Rosendahl, Gracka Maria Gerardi, Arthur Carlson, and LaVern Josten, accompanied by Ruth Pringnitz.

The Klemme Music Mothers will prepare and serve the banquet dinner. If it compares with the meal they served last year, it alone will be worth the price of a ticket to the evening's entertainment.

All-in-all, a fine evening is in store for those who attend this annual affair.

Construction Underway On New Elevator Here

The construction crew of the Ibberson Construction Co. began work Tuesday, pouring cement for the new elevator for the Klemme Cooperative Grain Co. The pouring of the cement will go on night and day for the next ten or twelve days. By that time, the elevator should have reached the height of 126 feet, which will be the top of the bins.

When this height is reached the forms will be taken down and the bins will be roofed over. Then on top of the elevator proper, a head house 36 feet tall will be erected. This will make the over-all height of the new elevator 162 feet.

The construction of a concrete elevator is an interesting spectacle to watch. Forms are built to the necessary dimensions and a work floor covers everything except where they actually want to pour cement. As more and more cement is poured the forms and the work floor all are moved upward until the job is completed.

Manager Marvin G Lemke said that the new elevator should be completed by July 1st, in time to handle this year's oat crop.

High School Students To Attend Movie April 6

On the afternoon of April 6th, students of the Klemme high school will be given a treat in conjunction with their English classes. The movie, "Julius Caesar" will be at Belmond on that date and since the movie is highly recommended as a fine show and since it will help the students in their study of literature, it is thought that it will be worthwhile for them to see it as a supplement to their normal English classes.

The movie stars Marlon Brando, James Mason, Edmund O'Brien, Greer Garson and Deborah Kerr, all top notch actors and actresses.

Car Registrations Reach 4800 In Hancock County

In 1954 this figure was reached on May 1st, according to a report from the automobile department in County Treasurer Roy L McMillin's office. His burns are not considered too serious and he is expected to be back on the job Friday.

"Do-it-yourself" Pays Off With Fine New Home

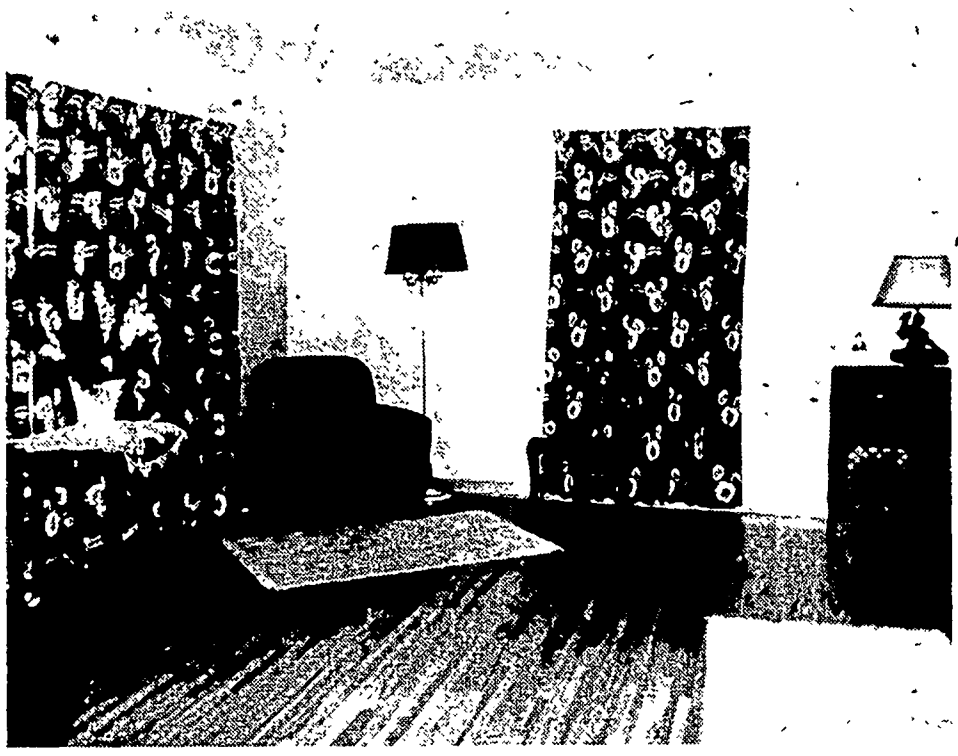
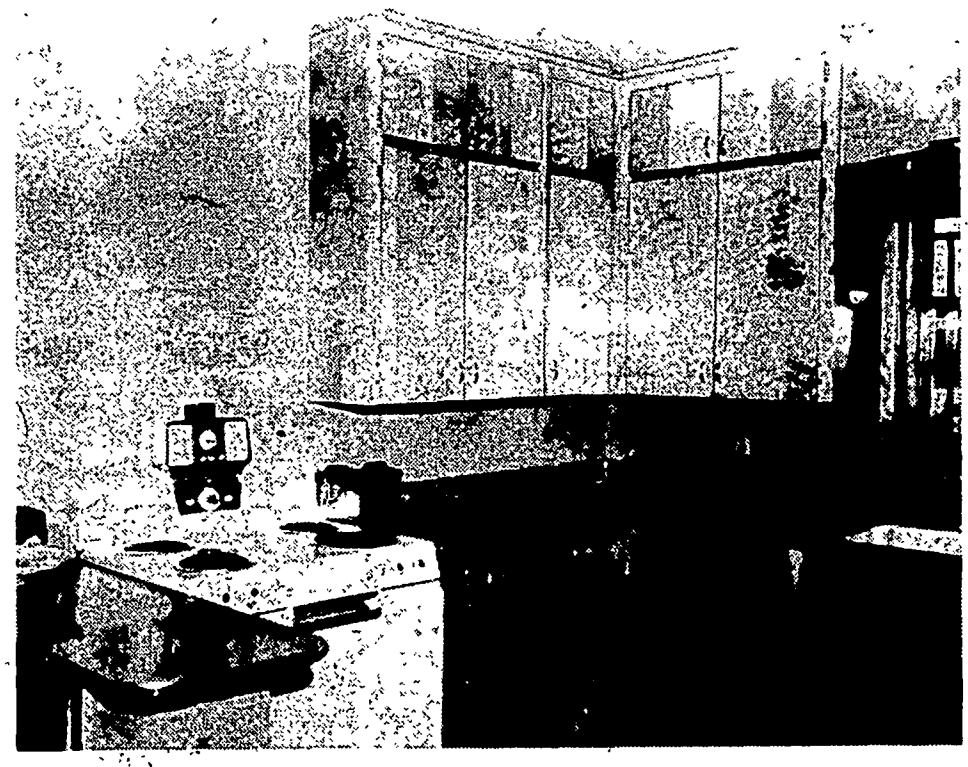
Over 200 Attend Open House at Jurgemeyer Home Last Sunday



This is the living room in the new ranch-type home built by Mr and Mrs Alfred Jurgemeyer on their farm one mile north and three and a half miles east of Klemme. The living room is 14' 9" x 17' and has oak flooring.



The kitchen in the new home built by Mr and Mrs Jurgemeyer has birch cabinets and formica tops. It is 11' 6" x 14' 9" and has everything located so as to be as convenient as possible and save steps for Mrs Jurgemeyer.

The Alfred Jurgemeyer's have had a busy time since last spring. After three years of looking at homes and home plans, they began last April to build a home of their own. The only work that they hired done was the plastering, part of the plumbing and the cabinet work. Other than these, the Jurgemeyers did all the work themselves.

Beginning last April, they worked through until November on the project, living in their old house. By that time, the outside work was pretty well completed and they were able to move into the basement of the new place. Then began the finishing of the interior. Working when they could throughout the winter, they finished a room at a time, and as they finished it, they would furnish it and be that far along toward being moved in. It was March 1st before they were finished and able to move their kitchen equipment upstairs, and could utilize all the living space.

The 31 x 52 ranch-type house includes three large bedrooms and a large bath on the north, a large living room on the south, a dining area 9' x 11½', a large vestibule entrance to the living room, the kitchen, a half bath just off the kitchen, and a room at the rear of the house for office space. In addition there is a full basement, and a full attic.

Windows in the home are self-storing, and all the woodwork is birch.

The house has no waste space and has plenty of large closets with sliding doors. It cost the Jurgemeyers $11,000 to build the home, including automatic washer, hot water heater, water softener, drapes, and linoleum. Builders have estimated that the home would have cost them in the neighborhood of $22,000 if they had hired all the work done.

Some over 200 persons attended the open house held by Mr and Mrs Jurgemeyer last Sunday, coming from towns all around this section of the state. They have a nice home and many of them who are planning on building got some good ideas. The crowd drank over 3 pounds of coffee and ate 300 cup cakes.

legislative treatment of requests for salary increases even though the banks pay the salaries of the examiners, not the state. It evidences the House's hesitancy to increase expenditures in any field. This shows the struggle to hold expenses at a minimum, yet attempt to attract and hold competent and efficient men in positions of service to the state of Iowa. The soundness of all banks is of interest to us all.

Also of interest was the motion to reconsider H. 278, relating to relief for soldiers, sailors, and marines, which the newspaper has reported as making public the soldier relief rolls. It also gives power and authority over budget to Board of Supervisors. This had been voted down previously and I spoke it seemed as if the House, upon against the original bill but since reconsideration, would pass it, certain veteran-legislators, myself concurring, were anxious to prepare amendments, which we thought would make proper and desirable legislation of this bill. I sponsored an amendment which would curtial the arbitrary power of the Board of Supervisors and to provide that if the supervisor reduced the Veteran Relief budget that they had to have valid reasons to do so. However, after considerable discussion, action was deferred to Wednesday in order that more changes could be made.

The House took up the Resolution for a tax study committee and a heated discussion ensued concerning the number that should serve on the Committee. It was passed with four from the House, four from the Senate and four to be appointed by the Governor to serve on the committee.

Tuesday afternoon was highlighted with a Joint Convention in honor of the members of the Pioneer Lawmakers of Iowa. This biennial convention has been observed for 70 years. The joint assembly was addressed by Lieutenant Governor Elthon, Senator Arch W McFarlane and Honorable L J Dickinson, former Congressman and United States Senator from Iowa. Mrs John Hammill, widow of the former governer of Iowa was present.

Wednesday, the soldiers relief bill came up again. I offered three amendments which had the approval of R J Laird, State Department adjutant, George A Hartnett, VFW Dept, Legislative Representative and Frank Mills, DAV Representative and the Research director of the Taxpayers Association of Iowa. The bill passed 99 for and 4 against and will do as follows:

1. Improve administration of soldiers' relief funds.

2. Provides that Board of Supervisors shall not have arbitrary power to approve or reduce the Soldiers Relief Budget as 103 Iowa 73 now provides, but must show a valid reason for so doing and enter same of record.

3. Provides for review of action of Soldiers Relief Commission monthly in order that those under soldiers' relief may be checked against the county relief rolls so that no duplication will occur, and also will in some cases bring soldiers relief in line with county relief. Some in line with county relief. Some veterans in need will receive more.

4. Provides for a Commission emergency fund under control and direction of the commission which the present law does not provide for. Under present law, section 250.10 "on the first Monday of each month after the fund is ready for disbursement, the auditor shall issue his warrant to the Commission for the sums thus awarded, and it shall proceed to disburse the same to the parties named in the list, or disbursements may be made in any other manner the Commission may direct. Receipts shall be taken for all payments.

Thus under present law the Commission could only disburse the monthly awards, the amended bill will make legal what has been practiced in most counties, the disbursements by the Commision of funds for emergency purposes.

5. Provides that the Commission now can pay up to $200.00 for burial expenses of veterans instead of $100.00.

As you will surely know from the papers, debate was conducted on a motion to re-refer H 372, better known as the "liquor-by-the-drink" bill, to the Ways and Means Committee for consideration as a revenue bill. The debate spread beyond the motion to the merits of the bill and both sides were ably represented. There are many sides to the liquor question in Iowa; revenue, law enforcement; exisiting law and its incompatibility with the moral question involved, and does not lend itself with respect to reasonable consideration on clearly defined lines of "wet" and "dry". To vote to send the bill to the Ways and Means Committee would have allowed the committee to study it from the revenue angle. I voted to send the bill to the Ways and Means Committee. The motion to re-refer was lost.

Thursday, the liquor-by-the-drink bill was up again, this time whether to accept the Safety Commitee's report for indefinite postponement, and after a vote thereon the bill was indefiniely postponed, so this issue is now dead for the session. I voted to indefinitely postpone the bill.

Special action was requested and granted on H. 447, a bill to extend the statute of limitations for the State of Iowa on auditing income tax returns from two to three years to correspond with the federal provisions, which was passed.

Friday, we had some discussion on the Retarded Children bill. One of the representatives did not really speak against the bill but questioned the authority of the County Board of Education. After the discussion, in which I took part, a motion was made to defer action until sponsors could work out a satisfactory re-phrasing of the language in the bill.

A bill giving the right of check off for union dues by an employee without his wife signing was passed. An insurance bill authorizing investment by life insurance companies up to 2% of their legal reserve in the world bank was passed.

144 ladies of the Hancock County Farm Bureau visited the Iowa Legislature Friday. I made arrangements with the Governor's wife for the ladies to visit the Governor's mansion. I hope they enjoyed their visit to Des Moines. During their visit in the House of Represenatives, nothing was discussed where any lively discussion took place.

The Senior Class from the Klemme High School visited the Iowa Legislature on Friday. Donald Smith and wife and 27 high school students were introduced to the House of Representatives. I know the visit was very educational and hope that oher high school classes further their education in this matter. A well informed public fosters and promotes good government.

CAPITOL LETTER

FINAL MONTH

Big push in the Iowa legislature gets underway next week as the lawmakers edge into the final month of the 1955 session.

Traditionally, regular sessionss are of 100 days duration, and the 100 days will be up officially April 19th. That doesn't mean, of course, that the lawmakers will close their books and go home on the 19th . . . though, of course that might happen. If sessions go longer, the clocks are stopped on the 100th day, work continues until completed. Everyone acts just like the 100th day is one continuous session though the activities may carry over a day, a week or longer.

Heaviest of the legislature work is yet to be completed. Appropriations are still to be decided upon, revenue raising measures must be voted and several major issues are still to be acted upon.

Most legislators feel, however, that the 1955 session will not extend many days beyond the normal 100.

BLUE LAWS

The state legislature has sent to the governor for signature a bill that will repeal Iowa's 100-year old "blue laws".

The measure was first acted upon in the house which voted for repeal by a 73-28 margin, and the senate's seconding action was by a 37 to 4 vote.

The bill wipes out the law which made hunting, dancing, and working on Sunday, except for charity, unlawful and subject to a $5 fine.

Rep. John L Duffy, Dubuque Democrat, had introduced the bill in the house, and State Sen. DeVere Watson, Council Bluffs Republican, presented it in the sentate.

INSURANCE FEES

A measure that would raise about a half-million dollars for the state general fund has been passed by the Iowa house and senate. The bill is known as a retaliatory insurance law which provides that out-of-state companies doing business in Iowa must pay the same taxes and licenses fees here that Iowa companies must pay to do a similar business in their home states.

Iowa formerly had such a law but repealed it in 1945 in the belief that there would be a general drop of interstate barriers. That didn't occur.

The measure, designed as a revenue producing medium, is one of several insurance tax bills recommended by Governor Hoegh.

IOWA URANIUM

Despite two separate reports of uranium discoveries in Iowa State Geologist H G Hershey said he doubts whether there is enough uranium here for commercial production.

F B Baca, mining engineer, reported the first uranium discovery, saying uranium ore had been found within 60 miles of Ottumwa, in a petrfied wood and shale rock deposit.

Two days later another scientist, who declined to be quoted by name, reported discovery of a "high grade uranium bearing sand." He declined to locate the sand other than to say it was in Iowa, and had been found in Pennsylvanian deposits. The Pensylvanian deposits are the coal-bearing shales, sands and limestone of Iowa.

SPRING MUSIC EVENTS

Some 40,000 Iowa public school musicians in April will start competition in a series of spring music contests.

For the first time,, class C, D, B and A contests for solo and small ensemble groups will be held separately, thus alleviating severely crowded conditions in the contest centers.

Events include vocal and instrumental, solo and small ensembles and large groups.

In the solo and small ensemble groups, class C contests will be held April 1 and 2, Class D on April 15 and 16, Class B on April 29 and 30, and Class A on April 29 and 30.

P C Lapham of Charles City, is president of the Iowa High School Music association.

PLANS JUNE EVENT

The Iowa Association of Physically Handicapped will convene at the Hotel Fort Des Moines in Des Moines, June 4. This will be the fifth annual meeting of the group which includes physically handicapped individuals of employable age from almost every county in the state.

ELECTION FILING CHANGE

The legislature has taken the initial step to change Iowa election filing deadlines in order to avoid conflict with the Republican national convention scheduled for August 20, 1956.

The elections committee of the house has on file a bill which would move the filing deadline for next year's general election from August 17 to Sept. 1 to avoid the conflict.

Under present law the secretary of state wouldt have had to receive names of presidential nominees by August 17 in order to get them on the November 6 general election ballot. With an August 20 convention date his could hardly have been accomplished.

SCHOOL COSTS UP

In one year the average annual cost of a high school education has risen about $20 a pupil, the Iowa department of public instruction reports.

The average cost per pupil in Iowa high schools last year was $424, compared with $404 the previous year.

The cost of elementary education showed a small increase, from $225 to $230.

Cost per pupil figures, officials said, were compiled from reports from county school superintendents. The reports include costs in 785 of the 819 approved high school districts in Iowa.

DEER LAW CHANGE

Laws governing the open season on hunting deer in Iowa will be changed by this legislature.

Major purpose of a bill, as it was originally presented in the house of representatives, is to make it clear that the legislature intended hunters to kill only one deer during the season. The present law has been interpreted to mean thai hunters can kill a deer a day as long as he has only one deer in possession at a time.

The house reduced the license fee from $15 to $10 per season too. However, the senate, in passing the measure, voted on an amendment that requires all persons to have a state permit for hunting deer. This would require farmers hunting on their own land to get licenses. The same requirement would apply to a few others now exempted, such as old age recipients.

Notes About Notes

This week the band has been practicing in the gym in preparation for the concert on Wednesday.

Why is it that those who are in ensembles that pracice at 8:00 are never there on Monday. I know, it's because you don't know about the practice. On the east wall, just south of the blackboard, in the band coop, there hangs a schedule of when the various groups will practice. It isn't going to kill, or even over-strain anyone to look at the schedule on Friday, and if their group practices on Monday, be here at 8:00.

This week we will introduce to you the Brass Quintet. It's members are: Lynn Huenemann, a seventh grader, baritone horn; Ione Rosendahl, a junior, French horn; LaVurne Josten, a senior, bass horn; Gordon Beier, a senior, second cornet; Fred Arnold, a junior, first cornet.

We are working vigorously for the annual contest, both in the band and vocal departments. Some are working on solos, others in sextette and so on.

On an occasional morning you can hear the band and the small vocal groups trying to out-drown the other working in he auditorium. We are about to nominate a candidate for the Miss North Iowa contest that is held every year at Mason City.

Senior News

Home Ec: The girls will bake some bread today. You can bring some up to us. For their nine weeks test they had a lab test plus a written one.

History: As of now we are studying about the great depression of the early 1930's.

English: We have seven units left in our literautre books. This will allow us to have one unit per week plus a unit test each week. Nice, though, wouldn't you say?

Bookkeeping: As we are on our last nine weeks, we are more or less doing woork which we have done from the first of the year plus adding new things here and there.

Typing: We are nearing the end of our practice set. Some of the students have only a few jobs left. In all there are four jobs to be completed. Mr Johnson surprised us today with another practice set, this one dealing with "Filing". We shall be kept busy.

Shorthand: The girls have been taking five minute writings. Some of them have done 60 to 80 words per minute.

Business Training: Along with taking a chapter a day with workbook practice, we have been having a spelling list of common words we should know, for Mr Heppler feels we are very bad spellers!

Business Law: Unfair trade practices, laws protecting consumers and bailments have been the main subject.

Hairpins & Tennis Shoes

Perhaps some of you saw a few weeks ago in the Des Moines Sunday Register, the girls from North High, Des Moines, jumping rope. Well, the Klemme girls have been doing much of the same things. One, was the "egg beater". This is 2 long ropes swinging simultaneously in opposite directions while the girl in the center has a rope of her own and she jumps all three ropes at the same time which gives it the "egg beater" effect. We might not be as proficient as the Des Moines girls, but we haven't practiced as much either. They some times have to try 8 hours before they can jump correctly. Other times we jumped to music, which I explained last week.

This coming week we shall start on tennis, this is if everyone brings a racket and a tennis ball. We still don't have enough for all.

The grades are continuing the games which one group picks out and explains for the whole class to play.

Class Play

The Seniors have received their parts and are very busy on the class play. The play "Nearly Beloved" consists of three very entertaining acts. The cast consists of:

Janet Maxwell, Marlene Blumer; John Maxwell, Merlyn Olson; Connie Maxwell, Ina Van-Buskirk; Betty Lou Maxwell, Marlene Weisbrod; Wilbur Maxwell, Gordon Beier; Hercules, Doyce Michelson; Bernadine, Harriet Anderson; Marvin, LaVerne Josten; Aunt Mary, Lois Boland; Miss Murray, Joan Lemke; J C Mallory, Gary Day; Molly, Blanche Shoop; Miss Lewis, Lorraine Meyer.

The date has been set for the performance and it is to be on April 13. Tickets will be on sale soon. We are sure this will be an evening of enjoyment, so why not reserve the night of April 13 for the Senior Class Play.

Senior Interview

We have the pleasure today, of interviewing Miss Joan Elaine Lemke. "Doner" to her close friends. Joan was born at Hampton on the twenty-third day of the eleventh month of the 1937 year of our Christ. She has spent most of her school life in Klemme, the only exception being 2 years when she went to Ventura.

Sewing and reading are the pastimes Joan likes best. Joan's hobby is collecting earrings. She has collected, up to date, about 52½ pairs.

"Wither Thou Goest" and Wayne King are her favorite song and band respectively. In the sports field, girls' basketball is the sport she likes the best. Her favorites in the acting field are June Allyson, John Wayne and Marlon Brando. The movie Joan picked for her favorite was "The Silver Chalice".

Joan has a popular pet peeve. It is people who tell things about other people that they know are not true.

I believe you'll see why Joan picks the following for her favorite dinner. It is French fried shrimp, a chef's salad, and black coffee. Good, (huh)?

When Maurice Jacobs made a smart remark at Sunday School one morning was her most embarrassing moment. Joan's future plans are only "partially decided."

Fifth Grade News

In social studies we started a new unit called The Rocky Mountain States. We are making maps of National Forests and Parks and leading minerals. Several people brought pictures taken in these states.

We have finished our third nine weeks of school. Report cards were received Thursday. We are attending our last nine weeks period.

In art class we drew pictures with compasses. We have many attractive designs.

Our work in arithmetic is learning new ways to multiply a whole number by a fraction.

We are working on a program to present to the sixth grade. It consists of a safety skit, poems and several musical numbers.

The best time to miss a train is when you are driving a car.

The terrible tempered couple on the seventh floor phoned the tenant immediately above and thuhdered, "If you don't stop that confounded wheezing on your saxophone, we'll go stark raving mad."

"I'm afraid it's too late," was the exasperating reply. "I stopped over an hour ago."

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The wife and kids lined up at the back door and Al kissed his way down the line, picking up a little extra strawberry jam from the last and smallest.

He stepped into the backyard with the kids yelling behind him and a bird shouting Spring! from the neighbor's tree.

Living was suddenly something pefect so, naturally at that moment, Al's left foot strayed from the walk and sank in the mud. The kids laughed and Al made a big show out of stamping his shoe clean.

Most of the mud came off, though a small, damp chunk still clung to his instep. But it wasn't enough to spoil that soft, warm morning.

He drove toward town and, when he came to the intersection with a major highway, he moved up, car by car, toward the stop sign.

When he got to the stop sign, he left the car in gear, shoved down the clutch, and gunned the motor happily while he waited for a fast moving car to pass.

It must have been then that the mud on his instep killed Al. There must have been a sudden pain in his ankle as his foot slipped on the clutch and the pedal shot back. Then the neck-snapping jerk at the car jumped into the intersection. Then the moment of grinding, jarring noise and pain.

There was still a trace of strawberry jam on his lips when he died.

I've Got a Secret

Why is it we don't see that little black and white car down at Berleen's anymore? Something must be wrong.

Seems as though there's a new romance between Marcella N and Larry H. Tell us more, Larry.

Who is the boy from Garner that is supposed to take Elaine J to the hayride? Could it be Egon W.

Does anyone know about the romance between Don A and Marlene?

What is this we hear about Don K and Marie M breaking up. Could Dorothy K be the reason for it, Don

Who is Karen's new flame now that she isn't going with Merlyn?

What happened to Raymond and Sue? Don't tell us they broke up too.

Does anyone know who Larry Wessel's girl friend is from Belmond?

Who was Dave W looking for in Garner Tuesday night?

What Klemme boy wants to go with M M from Garner? His initials are D W.

Who is Joyce L's heart-throb? We hear it's a certain senior boy. I wonder which one!

Berleen's boy friend from Belmond is back now so she won't be too lonely since she and Lloyd broke up.

Why has Chuck B been walking Joyce L home from school lately? Revival of an old romance, Chuck?

Chiefs of the 13 Military Districts (corresponding to States) and their staffs, the Army Advisors of the Reserve organizations in each district, and the Reserve unit commanders and staffs are presenting mapping campaign plans and developing recruitment materials and projects, in preparation for an "all out" launching of the enrollment drive on April 1st. Particular emphasis will be given the recruiting of those men who have Reserve obligations subsequent to active duty service.

Army Reserve organizations throughout the area are being readied for their two weeks of annual unit training at summer encampments during the period June 4 to September 5.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Hog prices are affected by small changes in supplies, according to farm economist, Francis A. Kutish of Iowa State College. One day's gain is liable to be wiped out the next day as farmers send more hogs to market to get in on the higher price.

This condition exists because the packing industry is gauging its bidding price on what the current retail market will handle, observed the economist. The usual procedure is to store pork during the winter months.

Looking back, it's apparent that the hog market in November than it would otherwise have been—had the packers not put a comparatively heavy volume of pork into storage during that month.

However, slaughter wasn't much higher in November, 1954 than in November 1953. But storage holdings increased by 100 million pounds last November. Packers continued to store pork in relatively large amounts until the middle of January, stated Kutish. Then they tried to back off.

Some pork has moved into storage since then. But the accumulation has been on a largely involuntary basis. This is particulary true of bacon.

Right now, hogs from August and September farrowings are coming in, says the farm economist. Once we get past these sales and mainly into the pigs farrowed last October through December, we should get improvement in our hog prices.

We have larger cold storage holdings than a year ago, so the amount of price list this spring and early summer will be held back, concluded Kutish. The 22 percent larger December through February litters also will limit the spring and summer price rise. Thus, we should see a stronger late spring and summer market, Kutish believes, however, it will be well below last year's $24 to $28 level.

Hancock County farmers have been receiving as much or more for eggs this winter than they did last wear, says Farm Economist Donald J Hunter at Iowa State College. This is in contrast with last fall's prices which were 10 to 15 cents lower than the 1953 fall prices.

Meanwhile total egg production in Iowa leads last year's figures by 5 percent. The near record breaking warm weather during the first 2 weeks of Mar. will probably stimulate further increase, predicts the farm economist.

Egg breaking demand also is reported good, but it's price conscious, says Hunter. Some plants their operations at full capacity. are buying enough eggs to run Others are closed down completly. A strengthening factor for eggs that should continue through the first part of April is the strong Lenten season consumer demand.

March 1st cold storage statistics indicate continued large storage operations. Shell eggs continue to lead the increase over last year, says Hunter. However, a comparison with the figures a month earlier shows that the increases over last year aren't a large as they were February 1.

On the other hand, our stocks of frozen eggs are reported to be smaller than some prior trade estimates. This may be a bullish influence, Hunter believes.

Meanwhile, poultry prices have generally risen since January 1. There was a level trend during most of February, but during recent weeks upward pressure was again felt.

Storage stocks for fryers and fowl are below last year's level —broilers down the most. So more of the current broiler production seems to be moving diectly into consuming channels.

Iowa Families Are Changing—

How Does Your Family Compare?

Everyone has so many interests and activities these days it is sometimes hard for families to spend much time together. But here's one Iowa farm family who enjoy the same hobby—horseback riding. It's a good chance for them to spend some of their leisure hours together. How does your family rate when it comes to doing things together?

Think back to the time when you were a child and compare your family then with your family now. Many changes have taken place in Iowa families in recent years— changes in the number of children in families and in the things families do. Sor instance, most families used to do all their own baking, make their own recreation, provide their own religious training and so forth. But not any more. Today, families do differe.nt things

PRESENT-DAY FAMILIES

One of the outstanding American soliologists recently had this to say about the change in family groups:

"Today's American family is the smallest in history, tthe best educated, the best equipped, the most adaptable, the most married and the most mobile. It is also the most nervous and insecure."

EVALUATE YOURSELF

Because of all the changes families go through it's a good idea to take stock occasionally—to evaluate changes, gain perspective and look at yourself to see how you meet changes. Do you take changes in your stride? Are they of value to you?

In studying the Iowa situation Buena Mockmore, Iowa State College extension specialist in child developmennt and family living, says one of the big changes evident in Iowa families is an increased number of children. Right now there are 100,000 more children than usual under 10 years of age in Iowa.

IOWA TEEN-AGERS

On top of this, Iowa has a deficit of teen-agers. At present, there are 65,000 fewer teen-agers in Iowa than there were 10 years ago.

When the large crop of children now under 10 become teen-agers there's going to be a lot more teen-age Iowans than we have now—a lot more than we know how to handle or have facilities for.

OLDER IOWANS

Another change in Iowa is in the older population. In the middle brackett, Iow'as population has lost approximately 90,000 persons between 10 and 50 years of age. In counting oldsters in the state, we find the number of folks over 50 years of age has increased about 80,000 since 1940.

Added to these radical changes in population is the total unstable world situation, reminds Mrs Mockmore.

PROBLEMS ARISE

Problems that arise from these changing situations include anxiety of parents, insecurity and uncertainty of youth with regard to personal plans of education, marriage and jobs. Tensions in everyday living are reflected in behavior problems of children, poor morale in families, mental ill health and delinquency.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, APRIL 6, 1955 | VOLUME 60 · NUMBER 15

County to Construct Bridge South of Town

Get Funds As Result Of Last Year's Flood

Last spring's unprecedented flood did tremendous amount of damage to roads and bridges in Hancock County. Included among the bridges that were washed out was the one just south of Klemme on the gravel road by the Bill Thiel and Clarence Neuberger farms.

As soon as flood damage in the county was assessed, a request was made that Hancock County be declared a disaster area. This was done and disaster funds have now been made available to repair damage to roads and replace bridges.

The bridge just south of Klemme was only about three years old when the flood hit. It was a 10'x10' concrete box culvert with a concrete bridge floor and concrete abutments. So much rain falling in such a short time last spring sent such a torrent of water down the creek that the road was washed out on both sides of the bridge, dropping the culvert into the water, and leaving a hole in the road 54' wide and aprroximately 17' deep.

Lack of funds last summer made it impossible to build a permanent bridge at that time, and the fact that so much fill was needed made it impractical. Consequently, a temporary 35' span bridge was put in last summer, and the fill has had plenty of time to settle and become more solid.

In a telephone conversation this morning (Wednesday) with county engineer Charles K Paulson, it was learned that Farm-to-Market flood relief funds will be used to build a new $8,000 permanent bridge at the site this summer. The new bridge will be a 24' clear span, with concrete slab deck 20' wide, and timber abutments.

The new bridge should be able to withstand any amount of water that might come down the creek. As a further precautionary measure against excessive washout at the bridge site, a part of the old concrete box culvert has been left imbedded in the bottom of the creek.

Another new bridge will be built with Farm-to-Market flood relief funds near Denhart. This structure will be of concrete and steel. It will have a 67' multiple I beam clear span and will cost approximately $21,000.

In addition to the Farm-to-Market funds now available, the county has received a check for $8,389.15 in prorated payment on a claim for $11,000 filed after last year's flood. This money will also be used for repair of damage to county roads and bridges.

Don Schaefer President Of Commercial Club

At a meeting of the Klemme Commercial Club, Tuesday evening, Don Schaefer was elected president for the coming year. He succeeds Don Bacon, who held the office for the past year.

Other officers elected were John Chambers, viee president, succeeding Howard Trevett, and Glenn Osman, secretary-treasurer, succeeding Asa Arnold.

Sixteen members were on hand for the meeting Tuesday night. Plans call for a more active club in the future and a regular meeting date has been set for the club. 7:30 o'clock on the evening of the first Tuesday of each month is the date set, and club officials are hoping that everyone will remember this date and turn out for the meetings.

Several ideas were advanced and discussed at Tuesday night's meeting as to what sort of entertainment the club should put on this summer, but nothing definite was decided. Decision will come at a later meeting.

FOXES

In a six weeks pursuit, Swea City hunters bagged 82 foxes and one wolf. Aerial spotting by Ed Bauer helped swell the total.

Wessels Buys Store Building from Ed Thompson

A transaction which was completed last Thursday left Henry Wessels the owner of the store building housing the D & H Market and Thada's Store, effective April 1st.

The deal has been "hanging fire" for some time and rumors were around that the D & H Market was going to have to move out. This is not, however, the case. They will continue in business with the same lease that they had with Ed Thompson, previous owner of the building.

Mrs Thada, who operates Thada's Store in a portion of the building, has a lease which runs until January 1st. However, she can move any time before that date.

Mr Wessels, who for the past couple of years has operated his floor covering business out of the basement of the Wellemeyer Building, will move into his new property as soon as Mrs Thada vacates. Prior to the time that he bought the floor covering business from Arthur Wellemeyer, he had worked for Mr Wellemeyer for some five years.

Henry is a veteran of 32 months service during World War II, over half of which was spent with the artillery in the European Theatre of action.

1955 Corn Support Rate Announced

National Average to Be $1.58 Per Bushel

The price support rate for corn produced in 1955 in the commercial areas, which includes all Iowa counties, has been fixed at 87 percent of parity for a national average of $1.58 per bushel, is was reported this week by J Leo Paulson, chairman of the Hancock County ASC Committee.

He emphasized that the 1955 average of $1.56 is only four cents under the 90-percent- of-parity average of $1.62 which was in effect on the 1954 crop.

Count-by-county support rates on the 1955 crop in Iowa have not been announced, but they will probably range from $1.49 to $1.58 a bushel, as compared with the 1954 range of $1.53 to $1.62.

In announcing the 1955 support rate, chairman Paulson pointed out that only farmers who comply with their corn acreage allotments will be eligible for price support on corn they raise this year.

He also said that ASC officials have predicted that the percentage of Iowa farmers complying with their 1955 corn acreage allotments may be higher than in 1954. This prediction, he continued, was based mainly in the comparatively high support rate fixed for 1955 and on the fact that the support rate for eligible 1954 corn has been consistently higher than local market prices for last year's crop. In other words farmers who complied with their allotments in 1954 could get more for their corn in the form of price support than could non- complying farmers who sold their corn on the market.

Under the new flexible price support law, the support rate on the 1955 corn crop could have been as low as 82½ percent. The 87 percent figure was determined on the basis of the estimated supply of corn on hand after the coming harvest. The government estimate is that the supply next October 1 will be 107 percent of "normal" requirements, consisting of the amount needed for domestic feed and food, for exports and for the accumulation of necessary reserves.

Chairman Paulson explained that the 87 percent support rate for 1955 will be effective only in the offically designated 805 commercial corn producing areas or counties in 21 states, including all of Iowa. In all other areas, the support rate for 1955 corn will be three-fourths of the rate in the commercial areas or an average of $1.18½ per bushel.

Large Crowd Enjoyed Banquet Saturday Night

The second annual Lions Athletic Banquet, held at the high school gym Saturday night, proved to be as much of a success as was the first one a year ago.

A fine banquet dinner was served by the Klemme Music Mothers and during the course of the meal, piano music by Joyce Thiemann and accordion music by Marvin Josten drew the applause of the crowd.

Special numbers put on by other school musicians were also appreciated as the program got underway.

Klemme High School athletes were introduced by their coach, Bill Westberg, and letters were awarded to those who had earned them.

Bud Suter, KGLO sportscaster, was introduced by Ernie Gerardi, and he gave a short talk during which he reminisced of days at Drake U, where he and Bucky O'connor and Supt. T. G. Ahrenkiel all played basketball.

He, in turn, introduced "Bucky" O'Connor, head basketball coach at the University of Iowa, who was the guests speaker for the evening. "Bucky" told of many amusing incidents that happened during the year, and brought out the character building value of sports for the nation. He put particular emphasis, though, on studies. He said that those go with you all through life, while in a few years after you are out of school, you are through with active participation in sports.

At the conclusion of his talk, he invited all who wished to do so, to stay and see a movie of this year's Iowa-Indiana game. He gave a commentary along with the film which proved very interesting and entertaining.

The evening was thoroughly enjoyed by the some over 200 people in attendance.

Larsen's Has Modern Processing Plant

The picture on the left shows some of the beef and pork carcasses hanging in the cooler at Larsen's, waiting their turn to be processed.

The firm has lockers to rent for those who want to buy their meat in larger quantities, but they also do processing for those who have deep freezes a home.

In addition to butchering and processing in their recently completed modern plant, Larsen's also has the latest facilities for curing hams and bacon and for rendering out lard.

Conditions in the air conditioned killing and butchering rooms are as sanitary as possible. The walls are block and the floors are cement, so that everything can be cleaned with a hose.

As the meat progresses through the plant toward becoming a finished product ready for consumption, it is handled on sanitary stainless steel tables where everything is so located as to speed the work toward completion.

This fine modern plant is an asset to the town of Klemme and gives local people and those in the surrounding territory an opportunity to get their meat processed and cured in clean surroundings and in a manner calculated to put good eating on the table.

With the resignation of Sir Winston Churchill as Prime Minister of England, an era has ended for that country . . . and for the whole world. Sir Winston had much to do with the shaping of events and policies in the world. His advice was much sought after in international affairs during the most troubled times that the world has known. It is to be hoped even though he has stepped down from his position of authority, his advice will still be asked.

We have finally found something with which to be in agreement with Senator McCarthy. He has come out with a strong rebuke to Senator Neely of West Virginia for the manner in which he attacked President Eisenhower with regard to his relationship with the church. Senator McCarthy said that he thought the day had passed when a public servant could be held politically accountable for worshipping God as his conscience directs. He also said that he thought that man who has thrust religion into politics owes an apology to the President and to the American people.

For once we agree completely with the Senator.

One of our pet peeves when driving at night is the "bright" boy who drives close behind you without hitting the dimmer switch on his car. He not only makes driving hard for the car ahead, but he gets a lot of reflection back in his face. He certainly doesn't need his bright lights to see, and if he only realized it, when he's driving that close, he had better help the guy ahead to see as well as possible. If that fellow up front runs into trouble, he's going to be in it, too.

When it comes right down to cases, we would rather meet a car with his brights on than to have one following us. When we meet one, he's soon gone and doesn't bother us any longer, but that guy that's following behind is an aggravation for as long as he's there.

During the rain and wind Sunday night and Monday night we were certaily glad that we weren't a member of the construction crew building the new elevator here. As far as we are concerned, we wouldn't be too anxious to be up there in good weather, but in the nasty weather, we know we wouldn't want any part of it.

"If there isn't much to see in a small town, what you hear makes up for it!"

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

SEEKS HIS PROGRAM

As the Iowa legislature ground into its fourth month of activity and approached its late April closing date, Governor Hoegh and Republican party leaders adopted more aggressive stands in seeking accomplishments of platform and campaign promises.

The governor in the last week has continued to remind citizens that if they favor legislation pending in the house and senate to immediately contact their representatives and senators.

The Republican state headquarters keeping chart of its platform planks has begun reminding party workers and the legislators of the current status of legislation specifically requested in the state platform. Such action is indicative that party leaders desire accomplishment on their recommendations.

This is the first time in several years that a state chief executive has used so generally all possible information outlets to keep the public aware of the status of legislative measures.

He sought public lobbying support for his specific recommendations. Party leaders became disturbed when with some two weeks to go they discovered that about 30 percent of the GOP platform recommendations had been acted upon, leaving some 70 percent still to be considered by the GOP-dominated state legislature.

TUITION FORWARDS

The Iowa house has up for consideration a senate-passed bill that would require the state board of control to pay tuition for state wards attending high school in Toledo and Davenport.

The bill passed in spite of opposition by Sen. Herman Knudson of Clear Lake. It requires the board to pay tuition for pupils from the Iowa Juvenile Home at Toledo and the Iowa Annie Wittenmeyer Home at Davenport who attend high school in those two cities.

FAVOR TOLL ROADS

Iowa auto dealers in their annual state convention in Des Moines, went on record favoring an increase in the state gasoline tax for primary highway modernization, and for a toll road from east to west across the state. Final action has not been taken on either of those measures by the legislature.

Lee A Thomas, Burlington, was elected president of the Iowa Automobile Dealers Association; William Cramblit, Ottumwa, first vice-president; Dale E Norton, Spencer, second vice-president; C L Dickinson, Des Moines, treasurer and Al Kahl, Des Moines executive vice-president.

ESTIMATES ROAD NEEDS

The Federal Bureau of Public Roads estimates the cost of needed highway construction in Iowa through 1964 at $2,487,000,000. All but $382,000,000 would be for highways outside of cities and towns.

The bureau's survey, made at the direction of congress, was designed to provide a current picture of present and future highway needs in the nation.

Ten states, according to the estimate, would require a larger expediture for highways than Iowa.

The estimates that federal-aid highways in Iowa would cost $1,961,000,000 and that necessary highways to be built without federal aid would cost $526,000,000. Purely state highways, the report says, would cost $4,000,000, of which three-fourths is for rural roads.

HALLOCK NAMED

Ronald Hallock of Fairfield is the new industrial promotion director of the Iowa Development Commission. He took over his new duties April 1.

T E Davidson II, commission director, announced the appointment. Hallock formerly was with the Iowa tax commission.

SPEED LIMITS

Latest of the speed limit measures to be presented in the Iowa house is one by State Rep. Merle Hagedorn, Royal, which would set maximum daytime driving speeds at 75 miles per hour. Hagedorn's plan is an amendment to legislation now pending which sets speed limits at 65 and 55 for daytime and night driving.

Governor Hoegh has come out in favor of a 55-miles an hour night speed limit, but has indicated that he does not favor establishment of a maximum speed for daylight driving.

CLUB BILL SIGNED

Gov. Leo Hoegh signed a bill to permit private clubs, hotels and railroad cars with Class B beer premits, to keep liquor where beer is sold. The measure does not in any way permit the sale of liquor by the drink but does permit members to keep liquor, in private lockers, in a club where beer is sold.

The bill stemmed from a ruling made by Atty. Gen. Dayton Countryman in which he declared clubs must forfeit or turn in their beer licenses if liquor is to be kept by members in the club.

MAKE TAX REPORT

A special legislative committee, investigaitng income tax collections by the state tax commission, reports that a minimum of 50,000 to 100,000 Iowans required to file returns are not filing.

The report said that 87,000 farmers filed state tax returns in 1953 showing $5,000,000 of tax due whereas 108,000 filing "no pay" returns. Workers in cities and towns filed 150,000 returns with tax payments due, and 71,000 filed no-pay returns.

The committee said that 200,000 to 250,000 more federal income tax returns are filed by Iowans than are state returns.

GAS TAX VOTED

The Iowa house of representatives was the first to act on a gas tax increase. It has approved and sent to the senate for action a bill that would increase the state gasoline tax to 6-cents, a one-cent increase over the amount now being paid.

The measure, to become law, next must be approved by the sentate and then signed by the governor.

The house-passed bill would extend the temporary one-cent increase, added in 1953, for another two years.. This money is marked specificially for use on primary roads that do not have an all-weather surface. The second cent, added by the house this year, would be used only on the primary road program but is particularly intended for aiding in the modernization and widening program.

The two-cents would bring in an estimated $15 to $16-million for the primary road system annually.

TOLL ROAD

While the Iowa house was the first to act on the gas tax, the senate may be the first to wrestle with the toll road proposition for this state. A toll road bill has been reported out of committee and is on the senate calender for action. Twice, in sifting committee deliberations, the toll road bill failed to be voted out onto the senate floor for deliberation.

The toll road bill would set up an authority empowered to issue bonds to finance the road. It would be an east-west four-lane divided highway running from the Mississippi river to the Missouri across the state.

It was introduced by a special committee and would appropriate $75,000 for starting expense for the authority.

THREE-MAN COMMISSION

The state auditor's office has recommended a three-man state conservation commission for Iowa. In a report critical of the commission, the state auditor, C B Akers, recommended that the commission be organized to a full time three-member group.

The present commission is composed of seven members who meet about once each month to to pass on commission affairs.

Commission contract arrangements and purchase procedures were also included in the auditor's report.

The auditor's office has been critical of the conservation commission in other audits in recent years.

Riehm Tells Pros And Cons of Gas Tax

Another week is almost over, and a very hotly fought, controversial bill on gas tax has been passed by the House of Representatives. What the Senate may do with it is unknown.

I would like to make some comments on it which should be interesting. Frank Thompson, Representative from Guthrie, a southern county, introduced the tax bill to make the fifth cent gas tax permanent (he did not want anymore gas tax) yet after 2½ days of amendments, he had to vote against his own bill.

To start with, so many amendments to the bill were filed, it took 1½ days to redraft the bill with the House of Representatives acting as a committee as a whole. Then on Wednesday, the House took up the bill again, this time to consider what gas tax to pass. A compromise between five cents and six cents was attempted, by amending the bill to 5½ cents. However, this lost by a vote of 32 to 66. I voted for the 5½ cent amendment.

Then another motion for five cents was offered, which I again voted for, but it lost by a vote of 62 to 42. Then the vote was whether we wanted the six cent gas tax, and the question amounted to the proposition that if we voted "no", this would seem to reduce the gas tax from five cents to four cents. If we voted "yes", we would vote for six cents gas tax.

I should explain that the sixth cent of gas tax when collected for the next two years, would be earmarked exclusively for widening our primary paved roads to eliminate the causes of many deaths upon some 3,000 miles of narrow pavement.

I should also explain what happens to the other five cents gas tax which is being colleced at the present time: 1.68 cents goes to the primary road fund; 1,40 cents thereof to county secondary road funds of the counties; 6 cents to farm-to-market roads; and .32 cents thereof to cities and towns, and one cent (the fifth cent) goes to the primary road fund to hard surface primary state roads now graveled.

Iowa has one of the largest road networks in the United States, some 92,778 miles; state primary roads to the extent of 8,600 miles, some 10,000 miles in cities and towns and the rest in secondary and farm-to-market roads.

After the State of Iowa matched funds with the federal government (from the two cent federal gas tax money for approved federal road building projects) there was not much money left for widening of roads. A one cent gas tax will bring in about seven and one-fourth million. On the basis of $20,000 per mile cost for widening, one cent will widen about 350 miles a year.

Now on the last vote we voted "no" if we wished to reduce the gas tax to four cents and voted "yes" to favor the six cents gas tax for the next two years only. After considering all the factors, our need for roads, our need for more safe highways to reduce the death toll, I voted yes for the six cents gas tax. I am sure many of you who felt as I did, actually preferring the five cent gas tax, would choose the same alternative as I did rather than vote for a reduction which would hinder our road improvement progress.

On Tuesday, Douglas McKay, Secretary of the Interior, addressed a joint convention of the House and Senate and spoke on soil and water conservation and stressed its importance in the economy of our country now and in the future. I was honored by being selected as one of the committee of four to escort Secretary McKay to the Speaker's rostrum.

On Thursday, House File 143, a bill to authorize the State of Iowa to become indebted in the amount of 26 million to pay a Korean war bonus, was passed. The question will be presented to the people of Iowa at the general elections.

House File 242, which was amended to give the same effect as House File 272, was passed to provide for the edcuation of mentally retarded children within the county school system; at the present time there is no provision for education of these children to allow them to become useful citizens.

A senator, Friday, filed an amendment to the gas bill passed by the House, to strike all the bills passed by the House. If this is passed by the Senate, this means the gas tax will be reduced from five cents to four cents and less roads will be built and widened or improved in Iowa during the next two years. On the basis of the average driving of an individual, a one cent gas tax means from $3.00 to $6.00 yearly will be paid for better roads, and will be paid by those using the roads. It is also estimated that out-of-state cars pay between 15 and 20% of the gas tax in Iowa for the use of our roads.

Hairpins & Tennis Shoes

The girls' physical education classes have been doing something a little different than it ever has done before. We are jumping! Yep, you heard me right the first time, jumping. Perhaps you have heard about the experiments conducted with basketball boys which found that there is a certain technique to make a person jump higher. This enables a basketball player to get rebounds and make better jump shots. Well, this is what we have been doing. We also have a device, the Jump Master, which can test and measure how high we can jump. It has been proven that you can increase your jumping power six inches in a short time. A person should be able to jump as high as 12 inches above your tiptoed height with arms outstretched above your head. Hm! Wonder if we'll ever make it.

Next week we start tennis. Goodie! Goodie!

The seventh and eighth graders have been learning some new games and tumbling while the fifth and sixth graders reviewed and learned more about volley ball.

I Ask You Now

What do you think of when you see a Centurus?

Mr. Heppler: I think girls and women would like to hav. eat least one of these for pet. I hear they warm their feet on a cold winter night.

Denny H: Something I would give to Mr Ahrenkiel in appreciation for his fine speech Tuesday.

Dave W: Something I would put in my car for an ornament.

Harriett A: It's a gift I would give to Ina to keep her company when I'm not around.

Joan L: It's something I would set on my dressing table to dress it up.

Marlene B I'd use it as a book marker in my literature book.

P. S. (A Centurus is a Scorpion!)

In science we have finished a chapter on "How the Earth was Prepared for Life Upon It." We have written reports on Crater Mound in Arizona and Vesuvius.

We have been reviewing fractions and doing algebra problems in math.

The girls in home ec have been sewing on skirts, blouses, sundresses and shorts.

The boys are still working on their projects in shop.

In literature we have been reading stories and plays, and working in our workbooks.

SENIOR NEWS

English is composed of literature short stories and play practice, night after night.

Shorthand has been a steady old grind, going right through Skip Day and Career Day. We students who were away from Klemme School those days, had to make up those assignments. Some of us had ten and twelve pages to hand in the next day. But I guess maybe it helped all of us.

History pertains to Roosevelt's problems and joys during his terms as president.

Business training: We are now finishing one work book. This is pretty good progress because this is only a one semester subject. We are discussing the various types of life insurance.

Bookkeeping: Now that Skip Day and Career Day are over we can settle down to the grind of everyday life. This also includes the other classes. For bookkeeping we are working with Partnership Business. This includes working with the work sheet right on through to the balance sheet.

Typing: We were given some work to be typed for Mrs Proper. Also we have our projects to work on.

Business Law: We have been studying bailments which exist when one person has possession of goods belonging to another.

by Harry and Doyce

Policeman: "How did this accident happen?"

Motorist: "My wife fell asleep in the back seat."

Waiter: "Sir, the orchestra is now playing it."

Notes About Notes

Two weeks 'til solo and ensemble contest at Bode.

This week we will introduce you to the clarinet trio. This group is composed of: Dorothy Kroehnke, a freshman, first clarinet; Eva Thiemann, a sophomore, second clarinet; and Winola Zwald, a sophomore, and third clarinet. This group has made several public appearances this year, and should do well in contest.

General News

One week ago last Monday the seniors and sophomores attended Career Day at Britt excepting a few, who decided it wasn't worthwhile. They decided to spend part of their career day elsewhere. In a way they shouldn't be blamed for the information that was given was inadequate for some of these vocations.

The seniors enjoyed their Skip Day and it turned out more successful than Career Day. It seems that the co-pilot Harry Anderson confused his directions and headed east instead of north of Des Moines. Anyway they wound up twenty miles east of Des Moines with the gas gauge registering empty in Lee Gruis' high powered Old's However, luck was with them and they returned to Des Moines safely. It seems that the most interesting place was the WHO-TV station. All returned safely and tired.

It seems that the encyclopedia is not being used as a source for securing information lately but as a source for writing manuscripts. If you don't believe this ask Lee, he'll tell you the facts!

Fourth Grade News

In social studies we started a new unit on fishing on the East coast. We made six new posters on this subject. The chairman for each poster were Mark Huenemann, Robert Anderson, Roland Sobek, Linda Abele, Kathleen Priebe, and Verlinda Stahl.

Wednesday morning we went to the elevator to view the pouring of the cement. We found it very interesting.

Mrs Guth was a visitor in our room last week.

Last week we wrote some free verse. The first several lines were given in our weekly readers and we finished them. Here are two of them:

BEAUTIFUL BROWN
by Bob Anderson

Brown is a beautiful color.
It is the color of chocolate cake,
And gravy, and my new shoes.
Brown is the color of father's easy chair;
And leaves on the autumn trees.
Brown is the color of my hair,
My dog is the color brown,
Brown is my favorite color.

SPRING
by Kathy Priebe

Spring is a singing time,
Birds sing the trees,
Frogs sings in the ponds,
Wind sings as it blows
Raindrops sing on the window panes.
The merry-go-round sings gaily
And I sing, too!

Second Grade News

Great enthusiasm and eagerness was expressed by the second graders recently when they had their first experience with cursive writing.

We were happy to have Mrs Neuberger, Mrs Miller, and Mrs Schulz visit our room Friday. We hope they enjoyed their visit and will come again.

Arland Nuehring and David Miller each treated the boys and girls to candy on their birthdays.

The Clues have completed the second basic reader and are now reading in the supplementary reader "What Next" .

We have finished our Health Booklets and have them displayed on the wall in our room.

The following boys and girls had perfect spelling papers in the sectional spelling test: Vickie Bridges, Merlene Kothenbeutel, Bill Arnold, Lynn Alden, Rosalyn Arnold, Dorothy Bruggeman, Richie Trampel, Arland Nuehring and Donna Ulrich.

First Grade News

We went for an interesting walk last week. We went to see the new elevator on the first day they started to build it. We really enjoyed seeing it. Some of us gave guesses as to how long it would be before they finished building it. We guessed anywhere from 3 days to 2 years.

We have all finished reading our second, first grade book and our workbook that goes with it. We are going to read from other books now that we have all our first grade books done.

Easter is just around the corner and our room looks like Easter time. On our table we have an Easter rabbit with nests of candy eggs all around him. Our bulletin boards are also decorated for spring and Easter.

Editorial

The following are gems of verse by unknown authors:

The songs we sing and the smile we wear,
Makes the sunshine everywhere.

The world can't see your dreams pard,
Can't see them soar and mount;
They're big things to you, and it may seem hard,
But just what you do will count.

To dare is great.
To bear is greater.
Bravery we share with brutes.
Fortitude with saints.

May the blessed Easter story
Living in the hearts of men
Hold a richer, deeper, meaning
As we hear it told again.
And may its holy promise
Reveal to us anew,
The love of God, our Father,
Each day the whole year through.

Kindergarten News

We had lots of fun on our visit to the hatchery. There were so many things to see.

We brought eggs and painted them for Easter. Then we hung them on our Easter egg tree. It has lots of pretty eggs on it now.

We took a walk and watched men working on the new elevator too.

We have started our new work books called "Before We Read". They are about Dick, Jane and Sally, too.

We are learning about the number 8 in our number work books and have been doing work sheets to practice making it.

Eight To Be Confirmed

A class of eight young people will be received into the fellowship of Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church on Good Friday morning. RUINED

Burgulars broke into the Tripoli school recently. They got only $24 in cash but ruined two filing cabinets by prying open the drawers. $270 in cash was overlooked.

A new romance around KHS is Elaine J and Egon W from Garner.

What is this we hear about Dorothy D and Don K having Saturday and Sunday dates in a new car?

Next time we go any where with Darlene E we are going to take a rope to tie her up. Every man attracts her, especially in Bishop's Cafeteria. How about it, Darlene?

What's this we hear about Jeanne, Donna and Porky having a good time in study hall?

Dorothy and Don K have been seen together quite a lot. Could this be a new romance?

We hear that Marvin M wants to go with a girl from Kanawha. Her name is Marilyn W. Is this true, Marvin?

Who is this Jack that Fonda wants to go with? Why don't you give us some hints, Fonda?

What's this we hear about Joyce L riding up town with Larry W. Could this blossom into a new romance? We wonder?

For supper Friday night some of the seniors had some biscuits that were pretty hard. We thought about the "hard tack" Mr Smith had told us about and we decided maybe the museum could use them, but when we got over there it was closed. Oh well, better luck next time.

It seems that Ina and Jack broke up again. She isn't wasting any time finding a new romance, is she, Gordon L?

Harriett A and Merlyn O have been seeing quite a bit of each other lately. Is this another new romance around KHS?

Services Were Monday For Edward Barkema, 25

Edward Leland Barkema was born at Belmond, Iowa on January 5, 1930, the youngest child of Charlie and Jennie Barkema. He passed away at the St Mary's Hospital in Rochester, Minn., on Wednesday, March 30, 1955, at 5:50 A. M., after being hospitalized for five and one-half months, at the age of 25 years, 2 months and 24 days. Death was due to complication resulting from brain surgery. He had been in failing health for the past two years. He was baptized on April 24, 1930 by Rev O G Poppen of the Immanuel Reformed Church.

He lived on a farm northeast of Belmond where he received his Christian education attending the Immanuel Reformed Church at Belmond until in 1950 when he moved with his parents to a farm east of Klemme, where they now reside. He attended the Evangelical and Reformed Church at Klemme.

Surviving besides his bereaved parents are two brothers and four sisters, namely: Eva, Mrs Elmer Larsen of Alexander; Harold, of Balboa, Canal Zone, Panama; Emily, Mrs Wilbur Larsen of Latimer; Lyle of Goodell; Lois, Mrs Glen Schlichting of Klemme; Maurine, Mrs Kenneth Ver Helst of Ventura; 18 nieces and nephews and a host of relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held Monday, April 4th at the Immanuel Reformed Church at Belmond with Rev. George Poppen of Wellsburg, officiating. Johnston Funeral Home of Belmond was in charge of the arrangements. Burial was in the church cemetery. Here his mortal remains will rest till that bright and glorious resurrection morning. Plowing the furrow of grief is deep, but less would not do for the cultivation of God.

Mrs Carl Kuhlers gave comfort in music and accompanied the male quartet, consisting of Ben Mennenga, Louie Mennenga, Alvin Braner and Jelto Boelman as they sang "Beyond the Sunset", "God's Way is the Best Way" and I Won't Have to Cross Jordan Alone."

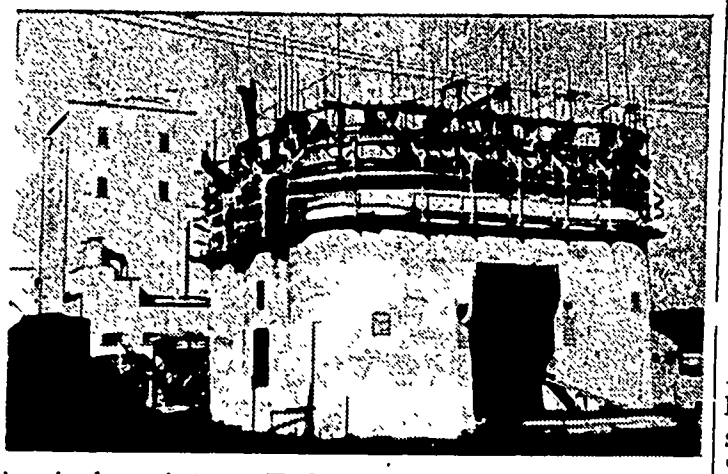
New Elevator Rapidly Taking Shape



Work which was begun a week ago Tuesday on the new concrete elevator at the Klemme Cooperative Grain Co. has been moving along at a rapid rate. Construction crews have been going night and day and every hour the new building climbs another six inches into the air.

The above two pictures were taken Wednesday and Saturday of last week, so it is easy to see that a few days makes quite a difference in the appearance to the new building.

Today (Wednesday) the structure is considerably higher than the mill (at the left in the above pictures) and the mill is 70 feet high. By the time the building reaches the 126-foot level it is going to dwarf the mill.

Riehm Says Must Be Some Tax Raise

Is Against Added Tax On Beer, Cigarettes

In looking back over the progress of the week, here in the House of Representatives, it would be obvious to even the most casual observer that the legislature is really hard at work in an attempt to provide Iowa with the legislation it requires.

The time for consideration of appropriations for the bills already passed has arrived and a great deal of public attention will be focused on what we are doing here. Please let me make myself clear at this point—although we are committed to economy at all levels of state operation, it will be impossible to fulfill the needs of the State, as impossible to achieve their expressed desires for increased aid, equalization of tax bases, expansion of services, etc., without adequately providing for the accompanying appropriations. In other words, we are at a place where additional appropriations call for the location of additional sources of revenue. The budget of the State is not unlike a household budget. When there is no reserve on hand, new purchases must be supported by new sources-of revenue. I offer this not as an excuse but to explain to what otherwise may appear as an inconsistency in our thinking and acting.

I don't always agree with the bills which are passed by the House. However, since we are citizens of a representative democracy we must accept its decision.

The sales tax placed on cigarettes and beer, I consider a regressive tax, since cigarettes already have more taxes on them than they cost to manufacture. While in the Army, cigarettes could be purchased for five (5) cents, cigarettes are now selling for 25 cents, so you can see how much tax is now levied on them. My objection to the sales tax on cigarettes and beer is that already the Federal government and state government have more taxes on them than their cost of producing. The question then is should a sales tax be added to two items already taxed so heavily. The House passed the bill 76 to 24 and I voted against the bill.

H F 520, which would provide for the centralization in the motor vehicle department enforcement of the law of the road, issuance of registrations, permits, licences, etc., was passed. In the which would redefine the regsame area, H F 540 was passed ulations pertaining to the tax imposed on gas, in excess of 20 gallons, transported into this State and make possible more efficient law enforcement. This should be of particular interest and benefit to the border counties.

I moved an amendment to H. F. 525, which as adopted would make possible the absentee voting of wives and dependents of service men, civilian employees and their families, members of religious or welfare groups where actually attached to the armed forces, such as the Salvation Army and the Red Cross.

On Tuesday, the House acted to appropriate funds re-

New Policy Will See Hunting and Fishing Seasons Open Saturdays

Under a new fish and game policy adopted by the State Conservation Commission, all future hunting and fishing seasons will open on Saturdays. This does not include the 1955-56 fishing season that has already been set.

Future season openings will be on the Saturday preceding the old opening date. For example, under the new ruling the bass and pheasant seasons, which for several years have begun on Memorial Day and Armistice Day, will open on the Saturdays preceding those days. The Saturday opening does not necessarily apply to the migratory waterfowl season, depending on federal regulations.

The new policy was initiated by the Commission at the request of school, labor, veterans' and church groups that objected to openings that fell during the week, on Sundays, or on patriotic holidays.

The new ruling will become effective with the 1955-56 hunting seasons which will be set late this summer.

Brotner of Rev. Jaberg To Study for Master's

The following is quoted from a Shebogyan, Wis. newspaper:

"We are making an announcement today that will be as regrettable to our listeners as it was to us of WHBL, Inc., the resignation of Gene Jaberg as news announcer, effective April 23rd.

Gene has been a member of the local WHBL family for a number of years, and would continue but for dual arrangements which make it possible for both him and Mrs Jaberg to attend the University of Wisconsin. Mrs Jaberg is closing her school career at Mission House College and will enter the University of Wisconsin, working toward her degree in home economics.

Gene, as he is familiarly called has accepted a position as writer-announcer at WKOW-TV at Madison, and while there will work on his master's degree at the University of Wisconsin Graduate School of Speech.

Gene began his work at WHBL in 1943 when he was a North High School senior, and continued as a week-end and summer fill-in announcer through his four years at Mission House College. He was a regular staff member between service in the army and theological studies at Princeton, New Jersey and Cambridge, England.

Following his return to Sheboygan in 1952, Gene resumed his announcing role with WHBL and completed his study at Mission House Seminary in 1954. He plans a career in the field of religious radio and television."

Mrs Jaberg is the former Miriam Priebe, daughter of Mr and Mrs Albert Priebe.

Farmers Urged to Take Care of Soil And Water Conservation

In making their plans for the usual spring rush, farmers of Hancock County were urged this week by D Earl Keat, vice-chairman of the ASC committee, to be sure to allot necessary time to establish needed soil and water conservation practices.

He declared that in many instances failures to carry out conservation work in the spring results in postponement of the practices until next year or even complete abandonment of the plan.

Vice-chairman Keat pointed out that such practices as pasture improvement, establishment of permanent cover and construction of sod water-ways, which require seeding, are springtime projects primarily. Terracing, contouring, constructing ponds and spreading limestone are either pratices which should or can be done in the spring.

The ASC vice-chairman emphasized that farmers having approvals for early ACP cost-sharing conservation practices must get them completed or well under way before their approval expiration dates in order to qualify for assistance payments. He declared that failure to act promptly in the spring accounts for much of the annual slippage between the amount of work authorized for cost-sharing and the amount actually completed.

The worst thing about such slippage, Vice-chairman Keat said, is that it represents unused funds which might have been used by other farmers who were anxious and willing to carry out needed conservation. He stressed that farmers who have approvals for ACP practices and who find they cannot carry out the work should notify the county office immediately so that funds obligated to them may be reassigned to others who are prepared to act.

The vice-chairman also said that farmers who are carrying out their approved practices as planned should notify the county office as soon as the work is completed or by the fixed completion date at the very latest.

Funds are available in Hancock County for approval at this time of new or additional requests for cost-sharing conservation practices to be carried out in 1955. Application should be filed at the county ASC office.

Recorder's Office Has Record Receipts

The Hancock County Recorder's office broke all previous records in the history of the office for receipts for the first quarter of 1955. A total of 2854 instruments were recorded during the first 3 months of 1955 with receipts totaling $2,110.95, as compared with $1,720.50 in in 1954 and $1,508.00 in 1953.

Of the total number recorded during the quarter there were 41 discharges or separation from service, fifteen certified copies of discharges or separations and three tax liens The Recorder receives no fee for these instruments.

Klemme Creamery Building Addition for Ice Cream Business

A year ago the first of March, the Klemme Cooperative Creamery Company began the manufacture and sale of ice cream. They have been producing a good product and as a result their business has grown rather rapidly.

They ventured into the ice cream business on a rather small scale and the plant facilities with which they began have for some time been taxed to the limit. They had a freezer cabinet with a capacity of only 60 gallons per day so they were limited to making no more ice cream that that each day.

As a result of the rapid growth of their ice cream business, more room was needed so they have under construction a 16'x32' addition to the creamery building. The new building is of concrete block with glass brick windows. It will house an 8'x8'x8' walk-in sharp freeze, which will allow the freezing eah day of plenty of ice cream, as well as all the other equipment necessary to the manufacture of their product

In addition to the ice cream making facilities, the addition will also house a skim milk tank. In a couple of weeks or so, according to manager Karl Hueneman, the company will begin buying whole milk. They have their own separator and will use the cream in the manufacture of their ice cream. The skim milk will be stored in the tank in the new addition and then sold to a drying plant at Whittemore.

All-in-all, he venture into the ice cream business has proved a step in the right direction for the local creamery, and their new addition will prove another good asset to the town of Klemme and the surrounding territory.

Finish Pouring of Bins at Elevator

Work which began two weeks ago on pouring the bins for the new concrete elevator at the Klemme Cooperative Grain Company, was completed early Sunday morning. Since that time scaffoldings and forms have been taken down and workmen have been busy putting on the roof and getting ready to build the head house on what is already an imposing structure.

The bins extend 122 feet above ground level and the head house will be another 36 feet higher. The building will be high enough and out in the open enough that it should be quite a prominent landmark.

Decision of Board Ends Annual School Picnic

The board of education of the Klemme Community School Disdistrict and the number of people cided to eliminate the annual school picnic. They felt that because of the size of the new listrict and the number of people who would attend, that it would be too large to handle as in previous years.

It was decided to replace the annual event with individual grade picnics which will be held during school time during the last two weeks of school.

We don't recall ever having seen a more beautiful Easter Sunday than the one just past. Churches were full and the highways were crowded with cars as people took advantage of the wonderful weather. Easter finery could be worn with no fear of rain or of getting cold. The day was bright and sunny and the theromometer climbed well into the 70's.

If the miracle of Easter could be brought home to all the peoples of the world, there would need to be no fear of wars and no huge sums of money spent for prisons. The world would be a much better place in which to live.

The finding of a vaccine which is effective against polio is perhaps the best news that has come to the world in recent years. Besides the fact that it will lessen the incidence of polio, it adds new hope that help may be found for cancer victims, victims of mental illness . . . and even those who suffer from the common cold.

Which makes us wonder why they ever called it the "common cold". We have never had a cold yet that we didn't think was just about the grandaddy of them all, and we don't know anyone else that thinks the colds they get are so common. Nearly every one is a "whooper-do" of some sort and has some pecularities of its own, that makes it probably the most uncommon cold in the world.

We have no particular choice as to where our government should draw the line in the Formosa area, but we hope that if they draw it, they will stick to their guns. If they don't, the commies will continue to think that we are an easy mark and will keep on with their land-grabbing tactics. If we show them that we mean business, they will think twice before they act.

Rev and Mrs Melvin Miller have two boys in their family. "Benjie" is a little over a year and a half old, and the stork recently brought the second boy to their home.

Monday Mrs Graydon Back, and daughters, Becky, 4, and Mary Jo, 2, had been next door visiting with Mrs Miller and after they had returned to their home, Grandma Back (Mrs Herman) came to visit them.

During the course of the visit, Mrs Graydon mentioned that they had been at Rev Miller's so Grandma Back asked, "How's their baby?" Then Becky came out with, "You mean the one they just bought?"

Two crows, early one morning made a date to meet at a certain tree at noon and have lunch together. The one crow was there right at 12 o'clock, and he waited and waited for the other to show up. Finally about two o'clock, he got there. The first crow said, "Where in the heck have you been?"

"Oh, it was such a nice day, I walked," was the answer.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

MAY 1 ADJOURNMENT

Many legislators, both in the house and senate, are now predicting the '55 legislative session will not adjourn sine die until May 1.

This means that the house and senate will be working after the usual 100 day session. The 100th day of 1955 session is April 20th.

Many legislators point out that delay in adjournment will be necessitated by the tremendous amount of major bills yet to be voted upon, particularly appropriations matters and tax revenue measures.

DISPUTE PAY RULING

Iowa house members have taken exception to a ruling by Atty. Gen. Dayton Countryman that legislators are not entitled to pay during their absence from the senate or house.

Apparently the ruling was requested by someone in the legislature. Rep Wade McReynolds, Ottumwa Dem. who has been ill since the legislature convened Jan. 10, thus would not be entitled to any pay except for the 3 days in which he has been present during this session.

McReynolds appeared one day, several weeks after the session started, to be sworn in. About two weeks ago he showed up for two more days.

The attorney general ruled that McReynolds is entitled to pay only on the basis of number of days served. Legislators are on a per diem basis, $20 a day. paid an a per diem basis $20 a day. Thus they draw $2,000 for a $100 day session.

The ruling also indicated that any house may not collect his legislative pay for any day on which he was absent. That ruling would affect nearly every legislator for few go through an entire session without an absence.

NAMES TWO DEMOCRATS

Gov. Leo Hoegh has sent the names of two Democrats to serve on the Iowa conservation commission, to replace two Democrats.

The senate has been asked to confirm the appointment of Mrs Helen Crabb of Jamaica, a former state representative, for a six-year term. She would succeed Mrs Emmet Hannan of Council Bluffs, and George V. Jeck of Spirit Lake, an auto dealer, to succeed D A Dinges of Emmetsburg for a six-year term.

Jeck is the son of G G Jeck of Atlantic, former Democrat national committeeman and director of Internal Revenue for Iowa.

FUND RAISING DINNER

Republican leaders in Iowa have announced plans for their annual fund raising dinner. In other years this has been known as the Lincoln Day Dinner but this year, because it's so long past the Lincoln birthday date, the GOP is calling it a plain "fund raising dinner."

George Nagle of Iowa City, state finance chairman for the party, said the dinner would be a $25 a plate affair, same price as in past years.

Nagle also announced that Herbert Brownell, Jr., attorney general of the U S, will be principal speaker.

DEMO DINNER

Democrats in this state will hold their annual Jackson Day dinner, a fund raiser, in Des Moines April 30.

The Democrat dinner, a $25 a plate outing, will be held at the Hotel Fort Des Moines.

Principal speaker will be Estes Kefauver, U S senator from Tennessee, and a candidate for his party's nomination for president in 1952. Kefauver is also considered as a possible candidate for president again this year.

RESERVE FIELD PLANS

Reservists from 36 Iowa cities will be among the 130,000 army reservists in the annual training program scheduled from May 1 until Sept 15, Iowa Military District Headquarters has announced.

Iowa reservists will train at several different camps. Many will go to Camp McCoy, Wis., others will be ordered to Fort Eustis, Va.; Fitzsimmons General Hospital, Colorado; Fifth Army Headquarters, Chicago; Washington, D C; Granite City, Ill., Fort Knox, Ky., and Camp Haven, Wis.

The 34th Division of the Iowa National guard will train at Camp Ripley, Minn. from July 31 through August 14.

Units from the following Iowa cities will be engaged in summer training tactics: Atlantic, Burlington, Cedar Rapids, Centerville, Charles City, Cherokee, Council Bluffs, Davenport, Des Moines, Decorah, Dubuque, Fort Dodge, Fort Madison, Garner, Harlan, Indianola, Iowa City, Jesup, Keokuk, Maquoketa; Marshalltown, Mason City, Mount Pleasant, Oskaloosa, Ottuma, Pocahontas, Rockwell City, Sac City, Shenandoah, Sioux City, Stanton, Story City, Washington, Waterloo, and West Liberty.

WINS BENT CANE

The annual Bent Cane Award, presented by the Des Moines Press and Radio Club to the Iowan who has contributed the most outstanding job in the last year in the fields of journalism, radio or television, was won by David Archie of Shenandoah editor of the Iowan magazine.

Archie, who has been publishing the magazine, which is devoted to Iowa and Iowans, received the award a few days ago at a ceremony in Des Moines.

A former associate editor of LOOK magazine, Archie returned to Iowa and started the slick page publication whose first issue appeared in October, 1952. It is a bi-monthly magazine with a circulation of 18,000.

Archie said that the purpose of the magazine is to promote Iowa by giving Iowans a greater knowledge and understanding of their state and its resources.

McLEOD TO SPEAK

Scott McLeod, adminstrator of the bureau of security and consular affairs, U S state department, will be the principal speaker at the annual legislative dinner by the Des Moines Press and Radio Club for members of the Iowa house and senate.

McLeod, a former Iowan, has been in the news considerably in the last two years, in connection with U S state department security matters and with the U S refugee relief program.

He will talk at the annual press gridiron dinner in Des Moines April 18. On that same day he will participate in a meeting of the Iowa Governor's Refugee Relief Program.

STATE SAFETY MEETING

Annual meeting of the Iowa Lay Committee on Traffic Safety will be held June 1 at the Hotel Kirkwood in Des Moines. The committee includes many Iowa organizations cooperating to reduce traffic accidents. Floyd Link, Davenport, public relations director for the Iowa Motor Club is chairman of the program committee for the annual parley.

Edward Adams, Des Moines, is lay committee chairman.

PAY MORE INSURANCE

Insurance premiums paid last year by Iowans totaled more than in the preceding year, the Iowa Insurance department reports.

Premiums paid by Iowans last year equaled $102.64 for every adult and child in the state, compared with a $98.98 per person the year before.

Departments officials said the premium tax collected this year on last year's business totaled $5,435,722, an increase of $226,979 over the previous year.

Tax collections indicate insurance companies collected a total of $271,786,100 in premiums from Iowans durings 1954. That is an increase of $11,786,100 over 1953.

CRITICIZES CONSERVATION

The Iowa conservation commission is again under criticism of the state auditor, Chet B Akers. The auditor, in another annual report, has called for the abolishment of the present commission, as well as the office of the director, Bruce Stiles.

Further, Akers has suggested, as he has in the past year, that a three-man fulltime commission be established instead of the present seven member commission which works on a part-time basis.

Stiles draws $6,000 a year. He is selected by the commission whose members are paid at the rate of $10 per day for each day worked.

The audit report was highly critical of the way sales of fishing and hunting licenses are handled by the commission.

quired for aid to dependent children, child welfare, emergency relief and old age assistance.

Initial debate was conducted on S. F. 198 relating to the establishment of county agricultural extension districts, organization of county councils to cooperate with Iowa State College but final action has been deferred. It seems there are 99 counties and the same number of opinions on this extension service bill, the amendment I offered thereon, even though approved by Harry Storey of the Farm Bureau was voted down.

A special memorial service was held Tuesday night and the assembly was addressed by Chaplain Walter D Wigger of the Men's Reformatory of Anamosa.

An appropriation for funds to the board of control for the salaries, support and maintenance of the institutions under its control, such as the mental health institutes of Cherokee, Clarinda, Independence, Mount Pleasant, Glenwood School, Woodward, Toledo Juvenile Home and others, was passed.

Thomas E Martin, United States Senator, addressed the House briefly expressing rather general views upon the economic condition of the nation, the agricultural problems of surplus and price support and also pointed out how necessary is our continuing bipartisan vote of confidence in President Eisenhower as regards the international picture.

Wednesday afternoon and again Thursday morning we have met as a committee of the whole for the purpose of considering the proposed income tax bill. We must remember that the previous legislatures have had what is called 100% income tax collections, it appears that the House believes that the income tax should be put back at 100% before any new sales tax or service tax hsould be levied.

It is interesting to note that in the last twenty years, the House has only met once as a Committee of the whole, yet the House of 108 members has now met as a committee of the whole twice during this session thus far. Quoting from an editorial in the "Des Moines Register" as of April 3rd, we may find the reason for our difficultty. "It's safe to say that no legislature in Iowa history has had more head cracking problems tossed its way for solution in a 100-day session."

When the session is over, if I have voted against a bill you may have been interested in, please consider that I may have helped pass some other important bills which are important to the welfare of Hancock County and the State of Iowa and in which you are also interested. We have sweated over 900 bills in committees, we have argued, we have fought over what is good or what is bad in the bills, also on the floor of the House, I have expressed opinions, I have offered amendments, I have introduced bills, yet I am certain that the most important bills of raising taxes to meet increased demands for school aid, agriculture land tax credit and our institutions are more important from the standpoint of the taxpayer, more important than any other constructive legislation we can pass. If we as legislators must fulfill our obligation, we must raise some taxes. They say a good politician votes against all tax raises and votes for all appropriations. As economy-minded as I am, and as conscious as I am of tax saving, I know I will have to vote for some tax raising bill, therefore I guess I cannot be called a good politician.

I was very happy to see the Britt High School Class in attendance at the Legislative Session. In addition to high school classes, many others would not only find it interesting but educational.

I wish to report that my efforts to secure more light in the House Chamber has produced results. Four venetian blinds have been installed and the balance will be installed next week. Many of the old representatives told me it was impossible, however, I have always said: If you don't try to do something, you will never know whether it could be done or not.

Agriculture Department Offers Feed Analysis

Hancock County farmers who wish to have samples of livestock feed analyzed may send them to the State Chemical Laboratory at Des Moines, according to Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

Mr. Henderson says he has word from Leslie Johnson, head of the animal husbandry department at Iowa State College, that a good many feeders each year send such samples to the college.

Johnson points out that some years ago the chemistry section of the Agricultural Experiment station at Ames did carry on this service. However, all this public analytical service was taken over by the State Department of Agriculture at Des Moines about 15 years ago.

Extension Director Henderson says it will save time and postage to send feed samples for the chemical analysis (protein, fat, fiber and ash) to the State Chemical Laboratory, State Office and Laboratory Building, East Seventy and Court, Des Moines, Iwa.

Johnson reports that the state laboratory has limited personnel, but will make a regular chemical analysis of feeds from individual feeders for a service charge of $1.

He says feeders should bear in mind that a regular chemical analysis does not give a list of the ingredients or the percentage of each ingredient in a mixed feed. Only the percentages of crude protein, fat, fiber and ash are given.

Youth Groups Have Stoke In Clean-up

The active leadership of youth organizations through out the state was sought today as the State Agriculture Extension Service begn its Spring Clean-up drive for greater fire safety on farms.

"Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Sunday school classes, 4-H clubs and other youth groups can be a tremendous help to the state and county agricultural agents who are now campaigning to lessen fire's tragic toll of lives and dollars, "said Dolye Groen, Co. Ext. Youth Assistant. "Fire prevention is more than just a fire department responsibility—it's the obligation of every citizen."

The home, origin of 50 percent of all fire deaths, is the most logical place to start a spring clean-up. Children are asked to enlist their families help in getting rid of quick-burning rubbish, in cleaning and checking electrical equipment, in removing oily rags, wood shavings and other fire hazards and in making general repairs and improvements towards a more fire safe home.

Elsewhere on the farmstead special attention should be given to dirty, oily tools in the machinery shed, to possible malfunctioning of a brooder heater, and to the danger of a spontaneous combustion in the poorly ventilated parts of the barn.

"Don't give fire a place to start" in this year's national clean-up slogan. Co-sponsors of the farm fire safety drive are the U S Department of Agriculture and the National Fire Protection Association.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

This accident traveled around for years in three parts. Then came a day and a moment when the three parts came neatly together.

One part was a man who wouldn't put out his hand to signal a turn if he had a better than even chance of plucking a $10.00 bill out of the air.

The sceond part was a careless man who brought neglect and decay to everything he owned. His property simply went to pot for lack of care. His car had no tail light.

The third part was what the patrolman telling the story called a "city driver." He was hurried, hard-pressed - man or he thought he was - who always followed the car ahead by as close as 5 to 10 feet.

Taken separately, each man, each part of the accident to come, would have exused himself as not so bad.

The man who never signalled could say, "But they can see my tail lights go on". The man who had no tail light could say, "But I seldom drive at night." The man who followed too closely could say, "I've got good brakes".

Then came the day and the moment. The man who would not signal stopped in the middle of the highway to make a left turn Right behind him, the man who had no tail light jammed on his brakes. Right behind him, the man who followed too closely had no warning, no chance to use his good brakes.

He crashed into the car ahead and his three-year-old son, riding in the front seat, was thrown through the windshield. His life was lost before he could be taken to a hospital.

A far-fetched and improbable story? The patrolmen who were there swear it is true.

Hancock Beef Producers Organize Association

The beef producers at a meeting Wednesday night, March 30, elected a county wide board of directors. Those elected were Forrest Eckels, Britt; John Cooper, Britt; Herman Bode, Corwith; Gilbert Guenther, Britt; Wiley Weaver, Britt; Don Greiman, Garner; Robert Rasmussen, Miller; and Paul Stieff, Forest City.

The 113 beef producers attending were given some ideas on the beef feeding outlook by Beresford, Extension Animal Husbandman. Mr Beresford also discussed the feeding of stilbestrol to beef cattle.

Mr Kenneth Fulk, the excutive secretary of the Iowa Beef Producers presented the Iowa Beef Promotion Program and asked the Hancock group to assist in the program. The folks attending donated enough money that night to more than meet the county quota. More could be used.

The board of directors will meet soon and elect officers.

A moderate decrease in automobile accidents was reported in 1954.

NOTICE

It has come to the attention of the Mayor and Council that there have been certain violations in regard to the ordinance pertaining to drainage. In order that those involved may have the needed information, the following Ordinanace is printed.

AN ORDINANCE DEFINING OFFENCES AND PRESCRIBING PENALTIES FOR VIOLATION.

Section I. It shall be unlawful to commit any of the following acts:

Paragraph 106. Throw, place or deposit, or cause to be thrown, placed or deposited, any glass, nails or other sharp substances, ashes, straw, paper, sweepings, brush, weeds, spoiled fruits or vegetables, refuse or rubbish of any kind upon any sidewalk, street, alley, highway, gutter, drain or public ground.

Section II. Anyone violating the provisions of this ordinance other than Paragraph One (1) shall, upon conviction, be subject to imprisonment not exceeding thirty days or to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars. Whenever the fine and costs imposed for the violation of this ordinance are not paid the person convicted may be committed to jail until the fine and costs are paid, not to exceed thirty days.

You will notice that the Ordinance mentions "gutters" and "drain" and we wish to point out that the Town has an expensive storm sewer on Main Street that, should it become plugged, would be next to impossible to repair.

Mayor

Use Insecticides—

Say Good-by to Fabric Insects

Beat your fabric insect problem the right way. Place clean fabrics in sealed containers (cardboard boxes sealed with tape are good.) Be sure to place moth crystals around each item. If you carry out all your summer storage using good methods, your things will emerge like new next fall.

Take note!—Are fabrics in your home being attacked by insects? There are two types of insects common in Iowa homes—carpet beetles (four species) and clothes moths (two species). The larvae (worm) form of these groups attack fabrics of animal origin, such as furs, wool, and feathers.

Harold Gunderson, Iowa State College extension entomologist, says if your home is over 6 months old, it's probably infested by carpet beetles. They are responsible for most fabric damage in Iowa. They can be found on closet shelves, in your rugs and along baseboards. The larvae is about ½ inch long, brown or black in color and fuzzy. These insects are seldom seen, but if you know that the larvae shed their skins, you'll be able to recognize on sight these cast-off skins They look exactly like the larvae only they are empty. Carpet beetles do their damage discretely. You may not notice it for what it is—but just think your carpets aren't wearing well. If this is your case, look for evidence of larvae before you blame the carpet's durability.

USE DDT

Keep your carpets beautiful and prolong their lives by simple treatment with DDT in a 5 percent solution. This will protect your carpets for a least 6 months. Use one quart per 100 square feet of surface You can apply DDT with a vacuum cleaner sprayer or any pressure-type sprayer. Be certain that the carpet isn't walked on for 8 hours after treatment. Remember the larvae are under and behind the baseboards also, so spray them at least twice a year.

THE CLOTHES MOTH

You are probably familiar with the well-known clothes moth—or at least with the type of damage it does. Clothes moth larvae may be recognized by webs they spin to protect themselves. Closets and clothes containers are their favorite working place. The moth's damage is more evident than the carpet beetle's.

You can control all these larvae in various ways: Since they often live behind baseboards, place a long lasting compound here. Two percent to three percent chlordane in an oil solution or ½ percent dieldrin are both effective. Fluosilicates and DDT can be purchased at drug stores and applied directly to fabrics for insect control. Fluosilicates must be eaten by the worms before it will kill them; DDT will kill on contact. Fluosilicates are removed by laundering and DDT by dry cleaning.

SUMMER STORAGE

When preparing fabrics for summer storage remember that insects attack dirty areas first, so clean thoroughly. Arrange the clean fabrics in tightly closed cardboard, metal or wood containers. Clothes bags usually aren't tight enough. Place paradichlorobenzene crystals between the layers of clothing (¼ pound to 12 cubic feet). Then close the container. If you use cardboard boxes seal them securely with gummed tape and label each box as to contents.

Cedar chests are good for storage if they are sealed securely enough to hold the paradichlorbenzene fumes. Cedar alone has no insecticide properties after one year. This also applies to cedar-lined closets. The first year the aromatic resins of cedar have some degree of moth-repellent value.

Gov. Hoegh Proclaims April Cancer Control Month In Iowa

At 9:30 on the morning of March 31st, simultaneous with the launching of the 1955 April Crusade of the American Cancer Society by President Eisenhower in the White House, Governor Leo A Hoegh signed a proclamation declaring April as Cancer Control Month in Iowa.

In it he called attention to the hopeful fact that 1,400 Iowans were saved from dying of cancer in 1954 through new knowledge in early detection and prompt techiques. He also stated that half of those who develop cancer can be saved through present methods.

Governor Hoegh pointed out that the Iowa cancer death rate among women is declining and the death rate among men, with the exception of lung cancer, is leveling off.

Inasmuch as medical authorities now estimate that 650,000 Iowans (or one out of four) will eventually have cancer, he urged that all citziens observe April by learning as much about cancer as possible and by supporting the fund-raising drive of the Iowa division of the American Cancer Society which has brought honors to Iowa three out of the past four years by being chosen the top ACS division in the nation for its work in cancer education, research and service.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

On March 1, farmers of Hancock County, along with farmers in all the other counties in the United States were polled about their cropping plans for 1955. These March 1st plans indicated two trends, according to Francis A Kutish, farm economist at Iowa State College. A 2 percent boost in the acreage of the four major feed grains, and a further shift of acres into hay production, especially in the South and Southwest.

Corn acreage will be up in the Corn Belt if farmers follow through on their March plans. But less land will go into corn outside the Corn Belt. Kutish believes this shift probably reflects the poor corn yields and correspondingly favorable small grain harvest in much of the South during last year's drouth.

Meanwhile, the United States Department of Agriculture has reduced support prices all along the line—except for wool. Support prices that have been announced for 1955 crops follows:

CROP	1954	1955
Corn, Bushel	$1.62	$1.58
Soybeans, bushel	2.22	2.04
Oats, Bushel	1.15	.94
Barley, Bushel	1.15	.94
Sorghums, Bushel	1.28	1.00
Flaxseed, Bushel	3.14	2.91
Cotton seed, Ton	54.00	46.00
Rye, Bushel	1.43	1.18

These lower support prices plus increased acreages of feed grains and hay probably set the stage for a further increase in production of livestock and livestock products during the next few years, Kutish concludes.

Thus, the outlook adds up to more of the large supplies which have been an important factor in maintaining the persistent downward pressure on farm prices since 1951. lFarmers are stil wrestling with the problem of what to do about "a little too much producion in total" ssays Kutish.

Hancock County hog producers have seen hog prices recover most of their late winter losses, although prices still remain well below a year ago. Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist, looks for further price strength over the next three or four months.

The halt in the winter downtrend came during the middle of March, about two weeks earlier than in 1952—a year similiar to this in many respects Correspondingly, the recovery from the downward trend has been more rapid, Kutish says. The main reason for the difference, as Kutish see it is: We did not have nearly as much increase in September litter over August last year as we had in 1951.

The improved pork market helped get last month's push for better hog prices underway. Hog

However, the March recovery didn't constitute our major summer hog price rise, Kutish believes. It probably will have to wait awhile until we feel the effects in the market of the effects in the market of the fewer litters born in October and November, he predicts.

Even though fewer pigs were farrowed during October and November than in August and September we raised more hogs during October and November than we did in the same months of 1953. Consequently, we'll have more pork on the market this spring than a year ago, says Kutish. So our price for hogs won't be as high as last year. But it still should be better than it was at the start of April.

Now Is the Time to Begin Fly Control

Hancock County farmers who plan to keep flies in check this season are now at work or will be soon.

Hancock County Extension Director Paul Henderson says an effective fly control program must have two distinct phases —sanitation and fly killing. And it's time now to be at work on the sanitation phase.

The important thing to remember, Henderson points out, is that sanitation is aimed at removing places where flies breed. Only by reducing breeding and reproduction can you get control of flies.

Most farm folks know the obvious trouble spots—manure piles, old stack bottoms and such places. But many miss others that are mighty attractive, Henderson says. These are some that deserve special attention—hard-to-clean corners of buildings and lots, barn gutters, spilled feed, trash piles and around leaky water taps where water drips into feeds or manure .In fact, any decaying organic matter invites flies.

With a good sanitation program that's started in early spring and carried through the season, fly killing with effective chemicals will help make the job pay off.

According to information Henderson has received from Iowa State College extension entomologists, malathion rates as the best single chemical for fly control for the state as a whole. Its place is as a residual killer applied on walls, fences and inside buildings where flies rest.

Entomologist Earle Raun recommends a mixture of 1 gallon of 50-percent malathion concenthrate in 50 gallons of water, with 1 gallon of the mixture applied to each 1,000 square feet of area. Adding 10 pounds of sugar to the 50-gallon mixture extends the residual effectiveness for a few days. Malathion is effective against flies that have developed resistance to DDT, lindane and methoxychlor, according to Raun.

During the cooler spring and fall months, DDT and methoxychlor may be effective when used as 5-percent spray formulations, where flies have not developed resistance. DDT should not be used in dairy barns nor applied to dairy cattle or any animals that will be slaughtered within 30 days. Methoxychlor is approved for use in the dairy barns and on animals. Malathion and lindane may also be used in dairy barns, but not in repeated applications on animals. The hot weather months July and August, require a shift to lindane for greater effectiveness. This material, in concentrations of 0.5 to 1 percent, may be used for residual sprays and on animals only for one-shot treatments to control lice and mange.

Baiting flies with prepared poisoned baits—such as malathion and other similiar chemicals—can be useful in killing flies that move into areas like porches or garages. However, Raun says the baits will kill only houseflies, and won't kill stable flies—most farm fly population include about half stable flies.

There are portable fogging devices available now which are useful in killing flies in buildings. These devices deliver a quick-killing fog of synergized pyrethrins. They will kill the flies that are in the building at the time, but the fog doesn't stay in the air to kill flies that come in later.

BODY HOME

Word has been received at Charter Oak that the body of S-Sgt. Donald Jones, who died in a Korean prison camp, will be returned to this native Iowa soon.

Actually drawing a garden plan and marking the rows for certain crops may seem like a lot of trouble, but folks who do it find it's a big help.

Sketch out the plan on a piece of heavy paper that you can take to the garden with you. Arrange the early season crops—like lettuce, radishes, onion sets etc. together at one side of the garden. Put longer season crops like tomatoes, sweet corn, squash, etc., at the other end. Then when the early crops have been harvested, you can spade up the whole area for later crops.

Commercial fertilizers help increase both production and quality of vegetables. You can make the first application just before you plant the garden. Apply about 15 pounds of high-analysis—such as 12-12-12 or 10-20-10 per 1000 square feet. With lower analysis—such as 6-10-4, 5-10-5 and 4-16-8 double the rate. Broadcast the fertilizer on the plowed ground and rake it in to depth of 2 to 3 inches.

Organic matter is a key to good gardening. If you have manure, compost, old leaves, peat or even sawdust, scatter it on the ground and work it in. These organic materials help to loosen the soil, make it easier to cultivate and allow it to hold moisture better.

Select varieties carefully. Do not give the varieties that you have used successfully. But try some of the new ones. You may find you like them better. Try the new ones on a small scale while you test them out under your conditions.

A good helper for you through the gardening season is Iowa State College Pamphlet 195, "The Family Vegetable Garden." This is a heady reference guide for the home gardener. It contains discussions of planning, garden rotation, disease and insect control, ground preparation, planting, fertilizing, weed control, varieties and other phases of gardening. In fact you can find an answer for most any question on gardening in this pamphlet.

You can get a copy free from your county extension director Paul Henderson. Either stop by his office in Garner or write to him, requesting a copy.

In stores and warehouses, land and buildings, manufacturing plants and many types of equipment, the brewing industry has invested over $62,000,000 in Iowa. This is a huge investment, which goes to swell the basic wealth of our state, and adds its share to every section of the commonwealth.

Every Community Benefits from the Brewing Industry's Investment!

Yet, this capital investment represents only a part of the many dividends Iowa receives from the brewing industry. It also pays over $23,000,000 annually in taxes, has a yearly payroll here of over $30,000,000, and pays over $27,000,000 in miscellaneous expenses in Iowa for such items as transportation, electricity, rent, insurance, and scores of other requirements. New Elevator Progresses

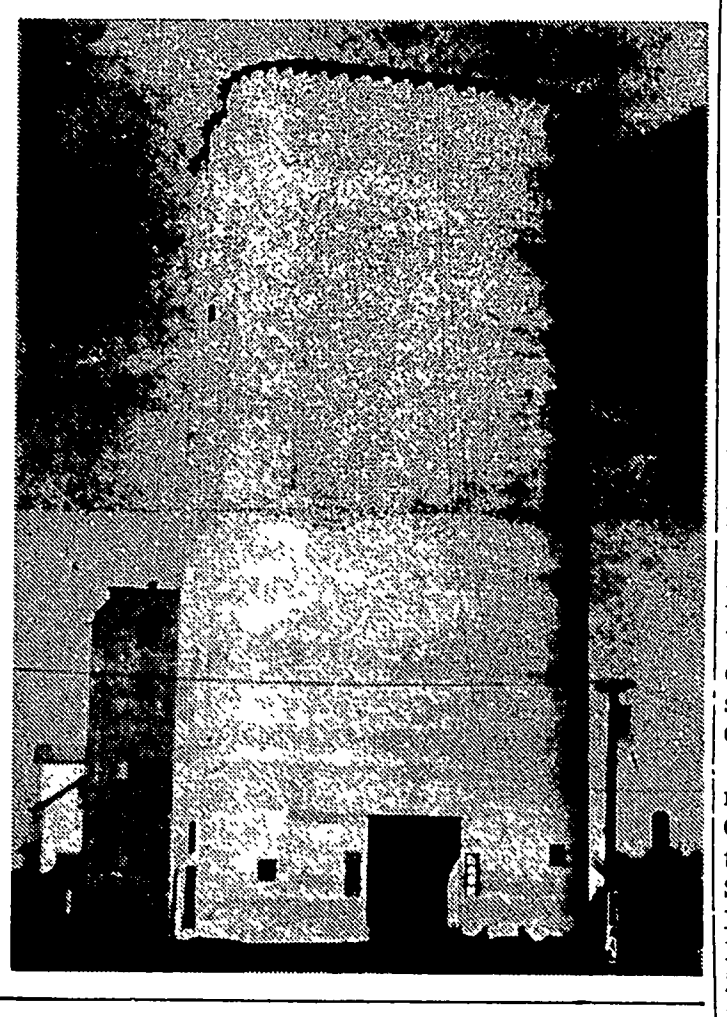
Pictured here is the new concrete elevator being constructed by the T E Ibberson Company for the Klemme Cooperative Grain Company.

Height of the structure at this stage is 126 feet. At the time this picture was taken workmen were busy putting on the roof and installing ventilators.

Since the picture was taken the men have built forms in preparation for pouring the head house which will extend another 36 feet above the bins shown here.



Commercial Club Plans Summer Prize Drawings

At a meeting of the Klemme Commercial Club held Tuesday evening at the grade school basement, it was decided that no movies would be held this summer as in past years. Instead a drawing will be held each week and a cash prize will be awarded.

There will be no build-up of the prize. It will be a set amount and will be given away each week. In other words, there will be a winner. If the person whose name is first drawn is not present, names will be drawn until someone wins.

In addition a committee was appointed by President Don Schaefer to try and get a portable roller rink for Klemme this summer. It is felt that the young folks would really enjoy it, and it was hoped that the attraction can be made available.

Other items of business were talked over and the following closing dates were set for this year: Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Veteran's Day, Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's Day. Klemme stores and business places will be closed all day on these days.

Further details on the cash drawing for the summer will be given in later issues of The Times. Watch for them.

East Hancock Chest Annual Meeting Held

The annual meeting of the East Hancock Community Chest will be held Monday, April 25, at 8 P. M., in the Garner high school auditorium. This meeting is open to the public—and all officers and directors and contributors are urged to attend. It should be remembered that contributors to this Community Chest are members.

A full report of the business which was transacted by the East Hancock Community Chest will be given; and also a complete financial report. If you are concerned about the operation of your Community Chest (and you should be); then please arrange to come next Monday evening.

The meeting will be an open one—if you have criticisms then is the time to offer them—if you want to learn what happened to the contributions; this is the meeting to come to—or, just to show interest in your organization, (which is earnestly solcited)—come to the Garner high school auditorium Monday, April 25, at 8 P. Loses Two Fingers

Last Thursday, Jim Legge, who farms on the Asa Legge farm northwest of Klemme, got tangled up with a buzz saw. He was sawing wood when the accident happened, and was brought to the office of Dr Dulmes. He was taken to Mercy Hospital at Mason City and two of the fingers on his left hand were removed.

Jim got back from the hospital Tuesday, and although he has a pretty big bandage on the hand, he says he has had very little pain with the wound and is getting along fine.

Oats Seeding Done; Work Goes On

Oats seeding in this section of the country is over with now. This picture taken last Friday shows Carl Wille cultipacking the last field on his farm south of town. Work still goes on, though, as farmers are busy plowing and preparing ground for the planting of corn and beans, which will be starting in a week or so.

TAX STUDY

An Iowa tax study, which will involve the whole field of state taxes and revenue, will get underway immediately after adjournment of the state legislature this month

The study has been authorized in order to give the taxpayer a full and complete picture of the state tax picture picture and a clear-cut idea of where added improvements must be made in providing increased and improved services to the taxpaying public.

It also will give the legislature an idea as to where it should draw the line in the mounting pressure from many sides for increased taxes for increased services.

Legislators and laymen, who will comprise the study group, will have their work completed before the 1957 legislative session gets underway. If the work is finished early enough, Gov. Leo A. Hoegh has indicated he will call a special session of the legislature to permit action on committee recommendations.

Hoegh has indicated, however, that he will not call the special session ahead of the November 1956 elections. It would be convened in late November if the committee report suggests the need

DUCKS THIS ONE

A 14-year old girl, daughter of an Iowa newsman, had Governor Hoegh ducking the other day in a press conference.

The girl, daughter of Frank T. Nye, associate editor of the Cedar Rapids Gazette, was sitting in on a press conference as a guest of her father. The governor invited her to ask a question.

"Would you answer this question yes or no?" Linda Nye inquired. "Are you going to run for reelection?"

The governor hedged. said right now he didn't know but maybe he'd know in the next six months or so.

OKAYS TOLL ROAD

The Iowa senate was the first house to act on the proposal for a toll road authority in this state.

By a 42 to 6 vote the senate passed and sent to the house a bill to create a state toll road authority which would have power to construct a fourlane turnpike across the state east and west.

The bill would create a five-member commission to move ahead on the project. The commission would include the governor, a member of the highway commission, and three members proved by the house and signed named by the governor and apinto law by the governor.

READY TO GO

State Auditor Chet Akers said his office is ready to go on a new law which requres that state auditors notify newspapers, radio and TV stations whenever audits are made on city, county or state government divisions or departments.

Akers said that postal card notices will be sent all newspapers, radio and TV stations in a county when the audits are completed and turned over to local government officials.

VERY LITTLE INTEREST

Two years ago the Iowa legislature passed a law permitting public inspection of the social welfare relief rolls in the state. The state board of social welfare reports that it cost $10,000 a year to comply with the law.

But, as important, is the fact that only 18 people in Iowa have asked to inspect the rolls in the last two years.

That's the report made by Board Member Mary Huncke. In all of Iowa's 99 counties there has been little interest from the public in reviewing these rolls, she said.

REVERSES DECISION

After first ruling that legislators could not be paid for days they are absent from the legislature, Atty. Gen. Dayton Countryman reversed himself and said that they can be.

The reversal is based on the premise that the law indicates that the lawmakers are paid at the rate of $2,000 per session rather than on a daily basis of $20 per working day. House members had appealed his earlier decision.

HOEGH SUPPORTS UNIT

Governor Hoegh said he believes the present organization of the state conservation commission, with a part-time board for policymaking, and a fulltime director, is a good system.

Hoegh's statement came in a press conference after a critical audit of the commission was made public by State Auditor Akers.

Akers had suggested the office of director be abandoned under a fulltime three-member commission he recommended.

TIME LIMIT

A bill is on file in the Iowa senate authorizing the legislature to act on state highway commission positions in the event the governor fails to submit appointments to the senate within 60 days after the general assembly convenes.

If the chief executive holds back longer than the 60 days the authority to appoint highway commissioners would rest with a committee of the presiding officers of the two houses--the lieutenant-governor and speaker of the house--and the chief justice of the Iowa supreme court.

Although the bill only affects highway commission appointments, the senate reportedly plans to include other appointments also.

IOWA PRISON TOPS

Erle Standley Gardner, world-famed author of detective stories and an authority on penology, says the Iowa state prison at Fort Madison "is one of the most outstanding institutions I have ever visited."

Gardner, in an aricle written for current issue of a national magazine, had lavish praise for Warden Percy Lainson and and the prison Lainson is running.

He said he thought Lainson has carried the work of rehabilitation of prisoners "to a remarkable degree". He said that the result of running a prison according to (Lainson's) standard "is highly gratifying."

NEW QUIZ TWIST

An Iowa couple, Mr and Mrs David B Evans of North English have added something new to current tests.

Evans, an attorney, and his wife,, each year give a current events quiz to the eighth graders of the Norh English schools. The two top winners get an all expense paid trip to Des Moines, seat of the state government.

The Evanses began their program six years ago and to date have taken 14 students on the one-day junket. Three years ago tie grades resulted in four students making the trip.

It started when the couple observed that athletes are rewarded through various awards for outstanding performances, that scholastic achievement is not without due recognition, but that no honors are passed around for knowledge of local, state and world events. That's when Mr and Mrs Evans decided to do something about it.

SEES REVENGE MOTIVE

Ewald Trost, Ft Dodge, a member of the Iowa Conservation Commission, says that reports made by the Iowa state auditor on the conservation commission are a "method of revenge."

For several years the auditor, Chet Akers, has been critical of the commission. This year, in addition to numerous criticisms, he asked for the abolishment of the present commission, and the establishment of a fulltime board of three members.

Trost said that differences arose after a 1946 incident in in which a friend of Auditor Akers was arrested by a state game warden for shooting pheasants out of a car.

Riehm Has Busy Week at Capitol

Appeared On TV Program Friday

Monday, April 11th, the House met in regular session to take formal action on what has been called the "omnibus tax bill" which had been drafted in the week before in a meeting of the Houses as a committee of the whole. There has been a considerable amount of kidding concerning the change in position taken by the House on this measure, but all kidding aside, this is an example of the mandate of the people being translated into legislation thus amending an earlier majority of the House.

All of us are prone, in our unofficial capacities, to resist legislation which calls for increasing revenue, but in the official capacity as representatives, we are charged with facing reality in this situation. We cannot fulfill our duty to obtain for the people of the state, the services they seek without making adequate plans for the financing of them. It is not a time to be confused with slogans and pressures from special interest groups; it is a time for clear thinking. If the State is to continue providing services at the present rate it will need some 9 million additional funds and if it is to, and it should,, provide additional services in the form of better educational facilitites, tax equalization, public institutions and better roads, it requires even more.

No tax is completely fair to all people. There will always be some who by force of circumstance, shoulder a greater burden than the rest, but it is well known that income tax most nearly approximates ability to pay and for that reason it is probably the most desirable fax form. In the House, it appeared that a considerable number of the members thought that it would be more wise to go to 100% of income tax rather than to settle for less and possibly subject the people to the additional burden of an increased sales and service tax which is regressive in nature as opposed to the income tax which is progressive. Another factor enters this consideration; if only the income tax is increased in present form and there is no increase in sales tax or imposition of a service tax, there remains the possibility that should appropriations exceed revenue, that a state property tax will automatically be levied on all property m the State of Iowa. We are the first to recognize the fact that the income tax is already heavily burdened in the federal areas and yet it seemed that in an "either-or" situation as this has been, that the income tax increase was the most equitable for all concerned.

Out of order but related to the income tax bill was the passage of House File 541, a bill designed to assist the state tax commission in enforcing the Iowa income tax by providing for substantial penalties in cases of failure to file a return or for the fraudulent filing of the return. A provision for voluntary disclosure is made. To account for the large vote against it (the bill passed by a bare majority), should be said that the vote represented an opinion (myself not included) that in consideration of the very severe penalties in the federal income tax area, such rigorous measures were not necessary to state income tax or that they would ultimately prove ineffectual. It was not an opinion adverse to measures designed to facilitate collection of tax due to the State.

On Tuesday, the House passed a bill which would fix the filing dates for Iowa primaries and general elections. I had filed an amendment to this bill which as adopted would provide for absentee voting for the families and wives of service men while absent from the States in active service. Without such an amendment these people were for all purposes disfranchised and reliable calculations estimate this group to approximate 100,000.

The House passed upon Senate File 146 which would require a license to engage in or conduct a business as a transient merchant at places outside of cities and towns, or within any city or town, that has not by ordinance provided for licensing of transient merchants.

The bill which would raise the salaries of county officers some $400.00 a year and which was

What's one of the quickest and easiest ways to increase your social, business and literary life? The anwer is very simple—increase your vocabulary. This fascinating hobby will improve your thinking, give you assurance and self-confidence, add zest to your personality, and increase your popularity.

Perhaps you may not believe all these statements but they are true. Words are the only way to express your thoughts. Words can make or break friendships, start or stop wars, increase or retard success, and help or hinder civilization.

However, with all their power words can be easily conquered and mastered. The magic recipe for sucess calls for enthusiasm, imagination, curiosity, and a dictionary. Combine these and begin your vocabulary build-up by investigating strange words met in your reading or conversation; by learning the meaning, spelling, pronunciation, and origin of one new word every day; by journeying through a dictionary and studying words picked at random; or by another method that proves satisfactory.

So if you want to gain advancement in the world around you, save a few minutes each day to increase your vocabulary. You will find in time that your vocation, conversation, and relaxtion will be more meaningful and beneficial.

Senior Interview

Miss Carole Ann Montgomery is the young lady which we have the good fortune of interviewing today. Carole is 5' 8" tall, has blue eyes and red hair. She was born in Klemme, has lived in Klemme all her life, and has gone to school at Klemme from kindergarten to the present. The date we set aside for birthdate on our calendar is November 21, 1937.

Well, it seems we have another person who collects earrings for a hobby, because Carole Ann too, has listed it as her hobby. Roller skating and sleeping are her favorite pastimes. The two certainly do go hand-in hand. One seems to merit the other!

"Sincerely" sung by the McGuire Sisters and Jules Herman are her favorite song and band respectively. Grace Kelly and her recent picture, "Country Girl", are favorite actress and movie. She picks Robert Wagner as the man she likes best in movies. French fried shrimp and custard pie are her favorites as foods. Her favorite saying is "Oh, my." Carole Ann's only future plans are "Work".

Cackles From Band Coop

May 7th is band contest at Blairsburg!

Next week we will have the ratings from the solo and ensemble contest and right now (the 13th) everyone is practicing like mad for the 15th and 16th at Bode.

We are wondering what we will do with ourselves when the contests are over, and we don't have to practice every spare moment.

Notes About Notes

Our biggest concern is contest at Bode this Friday. Thirty-two numbers including vocal, band and piano already gave a rehearsal concert in the Klemme Methodist Church this last Wednesday.

If you haven't already known this, Margaret Haefner is our band queen and will be our representative at the Band Festival at Mason City.

Hairpins & Tennis Shoes

The fifth and sixth grades have been jumping rope. They have been increasing their timing and accuracy by doing the "egg beater"—the 2 ropes swing "eg beater"—the 2 ropes swing simultaneously by four girls as a girl in the center jumps her own rope and also the two other ropes.

The seventh and eighth grades are doing the same as the high school girls—and that is we are all learning the steps of tennis. So far we have had the front and forehand drive, and the backhand drive. We're trying to improve foot work which is perhaps the most important element of the game of tennis. Today we are going to learn about the scoring of tennis.

While some of the girls are learning about the tennis steps in the afternoon class, the others are practicing the jump master. I think all of us have improved our jumping height, since we first started a few weeks ago.

There are many pictures in highway patrol files that would cause the most confident driver to question himself—if not miss his dinner. There are pictures taken under the wheels of trains of things that look like damp, scattered sacks.

There are pictures of people who seem to be hiding or resting in ditches until you look more closely. There are pictures of people who seem to be dressed entirely in tight rough, black rubber suits—they have burned to death in wrecks.

But there is one picture that should be seen by those drivers who feel that the natural position of the gas pedal is on the floorboard. It isn't a picture of horror. It is simply the picture of a shoe.

The shoe looks new, shined, and it is fully laced. But there isn't any foot in it. Nor is it where you logically might expect a shoe to be.

This particular shoe is actually wedged halfway into the floorboard of a wrecked automobile. It is just to the right of the gas pedal. The man who wore the shoe came over a small hill at just about the top speed his car could make. He found another car crossing the highway just below the crest of the hill.

He didn't even have time to shift his foot from the gas to the brake. The crash came so suddenly that his foot was still plastered to the gas pedal and the impact was so great that his shoe was driven into the floorboards.

Many pictures in highway patrol files tell more disagreeable stories, but none tells the story of an accident in more pathetic detail than this picture of a shoe.

Excessive speed was the principal cause of traffic accidents in 1954.

Weekend crashes accounted for 13,980 killed and 678,000 hurt during 1954.

Nearly 14,000 persons were killed in weekend traffic accidents last year.

Twenty-four per cent of all drivers involved in fatal auto accidents in the U S last year were under 25 years old.

The pedestrian record reflected the 4th consecutive year of improvement for motor vehicle accidents in 1954.

Thirty-nine per cent of the deaths and 35 per cent of the injuries due to motor vehicle accidents last year occurred on Saturday and Sundays.

"The income tax law really has teeth in it, and they develop an ache for everybody!"

Who is Berleen going with now? Is it Lloyd, Darwin, or a new one now, Berleen?

Looks like Merlyn is playing the field. He had a new girl friend every week. Who will it be next week, Merlyn?

Who took Jeanne home after the banquet Saturday night? It wasn't LaVurne was it?

Say, Barbara, who is your heartthrob now? What happened to Martin B?

Why does Joyce L. like to go out to Sandy' M's? What's the attraction out there, Joyce?

What happened to Dorothy and Don? We haven't heard much about them lately.

What's this we hear about Harlan Block having a crush on a certain freshman girl? Which one is it, Harlan?

It seems Roger B hasn't received any letters from Garner lately. What happened, Rog?

Did I hear that Dave is going with Marie M from Garner? Maybe a new romance.

Soil Test Aid To Formers In Use of Commercial Fertilizer

Hancock County farmers, who have had soil tested within the last 5 years have sound information on which to plan for their best investments in fertilizers this year.

Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director, says soil tests made in Iowa State College within the last 5 years provide that information.

Each college soil test report suggests kinds and amounts of fertilizer for the particular soil tested. But that is only one of many profitable alternatives that the farmers could use. The recommendation,' Henderson points out, is one good answer—not necessarily the best answer.

Here's why: College fertilizer search men have shown clearly that (1) the first pound of needed fertilizer applied return the largest increase in crop yield per pound of fertilizer; and (2) fertilizer rates can be boosted profitably until the last pound of fertilizer applied increases yield only enough to pay for that last pound of fertilizer. So there's no one best rate.

Henderson cites examples to illustrate these finding. On a particular field an application of 20 pounds of actual nitrogen in fertilizer may bring a yield increase of 10 bushels per acre. That would mean an average increase of ½ bushel of corn for each pound of nitrogen. The dollar return would be $15 worth of corn for a fertilizer investment of about $3, maybe less. The return per dollar invested would be $5, and the profit per acre $12.

That same field might receive an application of 80 pounds of actual nitrogen, and perhaps 22 bushel more per acre. That would mean nearly ¼ bushel more corn, as an average, for each pound of nitrogen applied. However the return for the last few pounds of nitrogen might only pay the cost of those pounds of nitrogen. But the return per acre over the cost of all the fertilizer would be $21. That compares to a per-acre return of $12 where the lower rate was used and the high return per dollar was achieved.

These facts, acording to Henderson, are important to the fertilizer user. The man with little money to spend for fertilizer wants to know how to spend his money to get the greatest return. The man with plenty of capital who's interested in getting the biggest possible return per acre wants to know the limits for fertilizer use.

Henderson has information that will answer both of these questions. He has three different alternative recommendations developed by college men for the main soil types of the state. These alternatives are the "minimum," which should bring the investor with limited capital the greatest return per dollar invested; the "maximum," which estimates the fertilizer rates that will return the most dollars per acre; and an intermediate", which is a recommendation on use that falls between the two extremes. The "intermediate" recommendation is the one given on the soil test reports from Iowa State College.

Farmers who are getting soil test recommendations this spring—and those who have test results from past years—can get either the "minimum" or "maximum' recommendations from Henderson. He says, though, that folks who want to get these alternatives need to bring their soil test reports along when they come in to talk it over. The findings from the college soil test are necessary to set the alternative recommendation levels.

Last year 907,000 families throughout the United States were given Red Cross assistance through chapter Home Service programs.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

It looks more and more like we'll have to depend upon a continued rise in business conditions so consumers will have the necessary boost in buying power if farmers are to enjoy a normal cattle market price rise during the latter part of 1955. Consumers had more money in the first 3 months of 1955 than a year earlier—but they didn't spend much of this increased income for meat.

That's the way farm economist Francis A Kutish of Iowa State College sees the picture. In some respects this is similiar to 1952 as a cattle feeding year. That year we had an unusually large proportion of our steer slaughter come in the last half of the year.

Normally, percentage of the year's total steer slaughter coming each month is highest in the early spring, Kutish pointed out. Then it drops off into November. This drop off in steer slaughter during the fall months gives us our so-called normal fall price rise for fat cattle.

Farmers have sent to market about the same number of cattle so far this year as during the same period last year. But a larger percentage of these cattle have been cows. Fewer have been steers—and among these steers, a smaller share are choice and prime.

Kutish says heifer slaughter was about the same for the first 3 months of 1955 as it was last year. At the same time, steer slaughter was 8 percent less. A larger percentage of the steers are grading good. During March, 13 percent more graded good at Chicago, Omaha and Sioux City. Meanwhile, prime slaughter was down 70 percent, choice down 11 percent and commercial down 29 percent.

Feeders either are uncertain about the market and are selling their steers rather than pushing them on to higher finish—or they are over-estimating the grade of their cattle at the time of sale, Kutish comments.

Looking ahead, Kutish expects the supply of fed beef to increase during the rest of the year. We had 8 percent more cattle on feed Jan. 1, 1955, than a year earlier. But a larger proportion of these cattle were light cattle than at the start of 1954.

Also, we have shipped more cattle into the Corn Belt thus far this year than in the same period last year. Since our steer slaughter is down from last year for the same period—and we started out the year with more cattle on feed—the number of cattle on feed April 1 undoubtedly will show a sharp boost over last year, according to the economist.

Thus, with more cattle in prospect, consumers will have to spend more money for beef to keep prices up. This will be especially true if we should run into continued bad moisture conditions in the grazing areas. We are not likely to see the sharp fall rise in cattle prices of last year, the Iowa State College economist concludes.

Obituary of Mrs. Marie Nuehring

Marie Nuehring, age 84, a resident of Liberty Township for the past 66 years, died at her home, from natural causes, Sunday morning, April 17, 1955.

Her maiden name was Marie Elizabeth Bredlow. She was born February 7, 1871, on a farm near Lowell, Wisconsin, the youngest of six children born to her parents, Carl Bredlow and Wilhelmina Koehler Bredlow.

Her five brothers and sisters were born in Brandenburg, Germany. The family came to America in 1868, and moved to Liberty Township, Hancock County, in 1889.

When Marie Bredlow was a child of two years, her family moved to a farm near Elba, Wisconsin. Here she completed her elementary education in the public schools, and became a member of the German Methodist Church by confirmation at the age of fourteen.

She was a woman of eighteen when the family moved to Liberty Township, and on April 10, 1895, at the age of 24, she became the wife of August Nuehring. To them four children were born. One son, Leslie, died as a youth. They commenced housekeeping on a small acreage, in Liberty Township, and lived there contented and happy through all the years of their married life.

Their life together reminds us of the adage which reads: "One handful with peace, is better than both fists full with worry". They were among the first members of the Liberty Methodist Church, and Marie, at her passing, was perhaps the oldest member on the church roll. She enjoyed her membership in the Women's Society of the church very much.

August Nuehring, the husband, died in March, 1952, at the age of 88 years. Since then, their son, Arno Nuehring, has continued to live with his mother and help keep up the home.

These were her brothers and sisters: Wm. F. Bredlow, died in 1939, age 84; Wilhelmina Bucholtz, died in 1948, age 92; Augusta Riemer, died in 1945, age 87; Amelia Wagner, died in 1929, age 68; and Charles Bredlow, died in 1947, age 84.

With the passing of Marie Nuehring all of the Carl Bredlow family have finished their course, and most all of this family are buried in the Liberty Cemetery.

And now that Marie Nuehring has fallen asleep, she will be buried in Liberty Township Cemetery where lie her husband, her son, her parents, her brothers and sisters, and about seventy of her good neighbors, the early settlers, who like herself, came to this community as young people, and built the first little homes on this new prairie land. It is most fitting and proper, that her final resting place, be with them, the pioneers of Liberty Township.

She reached the age of 84 years, 2 months and 10 days and leaves to mourn her passing, three children: Gertrude (Mrs Sam Hammon), Owen L. Nuehring, Arno C. Nuehring all of Garner; 16 grandchildren; 31 great grandchildren and many more distant relatives and friends.

Investigate Before You Hire—

Unqualified Tree Trimmers Cause Loss

Right Wrong

Tree "topping" and other tree trimming by unqualified sawyers are causing finanicial losses to property owners and communities throughout Iowa.

Miss Margherita Tarr, extension landscape architect at Iowa State College, says you can distinguish between a qualified tree pruner and an unqualified sawman by investigating their work. Don't hire anybody to work on trees or let any commercial firm work on home grounds or community park trees until you know, she warns.

A qualified tree pruner never "tops" a tree, and he never cuts a branch so the bark peels off below when the branch falls. Miss Tarr says, "Ask questions of anyone who wants to trim trees. Be sure he knows enough to do it right. See some of his work. Then watch to be sure he does your trees right."

The pictures above show, on the left, work by a qualified tree pruner, He has trimmed the upright branch at left back to a live branch so no dead "stump" remains.

This method can be used to correct damage caused by "topping". In this case the "topping" was done by a wind storm. The method might be used to save other trees recently damaged by sawyers. Note that the pruner has also used careful three-cut methods to take off branches and has painted all scars with tree paint.

The picture at right shows the work of a sawyer who did not know how to trim a tree. He made only a single cut to take off a branch. This caused the branch's weight to rip out wood and bark below the cut when it fell. The scar, at best, will remain for many years and is likely to admit disease organisms and insects.

The qualified tree pruner, Miss Tarr says, makes three cuts in removing a branch. First he cuts on the lower side of the branch about a foot out from the larger branch of trunk. This cut is upward and goes about halfway through the branch which is to be removed. Then he make a second cut from the top of the branch about 5 inches farther out on the branch. When this cut is part way through, the branch splits back to the first cut and falls clean. The third cut takes off the stump flush with the main trunk or large branch. The pruner then paints the wound with tree paint.

Miss Tarr says the "topping" of trees is being promoted in some instances by individuals who claim fraudulenty that they are "tree experts". They induce home owners and even local governing bodies to employ them to "top" trees.

A "topped" tree sprouts a mass of brushy shoots that develop into a dense mass of limbs which make weak crotches. As they grow larger they become dangerous in wind and sleet storms. They break off easily, Miss Tarr warns. They will always be brushy and unattractive. Because they are unsightly, they ultimately reduce property values.

Minimum pruning equipment you will find in use by a qualified tree pruner, Miss Tarr says, usually includes a lopping shears, hand shears and swivel-blade saw. She suggests anyone contacted by tree trimmers, other than qualified experts, should get advice from the county agricultural director before letting them cut trees.

• RIEHM REPORTS

passed by the Senate is currently in the Sifting Committee of the House and it is thought that it will receive favorable action by the House when is comes out on the floor.

Friday morning, the House devoted a great deal of time to the bill, Senate File 113, which would provide for the State to bear the cost of schooling mentally retarded children at Woodward and Glenwood up to the age of twenty-one. This would be a tremendous help to parents of these children and would help to equalize their situation. It would also encourage parents to place their children in these schools where the child could best be trained and cared for. Further the bill provides for a scaling down of liens that could be filed for care given after the age of twenty-one. The Houses would have preferred to have removed this completely for the reason that many of the childen entered into these schools will remain there for custodial care long after the usual length of schooling for normal children, however, the bill was passed without a dissenting vote for it was thought, that with time being so short, to amend the bill and return it to the Senate might possibly kill it for this session.

The House and Senate met in joint convention for the purpose of being addresed by the Governor of the Virgin Islands, Arch A Alexander. Governor Alexander told us briefly of the history, economics and the government of the Islands. There is currently an attempt to reorganize the government with the hope that the people, under able leadership, might become more financially independent.

I have only tried to touch on a few of the bills considered this week, those that I thought you might have a special interest in or might wonder just why we did what we did.

Friday proved to be a very busy day. A bill was up on the floor Friday which would have put a property tax of $2.50 on every $1,000 of assessed property in every town in Hancock County (2½ mills) for the purpose of building bridges in the towns, since we have no bridges in the towns, it did not appear to be a fair tax even though some other counties may have towns which need bridges. After I got through with the bill in the House, and after my amendment was accepted by the House there will be no bridge tax levied on town property for town bridges.

Friday also saw the local newspaper editors in Des Moines for the Iowa Press Association Convention. John Anderon and Marvin Nelson, Britt News Tribune (John attended the morning session of the House), Chubb Elling, Garner Leader, and Pete Peterson, Kanawha Reporter. I had lunch with Chubb at the Fort Des Moines Hotel but had to leave before I had my coffee because that bridge bill was up for debate at 1:15 P. M. and I had to be there and explain the amendment which was passed.

I was distinctly honored by being selected as one of two legislators to represent the House of Representatives on the television program over WOI at Ames Friday night to speak on and discuss "Taxes".

Florine, my wife, who has been very busy taking care of our three children, did take time out to come to Des Moines Thursday to attend the Legislator's Wives' dinner Thursday night. Then we attended a buffet supper at the Govenor's residence at 6 P. M. Friday night; then to Ames for the television program "This is Iowa Talking" at 8:00 P. M.; then home to complete another very busy week.

The American Red Cross is the only voluntary relief agency officially designated by Congress to work with the armed forces.

Eight Division 1 Ratings for Local School Musicians

Contest ot Bode Was Stote Final

Musicians from the Klemme School won ratings that compare favorably with ratings won in previous years when they took part in the state final music contest at Bode recently. Under the direction of band instructor, Charles D Whitford, and vocal instructor, Mrs Selma Griesy, local students brought home eight division I ratings, fifteen division II ratings, and eight division III ratings.

This year there was only one contest for solos and small groups and therefore the judging was much stricter than in previous years when there was a preliminary and a state contest. Many of the events which received a Division II this year would have received a Division I in preliminary contests in past years.

Division I

Trombone solo, Arthur Carlson; Baritone-Euphonium solo, Aruthur Carlson; Piano solo, Margaret Haefner; Woodwind chamber group, Cozette Lau, Joyce Thiemann, Maurine Johnson, Virginia Kudje; Trumpet trio, Cecil Jacobs, Fred Arnold, Val Stromer; Brass quintet, Charles Bacon, Carroll Priebe, LaVohn Josten, Candace Carlson; Brass sextet, Cecil Jacobs, Val Stromer, Ione Rosendahl, Rosalie Rosendahl, Arthur Carlson, LaVurne Josten; Trombone Quartet, Rosalie Rosendahl, LaVohnn Josten, Candace Carlson, Arthur Carlson.

Division II Ratings

Was Graduate of Local High School

Elda Polsdofer, daughter of Mr and Mrs Art Polsdofer, former residents of the Klemme community, who now reside near Rockwell, was killed early Sunday morning in a traffic accident on highway 18, 2½ miles east of Garner. Miss Polsdofer, who was a member of the 1953 graduating class of Klemme High School and who was employed as a telephone operator at Garner, was killed when a car in which she was riding with three other young people struck the back end of a wrecker which was pulling a ditched car back onto the highway.

Authorities said that Saturday night's rain which produced bad drivng conditions and poor visibility was responsible for the accident.

The wrecker was pulling a car belonging to Wayne Fjilstad, Lake Mills, from the ditch when the car carrying Miss Polsdofer appeared over a small rise in the the highway. Fjilstad told authorities that he was directing traffic with a flashlight and that when he saw he car was not going to stop he leaped into the ditch. The operator of the wrecker, who was setting out flares, also leaped for the ditch. No one was in the wrecker at the time of the impact.

The other three people who were in the death car were Otto Schipull, 25, and Gaylan Heinkel, 23, of LuVerne, and Ruby Earles, 20, of Britt. They were all hospitalized in Mason City and reported to be in fair condition.

Funeral services for Miss Polsdofer are being held this afternoon (Wednesday) at the Methodist Church in Rockwell with the Rev. Eugene Rasmussen officiating.

Riehm To See A-Bomb Test

Turns Down Position With Attorney General

The legislature is supposed to meet for 100 days. Wednesday, April 20th, was the hundredth day and many things remain yet undone. Many people told me last fall that this session of the legislature had a great number of problems to solve and how right they were!

The schedule this week has been concerned with bills to appropriate money for the various departments, school, etc. In general, the amount of money has been less than that recommended by the Governor and less than was requested.

Regardless of this action, there remains the problem of where to get the money to make up the 9 millions in deficit together with the increases in aids granted this session. The House passed an income tax bill increasing tax rates 5% which when sent to the Senate, was thrown out and a ½ cent boost in sales tax (2½ cent sales tax in all) was sent back to the House. The House, on Thursday, voted to reject the Senate bill so to date there is no income tax or sales tax increase.

The ultimate bill for revenue, which will be sent to the Governor, will probably be the result of a joint conference committee of both the House and and the Senate.

In the last few years much comment has been made about prisoners serving life terms not having a chance to get out of prison, since the law requires a Governor to commute the life sentence to a term of years before the parole board can parole "lifers". S. F. 183, patterned after the laws in 28 states after passing the Senate and being under debate in the House, would provide that after 15 years of sentence, the parole board could review the lifer's history and if warranted could provide paroles to them. This would tend to equalize the possibilities for parole for all such prisoners.

Thursday morning the House resumed debate on the bill and after lengthy discussion, adopted an amendment which I was in favor of and spoke for. The original bill was designed to remember the "lifer" in prison but did not remember the people who ha dbeen murdered. J. Edgar Hoover, in my estimation, would have stated that the original bill was the result of tearful sentimentality for the murderer in prison, without regard for the one who now lies beneath six feet of soil in the local cemetery.

Believe it or not, the Farm Bureau divorce from the Extension Service was finally passed by the House after being discussed and debated for many hours on the questions of "taxation without representation voting rights, amount of taxes to be raised, whether the Exsion Service can occupy rooms in the same building with the Farm Bureau," etc. The Senate version as amended and passed by the Houses must now go back to the Senate to see if they will concur in the House action.

Bills for State aid to schools in the form of general, supplemental and transportation were passed by the Houses this week. The annual increase in general aid was 2½ million over last year for an annual aid of 14½ millions; annual suplpemental aid of 4 millions was approved (½ million over present aid); transportation aid to schools was approved at 3½ million (½ million over last year), thus making a total of almost 22 million aid to schools over the State of Iowa.

Education of the youth to make good citizens tomorrow is expensive and the state aids tend to relieve the heavy tax burden upon property. A report shows that if all state aids to schools, towns, counties, etc. were withdrawn, the property taxes would have to be increased 31 mills on all assessed property in the state, or $310 per $10,000 assessed property.

While we are on the subject of taxes, if the State legislature fails to raise more revenue by taxes, the laws require a state property tax to be levied on all property in the state to pay the bills or to meet the appropriatons.

In line with other requests to the legislature, the county officers salary bill was cut in half and instead of an $800 yearly increase in salary only $400 was granted. It seems many county officers in the state are resigning and not enough people are interested in the jobs with the salaries and the many responsibilities. The Senate had passed the bill first. However, since the House added a few amendments, the Senate must again pass the bill before it becomes a law.

Monday evening the outstanding legislators awards were made. The House award went to Russell A Patrick, who has served 10 years in the House and the Senate award went to Alan Vest, who has served six years. At the award dinner, mention was made that I had brought light to the House through my efforts to improve the lighting situation, so I was not forgotten either.

I have received many nice compliments which were appreciated very much on my part in the WOI television program last Friday night.

By the time you read this, I will have been to the atom bomb test in Nevada and back. The Speaker of the House, the speaker pro tem of the Senate, the Senate and House Chairmen of the veterans committees and myself are the five members of the legislature cleared by the Government to witness the test. Since I was in the army four years and in the reserve for seven years, I am naturally interested in this test and am pleased to have the privilege of observing it.

Yesterday, a position as assistant to the attorney general was offered to me but I have refused it for the reason that I would prefer to remain in Hancock County.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

OUTSTANDING LEGISLATORS

The two outstanding legislators of the 1955 session, named by the press and radio reporters covering the Iowa legislatture are Sen. Alan Vest of Sac City and Representative Russell A. Patrick of Hawarden. Both are Republicans.

The two legislators were selected at the biennial legislative recognition dinner sponsored by the statehouse press corps.

An attorney, Vest, 43, is serving his third legislative session. He represents Carroll, Greene, and Sac Counties.

Patrick, 54, is a farmer. He has represented Sioux County in five regular sessions and one extra session.

The awards were established four years ago. Previous winners are Lt. Geo. Leo Elthon of Fertile and Sen. DeVere Watson of Council Bluffs, and Representative G T Kuester of Griswold, and William S Lynes of Waverly, a former speaker of the house.

REFUGEE ACT PERILS

Scott McLeod, administrator of the U S state department's refugee act, told an Iowa audience that assurances of employment will have to be greatly increased if the quota under the Refugee Relief Act is to be reached.

McLeod, a former Iowan met with the Governor's Advisory Committee on Refugee Relief. He told Iowans that the program was not advancing as rapidly as it could in this state and he hoped some renewed interest could be developed.

"In my native state of Iowa, I am hopeful that hundreds of sponsors will be forthcoming to bring over from Germany the many farm-experienced refugees who fled from East Germany to West Germany but who have not found opportunity to take over farm jobs McLeod said.

Iowa ranks 19th in the nation in assurances furnished with 250 he said.

100 DAY RECORD

The majority party of the Iowa house of representatives must have established something of a record in his session when it went a full 100 days without ever having a caucus of the party membership.

Dewey Goode of Bloomfield, Republican floor leader in the house for the last two sessions, hadn't called a caucus in the 100 day regular term in spite of demands from several individuals for such a get-together Several house members, particularly among the newcomers, had been publicly critical of this fact in the late days of this session.

Reporters couldn't remember a 100 day term passing either with governor still holding up some of his appointments which needed senate confirmation. With the 100 days mark past, Governor Hoegh still had five nominations yet to be passed to the Iowa senate for necessary confirmation.

DEMOCRAT DINNER

Iowa Democrats will hold their annual fund-raising dinner at the Hotel Fort Des Moines in Des Moines, Saturday night, April 30th.

This dinner, an annual function, is a $25-a-plate affair with proceeds used to finance campaign activities of the party in the state.

Jake More, state party chairman, has announced that U. S. Sen Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, a presidential candidate in the primaries in 1952, will be the principal speaker. Reports are that Kefauver will again be a candidate for his party's nomination for president next year.

KILL BRICKER PLAN

The Iowa house of representatives killed a Bricker amendment which had been passed in the senate. The amendment to the U. S. constitution was killed in a committee action.

The resolution asked congress to submit the Bricker amendment to the state legislature for ratification.

State Rep Mahlon Brown of What Cheer, a Republican, said the house committee decided it "wasn't wise this late in the legislative session to mess around with advice to congress".

MORE ARRESTS

An increase in arrests made by the Iowa highway patrol during the last month has been reported by patrol officers.

Patrolmen issued nearly 5,000 more summonses to drivers in March than in the same month a year ago.

The number of drivers stopped for speeding in restricted zones increased, as did truck drivers halted for violating the 50-mile-an-hour truck speed limit.

WON'T WRITE BONDS

Atty. Gen. Dayton Countryman, crusading against tthe illegal sale of liquor by the drink in Iowa, reports that an official of one insurance company has taken steps to cancel permit bonds it has written on Iowa beer permit holders who also possess federal retail liquor dealer tax stamps.

Countryman would not name the company, but said "it has more than 1,000 such bonds in force in Iowa"

The performance bonds are required by law and must be forfeited if the purchaser of a beer permit loses it because of a law violation.

IOWAN PROMOTED

Paul F Hill, former director of the safety education division of the Iowa department of public safety, and a former school teacher, has been promoted to director of field service for the National Safety Council.

Hill has been a field representative of the council for the last nine years.

He is a native of Clarion. He had taught school at Tipton and Des Moines before taking the state job in safety education.

CLOSER VOTE

Defeat of a liquor-by-the-drink vote in the Iowa senate, in the final days of the session, on a close vote, has caused several Republican legislators to predict that "a liquor-by-the-drink measure will pass in two years."

The legislators made this prediction after the senate turned down, on a 29 to 20 vote, a liquor by-the-drink bill offered as a revenue-raising substitute for a tax bill.

The Iowa house, in a fairly close vote some two weeks before, had turned down a similiar liquor proposal.

Such legislation many lawmakers are pointing out, is not far away for Iowa.

GOP WOMEN MEET

Nearly 50 Iowa women will attend the Republican women's national conference in Washington, D. C., May 9 to 11

Mrs Enid Robinson, Hampton, state GOP vice-chairman, said 32 of them would go to the conference by bus as part of a vacation-business tour.

ASKS VALUE

The Iowa Republican labor council, an auxiliary of the state central committee, has asked Iowa legislators three questions, which may have a bearing on whether the unit continues or passes out of existance.

Norman Miller, president of the council, and a printer for the Des Moines Register, asked legislators these questions: What good have we done our party? What good have we done for labor in Iowa? Is our future existence justified?

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

About 10 o'clock that evening, something happened to the senior class picnic. The fire on the river bank burned low and, for the first time, the boys and girls began to feel a mood of departure and change. This was the last class gathering before graduation.

For many of the youngsters watching the fire darken, the "future" they'd heard so much about became a real thing for the first time—a real thing with years and uncertainty in it For a while, the chatter was stilled.

Then Wilson, a crack young athlete, jumped up and started kicking dirt on the fire. "Who wants to see the sun come up some place?" he said. "Let's stay out all night."

The idea had the appeal of a challenge, the appeal of one more irresponsible night before everything changed. Two carloads of boys and girls left the picnic grove. Three hours later, both cars pulled into an all-night gas station nearly 60 miles east of the starting point.

The attendant heard two of the girls pleading to be taken home. The boys, led by Wilson, seemed to be stubborn and quiet. "When the sun comes up," Wilson said.

Two hours later, a night marshal watched the two cars flash in and out of a sleeping little hamlet like raiders. Later a wakeful farmers saw the cars passing one another at high speed on a gravel road. Somewhere along that road, the two cars locked bumpers as one passed and cut in too sharply.

For 30 minutes, a highway patrolman leaned against the jammed door of the wreck, reaching through a shattered window, holding the slashed artery in a girl's arm, waiting for help. Beyond her, Wilson leaned quietly against the broken steering wheel. A dim light touched his hair. The sun was coming up.

400 Youths to Enlist In Navy at Ia. Great Lakes

Plans for the greatest mass recruiting program in the history of the United States Navy have been announced by the Sixth Navy Recruiting Area, Omaha, Nebraska, and the Spirit Lake Chamber of Commerce.

Induction ceremonials have been set for the week end of June 4 and 5 and will take place in Spirit Lake, Arnold's Park, and other points in the Iowa Great Lakes region.

First and Second Graders to Get Polio Shots Thursday

First and second grade pupils in the Klemme Community School District will be given Salk Polio vaccine injections Thursday along wth other first and second graders in the east half of the county, according to announcement by County Public Health Nurse Helen Lemke.

The vaccine was delivered to the county nurse Monday evening by the Highway Patrol and has been kept stored in a refrigerator by the nurse. Doctors of the county will administer the vaccine at the Memorial Building at Garner beginning at 1:30 in the afternoon this Thursday, April 28.

A similiar clinic will be held at the Britt Public School on Frday afternoon, April 29. It is estimated that 550 to 600 children will receive the vaccine injections at the two clinics.

Approximately 98% of the parents of grade school children in the county have requested that their first and second grade children receive the vaccine. The few parents who have so far refused vaccination for their children may make a written request for their child to be included in the program, but must file their request with County Public Health Nurse Helen Lemke before the time of the clinic.

Last year the American Red Cross transmitted 1,583,000 emergency and welfare messages through its telecommunications system.

I've Got a Secret

We are glad that those black eyes in the play were only make believe.

Who's the Kanawha boy that has been writing Karen C those romantic letters? And it isn't Keith H.

We seniors would like to spend our last week on a fishing trip. Maybe we can borrow Mr Hiller's rod and reel.

Say, why don't all the boys follow Bob L's example. We girls all like wavy hair.

It seems Marcia Watne has made a big hit with Herbert Greiman. We hope you enjoyed the show Thursday night kids. Did Debert E bother you any on the way to Mason City?

Garner sure was well represented the night of the class play. Does anyone know why?

Who exactly is "Romeo Keith Nuehring" interested in? That car is getting allergic to girls.

Did anything happen between Bob A and Rose M? We haven't heard from them lately.

Is Martin B interested in Barbara A. yet? Tell us, will you, Mart?

Who was the guy Marlene W. was with after contest in Bode? We hear he's from Klemme, Marlene. Are we right?

It seems that Sandra M and Maynard have quite a lot of fun at the study hall table. Could this become a new romance?

Who was the guy that took Berleen home Friday night? We hear it was someone from Hayfield.

Say, who does Karen like now? We haven't heard much about her lately.

We hear Marlene W wants to use smear-proof lipstick. I guess she doesn't want to get Dick G's face all red. (We don't mean blushing either!)

let's talk gardens, fruits and flowers

with Iowa State College Horticulturists

Fertilizers will boost production of asparagus, an easy-to-grow, highly nutritious favorite of many gardeners. You can fertilize just before the cutting season begins or just after cutting. At either time apply manure or some type of organic matter plus about 20 pounds of 10-20-10 or 10-20-0 complete mixed fertilizer per 1,000 square feet of area. Work the organic matter and fertilizer into the surface soil, but be careful not to damage crowns of the asparagus plants.

When you harvest asparagus, practice clean cutting. That is, when you find spears that are past eating stage, cut them off so the crowns of those plants can produce more spears. Don't harvest too late in the season. In general, harvest in central Iowa should stop about June 15, and stop a week earlier in southern Iowa, and a week later in northern Iowa.

Strawberries should be coming along in good shape now. If you are letting plants set out this spring, flower and develop fruit you can greatly reduce next year's crop. These newly set plants should not be allowed to produce a crop this spring.

For June-bearing varieties, keep the flowers picked off this spring. For ever-bearings, keep the blossoms picked off until the first of July. Then you can let them develop fruit. Removing flowers in the spring lets the plants develop good root systems and get established for better yields later.

A little fertilizer will bring new vigor to raspberries that have been producing poorly. Put on fertilizer as soon as you can, applying it along the row and around the plants. With a complete fertilizer that contains 9 to 12 percent nitrogen, apply 2 pounds per 100 feet of row. If the fertilizer contains 5 or 6 percent nitrogen, increase the rate to 3½ to 4 pounds per 100 feet. If you don't have a scale, you can figure that a quart fruit jar holds about 2 pounds of most complete commercial fertilizers.

A mulch of straw,, sawdust crushed corncobs, leaves, chopped hay or similiar material helps raspberries. It makes weed control easier, too. Spread the mulch 4 to 5 inches deep on each side of the row. Crushed corncobs or sawdust is best for mulching in the row, because it doesn't interfere with pruning.

If you use Grag Herbicide 1 for weed control, make one application on the surface of the mulch.

Hospital Auxiliary News

By Mrs E. E. Hunsley

I spent an enjoyable morning today with other shrubbery committee members at the nursery grounds in Mason City, selecting some nice evergreens for the nospital. With the available money now, to use for this, not too much can be done. However the north front of the building will first be considered and other spots will be planted as finances permit. This first foundation planting will arrive some time next week. Be watching!

This is the week, nationally, for outdoor planting and cleaning. With this in mind you might wish to have a part in beautifying the hospital grounds. The very first person to respond to this worthy project was Mrs Ida McCulloch, from Kanawha, physically unable to even attend the Auxiliary meetings but because of her love for flowers and "green things growing" wished to have a part. Next came a nice check from the Crystal Lake Woman's Club.

So anytime now, any amount from any individual, church, or civic group will be most welcome.

Spring Cleanup Promotes Safety

Removing Hazards Improves Eye-Appeal

There's more than meets the eye in a good cleanup campaign.

That is the way Norval Wardle, extension farm safety specialist at Iowa State College, views spring cleanup on the farm. There is a lot of eye-appeal in cleanup—to make the farm and home grounds look neater and cleaner. But there's more to it than that. A thorough cleanup, according to Wardle, means a safer and more comfortable place to live and work.

SAFETL GOALS

Wardle says a worthy goal in a cleanup program is finding and removing hazards to life on the farm. Often these hazards occur as eyesores, so the net effect of cleanup is safeness and more pleasant surroundings.

CLEANUP AREAS

Wardle gives these suggestions on important areas for cleanup in the home and around farm buildings:

Inspect attics, closets and storerooms and remove things that burn fast.

Dispose of discarded clothes, fabrics, papers and other materials that burn easily. Watch especially for oily rags, old paint brushes and open cans of cleaning fluids and paint thinner.

Clean, replace or repair defective stovepipes and cracked, poorly constructed chimneys.

Repair lightning rods and poor ground connections.

Overhaul and clean or replace faulty heating systems.

Correct any improper storage of flammable liquids.

Correct any unsafe wiring, overloaded electrical curcuits or defective appliances.

Remove dry brush, weeds, grass and trash from around buildings.

Don't burn trash, debris and other waste materials outside on dry, windy days or close to buildings.

The Hancock County Soldier's Relief committee will hold its regular meeting at the courthouse in Garner on Monday afternoon, May 2.

Change Schedule on Salk Vaccine Shots

A change in the schedule of Salk vaccine injections has been authorized by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Dr Ralph Heeren announced today.

Heeren, director of the division of Preventable Diseases of the Iowa State Department of Health, said he change in plans is the result of a recommendation made by Dr Jonas Salk earlier this week.

It is Dr Salk's contention that the serum is more effective when given over a longer period of time. He recommends that the first two injections be given two to four week apart and the third injection delayed seven or more months after the second.

Original plans had been made to give the three injections over a five-week period. The second injection would have followed the first by one week and the third injection four weeks after the second.

Dr Heerenn said he had consulted with the Polio Committee of the Iowa State Medical Society and it was agreed that Dr. Salk's recommendation be accepted. On this basis two injections will be given this spring to each child participating in program. An interval of two to four weeks will lapse between injections. The third injection will not be given for about seven months after the second injection.

Children Receive Salk Polio Shots; Next Shot Will Be May 24th

First and second grade pupils of the Klemme Community School were among the 237 children from the East half of Hancock County receiving their Salk Vaccine immunization at the Garner Memorial building on Thursday afternoon, April 28, and 365 puplis received their first polio shots at the Britt school building on Friday afternoon, April 29, according to a report from the office o Han- report by Hancock County Public Health Nurse, Helen Lemke, making a total of 602.

For various reasons a number of eligible children did not receive the vaccine on Thursday and Friday afternoons and County Health authorities in cooperation with Miss Lemke, have arranged for a clinic to be held at the office of the county nurse in the basement of the Hancock County courthouse from 1.00 to 1:30 P. M. on Wednesday, May 14th, for children from the East half of the county and another such clinic for first and second graders who failed to receive their Salk vaccine at former clinics, will be held at the Britt school building at 11:00 A. M., Friday, May 6th.

About 96% of the children eligible have received their shot and where parents refused earlier to permit their child to be vaccinated and have since changed their mind, they may notify the office of Public Health Nurse, Helen Lemke and then bring their child or children to the clinic at Britt on May 6th.

The second in a series of polio immunization clinic for children treated in April or early May, will be held at the Garner Memorial Building in Garner on May 24th beginning at 1:30 P. M. and the Britt school building in Britt at 1:30 P. M., on May 27th.

Bring On The Needle

Janelle, daughter of Mr and Mrs Paul Lau and Mary, daughter of Rev. and Mrs Jaberg, are not particularly afraid of the hypodermic needle. Last Thursday when Klemme children were getting their polio shots at Garner, the two little girls got two shots each.

There were three doctors giving shots, and they thought they had to get one from each doctor. They got shots from two of the doctors, but someone discovered what they were doing when they got in line to get shots from the third M D.

The two have suffered no ill effects from the extra dosage, and doctors say there is no reason to believe they will.

Grand Jury Report Shows Need for More Storage at Courthouse

The Hancock County Grand Jury filed its report on Friday, Aprol 29, with the Hancock County District Court with District Judge C H Wild of Allison, presiding.

The report was filed by Mrs Alma Stennhard, jury foreman, and stated that the Grand Jury has inspected the jails, at Britt and the Garner and the County Home as well as the courthouse. The report stated that the various places inspected were found to be in satisfactory condition with some minor changes recommended. The Board also complimented the Hancock County Board of Supervisors for their repair and clean-up program at the courthouses and urged that the program be continued especially as far as the courtroom is concerned. The Jury also concurred with the two previous grand jurys in deploring the lack of adequate vault space and advising that additional room is sorely needed. The Board of Supervisors last year presented this matter to the voters of the county in the form of a proposition of the construction of an annex and this was turned down by the voters.

The Grand Jury also returnel an indictment against Shirley Dennis Ziesmer finding that the defendant drove a car while in an intoxicated condition, February 20, 1955, and found it to be the defendant's third offense on a similiar charge. The other violations having occurred on Febbruary 27, 1948, and June 6, 1949.

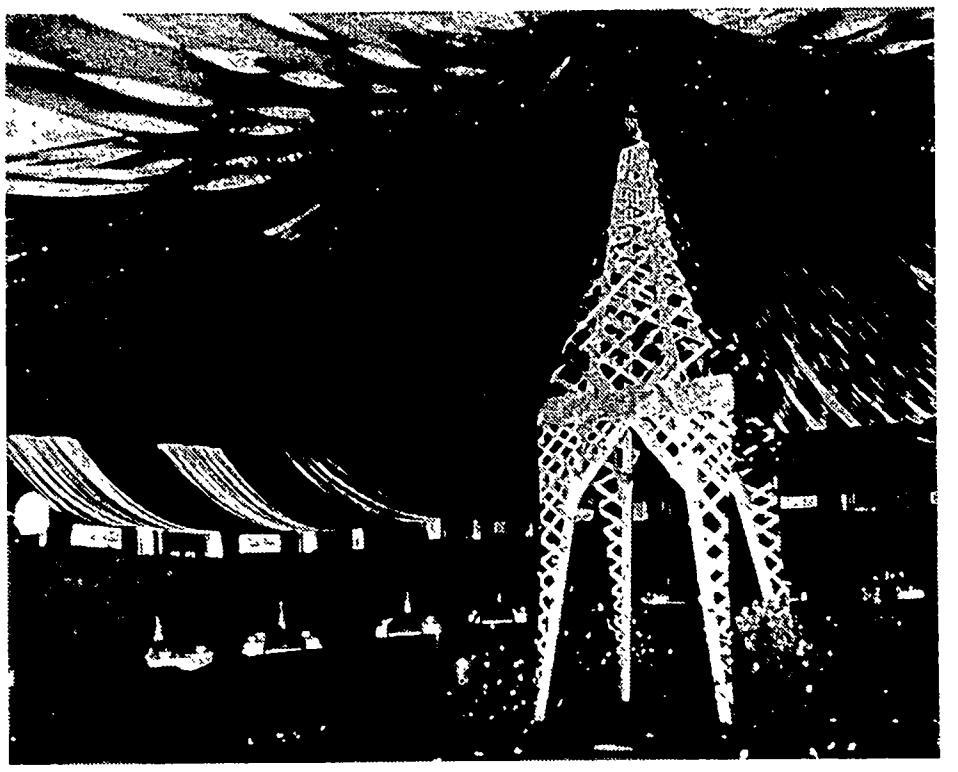
Juniors Entertained Seniors at Banquet



Much hard work on the part of the members of the junior class of Klemme High School went into transforming the gymnasium into the Paris street scene pictured here. The annual Junior-Senior Banquet was held last Saturday evening with the theme for the affair being "An Evening in Paris".

The main feature of the decoration was the Eiffel Tower built in the center of the gym. The streamers from the center of the ceiling to the side walls were blue crepe paper with silver stars, and the awnings for the sidewalk cafes were of red and white crepe paper. Four lamp posts—one in each corner—lit up to help brigthen up the scene.

The tables were decorated with covered bottles as candle holders, miniature painter's easels for place cards, and nut cups in the form of plastic slippers for the girls and top hats for the boy.

Dennis Haefner, president of the junior class gave the welcoming speech, and Marlene Blumer, president of the senior class, gave a short "thank you" talk.

Gary Day gave a short talk, reviewing some of the highlights of high school activities of the senior class, and the waiters and waitresses (five freshman boys and five freshman girls) sang "I Love Paris" and "April Showers".

The class will and history was read by Joan Lemke, Harriett Anderson and Ina Van Buskirk, and the prophecy was read by Terry Koerner and Graydon Barz.

Marvin Michelson told several jokes, tieing them in with the Paris theme, and Fred Arnold, Jr. made a farewell speech to the seniors.

Dinner music was furnished throughout the evening by Winola Zwald at the piano.

TAX HIKES

Tax increases voted by the 1955 legislature, to pay for expanded state services and improvement in state department operations, will be under discussion for many months to come.

Even before this session started the Republican party, with a big legislative majority, knew it was "on the spot" because additional taxes were needed to halt the deficit financing, and all state departments and institutions were demanding more money. Thus the GOP majority faced a problem of decision on where to halt the increases demanded, as well as where to raise the additional funds needed.

The problem involved providing the expanded services without hurting the taxpayers pocketbook too much.

The GOP thinks it accomplished that end with its omnibus tax bill, and other tax increases, while the Democrats feel that they can now take advantage of those hikes in the next state campaign.

State Sen. George O'Malley, Des Moines, senate minority floor leader, gave an indication of what is in the wind when, as toastmaster at the annual Jackson Day fund-raising dinner, promoted by the Democrats, he referred to the Republican party as "The high-tax boys".

The Republicans will defend this legislative session on the basis of progressive government and meeting squarely the demands made by taxpayers themselves.

WHERE THEY ARE

Here's where most of the tax increase revenue will come from:

Sales and use tax increased from 2 percent to 2½.

Sales tax (2½ percent) extended to beer and cigarettes.

Personal net income tax rates increased about 7 percent, with deductions lowered in some cases.

State income tax on corporate incomes raised from 2 to 3 percent.

Gasoline tax increased a cent, from 5 to 6 cents a gallon.

A tax on bowling alleys and in certain insurance fields.

Prices increased 5 percent on retail liquor sales in state stores.

APPROVE TOLL ROAD

Governor Hoegh has said he will sign the toll road measure passed by both houses of the legislature.

The measure, as passed, authorizes construction of an east-west toll road across the state. Amendments, added in the house and approved in the senate, provide, among other things, that no bonds be issued or work begun until an adjoining state has arranged for sale of bonds for a toll road running to the Iowa border.

The measure provides for appointment of an authority to plan the turnpike and issue revenue bonds of not more than $180-million to meet construction cost. Bonds would be retired from the tolls.

The authority would consist of the governor, a member of the state highway commission, and three others appointed by the governor.

NAMES POLIO UNIT

A new state advisory committee on polio vaccine allocation and administration has been named for Iowa by Gov. Leo A Hoegh.

The committee will work out plans for allocation and other problems connected with the use in the state of the Salk polio vaccine.

Members of the group include:

Dr E G Zimmerer, state health commissioner; Dr Lee Hill, Des Moines pediatrican; Dal Bruner, executve secretary of the Iowa pharmaceutical association; W K Niemann, Des Moines, coordinator of Iowa march of dimes activities; Mrs Charles Cownie, Des Moines, school board member, and James E Harrigan, Des Moines, 1953 polio sufferer, representing the general public.

THUMBS DOWN

The Iowa senate, in its final days, continued to reject appointments to state positions made by Governor Hoegh. The highway commission, the board of parole, and the state board of education all felt the sting of senate stubbornness on some appointments.

Dwight G Rider (R) of Fort Dodge, president of the state board of education, and V B Hamilton (D) of Hampton, a member of the board for several years, were rejected by the senate.

Board of education officials said it was the first time in 35 years that a reappointment to the board, made by a governor, had been denied by the Iowa senate.

The senate started appointment controversy early in the session when it first turned down Russell Lundy (R) of Des Moines, Hoegh's campaign manager, for a highway commission appointment and that of L L Caffrey (D) of Cresco to the commission.

Appointment of Mrs Virginia Bedell (R) of Spirit Lake, was delayed several weeks in the senate, before action was finally taken.

Another appointment that faced trouble and was finally withdrawn by the governor, was that of Ira Buckles to the state liquor control commission post.

DON'T LIKE IT

Seven Iowa senators don't like the way claims are handled by the state legislature. And they've said so.

In addition, in the late days of the session, they refused to vote on claims bills against the state becauses they felt claims should come before a court instead of the legislature.

The state cannot be sued and the legislature thus has to settle many claims made by individuals against the state. The senators feel the lawmakers should set up a special court to hear such matters.

Those opposing the present system include Senators McManus, Keokuk; Stuart, Charition; Shaff, Clinton; Schroeder, Davenport; Miller, Knoxville; Dailey, Burlington, and Vest, Sac City. All are lawyers.

PLAN GOP DINNER

Iowa Republicans will hold their annual $25-a-plate fund-raising dinner in Des Moines May 11. U S Atty. Gen. Brownell will be the featured speaker at this year's event.

SET HUNT DATES

Hunting and fishing ssssions in Iowa will open on Saturdays this fall, a new program worked out because of pressure against Sunday opening dates for hunters and fishermen.

The new plan has been announced by the Iowa Conservation commission.

This fall the pheasant season will open Nov. 12; the quail season will open Nov. 5, and the squirrel and rabbit season Sept, 17.

TO WASHINGTON

Thirty- four Iowa Republican women will participate in the third annual Republican women's national conference in Washington, May 9 to 11. An estimated 1200 delegates will attend the event.

The Iowa delegation will be headed by Mrs Anna Lomas, Red Oak, national committeewoman from Iowa, and Mrs Emid Robinson, Hampton, vice-chairman of the GOP state central committee.

Lights on Farm Vehicles Make Highways Safer

Iowa farmers and motorists can look forward to safe driving on the highways. The reason is an important step taken by tractor and farm equipment manufacturers to make road lighting of farm machinery more adequate and easier.

Norval Wardle, Iowa State College farm safety specialist, reports that the farm equipment manufacturing industry has adopted standards for safety lighting equipment on machinery towed behind tractors. Tractor manufacturers have adopted a standard to provide lighting apparatus to serve safety lights for the tractor and for an electrical socket which will provide a source of current for the safety light on equipment towed behind the tractor.

These steps, says Wardle, will benefit both the farmer and the motorist. With adequate warning lights on slow-moving farm equipment on the highway, it is expected that there should be fewer night-time accidents involving farm equipment.

Another school year has passed Aways. Its length seems like Just a few days. After these Studious, busy nine months In KHS are there any dunce?

After spending almost 180 days in classes, we have learned and remembered something -- not every thing, just some things. At least we're better off than 1 out of every 6 Los Angeles high school students who didn't know that there were twelve months in a year.

Each of us has made many "boners" in our march through tests. The following are a few answers selected from "Bigger and Better Bones":

1 A hamlet is a little pig.
2 Hygiene is keeping clean when it's not essential.
3 Sinister means a woman who hasn't married.
4 The father of the famous Black Prince in English history was Old King Cole.
5 Denver is just below the "o" in Colorado.
6 The climate is such that its inhabitants have to live elsewhere.
7 Doctors say that fatal diseases are the worst.

I Ask You Now

What do you plan on doing during the summer vacation?

Mr. Hiller:
I plan on journeying north first and then west and take a summer or more to complete the trip out west, if my car will hold up.

Mr Johnson:
I plan on working, painting or working as a carpenter the first part of the summer and then take a short vacation before school starts.

Mr Smith:
Fish. This is of the utmost importance. Then after enjoying myself doing this I have to go to work. I have a job guiding fishing parties on a northern lake in Minnesota where my parents have recently gone into the resort business. It will be hard work but I believe I will enjoy it!!!

Mr Andreae:
I plan to do a lot of traveling between Klemme and the nearest golf course. If time permits, I will go up North and join in the search for Mr Smith when he gets lost in the North woods.

We have been drawing isobars to show us the different highs and lows in the weather in Science.

In math we have been drawing graphs and finding tangent lines and Cosine of right triangles. We have just started to study about different kinds of tax and Social Security.

Cackles From Band Coop

The band plays at 1:40 on May 7, at Blairsburg in contest. The numbers the band will play are Two Marches for Band and Symphony No. 5 by Dvorak.

There is only one other band playing at Blairsburg that received a I rating last year, so we can hope for good things, namely a I rating.

If the mixed chorus gets on the ball, we may go to Blairsburg. We have been practicing the same numbers we used at Sheffield.

In spelling, April 22, seven people got A's. They are Jimmy Bock, Tommy Burgess, James Christians, Billy Clabaugh, Larry Johnson, Linda Meinders, and Judy Swanson.

Sixth Grade News

Some of the boys and girls sent for some pocket books from our Junior Scholastic magazine. We received them last week and are enjoying them very much.

We had 2 birthdays last week. They were Duane Kramer and Linda Michelson. We played games and ate candy bars they gave to us.

In art we drew a picture of some pussy willows and also made some scratch pictures.

We have learned five different parts of speech in Language. They are nouns, pronouns, verbs, adjectives, and adverbs. We can pick out these in sentences and think it's fun to see how many we can find.

Senior News

Bookkeeping: We are still working on our Patton and Bond Work Set. We are trying to hurry though it to finish before the year is up. You should see our books. Some of us are making mistake upon mistake.

English: Now we are going into a humorous section. It tells how the humor was developed and gives some very good examples. We all like the cartoons best.

Shorthand: We are all speeding up and are learning to be more accurate. Two girls from our class did something very different. They took a man's speech down in shorthand as he gave it. I'd imagine that it was rather difficult. and from what I hear, it was.

History: We are studying about Truman and the Korean War. It's very interesting to read so recent an event in our American history book.

Home Ec: Last week they cooked a complete meal. They had roast beef, mashed potatoes, and gravy, buttered corn, salad, relish, apple pie and milk.

Typing: We have finished the typing of workbooks for Mrs Proper and were surprised when she presented each of us with a gift. Since then we have returned to our filing books.

Business Law: After a test over negotiable instruments, we started on our final unit—insurance.

Business Training: We are still studying means of communication and will have a unit test over the chapter. We are also finding the correct manner of writing business letters. Methods of sending mail are also being discussed.

Seventh Grade News

We have finished our arithmetic books except the review section. We are finding that a good review of the things we have learned this year is helpful.

We are studying about the solar system in geography, and find it quite interesting, so far we have studied about the planets, morning and evening stars, shooting stars and comets. Next we will learn about the moon and its effect upon the earth.

There were several grammar champs last week. They were Roxy, Candace, Sherryle, Maurine, JoAnne, James and Eugene. It is hard to break bad grammar habits, but we are improving.

Eugene had a birthday last Friday and treated us to candy bars.

Jokes

Uncle John came to visit and before he left he gave his nephew five dollars. "Now be careful with that money, Tommy," he said. "Remember the saying, 'A fool and his money are soon parted'."

"Yes, uncle" replied Tommy, "But I want to thank you for parting with it just the same."

Lady of the house: "If you really want to work, Farmer Gray wants a right-hand man."
Wanderer: "Just my luck; I'm left-handed."

"I want a chauffeur who can think quickly in an emergency."

Applicant: "That's me sir! I never smashed up a car yet for which I couldn't think up an A-1 excuse in five seconds."

"My girl is the luckiest person in restaurants! She is always finding money under plates."

"Yes, said the boastful young man, "my family tree can trace its ancestry back to William the Conqueror."

"I suppose," remarked his friend, "you'll be telling us next that your ancestors were in the Ark with Noah?"

Certainly not," said the first. "My people had a boat of their own.

Hairpins & Tennis Shoes

All classes have been outside playing soft ball. Besides playing short games, we have been reviewing what we learned last fall, such as: catching, throwing, pitching, and running up on grounders.

Before school is out, we will start archery. Yippee! Just ten days left.

By the congressional charter granted the American Red Cross in 1905, all Red Cross accounts are audited by the Defense Department of the United States Government.

Eighth Grade News

Everyone seems happy that in three weeks school will be out.

In English we have been studying about adjectives and adverbs, and their modifiers.

Science has been the study of stars, planets, the sun, and the moon.

In history we have been studying about World War II.

We've just finished the story "The Christmas Carol" by Charles Dickens in reading as well as other stories by famous authors.

Math. class has given us a review of the year's work.

Senior Interview

This week we interviewed Lorraine Ethel Meyer. Lorraine was born on a farm northwest of Klemme on April 4, 1937. She attended Twin Lake No. 3 and Liberty No. 9 until she came to the school here in Klemme as an eighth grader.

Lorraine's favorite ways of passing time are crocheting and going to the movies. Her hobby is collecting things for her hope chest. When it comes to movies Lorraine liked "Magnificent Obsession." Her favorite actor and actress are Tony Curtis and Jane Wyman.

As Lorraine lives on a farm and is partial to cows, we cannot help understanding why her favorite foods are Swiss steak and French fries.

Lorraine's favorite dance band is Jules Herman and her best liked song is "Never". She said her pet peeve is "people that talk behind your back." As for sports, Lorraine said she likes to watch boys' basketball and baseball.

She listed her future plans as going to Iowa State Teacher's College for two years, starting this summer.

I've Got a Secret

After the banquet Saturday night I kept my eye open to see who was going with who and this is what I saw: Joan and Clarence, Ina and Gordon, Gracka and Lee, Margaret and Ray, Shirley and Alan, Marlene and Cecil, JoEllen and Tom, Merlyn and Sandra, and Ann and Harry.

Fresh from the grapevine—

It is rumored that our one and only Gary Day is going to be quite thirsty for some time.

Has anyone heard anything about Carol and Roger lately? We haven't and wer'e getting a little curious.

To whom it may concern: Any one who is planning on giving Gordon a gift, a handkerchief would be greatly appreciated.

It has been suggested to me that we girls should get to wear shorts on these warm days.

The senior girls have decided that after the Jr-Sr picnic they are going swimming. I hope the water is warm.

What was Darlene's main attraction at the Surf Saturday night? Did you find what you were looking for?

Why is it that Marcia W. was not at the banquet Saturday night? If anyone finds out, please inform us.

We seniors do hereby give our thanks and appreciation of the fine banquet that the Juniors gave for us.

What did the teachers do after the banquet Saturday night? Did anyone happen to notice them at any of the high spots?

Too bad Marlene W wasn't home Sunday night. It seems that Dennis Ridder called. I suppose he will call again though.

It seems to me that some of the seniors got pretty ritzy at the Ritz last Saturday night.

We are now awaiting the Prom Another night at the Surf.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Looking ahead, Iowa catfle feeders can expect shortfeds to dominate the marketing picture for a few months. Long-feds, as has been the case during most of the spring, will continue to be in short supply.

That's the picture seen by Farm Economist, Francis A Kutish of Iowa State College. This is due partially to the near record 1,256,000 head of cattle on feed in Iowa as of April 1, 1955.

This total was topped only once, January 1, 1953, when 1,274,000 cattle were in Iowa feedlots. This near record is a 7 percent gain over last January and 8 percent over a year ago, says the economist.

The three states—Iowa, Illinois and Nebraska, together have 9 percent more cattle on feed. Meanwhile, the 14 major feeding states adds 12 percent more cattle to feedlots. California cattlemen alone registered a 54 percent increase over last year. Although Califonia registered the largest percentage increase, the total number there on April 1 was only 25 pecent as large as in Iowa, says Kutish.

However, long-fed cattle (over 6 months) accounted for only 3 percent of the total for Iowa, Illionois and Nebraska on April 1, says the farm economist.

For the same area, proportions of cattle on feed for the various weight classifications were much the same as last year. Four percent of the total were in the 1,100 to 1,300-pound weight bracket. Last year 5 percent carried this weight on April 1.

Cattle numbers in the 600 to 900 pound class increased 1 percent over the same class a year ago. In this three-state area, steers made up 64 percent of the total numbers, compared with 66 percent a year ago. Heifers, however, made up a large proportion this year while on April 1, 1954 only 14 percent of the cattle on feed were heifers, Kutish pointed out.

Meanwhile federally inspected slaughter in the major markets during the first three months of 1955 was 3,889,000—3 percent less than last year. And sales of short-feds in the three-states area were 10 percent under last year's marketing for the same period, says the economist.

During the period, January through March, 1955, cattle and calves placed on feed in the 3 states showed a 10 percent gain.

Glancing at slaughter price trends, the economist pointed out that they had drifted downward since the middle of March. Choice and good grades have fallen a little faster than a normal decline. During 1954, says Kutish, the price did not start dropping until the latter part of April.

The price spread between cattle grades at Chicago has narrowed somewhat since the middle of January, concluded Kutish. Difference between choice and prime have kept fairly constant, while that between good and choice are about $2 narrower. Spread between the lower grades have also tightened up

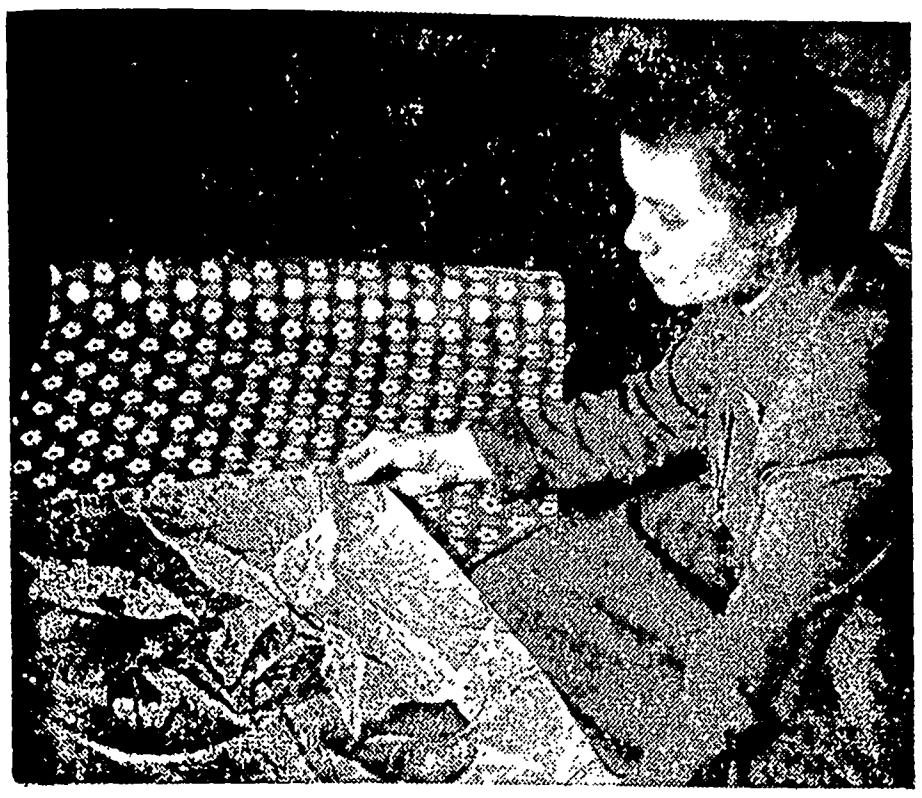
Time for New Wall Treatments

It's Spring—



If spring "pops in" as a personal reminder that you'd like to redecorate, watch for the variety of new fabrics and wallpapers on the market this year.

* * *

Perhaps it's because nature begins her annual redecorating job in the spring that you feel so much like doing a similar job in your own home. The walls are a good place to start. If they are light, bright and newly-treated, it gives your entire house interior a feeling of cheerful newness. Emelda Kunau, home furnishing specialist at Iowa State College, offers a few tips on what you'll find in the way of wall fabrics and wallpapers when you shop.

WALLPAPER

If it's wallpaper you've decided upon, you'll have your choice of four general types: water-resistant, water-sensitive, plastic coated and plastic-impregnated.

The water-sensitive papers are lowest in cost, but have a tendency to streak or fade if they become wet. If you're interested in water-resistant paper, watch out for those labeled "washable" because many of them are only water-sensitive. If you do buy water-sensitive paper, place it in areas where it won't get much abuse—your living room or bedrooms.

Perhaps you are looking for a paper that can take an occasional sponging with water and a mild detergent—water-resistant paper is your best bet. It's colorfast in both pattern and background and sells in the medium price range. You might be wise to use this paper in the hall, bedroom or living room—a room where washing is required infrequently.

If paper maintained with a minimum of care is what you want, inquire about the plastic-coated and plastic impregnated papers. They're good for bathrooms, kitchens, hall-ways and dining rooms. Of the two, the plastic-impregnated is the more durable. These papers can take a lot of abusive treatment—including grease stains and crayon marks. Just wipe them off and they'll come up fresh and bright.

WALL FABRICS

Perhaps you have a few rooms with rough or cracked walls. Wall fabric may be your answer—it hides uneven surfaces. The most commonly used fabrics are those with a sturdy fabric backing coated with a plastic, oil-painted or lacquered protective surface.

If you want a covering that won't tear, is easy to keep up and easy to apply—try a fabric. These coverings come in a wide variety of patterns, colors and textures. Wall canvas, which comes in neutral shades is a good solution for walls in poor condition, too. After you apply it, you paint it. You may prefer to use ordinary cloth. Burlap or dress material is a good choice.

Be sure to check your fabric's label before you buy. It should say, "preshrunk" and "sun-fast". Take care to smooth the fabric to the wall. Remember to put the wallpaper paste on the wall, not on the cloth.

CHOOSING COLORS

Choose a color for your walls that blends with the color harmony of your furnishings. Miss Kunau says there are two popular trends for you to consider this year; (1) light and neutral wall tones, (2) the appearance of earth tones and flower petal colors; some strong colors, but none brilliant.

Try to produce two results with your wall treatments—first, good reflection of light, and second, a restful living feeling. Ivory, cream, yellow, light green, yellow-pink and peach all reflect from 48 to 80 percent of the light, which is good. Light gray pink and light blue have fair light reflection ability—from 36 to 60 percent.

Dark colors are not efficient reflectors and sometimes tend to e cold and depressing.

5 BASIC REASONS FOR PONTIAC'S RECORD-BREAKING SALES

1. PONTIAC COSTS LESS THAN ANY CAR EQUALLING ITS 200 HORSEPOWER

If you delight in flashing performance, here's all the reason you need to join the record-breaking thousands who are swinging to Pontiac. The 200 horsepower delivered by the economical Strato-Streak V-8 with the four-barrel carbureter, optional at extra cost, is the highest power ever delivered by a car at Pontiac's price—higher than that of cars costing considerably more. For thrift and thrills it's Pontiac all the way!

2. PONTIAC COSTS LESS THAN ANY CAR EQUALLING ITS LONG WHEELBASE

Model for model, Pontiac has a longer wheelbase than any car at its price, or any car delivering 200 horsepower . . . 122″ or 124″, depending on the Pontiac you select. That's size where it really counts—and it's important because a long wheelbase is the reason for Pontiac's smooth, road-leveling ride and the roomy comfort of Pontiac's large, luxurious Body by Fisher—advantages that put Pontiac on a level with far costlier cars for sheer riding pleasure.

3. PONTIAC COSTS LESS THAN ANY CAR EQUALLING ITS LUXURY-CAR STABILITY

The big, husky Pontiac with rugged X-member frame gives you the safe, solid feel at cruising speeds that motorists have formerly paid high prices to enjoy. And it links this road-holding comfort with ease of control like that of costly sports cars. You travel in superlative comfort in a Pontiac for the lowest price ever placed on such big-car stability.

4. PONTIAC'S DISTINCTIVE BEAUTY IS UNMATCHED AT ANY PRICE

Pontiac's style and beauty are a perfect match for its colorful performance. Future-fashioned lines, Vogue Two-Toning and Twin-Streaked hood provide dash and glamour unsurpassed by any other car at any price.

5. You can buy a big, powerful Pontiac for less than many models of the lowest-priced cars and much less than stripped economy models of higher-priced makes

Come in and let us fill you in on all the facts and figures. We know you'll be pleased to see how little it costs to enjoy the pride and pleasure of fine-car ownership!

Rare Tree at E. J. Arnold Farm

The E J Arnolds have many flowers and trees at their well-kept farm southeast of Klemme, but probably the rarest — insofar as this part of the country is concerned — is the magnolia tree shown in this picture. The tree is common in the south and is known for its lovely delicate pink blossoms.

When we took this picture of Mrs Arnold and the tree last week, some of the blossoms were beginning to wilt just a little, but they are huge and are very beautiful.

Riehm Speaks to Local Lions Club

At the regular meeting of the Klemme Lions Club last Wednesday evening, Hancock County Representative Curtis G Riehm was the guest speaker.

Riehm explained in some detail the workings of the legislature and gave a brief summary of happenings during the past session. His talk also included a resume of his trip to Las Vegas Nev., where he was to have seen the explosion of the A-bomb in the civil defense test. However, bad weather conditions forced so many postponements that he and many others were forced to come home before the test explosion was made.

During the business period of the meeting plans were discussed pertaining to the concrete slab which the club plans to put in the park. The committee in charge of the project reported and were told to go ahead with preparations.

Some fill dirt has already been hauled to the site of the slab, and local Lions are rolling up their sleeves, getting ready to pitch in with the actual labor involved in getting the slab laid.

When completed, the slab will be big enough for tennis, and will have baskets set at each end so that kids who are so inclined can get in lots of practice basketball.

Poppy Day Funds Protect Veterans

Funds which enable the American Legion Auxiliary to aid war veterans in distress come largely from the contributions made by those who wear memorial poppies on Poppy Day, Mrs J C Thomas, Rehabilitation Chairman of Klemme Auxiliary Unit, said today as she helped complete preparations for the observance of Poppy Day here May 28.

"The dimes, quarters and dollars dropped into the coin boxes of the Auxiliary's Poppy Day volunteers are divided two ways," Mrs Thomas explained. "Half goes to our work for veterans and half to our child welfare work. These funds are available throughout the year for relief of distress among veterans and veterans' children.

"The bulk of the money stays right here in the treasury of our local Auxiliary Unit and is expended locally. We buy the poppies from the State Department of the Auxiliary which has them made by disabled veterans at Marshalltown. There is no overhead for promotion or management and, since all our Poppy Day workers are volunteers, every penny contributed goes for the purposes for which it is given

"Here in Klemme we have a large number of veterans, the majority of them young men with families of small children. We of the Auxiliary believe that when misfortune overtakes any of these veterans, when the effects of war wounds or ilnesses overcome them, they deserve the help of the community. That is why once each year we ask everyone to contribute to the Auxiliary's poppy funds—to aid the disabled while honoring the dead—and help us maintain protection for the men who protected America."

Crop Loan Deadline For Corn Announced

Farmers of Hancock County were reminded this week of the deadline date for price support loans and purchase agreements on 1954 crop corn, by Alfred V. Josten, county office mnager for Hancock County ASC.

The period for completion of loans and purchase agreements on 1954 crop corn will end May 31.

In the case of corn, the applicant must have complied with his corn acreage allotment for 1954. Also the moisture requirements are 14.5% for an 8-foot crib, during the month of May. An applicant wishing to apply for a loan on corn, should make his application on or before May 20th.

As of April 15, 1955, farmers of Hancock County had completed price support loans and purchase agreements on the following amount of 1954 corn:

Bond Gets Division I Rating at Blairsburg

The Klemme School Band competed in the state final band contest at Blairsburg last Saturday and brought home a Division I rating. In competition with 24 bands entered, Klemme was one of the 12 bands to get the Division I rating. The other 12 entrants got Division II ratings.

Since Charles Whitford took over as director of the band five years ago, the band has had a Division I rating every year. A record which to be proud.

Twenty-seven Seniors To Receive Diplomas At Commencement

Next week will see the school year come to an end and it will be the end of school days for 27 seniors who are due to receive their diplomas at Commencement Exercises next Wednesday evening. The 27 will be the first class to graduate from the Klemme Community School District.

Competition is so keen for the Valedictorian and Salutatorian places that even the final days of school will have a bearing on the outcome, so no announcement as to who will win the honors can yet be made. However, the information should be available for next week's issue of The Times.

The annual school picnic which has always been held on the last day of school, has been dropped, due to the increased size of the district, so individual grades have been having their own picnics and parties for the end of the year enjoyment.

The 27 seniors will attend no classes next week, but other grades will continue school as usual until next Thursday, May 19th. Then on Friday, the 20th, report cards will be given out and the school year will be completed.

Members of the graduating class are:

Harold Anderson, Harriett Anderson, Harry Anderson, Graydon Barz, Gordon Beier, Marlene Blumer, Lois Boland, Gary Day, Dick Dulmes.

Darlene Eichorn, Lee Gruis, Cecil Jacobs, LaVurne Josten, Terry Koerner, Gordon Lemke, Joan Lemke.

Lorraine Meyer, Doyce Michelson, Carole Montgomery, Alan Neuberger, Merlyn Olson, Lyle Pannhoff.

Blanche Shoop, Donald Thiemann, Ina Van Buskirk, Marlene Weisbrod, Gene Wilkinson.

Riehm Makes Final Report of Session

The atom blast, known as Operation Cue, which was promoted by the civilian defense administration was to have been detonated the morning of April 26th The purpose of this blast was to test the results of the blast on a sample American city built on the testing grounds to determine what an atomic explosion would do to it.

The official observers from Iowa, totaling 15, which left April 22nd from Des Moines included three other legislators and myself, the City Manager of Des Moines, the Fire Chief of Cedar Rapids, mayors and other individuals interested in civil defense I could say that I was the only individual from northern Iowa We traveled by a national guard plane, were grounded to a storm between Albuquerque and Las Vegas. Upon arrival we were taken to our motel and then immediately we departed for civilian defense headquarters where we checked in, received our final clearance and received an armload of instructions on what to do and what to expect. Some 1400 offical observers and newspaper men from 500 newspapers were to witness the atomic blast on Yucca Flats, some 90 miles north of Las Vegas. All day Saturday, lectures were given in civilian defense headquarters on what to expec when the blast was set off Sunday, early in the morning, we traveled by bus to Yucca Flats to inspect "doom city II", located 4,700 feet from the 500 foot tower from which the atom bomb was to be detonated A blast more powerful than the one that leveled Hiroshima in World War II was to be fired This 'doom city II' included three or four typical homes, industrial and commercial buildings and all of them furnished and equipped with the things and materials usually found in similar structures in use around the country. Dummies of men, women and children were sitting on new davenports in living rooms, refrigerators and bottle gas stoves were in operation in the kitchens Even a fly swatter was on the top of the refrigerator The cupboards were filled with food, purpose being to show to the observers and the newspaper men, the effect upon the typical home and other buildings located 4700 feet or more from where an atom bomb was detonated of the blast The telephone and electric companies had elaborate transmission systems installed in the area. After spending Sunday in the desert with the wind blowing sand and the sun beating down at 100 degrees temperatore we were happy to return to Las Vegas to shower and clean up. Monday we took a trip to see Boulder Dam, one of the biggest dams in the United States which provides enough electricty for a city of seven million people and water for irrigation. We found it not only interesting but very educational.

Since a storm had developed to west of Las Vegas, the scheduled firing for Tuesday morning was cancelled. All day Tuesday and Tuesday night the wind blew sand and piled it up like snow banks along the street curbs. Tuesay night we boarded buses at 11:30 to travel again to Yucca Flats for the scheduled firing. We arrived at approximately 2:00 A. M. and the same two or three thousand people were discharged from buses and the buses driven to a sheltered area. Although our observation point was over 7 miles from the tower, a blast sufficiently great to break windows in the buses was expected from the shot. Our observation point was on the side of a mountian, due south of the tower with the wind blowing sand and the temperatures at 34 degrees. I can assure you that everyone there, including myself, was very cold even though I had my overcoat along. After some two hours of eating sand and freezing, the weather evaluation team decided that the bomb could not be set off at 5:15 A. M. and some 2½ hours later we again arrived in Las Vegas The hotel had taken other reservations for Wednesday as we had expected to be gone, so we spent the morning looking for another place to stay. The weather forecast Wednesday afternoon indicated conditions might be favorable so most of us slept all afternoon Again Wednesday night, we met at headquarters and boarded buses to arrive at Yucca Flats at 2:30 A. M This time everyone had on all the clothes he had along, pajamas, two or three shirts, two pairs of pants, overcoats and warm caps blowing so hard so it lid not However, the wind was not feel quite so cold. CBS and NBC television crews and cameras were all set up, some 2,000 troops were in place in trenches 15,000 feet from the tower and everything seemed like it would be detonated at 5:15. However, at 5:00 A. M., the weather evaluation team again cancelled the blast due to adverse winds.

Since the weather forecast for Friday and Saturday was for very doubtful weather conditions, it seemed improbable any blast would take place that week and observers from all over the U. S began departing by plane and rail As soon as the Iowa delegation could assemble. all but Senator DeVere Watson, proceeded to start for home, including Jack Shelley of WHO and Richard Cheverton of the Cedar Rapids Gazette. After some radio trouble we finally landed in Des Moines at 2:30 A. M Friday morning At 8:00 A M I was over here in the house chamber for work in these final days of the 56th General Assemoly

A few final comments on this atomic test—with the troubled conditions in the world today, and the possibility of war always looming up on the horizon and with the knowledge that Russia possesses the atomic bomb, it is important that each and all of us know something of civil defense in regard to protection against the atomic weapon The purpose of the test was to impress the observer with the disastrous aspects of an atom blast and what precautions will be beneficial in case of an attack.

A brief summary of the past week's activity would be that the conference committee between the Senate and the House approved the 2½ percent sales tax and the 5% increase in income tax as a method to raise sufficient money to pay the Agricultural Land Tax Credit and school aid bills and the increased costs of state institutions, which was adopted by both the House and the Senate. The Agricultural Land Tax Credit bill was passed by both houses providing for an additional 5½ million or a total of 10½ millions of dollars for tax credits for farm owners to encourage school reorganization. I have previously supported this bill and had left my vote on the bill before I left for Nevada, but it was not needed for the bill carried by a good majority.

The very controversial egg bill, which had some very bad features in it, which I could not approve of, was finally passed by both Houses. I think that time and operation of this bill will prove that I am right in regard to this bill.

All day Saturday was spent in winding up the session with conference committees between the House and the Senate, with compromises on bills, some good and some bad. However, the legislature at some 10 days past the date set for adjournment was not in a mood to continue much longer.

This report will complete my summaries of the action in the Iowa legislature which started January 10th and is ending Saturday, April 30th. In all sincerity, I have done what I considered to be representative of Hancock County. I have fought for bills and talked for bills on the floor and I have helped to defeat bills which I considered would provide poor law Six of my bills have been passed by the House and the Senate. I amended other bills, two of them completely, as that my amendments became the law itself. I have been very proud to have been your state representative and wish to take this opportunity to thank each and everyone of you for the confidence you have placed in me.

With sincere thanks, I remain,

Curtis G. Riehm.

(Editor's note: Due to lack of space last week we were unable to publish this report. So we held it over for this week.)

The following article was taken from the Mason City Globe-Gazette and tells of the honor bestowed on Mrs Ruth Melcher, sister of Arthur Wellemeyer:

Second Grade News

The school year is rapidly drawing to a close and the second graders are completing their work for the school year.

A recent visitor in our room was Mrs Velau. We hope she enjoyed her visit. Two more pupils have climbed the "Pole of Good Books". They are Lynn Alden and Harland Olson. Both have read a hundred or more story books and written a small report of each book. Several of the other boys and girls are nearing the top, too.

Two second graders have had perfect attendance this year. They are Dorothy Bruggeman and David Miller.

We've accomplished much in the 3 R's, "readin", "ritin" and "rithmetic' and are ready and anxious to enter the third grade next fall.

Fourth Grade News

We are busy finishing the last few chapters of our books and preparing for our semester tests on the last week of school.

Last week we helped celebrate the birthdays of Terry Hirsch, Robert Anderson, and Graydon Lau.

Our room has been made pretty by the nice flowers brought by some of us. We have tulips, lilacs and violets.

Five pupils in our room have neither been absent nor tardy all year. They are Lois Block, Charles Clayton, Sharon Heginger, Harlan Langlitz, and Richard Miller.

As this will be our last news for this school year, we say "so-long" until next September. We'll be in the fifth grade with alot of different things to tell you.

Kindergarten News

We had such fun on our train ride! The school bus took us to Ventura and we got on the train and rode to Garner. It went so fast! Then the bus picked us up and brought us home again. We liked the long bus ride. We have been talking and learning about the different kinds of train cars, the people who work on trains, and what the train whistles mean.

We like to water the plants in our Kindergarten "garden". We each brought some seed and some soil and planted our seed here in school. It is fun to watch our plants grow. We have flowers, corn, beans, peas, carrots, onions and radishes. We have a big chart in our room that has pictures showing what our plants look like under the ground.

Baking cookies with the big girls in the home economics class in high school was really exciting. We want to say "Thank You" to them for asking us to come.

We have one kindergartener who has had perfect attendance all year. Her name is Linda Batton.

We think our picnic at the end of the school year will be such fun.

It will be nice to play outside and not come to school for awhile this summer, but it will be nice to come back to school again next year too, because we think we will like being grown up first graders.

Third Grade News

The third graders certainly have been enjoying the spring weather and getting their share of softball, roller skating and jumping rope.

In school we have been working on a movie. The story is "From Wheat to Bread". All of the children have drawn pictures of the different things that happen to wheat from the time it is planted until we eat it as bread. We expect to have the movie ready to show next week. All of us have been working very hard.

In arithmetic we have been reviewing our subtraction, addition and multiplication. We have to make sure we know everywell so we will be ready for the fourth grade next fall.

In our other subjects we have been finishing our books and reviewing. We are looking forward to our summer vacation.

We have one perfect attendance, Dick Mients.

We will be seeing you next fall in the fourth grade.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

With spring, Iowa neighborhoods have sprouted tricycles, roller skates, wagons and all the paraphernalia of the small traffic of small children.

To one neighborhood, the season brings an uneasy, unwanted kind of security. Little Ted, "the great tricycle thief," will not be about his usual business.

It was last spring, when Ted was three years old, that he discovered he had outgrown his own miniature tricycle. His knees bumped the handlebars. Other children, on bigger tricycles, outdistanced him. From his place at the end of neighborhood traffic, Ted viewed the problem with solemn thoughtfulness. He simply decided he would get a bigger tricycle.

Then began Ted's brief life of "crime". He began exploring the block on foot and whenever he found a larger tricycle abandoned by a child, he would ride it home.

Ted soon learned that these single prizes were reclaimed too quickly to be of any use to him. He decided to stockpile. He began bringing tricycles home. By the end of the day, he would sometimes have as many as half a dozen parked in his front yard, convinced that at least one would stay. But by evening, they would all be reclaimed.

Then Ted branched out. He started crossing the street into the next block, bringing home tricycles from the strange neighborhoods. During one great period, he was able to keep a tricycle for three days before it was discovered.

Ted kept on trying. One afternoon he found a tricycle that was too big to ride. He was dragging it across the street when a driver brought his car around a corner at a fool's speed. This spring, all the tricycles of the neighborhood are quite secure. "The great tricycle thief" is dead.

WINDOW

At the Eagle Furniture store in Eagle Grove recently, a Dalmation dog came in through the back door of the store, ran through the store and leaped out through a plate glass window.

The time's about here for planting some of the warm-season crops like squash, cucumbers and beans. Here are some variety ideas.

Butternut squash is worth a trial by folks who like squash. Butternut is a buff-colored, bottle shaped, about 10 inches long and 4 to 5 inches across. It is orange fleshed and one of the highest quality squash. In a fairly warm, dry basement, this squash will keep as late as February or March. It is a good variety to freeze ,too.

Topcrop snap beans has earned a pace on the All American list of vegetable varieties. It has round, straight pods, entirely stringless and high in quality. Strong, upright plants hold the beans well off the ground. It's resistance to mosaic disease and is highly recommended for fresh use of canning and quick-freezing. You miht try Topcrop on a test basis this year. Whatever bean variety you use, get new seed this year.

The folks who got into their gardens early are probably ready for a second planting of lettuce and radishes now. Succession planting means higher quality, with a long steady period of maturing at the rate you use the vegetables. It means better eating through the season than one big planting made at one time.

Fertilizing and mulching will mean better roses this year with less work. To fertilize apply 1 tablespoon of a complete fertilizer such as 6-10-4 or 5-10-5 around each plant. Rake it into the soil, not deeply enough for the rake to damage the roots. Keep the fertilizer about 5 inches from the stem of the rose.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Hog producers will largely determine the market trend during May and June. according to Francis A. Kutish,, Iowa State College farm economist.

Federally inspected slaughter during January, February and March was up 19 percent. During the first half of April, it continued 19 percent ahead of last year. And, says Kutish. the longer hog slaughter continues at the current pace, the greater the chance for some further price strength during the next two fonths.

Many farmers apparently have reappraised the hog outlook during the last six weeks noted the economist. Bred sows have advanced in price and the demand reportedly has quickened. Reports from the country indicate that feeder pigs have gone up more than the advance in live hogs.

After trending downward the most of the winter, the hog market turned around and advanced sharply during the last three weeks in March. April has seen a trading market, with no movement either way. Thus, the producer feels more confident about the hog market than he did early in March when he was on the tail end of a whole winter of falling prices.

Meanwhile, with the Chicago corn market weak, farmers apparently are revaluing their grain at a lower rate. All this indicates that we still are in the expansion stage of the hog cycle.

PLENTY OF CORN

Total corn stocks on April 1, a new record—up 6 percent from last year's previous record. Farm stocks were down a bit. But large CCC stocks and terminal interior mills and elevator holdings more than offset the light drop in farm stocks, says Kutish.

Less than the usual amount of corn has been used during the last six months. The big change came last fall when disappearance was way down. The winter use was about the same as last year, but still somewhat under normal for that time of year, the economist pointed out.

Other grain stocks are at record peaks. Total oat holdings were more than a fourth larger than a year ago and nearly up to the record for April 1 set in 1946. Barley holdings are at record highs—two-thirds more than last year. Off-farm holdings of grain sorghums are setting new levels.

This raised a real question whether we ever will get much tightness in the grain market this year, according to Kutish. We usually get some crop scares. But with a normal or near normal crop, we will have plenty of feed. Price rallies due to crop scares are likely to be short-lived, he concluded.

Ideal April Weather Was Aid to Farmers

April 1955 went into the weather records as being much above normal in temperature and below normal in precipitation. The average for the month was 53.69, the highest for many years and the highest since the weather records were kept here by Earl Henschen, custodian at the Hancock county courthouse. Last year, also a relatively warm April, the average was 48.87.

The highest temperature recorded during the month was a balmy 82 on Monday, April 18, as compared to a high of 86 for the same month a year ago. The lowest mark recorded during the month was 27 on the morning of April 7. The low in 1954 was 10 above. The average maximum temperature for the month was 65.80 and the minimum average was 41.57.

Precipitation for the month totaled 2.52 inches as compared to 4.54 for the same month a year earlier. The heaviest amount fell in the 24 hour period ending at 7 A. M. on Sunday morning, April 24th, when a total of 1.60 was recorded. The month had a lot of sunshine and only 11 days were listed as cloudy or partly cloudy with 19 days registered as fair.

The relatively warm and dry weather enabled farmers to rush the planting of crops and preparations of the seed bed for row crops and corn planting was in full swing on the 1st of May. Fruit trees were in full bloom and a May freeze could do serious damage to the fruit crop.

Conservation Cost-Sharing Applications Being Accepted by ASC

, Hancock County farmers may still file application for the government to share the cost of needed soil and water conservation practices which can be carried out this year, it has been announced by D Earl Keat, vice-chairman of the county ASC committee.

He stated that application should be filed at the ASC office in Garner at the earliest possible time to avoid unnecessary delay in starting practices authorized by the county committee. Any owner or operator of a Hancock County farm is eligible to file a request for cost sharing conservation work, the vice-chairman said.

There are a number of practices offered in the Agricultural Conservation Program of ASC which will fit into the work schedule of farmers at the present time or immediately after small grain harvest, according to D. Earl Keat.

These include standard and diversion terraces, drainage ditches, tiling spreading of limestone, pasture improvement, and land leveling. A complete list of approved practices and the requirements for cost sharing may be reviewed by farmers at the county ASC office.

"It is regretable", he said, "that thousands of tons of valuable topsoil must be permitted to wash away in order to convince otherwise good farmers that they must establish and maintain sound conservation practices on their land. One purpose of the ACP is to share the cost of establishing most-needed practices on individual farms and thereby demonstrate the great value of such work.

The government's cost-sharing conservation plan was inaugurated 20 years ago but this is the first time farmers have been given the privilege of filing requests at any time during the year. Another feature of this year's program is that each approval of a request advises the farmer of the exact amount he will receive in the way of cost sharing if he completes the practice and also tells him the date by which the practice must be completed. By fixing a completion date, it is possible for the county ASC to check progress being made on the practices and to re-pledge government funls released through failure of early applicants to meet completion dates.

This $30,471,661 Payroll Swells Iowa Incomes

All Iowa benefits from the big payroll of our brewing industry. Paychecks for the many thousands of employees of the industry's retailers, wholesalers, and brewers in Iowa total more than $30,000,000. This income reaches every section of the state . . . urban and rural. It buys groceries, clothing, insurance, cars and everything else that typical Iowa families want and use.

More Jobs Created by the Brewing Industry

Yes, the brewing industry contributes substantially to Iowa's prosperity through the many thousands of jobs it creates here in the state. And it further adds to Iowa's welfare through the $23,000,000 in taxes paid each year, the $62,000,000 actually invested in the business here, and the tens of thousands of dollars worth of Iowa farm products purchased. Truly, the industry is a very real contributor to Iowa's welfare.

Jacobs Won Pole Vault At District Track Meet

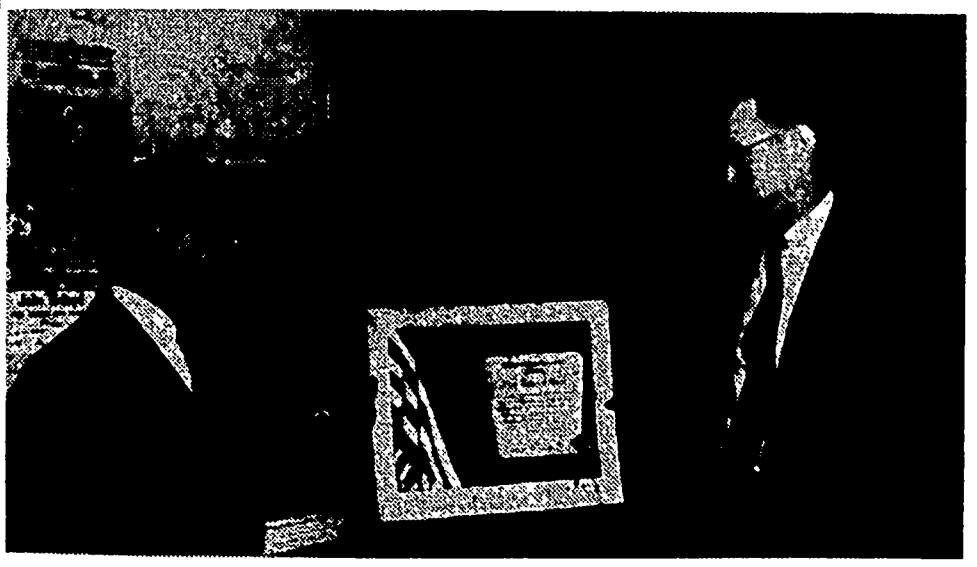
Cecil Jacobs, who did his first pole vaulting only this spring, brought home the bacon from the district track meet at Fort Dodge last Saturday. His mark of nine feet and eight inches was two inches better than that of his nearest competitor.

He will represent Klemme in the state meet at Ames this coming Saturday.

Denny Haefner, who took third place in the 880 yard run at the Fort Dodge meet, will also represent Klemme at the state meet. The way the track meet is set up if a man in one district beats the winning time in any of the other districts, he qualifies to run in the state meet. Even though Denny came in third at Fort Dodge, his time of 2.12.5 was better than the winning time in two other districts in the state, so he will participate in the event at Ames, Saturday.

At Rock Valley, Tunis Evink reached the century mark on April 30. He was born in The Netherlands, in 1855.

Local Bank Gets Bond Award



Friday, H L Ollenburg, Hancock County Chairman for the sale of United States Savings Bonds, presented an award in behalf of the United States Treasury to Asa Arnold, president of the First National Bank of Klemme, in recognition of having sold 123% of their assigned quota of bonds for the year 1954.

The award is signed by the Savings Bond Chairman for Iowa, Gerard S. Nollen and the Secretary of the Treasury, G M Humphrey, and states that the award is given in recognition of United States Savings Bonds in excess of your assigned yearly Savings Bond goal.

It might be said further that the First National Bank of Klemme has already sold 43% of their assigned quota for 1955.

Pour Huge Concrete Slab In City Park

Will Be Used for Different Types Of Recreation

The Klemme Lions Club began work Monday on a concrete slab in the city park. Members of the club, plus a good number of volunteer workers really went to work on getting the 44'x110' slab poured and by today (Wednesday) they have the job completed. Several sore backs and some good blisters have been in evidence, but we have heard no complaints.

The Lions Club raised the money for the project from their two Lions Varieties shows, and the slab should be useful for many recreational activities. Plans call for a tennis court and for baskets to be erected so that local hopefuls can improve their basket eye and playing technique. In addition, there will be time for roller skating, and numerous other activities.

However, it is the desire of the Lions that no one use the slab for at least another week so that it will have time to really set up. To use it too soon might cause damage that would render it practically useless.

A big vote of thanks goes to the T E Ibberson Construction company. They loaned the club their cement mixer and a mechanical trowler, enabling the work to go at a faster pace than would have otherwise been possible.

Auxiliary Urges Wearing Of Poppies Memorial Day

"Wear a Poppy—Honor the Dead and Aid the Disabled."

"This will be the appeal of the American Legion Auxiliary to the people of Klemme, Saturday, May 28th when the annual Poppy Day will be observed here. Everyone in the city will be asked to wear a memorial poppy in honor of the nation's war dead, and to make a contribution to the welfare of wars' living victims, the disabled veterans and needy children of veterans.

Completion of preparations for Poppy Day was announced by Mrs Schaefer, President of the local Unit of the Auxiliary. The Unit's Poppy Committee, Mrs Herman Back, Chairman, has been working for weeks to perfect plans and arrangements. A large corps of volunteer workers has been organized to offer the poppies in all parts of the city.

The poppies have been made for the Auxiliary by disabled veterans of three wars working at Marshalltown. They are crepe paper replicas of the famous Flanders Fields poppy, the little wild flower which grew on the battle fields and in the war cemeteries in Europe, and which has been the war memorial flower of the English-speaking world ever since World War I.

"I hope everyone understands the meaning of the poppies and will pin them over their hearts as a proud tribute to those who have given their lives for America," Mrs Schaefer said. "For the women of the American Legion Auxiliary. Poppy Day is one of the biggest days of the year—the day when we honor the war dead and collect funds which enable us to continue serving the disabled and needy children every day of the year".

Traditional Menu Accompanies All Broiled Steak

So Superlative a Meal!

A steak such as this needs no description, no superlative terminology. Just that it is a steak is enough. And because it is a sirloin steak, cut moderately thick, you know that it will serve from four to six people. Only the very simplest of accompaniments are necessary.

Most folks agree that steak is worth every bit of the careful managing you do to fit it into your menus. Here is meat flavor at its best, and that's something everyone likes.

Because of the place steak holds in everyone's appetite, it is important to buy and cook it correctly. Generally speaking, it is possible to buy steak according to the number of persons to be served. Much depends on the thickness of the steak, of course, for a thicker steak will serve more people.

A club steak is usually considered an individual serving, though if thick it will serve two. Porterhouse and T-bone steaks are suitable for serving two or three persons, and a sirloin steak is adequate for four to six persons, depending on the thickness.

Broiling Produces Juiciness

As for cooking the steaks, the words "broil" and "steak" are almost synonymous. A cooking process called "panbroiling" is also desirable, especially when steaks are cut thin or facilities for broiling are not available. In either method the steak is cooked by slow heat so that it will remain tender and full-flavored. The degree of doneness of the steak can be controlled by the length of cooking time.

The first step is to place the steak on the rack of the broiler about 2 to 3 inches from the heat and cook until brown, usually about 15 minutes for a club steak and 17 minutes for a porterhouse, T-bone, or sirloin steak, all to the medium well-done stage. Now season the top surface of the meat, turn, and cook the other side until brown, allowing about the same length of cooking time. Season the top surface, and serve immediately on a hot platter—steak should never be kept waiting!

May Also Panbroil

Panbroiling is very similar to broiling. The steak is cooked in a heavy frying-pan, and the temperature is controlled by regulating the heat, rather than by the distance from the heat. The important thing is to pour off the fat as it accumulates, so the steak is truly panbroiled. Rub the frying-pan with a bit of fat so that the meat does not stick. Cook the steak until browned on one side, allowing about half the length of time as for broiling. Turn this browned surface up, season, and brown the remaining surface. Then turn this newly-browned surface up, season, and serve at once (seasoning before cooking a cut surface of meat may make the meat less juicy and will keep it from browning).

A menu to accompany good broiled steak is so traditional it almost dictates itself. Actually, the accompaniments need to be few and simple because the flavor of the steak is the important thing. French-fried potatoes are almost a "must," as are hard rolls and a tossed salad with a garlic dressing. It's easy to choose a vegetable in addition to the potatoes and for dessert, a bowl of fruit, with bleu cheese and crackers to munch on, provides the perfect ending.

Fight Flies With Sanitation, Chemicals

Shown above is a farmer spraying his barn interior for fly protection. Fighting flies isn't up to the rural population alone, however. All of us, including city dwellers, must use every possible weapon to rid Iowa of these annoying, disease-carrying insects. Start cleaning up right now.

* * *

Why feed uninvited guests—and at the same time endanger the health, perhaps even the lives of your family? You've guessed it—we are talking about flies. Each spring they appear in continually larger numbers. We must do something about it—now. Iowa State College extension entomology specialist Harold Gunderson says good sanitation is our best weapon. Proper use of fly chemicals is an important supplement in problem areas.

FLY BREEDING

Let's think about flies and how they breed. The adult female lays her eggs in decaying organic material—dead animals, rotting vegetables, weeds or grass, manure piles and outdoor toilets. She lays approximately 100 eggs at one time. During her life-span, she produces between 500 to 600 eggs.

Take note! One pair of houseflies starting outdoor activity in April becomes 600 flies in May. If all the offspring survive and reproduce, 54,000,000 flies may exist by June 1. If conditions were ideal for this pair of flies, their descendants would cover the entire United States to a depth of 3 feet by Sept. 15. Now you can see why we must clean up, destroy or remove all the fly-breeding areas we possibly can.

METHODS OF FLY CONTROL

Now, what can we do to control these pesky insects? Gunderson says there are two ways in which we can prevent the great build-up of flies. First of all, kill flies early in the season. Second remove their breeding areas.

Around your home is where you can begin. Appy 1 percent lindane oil solution to window and door screens every week and on the outside of your garbage can. This kills flies before they can enter your house. You can use a paint brush to apply the spray to both sides of the screens This a convenient way to treat window screens and prevent the spray from drifting through onto food or cooking utensils.

To clear rooms of flies, close doors and windows and use aerosols containing DDT, pyrethrum, or other knock-down chemicals. The mist given off is extremely effective for an immediate kill of the insects present, but it does not have a lasting effect. Open the room after all the flies are dead.

Gunderson advises ordinary precautions in using and storing fly chemicals. Be sure to cover food, eating and cooking utensils when you spray in the kitchen. Store the spray where the children can't reach it. Remember to wash your hands thoriughly after using it. Never use oil sprays on animals, near open fires—the oil may catch fire; or on delicate plants or shrubs because oil may kill the foliage.

Don't forget to spray shrubs where flies rest at night; 0.5 percnt lindane or one percent malathion is effective for this. If you have open out-buildings such as a garage, dog house, or rabbit and chicken pens, spray these every 7-10 days with 0.5 percent lindane or one percent malathion.

Remember that garbage is a favorite breeding place for flies, so take care of yours the right way. Wrap it carefully and put it into metal containers with tight-fitting lids. Remove it at least twice a week and wash the garbage can thoroughly once every week. Sprinkle 1 tablespoon of paradichlorobenzene crystals in the empty garbage can twice a week.

If you live on a farm be sure to clean up all manure, droppings of pets, garbage, decaying fruits and vegetables. Bury deeply or compost properly cut weeds and grass. Keep these fly breeding materials from accumulating—every week. Make outdoor toilets fly-tight. This is your job—so do a good job and really get rid of these summer pests.

Klemme Youths Meet In Virginia Camp

Pvt. Gerald Kastler, son of Mrs Maxine Kastler, was quite surprised and very happy, when he recently met up with Pvt. Eugene Bachman. son of Mrs Tillie Bachman, at Fort Eustis, Virginia.

Both boys are stationed there. Gerald went into the service in November, 1954, and Gene in December, 1954. Both took their basic training at Camp Chaffee, Arkansas and were then transferred to Fort Eustis.

Gene Bachman & Gerald Kastler

Gerald found out that Gene was in the same company and only three barracks away. They see each other often and enjoy talking over the Klemme news.

Gerald recently graduated from the Fort Eustis Transportation School's Stevedoring Course and then the class was split up. Gene is taking the same training but with a later class.

The addresses of the two Klemme youths are as follows: Pvt Gerald D Kastler, RA1741560 85th T-Port Co., Fort Eustis, Va. Pvt Eugene M Bachman, US55-492415, 10th Student Enlisted Co., 9224-3 TUTC, Fort Eustis, Va.

GAS

Nearly 40 guests attending a shower in the Legion building at Paullina were overcome by monoxide gas recently. Wind, blowing down the chimney, forced fumes from the heater out into the room where guests were gathered.

Will Celebrate 93rd Birthday On May 24th

Mr Edward J Schaefer will celebrate his 93rd birthday on Tuesday, May 24th. As far as we know, he is Klemme's oldest resident. His children are planning a dinner in his honor on Sunday, May 22nd.

Mr Schaefer began farming west of Klemme and built up the farm where Mr and Mrs Irvin Blank and family now live. During World War I, he built up the farm place where Mr and Mrs Elmer Schaefer now live.

He has been a life long member of the Methodist Church, and served as Church janitor in Klemme for many years. He is still quite active for his years, and is often up town.

We join with the rest of the people in the community in wishing Mr Schaefer the best on his 93rd birthday.

Ladies Guild of E & R Church Has Birthday Tea

The Womens' Guild of the Evangelical Reformed Church met last Wednesday for a tea in honor of birthdays of the members. Mrs Meyers of Elkader, was the speaker, and she was presented with a corsage.

Mrs Louise Rosedahl had the most daughters there and Mrs Clara Barz and Mrs Wm. Waddingham each had a daughter and granddaughter present. They each were presented with corsages.

Mrs George Lawhorn was presented with a Guild pin and corsage for serving as the organist for the Guild for the past 20 years or more.

It was a very enjoyable occasion for the 120 ladies who attended.

Auxiliary Presents New Trash Containers

Last week at a meeting of the town council, members of the Legion Auxiliary were on hand to present the town with two large trash containers for use on Klemme's main street.

The containers were immediately put to use and have been placed, one on the corner by The Corner Store and the other on the corner by The Wellemeyer Store.

It is the hope of the council and the auxiliary that the cans will be used. By dropping your candy and gum wrappers, etc. in the container you will help keep our street clean and attractive.

Governor Hoegh gets his Memorial Day Poppy, and the local Legion Auxiliary hopes that when the poppies go on sale here Saturday, you will do the same thing. The poppies are made by disabled veterans and the money from their sale goes to aid these men who have given so much for their country.

Swimming Classes For Local Children

It is possible for Klemme community children to take advantage of Red Cross swimming lessons at Clear Lake this year.

In all probability, classes for local children would not start until July and then they would attend two classes a week . . probably in the afternoon.

dren has not been fully work-

Transportation for the children would be worked out, but it is thought that $2.00 per child would cover the cost. The lessons would be free to the children . . . paid for by the Red Cross.

In a talk with Mrs W C Carroll of Clear Lake, we found that it would be possible for local children to get this valauble instruction, but we have to let her know approximately how many would participate by next Tuesday, May 31st.

If you have a child who is eight years old or older who will be entering second grade or a higher grade in school next fall, and you would like to have him or her attend these classes, stop in at The Times Office and leave your name and the number of children you want to attend, or call 12 and give us this information. Do it before next Tuesday noon, though, so that we can notify Mrs Carroll.

Your Red Cross donations help to finance these water safety classes, and your children should have the benefit of them.

MEMORIAL DAY

MAY 30, 1955

Three years had passed since the last shot had been fired. In the beginning it had not been easy for fighting men to learn again the ways of peace—to sleep without having an ear cocked for the crack of a picket's rifle, to get up by one's own will rather than at the call of drum or bugle, to work at a steady job instead of doing only what some officer ordered. For awhile even the beds had been too soft, and the food too rich for stomachs that had made their peace with hardtack or grits and bacon.

But by the spring of 1868 most of the veterans, North and South, had taken up their old lives or made new ones. The war was fast slipping into the past, and men were coming to remember only its comradeships and victories, and to forget its horrors.

And perhaps to forget, too, the graves that marked every battlefield, even every hamlet. It was then that General John A. Logan, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued his celebrated general order designating May 30 as a day for strewing with flowers the graves of the men who had given their lives for their country. A few weeks later, solemn processions everywhere moved with slow step to the resting places of the dead.

Even before 1868 a number of Southern communities had decorated the graves of Confederate soldiers. As in the North, the custom spread and became permanent, although some Southern states still honor their dead on dates other than May 30.

While the war remained an unhealed wound, it was natural that the people of each section should glorify the valor of their armies at the same time that they did homage to the fallen. But with each year bitterness diminished, and ever-larger numbers saw that grief has no respect for geography. Thus Memorial Day came to embrace all Americans and the dead of all our country's wars.

We can do little more than set aside a day of recognition for those who never came back. But there are thousands who have come back—ill, maimed, burdened with hurts from which they will never recover. For these, the disabled, we can show that we mean our annual tribute. We can, if we will, make an effort to understand their problems, and offer them every opportunity to earn decent livings and lead normal lives. If we fail in this small obligation, we strip Memorial Day of its meaning.

HIGHWAY DEATHS

Some new plans designed to improve Iowa's highway safety record may be announced by midsummer.

Governor Hoegh, since taking office, has been constantly aware of the death toll on the state's highways and has been keeping a day-by-day check of the fatalities since he took office. He has a large map on his desk in which accidents and fatalities are charted daily, and on an office wall hangs a statistical board that reports on fatal accident causes. Nearly everyone who visits with the governor gets a short briefing on safe driving.

A few weeks ago he originated a once-a-month safe driving day. He held a statewide meeting with safety leaders from every county in the state and just the other day the governor indicated to inquiring newsmen that perhaps rejuvenation of the Iowa State Safety Council "and some other plans" are in the mill for the state.

Governor Hoegh, who felt a night speed limit might be enacted by the legislature is considering the possibility of using his emergency powers as chief executive to establish a nighttime speed limit of 60 miles an hour "as a test" for a two week period in an effort to help reduce the death toll. He also suggested that a 75 mile an hour daytime speed might be more enforceable in court actions.

Last week, 197 Iowans were killed this year on the highways, three ahead of the state toll of 1954. Last March 31, the toll was running 11 behind the 1954 total, on April 29th the toll was behind, but by May 13 the record was even.

KOREAN BONUS

Iowans next year will decide whether veterans of the Korean war will be given a state bonus.

The law, passed by the legislature, has the signature of the governor and the matter will come before the general public at the elections Nov. 6, 1956.

Voters will decide whether the state should issue $26-million in bonds to pay the bonus to about 100,000 Iowans who saw service in the Korean conflict. The bonus would be $10 a month for service in the U S, and $12.50 a month for foreign service.

Eligible would be those who served in the armed forces between June 27, 1950 and July 27, 1953.

It is estimated the average payment would be about $250, with a maximum of $462.50 to those who served the entire period overseas.

The bonus would be paid off by a state property tax similar to the one being used to retire World War II bonus bonds.

RESIGNS POST

Kenneth Millsap, former political science professor at Parsons college, has resigned his position as director of publicity and research for the Republican state central committee. Millsap, who had been with the GOP just four months, said he will return to the teaching profession.

Willam McCune, 30, of Jefferson, may be named as successor to Millsap. The vacancy will be filled by the state central committee, possibly at their June 7 meeting.

SIGNS COURT BILL

"A long range program for improvement of the state judicial system," Gov Leo Hoegh predicted, will result from the measure, which he just signed, regarding a court statistical survey.

Under the bill, which becomes effective in July, a continual survey of the courts workload in Iowa will be maintained. The program will be under the direction of a statistical director setup under the state supreme court's jurisdiction.

The measure had legislative support from the Iowa State Bar association, and developed from a program launched two years ago by the legislative budget committee and the attorney general's office.

MAY HELP

Several state officials are showing more than a little interest in a recommendation of the driving research laboratory of Iowa State College to provide "provisional" drivers licenses for persons under 21 years of age.

Under the plan, drivers upon reaching 21 would automatically receive a senior or regular license if their records were satisfactory.

The suggestion was based on a study indicating that the proportion of fatal accidents involving young drivers is much greater than indicated by their involvement in less serious crashes.

The report said that about 15 times as many men under 19 had fatal accidents as would be expected from the general accident record of that age group, and about four times as many women. In 1954, there were 691 men and 79 women drivers involved in fatal accidents.

MAY HIRE DIRECTOR

The Iowa attorney general's office has ruled that a state legislative research committee may proceed with plans to hire a director for a newly authorized bureau.

The 1955 legislature authorized establishment of a legislative research bureau and approved hiring of a director and a staff; the director's salary was set at $7,500 per year. However, legislators on the committee noted that the legislature did not provide an appropriation to finance the bureau.

The attorney general was asked an opinion as to whether the legislative budget and financial control committee could legally release funds for payment of a director. The budget group represents the legislature between sessions and controls a $2,000,000 state contingent fund.

AROUND THE CLOCK

Iowa ground observer corps posts and filter centers will go on 24-hour duty beginning July 14.

C E Fowler, state director of civil defense, announced the around-the-clock schedule, with the approval of Iowa Gov Leo A Hoegh.

The 24-hour duty is described as a move decided upon in connection with a nation-wide air defense expansion program.

DEBATE CONTINUES

Arguments, pro and con, continue over Governor Hoegh's naming to interim appointments two men who had been refused senate confirmation for state board of education appointments.

Dwight Rider of Fort Dodge, president of the board, and V B Hamilton, Hampton, are the two who were reappointed to the board. Both had been rejected by the senate during the legislative session. The governor named them to the board after the senate adjourned.

The question of constitutionality of the board's actions, with the two men serving, was originally raised by State Sen. Duane Dewel of Algona, Republican floor leader in the senate during the session.

"Naming the same men as interim appointments," Dewel said, "raises the question as to the legality of every action the board may take."

The appointments by the governor were generally favorably received around the state. However, there are those who agree with Dewel that a constitutional question may be involved.

Once more Klemme has shown its fine community spirit in the wonderful cooperation given in laying the concrete floor in the city park. The Lions Club was very gratified by all the volunteer labor that was given. Everyone that did anything toward making the project a success deserves a big vote of thanks from our club.

Originally, we had planned to put in a smaller floor, but after seeing some of the playing floors in other towns, it was decided to put in the present floor which measures 110 ft. by 44 ft. We knew that this size slab would cost around $750 and that this was the approximate amount that was in our treasury. The total cost would have been much higher if the sand had not been donated, thanks to Lion Carl Wille, and if the T E Ibberson Construction Company had not loaned their large mixer and mechanical trowler.

The question was raised as to whether to go ahead and just put in the floor or wait until the club had enough money to put in the poles and the fencing that would be needed, also, to complete the project. It was decided to go ahead and lay the floor and complete the project when funds became available.

To complete the project, poles, wire fencing, light poles, tennis net, and basketball bank boards will be needed. This will mean an outlay of approximately $300 more. Although the Lions Club does not solicit funds, we can accept volunteer donations.

Once more, let me say that the Klemme Lions Club is very grateful for all the help it received. We of the club hope that we have provided a playing court that all will enjoy using.

Through the broken windshield glass.

Had no time to fix the brakes up,

A pleasant afternoon was had made for the ice cream social which will be held July 27th.

This past year has been a very busy one and filled with pleasant experiences. We are proud of our music department and hope that next year more mothers will make a point to attend the meetings regularly and give full support to the organization that is for the benefit of their children's music education.

One of the highlights was our evening meeting with fathers as well as mothers attending. A very good program was presented by Mr Whitford and Mrs Griesy.

Best wishes are extended to the new officers, but remember they need all music mother's support. If your child is in band or high school vocal, you are a music mother and will be asked for donations and aid. Remember it is up to each individual to make a strong organization. See you in the fall but don't forget the Band Festival at Mason City, June 7th and the ice cream social, July 27th, and attend all the summer band concerts.

Extension Council Election Plans Near Completion

With appointment of township nominating committees for Hancock County's sixteen townships, the first phase of election of the Hancock County Extension Council is underway. That was announced this week by Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director. He is assisting with local arrangements for the elections at the request of Floyd Andre, director of the Agricultural Extension Service of Iowa State College.

Under the County Agricultural Extension Law enacted by the Iowa Legislature this spring, the Hancock County Agricultural Extension Council will replace the Hancock County Farm Bureau board of directors as the sponsoring group for extension programs in the county. Director Andre was made responsible for conducting elections for the first extension councils. This law also severed the financial tie of the Farm Bureau with the extension program in Hancock County.

A 3-person committee for each township has been appointed by Director Andre. Each committee is now at work preparing a slate of two nominees that will be presented to a meeting of qualified voters in each township within the next three weeks. One representative to the County Extension Council will be elected from each township. All qualified voters of a township are eligible to vote in the township election meeting.

Appointed to nominating committees from this area are:

Avery Township: Joe Burgess, chairman, Merle Bertilson, and Mrs Wm. Reinhart.

Ell Township: Eugene Greimann, chairman, Lincoln Goll and Eldridge Alden.

Liberty Township: Laurice Lemke, chairman, Mrs Leo Jass and Jerry Psotka.

Twin Lake Township: Ole G Eliason, chairman, Donald Burk and Mrs Merle Ruka.

Elections in this area will be held as follows:

Twin Lake Township, June 1st, Center School.

Ell Township, June 2nd, Klemme Grade School.

Avery Township, June 3rd, Goodell Community Building.

Liberty Township, June 3rd, Center School.

All meetings will begin at 8 o'clock in the evening.

2,631 Iowa Cancer Memorial Funds

Up until Memorial Day "living memorials" have been set up by friends or relatives for 15 deceased Hancock County people, according to New Horizons", Iowa's free cancer magazine. "By using grief to prevent grief," the magazine reports, "a lasting and meaningful tribute is paid. Funds are used to save lives tomorrow through cancer research and lives of others today through cancer education."

Cancer memorial funds are being established at the rate of 140 monthly and thus far in the name of 2631 departed Iowans, the magazine stated.

A living memorial may be started by writing to New Horizons, Mason City. Upon receiving a contribution, a letter and card will be sent to those members of the bereaved famliy designated, telling them that a memorial has been established. If a memorial has already been established the family will be notified of the additional gift.

The name of the person for whom a memorial has been set up will be inscribed in the permanent "Living Memorials" book of Iowa and will be honored on the the pages of future issues of New Horizons, official publications of the Iowa division of the American Cancer Society.

Those from this county for whom cancer memorials have been established are as follows:

Mrs Koert Delger, Sr., Mrs Ralph Whitney, Mrs. Arthur D Fisher, Lill Murphy, Bernice Daniels, Mrs C W Irving, Mrs Medgaarden, Clifford D Estle, Christyna Callison, Cyrus Eisenma, George P Morgan, Della Blomgren, Mrs A H Christians, Mrs C K Moe, and Jens H Moe.

By Bob Hullihan

That part of the road looks like a scene on a calendar, perhaps above the month of May. It is a section of an Iowa country road dropping down a long roll of the prairie.

Summer is beginning to stand high in the ditches in tall weeds and grass. Here and there, the tough grass has crept onto the edges of the gravel road, giving it the ragged look of a path.

Add the barefoot boy with a fishing pole and you have th calendar picture of early summer along an Iowa country road.

Add the dead bodies of a child and a father, the scattered wreckage of two cars, and you have the real picture.

For half way down the slope another road comes in behind a screen of weeds and makes a crossing. It is a blind intersection almost invisible from any approach.

The driver who came down the "calendar" road at 60 miles an hour didn't see the intersection and, at that speed, apparently wasn't looking for it.

The driver who came out of the side road with his son in the car knew about the intersection but, there was no sign left in the gravel to show that he had put on his brake to stop and look.

Now, no one from that neighborhood who saw the results of the accident can look down that road, with all its soft spectacle of summer, without remembering the child and the man thrown out on the gravel, suddenly dead.

The corn and weeds are coming up in Iowa now. Hundreds of country intersections will be hidden behind the season. Slow down on country roads. Stop for country intersections.

Veterans of Three Wars Make Memorial Poppies

The memorial poppies which will be worn here on Poppy Day next Saturday in honor of America's war dead have been made by disabled veterans of three wars, the two world wars and the Korean conflict, according to Mrs Back, Poppy Chairman of the American Legion Auxiliary.

The little crepe paper flowers have been made at Marshalltown under the direction of the State Department of the Auxiliary. The work has been given to those who could profit from its occupational therapy value and who were in most need of the earnings. Poppies have been made in scores of other veterans hospitals throughout the nation, and in convalescent workrooms maintained by the Auxiliary.

"Some of the men making poppies are World War I veterans of advanced age, who have spent years in the hospitals and are highly skilled in the work," said Mrs Back. "Others are younger men from World War II while others are mere boys who received their disabling injuries in Korea. The veterans of the three wars work side by side, helping each other, with older men teaching the less experienced the fine points of poppy making.

"Poppies are made by veterans who cannot leave their beds, Auxiliary volunteer hospital workers bringing them the materials and taking away the finished poppies. Others sit in wheel chairs at their bedsides, or go to recreation rooms or occupation therapy shops to do the work For veterans outside the hospitals yet unable to do regular work, the Auxiliary's poppy workrooms offer opportunity for employment.

"Approximately 12,000 disabled veterans of the three wars have been given employment in the Auxiliary's poppy program this year and the total number of poppies made is expected to exceed 25,000,000".

For Spring—

Plan Your Cleaning for More Ease

Do you smile while you clean? Perhaps not—but your job can be more pleasant for you if you plan your cleaning tasks carefully. Follow a schedule, use a method of cleaning and let your equipment do your work for you. Now, even if you don't smile, chances are you'll look and feel more congenial when you clean.

Perhaps you've finished your spring house cleaning—or are you one of the many nomemakers who have been putting it off because you've been just too busy to devote an entire week to a cleaning orgy. Either way you'll be happy to hear that a careful scheduling on your part, spring and fall house cleaning can be done more thoroughly and with more ease.

June Brown, extension home furnishings specialist at Iowa State College, says to schedule cleaning tasks throughout the entire year—then a day or week is overburdened. By this method your house will aways look spick-and-span—no more fuss, confusion and frantic rushing to clean up "before company comes." Whatever you do make a schedule, write it down on your kitchen calender or bulletin board, so each day you'll know what's on the agenda. Do your best to follow the plan, but keep it flexible enough so your routine won't be completely disrupted if some necessary change must be made.

DAILY TASKS

Decide at which time each day it's more convenient for you to do your housework. In your kitchen you will want to keep the dishes and equipment clean range each day—this way grease and food aren't allowed to harden and accumulate. Sweep your kitchen floor, too. Empty and wash the garbage container.

Clean the fixtures in the bath room every day—also sweep the bathroom floor. Distribute clean towels and wash cloths as they are needed. It's important that you air the bedroom daily—then make the beds.

In the way of general housework, you'll want to lightly dust the floors, furniture and window sills each day, also empty and wash the ash trays. Arrange the newspapers and magazines and empty waste baskets. Water your house plants when they need it, arrange lamp shades and 'knick-knacks' and vacuum the rug areas used the most.

ONCE-A-WEEK CHORES

A more complete job of cleaning will be warranted weekly. Perhaps you'll want to clean one room daily along wtih the daily cleaning. Clean your refrigerator inside and out—remember to defrost. Now's the time to clean the range thoroughly, too. Wipe up the floor. Air pillows and mattresses in the bedrooms—then change the bed linens.

You'll want to brush all woodwork, walls, radiators, lampshades, outside window sills, upholstered furniture, blinds or shades and draperies. Dust all wooden furniture, pictures, lamp bulbs, mirrors and windows with a clean cloth.

Your plants call for weekly care, too. Wash their leaves and wipe the outside of their pots. Vaccum the rugs thoroughly—don't miss under the furniture!

MONTHLY HOUSEWORK

The monthly tasks are those to be done as the need arises. Do one or more of them in several rooms on the same day. You'll want to wipe the windows and wash your curtains. Wash your glass lamp bowls and wipe the bulbs with a damp cloth. Polish metal and sliver. Remove all spots from upholstered furniture. Clean out closets and storage cabinets. Straighten drawers. Turn mattresses and dust the bedsprings.

SEMI ANNUAL TASKS

Slip covers, draperies and mattress covers should be washed twice year. Wash and wax your wooden furniture, floors and Venetian blinds. Reverse rugs and vacuum their under sides. You'll want to have your rugs cleaned thoroughly once a year.

It's a good idea to have the furnace and fireplace checked every year—also to paint and paper walls as needed. Remember to make necessary repairs or replacements.

To Be Married

Mr and Mrs Walter Lemke announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Joan to Clarence Hrubes, son of Mrs Rose Hrubes of Britt. The marriage will take place at 9:00 o'clock A. M., June 28 at the St. Wenceslaus Catholic Church at Duncan, Iowa.

Contributions to Park Playground Project Now Total $385.00

Apparently people in Klemme are all in favor of recreational facilities for the Town Park.

The Lions Club spent some $750 and a couple of days of hard work, to lay a concrete playing floor in the park. They had much volunteer labor from people other than Lions Club members, and donations of some material and equipment.

The $750 expenditure depleted their treasury to the point where they did not have the necessary funds to complete the project. Wire fencing is needed, a tennis net, and baskets and bank boards for basketball.

Rather than wait until the Lions could raise the necessary funds to obtain all these things, individuals and organizations have voluntarily contributed to the project to the tune of $385. It is understood that still a few more contributions are to come.

This generosity is going to mean that not only can the project be completed according to the original plans, but more recreational facilities can be added. Horse shoe pitching courts are planned in the park, and no doubt other improvements will be made.

It is hoped that when the project is completed, there will be enjoyment for all ages . . . all brought about by a wonderful spirit of community cooperation.

Annual Lions Sponsored Fish Derby Will Be Held On Friday, June 17th

Last year's Kid's Fish Derby was rather a disappointment to both the participants and to the sponsoring unit, the Klemme Lions Club. The event was to be held the afternoon before the big storm that dumped eight inches of rain on us, and the fish practically refused to bite. There wasn't any fishing fun the day after the derby, either. All the fish were washed out of the pond and down the river.

However, the Lions are going ahead with plans for another derby this year, and it will be held on the afternoon of Friday, June 17th—and at the same place it has been held in previous years—the pond by the Riverside School, south of town.

Alumni Bonquet to Be At All Vets Center June 24

Plans are going forward for this year's annual Alumni Banquet which is to be held at the All Vets Social Center at Clear Lake on Friday evening, June 24th.

Last year's banquet was held at the Center and proved very successful. Those who were in charge found it much less work than trying to hold the affair in the school gym, and those who were so inclined, stayed after the banquet to visit and dance.

A short program is being arranged, with Dorance Day as M C, and of course, there will be the usual business meeting, including an election of officers for the coming year.

Tickets for the affair are now in the hands of the secretary and she plans to distribute them to a member of each class. In case you are missed by the soliciting member of your class, tickets will be available at a couple of business places in Klemme at a later date. We will make the announcement as to where in next week's issue.

Ticket Sales must be completed by Wednesday, June 22nd, in order that the management of the All Vets Social Center can be informed as to the number of people for whom they will have to prepare meals.

Until last year, it had been the practice to treat the last graduating class as guests and let them attend without a ticket. However, a dwindling treasury made this impossible last year, and the same holds true this year. Members of the class of '55 are invited and urged to attend, but they will have to have a ticket.

A good dinner and an enjoyable evening is assured for all who attend.

Gracka Gerardi to Attend Girls State

Miss Gracka Gerardi, daughter of Mr and Mrs E A Gerardi, of Klemme, will represent the Klemme American Legion Auxiliary at Hawkeye Girls State to be held on the Iowa State Teachers' College Campus, Cedar Falls, Iowa, June 12-19.

Girls State is a national Americanism project of the American Legion Auxiliary, with each state organization sponsoring a session annually. Its purpose is to acquaint teenage girls with the functions of our representative form of government and the political processes of their respective states, through a week's citizenship course and actual participation in the development of a mythical political system, known as "Girls State."

GRACKA GERARDI

Three hundred girls from Iowa are chosen to attend the session. They are appointed by sponsoring American Legion Units, in cooperation with their local school authorities from students in their third year of high school, who are in the upper half of their class scholastically and who excel in leadership and character.

Thirty-two members of the American Legion Auxiliary will serve as staff and counselors, and Mrs Leo K Bekman of Ida Grove, Iowa, Director. Mrs Bekman is an authority on government and is well known throughout the state for her success as a political science teacher in that city.

From election to the most minor office in the city to that of Girls State Governor, from the process of voting in the ward to the setting up of a state Legislator, Hawkeye Girls State is authentic in its operation and sincere in its purpose.

Girls Staters not only benefit from such citizenship training, but they are able to impart this knowledge to their class mates community.

Adams-Schaefer 625 is proud to send Miss Gracka Gerardi to Cedar Falls.

He appeared before Mayor Cook and was fined $3.00 and costs.

73 Enroll For Red Cross Swimming Class

Last week, just before we went to press, we learned that if Klemme had a Red Cross representative and a few details could be ironed out, Klemme community children could take advantage of Red Cross swimming classes at Clear Lake this summer. Consequently, we took on the assignment, and after some hurried consultations, put a story in the paper to the effect that the classes would be available.

At the time we wondered if we might possibly get forty children enrolled. As it turned out, forty was only the beginning. Parents have now signed enrollment cards for 73 children, ranging from second graders to juniors in high school, and we understand that there are still a few more who are interested.

In last week's story, we said that we had to notify Red Cross water safety officials as how many we would have for classes by Tuesday noon. By that time, we had 53 signed up. When we called in the number, they told us that we could go ahead and enroll more children. If you have a child you want to have the benefit of these lessons, stop in at The Times office and sign an enrollment card within the next few days.

We do not have all the details on the classes as yet, but by next week we should be able to tell when they will start, time of day they will be held, transportation facilities, etc.

CAPITOL LETTER BILLS DISPOSED OF

The governor has now disposed of all bills sent to him for signature by the 1955 legislature.

State law provides that the chief executive has 30 days, after the legislature adjourns, to act upon the measures. He must either sign or veto them. If he does neither, the measures automatically become law upon expiration of the time limit.

Among those finally acted upon was the state egg grading law which becomes effective July 4. This provides for grading of eggs when bought from the farmer and also when sold by grocers to Iowa consumers.

The law, which had strong support from the egg industry, requires grocers to sell only eggs which meet federal standards and are grade AA, A or B.

Governor Hoegh, in signing the measure, declared:

"This economy (egg) will be soon strengthened by this new legislation that I confidently expect an increase in farm income from eggs of some $15,000,000 a year.

"Our legislation is designed to end the present situation whereby Iowa ranks first as an egg producer but is 42nd in price per dozen paid to the producer."

ATOMIC ELECTRIC POWER

Iowa utilities this summer will band together for study and research looking to eventual construction of atomic powered generating plants in the state.

Eight companies have announced plans for participating jointly in a program of research and development and a ninth is engaged in a similar project with other companies in Missouri and other states.

The Iowa companies involved in the atomic power research include Iowa Public Service, Iowa Power and Light, Iowa Electric Light and Power, Interstate Power, Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric, Sac County Electric and Peoples Gas and Electric. The ninth company, Union Electric Power, is involved in a similar project with another group outside the state.

MIXUP ON MEASURES

A mixup on a $14,335,000 general school aid bill was finally righted before Governor Hoegh signed the measure but the correction necessitated special trips to Des Moines by Lt. Gov. Leo Elthon of Fertile and A. C. Hanson of Inwood, speaker of the house, to sign the corrected version.

In the enrolling process on the bill the $335,000 was dropped from the annual appropriation though it had passed both houses. The bill, in final form went that was to the governor's office where the error was found, and the correction made.

SPEED LIMITS

Governor Hoegh, who had hoped to use his emergency powers to establish a night-time speed limit of 60 miles an hour for a limited time to give futher impetus to a statewide safety drive, has backed away from his proposal. The governor said he had determined, after consultation with the attorney general's office, that the chief executive is without authority to establish speed limits.

The governor has urged, however, that all motorists in the state voluntarily do not exceed the 60-mile an hour speed in their night-time driving.

Speed limit legislation was proposed in both houses during the recent legislative session but none was enacted into law for the general driving public.

ACCIDENT TOLL

Iowa department of public safety records for the first quarter of 1955, show that drivers in the 25-34 age bracket have been involved in more fatal auto accidents than other age groups.

Of 150 accidents in the period, 26 percent involved drivers in that age classification. Next highest number of fatal crashes was in the 35-44 age group of drivers with 20.67 percent of the total.

WELCOME SIGNS

The Iowa highway commission at the suggestion of the governor, this summer will erect large roadside "welcome" signs on all main highways into Iowa from neighboring states.

The attractive signs at the state's borders will be designed to alert the motorist that he has crossed the line into Iowa and that he is most welcome to enjoy the state's facilities on his trip in or through.

Commision officals say the exact slogan to be used on the signs has not been decided as yet.

INCREASE TAX

The Iowa state tax commission and representatives of retail merchants in Iowa have for several weeks been working on plans for collection of the two-and-a-half cent sales tax beginning in July.

At least two meetings have been held with retailers and tax commissions, participating and trying to settle difference on the best methods for collecting the added half-cent on the dollar.

From the consumer standpoint, it should be noted, that no matter what plan is finally worked out he still will have to pay the increase. However, the big isshe is where to start collecting the extra tax and still be as fair as possible to the consumer.

VACANCY ON BOARD

The death of C E Godfrey, 69, of Albia, leaves a vacancy on the board of parole that must be filled by appointment by the governor.

Godfrey, who died last week had been on the board since 1939 He was a Democrat and had been in ill health for some time.

The two other board members both Republicans, are Otto Henningsen of Clinton and Mrs Virginia Gedell of Spirit Lake. Mrs Bedell was appointed to the board this year. Such appointments must have Iowa senate confirmation.

NEW OFFICERS

Newly elected officers of the Iowa League of Women Voters are Mrs Donald Lambie, Clear Lake, president; Mrs Rolland Grefe, Des Moines, vice-president; Mrs Richard Ulrick, Mason City, secretary.

Directors include Mrs Richard Spencer, Cedar Rapids; Mrs Avery Tucker, Oelwein; Mrs Howard Water, Burlington; Mrs Otto Weise, Newton.

STATE VACATIONS

The Iowa attorney general has ruled that any state employee who completed 10 years consecutive years of service by last April 21 is entitled to 3 weeks' vacation this year.

A new law, passed by the legislature, which became effective April 2, provides for one-week vacation after one year of employment, two weeks from the second through the 10th year, and three weeks after the 10th year..

Employees will not be eligible for the three weeks vacation if there has been a break in their state employment for reasons other than military service.

RECRUITS RESERVES

The 103rd infantry reserve division, which headquarters at Fort Des Moines and has 47 units in Iowa, is participating in a recruiting program to increase its strength from the present 3,900 men to 14,000 men.

Maj Gen George Olmsted, Des Moines, is commanding general of the division.

Members of the 103rd now attend 48 two-hour drills each year and attend a 15-day summer camp. They are paid only for 24 of the 48 drills. Under the new strength authorization program, however, members will attend the same number of drill periods but will get paid for all of them.

Col Joe Tressler, division personnel officers, estimates there are about 20,000 unassigned army reservists in Iowa. Recruiters will concentrate on teen-age youths who have not yet reached the draft age of 20.

County Nurse to Begin TB Case Finding Program

Miss Helen Lemke, R N, county public health nurse, Division of Tuberculosis staff nurse will begin work on the annual contact case-finding program, according to information received by Mrs Gladys Lewis, president of the Hancock County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

The search for possible but as yet unknown cases of tuberculosis in the community will be directed by the physicians and assisted by Miss Helen Lemke.

Her job will be to work with family physicians to locate persons who have been in contact with others who have known tuberculosis. Hence the title of the case finding program: "Contact".

The nurse will call in the homes of the persons who have been exposed to tuberculosis. She will arrange appointments for all persons whose skin shows a possible reaction. This does not necessarily mean that tuberculosis is present. The physician may refer persons for other chest conditions. Information gathered by the nurse will be strictly confidential.

Dr A H Dulmes, president of the Hancock-Winnebago County Medical Society, has indicated the profession's approval of the survey. Cost of the survey is borne by the local tuberculosis association and the Division of Tuberculosis of the State Department of Health. Christmas Seals funds help defray part of the expense of the survey.

Firemen to Attend Training School

The fireman of Hancock County are invited to attend a firemanship training school according to Chief Ed Ziesmer of Garner, Iowa. Arrangements have been made for the Garner fire department and the Engineering Extension Service of Iowa State College to co-sponsor a county-wide fire school at Garner on Wednesday evenings, June 8, 15, 23 and 29, 1955.

The instructor will be Mr Floyd Wm. Nelson, Field Instructor in Firemanship Training of Iowa State College, who will conduct classes in the handling of fire equipment, pumper operation, fire department organization, inspection, fire prevention and equipment maintenance. Mr Nelson will be in Garner on four Wednesday evenings, to teach these classes.

Certificates of attendance will be issued by Iowa State College, Engineering Extension Service, Firemanship Training program to all those who attend this school.

Chief Ziesmer states, "This program of firemanship training in Iowa has met with success because Iowa firemen are interested in learning better firemanship. Firemen are frequently called upon to risk their personal safety in situations that are rapidly changing for the worse. For their own protection as well as to permit them to use their equipment and apparatus wisely, a school such as this is worthwhile. All of the firemen of Hancock County are urged to attend these sessions.

"There were many fires in Iowa last year; well over a hundred citizens of this state lost their lives from fire accidents", Chef Ziesmer continued. "We urge every citizen of Garner and Hancock County to give thought to preventing fires".

According to Mark Brosier of Iowa State College who is in charge of the firemanship training program there are hundreds of Iowa firemen who attend these schools each year. The Iowa Firemanship Training Advisory Committee, consisting of representatives from Iowa Firemen's training organizations the State Fire Marshal and others interested in firemanship training, are interested in seeing that every community in the state has an opportunity to better trained firemen.

Use Simple Precautions—

Prevent Mildew Damage to Clothing

This is a wise homemaker—she makes sure each article of clothing she places into the garment bag for summer storage has ample space for good air circulation. This is an important step in mildew prevention.

As you prepare your family's winter clothing for summer storage, don't confine your thoughts to "what can I do about moths?" This is an important consideration, but we Iowans have some thinking to do regarding the possibility of mildew too—and we should know how to combat these mold spores because as they grow they discolor fabric and leather, decay wood, and sometimes so severely "eat" into cloth that it rots and falls to pieces.

Opal Roberson, extension textiles and clothing specialist at Iowa State College, says that with a few precautions you can prevent mildew and salvage the articles on which it thrives.

Molds that cause mildew flourish on cellulose products (cotton, linen, wood and paper) and protein substances (silk, leather and wool). Although these molds are always present in the air, they require moisture and a certain temperature to grow. If you have a new home, be especially careful because the moisture in new building materials attracts mold.

REMOVE DAMPNESS

Your first precaution is to remove the cause of dampness where you expect to store clothing. Air your closet thoroughly. If this fails, keep an electric light burning in the closet—this will counteract dampness.

As for chemicals, you can place calcium chloride in an open container—it's a chemical that takes up moisture, and can be purchased at any drug store. When it becomes a liquid, replace it with a fresh amount.

If you store clothing in garment bags, be sure each garment has enough space for good air circulation. Air and sun the clothing frequently. Remember to remove buckles, pins and metal buttons. If moist, they may rust and develop a permanent stain.

PROTECT LEATHER GOODS

Miss Roberson says leather is especially susceptible to mildew if stored in warm, damp air. Be sure to give leather gloves, purses, shoes and jackets an air treatment before storing. Clean them thoroughly, too. Cleanliness preserves the leather and helps prevent mildewing.

If your leather gloves are marked "washable" wash them. Soak and shake washable suede gloves in a closed quart jar containing non-flammable dry cleaning fluid. If you notice matted, shiny areas after they're dry, rub the spots carefully with fine emery paper.

Wipe your smooth leather handbags with a damp cloth or clean with a heavy lather (little water) of a neutral soap. Use a rubber sponge to clean suede handbags. Raise the nap with a fine wire brush or emery paper.

Use the new dressing containing silicone to make your shoes water-repellent. If you apply it to uppers and soles when shoes are new, they will be water-repellent for the rest of their lives. This protects against soil and abrasion, too. When you wash shoe and boot leather, use a minimum of water. Be sure to apply oil or a wax dressing after you wash—this keeps the leather soft and pliable. Castor oil or a 50-50 combination of castor and lanolin oils is good for polished leather. For dressed leather, apply neats'-foot oil while the leather is slightly damp. Sponge leather with a 1 percent solution of thymol in alcohol for special protection. You can get this at drug stores. Before you use it, apply some on a small inconspicuous area to make sure it won't affect the color.

If mildew is present on some of your leather articles, apply a solution of equal parts denatured alcohol and water with a cloth. If this doesn't do the job, wash with a heavy suds of neutral soap. Then polish with a wax dressing.

It satisfies on all counts—self-sealing—no "painty" odor—fast drying—plus lending vibrant new beauty to walls.

Pittsburgh's Wallhide Alkyd Type Flat Wall Paint is extremely durable — can be washed again and again without injury to its lovely flat finish.

81 Enrolled for Red Cross Swimming Classes

Eighty-one children from this vicinity have now enrolled for the Red Cross swimming classes which will be held at Clear Lake beginning next Monday, June 20th.

The children will ride to the lake in a school bus. They will board the bus at noon at the town park, will change clothes on the bus, and will attend two classes each week for five weeks. One group will attend on Mondays and Wednesdays and the other group on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Coach "Bill" Westberg will drive the bus, and four ladies have agreed to go along one day a week to help take care of the children. The four ladies are Mrs Leonard Kaduce, Mrs Chester Renner, Mrs John Clementts, and Mrs Gerald Koerner.

Last week we erroneously stated that the classes will be from 1:30 p. m. til 2:00 p. m. Actually, the classes will be an hour in length, lasting from 1:00 p. m. til 2:00 p. m. each class day.

Be sure and have your children at the park by noon on the days they are to swim, so that the bus can leave on time, and the children can get their full hour class.

Registration at the pond will begin at 1:15 p. m., and the contest will get underway at 2:00. Fishing will continue until 3:30. Then the fish will be judged and the prizes awarded.

Have your children on hand at the pond for an afternoon of fun.

Christians Sends Hogs To Market in 157 Days

Last Saturday, June 11th, Harold Christians sold 14 head of hogs to C A Larsen and received $19.50 per hundred for them. The Logs, Spotted Poland Chinas, averaged 214 in weight.

The remarkable things about this sale are not the weight or price, but the time it took Mr Christians to get the hogs to that weight.

The first litter was born on January 5th, making them five months and six days old the day they were sold. Six months is usually considered fast work in getting hogs to market, but Mr Christians, who is helping in the development of a new feed, beat that time by a good three weeks.

Besides the short feeding time involved, Mr Christians states the added advantage of having less than $15 per head total feed cost in the hogs, a feed savings of somewhere in the neighborhood of $10 per head.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

NEW SALES TAX

Beginning July 1 the Iowa sales tax will be increased from two cents on the dollar to two and a half cents. In addition, the collection rate will be lowered from the present 15 cents starting point to 13 cents.

Under present law, no tax is collected on sales up to 15 cents. This law has been on the books since the early '30s with the same schedule prevailing.

The schedule was changed this year when the legislature voted the half-cent increase.

There will be no tax on purchases up to 13 cents. From 13 to 49 cents, the tax will be one cent; a two cent tax on items of 50 to 99 cents; Three cents on items of $1 to $1.39; four cents on purchases of $1.40 to $1.79, and five cents on items of $1.80 to $2.19. From there on the collection will be at the rate of one cent for each 40 cents of increased purchase thereafter.

The new schedule represents a compromise agreement between the Iowa tax commission and the Associated Retailers of the state.

IMPROVE STATE RECORD

Iowa motorists, by cooperating in a voluntary 60 miles an hour maximum night-time speed limit in a 10 day period, reduced the state's highway toll by four.

Governor Hoegh, who asked motorists to observe the 60 mile limit voluntarily on a trial basis from May 27 through June 6 said that in the same period of time in 1954 and 1953, 14 deaths were recorded in each of the years. This year the death toll was 10.

The governor indicated that the state will ask motorists to continue the night-time speed limits voluntarily through Labor Day. Motorists driving extremely fast were arrested by state patrolmen and booked on reckless driving charges. Arrests were made on motorists clocked at speed of 70 to 100 miles per hour at night. Others, driving in the 60's, received warning tickets from patrolmen.

Patrolmen reported that the voluntary program had noticeably reduced the night driving speeds of motorists in the state.

The inspectors are enforcing the state law that provides that gasoline trucks with more than 20 gallons of gasoline in their truck tank will pay Iowa gas tax for the gallonage of motor fuel in excess of the requirements.

The law is designed so that the state gets its fair share of state tax on the gasoline used in Iowa.

SET EGG RULES

The Iowa department of agriculture has issued orders to its inspectors on the state's new egg grading law which goes into effect July 4 after passage by the 1955 legislature.

The inspectors have been advised that Iowa grocers who buy eggs direct from producers for sale to consumers will have to be licensed both as dealers and retailers.

Under the law, every business selling eggs to the public will be required to have a $2 retailer license. Those buying eggs from producers will have to have licenses which range in price from $12.50 to $50 a year depending upon the volume of eggs purchased.

Mr and Mrs Levi Klotzbach are spending this week visiting relatives in the eastern part of the state.

Miss Ethel Barz is attending summer school at Cedar Falls for the next couple of months.

A charivari was held on Mr and Mrs Erwin Priebe Monday evening. The assortment of music produced the desired results and all were happy, Tom Roths is the owner of a new Dodge truck which he will use on his milk route. He is hauling milk for the cheese factory at Clear Lake.

30 YEARS AGO—

This vicinity had heavy rains last Thursday and Friday. The river and creeks were all over flowing their banks and the ground is soaked. In some places were the land is not well drained, water is standing making large ponds.

HURT

At Rake, Joseph Eckstein was injured recently when he fell about 25 feet from a ladder, landing on a concrete slab. He was hospitalized, but will recover.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The busy citizens who passed the boys on the street that afternoon had little idea they were brushing close to the joint holders of incredible wealth. The boys were just out of school for the summer. Among them they owned every summer day coming for the next three months.

All the dollars in the Farmers Bank on the corner couldn't buy what these 10 year olds inherited when the teacher rubbed the last chalk mark off the blackboard.

The boys passed through town, sometimes idling along as though overwhelmed with good fortune, sometimes running and jumping in the dance children must have originated when the first school closed its doors.

They were soon out of the business district and some urge to express their freedom turned them into the alleyway in the residential section. Walking there along an unaccustomed way behind the sunflowers and the fences seemed more appropriate to the adventure.

They were running again when they burst out of an alley into the street. It was an hour before the usual time for school to let out. It was a place children were not expected. It was the first fatal accident in three years in that town when the boy leading the group went under the wheels of the car.

He lay in the street while the unspent wealth of summer days drained away from him. All the dollars in the Farmers Bank back on the corner could not buy it back, or buy forgetfulness for the driver.

The schools are out. Look for children wherever they might conceivably be, not just where you expect them to be.

Crippled Children Clinic June 29 at Forest City

Arrangements are being made for the forthcoming Field Clinic for Crippled Children to be held at the Methodist Church in Forest City, on Wednesday, June 29, with registration from 8:00 to 10:30 A. M. and 1:00 to 2:30 P. M.

No child will be seen at the clinic unless the parents bring a written referral from their family doctor. After the clinic a report on the mobile field clinic examination will be sent to the family doctor and the families are to discuss the finding with him.

Those eligible for service are children under 21 with such conditions as cerebral palsy, crippling orthopedic conditions, remediable by plastic surgery, poliomyelitis, rheumatic fever, diabetes, nephritis, nephrosis, convulsive, disorders, speech and hearing defects, congenital heart disease, and other congenital anomalies.

"... and this buggy has every safety feature the manufacturer could think to put in it."

For Health Reasons—

Drink Plentiful Milk Often

Make sure your family gets an adequate supply of milk—it's the most "nearly perfect" of all foods.

Is your family getting enough milk? This question is especially timely now because June has been proclaimed National Dairy Month, and milk is at the very top of the plentiful foods list. You and Dad need milk as well as the children do. It supplies a strong source of calcium for sturdy bones and plenty of protein for tissue-building value—also many other valuable nutrients.

Leslie Smith, extension nutritionist at Iowa State College, recommends 2 or more cups daily for adults, while children should have from 3 to 4 cups. If there are teenagers in your home, see that they get at least a quart of milk each day.

Mrs Smith stresses the fact that drinking milk isn't the only way you can get an adequate supply. There are many other flavorful and nutritious ways you can get milk into meals.

Other dairy products supply milk nutrients effectively. U S Department of Agriculture nutritionists say the following can be used as alternates for 1 cup (½ pint) of milk. These amounts are based on their calcium content.

One and one-half ounces cheddar cheese; 15 ounces cream cheese; 11 ounces cottage cheese (use more if creamed); 1⅔ cups ice cream; 3 cups milk sherbert.

Perhaps you are wondering what products contribute to making a better breakfast—milk is one important contributor. Mrs Smith offers a few tips on how you can supplement everyday breakfasts with milk.

If you serve cooked cereals at your house, use milk instead of water for cooking. You'll find directions for cooking with milk on most cereal packages. Another idea for a high-nutrient breakfast is to pour hot milk over poached eggs and toast.

You probably serve soup, at least occasionally, for your luncheon meal. Milk soups can be made with a variety of vegetables—asparagus, beans, peas, spinach, tomatoes, turnips, potatoes, cauliflower, corn and celery. You can make many milk chowders, too—using oysters, ham, chicken, turkey or fish.

Early summer is an opportune time for serving fresh vegetables. They are so good to eat and so good for you. Why not make them even better by creaming them in white sauce?—in this way you add extra milk nutrients. Another tip is to try escalloped vegetables baked in white sauce. You'll be amazed at the way fresh vegetables can be perked up if you add a creamy white sauce.

One-dish meals and casseroles are especially popular during the summertime. You want to spend lots of time outdoors—and a minimum of time in the kitchen—so why not let milk help you to make a few simple one-dish meals,

Many creamed dishes, made with a medium-thick white sauce, get ¼ to ½ cup of milk per serving into a meal. These include, such dishes as creamed chicken, eggs and dried beef. Meat or fish loaves make good use of milk.

When you use pie and pudding mixes, use two or more parts evaporated milk to 1 part water instead of the usual one-to-one dilution.

You've probably served warm weather drinks such as iced tea, iced coffee and lemonade to guests and family during previous summer months. There are many milk drinks—just as cool, just as refreshing—and so much more nutritious. Mrs Smith suggests that you serve eggnogs or milkshakes flavored with fruit purees.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Hogs are in the best market for the year.

How long will it last? How far will prices go?

Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist, says we can find the answer in the expected supply of hogs coming to market the next 4 weeks.

The months when the numbers of litters farrowed are the smallest of the year come in the late fall and early winter. Pigs farrowed in those months are now being sold by farmers. So our slaughter normally is at the low spot for the year at this time, Kutish points out. That's why prices normally go up now.

We usually reach our low in hog slaughter in early July. Beginning in mid-July the sales of pigs farrowed last winter will begin to pick up. The December, January and February farrowings were up about 20 percent from the previous year. So Kutish expects that slaughter will pick up during the latter part of July and will be well ahead of last year at that time.

These are the facts on which he bases his conclusion that the peak on the hog market will come in late June or early July, with the price trending downward by the latter part of the month.

Two forces will keep the hog price from reaching last year's mark, says Kutish, adding that they are more than enough to offset higher consumer incomes. On May 1 packers had 29 per cent more pork in storage than a year ago. This additional pork will be released from storage during the summer.

The other force listed by Kutish is the larger number of hogs marketed by farmers as compared with a year ago. For the next month, packers will bid aggressively for hogs on days when receipts are light—they want the pork to supply the fresh trade. But they won't be forced to scramble for these hogs as they had to a year ago.

Mobile X-ray Unit to Aid in TB Case Finding

The climax of the 12th annual search for unknown tuberculosis among those persons who may have been in contact with the disease will come on 23rd June, 1955, when a mobile x-ray unit will be in Garner.

Miss Helen Lemke, R. N., public health nurse, has spent the past 6 weeks interviewing these people as referred by the family physician. Tuberculin sk testing is advised by the State Department of Health. For those whose skin test was positive, the physician recommends that an x-ray be taken.

"Practically everyone I visited has been willing to participate in this program, said Miss Lemke. "We anticipate about 70 persons to be x-rayed when the mobile x-ray unit parks at the east side of the Court House in Garner. Appointments have been given to those who are to participate in the program.

"It's this kind of cooperation which will lead to the ultimate eradication of tuberculosis," the nurse said, adding her appreciation to all persons who have helped in the carrying out of the project.

The x-ray films will be read at the State Department of Health by a radiologist. The confidential findings are mailed to the family physician. It is from him that the individual may receive his x-ray report.

The contact case-finding program has been sponsored by the Hancock County Tuberculosis and Health Association. A portion of the cost is borne by the sale of Christmas Seals each year. The program has had the approval of the Hancock County Medical Society, and is conducted by the Division of Tuberculosis, State Department of Health and the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association.

After the physician receives the x-ray reports, the follow-through work in the county will be done by Helen Lemke, R.N. She will assist the physicians in carrying out their recommendations for nursing supervision.

World Famous Koshare Indians To Visit Winnebago Council

Leaders of the Scouting Units in Klemme announced today that they have received word that the world famous Koshare Indians of La Junta, Colorado will visit the Winnebago Council. Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Explorers, Scouters, parents and anyone interested in exceptional entertainment, will want to see the big show this group will put on. These performers put on a production which ranks in the top bracket fo skill and quality.

The boys who put on the show are actually not Indians at all, but high ranking Explorers of the Boy Scouts of America, artisans of such skill that even the Indian gives these boys the highest praise.

So, come the fourth week in June, the thunder drum will sound the arrival of the Koshares. Clothing in more than $100,000 worth of authentic Indian costumes, they will perform the more than 55 dances of their repertoire.

Their chants will recall the days of the shaggy buffalo, game filled valleys of winding waters, the great thunder bird, and the home of Waconda, Agua, the Great Spirit, in the vast turquoise sky.

The Winnebago Council of the Boy Scouts of America is sponsoring the appearance of the Koshares at Roosevelt Fieldhouse, June 22 The program gets under der way at 8:15 P. M. The Indian dancers will be performing for their 22nd year.

NOT REDSKINS

There'll be no "redskins" in the tribe. The entire recreated drama of another day will be in the hands of Boy Scout Troop 230, La Junta, Colorado. Yet their scouts are the world's greatest paleface interpreters of the ways of the Red Man.

They come from the high plains of Eastern Colorado, from the city of La Junta, population 15.000. The countryside abounds in flint arrowheads and other Indian relics, and a few miles beyond the city's railroad tracks are the picturesque rocks among which Indians used to camp.

MERGED TWO INTERESTS

It's no wonder then, when J. F (Buck) Burshears came home to La Junta from Colorado College in 1933 that he merged two personal interests, Scouting and Indian lore. The result was the Koshare Indian dancers.

Troop 230 owns its own "kiva" or Indian lodge, which cost more than $150,000 to bulid. The Scouts have performed the length and breadth of the land, giving one of their greatest shows in Madison Square Garden. New York critic John Chapman acclaimed them as having "put to shame some of the best Broadway ballet troups".

Tickets for the show may be obtained from Dr A H Dulmes.

Jolly Workers Club Met

The Jolly Workers Club met at the home of Mrs Alvina Helps for their June meeting. Fourteen members were present to answer roll call by telling their favorite TV program.

A gift was given to Georgiana Bruhl and Marilyn Bachman for their new boys. We are to send a gift to Glen Schlichting, who is in the hospital at Fort Worth, Texas.

We planned our club picnic which will be Sunday, June 19, at the Belmond Park at noon. Each family is to bring two covered dishes. their own sandwiches and drink.

Miss Helen Lemke, the County Nurse, was a visitor and gave a very interesting talk.

A delicious lunch was served by Mrs Helps and her co-hostess, Louise Pearson.

The July meeting will be at Ruth Trampel's.

Dennis Ridder Visits Brother In Germany

We are in receipt of the following letter from Dennis Ridder, son of Mr and Mrs Lee Ridder:

Wiesbaden, Germany
June 15, 1955

Dear Pete,

Just a line to let you know I've had another change af address. After arriving here, they reassigned me to the 7100th Air Police Squadron as clerk. My address is: A/2 Dennis G Ridder AF 17405778, 7100th Air Police Sq. APO 633, New York, N. Y.

This base is about 20 miles east of Frankfurt, in the town of Weisbaden, which is a nice location.

I went up and saw my brother, Roger, and his family last week end. I'm not far from them as I have mentioned before. The boat ride over was very good with no rough weather to speak of.

Hope all is well back in Klemme, and the states.

Yours truly,
Dennis

Proprietor Ill, But Business As Usual

Glen Osman, proprietor of Osman Funeral Service, is now confined to Oakdale Sanitarium, Oakdale, Iowa, but business at the establishment will continue as usual. His wife and his father plan to keep things going until Glen can be back on the job.

The firm will continue to offer funeral service and the repair department will function the same as it always has.

The people of the community are sorry to see Glen stricken, but are glad that there is a place where his illness can be taken care of, and wish for his early return to his home and business.

Not Many Fish, But Fun

The top picture shows the scene of last Friday's Kids Fish Day sponsored by the Klemme Lions Club, and part of the 97 kids who registered to fish. The bullheads were not very cooperative, but enough were caught so that judging was possible and there were treats of ice cream bars and pop for everybody. Game Warden Bill Ayres advanced the theory that the pond was full of "crawdads" and that probably the bullheads were full of them too by the time for the derby to start.

Art Lyons won the grand prize for boys and Vicki Bridges won the grand prize for girls.

Gerald Janssens Celebrate Silver Anniversary

Party At Local Church Honors Couple

Mr and Mrs Gerald Janssen of Goodell, were honored with a party held at the parlors of the Evangelical and Reformed Church in Klemme, at two o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 19th, honoring them on their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Their daughter, Mrs Argyle Hays of Manhattan, Kansas and and the latter's brother Jerry Janssen arranged this event as a surprise to their parents, letting them in on the secret just before it was time to get ready to go to the church. Invitations were issued with 85 relatives and friends in attendance, coming from the Goodell and Klemme communities and a distance.

Rev Vernon Jaberg, pastor of the church gave a short talk and prayer, which opened the event.

The serving table, centered with a bouquet of roses and baby breath, placed on a table mirror, with pink and silver candles on either side of the bouquet, were the decorations. Pink and white predominated as the color scheme throughout the decorations.

The anniversary cake, a three tiered angel food, was baked and decorated by Mrs Bernard Gruis, sister of Mr Jenssen. The cake was cut and served by Mrs Vern McClintock, another sister of Mr Janssen, who also was bridesmaid at the wedding 25 years ago. The punch bowl was in charge of Mrs Argyle Hays. The hostesses were Mrs Bernard Gruis and Miss Josephine Dominy, and assistants at the party were Mrs Les Hartbeck and Mrs Herbert Griemann of Klemme.

Four generations, of both sides of the Janssen family were present to make this day perfect.

Out of town relatives and friends present were Mr and Mrs Walter Merkel and family, of Grand Meadows, Minn., Mr and Mrs Fred Dahlman, Mrs Marion Rust, Mr and Mrs Vern McClintock, Mrs Anna Janssen, all of Mason City; Mr and Mrs Gene Janssen and family, Meservey; Mr and Mrs Vern Swenson, Belmond, Mr and Mrs Lavern Christenson and family, Ventura; Mr and Mrs Robert Hinman and Bobby, Clarion; Mr and Mrs Arthur Pringnitz and Karen, Kanawha; and Mr and Mrs Argyle Hays and Steven of Manhattan, Kansas.

Many beautiful and useful gifts for their new home were received by Mr and Mrs Janssen in remembrance of this happy day.

Ada Sandry and Gerald Janssen were united in marriage at high noon, June 18th, 1930, the service taking place at the Klemme Methodist Church, with the Rev Harry Whyte (now of Algona) officiating.

They were attended by Mr Janssen's brother-in-law and sister, Mr and Mrs Vern McClintock.

Local Woman Holds Posts In Retarded Children's Group

The Council for Retarded Children of Hancock and Winnebago Counties has completed another successful year in working for the benefit of retarded children. The group has as its community projects the sponsoring of two classrooms in the community. One is at Forest City where Mrs Arlo Johnson has been the teacher and the other classroom is at Lake Mills where Mrs Robert Burns is the teacher. With understanding teachers, the children have made fine progress.

The group has carried out and sponsored projects of benefit to the children at the state residential schools such as remembering the children on holidays, supplying chair pads for wheel chair patients, clothing drives, and drives for other useful items. Members of the group wish to express thanks to the many groups who contributed funds and items to the projects. Any group wishing to have a list of approved projects for the state school program may contact Mrs V E Bunge at Garner.

Officers of the local group elected at the May meeting were Mrs August Josten, Klemme, president; Mrs Robert Nickson, Lake Mills, vice president; Mrs Roy Hovey, Forest City, secretary and Mr Ervin Kahl, Britt, treasurer.

At the third annual convention of the Iowa Association for Retarded Children held at Cedar Falls and Waterloo, June 3, 4 and 5, Mrs August Josten of Klemme was elected as treasurer and Mrs V E Bunge of Garner was re-elected as corresponding secretary of the state association.

The next meeting of the group will be June 27th, 8 p m. in the the library at Forest City at which time reports of the state convention will be given. The meeting is open to the public.

The happiest miser on earth is one who saves friends.

Dr. Nelson Appointed To Church Post

The Nelsons will live in Cedar Falls.

Alumni Banquet Will Be Friday Night

The annual banquet sponsored by the Klemme High School Alumni Association will be held this Friday evening at the All Vets Social Center at Clear Lake. The affair was held there last year and proved to be very successful.

The banquet gets underway with a dinner at 7 o'clock, followed by a short business meeting and a little entertainment. After the banquet is officially over, those who wish may stay and dance or sit and visit, which ever suits their fancy.

One hundred and nine tickets had been sold for the affair by today (Wednesday), and it is expected that a few more will want tickets before the affair gets underway.

In past years in Klemme it has been the practice for the town to put calcium chloride on the gravel streets in front of the property of those people who requested the service. While the calcium chloride keeps the dust down temporarily, that is the best it can do.

We hear rumors now, that the streets could be oiled at a very reasonable price, and that one application of oil would last all through the dusty season. Not only that, but it is said that oiling for three successive years would make an almost permanent hard surface on the street . . comparable in many ways to asphalt.

While we are not certain what the price would be, as we said before, we hear that it is very reasonable. If it would get us out of the dust and mud that goes with our present gravel surfaced streets, it seems to us that it would bear some investigation by town officials.

If the oiling does as we have heard and makes a permanent surface after three years of treatment, then our main street would not be cluttered up with gravel and sand as it usually is. Most of the dirt that is on the paving now is brought on from the side streets and cleaning it off is quite a job. We hope that some investigation will be instigated and that the cost for the oiling. and the results, will prove that such treatment for our gravel streets is worthy of consideration.

If you want some good cheap fishing fun, we suggest that you go after some of the plentiful carp in the Iowa river. They will give you a tussle that will put to shame the efforts of most game fish, and you won't have to lay out a lot of money for boats, motors, minnows, etc. All you need is to cook up a batch of dough, take your fishing pole and head for fhe river. Pick a place where there is a brush pile, some old logs or posts in the river and fish near these obstructions. Of course you will lose some line occasionally as one of these gamy fighters tangles you up in the brush, but you will have a lot of fun.

Easiest way of making dough that we have found is as follows:

Take one cup of cornmeal and a half cup of flour. Mix these together dry and then add water, stirring it in until the mixture is rather dough like. Put the mixture in an old sock or fold into any rag, then flatten it out until it is between a half inch and an inch thick. Leave it in the rag container and drop into boiling water for about five minutes, more or less. Take it out and cool and it is ready to use.

Use it with a small hook that can be completely covered with a piece of dough about the size of a marble; use little if any sinker and no bobber. If one of these river fish takes your bait you will have no trouble telling it. If you hook him, you'll be in for some fun. It usually seems that they bite best when the weather is good and hot. Use your own discretion on whether or not to eat what you catch

Best recipe we have heard for cooking carp is as follows:

Skin him, clean him, place him on a shingle, put in a hot oven and bake til done. Remove from oven, throw carp away and eat the shingle. Seriously: Some people smoke them, and some pickle them and say they are delicious. We have eaten small ones fried, that didn't taste too bad, but there are other foods we would rather have.

We get a big kick out of going to the park each day at noon and seeing the kids board the school bus and leave for the lake for their swimming classes. Usually, they are all at the park and have been waiting for some time when the bus makes its appearance. The ensuing rush is something to behold It's a wonder to us that someone doesn't get trampled.

We asked Jimmy Clements how he liked the class. He said, "Good, but the first day I swallowed a quart of water." We asked him how that happened, and he said, "Well, we had to put our heads under and blow bubbles. When I blew bubbles, the water all came in instead of the air going out."

One little shaver was very reluctant to get on the bus the first day, but after considerable persuasion by his mother, he made the trip. Guess the thought of all that water and the strangeness of going to swimming class was a little overwhelming for him. Guess he likes it as well as the rest, now that he has found out the score and knows that there is nothing to fear.

We wonder how many years it will be before cars are factory equipped with safety belts. In a recent auto accident near Dubuque, two prominent Iowa men—one from Hampton—credited safety belts with having saved their lives. They were involved in a head-on collision, and although they received some broken bones and bruises, still they came out of the accident in pretty good shape. They thought if they hadn't had the advantage of safety belts they would surely have been tossed around enough to have been killed.

Another factor in making us think more and more about installing safety belts in our own car is the watching of stock car races at the track south of Belmond. We have watched a lot of them in the past couple of years, and although their are some terrific crashes and pile-ups, still we have never seen anyone seriously hurt. Occasionally a driver will get knocked out or bruised, but nothing serious. They wear safety belts and crash helmets, and of course, their cars are reinforced with roll bars. For all the reinforcing and crash helmets, if it weren't for the safety belts, they could still be tossed around and get pretty badly beaten up.

Sunday night, we were on hand for the races, and they had more wrecks than we had ever before seen. One of the wrecks was senseless in that it was caused by a grudge between two of the drivers. They piled up right in front of the judges stand, with one car rolling over in the track and the other piling into the fence. Incidentally, there was not a judge in sight on the stand when the dust cleared. They really moved out! We didn't blame them either, with two cars out of control and headed right for them.

In any case there was an unusually large amount of wrecks Sunday night and not a driver so much as knocked out. Many of them got their cars back on the wheels, checked them a little and were right back in the race. We think that the spills they take would be disastrous in many cases if it weren't for the safety belts. Travelling at 40 to 50 miles an hour and going through a fence or rolling over two or three times would not be so good if the driver was not held firmly in place in his car.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

TOUGHER POLICY

The Iowa state tax commission is adopting a "get tough" attitude toward Iowans who deliberately evade their state income tax payments.

For several years the commission has avoided court action against such violators because it was considered too costly to prosecute; the cases weren't worth it for the time and money involved, the commission said.

Tightening up of income tax laws during the 1955 legislative session, together with further expressed recommendations for a tougher policy against delinquint taxpayers, has brought about an aggressive attitude on the part of the commission.

So far this year three cases have been filed in district courts against alleged violators of the state income tax laws.

These are the first actions ever filed by the commission. Latest court suit was filed in Polk county, two similar ones were filed in Linn county several weeks ago. These were the first such actions against Iowans failing to file returns since the enactment of the state income tax law of 1934.

The tax commission and the attorney general's office reports that more court actions are on tap.

TRUCK VIOLATORS

More than 90 per cent of trucks halted in a gas tax collection drive by agents of the Iowa State treasurer's office were violating state law.

Earle Smith, director of the fuel tax division under the state treasurer, said that of 450 trucks stopped as they entered the state in a three day drive, 410 were found to be carrying more than the 20 tax free gallons of gasoline permitted under state law.

Truckers are to pay the state 5 cents a gallon tax on any amounts of gasoline they carry over 20 gallons. Under a new law, effective, July 1, unless truck companies make specific arrangements with the treasurer, they are prohibited from bringing more than 20 gallons of gas into Iowa in their carriers.

Iowa collected $944.34 on 18,887 gallons of gas being brought into the state by the 410 truck violators in the three-day drive.

UNUSUAL PROCEDURE

Gov Leo A Hoegh is the first governor in some 20 years to call department heads together for the purpose of urging an "efficiency and economy" drive in their department activities. Hoegh asked the chiefs to cut down personnel costs where possible, printing costs and unnecessary use of state cars.

Reaction to his meeting was mixed. Many of the persons thought it was a good idea, but others said they've been stressing and practicing economy in their departments for years.

ACCIDENTS COSTLY

Over $5 million in damage to property has resulted from auto accidents in Iowa in the first four months of this year. That's the report of the state department of public safety.

The department figured the cost of personal injuries during the four months of at just under $3 million. For economic statistics the department uses the same yardstick used by the National Safety Council by counting $5,000 for on individual's injury or death.

Compared with the same period a year ago, the number of accidents is up 2,465 to a total of 18,163, and property damage is up $400,000 while personal injury is up $62,000.

During the period involved, the number of persons killed dropped from 172 to 164, while the number of persons injured jumped from 5,052 to 5,626.

ROAD STANDARDS

Quoting Bureau of Public Roads standards, Gerald Bogan, executive seceretary of the Iowa Good Roads Associaiton, said that such standards call for a 4-lane highway where the traffic count is 4,000 or more vehicles per day and 4-lane divided highway where the traffic volume reaches more than 7,000 vehicles per day.

Iowa, he pointed out, has more than 200 miles of primary roads carrying traffic volume in excess of 4,000 vehicles per day and it has been forecast that in 15 years Iowa would have 1,500 miles carrying that volume of traffic.

Bogan said records of the Bureau of Public Roads show that Iowa built only 5.3 miles of four lane roads on the interstate system between 1951 and 1954, all in the the urban areas.

CRACKER DRY

Atty Gen Dayton Coontryman, after seven months in office, reports that it is his firm conviction that illegal liquor-by-the drink sales in Iowa can be completely stamped out.

Countryman announced six months ago his intention of making Iowa "cracker dry". After organization and directing raids in his campaign against illegal liquor sales, the attorney general says he believes that his "cracker dry" objectives can be reached.

CHANGE AIR ROUTES

Several Iowa points are involved in airline service changes approved by the civil aeronautics board. The changes involved United, Braniff and Ozark air lines.

The CAA authorized Ozark to fly between Chicago and Sioux City with stops at Fort Dodge, Mason City, Waterloo, Dubuque and Rockford, Ill. It ended Braniff's authority to serve Fort Dodge Mason City, Dubuque and Rockford and authorized it to fly a route between Sioux City and Chicago via Rockford.

The CAA also removed Fort Dodge, Dubuque and Rockford as points on United's route in the state.

KOREAN EXEMPTION

The attorney general's office has ruled that the $500 annual property tax exemption for Korean war veterans, voted by the last legislature, will not become effective until taxes payable in 1957.

The legislature also passed a law for annual filing for property tax exemptions for veterans. The Iowa attorney general ruled that annual filing will not be required until prior to July 1, 1956, on taxes payable in 1957.

Because the new laws do not become effective until July 1, 1955, it puts back the effectiveness of both laws to apply on taxes payable in 1957.

Beterans presently have been required to file for their property exemptions only once, but the law was changed this year when it became apparent that exemptions on property, in many cases, are passing to the hands of ineligible persons through transfer or sale of property.

BOYS FAVOR LIMITS

A poll taken at the annual Hawkeye Boys State, where some 700 Iowa high school juniors participated in the American Legion sponsored event, indicated that 91 per cent of the youths favored night time speed limits in Iowa.

"Governor" Earl Nau of Mt Pleasant said that the youths also felt that the driver training program in high schools is helping reduce the number of fatalities on Iowa highways.

Gov Leo A Hoegh only recently asked all motorists in the state to voluntarily observe a 60 mile an hour speed limit for night driving. The governor said that tests have proven that a voluntary reduction of speed on the highways after sundown will reduce the death toll.

Misguided Missiles by Chon Day

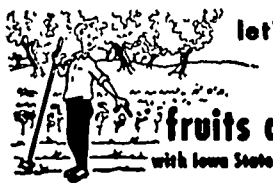
"No driver's license, eh?"



It's nearing the end of the harvest seasn for asparagus. Experiments over a period of years show that mid-June is about as late as harvesting should extend in central Iowa. It should stop a week sooner in southern Iowa and can be prolonged about a week in northern Iowa. Late cutting definitely reduces next year's yield.

Gardeners argue whether to remove asparagus tops after harvest.. The fact is that the plant needs those tops to make food for next season's crop. Wait until hard frost or freeze comes before you remove asparagus tops.

Anything you do now to increase top growth will help the next crop. After harvest give the asparagus bed a shallow cultivation—perhaps 2 inches deep, but not deep enough to damage crowns. Then apply a complete fertilizer such as 12-12-12 or 10-10-10 at a rate of 2 pounds per 100 square feet of area. With lower analysis fertilizer, increase the rate to about 3 pounds per 100 square feet. Work the fertilizer into the soil.

Some folks chop off the tops of iris, peonies and spring flowering bulbs early in he season. That's a mistake that means fewer and poorer quality blooms next year. Let tulip or daffodil foliage mature completely before you remove it: leave iris and peony foliage on until frost.

A light fertilizer application, if needed, give good insurance for next year's flowers.

After the late May rains the raspberry crop propects look still better. The plants will need at least ½ inch of water per week from now through the harvest season. If nature doesn't supply it, add it by irrigation.

You can get in some good licks now for next year's raspberries. When new shoots or suckers reach a height of 30 inches, pinch out the tips. This will cause heavy side branching on the canes and provide more fruiting wood for next year. Start now and "tip" new shoots every week until mid-July. Just "tip" a shoot once, don't do it to the side branches too.

Do you plan some summer pruning of spring flowering shrubs? You may be interested in this, then. Wait until blooming is finished before pruning mock orange. The sooner you prune spirea and lilac the better. It won't hurt to take out one or two of the oldest cane in the clump.

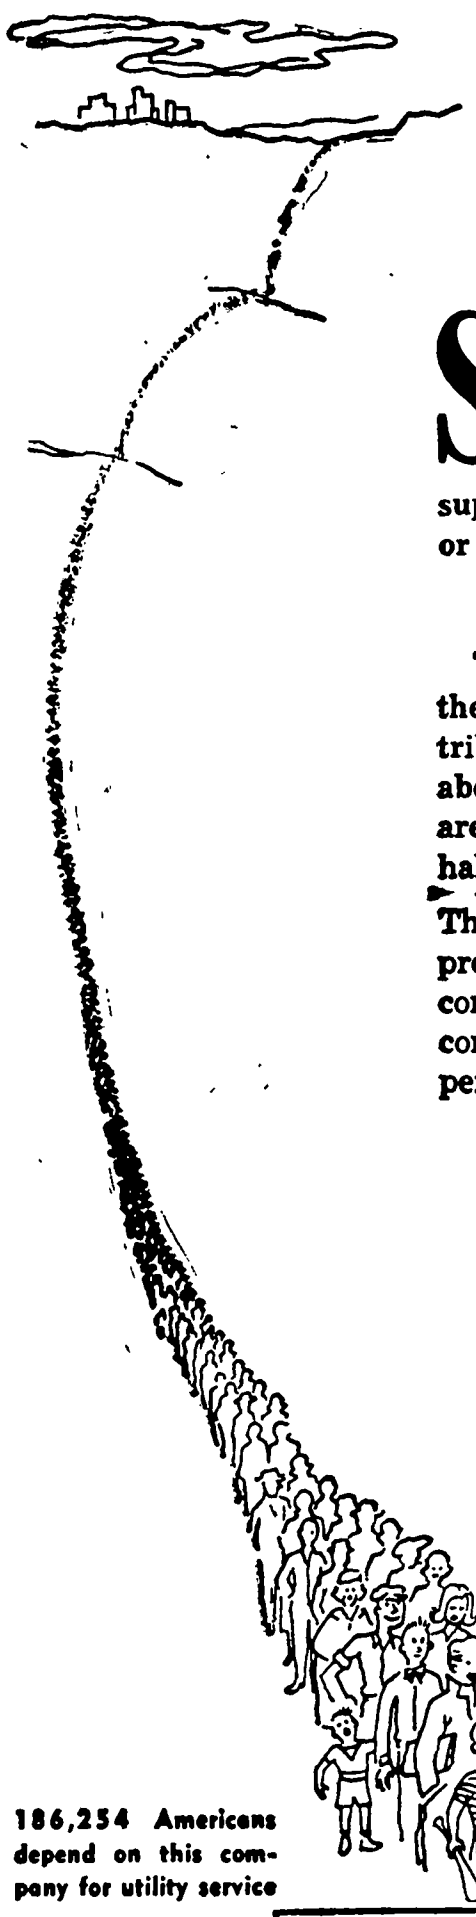
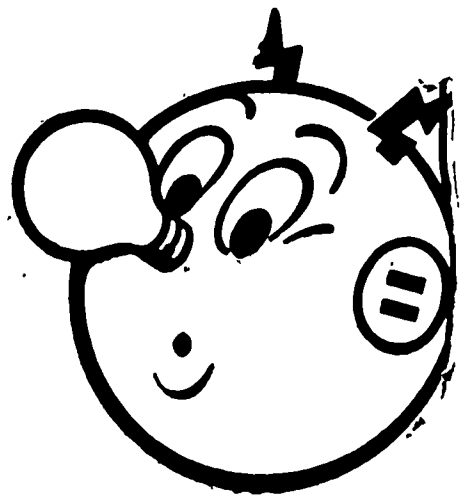
How Private



ARE THE "PRIVATE" UTILITIES?

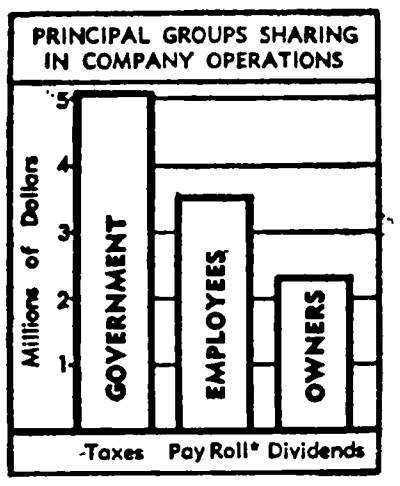


SOMETIMES the investor-owned utilities are referred to as "private" utilities, the inference being that they are owned by a few people. These few people are supposed to be either residents of Wall Street or very wealthy individuals.

THE FACTS are quite the opposite. The ownership of the Iowa Electric Light and Power Company is widely distributed. It has about 4,000 preferred stockholders and about 10,500 common stockholders. These 14,500 owners are scattered all over the United States with more than half of them residing in Iowa.

The average holdings of these owners is 66 shares for a preferred stockholder and 147 shares for a common stockholder. The largest individual common stockholder actually owns about 3 percent of the outstanding shares.

When it comes to dividing up the Company's income, the owners run a poor third, with the Government coming first, then the employees, and finally the owners. The ratio of this division as shown in the accompanying chart runs about 5-3-2. The Company has about 1,550 employees, so that it takes something over nine stockholders to provide the capital for each job.



*Does not include construction

This is, indeed, the American form of public ownership. There is one vital difference — stockholders of this Company bought their stock voluntarily and they can sell it any time they want to. The owners of public power projects, that is the taxpayers, have no choice in the matter and they can't sell out if they want the money for some other purpose. Which way of "owning" the utility companies do you think is best?

Homing Pidgeon

An apparently lost homing pigeon landed at the Jake Nannenga farm last Thursday morning. The bird was apparently quite tired out and was easily picked up. The Nannengas are taking care of it, but thought perhaps the owner might want to know where it is.

The bird was banded on both legs a metal band on one leg, carrying the legnd "Aug 53 RAM 370", and a rubber or plastic band on the other leg stating "841F".

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Harry hustled out of the house early on the first morning of the vacation and packed the suitcases in the trunk of the car with a precision that made him feel proud. When he finished, the lid and lock worked perfectly as he closed the trunk.

Later, with the whole family in the car, Harry's wife stowed a few last small items in the glove compartment. It was working well, also. Then Harry touched the starter, the things that happened under the hood happened without a hitch, and they were off.

As they moved down the highway things continued to work as they should. Harry turned on the radio and they had music—radio worked fine. As the day warmed, the kids rolled down the windows with no trouble at all—windows were in good working order.

Just before they stopped for lunch, Mrs Harry turned the rear vision mirror so she could get a look at her lipstick. The mirror swiveled in its ball joint as well as it ever had.

So it went through most of the afternoon. All parts of the car worked smoothly except, perhaps, the tie rods. They were coming loose.

But Harry, driving the car every day, had failed to notice that more and more play was coming into the steering wheel. He hadn't bothered to have his car checked for safety before the trip.

He was traveling 65 when he gave the steering wheel a slight turn that should have brought the car away from the edge of the highway slab. It didn't. He didn't have that kind of precision control. A wheel hit the shoulder.

No doubt, all the minor and convenient parts of the car worked perfectly until the very last moment.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

We will have to get a let up in slaughter cattle runs before we can get any sustained improvement in the cattle market, Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist believes.

Slaughter cattle prices were bid up last fall as a result of the light supplies of fed cattle. The result: Cattle prices were higher this winter than you could explain by comparing supply of beef, competing meats and consumer incomes with a year ago, says the Iowa State College farm economist.

This explains part of the spring drop in prices. The other part is the result of the recent increase in fed cattle on the market. Sales of fed steers rose the last month.

Chances are that the market break overdid itself, Kutish points out. This often is the case. Then when receipts let up, the market works back.

How soon this will come depends upon farmer's decisions of when to sell the increased number of cattle on feed as compared to a year ago. While the increase in cattle on feed probably is large enough to prevent a repetition of last year's unusual fall price rise, we still should get some seasonal rise. But until we have a better idea of the summer marketing pattern, Kutish is of the opinion that we can't tell whether it will come in July and August or be delayed into the fall.

Meanwhile, feeder cattle prices have strengthened. This has come despite the weaker fat cattle market. The reason: Many dry areas of the southwest have had rains. This has stiffened demand in the range areas and has reduced selling pressure. Current feeding margins are narrow.

Farm Chemicals Can Be Hazards

Safety Subcommittee Recommends Safeguards

Farmers and most folks who work with farm people recognize that agricultural chemicals are serving important needs on the farm—and also that they present a potential threat to safety.

A group of Iowa State College men—a subcommittee of the Iowa Farm Safety Council—is studying this problem. The men are looking for ways to help farm folks take maximum advantage of the chemicals and still safeguard themselves. Here are some suggestions they have recently developed for the user of chemicals in the farm:

CHECK LABELS

Check the label on pesticides. If it's getting hard to read, replace the label with a new one, securely fastened to the container.

Keep pesticides in sound containers. Transfer the chemicals from rusted containers to sound, labeled metal or glass ones.

Clear out odds and ends of pesticides. Use them, bury them, or put them on an authorized landfill city dump.

Read, understand and follow directions for use on all pesticide labels. If the label doesn't give directions and precautions, don't buy the product.

Don't leave spray equipment untended when filling with water. There's danger of backflow and well contamination.

DON'T SPILL

Avoid spilling pesticides or fertilizers. If large quantities are spilled, remove as much as possible and cover the area with 6 inches of black soil disked or spaded in. Bacterial action in the soil will break down the chemicals.

Burn empty fertilizer bags. Concentrated fertilizers can be poisonous, so don't discard bags where livestock can reach them.

Summer Is Here—

Check Your Canning Equipment Now

Here's a family that really has the right idea. Each of them helps with the canning—they really go for peach pickles.

* * *

As you gaze out the window these summer days, chances are your eyes stop to rest on the garden. How's it coming? It's fairly safe to bet that as you see your plants, you're thinking about the canning you expect to do. Canning is still fashionable, you know—it's not out of style, and lots of homemakers will tell you so.

Prepare Your Equipment

It's not too early to start getting your jars and equipment ready. That's your first job, and it's an important one too.

1 Check all jars. Discard those with defects that could prevent an air-tight seal. Always use new closures.

2 If you plan to use peanut-butter or salad-dressing jars for pickles and preserves, purchase new metal disks. Get those for the standard mason size opening of for a smaller opening known as size "63". You can use the original screw cap or a new metal ring to hold the metal disk in place during processing.

3 Wash caps, rubbers and jars thoroughly in hot, soapy water. Rinse in hot water and drain.

4 For low-acid vegetables such as peas, beans and corn, you must use a pressure canner. Be sure to have the cover, safety valve and pressure gauge checked and needed adjustments or repairs made.

5 The boiling water bath is the preferred method for fruits and begetables. Any kettle can be used if it has a tight-fitting lid, is large enough to hold a convenient number of jars high enough to allow 1 to 2 inches of water over tops of jars, and can be fitted with a rack. The rack is to hold jars up from the bottom so water may circulate underneath.

Food Preparation

Remember this—canning does not perform miracles. Your canned products won't be any better than the fresh ones, so choose firm, ripe fruit and tender, young vegetables. Gather the food just before it's time to can. Then wash it carefully.

To speed up processing, heat (precook) vegetables—then pack hot. Precooking shrinks the food so you can place more in each jar. However if you prefer to pack cold vegetables into the jars, you now have the sanction of the Human Nutrition Research Branch of the U S Department of Agriculture and other research workers. They say you can raw-pack carrots, blackeyed peas and snap beans—then process them at 10 pounds pressure. Time: snap beans pint jar, 20 minutes, quart jar, 25 minutes; carrots—pint, 25 minutes, quart, 30 minutes; blackeyed peas—pint, 35 minutes, quart, 40 minutes.

Ready to Can

Now you're ready to begin. Fill preheated jars quickly with hot food. Pack well—but don't crowd the food. Cover to about one half inch from jar top with fresh boiling water. Run a knife blade around the inside of the jar—this works out bubbles.

Your next step is the processing. Whatever you use—boiling waterbath, steam pressure canner with gauge or pressure saucepan; be sure to follow directions for that method. Look in any reliable cookbook or ask your county extension home economist for directions.

After processing, remove the jars. To cool, set right side up, 2 inches apart on a cloth, folded paper or rack. When the jar is cool, carefully tilt it to see if it leaks. Don't rest it on its side. Test a vacuum sealed jar by tapping the lid with a spoon. A clear, ringing sound indicates a seal. One last thing—wipe jars clean, label as to contents and date. Store in a dark, cool dry place.

Daily rehearsals keep these young Iowa musicians busy as they prepare for their first concert at the All State Band camp now in progress at the State University of Iowa.

Instructor John Colson (left), SUI graduate student, directs the rehearsal of band camp members (front row, left to right) Shirley Evans, Garner; and Elizabeth Field, Decorah; and (back row, left to right) Dick Turpin, Manson; Fred Arnold, Klemme and Allan Dean, Mason City.

A community horse shoe tournament is being planned for the courts on the Reformed Church lawn. Anyone in the community who is interested is invited to participate in the tournament. Those who desire to enter the competition are asked to contact either Martin Karsjens or Hubert Clayton by Tuesday, July 5th.

Plans call for games to be played Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, but if these nights are not possible for some contestants, they can play on a night which will be more convenient for them.

More details on the tournament can be obtained from either Mr Karsjens or Mr Clayton.

Archery Shoot

The archery shoot, which was to have been held on Sunday, July 3rd, has been postponed for a week because the Fourth of July holiday. It will be held at the Klemme course on the W F Griemann farm, 3 miles south and a mile and a half west of Klemme on Sunday, July 10th.

Dad and Lad Weekend Enjoyed at Clear Lake

By Allen Barz

The Klemme Cub Scouts and their dads had a big time at the annual dad and lad weekend held at Camp Roosevelt on the 25th and 26th of June. The pack checked in at the camp at 2 P. M. armed with tooth brush, blankets, soap and swim suits (and I noticed a couple of dads who had mosquito lotion along).

We all went for a swim and then came back to our camp up at Breezy Point where we got our tents and beds ready for the night. We then had supper at the mess hall and in the evening attended the huge camp fire held on the hill. About 150 lads and dads gathered around the fire and stunts were given by the Klemme, Mason City and Garner packs.

We then hiked back to camp to "bed down" for the night—trouble was that nobody was tired (outside of the dads of course). The next morning the boys were up much too early to suit the dads but soon another day got under way. After breakfast, all attended church at the camp, went for another swim, speed boat ride and finally home. It was a wonderful time, to put it mildly, and we are looking forward to next year's camp already.

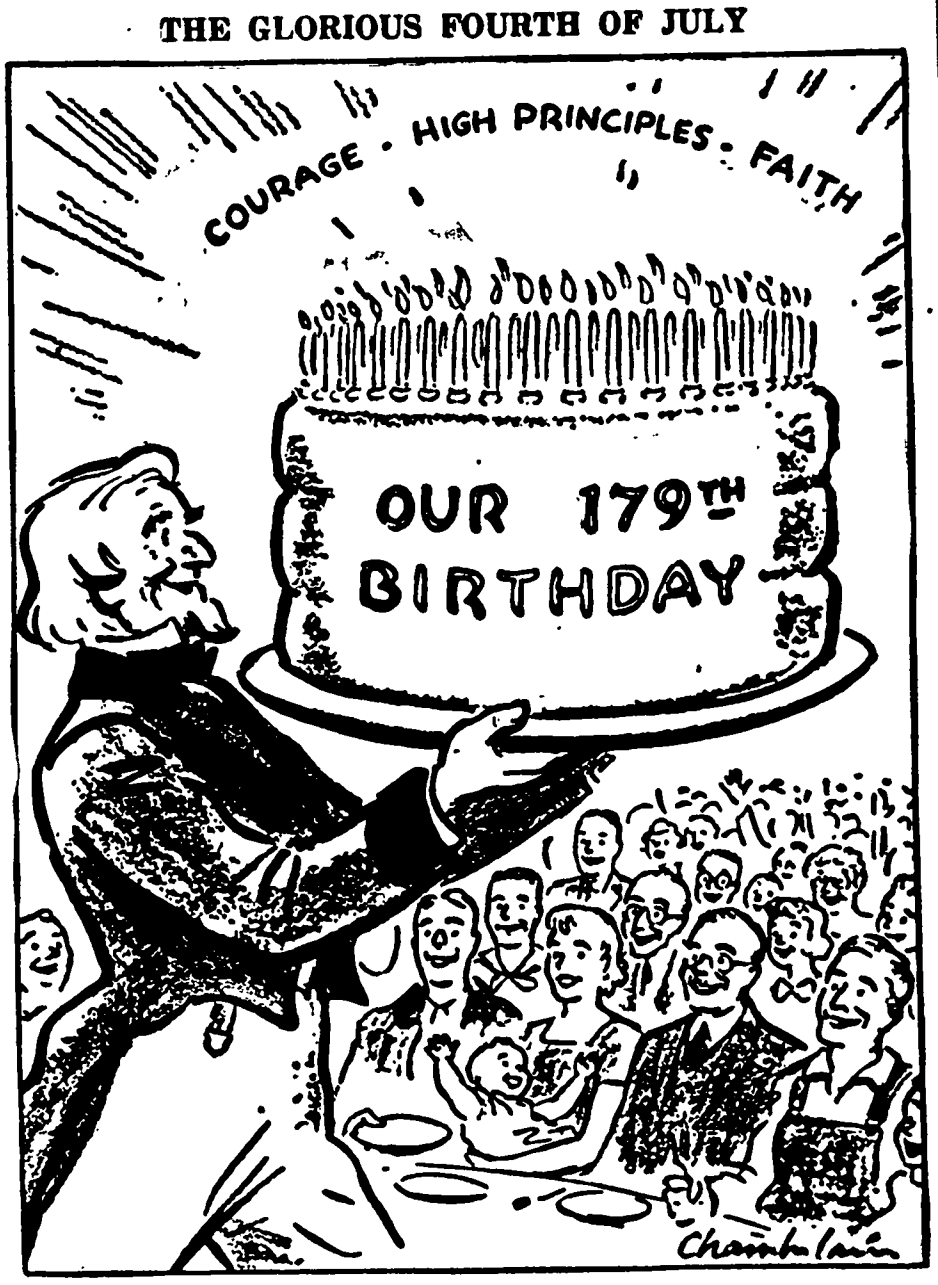
Darlene Roul Bride of Kanawha Young Man

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH OF JULY



Couple Now Making Home In Klemme

Miss Darlene Roul, daughter of Mr and Mrs Joe Roul of Kanawha, became the bride of Dwayne R. Hansen, son of Mr and Mrs Robert Hansen of Kanawha on Sunday June 12th at 7:30 p. m. in the Kanawha Methodist Church. The Rev. Donald Samuelson performed the double ring candle light ceremony. Baskets of red and white peonies decorated the church.

Eugene Smith, who was organist, played nuptial music and accompanied Miss Donna Kargas, cousin of the bride, who sang "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer"

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a waltz length gown of chantilly lace and net over satin. It had a matching lace jacket which had long sleeves tapering to a point over her wrist. Her finger tip veil of nylon tulle fell from a hat of net trimmed with seed pearls and tiny net flowers. She wore a three strand pearl choker with matching earrings and carried a bouquet of white carnations with a lavender orchid in the center which was a gift from the groom.

Mrs Martin Bachman, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a white waltz length formal, with a floral headband. New Tax Schedule Effective July 1st

New sales tax laws enacted by the Iowa legislature this winter take effect on July 1st. Changes in the law include 2½ percent sales tax instead of 2 percent, and the tax will now be charged on beer, cigarettes, and bowling. Previously, the three new taxable items were exempt from the sales tax.

The new schedule to be followed is collecting the 2½ percent tax is as folows:

0c to 12c	No tax
13c to 49c	1c tax
50c to 99c	2c tax
$1.00 to $1.39	3c tax

One cent for each 40c thereafter.

Last year's milk production per cow in the United States broke all previous records.

Winner

Saturday night's winner of the $25 drawing in Klemme was Mrs Clifford Montgomery. Her's was the first name called and she was there to claim the money. Registration goes on every day in any of the Klemme business places, so be sure you register so that you will be eligible to win.

Mrs Montgomery said that she forgot all about registering until 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon when she was buying groceries, so she registered only once and was "flabbergasted" when her name was called.

Reformed Church Bible School Closed Friday With Picnic

The annual Vacational Bible School at the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church closed Friday after being in session for five weeks.

All the classes in the school participated in a program which began at 10 o'clock in the morning and included prayers, memory work, musical selections, and several numbers by the junior choir, under the direction of Mrs Ernest Gerardi.

Following the program a picnic dinner was held on the church lawn with some 400 in attendance. After the dinner all sorts of athletic contests were engaged in, including races for the children in the various age groups. The races were directed by John Eenhuis, Ervin Nuehring, Leonard Kaduce and Raymond Wille.

A tug of war was held between the married men and the single men, with the single men having the most oomph and winning. The married men got even in a softball game which followed, when they got behind the pitching of Rev Jaberg and won.

Besides the aformentioned events, the horseshoe courts and the volley ball court were busy all afternoon.

A fish pond for the kiddies ran all afternoon as did the refreshment stand, serving ice cream and pop.

The picture above shows all the students and instructors who took part in the school this year.

When the Declaration of Independence was signed in 1776, the signers had more in mind than fire crackers and cap pistols. In fact, these items did not even enter into the thought of any of these far-sighted men. What they were trying to gain was the right to have a voice in the way their country was run, and freedom from the rule imposed on them by Britain. They were willing to fight for this freedom if necessary, preferring to be their own men rather than bow to the whims of a government who had only its good in mind.

Their plans and their actions proved good, and the nation that was born of the Declaration of Independence has grown to be the symbol of freedom for other peoples throughout the world. We are proud to be a part of this nation, and proud of the part that it is taking in trying to gain freedom for all.

By taking an active part in the United Nations organization, our country is helping many other nations to make strides toward a Declaration of Independence for the whole world . . . for that, we believe, is the ultimate goal of the UN. Free people in free countries, living in harmony with their neighbors. By example, we have shown that freedom is workable, and now we are trying to gain for others a chance to live the same kind of life. We hope that the plans of those who set up the charter for the UN will work out as well as did those of the men who signed the Declaration of Independence.

Democracy means not "I am as good as you are" but "You are as good as I am."—Theodore Parker.

The long Fourth of July weekend is just ahead. It's a three-day affair and will bring out a huge volume of traffic. Included will be some numbskulls, some chance-takers, some speeders, and a lot of good drivers. Make sure you are in the latter class. Then in addition to driving your own car well, keep your eyes peeled for the unexpected from the other classes of drivers. That way, you'll improve your chances of being back to work Tuesday.

According to a release from the State Safety Department, expectations are for ten fatalities on the highways in Iowa over the weekend, not to mention the 300 that they expect to be injured . . . unless courtesy and reasonable speeds are practiced. The department expects that most fatal accidents will be caused by drivers who are trying to cover too much distance in too short a time and driving at speeds too fast for conditions.

Following are five suggestions put out by the Safety Department to help you to have a safe holiday trip.

1. Don't try to cover too many miles in a short time.
2. Get an early start and pause occasionally for a rest while on the trip.
3. Don't speed or become impatient.
4. Don't drink before or during driving period.
5. Make courtesy your code of the road.

Mix all the above suggestions be alert to the other driver, and with some good common sense, you'll stand a much better chance of getting through the weekend without an accident.

We like to put your name in The Times but not because you have been involved in a bad accident. It's no fun printing obituaries.

"If you're troubled by a noise in your car, let her drive!"—Mike Connolly.

Better keep a light foot on the accelerator and observe all speed limits as posted. There are now 989 licensed radar speed-detection units in use in the country in addition to an unknown number of other speed-detection devices which do not require a federal license. Speed limits are usually posted for a good reason and the few seconds you save by going five or ten mile an hour over the limit are not worth the $5 or $10 fine you'll have to pay if caught . . . or worse yet, the life that might be forfeit because you were in a little too much of a hurry.

The local Lions Club is progressing with the project in the park. Saturday morning a group of the club's members put up the framework for the backstops on the tennis court, poles for the baskets, and light poles. Monday, the pipe which was used for the framework and poles, was all given a coat of aluminum paint. When the wire arrives for the backstops, the project can be finished and the cement slab can be put to the uses for which it was intended.

We thought maybe we would be short handed this week. Mrs Clifford Montgomery, who operates the linotype for us, won the $25 at the drawing Saturday night, so we thought maybe she would be out celebrating. However, she was on hand as usual Monday morning. Said she had been given plenty of advice on how and where to spend the money. Thought maybe she'd treat us to coffee, but no luck yet. Guess she's got her own ideas on what to do with the money.

The alumni banquet at the All Vets Social Center at Clear Lake Friday night, afforded an opportunity for a lot of people who hadn't seen each other for a number of years to cacth up on a lot of visiting. Although some left for home as soon as the banquet activities were over, many stayed and visited for some time while others stayed and had an enjoyable evening of dancing.

"A speaker should remember that the mind can absorb only what the seat can endure"—Irene Reuter.

Woke up this morning to sound of thunder and rain on the roof. Nicest sounds we have heard for some time. First rain we have had in a month and it was most welcome. Although crops were seemingly unhurt by the long dry spell we have undergone, still it was getting time for them to have some moisture. Lawns, too, needed the rain, as they were turning brown and ugly. Best part of the deal is that the weather man says showers through Friday at least.

Crops look very good in this section of the country despite the lack of rain. Oats are well headed and turning, corn is way over knee high, and soy beans look very good. Recently mowed hay ground showed the need of rain more than any other farm land, but today's rain should soon have it nice and green and growing again.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

NEW COMMISSIONERS

A wholesale change in the Iowa highway commission will take place July 1 when four new commissioners named by Governor Hoegh will meet to organize.

Of significance is the fact that only one of four men now going onto the commission has had legislative experience, while the three outgoing members all had service in the Iowa senate. None of the newcomers has had senate experience. Legislative service is not a prerequisite for such service, of course

Robert Keir of Spencer, Sanford Zeigler of Fairfield and John Hattery of Nevada, the three Republican outgoing members, all served in the Iowa senate before accepting appointments to the highway commission. Mel Graham, Democrat holdover on the commission, served in the Iowa house. Frank Kerrigan, a Democrat, who died before his term ended, had no legislative background.

Emery Loomis of Waterloo, a Democrat, has already begun service on the commission, serving out the Kerrigan term. Others who start service next month include Robert Beck of Centerville, Chris Larsen Sioux City, and Russell Lundy of Des Moines.

Beck served one term in the Iowa house of representatives, in the 1953 session.

NEW TAX

The Iowa tax commission reports that the only major new tax voted by the 1955 legislature will result in an additional $3 and one half million for the state general fund. The revenue, the commission estimates, will come from the two and a half cent sales tax imposed for the first time on beer and cigarettes. The tax becomes effective July 1.

Beer and cigarettes will be subject to the same sales bracket used by other retailers, which will impose no tax on a 10 cent glass of beer and a one cent tax on a 15 cent glass, or a 12 ounce bottle, which customarily sells for 25 cents.

NO PROPERTY TAX

The Iowa tax study committee has been advised by Governor Hoegh that he opposes property taxes as a source of state revenue.

The governor appeared before the committee to advise that property taxation is one source of revenue for local government that the state "should stay away from".

Hoegh advised the committee that it is his opinion that "all tax should be based on ability to pay". He said:

"I feel that no one will object to paying taxes if he gets the best service at minimum cost and knows that everyone else is paying his fair share."

IN NEW JOB

Frank L. Engel of Davenport has been sworn in as a new member of the Iowa employment security commission by Gov. Leo Hoegh. Engel, a Democrat, succeeds David Jenkins also a Davenport Democrat.

Engel, who was named by Hoegh and confirmed by the state senate, will begin a six year term on the commission July 1.

ELTHON AND POLITICS

Lt. Gov. Leo Elthon's deep concern over sales of gravel from an Elthon owned pit near Fertile to contractor doing work for the Iowa highway commission has now been dissipated with an attorney general's opinion.

On the final day of the 1955 session, Elthon told newsmen of his concern over charges brought out during the session by a Des Moines lumberman. The charges said Elthon had acted improperly and unlawfully as a state official when he sold gravel to a firm which had contracts for highway commission projects.

Elthon said he wanted to clear himself. He said if the act was determined to be wrong he'd either sell his gravel pit or "get out of politics."

The attorney general's office ruled that a state or local official may sell materials to highway contractors provided there is not collusion or "prior understandings" on contracts being let by the commission.

JOB FOR BUCKLES?

Rumors at the statehouse have it that Ira Buckles, administrative assistant to several attorney generals, and who quit the staff of Atty Gen Dayton Countryman some weeks ago, will be named to an administrative post in the department of public safety.

INS reports that Buckles will get a job as assistant commissioner, an administrative post.

Buckles had been nominated for the liquor commission by Gov Hoegh but the senate voted overwhelmingly against confirmation. The appointment was withdrawn by the governor, at the suggestion of Buckles, he said.

REAPPOINTS TANDY

Gov Leo Hoegh has reappointed Fred C. Tandy as Iowa adjutant general. Tandy, a major general in the air national guard, will begin his second four year term as Iowa adjutant general on July 1. His salary will be $7,500 a year beginning July 1.

ENGINEERING EXAMINERS

New appointee to the Iowa board of engineering examiners, named by Governor Hoegh, is John J. Wiersma of Grundy Center, county engineer. He succeeds A. H. Cunningham of Storm Lake.

Reappointed to the board, for another four-year term, are L. O. Stewart of Ames and C. P. Lewellen of Cedar Rapids.

IOWANS ELECTED

John Rehmann of Des Moines was elected a regional vice president of the Young Republicans national organization at the YR's recent national parley in Detroit. The convention also named Clarold Rogers, Davenport attorney, as chief counsel for the national organization.

SAYS DEMOS CAN WIN

Harold W. Davey, professor of economics at Iowa State College, told an Eastern Iowa Democratic meeting at Cedar Rapids the other day that Democrats can win in Iowa's 1956 election with an all out effort on three fronts.

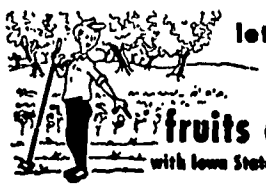
He said they can come out on top (1) through more effective local organization to register and get out the Democratic vote, (2) by securing the best possible candidates who want to win and have something constructive to offer, and who have the "guts" to come out squarely for an affirmative program, and (3) with a hard hitting, specific platform and a program that will offer the Iowa voter a clear cut alternative to the Republican program of "make shift improvisation and straddling".

He was quoting as saying that the "Democrats have a golden opportunity in Iowa because of the complete poverty of ideas in the Republican party."

GIRLS GOVERNOR

May Ann Klaaren, 16, Sioux Center, presided over the 1955 American Legion girl's state activities as "governor". She defeated Johnette Crow of Sioux City in the camp elections for the chief executive post.

Jean Seberg of Marshalltown served as lieutenant governor



This is "In Between" season for hybrid tea and floribunda roses, but they need continued care now to get another good bloom later. They need plenty of water—at least an inch per week. If nature doesn't supply that much, apply some irrigation. If the roses haven't been fertilized within the last 6 weeks, add some now. A heaping tablespoonful of an analysis such as 6-10-4 or 5-10-5 around each plant should be enough. Keep the fertilizer back 5 or 6 inches from the main stem. A word of warning on fertilizers on roses: Don't fertilize too late in the season. It might cause too much tender growth that would be injured by low winter temperatures.

Mulching helps produce better roses. A mulch of ground corncobs is used in the All American Selections Test Garden at Iowa State College. It is the performance of varieties in this garden and many others around the country that qualify rose varieties as the All American Selections.

You can get full information on mulching—and on other key rose management practices from "A Guide For Rose Growers" published this spring by Iowa State College. The handbook on rose care costs 25 cents per copy. It is available in many county extension offices or from the Publications Distribution Room, Iowa State College, Ames.

Lawn grass isn't growing as fast as it was a few weeks ago. But it still needs care and attention. It's a good idea now to raise the mower cutter a little so you don't cut it quite as short as earlier in the season. You can get scattered weeds in the lawn now by spot treatment. E P Sylwester, extension weed control specialist at Iowa State recommends treating with 2-4-D. That will be much more effective than a summer application.

If you water your lawn now, do a thorough job of it. Shallow watering does little good for the lawn grasses, but does encourage crabgrass. A good soaking once a week is much better than two or three light sprinklings.

Are you planning to watch the "Sew Easy" series of making a dress on TV? This series started over KGLO-TV on Ruth Anderson's programm June 17th. She will show two lessons on Tuesday and Friday afternoons until the series has been completed. This will be a good program for 4-H girls to watch even though they are not having clothing as a project this year. It is especially good for adults who are just learning to sew and there are many new ideas for even the advanced seamstress to pick up. The first showing will be on measuring yourself and selecting a pattern. Many new ideas which are not used universally are given in these first two lessons. Bulletin for each lesson may be sent for by writing your request to the County Extension Office, Garner, Iowa.

Fifteen 4-H girls, two 4-H leaders and one county committee member will be at Iowa State College with me this week attending 4-H Girl's Convention.

Congratulations go this week to Elaine Jurgemeyer of Ell and Richard Rogeness of Crystal for being camp reporters for the camp newspaper.

To Adopt Budgets

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors will meet on July 6th to adopt a budget for 1956. A hearing date on the budget will be fixed at that time. County Auditor Hattie Jass has mailed budget forms to oll taxing subdivisions and the various groups will meet in the near future to adopt their respective budgets. All budgets have to be published and filed with the county auditor on or before August 15th to enable the County Auditor to compute the levies for each taxing subdivision and levy the taxes for the year 1955 to be collected in 1956.

LION

Residents of the Hawarden area think it was the big Great Dane, who has been "AWOL" from his home for a week or two, which has caused the stories of a "mountain lion" to be circulated in that area. The dog is nearly 36 inches high at the shoulders and belongs to Mr and Mrs Ragner Johnson, who think the animal was stolen from their home and finally escaped and made his way back.

18th Annual Lau Reunion At Mason City Sunday

The 18th annual Lau reunion was held Sunday, June 26, 1955, in East Park at Mason City, Iowa, with a picnic dinner and short program. There were 97 present. The program opened with our Lau reunion song which is as follows:

Hello dear relatives we're glad,
To see you here today
And know that many of you
Have come a long, long way.
Chorus
And every year at this same time,
We'll meet to say hello
And as the years go rolling by
We'll hate to see them go.
2nd verse
We are all descendants
Of Christian and Dorthea Lau
We come from many different states
But we'll get together now.
3rd verse
Let's gather round and have a
Grand time this entire day.
For soon we'll have to leave again,
And all be on our way.
(To the tune of Auld Lang Syne)

This song was composed by Delores Ridder at the beginning of our Lau reunions.

Our reunion are held in memory of Christian Lau, Civil War veteran, and his wife, Dora.

The Laus came from Germany to eastern Iowa in 1892 and moved to Klemme and built a home when Klemme was only a few years old. Their children, August, Henry, Will, Chris, Mrs (Dora) Will Greiman and Mrs (Louisa) Will Hoff at Britt were all pioneers, all living on farms in this new community.

Later the Chris Lau family moved back to eastern Iowa where most of their descendants live They now number 83.

The Martin Lau family moved to Minnesota and their family now number 85.

The August Lau, Henry Lau, Will Lau, and Will Greiman families mostly live in Klemme and surrounding towns. August Lau family number 69, the Henry Lau family 91, Will Laus 82, Lena Reusch 49, and Louisa Hoff 11. The Dora or Will Greiman family are largest, numbering 148. The descendants of these 7 Lau families now total 610 and are scattered in all parts of the United States.

Only the 2 youngest members of the original family are living, Mrs Martin Lau of Minnesota, and Lena Reusch, who is 89 years old and lives in South Haven, Michigan Both were unable to attend. The name Lau should not die out as there are now 75 men and boys by that name.

Eight marriages were reported in the past year and 24 new babies; also 2 deaths.

The afternoon was spent visiting and signing our name to cards to our boy in service and to our sick folks.

A letter from Mrs Lena Reusch was read, in which she wrote "I hope you keep up the Lau reunions as long as their is a Lau".

Ice cream and cake was served with the picnic dinner and again in late afternoon after the business meeting. The same officers carried over, Aug. Lau of Garner as chairman and Martha Bredbenner, secretary and treasurer.

Our next year's reunion will be on June 25th somewhere in Minnesota, the exact place to be chosen by the Minnesota Laus.

Those present from Klemme and vicinity were Malinda Schudt Minnie Lau, Martha Bredbenner, George and Leona Lau, Lillie and Kermit Koerner, Mr and Mrs Elmer Arnold, and Wilbur, Lloyd Lau, Mr and Mrs Roy Arnold, Bill, Arlys and Don, Mr and Mrs Gerald Koerner and Kathleen; Valeria Bridges, Galon, Vicki, Royce, and Nyla; Nova Stokesbary, Janice, Jerry and Julie; Daisy Lemke, Mr and Mrs Albert Etchen; Mr and Mrs Albert Schmidt, Mr and Mrs Luther Schmidt, Mr and Mrs Emil Lau; Mr and Mrs Paul Lau Graydon, Janelle and Marian; Mr and Mrs Aug. G Lau and Will Lau of Garner; Mr and Mrs Carl Swanson of Britt; Dora Schubert, Lena Tibbets and son Douglas; Mr and Mr George Hoff and Penny of Maon City; and Mr and Mrs Wilbert Schubert and children of Rockford, Iowa

Twenty-three members of the Chris Lau and Will Lau families of eastern Iowa were present and seventeen members of the Martin Lau family of Minnesota.

Ruth Circle Met

Ruth Circle of the WSCS of the Klemme Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs George Schoenwetter. Mrs Dale Shelton is chairman, Mrs Dale Brede, vice chairman, and Mrs Lester Neuberger, secretary and treasurer for the coming year.

Lunch was served by Mrs Schoenwetter, Mrs Shelton and Mrs Henry Busse.

The July meeting will be a picnic in the Klemme Park.

FIRES

Three Carp Get the Point

At least one Iowa archer seems to be a one-man rough fish removal crew, giving old Robin Hood a run for his money.

DeLoss Mott, well-known Hampton sportsman, tells of bow-hunting carp this spring in Beed's Lake near that city. He drew down on a lazily swimming carp and at the twang of his bowstring the water was whipped into a froth.

Mott states that when he reeled in his line and arrow 3 carp were skewered on the shaft; spawning fish that had evidently been swimming together in the murky water. Although Mott may be accused of "stretching the long bow" as well as shooting one, he has witnesses to the feat men, low water levels this

According to most bowfisher-spring provided only a sporadic carp spawning, and bowfishing for the rough fish was generally not as good as in previous years.

FOUND

Back in 1919, Henry Weideman of Martelle, Iowa lost his gold pocket watch while working on the Orville Ruggeberg farm near Pleasant Valley. Recently Mr Ruggeberg found the long lost watch as he planted corn. After 36 years, the case is still in fair condition.

MIXUP

When Louis Knop of Malvern finished his business in Glenwood recently, he couldn't find his blue Chevrolet on the streets there and notified police. Later, he remembered he'd driven his wife's green Ford. It was still parked where he had left it.

Level-of-living indexes of farm failies in 1954 were 34 per cent above the level of the 1945 index, reports the USDA Agricultural Marketing Service.

PLANTING

Times have changed since John Damitz, of near Mamoni dropped his first kernel of corn into a hill. That was 70 years ago and Mr Damitz has participated in every spring corn planting since that time.

TRAMPLED

Twelve year old Elona Jones was badly mauled and trampled by a steer, at Paullina recently. The child had wandered into an alley-way at the sales pavilion and was trampled before she could reach the fence.

Under an agreement with the Chinese Red Cross, the American Red Cross on May 30th, made its first shipment of food and comfort parcels to the 44 American civilians and airmen held in Communist China.

A mulch around your tomatoes will be helpful if the weather is dry, says Iowa State College horticulturists. Old hay or straw put on 4 or 5 inches deep works well.

The American Red Cross estimates it will spend $1,000,000 on emergency aid and long-term rehabilitation assistance to the hundreds of families affected by the tornadoes which struck Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Texas in late May.

As of January of this year, 215,000 South Vietnam refugees received Red Cross parcels of food, clothing, and other necessities.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Let's imagine some Iowans gifted with foresight and realistic tempers discussing what they will be doing during the July Fourth week end.

There's John just looking up from his mid-morning coffee in the cafe on the square. "Oh, we will be driving up north, I guess. Leave here late in the afternoon and try to make it before midnight. Of course, we won't make it. Along about 10 o'clock I'm going to see a curve a little too late, and I'll be driving too fast to make it. Guess I'll be killed".

Off in another part of the state we find George signing the last few letters on his desk. "Fourth of July? No, I'm staying off the highways all week end. Well, except for our usual Sunday afternoon ride. I guess that's when I'll ease through the stop sign and get hit by one of those guys in a hurry. I guess the wife and I won't come out of it too good."

In another town Dorothy is preparing supper. "We're going to Jim's folks. The kids always have such a good time on the farm and we don't have to worry about them. Except Sandy. She will run out on the gravel road when no one is watching and be hit by some youngsters driving too fast to stop."

And we catch Tom just as he is settling down with the evening paper. "We're driving to Center City, and I'm going to set a record getting there. My best time so far is two hours and twenty minutes, but this new car of mine eats up the miles."

"Well, what I mean is, I'm just about going to set a record except for that guy that will be coming over the hill just as I pull out to pass."

You won't hear plans like these being made for this week end. After all, the people who are going to be killed are a bunch of "other guys." it can't happen to you—can it?

New Egg Law May Mean Cash for Farmers

The new Iowa egg grading, effective July 1, could mean thousands of dollars more income for Hancock County egg producers, in the long run, according to Ext. Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

Henderson says this law is of great interest to co-operators here in the Iowa Demonstration Flock project, as well as to all other egg producers. This law provides the essential motive for egg producers to improve the eggs shipped out of this county. These shipments amount to more than 90 per cent of the county's egg production Under the new law differentials will be paid to producers whose eggs grade well, as compared to eggs which have not had proper care.

Henderson says the future of the egg business in this county depends now on two conditions.

1 A thorough understanding of the law by egg buyers and producers.

2 Willingness to meet the the law's requirements in a spirit of cooperation and sincerity.

Iowa, Henderson points out, is one of the last of the leading egg-producing states to take these steps to provide an inspection service which guards consumer egg markets from inedible or improperly labled eggs. Hancock poultrymen, he says, by cooperating promptly and understanding, now have an opportunity to lead the way to greater demand and better prices for Iowa eggs on the big consumer markets.

Egg marketing in this county, Henderson says has often failed to show a relationship between the price of eggs and the quality. He says he has heard many complaints about the quality of eggs available at many food stores. He says some of this trouble may start on the farm. He reports, however, that wherever the trouble lies, it can be quickly remedied The new law, with its assurance of better pay for better eggs provides the incentive for farmers to apply the needed remedies.

Henderson points out that some Hancock County producers don't recognize the importance of gathering eggs three times daily in warm weather and storing them immediately where the temperature is below 68 degrees. However, there is good evidence that there is still further loss of quality while the eggs are enroute to the consumer. It is just as important that the commercial egg buyer store the eggs properly as that the farmer bring them to the buyer in good condition—marketing them at least twice a week.

Housing and equipment for egg production flocks are almost as important as daily care, Extension Director Henderson says. The housing and equipment often determine what percent of the eggs will be clean when they are gathered.

Among the improvements which cooperators have found helpful in maintaining high quality are: installing roll away nests in the laying house, tacking strips of denim over the nest entrance to within 2 inches of the bottom of the entrance hole in order to darken the nests and reduce crowding in the nests, and adding more litter to the nest at frequent intervals. These practices all reduce breaking and soiling of the eggs.

Cooperators find it is much more satisfactory to keep the hens indoors all the time. They are better fed and more content. Eggs produced by a confined flock require less care after gathering and they grade higher than eggs laid by hens running in the farmyard Turning hens out of doors in the summer leads to many faults in egg quality and reduces profits.

It Always Rains In Time for Iowa Corn

The remark that "in Iowa it always rains in time to save the corn crop" got some scientific support recently at a seven-state conference of the American Geophysical union.

Speaking on "Variations in Iowa Rainfall" at the AGU's regional meeting at the State University of Iowa, C E Lamoreaux U S weather bureau meterologist in Des Moines, noted that annual reports show a generally "dependable regularity" in the travel of warm, moist air to meet cooler air masses in Iowa in such a manner as to bring rain to the fields.

Though the underlying causes of precipitation over a small area are complex and are often remote as to time and space," he noted that annual records since 1873 show that only once has the average state rainfall fallen below 20 inches. And about 70 percent of Iowa's normal annual rainfall of 31.37 inches occurs during the April-September growing season, he said

The average state rainfall has exceeded 40 inches only four times—in 1881, 1902, 1909 and 1951—Lamoreaux added, noting that annual totals at local stations have ranged from 22.1 inches in 1910 to 58.8 inches in 1902.

In recent years, he continued, meterologists have found two ways of understanding more of the variations in the precipitation pattern. "We have much better upper-air data and we have adapted radar equipment for the detection and tracing of precipitation areas," he said.

Noting that 16 inches of rain were estimated to have fallen in Burlington in 1898 in one day, Lamoureaux said that theoretically as much as 24 inches might fall within six hours over a 10 square-mile area in Iowa. And a 1955 weather bureau study indicates that as much as 12 inches might fall in this time over a 200 square mile area in Iowa, he reported.

DIES

Three weeks after his small plane crashed just after taking off from a farm field near Northwood, Joseph Wright of Des Moines passed away in the hospital at Mason City. His passenger, William Nuzum, is recovering.

Make Use of Dry Skimmilk

Precooked potatoes, eggs and white sauce combine to make this creamy scallop. You can use skimmilk in the white sauce. This potato scallop features milk and cheese. Both all lots of protein to make this an excellent main dish for hearty appetites.

* * *

June has been designated as "dairy month". What does that mean to you? —simply that milk is plentiful, so use and serve it often. This doesn't necessarily mean you must "up" your daily milk order—just make space on your cupboard shelf for an efficient alternate—dry skimmilk Jewel Graham, Iowa State College extension nutritionist, says there are many ways in which you can use dry skimmilk. It adds much-needed food value to your menus—inexpensively and with very little effort on your part.

Skimmilk's Gained Popularity

Until several years ago, we hadn't paid much attention to skimmilk's value. It was supplied throughout World War II to people in the armed forces—good for that purpose, because of nutritional and economic values. After the war, this food came onto the market in packaged form for home use, and since then has risen high on many homemakers' popularity lists. Now we have a new "instant" milk that dissolves easily and quickly.

In its dry form skimmilk is easy to store. It's lightweight and you can easily mix it with dry ingredients or blend it with water to make a liquid form. Nutrition-wise, it equals fresh skimmilk—lots of protein, calcium and the B vitamins (riboflavin, thiamin and niacin). Because it's a powder, you can enrich foods with it which ordinarily wouldn't contain any milk.

Use skimmilk as a daily part of your cooking. Miss Graham suggests that you mix it with dry ingredients for cakes, cookies, quick and yeast breads, casserole and cornstarch puddings. Convert it into liquid form for custards, cocoa and other beverages, and for use on cereals and in frozen desserts.

Here is a table that tells you the substitution rates of dried skimmilk for liquid skimmilk:

1 quart milk --	1 cup powder 4 cups water
2 cups milk ----	½ cup powder 2 cups water
1 cup milk ----	¼ cup powder 1 cup water
¾ cup milk ----	3 T powder, ¾ cup water
½ cup milk ----	2 T powder, ½ cup water
¼ milk -------	1 T powder, ¼ cup water

When you add powder to a recipe, measure the needed amount lightly, then level it off with a spatula or straight-edged knife. Blend with other ingredients. Add the required amount of water at the point where liquid is called for in preparing the recipe.

Orange Hard Sauce

Use plentiful foods and dried skimmilk in tasty orange hard sauce. You'll need 3 T butter, 3 T frozen orange concentrate, Add dry ingredients and beat until fluffy. Serve on warm gingerbread, plum pudding or fruit cobbler. Use it for cake icing or as a spread between graham crackers for snacks. You'll find many more uses.

Store your dry milk in a tightly sealed, sterile container. Be sure it's a dry place on your cupboard shelf because if exposed to air, it tends to pick up moisture and may become lumpy and difficult to use.

You can substitute the dry milk and water combination for whole milk in a recipe, too. If you wish, add a little butter or margarine to the recipe—about 2½ T for each quart of milk, or 2 t for each cup.

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

The business upswing of the last 8 months has wiped out the 1953-54 recession. Most indicators of trade and industrial activity stand at or near all-time highs. The economy seems headed for its biggest year on record, according to Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

May's retail sales were 8 percent ahead of a year ago. Industrial production stood in the threshold of an all-time high. Misgivings about the second half of 1955 have diminished.

The recent recession grew out of the adjustment of the economy from the high defense spending of the Korean War to a more civilian economy says Kutish. Defense spending by the federal government dropped 14 billion dollars There also was some cutback in industry in the amount spent for new factories and equipment from the wartime peak. And business firms strived to get their inventories in better shape.

Fortunately, tax rates were cut—so personal spending held up even though incomes dropped in the face of the lower industrial production. And more new houses went up all over the country. Then last fall, the automobile industry got off to a big boom.

The drop in defense spending ground to a halt while state and local governments stepped up their spending.

The net result. business turned around last fall—and headed up.

Not all parts of the economy have share in the advance, however, Kutish pointed out. Farm incomes for example, were down 3 percent for the first 5 months—while total personal incomes were up 3 percent. The big trouble with agriculture is that old bugaboo a little too much production.

A 1 percent increase in farm production drops prices by more than 1 percent. Thus, with farm supplies up from a year ago, farm incomes are off—despite the higher total national income. But they would be off even more, had we not seen business at a record high, Kutish concludes.

North Iowa Farm Field Day To Be At Kanawha July 7

The 25th anniversary field day of the North Iowa Experimental Association will be held at the experimental farm at Kanawha beginning at 10 A. M. July 7 according to Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

Special recognition will be given after the noon meal to the present and past directors of the association. Guest speaker at this silver anniversary observance will be I E Melhus, former head of the Department of Botany and Plant Pathology of Iowa State College.

Extension Director Henderson says he believes many farm families from this county will wish to be at the field day.

The morning program will deal with weed control, insects and plant diseases. Henderson suggests local farmers bring in specimens of weeds they would like to have indentified and specimens of plants which seem to be suffering from insect damage or disease. Specialists from Iowa State College will try to identify all such specimens and discuss means of control.

E P Sylwester, extension weed specialist from the college, will identify weeds and discuss weed problems. Malcolm Shurtleff, extension plant pathologist, will discuss plant diseases, and Harold Gunderson, extension entomologist, will discuss corn borers and other insect problems.

After the noonday recognition program, those attending the field day will tour the experimental plots. Kenneth Frey, the Iowa State College agronomist, will be at the oats variety plots. Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

If, some Sunday afternoon, you find yourself at loose ends and are wondering what to do with the rest of the day, try this one.

Climb into the family limousine and start driving. Don't have any destination in mind other than getting back home, and steer clear of the highway. Take your time as you drive and look at the countryside around you. You'll see things that you wouldn't see when you're hurrying down the highway, you'll get lost, and you'll run into small towns that you didn't know ertowns that you didn't know exsisted.

You can loaf along the country roads without holding up traffic and with no destination in mind you won't be hurrying to get somewhere. It's a relaxing way to spend a Sunday afternoon and gives you an opportunity to really get some pleasure out of the money you have invested in your car.

One of the more pleasing sights along main street is the flag flying daily in front of the J W "Bill" Johnson residence just east of the postoffice. Mr Johnson recently had the flagpole erected in front of his place and the flag goes up every morning and comes down each evening. Looks good to see "Old Glory" waving in the breeze.

Wouldn't it be nice if those tempted to point a finger would instead hold out a helping hand. —Gordon Aasgaard, Lake Mills Graphic.

The "grand and glorious" Fourth has come and gone again. While for most people it was probably as grand and glorious as it is cracked up to be, still it was made anything but pleasant for families of people involved in a record amount of fatal holiday traffic accidents.

We made use of Highway 69 a couple of times during the long Fourth of July weekend, and we saw a lot of accidents looking for a place to happen. Most drivers are on the ball, but there seems to be that small percentage of oddballs. They not only like to see how close they can come to killing themselves, but during the course of their shenanigans, they endanger the lives and property of a lot of other people as well. The surprising thing is that there are not more serious accidents.

Carold Larson, who has lived on Highway 69 just west of town for years, said that he had never seen anyhing like the traffic that moved on that road over the weekend. Normally, on a long holiday weekend, most people seem to get where they are going by the end of the first day, and then there is a day and a half or so without too much traffic, until they start returning to their homes. However, this time, Carold said there didn't seem to be any lull. Cars going both ways at all hours of the day and night. Even on Tuesday, after the holiday was over, he said traffic was still much heavier than normal.

ASC Ballots In Mail This Week

Must Be Returned to ASC Office by 15th

Ballots for the annual ASC township or community elections will be mailed to Hancock County farmers on Friday, July 8, it has been announced by J Leo Paulson, chairman of the county ASC committee.

A ballot will be sent to each of the 2745 farm owners and operators listed in the county ASC office as eligible to participate in the communty elections. Besides a ballot, each voter will receive an envelope for his use in returning his vote by mail. Each voter will also receive complete instructions on methods to be followed to maintain secrecy in his balloting.

Any farm owner or operator who believes he is eligible to vote but fails to receive a ballot for his township is urged to notify the county ASC office at once.

The voters will have until July 15 to mark their ballots and deliver or mail them back to the county office.

To be printed on the ballots for each township will be the names of all candidates nominated by the community elections boards. Additional names may be written in by voters who so desire.

To be elected in each township are three ASC community committeemen and two alternate committee members. The candidate who receives the greatest number of votes will be chairman of the committee for the new one-year term beginning August. The one receiving the next highest number of votes will serve as vice chairman. The third member and the first and second alternates will be similiarly selected on the basis of number of votes received.

A three-member tabulation board consisting of Ed Andregg, Britt, Elmer Jante and A M Roesdahl, Garner, were appointed by the county ASC election board to count the ballots on July 19, and the results will be announced as soon as possible.

The newly elected community chairmen and vice chairmen will automatically become delegates and alternate delegates to the county convention at which the county ASC committee for the next 12 months will be named. The convention will be held at Garner, Iowa on July 30.

Fire Department Made Two Runs Last Week

After a number of months with no fire calls for the local department, they made runs both last Friday and Saturday.

Friday afternoon, Mrs Clara Barz called in an alarm, saying she saw smoke and flames coming from a window at the Lou Griffen home. The Griffen home is only a block east of the fire station, so the department made a quick run. However, by the time they got there, the fire was all over.

Mrs Griffen had a skillet with grease on the stove and went to the basement, forgetting about the skillet. The grease caught fire and that was what caused Mrs Barz to turn in the alarm. In the meantime, Mrs Griffen came upstairs, saw the trouble, and got everything under control.

Saturday afternoon, the department made a run to the farm owned by L A Ridder, one mile north and six miles west of Klemme. Men had been shelling corn there that day and when they returned from their noon meal, they found the husks blazing merrily and flames threatening the corn crib. No serious damage was done.

A tire on a tractor was burning, but some quick thinker in the group got on the tractor and moved it until the fluid in the tire ran out and put out the fire.

● RANDOM THOUGHTS

Normal traffic on Highway 69 is much heavier than that carried by most highways and we hope that highway planners will not be too long in putting into execution their plans which call for the highway to be made into a four-lane road. As it is there are times when traffic gets jammed up pretty badly behind a slow moving vehicle. Such situations lead people to take chances in passing, and taking chances on the highway leads to accidents. Four lane would alleviate the condition considerably.

There is room enough on the highway as it is for the careful driver, but even he can make mistakes. Four lanes would give him less chance of making a fatal one. The reckless driver will continue to be reckles, four lanes or no, but his chances of involving anyone in a head-on collision will be practically nil. We are ready to see our highways catch up with the number of cars now traveling on them. It will cost money, but it will save lives.

Just because a man is successful, you have no right to rob him. Only Congress has the right to do it.—M J Monaghan, Vail Observer.

When strangers stop in at The Times office, nearly all of them venture the opinion, "You've got a nice town here!' We're inclined to agree with them. We wouldn't trade places with a city cousin for nothin'. We have in our homes all the conveniences that city folk have, plus abundance of good fresh air, and easy access to the country. In addition, if we feel that we must go to the city we can make it to a fairly metropolitan area almost as quickly as a city man can make it from his home to down town . . . and without fighting a "jillion" stoplights and three-abreast traffic. Nope, we wouldn't trade.

Last week in this column, we posed a question as to how long it would be before cars come factory equipped with safety belts. Now we read that among the new cars ('56 models) that come out this fall, some models will be so equipped.

Other safety devices on most models will include better door latches, better brakes, and better headlights. Horsepower, according to the article we read, is to continue to climb, but most manufacturers are to be more safety minded.

Now, if all drivers could be made more safety conscious, and highways continue to be improved, perhaps the fatality rate can begin to decline.

Most guys who complain that the younger generation nowadays travel too fast, are probably fat and short-winded and simply unable to keep up.—Charles Gebhard, Waverly Democrat.

That rain we had been hoping for finally got here and it really has put the zip into growing things. The warm, "muggy" weather that has accompanied the rain is making the corn grow by leaps and bounds. For a crop that is supposed to be knee high by the Fourth in order to be off to a good start, corn is really out-doing itself. Most fields are higher than the head of an average sized man, and some has already begun to tassel.

Oat fields are beginning to fall before the windrowers and next week will probably see most of the combining done in this section of the country. The oats were flattened to some extent by Monday's storm, but for the most part damage was not to severe.

Some hail was reported in spots in this area, but we have heard of no large areas damaged here. All-in-all, crops look very good and are considerably ahead of a normal year. We'll keep our fingers crossed and hope that the weather stays favorable for the rest of the season.

A lot of fellers who complain about the boss being so dumb would be out of a job if the boss were any smarter. — Bob Schwartz, Swea City Herald.

Mrs S H Day, of Hubbard, Oregon, who is a sister of Mrs E J Arnold, wrote Mrs Arnold regarding a rather weird happening with regard to her receiving The Times. Papers that are sent to far places such as Hubbard are wrapped individually and once in awhile the wrapper will come undone while the paper is enroute to its destination. Mrs Day wrote that usually her paper came through in good shape, but one time it really had trouble. In fact it never did make it. She got the wrapper okay, but in the wrapper was a weekly paper from some town in Nebraska.

We suppose that some postal clerk found the wrapper from The Times and then found the Nebraska paper with no address. Hence, Mrs Day got to read some news from our neighboring state to the west, rather than news about Klemme and vicinity.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

NEW FACES

There are lots of new faces in state government this week.

Three on the highway commission: Robert Beck, Centerville; Russell Lundy, Des Moines; Chris Larsen, Sioux City.

Commissioner of Iowa's public safety department: Clinton H Moyer, Marion.

Liquor commission: Gerald W Smith, Creston.

Employment security commission: Frank Engel, Davenport.

CHANGE APPROACH

Iowa Democrats, silent for several months, have suddenly changed their tactics. For some reason, in recent days, they have adopted an aggressive approach.

Clyde E Herring, the party's probable 1956 candidate for governor, told Democrats that Iowa "should not wait for tomorrow" but act today if Gov. Leo Hoegh was right in advising state departments not to hire replacements when employees quit or retire. Herring said if the person isn't needed for a job today there is no reason waiting for tomorrow to eliminate the position.

State Rep. Howard Reppert of Des Moines told a group of Democratic women:

"We are not creating sufficient opportunity for our young people; they are going to other states. The tax situation does not entice people to settle in our state."

State Chairman Jake More critized the Republicans on several counts. He rapped the legislature for "giving Iowans nine new or additional taxes to pay." He said there was politics in a recent attorney general's opinion sought Lt. Gov. Leo Elthon, critized for selling rock to a contractor working on a state highway commission project.

More also assailed appointment of a Democrat, Willis Piper of Des Moines, to the toll road authority. Piper, according to More, has been writing articles for a publication issued Russell Lundy, Gov. Hoegh's campaign manager, and himself a new member of the Iowa highway commission.

Yes, Democrats are getting an early start on the 1956 state elections.

BIG HOUSE

Iowa's new commissioner of public safety, Clinton H Moyer of Marion, has plenty of room to roam in his Des Moines residence.

The Moyer's, looking for a home of their own, have temporarily rented a sorority house with 19 beds therein.

NAMED GOVERNOR

Four new members have been named to the Mississippi River Parkway Planning Commission by Gov. Leo Hoegh. He named Arthur Jacobson, Waukon; the Rev Lawrence Nelson, Bellevue; Mrs William Weaver, Wapello, and C E Dove, Dubuque.

Six other members' terms do not expire this year.

Objective of the commission is a first class highway from Canada to the Gulf along the Mississippi River.

POLIO SHOTS

Two Iowa groups, the state medical society and the state department of health, have recommended postponement of first Salk injections until the end of the present polio season.

But they suggested that second shots for children and pregnant women who already have had their first may well be given if and when the vaccine becomes available.

TOLL ROAD AUTHORITY

Gov. Leo Hoegh has named three Iowans to the state toll road authority authorized by the legislature. In addition to the three, the governor, and a member of the state highway commission will also serve on the toll group.

Named by the governor were: Willis D. Piper, Des Moines, Democrat; Frederick J. Day, Council Bluffs, and Ed Friek, Davenport.

Piper is a tax consultant, Day a real estate man, and Friek former mayor and city alderman.

The governor said that the first meeting of the authority will be held July 18 in his office. Compensation for the five members is $20 a day when they meet. They are also paid expenses.

NO SHORT FORMS

Well, Iowa's income tax forms will not be postcard size after all. The Iowa tax commission said it can't be done; that all information needed by and from Mr. Citizen will take at least a 9½ by 11 sheet. The smaller size was recommended by the state legislature after study and recommendation by State Rep. Jack Miller.

New forms, to be used next year will be somewhat smaller and with just half as many pages as in previous years.

REPRESENTS IOWA

A Holstein, Iowa girl, Jerri Jean Cole, will represent her state next week in the Miss Universe contest at Long Beach, Calif. Miss Cole won her Miss Iowa title in competition with 16 other beauties.

Miss Cole is not only noted as a beauty but for her prowess on a basketball court. She was a three-year regular on the Holstein girls' team and was an IDPA all-stater last year.

TAKES ASOTHER JOB

J. Frank Hamilton, for the last six years a state tax commissioner, replaced by an appointment by Gov Leo Hoegh, has accepted a field auditor's job with the commission.

Hamilton, 63, has been with the commission since 1934. Before being named a commissioner by the late Gov. William Beardsley, he had been in the sales tax division.

Hamilton has been replaced as commissioner by Leon Miller of Knoxville, former state senator. Both Hamilton and Miller are Democrats.

FARM HEALTH UNIT

Iowa's state board of education has okayed establishment of the nation's first institute of agricultural medicine at the University of Iowa.

The university thus will pioneer in the field, Dr Norman Nelson, dean of the university medical college, said the institute will deal with special health problems of farmers.

Iowa State College, Ames, will cooperate in the farm health research and distribution of the institute's knowledge.

The institute will be financed during its first three years by a grant made by an anonymous donor. It provides $37,000 for the first year of operation.

GETS TAX POST

Elmer F. Heckinger, an employee of the commission for four and one half year's has been named director of the income tax division of the state tax commission. Heckinger, former chief of the federal income audit department, succeeds E. H. Fairburn, 77, who retired last week.

ANY LONG RANGE PLANS?

IF YOU HAVE, THEN U.S. SAVINGS BONDS WILL HELP YOU ACHIEVE YOUR GOAL! 8 MILLION AMERICANS ARE NOW ENROLLED IN THE PAY-ROLL SAVINGS PLAN—THEY'RE WORKING ON MAKING THEIR DREAMS COME TRUE!

Save Time, Energy—

Do Your Housekeeping by Plan

It's simple! Just make a sch edule for your housecleaning. Choose equipment that does your work for you, too. Soon you'll find that it doesn't take as much "elbow-grease" as you thought —and oh, does your house look nice!

"How can I keep my house clean?" If you find yourself asking that question day after day, it's time you stopped to decide if you're really doing your housework in the most efficient way—it can be done, you know!

The National Safety Council suggests "housekeeping—by plan" for two main reasons: (1) the more orderly you "housekeep," the less chance there is for home accidents, and (2) this same order lessens fatigue which contributes to accidents.

Iowa State College Extension Home Furnishings Specialist June Brown says your work will be easier and more efficiently done if you plan your housecleaning methods around these points: (1) make a schedule of work and follow it, (2) use equipment and supplies that conserve your time and energy, (3) store supplies and equipment safely and conveniently, (4) use the best methods, and (5) streamline your house for easier cleaning.

Save Time, Energy

Be sure to plan your housework. Copy the schedule down in a handy place such as your kitchen calendar or bulletin board.

You'll be surprised at the variety of supplies and equipment you can find to save energy and time, Don't buy hastily—look around for things that actually do the work for you.

Reaching and stooping are two activities you probably find yourself doing frequently. Save this wasted energy by buying long-handled dustpans, long-handled bathtub brushes and cellulose mops which will help you mop kitchen and bathroom floors with more ease. Buy a long-handled fleecy duster for your Venetian blinds.

You probably have a vacuum cleaner with attachments. Don't let it sit idle after you've used it on the floors! Clean walls, woodwork, radiators and upholstered furniture with the attachments regularly.

Watch the market for new cleaning aids. Cabinets and painted walls can be washed with a cleaning compound that requires neither rinsing nor drying. Look for polishing cloths that have polish in the cloth—there are different ones for metal, furniture and even shoes.

Storing Supplies, Equipment

Place your cleaning closet conveniently if you have a choice in the matter. Arrange the closet so each item has its own place within easy reach. The Safety Council urges you to be sure any poisonous substances are stored so your small children can't reach them.

You'll find it more convenient to keep duplicates of some cleaning supplies and equipment in the bathroom, kitchen and on second floor. Another time-saving trick is to store a box of dusting paper in each for daily dusting. Be sure your equipment is clean and dry before you put it away.

Use Best Methods

Find methods that take a minimum amount of time and effort, but still achieve satisfactory results. Do the most important things first. Avoid beginning many things, only to find there aren't enough hours in the day to finish them all.

Alternate your heavy and light work—this reduces fatigue. When you lift something, bend your knees not your back. A last minute reminder! Keeping the house neat isn't your job alone. Have the family pitch in and help. Sharing the work will make Dad and the children take more pride in the home.

let's talk gardens, fruits and flowers

with Iowa State College Horticulturists

For you gardeners who like to keep something coming on in the garden, it would be a good idea to make a late planting of snap beans. A planting made around the first half of July will have time to mature for some fine eating in late summer and fall. Many housewives prefer the late crop of beans for canning and freezing.

This is also a good time to buy lettuce, radish and spinach seed for late summer or early fall planting. Keep the garden working. It's better to have a crop of vegetables growing there than a crop of weeds.

It still isn't too late to plant an early variety of sweet corn, but this should be done as quickly as possible so that it will have time to mature. An early variety like Marcross will have time to mature before frost. Don't forget that beets can also be planted around July 10 or 15 and will have time to make nice roots for fresh use or picking. It is a good idea to plant seeds slightly deeper when plantings are made during the warm summer months. Put them down a third to one-half deeper than you planted them in the spring. A half inch covering of straw or grass clippings will help in getting better stands. This light mulch will keep the soil moist, will prevent a crust from forming and prevent the seeds from breaking through. Only a light mulch is required since the seeds will be required to push their way through this material

Speaking of mulching, reminds me that the pea vines that you have perhaps removed from the rows can serve as an excellent mulch around tomatoes, cucumbers, etc. Put them on to a depth of 4 to 6 inches and help conserve moisture and control weeds. Be sure to keep the new planting of strawberries free of weeds. If you made an application of Crag Herbicide 1 to the new planting in early May, another application might be needed at this time. Don't forget that the ground must be free of all weeds at the time Crag Herbicide 1 is applied in order to get most efficient results. It does not work on weeds that are already up.

Your strawberry planting that produced a crop this spring should have been renovated by now and an application of Crag Herbicide made immediately after renovation. If your area has been short of rain since you renovated your strawberry planting, then it would be helpful to irrigate it if water is available. We like to have a reasonably large number of runner plants formed before the end of August, since September is a very important month for fruit bud formation in the strawberry plant.

If you planted some everbearing strawberries this spring, continue to remove blossoms for about another week. It, of course, goes without saying that all runners should be removed now and for the rest of the season in order to get the most efficient fall crop.

If your fruit trees have a good crop of fruit on, don't let up on your spray schedule. There should be no more than a two-week interval between any other cover sprays at this time.

In central and northern Iowa, sprays applied now are very important in the control of apple maggot. The apple maggot or railroad worm causes us a lot of trouble in home plantings every year. Apply all of your sprays carefully and with good coverage and be sure that you have about 12 and no more than a 14-day interval between sprays until about the first of August.

Watch for the crab grass in your lawn. If you are using one of the crab grass control chemicals be sure to follow the manufacturers recommendations. If you are watering your lawn, be sure to set the sprinkler up and let it run for a sufficient length of time to thoroughly soak the ground.

The Great Lakes gasoline pipe line near Osceola was torn open recently by a tractor-drawn scraper which was being used on a county road. Gasoline poured out under 280 lbs presuure, drowning out the engine of a crawler tractor although no fire resulted. 3,000 gallons of gasoline were recovered from pools on the ground after the incident.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

More hogs next year—that's the story, according to the United States Department of Agriculture June pig report. It means lower hog prices, says Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist, with the biggest percentage difference from last year coming in the next 5 months.

Farmers raised about 9 percent more hogs this past spring. Corn belt farmers had 8 percent more Those outside the Corn Belt raised 12 percent more than a year ago. Big end of the boost was in early farrowed pigs. December-February litters were up 22 percent. March-May farrowings only 3 percent.

On June 1, farmers were planning a 10 percent boost in fall litters. If these plans are carried through, the nation's farmers will raise a little more than 100 million pigs this year—third largest output on record. Only the 1942 and 1943 topped it.

This means more meat for consumers. Over the years, consumers have eaten more meat only if prices were lower. Part of the effects of more meat will be offset by higher consumer incomes but not all. So Kutish looks for lower hog prices, with the big uncertainty in the timing of the price trends.

Thus, there is every incentive for Hancock County farmers to get their hogs off to market as fast as they can this summer and early fall Kutish expects hog marketings to rise rapidly in late July, August and September.

Feed costs will be lower than last year. So the hog-corn ratio won't drop as much as hog prices

120 Go Through Forest City Clinic For Crippled Children

On June 29, the S S C C was held at the Methodist Church in Forest City with 120 children going through the clinic from five counties, Kossuth, Winnebago, Worth, Cerro Gordo and Hancock.

Mr Elwin Hodges, Director of Social Welfare and Mrs Vera Grau, Welfare Worker, assisted with the registration

Miss Helen Lemke, Public Health Nurse for Hancock County and Mrs Bernice Wilkins R N of Forest City, assisted Miss Muriel Lehman of Iowa City in general running of the clinic.

The following helped at the clinic from Hancock County: Mrs Glen Johnson, R N, Garner; Mrs Curtis Jump, R N Crystal Lake; Mrs Robert Barracks, R N Corwith; Ruth Cruckshank, R N, Britt; Mrs John Chambers, Klemme; Mrs William Woods, Jr., Woden; Mrs Harry Carpenter, Goodell; Mrs Maynard Powes, Crystal Lake; Mrs Elmer Anderson, Britt; and Mrs Dale Wallace, R N, Britt.

One of the greatest helps at the clinic was carried out by Mrs Elmer Anderson and her daughter of Britt. They brought toys, books and entertained the children. This cut down crying and running around to almost nil, and is greatly appreciated by those from Iowa City, and all who helped. However, probably more so by the parents of these children. Some of the children can hardly wait to get to see Mrs Anderson's table. They tell the nurse in her visit they want to see what she has this year.

The women of the Methodist Church of Forest City cooked the lunch The Lions Club of Garner and Forest City paid for it.

In all, it was a good clinic, with some parents sent away happy, for their child was found to be healthy now. Others will have a long wait ahead to see that for their child.

Some will be called to Iowa City for valuation yet this summer. Some will never be up to par. In all it is a service we of Iowa can be proud to help with.

Harlan Stille Injured In Twenty Foot Fall

Harlan Stille of Mason City, son of Quentin Stille of Klemme, received a back injury when he fell about twenty feet from an electric pole Saturday morning at Mason City. Harlan, who is a lineman for the Peoples Gas & Electric Co., was working on lines on property owned by the Mason City and Clear Lake Railroad when the accident occurred.

On his way down from the pole, he reached across one of the cross fires for the electric railway line and completed a ground circuit. He apparently was unharmed by the shock but dropped to the ground, striking on the edge of the railroad right-of-way. He was taken to Park Hospital in Mason City by an ambulance.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

It seems that each year, with the advent of warm weather, drownings begin to make the news. Some of them are unavoidable, but the majority of them are the result of failure to use common sense. Water provides a chance for a lot of fun for both the swimmer and non-swimmers, but it also demands constant respect. A certain amount of caution is necessary for both the swimmer and the bather.

Sxi Iowans drowned over the Fourth of July weekend, all for the same old careless reasons that have claimed thousands of victims before them. The State Conservation Commission gives the following tips, which if followed, will help you to enjoy the water and stay alive:

---

1. Never swim alone.
2. Wait one hour after meals before entering the water.
3. Don't swim after vigorous exercise or tiring work.
4. Swim reasonably close to shore. Take no chances.
5. Non-swimmers should never venture into deep water, trusting to the support of water wings, an inflated tube, or another swimmer.
6. Muscle cramps are warnng signals. Don't ignore them., but leave the water immediately.
7. Know your water: never wade in rivers unless you can swim and do not dive into waters unless they are known to be deep and without obstructions.
8. Swim only in waters under the supervision of trained lifeguards.
9. Small children should be constantly supervised when in or around water of any depth.
10. Night bathing is only for expert swimmers, in familiar waters, and when supervised.

Some one is breeding a scab on their nose . . . or worse. In the past few days, four mail boxes on rural routes in this vicinty have been destroyed by someone who apparently thinks such destruction is all good, clean fun.

Mail boxes belonging to Roy Jacobs and Allen Lau on the Klemme route have apparently had fire crackers set off inside them, making them useless, and boxes belonging to Gerald Koerner and Harold McCormick on the Goodell route have been torn down and presumably run over and destroyed.

This may be an exciting and interesting pastime, but who ever is doing the dirty work is really asking for it. Section 700, paragraph 2, of the Postal Laws and Regulations defines a letter box as any place where mail is normally delivered. Section 1620 of the same laws sets forth the punishment for tampering with or destroying one of these boxes.

Maybe there is $1,000 worth of fun in destroying a mail box, but we doubt it. We also doubt that whoever is responsible for these acts of vandalism would care much about spending three years in the "hoosegow". However these are the two penalties

Gerardi Students Rate High In Music Contest

The Eighteenth Annual Hawkeye Music Festival, preliminary to the Chicagoland Music Festival, was held at Coe College in Cedar Rapids, Sunday July 10th.

Through the efforts of Dr Stanley Vesley of Coe College, the young accordion enthusiasts are allowed to appear in competition and the winners of superior ratings are eligible to appear in competition at the Chicagoland Festival on August 20th. From the 138 contestants at Coe from all parts of Iowa, only 12 superior ratings are given.

Marvin Josten, who last year won a superior rating, received an excellent rating this year. Gerardi students winning superior ratings were Merlin Meyer of Corwith and Bill Halfwassen of Belmond.

These three were the only Gerardi students entered in the preliminary contest following the recital which was held in the Klemme High School gymnasium on June 26th.

With the right to use goes the duty to conserve.

Are At Home On Farm Near Britt

Miss Joan Lemke, daughter of Mr and Mrs Walter Lemke of Klemme and Clarence Hrubes, son of Mrs Rose Hrubes of Britt, were married at 9:00 A M on Tuesday, June 28th in the St.. Wenceslaus Catholic Church of Duncan, by the Rt. Rev. Msgnr Hradecky.

Mrs Raymond Hrubes, sister-in-law of the groom was matron of honor, and Raymond Hrubes brother of the groom was best man. Miss Boni Meyer and Miss Joan Schmitt were bridesmaids. Clarence Johanns, Earl Lemke, Gordon Lemke, and Harold Hejlik were ushers.

Nuptial music was provided by Miss Marion Nedved, niece of the groom and the choir sang.

The bride wore a white nylon lace and net, floor length gown. Her finger-tip veil of nylon illusion was held by a pearl tiara and her pearl necklace was a gift of the groom. She carried white French carnations centered with a deep lavender orchid.

The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore blue taffeta and net floor length gowns with taffeta and net jackets. Their flowers were pink carnation colonial bouquets.

Bouquets of mixed carnations made up the alter bouquets which were later distributed to the aunts and uncles of the bride and groom.

The bride's mother wore a navy and white sheer and the groom's mother wore a navy sheer. Both had pink garnet rose corsages.

A reception and dinner for 300 guests was held at the Garner Memorial Building following the ceremony.

Miss Ina Van Buskirk and Miss Harriett Anderson had charge of the gifts and Miss Lois Christians took care of the guest book.

Mrs Alvin Meyer, aunt of the bride, and Mrs Arnold Trca, sister of the groom, cut the wedding cake which was baked and decorated by Mrs D P Anderson of Klemme. Mrs Irene Swanson, aunt of the bride and Mrs Frank Vavrik, sister of the groom poured.

A dance was held in the evening at Duncan after which the couple left on a wedding trip through Wisconsin and Illinois. They will be at home on a farm near Britt.

Out of town guests included Mr and Mrs Floyd Craft, and Mrs Tillie Wilkins of St. Mary, Ohio and Mr and Mrs John Falada and Mrs Falada of Spillville, Iowa.

The Klemme Community Horseshoe Tournament continued during the week. Additional first round winners include Edwin Josten, Calvin Josten, Hubert Clayton, and B F Greiman. One game in the third round was played with B F Greiman defeating Martin Karsjens. The tournament is creating considerable interest among those in the community who enjoy the game.

Oat Harvest Underway; Crop Looks Good

Picture at right shows Verner Priebe and son, Carroll, windrowing oats, preparatory to combining. Verner is on the binder and Carroll is driving the tractor.

Mr Priebe has about 50 acres of oats this year and says it looks to him like the best crop since 1946.

The picture at the top shows a scene which is rapidly becoming a thing of the past. It was taken on the Fred Etchen farm, three miles south of Klemme and shows Rudy Endorf placing the last two bundles on the last shock in the field.

Fred and Rudy are going to thresh their oats crops this year. Fred is part owner in a separator with his brother, Albert, and feels that he should use the machine. Rudy farms the Wenz farm just across the highway and is going to work with him.

Very few people still use the threshing machine since combines have become more and more popular, but a few still harvest their oats in the old way.

The men all stated that the oats were exceptionally heavy this year, and Albert said they were the heaviest he had ever helped shock.

Results of combining seem to bear out the statements of the men. Oats which are supposed to weigh 32 pounds to the bushel, are weighing well up towards forty pounds and are yielding exceptionally well as far as bushels to the acre are concerned.

The end of this week will see a lot of the combining completed, and by the end of next week . . . weather permitting . . . the crop should all be in the bin for this year.

With the good oat crop going into the bin, and other crops looking exceptionally fine for this time of the year, farmers should be feeling quite optimistic. It looks like a fine crop year if nothing happens to change the situation. An occasional good shower and plenty of warm weather should keep things growing and headed toward maturity.

listed in Section 1620 for just such acts as have been taking place.

We might also add that one of the mail boxes destroyed was new and the owner was angry enough to bring it to town and lodge a complaint with postal authorities. Someone could get into serious trouble.

Besides the outright destruction of property, the box holder is also put to considerable inconvenience, since the mail carrier cannot leave mail where there is no box. We don't blame the people whose boxes were destroyed for being put out. We would be, too.

Tennessee Ernie Ford has come up with this one: "You can tell when you hit middle age by the way it hits back at you."

This week's issue of The Times carries budget estimates for the County, for the County Board of Education, the County Assessor, and the newly formed Hancock County Extension Council. These budget estimates are published, according to law, so that you, as a taxpayer, can have a chance to see where your money is to go for the coming year, and so that you can have a chance to be heard either for or against the expenditures as planned.

This year's budget estimate for Hancock County calls for a tax levy of approximately $30,000 more than last year with most of the increase being in relief funds, Poor, State Institutions, and Soldier's Relief. A new levy of slightly less than one-half mill will be needed for administration of the Hancock County Extension Council.

Hearing on the Hancock County Budget Estimate will be held at the courthouse in Garner at 10 o'clock on the morning of July 25th.

Some feller with a discerning eye has decided that the road to success is dotted with many tempting parking places.

A couple of weeks ago an event took place in Klemme that is a bit on the unusual side. Somehow we missed getting a story of the affair in The Times when it happened, but we believe that even at this late date it is worthy of mention.

The affair to which we have reference is the 4th Annual Recital presenting the students of the Gerardi School of Music. So many students were involved that the recital had to be held in two sessions . . . one in the afternoon and one in the evening. A total of some 400 people were on hand for the sessions.

Students of the school were heard on the piano, accordion and guitar and special dance numbers were presented by Mary Jo Arnold and Connie Robertson of Garner, Anita Marie Gerardi and Claudia and Franklyn Neuberger of Klemme, and Paula Landon and Kay Keraus of Garner.

A recital of this type in a much larger place than Klemme would be unusual, but for a town the size of our's, it is almost unheard of. Students in the Gerardi School come from towns within a fifty mile radius, and get expert instruction from Mrs Gerardi at the piano and from "Ernie" with the accordion and guitar.

As long as there are individuals coming out of this or any other generation with a desire to help someone else's lot, I can't see that this country has too much to worry about for a while.—Paul Dean, Rock Valley Bee.

The most viscious thing about viscious gossip is the person who spreads it.

"A dime is just a dollar—with all the taxes taken out!"

Our thanks to Ron and Harold at Ron's TV Service. The motor on our router refused to function Tuesday and after Harold examined it, he found that the armature was shorted. We allowed as how we wished we had a drill press, because then we would be able to route our cuts for this week's paper, even though it would be a rather makeshift, two-man deal.

Ron and Harold both pointed out their drill press and told us to hop to it, so their generosity saved us a lot of monkey business with a mallet and a chisel.

In case any of you are interested, a router is used for cutting down the metal in ad cuts, etc., so that only the part that is supposed to print will print. If the routing operation is not performed, big black smudges show up where there should be nothing but white space.

Perhaps the greatest service is performed by those who plod along, doing the right thing, and not expecting any reward other than that which they inwardly receive.—Duane Dewel, Algona Advance.

The parents of the scouts appreciate the work that Scoutmaster Jones has done in helping the boys. We are very proud of our Scout Troop and their Scoutmaster. Klemme Troop 56 ranks one of the highest in advancement in the Winnebago Council.

$6,640,621.99 a Year for Transportation by the Beer Industry

In most every field of Iowa business, the brewing industry is a substantial customer . . . makes a sizeable contribution to swell the wealth and prosperity of the state. In the matter of transportation, for example, the industry spent more than $6,640,000.00 in Iowa last year. This included:

SPENT WITH RAILROADS AND TRUCK LINES $3,467,604.30
SPENT FOR DELIVERIES FROM WHOLESALER TO RETAILER $3,173,017.69
$6,640,621.99

And the industry adds its part in so many other ways . . . another 3½ million per year for rent, $23,000,000 per year for taxes, $30,000,000 per year in payroll, and so on to many more millions to swell Iowa's booming income. The brewing industry is, indeed, an important contributor to our state's growth and prosperity.

Farmers Urged to Vote In ASC Elections

An appeal for every farm owner and operator in Hancock County to participate in the annual ASC township elections was made this week by J Leo Paulson, chairman of the ASC committee.

Ballots have been mailed to every known farmer in every township of the county, he declared. Voters have until Friday (July 15) to mark their ballots and return them to the county ASC office. To be counted, the envelopes in which ballots are returned must be postmarked not later than Friday or personally delivered to the county office by 5 p. m. that day.

"Full benefits offered through the ASC farm program depend to a great extent on the selection of competent, qualified men to administer it on the township level," chairman Paulson said, "and it is up to the farmers themselves to pick capable men in the annual community elections.

"I think it is the duty of every farmer to cast his own ballot but he should also urge his neighbors to vote."

To be elected in each township are three ASC community committemen and two alternate committee members. The candidate who receives the greatest number of votes will be chairman of the township or community committee, and the one receiving the next highest number of votes will serve as vice chairman. The third member and the first and second alternates will be similarly named on the basis of votes received.

The newly elected chairman and vice chairman in each township will automatically become delegate and alternate delegate to the county convention at which the county ASC committee for the next 12 months will be named. The convention will be held at Garner on July 30.

All newly elected county and community committees will begin their one year terms on August 1.

YOU CAN'T HARDLY GET A GOOD 15 AMP FUSE NO MORE!

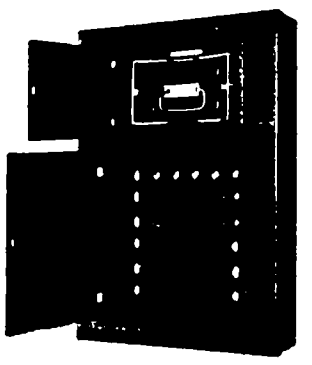
...until you know

...the A, B, C's of Adequate Wiring

A An Adequate Electric Service Entrance . . . Be sure there's no "bottleneck" where Reddy Kilowatt comes in. Have enough wire of the right size to accommodate today's and tomorrow's electrical needs.

B Enough Circuits . . . Avoid "traffic jams" on Reddy's highways. Have lighting circuits, separate circuits for small and major appliances and have spare circuits for future appliance needs.

C Enough Convenience Outlets, Permanent Lights and Switches. Have plenty of outlets, strategically placed for greatest convenience . . . plenty of light switch controls for comfort and safety.



There's nothing the matter with the fuses . . . they're the same excellent quality as ever. But if you overload your wiring, that's different . . . something has to give!

Reddy Kilowat says you don't have to have these problems. Throw away those snarled-up extension cords! Don't let your home have a thicket of cords sprouting from every outlet! Wire now for today and TOMORROW. Then, you'll not only enjoy safe adequate wiring, but you'll be able to add new electric servants in the future, with full confidence that circuits and outlets are available to operate them efficiently and economically. Remember: Adequate Wiring Serves and Saves.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Perhaps one of the hardtst things we have to do is to find something about which to write in this column. First thing we do is get the typewritter lined up, roll in a blank sheet of paper and then sit and look at it with a blank mind. Several false starts are usually made before anything begins to "jell", and then sometimes we have to do a lot of reaching around with our mind before the column can be completed. Other times we get started on some thought or other, and the column gpes together easy as pie.

One of the better topics to start the ball rolling is the weather. It never satisfies everyone and is a never-ending source of comment either favorable or otherwise. Right now, as far as most of us are concerned, it falls in the otherwise category. Hotter than blue blazes and mighty sticky. Too much "humdidity".

Of course, to see on the favorable side of the weather we are having, all one has to do is drive out in the country and look at the corn and been fields. They are beautiful. The hot sticky weather makes these crops do their best, and their best in our good black soil is really something. We have kicked around the country a bit and seen a lot of beautiful and interesting sights, but nothing that looks anywhere near as bountiful as the lush green of Iowa's fields at this time of the year.

Anyway, that hot, sticky weather is responsible for the wonderful looking crops now adorning Iowa fields, so, uncomfortable as it is, we suppose that the thing to do is turn on the electric fan, keep as cool as possible, sit back and grin and bear it.

Anybody like a tall, cool lemonade?

We don't know what kind of crops the members of the Russian delegation now in Iowa are used to in their home land, but they must certainly be impressed with what they are seeing here. We're impressed ourselves. We don't ever remember seeing crops look better at this time of year than they do right now.

From reports that we have read and heard, the Russians and their satellite countries are having trouble raising enough food to feed themselves. A look at all our grain filled government storage bins, and the sight of the crop prospects showing in our fields, must make them somewhat envious. We are inclined to hope that they learn a little about our methods, so they can produce more food. Never heard of anyone being too anxious to fight when he was well fed. Nothing to fight for . . . unless, he's just naturally ornery.

Despite all the good cheer and apparent "Buddy Buddy" that surrounds the Russians visiting here . . . and the Americans visiting in Rcssia, still the Meeting at the Summit in Geneva, Switzerland, is not finding everything to be sunshine and light.

Return From Scenic Western States Trip

Mrs Martha Bredbenner and Novella returned last Wednesday from a sixteen day bus trip through some of the western states. Previous to the trip, Novella had attended the National Kappa Phi Convention in Boulder, Colorado for ten days. Two hundred Methodist girls from colleges throughout the United States were in attendance. Novella assisted at the convention as National Alumnae Secretary. One day during the convention, the group took a trip to Estes Park and over the Trail Ridge Road to Rocky Mountain National Park.

Following the convention, Mrs Bredbenner joined Novella in Denver, and they visited some of the scenic spots in Colorado. Among the places they enjoyed near Denver were the Red Rock Park with its huge amphitheater, Beer Creek Canyon, Buffalo Bill's Grave on Lookout Mountain, Mt. Evans with its lofty highway ascending to 14,260 feet, Echo Lane, Bridal Veil Falls, at Idaho Springs, Central City with its historic opera house, and Clear Creek Canyon.

Going on to Colorado Springs, they went up Pike's Peak by car and came down via the cog-railway. They also visited the Garden of the Gods, Cave of the Winds, Manitou Mineral Springs, Will Roger's Shrine on Cheyenne Mountain, Helen Hunt Falls, the Seven Falls which are beautifully illuminated at night, Phantom Canyon, Cripple Creek where they went down in a gold mine and the Royal Gorge at Canon City.

Leaving Colorado Springs they crossed the Continental Divide at La Veta Pass, traveled through the San Luis Valley, and crossed the scenic Wolf Creek Pass to Mesa Verde National Park in southwest Colorado. Two interesting days were spent at Mesa Verde examining the cliff dwellings that pre-historic Indians constructed in the caves of the rugged canyons. Another highlight of the trip was a day's on the narrow-gauge railway through the Rio de Las Animos Canyon from Durango to the mining town of Silverton, Colorado. The lovely rugged mountain scenery can be viewed only from the train, for there are no roads through much of the canyon. This Denver and Rio Grande train is one of the last narrow gauge trains still in operation.

After spending nine days in Colorado, Mrs Bredbenner and Novella traveled on into New Mexico. At Farmington, New Mexico they enjoyed visiting the Navajo Methodist Mission School. The trip from Farmington to Albuquerque provided an interesting ride through a part of the Navajo Indian Reservation and the Harwood Girls' School, a Methodist School for Spanish-American girls, where a friend of Novella's teaches.

From New Mexico they journeyed through the panhandle of Texas into Oklahoma. At Norman, Oklahoma they visited Miss Ann Trout, National Kappa Phi Editor, and at Dover, Okla., they enjoyed a visit with the Cleo Ingle family. Mrs Ingle is the former Adea Schroeder of Klemme. After leaving Oklahoma, they returned to Klemme via Kansas and Missouri.

Ice Cream Social

The annual ice cream social sponsored by the Klemme Music Mothers will be held Saturday evening, July 30th, on Main street. As usual, the main block of the street will be cleaned up and roped off so that people can sit around and enjoy themselves while the social is in progress.

The band will play its concert on that night instead of on Wednesday night next week and there will be a program of special numbers. There will also be the usual weekly drawing for $25.

The music mothers will be serving ice cream, pie, cake, and coffee, and they are looking for a good crowd such as they have had in past years.

Helen Lemke Resigns As Public Health Nurse

Hancock County Public Health Nurse Helen Lemke has tendered her resignation as Public Nurse in Hancock County effective August 15th, 1955. The Hancock County supervisors have accepted her resignation and have appointed Marcia Mitchell of Grundy Center to succeed Miss Lemke. Miss Mitchell will complete her work on her Bachelor of Science Degree in Public Health Nursing at the State University of Iowa early in August and will begin her duties in Hancock County on September 6th.

Miss Lemke has served two years as County Public Health Nurse. She plans to be wed to Ralph Sellner of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, on August 21st at the Calvary Alliance Church in Mason City. She and her husband will reside in a newly furnished apartment in Milwaukee, where her husband is employed by Cutler and Hammer as a reorder editor. He employs sixteen people in his office.

On July 7th, Miss Lemke was honored at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs C L Conroy where a short program was held at which the 31st chapter of Proverbs was read and Mrs Lewis Weiland sang, "The Love of God". Miss Lemke was the recipient of many lovely and useful gifts.

Services In Missouri For Jesse Terry, 88

Funeral services for Jesse Terry, 88 years old, of Joplin, Mo., who died the morning of Tuesday, July 12th, were held at eleven o'clock Thursday morning at the Thornhill-Dillon Mortuary in Joplin with Rev. Floyd Cole officiating. Burial was in Fairview Cemetery at Joplin.

Mr Terry was a former resident of the Klemme community.

Surviving are four sons, Hobart of Seneca, Ill., Carl of Libertyville, Ill, Edward of Plainville, Ill., Lewis of Washington, and George who is in the army; four daughters, Mrs Mary Summer of Maywood, Ill., Mars Lydia Gangel of Chicago, Ill., Mrs Roy Watkins of Morris, Ill., and Mrs Garnett Withers of Monrovia, Calif.; a sister, Mrs Will Johnson of Klemme; 24 grandchildren and 34 great grandchildren.

Hope To Increase Storage Facilities

Closely related problems will be stressed in the corn resealing and storage building campaign now being conducted in every county of the state by the ASC agency of the United States Department of Agriculture.

J. Leo Paulson, chairman of the Hancock County ASC committee, pointed out this week that equal emphasis is being given to these two major objectives of the drive:

1. To get Iowa producers to keep at least 50 million bushels of their price-supported corn on the farms for another year under reseal.

2. To encourage farm owners and operators to provide the additional storage space needed on their farms to permit them to take full advantage of the whole price-support program.

Farmers who reseal their 1954 price-supported corn or extend present reseal loans on 1953-crop corn still on the farms will receive a storage payment of 15 cents a bushel for keeping their grain another year. The payfent will be made even if the resealed corn is redeemed by the farmer at the end of the year instead of delivering it to the government. A prorated payment will be made in case the loan is repaid before the end of the reseal period.

The storage problem in this state stems from the fact that the market price for corn is lower than the support rate and there is insufficient government and commercial storage space at the present time to handle all of the price-supported corn which could be delivered by farmers in settlement of their loans and purchase agreements which mature July 31. It is estimated that available binsite and commercial space would lack room for nearly 68 million bushels of the total of 148 million bushels under support in this state. To help solve the problem, resealing of at least 50 million bushels is being is being urged.

To help solve a similar problem last year, as well as to earn the storage payment, Hancock County frmers resealed a total of 1,045,753 bushels of their price-supported corn. Chairman Paulson declared that farmers of the county can be expected to do their full part toward making the present reseal campaign a success.

Regarding the appeal for farmers to provide themselves with adequate storage facilities, Chairman Paulson urged producers to check up on their individual needs at once "and then do something about it".

"It is commonly known", he said, "that many farmers have far less storage space than they actually need to carry on their normal operation efficiently.

A corn resealing storage payment of 15 cents a bushel should influence quite a few to construct another crib or bin. If financing the original cost is a problem, the government's facility loan offer will help solve that."

The facility building loans draw four percent interest and are repayable in four annual installments. Complete information on them may be obtained from regular banking institutions or from the county ASC office.

• RANDOM THOUGHTS

The first item that was brought up for discussion was dispensed with in short order. They agreed to disagree and tabled the discussion . . . on German unification . . . for future work by the foreign ministers of the Big Four.

Even so, there seems to be a good feeling in the air at the conference and a chance for some good to come out of the meetings. We hope so, anyway.

Klemme mosquitos are finding the going a little rough since Monday evening. The town was sprayed from the air and people are making more use of their yards in the evenings. An occasional mosquito still requires a little attention with the flat of the hand, but they are not nearly so thick and persistent as they were previous to the spraying. A bouquet to the Town "Dads" for taking some of the "sting" out of living.

Unintentionally left out of the list of dancers who put on specialty numbers during the Gerardi School of Music Recital were Melva and Maurine Johnson and Roxane Back. The girls performed quite ably and are as deserving of mention as those whose names were printed last week.

We are in receipt of a letter from Mr and Mrs Don Smith and family, who now live at 1124 E Walter Lane, Sunnyslope, Phoeniz, Arizona. Sunnyslope is a north suburb of Pheonix and Mr Smith will teach biology in the high school there next year. At present, he is attending Arizona State College, working on his Masters Degree. Mrs Smith is working in the loan department of a bank, so they say that time is flying.

They say that they will certainly expect a visit from any Klemme people who happen to visit in Pheonix this winter. Next summer they plan to visit in Iowa and plan to call on their Klemme friends. Say they miss them all.

The Smiths have been in Sunnyslope a little more than a month now and not one day in that month has the temperature been under 95, Hottest day was 112.

Pass that tall, cool lemonade again, huh?

For the best in ice cream, cake, pie, etc., be sure to be on hand Saturday, the 30th, when the Music Mothers put on their annual ice cream social on main street. The ladies spend hours freezing ice cream and getting the other goodies ready for the event and past experience has taught us that they know what they are doing.

If this year's social measures up to those held in the past, you will have a thoroughly enjoyable evening and eat some really good old fashioned home frozen ice cream. The food's good, the company's good, and the mosquitoes are sprayed, so plan to come in and enjoy yourselves.

Whoever it was that said a penny saved is a penny earned, never had to contend with Iowa's new retail tax law. Pennies disappear like crazy under the new setup.

Best news we've heard recently: Highway 69 is to be widened three feet on each side come 1956.

CAPITOL LETTER

HIGHWAY PLANS

Iowa's new highway commission has made two important announcements in the last few days.

The commission says that the 1955 highway improvement program, approved by the previous commission, will "continue on the books". That means that the present commission has no plans for cancelling or changing highway projects already approved for 1955.

Commission Chairman Russell Lundy said that the new commission desires to preserve as much of the continuity as possible in the construction program and has no plans for cancellation of any prior approved projects.

The commission has also reported that it will let contracts for an additional 100 miles of highway widening this year which will bring the year's total to 600 miles. Previous estimates were that 500 miles would be the most widening that could be accomplished in one season. However, the work is progressing ahead of schedule and with funds available the additional 100 miles will be let for this season.

FACTS AND FIGURES

Well, the Iowa state tax commission has figured how much smokin' and guzzling some Iowans are doing.

Some researcher put the calculating machines to work and figured out (1) that Iowans smoked an average of 90 packs of cigarettes per person last year, and (2) that beer consumption was 15 gallons per person.

Based on the previous year's statistics on the same habits, the beer gallonage per capita held exactly steady while smoking fell off an average of three packs per citizen.

In the last fiscal year, the commission reports, 234,014,179 packages of cigarets were sold in the state, while the quaffers downed 40,180,034 gallons of beer. Cigaret sales were down this year about 8½ million packs while been sales were off 240,000 gallons, but not sufficient to alter the per person consumption figures.

PATROL PAY

Iowa Patrol Chief David Herrick reports that the patrol this month received salary increases amounting to about $25-across-the-board. The salary hikes became effective July 1 and were included in the first paychecks issued after that date.

Herrick said patrol increase was made possible through an increased departmental budget authorized by the last session of the legislature.

Under the new pay scale, patrolmen will receive $310 per month; sergeants, $340; and lieutenants, $370. Authorized patrol strength is 225.

In addition to the patrol, state agents in the bureau of criminal investigation also obtained salary increases.

ANSWERS DEMOCRAT

Jake More, state Democrat chairman, recently critcized selection of Russell Lundy, Des Moines, as chairman of the Iowa highway commission, and said that election of Lundy indicates that Governor Hoegh is dictating the action of the commission.

Lundy was Hoegh's campaign manager.

Robert Beck of Centerville, one of the new commissioners named by the governor, reminded More that "all six Democrats in the senate voted for Lundy's confirmation."

"That's what the member of Jake More's own party in the senate thought of Russ Lundy," Beck reported.

Beck also said that chairman of the Iowa senate committee, which investigated the Lundy nomination before confirming him, was State Sen. George O'Malley of Des Moines, a Democrat.

BOARD ELECTS

The new state board of health has elected Dr Franklin H Topp, Iowa City, chairman, and Dr. Charlotte Fisk, Des Moines, secretary.

Other members of the board, which organized last week, include: Dr Albert L Yocum, Charlton; Dr Samuel Leinback, Belmond; and Dr Donald C Conzette, Dubuque.

Six state officials serve as ex-officio members of the board which serves in an advisory capacity to the state department of health.

NAME LEVITT

Meyer S Levitt, Sioux City, is chairman of the state's new anti-discrimination committee. Dr Harry Harper, Fort Madison, physician, was named vice-chairman and Richard Bruner, Des Moines, a CIO packinghouse official, is secretary.

SAFE FARMING WEEK

Iowa's governor has proclaimed next week as "farm safety week" in the state.

Governor Leo Hoegh has issued a proclamation officially declaring "farm safety week as the seven day period beginning Sunday, July 24.

FAVORS TEAMWORK

Governor Hoegh said that "law enforcement is a matter of teamwork between the attorney general, the public safety department, local officials and the people."

The teamwork plan for law enforcement received his stamp of approval after a quesstion arose on assuming the initiative for law enforcement particularly in the fields of liquor and gambling.

Clinton Moyer, new commissioner of public safety, indicated that his department would assume its full responsibilities as the chief law enforcement agency. Moyer told newsmen that if his department did its job completely there would be no necessity for the attorney general using state agents for liquor raids.

After a conference with Moyer, Atty. Gen. Dayton Countryman reported satisfaction in Moyer's interest to cooperate in the attorney general's program for enforcement of liquor laws.

In recent years the attorney general's office has assumed the initiative in such enforcement drives, although state laws provides that the commissioner of public safety is the state's chief law enforcement officer.

AM VETS ELECT

Ralph Juhl, Waverly, is the new state commander of the Iowa Amvets. New president of the Amvets auxiliary is Mrs Verta Holtorf of Pomeroy.

The Amvets, at their recent state convention went on record favoring reapportionment of the Iowa legislature; redistricting of state school system; speedy action on the proposed Iowa toll road; and a change in the Iowa World War I bonus board law to permit transfer of funds for improvements at the Iowa soldier's home.

SERVES GOP

State Republican leaders are expecting that Allen Whitfield, Des Moines attorney, will become more active on the Republican state central committee, now that his name has been withdrawn for appointment to the atomic energy commission.

President Eisenhower withdrew his nomination of Whitfield after the Iowan had requested such action. Confirmation of the action has been pending four months.

Whitfield is still a member of the state GOP central committee from the fifth district. He had not resigned that job when his nomination had been made to the AEC.

OPPOSES ROADS PLAN

Governor Hoegh has advised members of congress that he is opposed to a house sub-committee proposal for interstate highway improvement that would raise the federal gasoline tax from two to three cents a gallon.

The subcommittee had decided upon a $24-billion dollar 12-year program for interstate highway improvement that would be financed through a one-cent hike in federal gas tax, an increase in diesel fuel tax, plus other excise tax boosts.

The Iowa chief executive several weeks ago, at a midwest governor's highway conference, reported his opposition to a federal road plan that involves an increase of federal gas tax. He feels that the gasoline tax field should now be left to the individual states.

In addition to notifying the Iowa delegation in congress of his opposition to this proposed financing plan, the governor has also notified the national governor's conference.

Marriage Licenses

Recent marriage licenses issued by Hancock County Clerk Doris Young went to Dale A. Doughan, 24, Britt, and Marcella Wellik, 18, Britt; Jack C. McGuire, 28, Britt and Beverly J. Mick, 25, Britt; Marvin Richard Sygaard, 25, Iowa Falls, and Celia Sophia Bredlow, 20, Garner; and to Clarence E. Brees, 27, Augusta, Ga., and Arlene Luella Schott, 23, Garner.

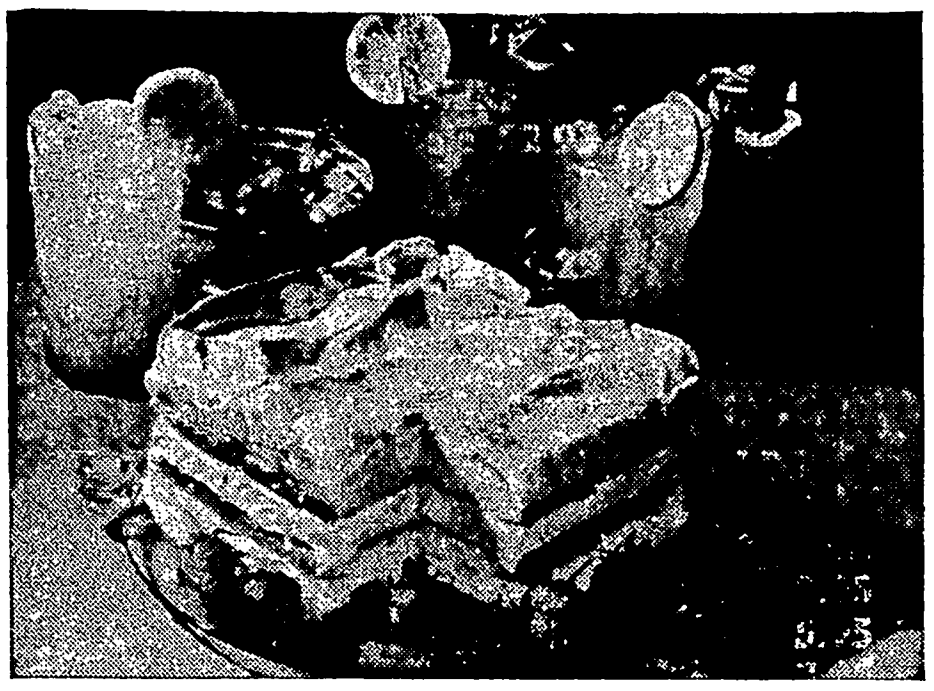
Martha Circle Met

Martha Circle No. 4 met Thursday July 14th, at the home of Mrs Virgil Cook, with Mrs Wallace Pavey as Co-hostess. Mrs Roy Jacobs gave a very interesting lesson. There were thirteen members present. A delicious lunch was served by the hostesses.

The most valuable resource of this nation is the soil. Gold is more spectacular; iron has in two generations made men richer; copper has opened up greater possibilities of advancing techniques. But, it is the soil whch produces the lasting and essential wealth of the nation.—Briner and Shepard, in "Our Use of the Land".

Now's the Time—

Beware of Food Spoilage



Here's a lovely white cake with a cream filling—but it won't be lovely for long unless the baker quickly "stows it away"—away and into the refrigerator so it will be safe for eating. Food spoilage seldom occurs if foods are kept either hot or cold.

* * *

Keep it either cold or hot—never in-between! This is your keynote to prevention of food spoilage—remember it! In case you're wondering to what "cold and hot" refer—it's the temperature at which cooked food is safe for eating.

Temperatures from 70 degrees F and up are ideal for the swift change from good food to spoiled food— so now's the time to be on the alert.

According to Jewel Graham, extension nutritionist at Iowa State College, foods causing the greatest number of food poisoning outbreaks are pastry, cake and pie with cream fillings; poultry; ham; prepared luncheon meats; salads, such as potato, with a mayonnaise or cream dressing; and chicken broth. Especially subject to rapid and dangerous spoilage in a warm place are soft protein foods that have been handled in preparation—chicken is a good example of this.

The best precautions against food spoilage in warm weather are speedy refrigeration and short-time storage. Remember this—foods which are common offenders often show no signs of spoilage. You can't always rely on taste, odor or appearance of the food.

As soon as cooked foods stop steaming, refrigerate them. Do not allow hot foods to cool for a long period of time at room temperature before refrigerating them, Miss Graham warns. The incubation zone for bacteria is between 50 and 120 degrees F., so you want to cool food down below this danger zone as quickly as possible. To do this, let food cool at room temperature for less than one fourth to one half hour after it's cooked.

Egg and Milk Dishes

Because milk and egg dishes are especially good for bacterial growth, be careful of dishes made from these products. Keep custards, cream pies, cream puffs, eclairs, cakes with cream filling, stuffed eggs, egg salads and other similar foods under careful refrigeration— then use them as soon as practical.

Meats, Poultry and Fish

Your refrigerator is the place for meat, poultry and fish during the summer. And even then, plan to use them within a few days.

When you bring these foods home from the store, remember to remove the tight wrapping—then rewrap them loosely in waxed paper before you refrigerate them. These foods need a little air around them, but it should be cold. Uncooked meats are better if allowed to dry slightly on the surface in refrigeration. Cooked meats need to be tightly covered and placed in a cool portion of the refrigerator.

Ham, frankfurters, bacon sausage and other smoked meats should be kept tightly covered during storage so they won't impart the smoked flavor to other foods in the refrigerator.

Picnic Foods

If you're going on a picnic, remember some foods shouldn't wait in picnic baskets or out on the table in warm weather. Unless you have facilities for keeping them cold until eating time, better leave them at home. Be careful of sandwich fillings and mixed salads other than tossed vegetable salad. It's wise to reserve creamed foods for home dinners.

Vegetables

When you store vegetables in the refrigerator, remember to keep them covered. They tend to dry out if you refrigerate them uncovered—unless you have a special moisture-controlled refrigerator.

Plastic bags are particularly good for storing asparagus, snap and wax beans, broccoli cabbage, cauliflower, celery, husked corn, cucumbers, greens, green onions, shelled peas, green peppers and radishes.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Iowa is the Tall Corn state—the number 1 corn producer in the nation! But only slightly over 7 percent of Iowa's cash farm income comes directly from corn.

The reason: Farmers use livestock to market a large part of the corn they raise. Livestock also offer farmers a market for the forage they produce and for labor.

A report just released by the University of Illinois shows the return per $100 of feed fed to various livestock in 1954 and the previous 22-year period on Illinois farms.

Livestock	Returns in 1954	Av. returns 1933-54
Dairy Herds	$141	$171
Poultry	104	163
Hogs	154	148
Dual-purp. herds	95	135
Feeder cattle	126	124
Feeder sheep	119	123
Native Sheep	97	122
Beef cow herds	95	117

The difference between the return figure and the $100 of feed costs represents what the farmer has available to pay for equipment, buildings, veterinary items, labor and management.

Of course some livestock take more labor than others. Dairy and poultry take more time than feeder cattle and hogs, for example. And there is the risk element—dairying has less risk than feeding cattle.

Looking ahead to the next few years, we can expect feed costs to work lower, Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist believes. The reason: Larger supplies of barley, grain sorghums and wheat will be available for feeding and we have a big carry-over of corn. This, coupled with lower price supports, is dropping the feed grain price structure. We can see it working already, with oats priced lower at harvest this year than a year ago.

Thus, Kutish expects feed-livestock price relationships to bring increased livestock production over the next few years.

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

"It will be so hard traveling with Amy", Mary Peterson told her neighbors, "but it's been so long since we've had a vacation."

All through the preparations for the trip, Mary fretted ove the prospect of keeping two-year-old Amy entertained through the long days of driving that would take up most of the vacation.

Finally, Jim, her husband, suggested that they take his mother along. There would be plenty of room and Grandma would be more than glad to help with the baby.

So, when the Petersons pulled away from their small home in an Iowa city early one morning, Grandma was in the back, sitting among a litter of toys, telling Amy about all the cows and horses they would see along the way.

During the next two days, as the trip settled down to a mile-by-mile grind, they did see a lot of cows and horses. And little Amy shrieked at all of them.

Like most grandmothers, the older Mrs Peterson was made of pretty durable stuff where children were concerned and she stuck happily to her post in the back seat caring for Amy.

But once in a while, when the child was quiet, she would doze off. She was sleeping lightly when Jim took a curve too fast and Amy was thrown against the right rear door—the door that had never closed securely since a slight accident six months before.

She woke to hear Mary scream, to feel the car screeching to a stop, to see the horror of an open door and no child. Amy was already dead, a small dusty figure huddled at the edge of the highway.

"It will be so hard traveling with Amy," Mary Peterson had said. It was going to be indefinitely harder traveling back without her.

Hancock County Hash

The budget hearing for the County Extension Council's yearly budget is scheduled to be held at the court room in the court house at 8 P. M. on Monday, July 25. This is a meeting for all persons interested in the extension program. The budget will be reviewed and a vote will be taken on its acceptance. Come and see how your extension, educational program is financed.

We had quite an exciting time at our last County F B Women's Committee meeting. One of our good faithful members came per usual but this time she looked a bit different to us. She had one black and one cream-colored shoe on. In explaining to us how it must have happened, she said she had changed her mind (a women's privilege) on which dress she was going to wear and had first planned to wear the cream shoes. I guess she changed her mind in the "middle of the stream" and her final decision was to wear her black ones.

There were several people who figured she must have a sore corn but they still couldn't see why she couldn't have worn the mate of either shoe even at that. It is interesting to hear what goes through other peoples minds when something out of the ordinary happens. Has this ever happened to you?

This committee meeting was my last official meeting with the Farm Bureau Women's Committee as a group since the new law went into effect. I will not be meeting with this group regularly as I have in the years past.

At the close of the meeting the other day, they expressed their appreciation by presenting me with a piece of luggage. Needless to say I was thrilled to know my efforts have been appreciated and I plan to keep on helping the people of Hancock County as our extension program progresses.

This week and next I'll be on vacation so I'll just let you have vacation too from reading my column. Four of us are driving to Los Angeles. Do you think we can make that in two weeks? We expect to, so we will be back on August 1st.

Mrs Geraldine Steele who will be County Extension Home Economist in Wright County, starting September 1st, will be in Hancock County during the month of August for a training period. She will observe and work with me so she will become better acquainted with our Iowa extension program.

10 YEARS AGO—

Pvt Aaron Wille, who recently visited his parents, has returned to the army hospital at Springfield, Mo., where he is being treated for wounds received in Belgium on Jan. 15th, when he was shot through the upper arm, rendering the member useless. Special treatments are helping him to again use his arm.

Armour Mullin, who recently received an honorable discharge from the army, has opened a repair shop in Kanawha. Mr Mullin is an expert welder, having worked at the trade for several years. Before he entered the service, he was employed as a welder in a ship yard on the west coast.

Following a hot, sultry day last Wednesday, a terrific wind and rain storm of near cyclone force, struck this community at about 3 o'clock Thursday morning. The strong wind uprooted numerous trees throughout the country, blew over several windmills and did some damage to several barns and other form buildings.

Mr and Mrs Tom Roths received a letter Saturday from their son, Pvt Junior Roths stating that he was now stationed in Germany.

20 YEARS AGO—

Monday evening was a clear and cloudless night and the total eclipse of the moon was a beautiful sight observed by many here. The eclipse was total for the entire U. S. and the first for the whole country since 1927. The curving edge of the earth's black shadow cut into the moon at 9:12 p. m. It took 57 minutes for the moon to pass completely into the black shadow, circle and then for a period remained darkened, becoming bright again at near midnight.

Binders have taken to the small grain fields in North Iowa and by Saturday night thousands of acres of grain will have been cut and shocked in Hancock County. The oats looks like the best here in years. The small grain is high and thick and there should be an abundance of fine straw this year. In one field the oats was so big and thick that one farmer had to run two binders, one hitched directly behind the other in order to bundle the grain. He had the binders fixed so that half of the cut grain was elevated directly back to the second binder which helped tie the bundles.

Verle Keraus returned to Council Bluffs Sunday after visiting his parents, Mr and Mrs W C Keraus and son Otho. Verle is employed at the CCC Camp at Council Bluffs where he has been stationed since last fall.

Just to remind you—that a year ago next Saturday, Iowa sweltered in merciless heat that set a record of 118 degrees at Keokuk. Last Saturday in North Iowa, the high reading was 84 degrees and 58 minimum in the night.

30 YEARS AGO—

Ben Greimann recently invaded the camp of Barn Yard Golf championship contenders at Humboldt and when the dust had cleared away Ben had copped first money of tournament along with the cup awarded to the best shoe tosser in Northern Iowa.

Miss Geneva Schuldt has resigned her position as clerk at the G W Kluckhohn and Sons Store.

We are having some mighty fine weather and the oats and corn are looking fine.

Bert Mathews was at Radcliff Sat. and while there stop- Saturday and while there stopped at the hotel for dinner and found Mr and Mrs Crawford were running it. They formerly ran the hotel here.

Our circle is planning an ice cream social at the Church on Saturday evening, August 20th. Watch the paper for further details.

Lunch was served by the hostesses, Pauline Groesbeck and Muriel Schulz.

Ruth Circle Met

The Ruth Circle of the Methodist Church met at the Klemme Park Thursday afternoon. There were 9 members present. All enjoyed picnic after the business meeting and devotions led by Mrs Dale Shelton.

EXPLOSION

A gas explosion in the basement of her home proved fatal to Mrs Edward Pollak of Maquoketa. The explosion, felt by residents as far as 10 blocks away, lifted the frame house from its foundation.

Iowa Electric Light And Power Company to Study Atomic Power

The Atomic Energy Commission has notified the Iowa Electric Light and Power Company that the Company has been granted an Access Permit which will permit Company officers and engineers having proper security clearance to have access to confidential information on atomic power generation.

The permit states that it covers "restricted data relative to the civilian uses of atomic energy and not primarily of military signficance, subject to appropriate AEC security clearance."

According to Duane Arnold, vice president and general manager, the Company is now applying for security clearances covering nine executives and engineers who will comprise the technical staff for atomic power research.

This will enable the Company to keep abreast of the full development and utilization of this new source of electric production and thus assure the future supply of power for industrial development and better living in the Company area.

The Iowa Electric Light and Power Company recently joined with other major utilities in Iowa to form Atomic Power Associates of Iowa. This group will coordinate the studies on atomic power generation and may eventually lead to the construction of an atomic power plant in Iowa.

NOBODY HURT

When George Kehl of Dubuque "cut in" too soon in front of Herman Hawker of Earlville, the two cars hooked bumpers. They lurched and skidded along the highway and shoulder for 232 feet. Both cars remained upright, and no one was hurt.

County To Receive Foreign Farm Trainee

The American Farm Bureau Federation in cooperation with the Foreign Operations Administration has been carrying on a foreign youth exchange program whereby rural youth have the opportunity to go to a foreign country to learn more about rural life. 400 new trainees from 43 countries will again be coming to the U S the last part of January. Iowa will receive 20 and of these 20, one is coming to Hancock County.

Any farmer wishing to accept this trainee please contact the Farm Bureau office before September 15. Also if any rural youth in Hancock County are interested in going to a foreign country, contact the Farm Bureau office to get further information.

Trainees coming to this country are requested to speak and understand English, must be a farm boy, unmarried and agree not to purchase any motorized vehicle while here. The trainee who accepts this trainee must agree to give him free choice about religion and he should be helped to get to any reseaonable place of worship. He is to have a room by himself and enough free time to acquaint himself with rural life in America, especially farm organizations farm cooperatives, 4-H clubs and other youth programs and activities and to participate in community activities.

The trainee to Hancock County is to be between the ages of 20 and 30. The farmers accepting him is to welcome and treat him as he would like his own son to be treated under similar circumstances. The trainee also agrees not to leave the farm during working hours established by the farmer without consent.

Every effort will be made to match trainees with the countries requested by the farmer, however this cannot be done in every case.

The farmer will also agree to provide free of charge comfortable accomodations and good board in the farm home where ever possible and laundry, to pay $50 per month to the trainee and $20 per month to the I F B F to cover travel in the U S and accident and health insurance.

25 From County Expected To Attend Cattle Feeder's Day

About 25 farmers and members of their families from Hancock County are expected to attend the thirty-seventh annual Cattle Feeders "Hey" Day at Iowa State College August 4, according to County Extension Director, Paul Henderson of Garner.

This year's Cattle Feeder's Day offers an unprecedented variety of experimental reports Henderson says. They include experiments with high roughage wintering rations for cows and heifers, a new low-cost Iowa supplement of corncobs, molasses, urea and mineral, breeding hogs following stilbestrol-fed cattle; green clippings fed in drylot and use of stilbestrol on pasture. The new experiments to be reported August 4 involve a total of 386 cattle.

Henderson says anyone wishing to attend the Catte Feeders Day but not plan to drive his own car may leave his name and phone number at the County Extension office in Garner.

Others planning to drive down may have room in their cars they would like to share with a passenger. The program will be held in the Iowa State College gymnasium.

Most Discolored Oats This Year Due To Natural Causes

The discolored oats being reported by some Hancock County farmers as the harvest progresses are probably not damaged in any way.

Hancock County Extension Director Paul Henderson bases that opinion on the information he has had from crop breeders and plant pathologists at Iowa State College. They tell him that most of the cases have been reported from Cherokee, Nemaha, and Bonham varieties. The dis-discoloration seems to result from some inherited factor in the makeup of these varities. It only appears under certain conditions of moisture, temperature and soil. Just what conditions cause it are not known.

The college men, Henderson reports, do not think the discolored oats has been damaged in any way for milling or seed. The oats that have darkened because of this natural occurence are darkened only on the stems and hulls. The groats inside the hulls—which carry the real milling, feed and seed value—shoud be unharmed.

They suggest that farmers and millers hull out some of the discolored oats to check the condition of the groats.

Some farmers and others have confused the natural discoloration with a disease—spetoria blackstem—which causes darkening of the stems, leaves, hulls and often the groats. This is a fungus disease, and it may damage the quality of the oats grain. Often the septoria-damaged oats have shriveled, darkened groats. This does not appear to happen with the naturally darkened oats.

North Ell Tip Toppers Plan Achievement Show

The North Ell Tip Toppers are making plans for their local achievement show to be held on Monday, July 25th. It is to be held at the Klemme grade school basement at 8 o'clock.

The project studied this year has been "Foods and Nutrition." Each girl will display canned and baked goods which she has made. These foods will be judged by Mrs Carl Wille and Mrs Leo Jass. Each girl will have at least one entry at the Hancock County Fair in August.

The program will include a panel group that will conduct entertainment similar to the TV show, "I've Got a Secret." Prizes will be awarded to the contestants that can stump the "experts". Doreen Lackore and Carol Humphrey will give a demonstration, "Cheez-it." This is the one the senior girls will give at the County Fair. If home makers are interested in new ways of using different varieties of cheese in their menus, these girls have many good ideas for them.

Tht junior team, Roxanne Back and Joyce Thiemann, will give the recipe and method for making a date nut bread. This is one that is really delicious.

An auction will be held so everyone will have an opportunity to take home some of these good homemade cakes, cookies, and breads. Also, one girl will earn the right to represent our club in the county food judging contest.

Lunch will be served and the girls extend an invitation to everyone to come and spend the evening and see the work they have done in 4-H this year.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

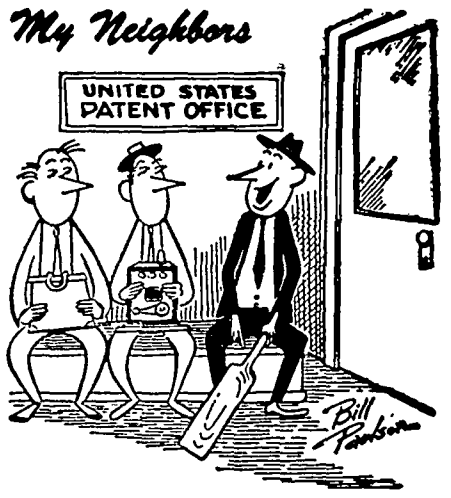
Our bouquet for the week goes to Marshal Richard Ulrich for planning the fireplace in the park and then seeing that it took form. Bouquets, also, to the men who joined in the project: Merlin Ulrich of Mason City, Wallace Pavey and Frank Schulz.

With people doing more and more outdoor cooking, the fireplace should prove very popular.

Dingbat of the week goes to the jerk who kicked a corner off of the fireplace Saturday night before the mortar was completely set. We believe he should have his head examined . . . not gently, either. Why it is that some people have to always be destructive is beyond us.

As one fellow says, "Quite a bit of the world's trouble is produced by those who don't produce anything else."

Thermometer has been crowding a hundred all week! And we thought it was hot last week. Nuff said about the weather.



"It's a device to end juvenile delinquency—you apply it to their rear end!"

Another big bouquet goes to the Klemme Lions Club and to all the people in the community who helped them with their project in the park. Should be beneficial to many for years to come.

Judging from what we have read in newspapers and periodicals, President Eisenhower's disarmament suggestion at Geneva has certainly enhanced the prestige of both he and the U. S. as far as the rest of the world is concerned. More power to him and to anyone else who is sinserely looking for ways to secure peace for the world.

Then there was the guy who said, "A man owes it to himself to become successful. Once successful, he dwes it to the Bureau of Internal Revenue."

"You're only young once. After that, you've got to find new excuses for what you do!"

Fairgrounds Lighted

The Hancock County Fairgrounds at Britt will present a much brighter appearance this year. The grounds and the buildings have all been lighted, including a large entrance archway.

Winner

Mrs. Frank Schulz was the lucky person who was on hand Saturday night when her name was called for the $25 award in the weekly drawing sponsored by the Klemme Commercial Club.

Tuberculosis Contact Program Concluded In Hancock County

During the thirteenth annual case-finding program in Hancock County, 61 persons were x-rayed according to reports from the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association and the Division of Tuberculosis—State Department of Health.

Findings included one probable case. The program was directed by Helen Lemke, public health nurse, who interviewed persons believed to have been exposed to tuperculosis. She took 51 case histories, called in 27 homes and had conferences with 16 physicians.

The case-finding program is sponsored jointly by the Hancock County Tuberculosis and Heatth Association, the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association and the State Department of Health. It has the approval of the Hancock County Medical Society. Local Christmas Seal Funds help defray the expenses of the program.

Besides the tuberculosis findings 15 non-tuberculosis findings were also revealed in the chest x-rays for which further medical study was recommended. There were 40 persons for whom miniature x-ray films showed healthy chests.

The Contact Program was initiated in Iowa in 1937 and it has gained momentum until there are now approximately 80 counties participating in this case-finding survey to detect tuberculosis in its early stages when it is most curable.

Through the continuous effort to find the case and treat the patient, the eventual goal of more and second grade students in tions in this Nation will finally be achieved—THE ERADICATION OF TUBERCULOSIS.

No Objectors At Budget Hearings

Hancock County Supervisors held a hearing on the 1956 budget at the courthouse in Garner on Monday forenoon, at 10 o'clock. There were no objections filed and no objectors appeared at the hearing. The budget calls for tax levies totaling $656,206 for 1956. This is an increase of $30,000 over the previous year reflected in increases in relief and State Institution accouts.

The Conference Board also held the hearing on the budget for the county assessor and no objections were filed or objectors appeared and both budgets were filed with the County Auditor for levy. The assesor's budget called for a levy of $18,300 for 1956. This is the same as for 1955.

North Iowa Bible Conference to be at Lake Okoboji

One of the outstanding events to take place in Iowa each summer is the North Iowa Bible Conference of the Methodist Church. This year it will be held July 31 to August 7, at the Methodist Camp on Lake Okoboji.

The program is especially designed to help laymen of all faiths to better understand the workings of Christianity, and to better use its principles in everyday living. It offers a broad field of subjects. The more than twelve speakers, include bishops, ministers, educators, radio personalities, psychologists, diplomats, world travelers, writers and publicists. Bishop Charles R Claxon of England and the Rev Glenn W Gruner of Japan, will add the international touch.

A feature of the Conference program this year is the music to be presented. Soprano Charoltte Reinke, Metropolitan Opera Company audition winner, will be a headliner, along with Geo. Mathews, tenor, who brings to Okoboji the melodious spirituals of the South. In addition, several other artists will perform under the direction of Dr Robert M Larson, director of the Morningside College Conservatory of Music.

Some families plan their vacations for Conference time each year. Others prefer to go for just a day. For those who wish to stay at the camp, rooms cottages. and meals are available. For additional information contact Rev Melvin Miller, or write Fred Smith, Methodist Camp, Spirit Lake, Iowa.

LAST TIME

Near Britt, the school bell at Erin No. 9 has rung for the last time. Established in 1888, it has now been abandoned. More than 250 persons attended a final reunion on the school grounds recently.

Park Project Complete Except for Lights

Members of the Klemme Lions Club were on hand Monday to complete work on the playing floor at the town park. Lighting is still to be installed but otherwise the project is complete.

Backstops were completed for the tennis court and baskets were erected at each end of the concrete slab. Local tennis enthusiasts can now get in some licks and basketball hopefuls can improve their shooting eyes.

The weather has been too hot this week for anyone to make much use of the new play area, but cool weather should bring more activity.

Looks Like a Big Fair For This Year

Emmanuel Olson, concession superintendent said that according to all the exhibit space sold at the present time there should be a big Hancock County Fair. All the space in a 164 ft by 50 ft tent has been sold and and another tent has been ordered and partically sold. If anyone else would like to exhibit they should contact Emmanuel Olson at the fair grounds or the County Extension office in Garner immediately. He stated also that there is still a little outside space left for machinery exhibits.

The Liberty W S C S will be postponed to Wednesday, Aug. 10, at the Church. Devotional leader is Mrs Ronald Gibbs and lesson leader, Rev Miller.

We will pack a box of sewing materials for Korea.

The members are asked to bring either sandwiches or cookies.

"Every American who loves his country should support a vigorous, continuing policy of conservation".—Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Build Fireplace in Town Park

Shown here are Marshal Richard Ulrich (right) and his brother Merlin completing the job of laying brick in a fire place in the town park. Marshal Ulrich and his brother, who is from Mason City, donated most of the brick and the labor for the fire place and Frank Schulz helped with some of the work. Wallace Pavey donated the necessary iron for the grills, etc.

The fire place should be ready to use this weekend and the way it is built, either wood or charcoal can be used for cooking. Ulrich plans to have some wood cut up ready to use and stacked near the fire place, but charcoal enthusiasts will have to furnish their own fuel.

If the fireplace proves popular, no doubt the town will provide another so that more picnic parties can be accommodated.

Fine Program Planned For Ice Cream Social This Saturday Night

This Saturday night, July 30, is the night set for the annual Music Mothers ice cream social in Klemme. A fine program has been planned for the evening. Past years have proven the social to be one of the more enjoyable community events of the entire year. and the Music Mothers are looking for another large crowd this year.

POLIO SHOTS

Second shots of the polio vaccine will be given to Iowa first and second grade studentts in August and September. The state department of health, which has received a sufficient supply in a second shipment of the vaccine, said each of Iowa's 99 counties could determine whether second shots be given now or when school starts.

Approximately 133,000 children received first shots last May.

Jasper and Calhoun counties had sufficient vaccine left over from the initial shots last spring to give second shots to eligible children.

The vaccine is provided by the national polio foundation free of charge to children in the first and second grades.

TOLL ROAD AUTHORITY

Ed Frick, a Republican and former mayor of Davenport, is the newly elected chairman of the Iowa toll road authority, Willis D Piper, 60, Democrat and a Des Moines tax consultant, is vice-chairman of the commission.

Three other members of the authority are Frederick J Day, Council Bluffs, a real estate and insurance man; Gov Leo A. Hoegh; Chris Larsen, Sioux City, a member of the state highway commission. All three are Republicans.

The authority will meet Aug. 2 and 3 to hear representatives of finance and security groups interested in applying for the position of fiscal agent or advisor for the authority.

The fiscal agent would interview possible bond buyers and obtain the best offer for the bonds for the toll road. Iowa cannot buy right-of-way for toll road construction until the state of Illinois sells bonds for a toll road to the Iowa border.

A test suit of the Iowa toll road law must be made in the courts before any bonds are sold for a toll road in this state.

In addition to a fiscal agent, the state authority must hire a general counsel, a bond attorney, traffic engineering firm and a general engineering consultant firm. However, these positions do not have to be immediately filled and the members of the state authority indicated they will "go slow" in the organization procedures.

FEDERAL ROAD BILL

The Iowa toll road authority has written members of the Iowa congressional delegation urging them to support action to reinstate federal credits to states which construct toll roads on the interstate highway system.

The Iowa Good Roads association board of directors endorsed the Fallon federal highway bill.

The Fallon proposal would increase federal aid for all types of roads, particularly the federal interstate system, and increases the federal gas tax and other road user tax to pay for the improvements.

It involves pay-as-you-go financing provisions and is an offspring of the Eisenhower and Gore federal highway proposals.

The Eisenhower bill, however, gave financial credit to those states which have, are, or will construct toll roads. The Fallon bill does not include such provision. The Eisenhower measure provided a bond issue, the Fallon bill would obtain necessary financing through increased taxes.

Iowa's toll road authority, of course, wants federal credit in the event a toll road's constructed here. The Iowa Good Roads Associaton advocates highway improvements financed on a pay-as-you-go basis.

WELL PADDED

Iowa senators will be able to tread lightly in the next legislative session. The state executive council has authorized new carpeting for the senate chambers, to the tune of $7,484.

Now, it is presumed, things political can get a good kicking around but easily and quietly.

WANT A JOB

The state of Iowa is hunting for a legislative research director, a job that pays $7,500 a year.

State Sen. W C Stuart, Charlton Republican, chairman of the legislative research committee, said the committee has had four applications for the job but said that the group "hopes for more applications before arriving at a decision."

Three of the applicants are Iowans, now working for the state Stuart indicated. Fourth applicant already interviewed by the committee, is John E Westbury, legislative analyst for the state of Nevada, and a former resident of Des Moines.

NEW PLATES

First of 1,300,000 sets of Iowa's new license plates for 1956 have been produced at the men's state reformatory in Anamosa. They have a black background with white numerals.

Letter plates will be necessary after the 9999 number has been reached in each county. The county number designation will continue to be used.

The new licenses will be a lightweight steel material which will be more durable than those now in use, and will be less costly to ship by mail.

CEMENT SHORTAGE

The Iowa Development Commission is exploring the possibilities of expansion of cement-making facilities in Iowa.

T. E. Davidson II, director of the commission, and Russell Lundy, chairman of the Iowa highway commission, have said that stepped-up highway programs, combined with a booming industrial and commercial construction, is creating a cement problem in this state.

Lundy said that progress on several highway projects already has been affected by a cement shortage.

Cement interests in Iowa acknowledge that there may be shortage of cement but point out that the state's highway widening program has not, to date, been delayed because of shortages. In addition, they point out, future planning for the cement industry could be improved if the state highway commission would follow the practice of other states by scheduling their project plans farther ahead so that cement allocations could be more easily made.

EGG LICENSES

Mailing of licenses under the new Iowa egg-grading law was begun this week by the state department of agriculture. Officials said they have applications for 4,000 dealers, 4,000 retailers and 3,000 candlers and graders licenses.

The new law became effective July 4, after having been voted by the last legislature. A test suit is in progress in the courts over the law.

FEDERAL LIQUOR STAMPS

Iowa firms and individuals have purchased 422 federal liquor stamps for the new fiscal year beginning July 1.

In the last fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1955, there were 1,903 stamps sold to Iowans, federal officials reported. They said that many of the stamps are issued later in July and in August.

The stamps are required for all places selling liquor if the federal prosecution is to be avoided. They do not legalize sale of liquor by the drink in Iowa.

Atty. Gen. Dayton Countryman is urging local enforcement officials to raid places holding such federal stamps because he feels that possession of souh is an indication of intent to flout state liquor laws.

Sgt Kermit Rhoades, 52, has been promoted to lieutenant and assistant chief of the Iowa highway patrol. Rhoades has been a member of the patrol since 1935. He replaces Lt. Harry O Brown, who retired recently as assistant chief in charge of drivers license examiners.

Compliance Deadline Near On Corn

Farmers of Hancock County who have more corn acreage than covered by their individual farm allotments were reminded this week by D. Earl Keat, vice-chairman of the county ASC committee, that they have until Friday, August 5, to get in compliance.

He emphasized that compliance with corn allotments is required to be eligible for price support on corn produced this year.

Vice-chairman Keat requested farmers who have excess corn acrege and who reduce it by August 5 in order to be in compliance to notify the county ASC office so that arrangements can be made to have the fields remeasured at the earliest possible time. The cost of such measuring must be paid by the individual farmers.

Fertile Raccoons In Missouri

At least one farmer near Eagleville, Missouri takes his history seriously. Reading that it had been customary for Indians to plant corn and other vegetables in a hill with a small fish for fertilizer, he decided to try it. He had a pond overstocked with bluegills, and from this he took one fish for each hill of watermelons.

"It may have been a good idea", he reported, "but the raccoons came along and carefully dug up each hill. They sure enjoyed the fish."

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

We took our aunt, Mrs A V Eckerman back to her home in Moline, Illinois, Saturday, and it was quite a trip. We had no trouble, but the hot weather nearly cooked us before we got into Moline. We made most of the return trip early Sunday morning so as to beat the heat. Missed a lot of traffic that way, too.

Saw lots of fine looking crops on the trip and a few areas that were almost as badly in need of a good rain as we are here in this vicinity. Also saw a lot of fine looking cattle toward the eastern part of the state . . . and we don't think there should be any shortage of turkey for Thanksgiving tables this fall. Never saw so many turkeys in our lives as there are down in the Ellsworth and Jewell area.

Saw considerable highway widening work being done, and traveled over a stretch of new highway that really shortens the time between Homestead and Iowa City. Part of the widening project between Blairsburg and Jewell is now done, and next summer after they work the highway over from Blairsburg to north of Leland, 69 should be a pretty decent highway to travel. Maybe the name can be changed from "suicide alley" to something less formidable sounding.

Came up behind one of the National Guard convoys north of Jewell and got quite a kick out of the guardsmen in the various vehicles as we passed them. Got the biggest wallop out of one jeep driver who was using the hand throttle to keep his machine in motion while his feet hung out in the cool morning breeze. Bet if he saw any "brass" cruising the convoy, he soon got them inside.

We wonder if small boys wouldn't learn to write much sooner if blackboards were made of wet cement.—Lawrence Jacqua, Humboldt Republican.

If you'll check "Pete" Larsen's ad on the back page of this issue, you'll see that not only is he celebrating his first anniversary in business in Klemme, but he is feeling so good about it that he is offering some prizes that will give the winners reasons to do a little celebrating on their own. In fact, he has a treat in store for every member of the family.

Allen Barz is passing out cigars on that new baby boy and bragging that he had to take out a personal liability policy for the kid, because he was threatening to take a poke at another youngun while still in the hospital. We have a suspicion that Allen had his tongue in his cheek when he made the statement, though. By the way, Al, where's our cigar?

Hear Band Concert And Variety Program

Saturday, July 30th Klemme was the scene of a small celebration.

With the cooperation of Mayor Cook and helpers, the Main Street block was scrubbed Friday evening and the parking lanes repainted. To keep the street clean and to allow the paint to be thoroughly dry, the street was closed Saturday A. M.

In the afternoon activity began with Mr Whitford, Mr Gerardi, and his brother, and Martin Brinkman getting the chairs, tables and platform ready for final band concert of the season and the annual ice cream social, sponsored by the Music Mothers of the Klemme Community School.

These mothers have children in Junior Band, Glee Club, and Senior Band. The social is more of a community get to-gether than it is a money making affair because even with the amount furnished by each mother, the social still breaks even.

However the mothers are willing to give the extra time and work to have a pleasant evening with friends. They do this to show their appreciation for the cooperation of friends and business people throughout the year. What would we have in this busy world if we lost the spirit of community goodwill.

The band concert began at 8 P. M. with Mr Gerardi announcing the numbers. The ice cream sales began at 8:30. After the one hour concert, to add to the evenings pleasure, a program of varied numbers was given. Many friends gathered around the platform so they could really enjoy the following program:

Accordion trio, Ruth Pringnitz, Marvin Josten and Mrs Gerardi; Tap number, "You Are My Lucky Star", Anita Gerardi; "Sidewalks of New York" by Vickie Bridges and Lynn Alden; "Mexican Hat Dance", Anita Gerardi; "Open Up Your Heart," accordion solo, Dean Burk; "Irish Washerwoman", by Julie Stokesbary and Larry Schlawin.

"Margie Polka", accordion solo Earl Lemke; Soft Shoe dance, by Claudia and Franklin Neuberger; accordion solo, "Starlight Waltz", Harlan Block; accordion trio of Ernie Gerardi, Al Gerardi and his daughter, Janene; accordion trio, Al and Ernie Gerardi and Ernie's daughter, Gracka Maria; Melva and Maureen Johnson and Sharon Blau danced "The Doll Dance"; accordion duet by two Gerardi brothers; Melva and Maureen Johnson doing "Top Hat Tap".

After the last number the weekly drawing for money was held. This is sponsored by the Klemme Commercial Club. The winner was Mrs Carl Wille.

Many people have expressed their thanks for the pleasant evening. This social with the cooperation of all, can become a bigger event each year. Rather than have our streets closed for a carnival, that comes into the community and takes out the money, we of Klemme could turn this event into quite a celebration and money can be used to improve our town.

The Music Mothers Officers give a personal thank you to the town for cleaning and blocking the streets. As with all events, we strive to do what is best, There will always be difference of opinions and we welcome constructive criticism.

The band members were given ice cream, cake or pie and orange drink as the treat of the evening. Our young people that perform the extra numbers were also treated and we do thank their mothers for making extra trips to Klemme to help make our evening a big success. Thanks to all.

President, Mrs E A Gerardi; vice president, Mrs Elmer Beier; Treasurer, Mrs Clell La Favre; Secretary Mrs Verner Stromer.

While Senator McCarthy is screaming "sellout", Ike's policy seems to be getting something done. Eleven airmen that have been imprisoned by the Red Chinese are on their way home, and apparently 40 American civilians who have been held by the Chinese are also to be released soon.

We don't know just how this is all being brought to pass, but it seems to us that peaceful methods are better than the idea Joe had. He wanted an expedition to go into China and free these people. Said he would even volunteer for active duty and accompany the expedition. Woudn't be surprised if he was glad he didn't have to make the trip.

Some people are so busy hunting for righteousness that they can't seem to find time to practice it.—L L Patton, Gowrie News.

The 30-day weather forecast calls for a hot and dry August . . . even more so than normal. There has been a lot of talk about the whopping big corn crop in the offing for this year, but the weather has certainly been cutting down the prospects. Corn on heavy soil is still alright, but a lot of the fields on lighter soil are really suffering. A good rain would be very beneficial for all the corn, but those light soil fields have just about got to have it . . . and soon . . . if they are going to make enough crop to be worth harvesting.

Member of the Ground Observer Corps in this part of the state should be getting lots of practice at calling in reports. It seems as though every evening for the past couple of weeks there have been an unusually large number of planes in the air. The vapor trail left by the high-flying B-47's makes a pretty sight, and it's nice to know we've got 'em . . . just in case.

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

DRIVERS LICENSES

Dr. A. R. Lauer, head of the driving research division of Iowa State College, believes that provisional licenses for drivers under 21 would improve the state's safety record. Such provisional licenses, he said, might also be issued to those over 21 who have become involved in accidents which they might have avoided.

Lauer would have the provisional licenses colored or stamped in such a manner that they would be easily recognizable. Holders of those would be considered to be on probation. Their licenses could be revoked merely by notice from licensing officials.

The Iowa State expert also recommends more rigid examination before licensing drivers.

WARM RECEPTION

The dozen Russian Communists, now visiting other states after a week in Iowa, were treated almost like another wonder of the world by citizens of the Hawkeye state. The Russian agricultural specialists, time and again, remarked about the warm reception and treatment they received while touring the state.

A few Iowans, including Gov. Leo Hoegh, received invitations to visit Moscow for the annual Russian Agricultural Exposition this fall.

Apparently the fact the 12-man Russian delegation, in the exchange which saw a group of Iowa farmers go to Russia, were all Communist party agriculture officials had little adverse effect on their Iowa visit.

Governor Hoegh, himself, when the group first landed, expressed disappointment over the fact that the delegation was composed of Russian officials rather than "dirt farmers". The governor had made himself available to accompany the U. S. group to the Soviet but was turned down because of his state rank.

NO FEDERAL PLAN

Congressional action in turning down a federal highway program in this session tends to give greater impetus to any toll road plans in Iowa, at least for the present. It also means that all highways in the state that are a part of the interstate federal network will not, in the near future, be modernized to four-lane freeways as contemplated.

President Eisenhower's plan, which would have greatly improved the federal network of highways, including highway 6 west-east across state, had provisions for reimbursing states for toll road construction on the interstate system or closely paralleling. Revisions to the original Ike plan would have taken away the reimbursement provisions and, if the measures had passed, might have sounded the death knell for toll road construction. With modern four-lane freeways many toll roads would not have been feasible.

TURKEY IN THE STRAW

While Iowa observes it's mid-summer turkey festival, the industry reports that turkey production has increased 197 percent in the last 10 years in the state. In 1954 Iowa was fourth nationally in number of turkeys produced and sold.

Gross income from Iowa turkeys. the Iowa Development Commission said, was $22,984,000 in 1954.

Ellsworth in Hamilton county, and Wellman in Washington county, are the top turkey production areas.

NAMED STATE BOARD

Five Iowans have been named by the governor to the board of trustees of the state traveling library.

Named are Mrs Lewis Rathje of Clinton, Dwight Erickson of Indianola, Mrs. Orville Harris of Jefferson, Russell Schall of Belmond, and Mrs. A. S. Wendell of Bronson.

The board is appointed under a new law by which membership would consist of persons named to serve without compensation. Previously state officials served on the board.

COSTS INCREASE

Mental health institute care for Iowans increased last year, a state auditor's report reveals.

Net cost of a patient at the mental health institute at Clarinda increased $72.77 to a total of $892.79 a person for the year.

Average number of patients was 1,218 a decrease from 1,328 in the previous year.

ORPHAN'S CARE DOWN

At the Annie Wittenmeyer Home at Davenport, last year, the cost per youngster dropped from $2,060.96 a year to $1,947.45.

Average population at the home was 233, a decrease of 58 from the previous year.

AN ANNUAL

Every year about this time a capitol reporter resurrects the yarn about certain state employees being so cold in 100-degree temperature that they must wear sweaters or other warm clothing.

It happened again the other day.

Iowa's state office building is air-conditioned. Since it was completed about four years ago partitions have been added in some of the floors. This means that while all rooms are cooled some spots are colder than cool.

Because of this light sweaters are normal attire for some of the women workers. One, this year, even turned on an electric heater while the thermometer registered 99 outside.

Maybe the air conditioning should be removed then everyone would be stuck with the same story.

MISS IRWIN NAMED

Helen G. Irwin of Des Moines, past president of the national federation of business and professional women's clubs, has been named to the state merit system council by Governor Hoegh.

The council is the central personnel office for the state department of health, state and county departments of such welfare, employment security commission state service for crippled children, and the Iowa mental health authority.

HEADS CONSERVATION UNIT

George M. Foster, Ottuma, is the new chairman of the Iowa conservation commission for the coming year. He succeeds J D Reynolds of Creston. Joe Stanton, Des Moines, is the new vice chairman.

STATEWIDE DEER SEASON

The Iowa conservation commission has announced a statewide open season on deer. Bow and arrow shooting dates are Oct. 29 through Nov. 20 with hunting from 6:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. Shotgun or rifle hunting will be from Dec. 5 through Dec. 7 with shooting hours from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

The license fee this year is $10 and the season limit is one deer.

EVERDS NAMED

The governor's new refugee committee has named Richard Everds, Estherville as chairman; Mrs. Robert Lappen, Des Moines vice-chairman, and the Rev. Paul Hans, Des Moines, secretary.

The governor named a new committee in an effort to "make the program work" in Iowa. He said he is convinced the U. S. refugee program is a good one and wants this state to participate actively.

Mrs Mary Huncke, a member of the board of social welfare, last June resigned as chairman of the former committee. She said she quit because the program has been "a complete flop as far as Iowa is concerned."

TOY TRAIN

A discarded toy train has led to an international friendship between a Shell Rock boy and an 11 year old Greek boy. The unusual long distance friendship started when the Greek youngster was given a package containing the train, which Dale Card of Shell Rock had turned in to a school collection for distribution abroad.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The annual season for unlimited trapping of Iowa motorists now has opened and will continue until the corn harvest. Here are a few tips:

The trap has proved most effective in the past is quite a simple affair and can be set up with little trouble at almost any intersection. High weeds and low-hanging trees in the corners add to the potency of the trap with very little extra effort.

In principle, of course, the trap is a blind which blocks a driver's view of incoming roads at the intersection. If another car enters the intersection at the same time, they often will crash together and the trap is sprung.

(By the way, this type of trap never needs to be re-set and it requires virtually no maintenance.)

The effectiveness of this trap is not so much in its simple mechanics as in the habits of the type of motorist most often caught.

The motorists most easily trapped at blind intersections simply doesn't seem to care that he can't see the incoming roads. He drives headlong into such intersections and, thus traps himself.

But a word of caution: Most of the motorists trapped in blind intersections live within two or three miles of the scene of the accident. They know the trap is there but, apparently, forget or ignore it.

Those who feel these traps are too dangerous to have around may destroy them by cutting the corn in the intersections just above the ears, and back from the corner for about 100 feet.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

The time is running short to cull off-quality cows and heifers, Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist reports.

Normally, prices of these grades of cattle drop during the mid-summer and fall. That's because of the heavy marketing of grass cattle off the ranges.

Movement of these range grass cattle has been delayed this year because of a good forage throughout most of the west, Kutish says. But there are signs that the runs are beginning. Denver reported stepped-up runs of cows last week. Prices there are about -2 lower than 2 weeks earlier.

Cow beef has been weaker on the New York wholesale market. This is another indication of the beginning of the seasonal downturn in the cow market, according to Kutish.

So Hancock County farmers will want to take a look at their cattle herds. If they have off-quality stuff that they plan to clean up, chances are these cattle should be moved soon.

Turning to hogs, Kutish reports the market continues sensitive to changes in receipts Each market seems to reflect the conditions in its own area these days. Thus, one market will be up—another, down. All on the same day. The reason: the first market has reduced receipts, the second, heavier receipts.

Thus, to get top money for thei Hancock County farmers will want to check several markets before selling, Kutish advises.

RECOVERING

Jim Spaudling, Guthrie Center, youth, is recovering in the hospital there after being found in a state of shock, while working with a detasseling crew. The shock was the result of a reaction to scratches from corn plants, and exposure to the latter. Such a reaction is quite rare.

Harvest Potatoes Now If Vines Are Dead

The green foliage of potatoes in many gardens in Hancock County is dead, and it appears the plants have matured and died.

But, Paul Henderson, county extension director, says this is not the whole story. Actually he says, the high soil temperatures this summer plus the moisture content have caused dormancy of the potato tuber to be broken. Therefore, a high percentage of the tubers are growing. The potatoes are not satisfactory for storage when this happens, so Henderson says the potatoes should be dug as soon as possible and used. Not enough damage has been done to ruin them, but they should be dug now before more damage is done.

If you sprayed your plants for leaf hopper, and they are still green, it isn't necessary to dig them. They will continue to grow for some time yet. Henderson says a good straw or some similiar mulch around the plants earlier in the summer could have prevented the breaking of dormancy by keeping the ground temperature lower.

He says if you can't use your potatoes immediately, they can be stored in a cool cave, which will slow down the growing.

Get Soil Samples On New Seedings

Soil tests taken from new seeding will determine whether the soil will need to be top dressed with fertilizer.

Paul Henderson, county extension director, says you should inspect the seedings after the oats have been combined. A good stand but poor growth may indicate the lack of fertility.

Response from fertilizer applied now will be just about as great as if it had been applied at the time of seeding. On many soils, response can be expected from an application of phosphorus or potassium, or both.

Established stands of legumes can alo be top dressed if:

(a) there is a good stand of legumes and,

(b) the field will be left in a legume for at least one more year. Henderson says top dressing can be done now and also in the fall of the year.

Soil samples should represent a uniform area 5-10 acres in size containing only one soil type. The sample should be a composite from 15-20 places in the area and mixed together for a composite sample.

Information sheets and sample cartons can be obtained at your county extension office.

Last year following disasters approximately 62,000 persons were given Red Cross emergency mass care, which included free feeding and sleeping accommodations.

Expect 100,000 to Attend 6-day North Iowa Fair

The North Iowa Fair, to be staged Aug. 9 through 14 in Mason City, offers more than $20,000 in premiums, the highest total in history, according to M. C. (Cap Lawson, secretary manager.)

Well over 100,000 persons are expected to enter the grounds during the six-day event. The gate has topped that mark for the past three years.

Spectators and competitors from 15 North Iowa counties will jam the grounds in south Mason City. Counties represented will be Butler, Chicasaw, Floyd, Franklin, Hancock, Hardin, Howard, Humbolt, Kossuth, Mitchell, Winnebago, Winneshiek, Worth Wright and Cerro Gordo.

Livestock numbers are expected to be at a record high. Last year two auxiliary tents were erected to handle the increase as will probably the case this year. Lawson says entries in the various departments are coming in earlier, indicating an increased interest.

Headlining the entertainment side of the fair will be six 8 p.m. shows of ice skating magic, featuring the Ice Varieties of 1955, starring the fabulous Evelyn Chandler, one of the world's foremnost figure skaters. North Iowans like ice revues, says Lawson, so one of the best has been secured for 1955.

Gates open Aug. 9, at 10 a. m. First grandstand event will be the motorcycle races at 2 p. m. that day.

Other afternoon shows include the popular Gene Holter Wild Animal Show on Aug. 10 and 11; the Art Swenson thrillcade on Aug. 12; 100-mile stock car races on Aug. 13; and the final afternoon feature, big car races on Aug. 14.

The famed 20th Century Shows will be back on the midway, according to Lawson. "We have found that the 20th Century is one of the best in the nation, so we invite them back this year," the manager says.

Before each afternoon and evening grandstand performance a North Iowa band will entertain, a custom of long standing and especially popular with high school youths.

Fair officials believe the Ice Varieties of 1955, which will perform each evening, will prove to be one of the most popular drawing cards in recent fair history.

It looks like another record year for the North Iowa Fair, to be staged this year Aug. 9 through the 14.

Winning an argument is the best way to lose a friend.

Since January 1948 approximately 45,500 volunteer registered nurses have trained with the American Red Cross for assisting in the organization's Blood Program activities.

Last year three out of every five students enrolled in elementary and secondary schools were volunteer members of the Junior Red Cross.

Deer Hunting Regulations Announced for 1955

A 1955 statewide open deer season has been announced by the State Conservation Commission. The season will be a split one, with a season for bows-and-arrows only extending from from October 29 to November 20, 1955, both dates inclusive. Hunting hours for the bowhunting season will be from 6:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. daily.

For hunters using shotguns and rifled slugs only, the season dates will be from December 5 to December 7 both dates inclusive, with daily shooting hours from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

The deer hunting license fee was reduced from $15 to $10 by the last legislature, which also set a daily bag limit and a season limit of one deer. Under the new regulations a limit of 6,000 licenses will be sold. If license applications exceed 6,000 a drawing will be held to determine the applicants receiving licenses. During the 1954 season a total of 7,248 permits were issued.

Owners or tenants of land and their children may hunt, kill, and possess one deer without a license, but may not remove that deer from said land in whole or in part unless it is tagged with a seal provided upon request to the Conservation Commission. Applications for license may be sent immediately to the State Conservation Commission and must be accompanied by check or money order for $10. No applications will be accepted later than October 12.

Deer of any age or sex may be taken by both bowhunters and gun hunters. Ten, 12, 16 and 20-gauge shotguns shooting rifled slugs only may be used during the 3-day "gun only" season and bows of 40-pound pull or more shooting broadhead arrows only will be permitted during the bow-and-arrow season. The use of dogs, domestic animals, automobiles, aircraft or any mechanical conveyance, salt or bait is prohibited in taking deer.

A metal locking tag issued with the licenses or on request by landowners, must be affixed to each deer before the carcass can be transported. All hunters required to purchase licenses must possess a 1955 deer license and wear a red license number and insignia provided with the license when hunting deer.

It has been estimated that Iowa's deer herd numbered about 11,000 animals in late winter. With this spring's reproduction, the present herd is thought to be about 15,000 deer. During the 1954 deer season there were from 2,600 to 2,700 deer killed. Since the 1953 deer season, hunting pressure has dispersed Iowa deer from areas of former concentration and caused the herd to scatter over the state, and deer are now numerous in areas that had few deer three years ago.

Last year the American Red Cross issued over 2,052,200 certificates to persons completing free Red Cross training courses, including safety service training and home nursing training.

Announce New Policy On License Sales

Under a new ruling by the State Conservation Commission, most hunting, fishing and trapping license depositories will be required to post at least $1,000 bond if they are to continue handling such licenses.

All depositories other than county clerks and recorders, justices of the peace and other public officials will be required to post such bond. The policy will become effective with the beginning of the new license year on April 1, 1956.

Hunting, fishing and other licenses are now handled by many sporting goods stores, and other depositories, and local conservation officers are responsible for the licenses issued to these agents.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Our town park presented a nice appearance Sunday evening. Making use of the new fireplace and one of the picnic tables toward the north end of the park were Mr and Mrs Robert Andreae and their daughters. The Andreaes are the first to use the fireplace and they report that it works very well. Said the park was a fine place for a cook-out.

In addition to the picnicers, there was a tennis game in progress on the new court, and several interested onlookers were enjoying the game.

We are glad to see more and more recreational facilities added to our park and hope that more people will see fit to take advantage of them. The park is kept neat and clean by Marshal Richard Ulrich, and makes an ideal place to relax and enjoy an evening outdoors.

Only 19 more days til school gets underway for another year. Another summer soon gone. School begins on August 29th this fall, so, kids, you better get all caught up with things you wanted to get done during the summer of freedom. It's about over with.

Kitty Kallen says that "Summertime is when school is all out and parents are all in."

"Pete" Larsen was well pleased with the success of his 1st anniversary in business celebration Saturday. A large number of people were on hand through the day. Clifford Montgomery was the lucky guy that won the hind quarter of beef, while other winners were as follows: Charcoal Brazier, Everett Jurgemeyer; Electric Popcorn Popper, Mrs Harm Dirks; Silverware, Robert Roths; and the three bags of groceries went to Lawrence Schaer of Mason City, Mrs Orville Bridges and Mrs Chester Renner.

We imagine that Postmaster Franklin Kluckhohn is busily engaged in relaxing on the golf course these days. He's having a couple of weeks of vacation, and the golf course is his favorite place for spending vacations. We are going to be afraid to tangle with him in the links for we hear he is getting pretty sharp.

Had a nice fisit with Ed Thompson Tuesday morning. Ed and his family are visiting here from Walnut Creek, California where they moved a couple of years ago. They like their California home very much as the climate is good and the country is beautiful.

We asked Ed about snow, and he said that he really enjoyed the snow they have there. He says he can get up in the morning and see it on a mountain about 18 miles away . . . and that's as close as it gets. Boy, would we like that. No snow to shovel; no ice on the highways; no blizzards.

County to Receive $87,999 In Agricultural Land Tax Credits

Hancock County Auditor Hattie A Jass has received a communication from Glen D Sarsfield, State Comptroller, advising that Hancock County would receive a total of $87,999.72 in Agricultural Land Credit on the 1955 claims from the county which totaled $94,773.72. The money available in the state to pay claims against the fund were insufficient and all claims were prorated on a basis of 92.8524-449%.

Agricultural land credit is applied for refund of the General Fund School levy in excess of 15 mills and is paid on land and tracts of ten acres or more on which application for homestead tax credit has not been made.

Farm Bureau Women To Report Accidents

Iowa Farm Bureau Women, meeting at their summer conference recently, decided to undertake a large scale farm and home safety project.

At least four women from each of Iowa's 1,260 townships are being urged to report accidents in their communities. Tabulations of these reports will be used as a basis for safety programs and will also be made available to other groups interested in promoting safety on the farm.

$10,000 Federal Funds Help School Hot Lunch Program In County

School children in Hancock County benefited to the extent of $10,121.78 in Federal funds used to help finance their noon lunches during the school year 1954-55 Chas. S Whitney, County Superintendent of Schools announced today.

Eight Hancock County schools participated in the Iowa School Lunch Program during the past year. In these schools 268,335 type A or complete lunches were served. Of this number 5,601 were served free to children unable to pay.

In addition to these funds, Whitney reports that the schools received without cost to them except for the transportation from the distribution center, a large variety of commodities, such as canned peas, canned peaches, tomato paste, canned tomatoes, peanut butter, grapefruit sections, and orange juice. The above items were purchased from a part of the school lunch appropriations as authorized by the National School Lunch Act. In addition, the following surplus commodities were distributed to schools and institutions during the past year, print butter, dry beans, dried milk solids, cheese, and cotton seed oil shortening.

Whitney said the money paid to participating schools in this county is part of the total of $981,057 allotted to the public schools of Iowa to help finance the lunch program in the 909 participating schools. That word comes from C W Bangs, the State Director of the School Lunch Division of the Department of Public Instruction. This division administers both the school lunch program and the commodity distribution program in Iowa.

Hodges, Director of of Social Welfare, has announced the Hancock County Department that his office will distribute the surplus commodities allotted to Hancock County at the following—place and time: Garner, City Hall, August 15, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Britt, Old Light Company Office located two blocks west of the First State Bank, August 16, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Kanawha, City Hall, August 17, from 9 a.m. to 4 p. m.

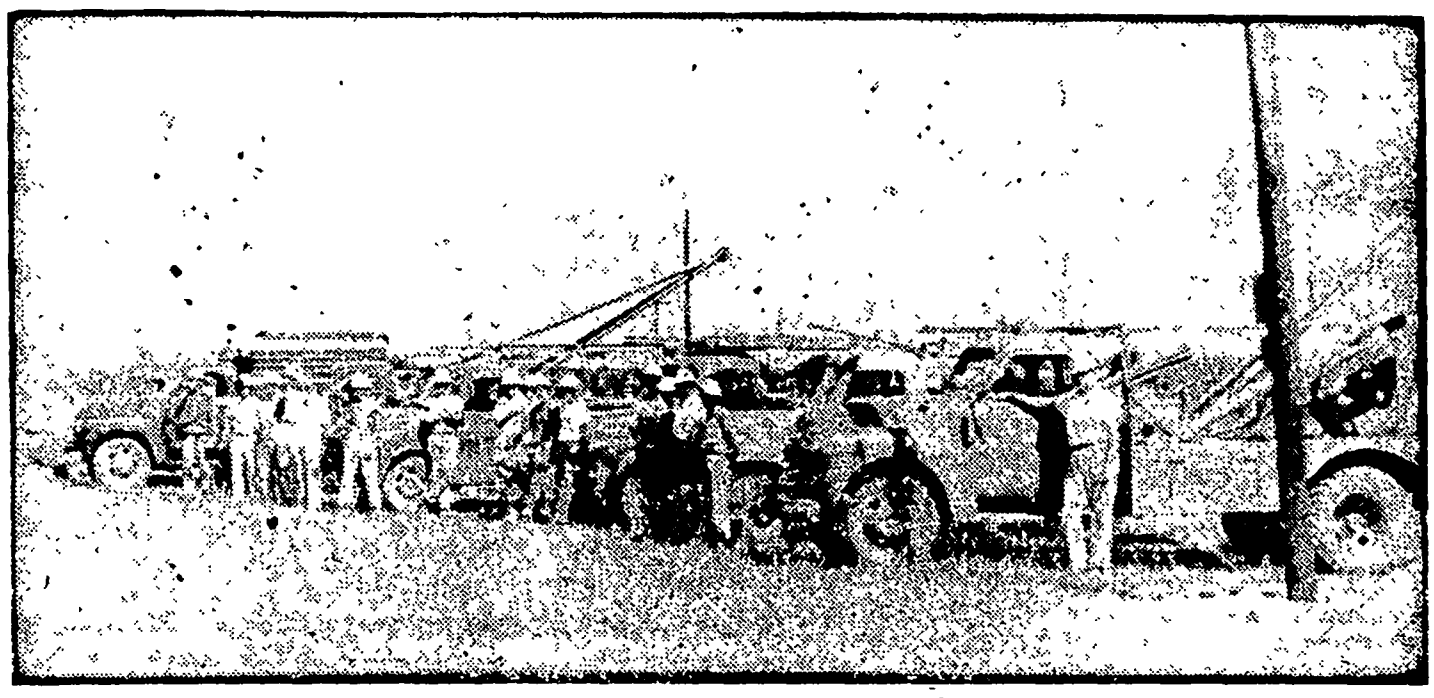
Construct 'White-Way' For Fair Aug. 16-19



Seventeen men with 10 units of equipment completely rewired the parking and display areas of the Hancock County Fairgrounds July 27 in preparation for the fair August 16-19. Crews from the Iowa Electric Light and Power Co. and Hancock County REA cooperated in the job.

They started at 7 a. m. and finished at 4 p. m. placing 16 poles 35 ft. high and stringing several thousand feet of wire. The new wiring will put 16,500 watts of light on the 770,000 square ft. area. No machinery of display booth will be more than 75 feet from floodlights or power service.

Two Britt firms are furnishing material and building a lighted arch for the entrance which will be in place by fair time.

● RANDOM THOUGHTS

In addition to the fact that they are not troubled with snow, they have some other good points about their climate. Even though in the summertime it sometimes goes above 100 degrees, still at night it cools off so that you need a blanket in order to sleep comfortably. We could have used some nights like that during the past couple of weeks when we had that long hot spell.

Ed is going to teach shop (wood and metal work) in the junior high school at Concord this year. Concord is a town adjacent to Walnut Creek and Ed says he will have to drive about six miles to and from work each day. Says he believes that it will be work that he will enjoy, though.

We talked some with Ed about the trip from California to Klemme, and we shouldn't have done it. Not that it wasn't interesting, but it made our feet itch. Traveling is very interesting, and every time we hear about some interesting place that we haven't seen, we get a hankering to hit the road and go see it. Can't see them all, though, so guess we'll just have to bide our time and take in what we can as we can.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

TAX STUDY

Iowa's new tax study committee is hard at work. But up to date, the group has spent much of its time just in getting acquainted with its rather wide scope of proposed study.

It has discussed many things but it's a bit early in the game for a definite pattern of thinking of recommendations to emerge.

One member of the committee, Robert Johnson of Iowa City, said he'd like to throw to eliminate state aid to such special groups, including agricultural land tax credit.

These are programs under which state funds, mostly derived from sales and income taxes, are used for the relief of local property taxes.

It was brought out that many states are not as liberal as Iowa in granting veterans exemption.

But it's too early to predict whether or not the tax committee will make a formal recommendation on such forms of tax exemption.

Veterans groups will appear before the committee later.

GAS TAX

Earle Smith, Iowa state gasoline tax division director, has indicated that effort to collect tax from interstate trucks is time well spent. Tax collections for the first six months of 1955 were $1,918,915 ahead of the corresponding period a year ago. Since the tax itself did not increase until July first, the increased income is due to better collection, he thinks, and definitely not to the higher tax.

More highway traffic is doubtless responsible for much of the increase. But the state's action in halting trucks coming into the state over the southern and western borders has apparently paid dividends. The trucks are required to pay the Iowa tax on all gasoline over 20 gallons in the fuel tank.

EGGS

How do you like your eggs?

The new egg-grading law is back "on" again, at least for the next two months.

A supreme court order has lifted a temporary injunction issued by Polk county district judge Ray Fountain, prohibiting enforcement of the egg law.

In October, the supreme court will hear an appeal by the state, on Judge Fountain's injunction.

The disputed law requires grading of all eggs when bought from producers and when sold at retail. It also requires licensing of egg dealers, retailers, and graders.

About three-fourths of the egg dealers in Iowa have been complying with the law voluntarily, it is estimated. The injunction left Iowa without an egg law.

CEMENT

The Iowa highway commission is trying to find out how much cement will be available for the big proposed 1956 primary road construction program in Iowa.

The commission has written every manufacturer, asking what volume of cement can be allocated for each month of next year's construction.

September first was set as the date by which the commission hoped to have a reply.

Lack of cement has prevented awarding of some road-building contracts this year. As a result, the commission has increased its "asphaltic concrete" program.

VACATION

State of Iowa employees are in somewhat of a dither; who gets a three weeks vacation?

Last spring the legislature passed a law giving three weeks vacations to employees who have served 10 years or more.

The attorney general ruled that persons whose employment anniversary came prior to April 21, the effective date of the law, can't get a three weeks vacation until next year, even though they may have had 10 or 15 years of service.

The Iowa State Employees Association will take the matter to court.

GRASS ROOTS

The agriculture committee of the U S senate will hold a "grass roots" hearing in Iowa, Oct. 26, at Des Moines The meeting will be part of a 5-weeks tour of farm areas.

Purpose, says committee chairman Senator Allen Ellender of Louisiana is to see how the farm program can be improved.

Our Lions Club project, which was once a dream, has now become a reality. As I sit here writing this letter, I can look across the park and see several youngsters putting our playing court to good use. There is no doubt in my mind but what our club has given the young people of this town a play area that Klemme can be proud of.

Naturally, we would like to have this playground kept looking its best. Therefore, I would like to make the following suggestions as to the upkeep of the court:

1. Keep off the dirt shoulders as much as possible. The ground has not had a chance to settle and walking on it will cause it to be rough when it does settle.

2. Do not throw dirt on the court. Dirt is rough on tennis and basketballs and it can causes a person to slip and fall.

3. Don't climb the fence or light poles. Fencing is easily stretched out of shape by climbing.

4. Leave the tennis net tightener alone. The net tightener has has already been broken due to someone's carelessness.

5. Be off the court by 9:30 p. m. We don't want people living near the park to have to complain about niose at late hours.

I don't think these regulations should restrict anyone's enjoyment of the court to any great extent. Following these simple regulations will help preserve the appearance of the court. Our club members hope that you who use the court will cooperate with us in keeping the playground in the best shape possible.

The Klemme Lions playground could not have been completed so soon without the generous contributions made by the following:

Edwin Josten	$50
V A Cook	$50
John Chambers	$20
Klemme Co-op. Grain Co.	$50
Roy Schaefer	$20
Town of Klemme	$100
Klemme Fire Dept.	$50
Corner Store	$20
C A Larsen	$25
Klemme Legion Auxiliary	$10
Klemme Grandmothers' Club	$5
Verner Priebe	$5
Mr and Mrs Paul Grange In memory of their son, Dorance	$25
Total	$430

To them, we of the Lions Club extend our sincere thanks and appreciation for their generous donations. Also, we wish to thank Junior and Bob Roths for the several loads of dirt they hauled in for us, and Fred Arnold for his welding. And a big "thank you" to all the others who had any part, large or small, in constructing our playground.

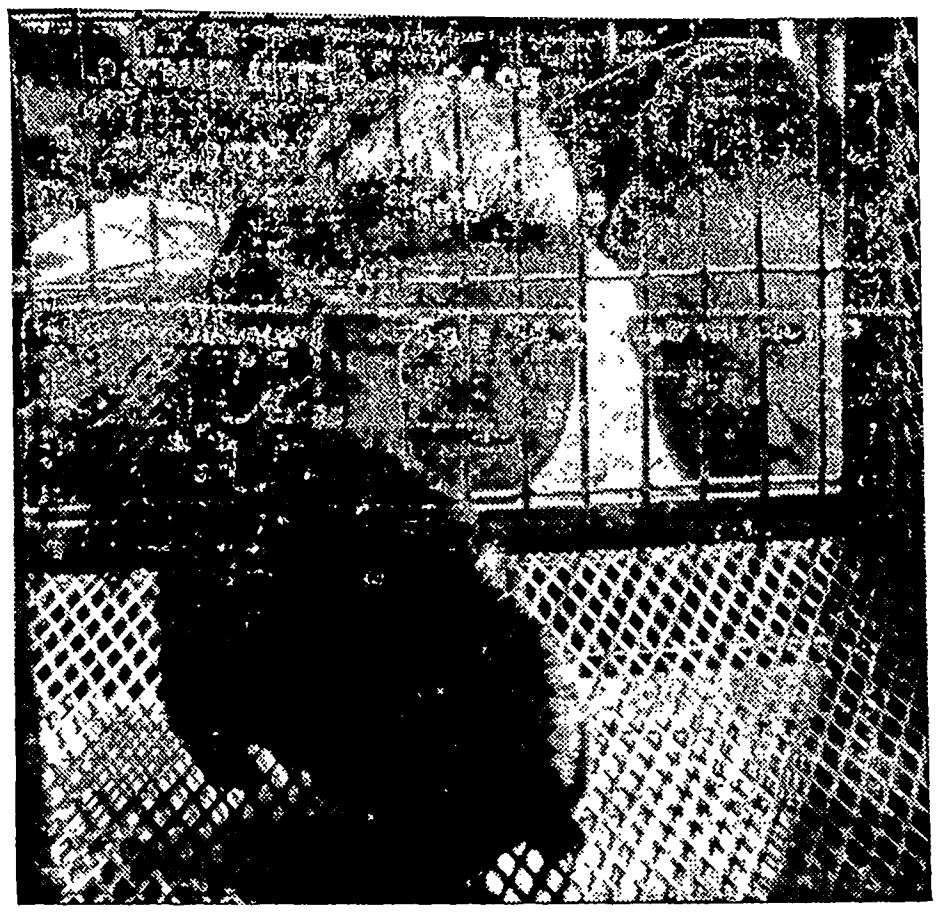
Conservation Exhibit to be at Fair



The State Conservation Commission's traveling exhibit will be at the Hancock County 4-H Fair, August 16th through 19th.

The exhibit is housed in a custom-built trailer thirty-four feet long, is drawn by a truck tractor, and contains complete public address and water systems. Upon reaching its destination sliding panels in the sides of the trailer are raised and the exhibit may be viewed from the outside.

About one hundred living mammals, birds, fish, and reptiles are carried in the tanks and cages of the exhibit. Local conservation officers and exhibit personnel are on hand to answer questions, distribute literature, and give talks.

Visiting Iowa schools and communities since 1948, the exhibit is viewed by about 300,000 Iowans each year. Showings at schools begin in April and continue until summer recess. The exhibit is shown at fairs and other celebrations until the schools reopen, where the exhibit is shown until cold weather forces a retreat to winter quarters.

Oats As Summer Feed For Dairy Cattle

With most Hancock County oats in the bins, County Extension Director Paul Henderson start thinking of using new oats says it's time for dairymen to in their summer feeding program both for the milking herd and for calves and heifers.

Donald Voelker, extension dairyman at Iowa State College points out that you can improve your summer feeding ration by adding oats. He says oats have a good growth producing quality. They contain 2 to 3 percent more protein and fat than corn, but are slightly lower in total digestible nutrients on a dry matter basis. They contain less carbohydrates than corn, and therefore, produce less heat. This cooling effect makes oats especially desirable for summer feeding.

Voelker suggests a summer ration of 400 pounds of corn and cob meal, 400 pounds of ground oats and 100 pounds of high protein feed, such as linseed or soybean oilmeal. He says it pays to grind oats as well as other farm grains for dairy cows because it aids in complete digestion and better utilization of the feed.

Feed 1 pound of the mixture for each 5 to 6 pounds of milk produced daily if the cows are on good pasture. Then increase to 1 pound for each 4 pounds of milk as the pasture decreases in quality.

Calves do especially well on oats because of the growth producing factor. Hulled, crimped, or rolled oats are best for young calves. Finely ground oats may cause digestive troubles. Whole oat may be fed to calves up to 6 to 8 months old.

A recommended summer ration for dairy calves is 300 pounds of bran and 100 pounds of high protein supplements.

Build Self-Feeder To Prevent Waste

Keep Feeder Full for Beef Calves on Pasture

If your'e going to creep feed beef calves running with their dams on pasture, here are some suggestions on how to build the feeder and creep:

EAVES FOR FEEDER

William Zmolek, extension livestock marketing specialist at Iowa State College, says it's a good idea to build a self-feeder with wide overhanging eaves which keep out rain and prevent feed waste. The throat of the grain opening should be adjustable so only a little of the grain comes out as the calves eat it. A variation of 1 to 4 inches in the grain opening is required to handle whole grain and ground grain.

A self-feeder 10 feet long will accommodate 40 to 50 calves. The fence around the feeder should be at least 10 feet from the feeder on all sides. Make several openings in the fence, Zmolek suggests, by setting post 16 inches apart and bracing them to prevent the cows from crowding them apart. This space will allow 600-pound calves to enter. Zmolek says calves prefer to slip between posts rather than bend their backs to get under a low board.

KEEP FEEDER FULL

Never let the feeder get empty, Zmolek warns. If it gets empty the calves will be hungry and may go "off feed" when it is refilled. Never change the kind of feed suddenly. Always keep the feed fresh and remove any spoiled feed.

Creep feeding, Zmolek says, is usually profitable for beef producers who intend to sell the calves as feeders or to keep and finsh them immediately after weaning as light marketing beef -"baby beeves". Creep feeding won't pay for calves you intend to winter on roughage or those you are going to long-feed to heavy market weights.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Milk production during the first 6 months of 1955 has been slightly above a year ago and so have prices.

Steve Hiemstra farm economist at Iowa State College, points out that for the month of June, the wholesale price of milk was $3.61 per hundredweight compared with $3.49 a year ago. The seasonal drop in milk production has now begun, but is later than normal due to the favorable pasture conditions during June.

Fluid milk consumption is on the rise, Hiemstra points out. The school milk program utilized an additional 100 million quarts of milk during the past school year. Indications are for still further increase next year, Heimstra says.

Butter has worked into a stronger position than a year ago. Butter production so far this year has been 9 percent below the first 7 months of 1954. However, Hiemstra adds, consumption was increased. Butter purchases for household uses for the year ended March, 1955, were reported 13 percent above a year earlier. Margarine purchases during the same period increased only 3 percent.

These increased butter sales followed a drop in retail prices on April 1, 1954, and the beginning of a more intensive promotional campaign by the industry. The net result has been the lowering of cold storage stocks of butter by 28 percent for the year ending June 30. However, Hiemstra says, the stocks are still 60 percent above the 5-year average.

"The real purpose of intelligent conservation is simply to guard against willful waste so that future generations need not be handicapped by woeful want."

Safety Specialist Asks—

Does Your Boy Drive The Tractor?

Here's a dad who has the right idea. He's taking no chances on his boy turning into a statistic. Instead, he teaches him driving skills—then lets him drive only under close supervision.

Mom—you hold the health, perhaps even the life, of your son right in the palm of your hand! How steady that hand is depends upon your good judgement as a farm mother—and the safety precautions you maintain around the farmyard and in your home.

What are the family policies regarding tractor use by the "kiddies"? This is a precaution you must think about carefully—because you're the one who's in charge of the youngsters. You're also the one who helps set the machinery rules on the farm and who can change them if need, says Norval Wardle, Iowa State College extension safety specialist.

National Safety Week

There are 280,000 tractors in Iowa. That takes in a lot of tractor drivers—many of them too young Farmers today use the tractor for nearly every farm task. Many forget that this deceptively simple machine can be and often is a killer. July 24-30 was National Farm Safety Week—the time when you should have taken a close check on your tractor-driving policies.

Ninety of the nation's total of 258 child tractor victims were killed in 1953. Iowa tractor accidents to 10- to 15-years-olds have increased more than to any other age group. That would indicate that youngsters of this age either need more efficient training — or they haven't yet reached the stage of development they need to be skilled drivers.

The tractor was made for a fully grown person. Its large, high seat indicates this. A small boy, even though he seems fully competent, has neither the size nor the strength to drive unsupervised. Many young boys who are large enough physically to drive have neither the judgement nor the coordination they need.

"What shall we do then?" you ask. Sonny's only 11 years old—but he's been such a help to us." Wardle says to this: By all means teach your child to drive the tractor at an early age. Make sure Dad or some other skilled driver, is watching him As he progresses, allow him to drive on level ground with few bumps or holes. He can help you out a lot within "watching" distance, But he shoudn't go way out into the north field with a load of hay, while Dad is southward or into town. Nine Iowa children between the ages of 10 and 15 years would not have been killed in 1953 had their fathers taken a little more time out to supervise.

Wardle attributes the increasing number of juvenile tractor drivers to three conditions. They include (1) a shortage of skilled farm labor, (2) the increasing mechanization on farms (the misconception that tasks are done so quickly and efficiently by machine that anyone—even a young child—can do them) and (3) the tight squeeze between increasing agricultural costs and lower farm incomes.

Do You Plead Guilty?

It's up to you to decide if you are guilty of letting a too-small child operate a tractor unsupervised for any of the above reasons. If you are, it's not difficult to remedy. Your child's well-being is more important than all of these factors combined. After several years of closely supervised training, your youngster will probably be prepared to take the tractor out alone. Don't rush him. You can tell when he's ready.

As your boy is growing up on the farm, Mom, it's your responsibility to provide recreation for him. Figure out activities he'll enjoy. Then he'll be busy enough so the tractor isn't his only attraction.

Buy him toy tractors and ask Dad to explain their parts and the way they perform. That way he'll have a background of the implement before he's big enough to climb up on one.

Two dollar bills are bad luck—only if you don't have enough of them.

Better be late down here than early up there . . . so drive safely.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

" . . . a small boy who could run very fast". That is the way a Highway Patrolman described the 3-year-old child. It's as simple and tragic a description as any that could be written—now.

At 10 o'clock one morning, four young men crowded into the cab of a loaded gravel truck and started across an Iowa city, driving through residential sections to avoid traffic.

About a half hour later, the little boy who could "run away fast" was standing on the curb in front of his home. His older sister, watching from the yard, saw the truck coming and ran toward the boy, afraid he would go into the street.

Perhaps the boy thought his sister was playing a game. He turned and ran the last few steps of his life.

A few seconds later, the girl picked up the body of her brother and ran with it to the house, as though just getting home would somehow change the unbelievable thing that had happened.

Four young men climbed sickly out of the truck that had come to a stop with a broken wheel against the curb.

Fragments from a Highway Patrolmen's report tell the whole needless story:

" . . . driving without a chauffeur's license.

" . . . four riding in a cab.

" . . . exceeding speed limit.

" . . . faulty brakes.

And "a small boy who could run very fast."

England was the first country to issue postage stamps.

For Safe Boating —There's a Law

Just as with highway and automobile traffic, there are laws governing the use of boats in state waters, and novice boaters are being urged by the Conservation Commission to become familiar with these laws.

Most navigation laws are designed to protect the lives, property and rights of boaters, fishermen and swimmers. For example, no motor boat may be operated at a speed greater than 5 miles per hour when within 250 feet of another craft, and it is unlawful to run a motorboat more than 10 miles per hour within 300 feet of the shore of any lake.

Boats are also required by law to be equipped with prescribed lights when operated between 30 minutes after sundown and sunrise.

Boat traffic and rights-of-way are governed by the following rules:

1. Boats passing from the rear must keep to the left.
2. Boats passing head-on must keep to the right of each other.
3. Boats passing at right angles: the boat at the right has the right-of-way, other conditions being equal.
4. Sailboats have the right-of-way over all other craft and motorboats, when passing sailboats, must pass on the leeward side.
5. Any boat backing from a landing has the right-of-way over incoming boats.

In recent years a strong upsurge in boating interest, with power-boats now owned by thousands of Iowa families, has made such laws a necessity, both to protect lives and to make public waters more enjoyable for everyone.

Complete copies of Iowa navigation regulations may be obtained from State Conservation Officers or from the Conservation Commission, East 7th and Court, Des Moines.

Last year the American people gave at an averge rate of $163 per minute in support of the many Red Cross service programs to civilians, servicemen, and veterans.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

We clipped the following editorial from the "Iowa Motor News", a periodical published by the AAA Motor Club of Iowa. We thought it contained a moral for everyone who drives a motor vehicle.

"Many modern males seem to consider it a mark of manliness to drive fast. Whipping in and out among cars, slamming on brakes, dashing from place to place at a breath-taking rate of speed they feel entitles them to be called a man. But we have another notion.

The real man puts others' interests before his own. He stops to consider what might happen to the other fellow if he drives faster than road conditions warrant. He feels it no blot on his honour to apply the brakes and, if necessary, yield the right-of-way to another driver if it will help to avert trouble.

The real man is thoughtful and courteous and stops to consider what might happen to someone else if he drives carelessly and what might happen to him through another driver's action. He is a master of circumstance, able to ward off trouble before it occurs, and he is well versed in wiping out the accident factor.

The real man takes special care when he comes upon an old, slow-moving car in which some hard-working parent is transporting three or four children. He is especially careful that no action of his will injure this precious cargo. He is just as careful of pedestrians and even of wild life on our highways and streets.

The real man restrains himself when he is tempted to drive 80 mph on a road that was designed for early-vintage autos, or even on roads constructed for present-day traffic. He recognizes the worth—and the limitations—and the potential danger of today's high-powered cars.

The manly driver is not afraid to utter a prayer before he starts each trip—even if it is only a trip to the corner store—silently affirming that in reality the Supreme Being is in command of his car and that he is only a tool to an end.

Moreover, he is not noisy or a "name-caller" or even very noticeable, but in our book he is the manliest sort of a man and a model for every teen-ager to follow."

We might add that it is not only teen-agers who could profit by the above example. There are some of the rest of us who could change some of our driving habits.

Three luckiest fellows in this neck of the woods this week are Wally Green, Dick Gilpin, and Harlan Anderson. The three were in a car accident last Wednesday night in front of the "Bob" Hartzell farm. They missed the curve, and the car rolled over at least once.

None of the three were seriously hurt, although Anderson was pretty well peppered with broken glass, and they all were bruised up a bit. After looking at the car in which they were riding, we still maintain that they are the three luckiest guys hereabouts.

Three Klemme Youths Walk Away From Auto After Missing Turn

Last Wednesday evening was anything but dull for three Klemme youths, Wally Green, Dick Gilpin and Harlan Anderson. The three were on their way to Duncan to a dance and were going across country on the gravel.

It was about 9:30 o'clock when they failed to make the curve in front of the Bob Hartzell farm home and hit the ditch, rolling the car at least once. Green, who was driving, and Gilpin were both thrown from the car, but Anderson stayed in.

All three were riding in the front seat when the accident happened, but when the car came to rest, Anderson was in the back seat with his head sticking out the rear window. He was hurt the worst of the three, being considerably bruised and cut by flying glass. The other two were bruised, too, but none of the three was hurt very much.

They were brought to Dr Dulmes' office by Bob Hartzell and Graydon Back, who was visiting at the Hartzell home, and were examined and treated and sent home.

The car in which they were riding took a worse beating than any of the three youths. The windows were all broken and the body was mashed and dented until it was badly out of shape. Dust and loose gravel were contributing factors in the accident.

Crop Reporting Service Lowers Corn Estimate

Although corn in Iowa started out looking like a "million dollars" this year, lack of rain has cut down considerably the prospects for a good crop. The crop reporting service has had to revise their estimates downward several times, and farmers in this vicinity can see why. There has not been a good rain here for well over a month.

The crop reporting service has the following to say about corn in the state as of August 8th:

Corn crop prospects declined during July as the result of the extended period of hot and dry weather the latter part of the month. Corn on sandy and light soils especially that on rolling land, has been damaged some and late-planted corn has been hurt. Corn planted on better soil is holding up well and crop prospects are favorable. In limited areas of some of the western counties along the Missouri river, much of the corn has "fired" badly, especially in areas where rainfall was light in July. In other areas, damage from the heat is spotty with the eastern areas of the State showing the least damage. The corn crop is well advanced with about one-half of the crop in the roasting ear stage by August 8. This advancement is slightly ahead of last year and is about a week earlier than average.

Funds Still Available For Establishment of Conservation Practices

Funds are still available in Hancock County to assist a number of farmers to establish needed conservation practices before the close of the year, it was announced this week by J Leo Paulson, chairman of the county ASC committee.

He declared a great amount of valuable soil and water conservation can be accomplished in the next 60 to 90 days if farmers will promptly take advantage of the opportunity offered them through the federal cost-sharing plan commonly known as ACP. Farmers themselves, he said, should be able to devote considerable time to such work in the next couple of months and in addition they will find extra workers and required materials are now available.

Chairman Paulson urged farmers interested in carrying out cost-sharing work this fall to make inquiry at the county ASC office at once and to file their requests at the earliest possible time. The county committee, he said, will meet on Tuesday of each week to consider all requests on file.

Several types of work which can be done this fall and which are especially needed on many farms in this county are included in the list of approved ACP practices on which the government will share the cost. Among these practices are the spreading of limestone where a soil test shows the need, construction of terraces, tiling, contouring, surface drainage, open farm drainage ditch and earth work on sod waterways. In the case of a sod waterway, the seeding would probably be delayed until next spring but otherwise the project could be substantially completed this year and thereby qualify for cost-sharing from 1955 funds when entirely finished in 1956.

Farmers need not be in compliance with corn allotments to be eligible for cost-share funds.

Chairman Paulson pointed out that this is an excellent time to have soil tests made because they will be required in the 1956 ASC conservation program the same as in the 1955 program for any cost-sharing practice involving the application of limestone or fertilizer. Complete information on getting soil tested may be obtained from either the county ASC office or the county extension office in Garner.

In case of rain, the social will be held in the church basement

Arnold's Enjoy Trip Through Northwest

Mr and Mrs E J Arnold accompanied Bruce Arnold and Miss Joyce Ingold of Rock Island, Illinois on a two week sight seeing trip through the northwestern states and Canada.

Going north they visited the Minnehaha Falls and Itasca State Park in Minnesota. They entered Canada at the immigration border at St. Vincent. From there they went on to Winnipeg, Manitoba where they toured the legislative grounds. At Regina, Saskatchewan they stopped to see the Parliament buildings. At Watertown Glacier Park they saw the Prince of Wales Hotel.

From there they drove back into the states where they enjoyed seeing Glacier National Park and Hungry Horse Dam. They went north at the Rosville, Canada border into Bannff. There they were guests for two days at Storm Mt. Lodge near Mt. Eisenhower. Also at Banff they had a scenic ride on the chair lift. Other attractions they saw in Canada were Takakkaw Falls, Natural Bridge, Emerald and Peyto Lakes, and Lake Louise. They left Alberta this time by way of Couts Alberta Customs Station.

In the states on their way home they stopped at Yellowstone Park where they saw Old Faithful erupt two different times. They also visited many other places of interest in Yellowstone. In one day they saw twenty-three bears. After they left Yellowstone, they saw Buffalo Bill Dam, Devil's Tower, and Mt. Rushmore.

They arrived back home Friday evening after a 5,000 mile trip.

Teacher Change

Supt T G Ahrenkiel has announced a change in teachers for the second grade of the Klemme Community School District for the coming year.

Mrs Earl Schmidt of Ventura, has resigned due to illness. Hired to fill the vacancy created by her resignation is Mrs Eunice Kinsella of Ventura. Mrs Kinsella is an experienced teacher, having taught in several schools, including Hampton.

BURNED

Paul Cluver of Eagle Grove received bad burns recently when a tractor he was operating rolled into a pile of burning cobs. The heat caused the gasoline tank to overflow.

Change Should Be Made In January

According to word received from Layton Sonerholm, manager of the local exchange of the Central Iowa Telephone Company, "number please" will soon be a thing of the past to local telephone users. The system will be switched over to dial, and there will be no telephone operator in Klemme. Central office for the local exchange will be in Garner after the change is made.

The company recently purchased a tract 30'x40' from C A Larsen, just east of The Times Office on the alley, and work was begun last week on a nineteen foot square clay block building which will house the dial equipment. The company is also having a like building constructed at Corwith as their exchange there is to soon be cut over to a dial system.

Pouring of the foundation and floor for the local building is being finished today (Wednesday) and then no more work will be done here until the building at Corwith is completed. Reason for pouring the cement now is the shortage of that material that seems to be with us every fall. The contractor thought that he had better get this work done while he was sure of getting cement.

Work of installing the new equipment and new phones for the dial system here will probably begin in a couple of months. Present plans, according to Sonerholm, call for the cut over to dial to take place sometime in January.

Sonerholm says that the new system should give much improved service to local users. He says that the new phones being purchased for the exchange are very good and that dialing should eliminate some problems that have existed in the past.

The two were Mrs Mary Waterman and Mrs Ann Christians. In addition, their were eight other members of the club whose birthdays fall in this quarter and they too came in for a share of well wishes and congratulations.

Not so lucky was the lady from Webster City who was riding in a car that overturned on a county road two miles east of Goodell, Sunday afternoon. Although her condition is now reported as good, she received extensive lacerations to the right forearm, a wound which is very painful.

The car in which this lady was riding was struck by a car coming onto the county road from the south. Five persons were in the north bound machine but none of them were hurt, nor was the husband of the lady who was injured, hurt.

Gravel roads are dangerous this time of year. They are bumpy and dusty, and have considerable loose gravel on them. In addition, corn fields and weeds at intersections add to the hazards by obscuring vision. We believe that maximum care should be exercised by drivers on all roads at all times . . . and especially on gravel roads right now.

"At last there's a family car in every garage . . . there's no room on the highway to drive it!"—Martha Scott.

Slickest rig we have seen yet for vacationing is the one in which Mr and Mrs Dick Mohler of Dayton, Ohio are doing their traveling this summer.

They bought a fairly late model three-quarter ton pickup truck and then had a very compact 10 foot long box mounted on it. The box is aluminum on the outside, is insulated and lined with plywood. It is much on the order of a small trailer but easier to get around with.

There is an upholstered booth which makes into a full size bed, a small roll-up canvas bunk, a "reefer", sink and small stove. Just about everything but TV. A screen between the cab of the truck and the box, makes it possible for the children to get from the cab to the bunk if they're sleepy without having to stop, get out and go around to the back to get in.

Mrs Mohler says that their relatives are much more glad to see them now that they bring their own sleeping quarters with them. Makes traveling much cheaper, too, with beds and kichen along.

After watching a basketball game on the concrete playing court in the park, we believe that a good business to be in would be an establishment specializing in the sale of overalls. Some of the spills that we saw played havoc with the knees of pants.

We suppose that business in medicines for bruises and skin burns has taken a sudden up turn, too. The way that cement chews through the material in clothes, we don't imagine that it is any respecter of skin. Good part about skin is that it will mend itself. Pants require a needle and thread and some patience.

Someone, apparently a CPA, or administration "insider", says that "A government bureau is where the taxpayer's shirt is kept."

LABOR AND GOP

Labor's role in next year's election should be interesting to watch.

Ray Mills of Des Moines, a city councilman, and head of the AFL in Iowa, told the state CIO convention, that labor's biggest problem in Iowa is its inability to convince farm legislators of the necessity for proper labor laws. It was the first time an AFL chief had addressed the competitive CIO union convention.

Just a few days before he made these remarks Mills changed his party affiliation from Republican to Democrat with the statement that the GOP wasn't fulfilling its obligations to the laboring man.

Both utterances of Mills' were challenged by Don Pierson, state GOP chairman, who made formal releases of statements in which he debated the issues with Mills.

It was Pierson who engineered the plan whereby the Republican labor league of Iowa was organized and became an auxiliary of the state central committee, and Norman Miller of Des Moines, a newspaper printer, was named to head up the unit. Both the CIO and AFL said the GOP labor committee had no authority as far as labor is concerned and did not have the endorsement of the unions.

It looks like the '56 campaigns may be underway.

LOTS OF CANDIDATES

Speaking of politics, it appears there may be a wide open race for the nomination for lieutenant-governor on the Republican ticket.

Lt. Gov. Leo Elthon of Fertile, announced at Governor's Days at Clear Lake that he would not be a candidate for renomination or reelection.

State Rep. Wendell Pendleton of Storm Lake, speaker pro tem of the Iowa house in the last session, is considered a certain candidate for the office. Others also being mentioned for the spot include Stanley Hart of Keokuk, former president pro tem of the senate; State Sen. X T Prentis of Mt Ayr, chairman of legislative tax study committee; St: Rep. Vern Lisle of Clarinda, speaker pro tem of the house in 1953; and two Mason Citians, W H Nicholas, a former lieutenant-governor, and State Rep. W H Tate.

Elthon, who as presiding officer of the senate in the last session, had a few tiffs with Gov. Leo Hoegh, is being considered a candidate to oppose Hoegh for the Republican nomination for governor. Elthon, however, reminds friends that he announced that he was not a candidate for reelection and that he gave no indication of a contest for governor.

Hoegh-camp followers, nevertheless, are counting Elthon as opposition until he formally announces otherswise.

ROAD LETTINGS

Iowa's highway commission reports nearly $30-million worth of primary highway construction projects were placed under contract in the 12 months ending June 30. The 374 contracts totaled $29,980,893.

There was a total of 1,236 contracts let, totaling $44,822,506 which were awarded but 862 contracts totaling $14,841,613.00 were classified as farm-to-market road projects.

In the 12-month period, primary road projects were awarded for 121.8 miles of concrete pavement, 249 miles of pavement widening, 24 miles of widening and surfacing, 35 miles of asphaltic concrete pavement without widening, 157 miles of asphaltic concrete pavement, 252 miles of grading, 306 miles of surfacing and 19 miles of stabilized base and bituminous surface.

GETS REFUGEES

Iowans this month began taking care of 17 refugees who came into this country under the federal refugee program. The 17 are members of five families who went to homes in Cedar Falls, Council Bluffs, Granger, Mt. Pleasant and Sheldon.

LIQUOR CONSUMPTION

Iowans drank 2,307,819 gallons of liquor in the year ending June 30th.

That total equals a little less than one gallon of liquor for every man, woman and child in the state.

The $37,453,950 spent for the liquor, means that each person spent about $14.30 for the bottled goods.

The consumption, compared with the previous year, was down about 25,000 gallons but the total revenue to the state was up. Price increases April 1 probably contributed to the increased revenue and lessened demand.

WOULD ABOLISH TAX

The Associated Retailers of Iowa have recommended to the state tax study committee that all forms of personal property taxes in this state be abolished. The proposal was one of 15 recommendations made to the committee by the retail group representatives.

Personal property taxes are taxes assessed on property other than real estate and include farm animals and machinery, furniture and household goods, retailers stocks of merchandise and other forms of personal property.

U. S. poultry producers supplied seven percent more eggs during June than during the same month last year.

Steve Hiemstra, Iowa State College economist, says hens were held back this year to fill the gap of fewer chicks for flock replacement. As a result the price of hens held above a year ago during June and early July, although now they are dropping.

Persistent high temperatures have cut egg production and hens are moving off farms. This trend is especially noted in areas where more chicks were sold for flock replacement.

Cold storage eggs were held, and on July first they were up 40 percent over a year ago. This together with an expected increase in carry-over of hens will probably delay the much talked about high egg prices this fall.

The prolonged heat wave has recently slowed down production considerably and has resulted in a temporary comeback in prices of the lower quality eggs. But, don't look for too much permanent strength in the market till late fall or early spring.

So far this summer, farmers have done well with their broilers Even though numbers have been up considerably from last year, the prices have been above a year ago. This resulted from a continued high consumer demand. Indications are that prices will decline in view of further increases of chicks placed 8 to 10 weeks ago. These are now beginning to come to market.

For Cleaning—

Use Waxes to Best Advantage

Have you heard about the new waxes? Cleaning is really a "snap" if you choose the right wax—and there's a wax for nearly every chore you do.

* * *

Dusting, scrubbing and general cleaning usually aren't included in any of our ideas of fun! But they can be almost fun if you make good use of all the new waxes that are on the market, says June Brown, extension home furnishings specialist at Iowa State College.

New Kitchen Wax

If your kitchen walls and woodwork are like most, they find themselves getting pretty grease spattered—and that usually means some good, hard scrubbing on your part! But, no more—because a new mixture of wax and detergent has been developed—and it works wonders on stubborn cooking film.

While it cleans effectively, the wax is gentle and contains no harsh chemicals to pain or irritate your hands. Here's a helpful tip on an easy way to use it, too. Try using both of your hands—as a team. Just saturate your cloth with the wax; then clean with your right hand, and use your left hand to wipe with a dry cloth. You'll be amazed at the really ship-shape job you've done so quickly and easily.

You can use this wax on enameled surfaces too. It keeps them snow-white. Use it on appliances and cabinets in your kitchen and utility room. It never scratches or yellows the finish.

The kitchen wax does a good job on oilcloth-covered shelves in cupboards. They're cleaned and waxed at the same time—and no more nuisance of dishes sticking to the oilcloth.

Wax For Floors

If your kitchen floor has accumlated old wax, remove the discoloration with waxed floor cleaner. It's a blend of neutral soaps and detergents. This wax loosens and softens the wax coating—but won't irritate hands or stain fabrics. It's safe to use on any hard surface floor covering.

With Dad and the kiddies, your friends and many others running in and out of the kitchen, chances are you periodically see black heel marks on the wood or linoleum. A liquid floor wax will clean the floor off "smooth as a whistle." If you run across an especially stubborn spot, rub it with fine steel wool.

For wooden floors that are spotted by pets, spilled ink or other accidental droppings, try a poultice of trisodium phosphate and water mixed to a paste. Let it stay on the stain for several hours. Keep a damp cloth over the paste to keep it moist. Then rinse it thoroughly with a solution of 1 part vinegar to 10 parts water. If this doesn't do the trick you'll probably need to sand the floor.

No Water on Wood

Remember, don't wash your wood floors becauses water raises wood's grain and damages the wood. Instead use a cleaning and polishing wax. This will do a good job of loosening and removing ground-in dirt and grease and other stains. As you clean with this wax, a film of heavy duty wax is deposited, and you can polish it to a mellow gleam.

Another tip for waxing floors: You can rent an electric floor polisher at nearly any supply store for not more than $1 a day. So why waste "elbow grease" on hand polishing?

No need to get down on your hands and knees either. Not when you can use a long-handled wax applier. It comes with two washable pads. As soon as you've used one, slip it off and replace it with a clean one. Just dampen the pad with cold water, put some wax on it with a spatula—and you needn't stoop to apply the wax. You can use this applier for polishing after wax has dried, too—just put on a clean pad and polish away!

the Highway Story

FROM DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

The door closed and it was an end and a beginning though she would not know it for some hours yet.

As she took the breakfast dishes from her husband's place at the table, she heard the muffled sound of the car starting in the garage. She did not pause by the kitchen window to see him drive away, there was too much to be done.

It was a Monday morning like almost any other Monday morning in the ten years she had been married. There was a washing to do, lunch to prepare for the youngsters, and a hundred other things that would absorb the morning.

For some reason, while sorting the clothes for the wash, she took a critical look at his shirts and decided that two of them would do better as dust rags from now on and tossed them aside.

That led her into the closet where she spent some time sorting through his clothes, putting some aside for cleaning, picking out a few items that would have to be disposed of.

After that, the rest of the morning was lost in odd tasks, the xplosion of lunch with the children and dishes again.

That was really as much as she could recall of her morning when she tried to remember it later, step by step. She wanted to remember something, anything, significant that might have told her she was alone, that the door had closed that morning on everything.

But there was nothing, no warning, until the moment early in the afternoon when she glanced out of the front window and saw her minister and a highway patrolman walking slowly up the steps of the porch.

A door closes. The life of a family ends—such is the suddeness, the commoness of traffic deaths in our time.

The reason some men are misunderstood is that they possess nothing worth studying.

said the personal property tax in Iowa is obsolete, discriminatory, difficult to administer, and "out of harmony with sound theories of taxation."

TAX EXEMPTIONS

While property taxes are being discussed, the state tax study committee invited veterans organization spokesmen to appear before it for a discussion of veterans tax exemptions.

There has been mounting talk of recent weeks, not only of repealing veterans tax exemption laws, but also of changes in the homestead exemption laws and the agricultural land tax credits. In these three programs, state funds, are used to help pay local property taxes of veterans, homeowners and farmers.

Robert H. Johnson, of Iowa City, a member of the state committee, was quoted as saying he "personally would like to throw out the whole kit and kaboodle of state tax aids."

Most politicians will no doubt move slowly, if at all, on any plans to change these exemption laws.

STILL GOING

The wrangling between Iowa's attorney general and Clinton county attorney Warren Johnson continues. Both are Republicans.

Dayton Countryman, state attorney general, reports that he has, upon his request, received from Johnson a report on why the county attorney dismissed certain charges in an action against a Clinton county tavern keeper.

Johnson, who made reply to Countryman's request, suggested that rather than try the case through the newspapers, Countryman start ouster proceedings against Johnson if the attorney general feels the Clinton county attorney isn't fulfilling the obligations of office.

Countryman said that in the "matter of ouster proceedings, I shall be the one to determine whether or not ouster action will lie and to determine if and when such action will be brought."

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Next Monday, August 29th, will see school get underway for another year in the Klemme Community School District, and in a lot of other schools throughout the state. Children will have to put behind them the things that they have enjoyed doing in freedom all summer and get back "in the harness".

In addition to the normal home activity and discipline, they will have to condition themselves to the discipline of the school and to being with and getting along with so many other children in their everyday living.

Not only are the children going to have to condition themselves to the change, but the motorist is going to have to do a little conditioning on his own. There will be many more children on the streets than there have been for the past few vacation months and that means a lot of extra care on the part of drivers.

School stop signs will be up and will have to be observed and school speed zones will require your attention again. School buses will also be running and you will want to bear in mind that these vehicles call for special consideration. The laws with regard to your actions, when encountering a school bus on the road, are quite clear and were passed for the protection of the children . . . and to make it easier for you to see that no action of yours is responsible for harming any of them.

The driver of any vehicle overtaking a school bus shall not pass a school bus when flashing stop warning signal lights are flashing and shall bring said vehicle to a complete stop not closer than fifteen feet to the school bus when it is stopped and stop arm is extended, and shall remain stopped until the stop arm is retracted and school bus resumes motion, or until signaled by the driver to proceed.

The driver of any vehicle when meeting a school bus on which the stop lights are flashing shall reduce the speed of said vehicle to not more than twenty miles per hour, and shall bring said vehicle to a complete stop when school bus stops and stop signal arm is extended and said vehicle shall remain stopped until stop arm is retracted after which driver may proceed with caution.

Main thing to remember is that there are going to be a lot of kids around and that even though they know what is best to keep them out of traffic trouble, they don't always remember. Their judgment is not as mature as yours should be, so it's pretty much up to you to look out for them. We know you wouldn't want to harm one of the children in any way, and we know that you would be a long time forgetting it if you did. Exercise a little extra care and save yourself a lot of grief.

We received a nice letter Monday from Mr and Mrs H J "Hank" Smid, formerly of Klemme who now live in San Francisco, California. We would like to quote a little from the letter.

All Other Positions Filled For Year

Classes will get underway Monday, August 29th in the Klemme Community School District with several changes in the faculty and with some changes in the operation of the school.

The main change in the faculty came last Friday with the resignation of T G Ahrenkiel, who had been superintendent of the local school since the fall of 1948. He will move his family to Ringsted where he has accepted the superintendent's position in the schools.

Since accepting Ahrenkiel's resignation, the school board has been busily engaged in seeking a new superintendent, since no member of the present faculty has the necessary qualifications to fill the position. However, they have not as yet been successful in their search. If no one is hired to fill the vacancy by the time school gets underway, Principal R C Andreae will act as superintendent until such time as a man is found.

Changes in the operation of the school include the closing of one more country school, Liberty No. 6, which was taught last year by Miss Lydia Pearson. Another change will see kindergarten pupils attending school on alternate days instead of every day. All rural kindergarten pupils who will attend school in town will be picked up on Monday for the first day of school. After that they will be notified as to which days they will attend.

Others besides Ahrenkiel, who were on the faculty last year but will not be this year are Donald Smith, Science and Social Science; Forrest Hiller, English and Dramatics; Dale Heppler, Driver Training and Math.; Miss Rachel Peterson, Home Ec. and Girls P. T.; Mrs Joann Heppler, 6th grade; Miss Rachel Huenemann, 2nd grade; and Miss Lydia Pearson, Liberty No. 6.

New members of the faculty are Miss Mary Beardsley, English and Dramatics, graduate of Central State Teachers College, Warrenburg, Mo.; Carl Crawford, Science, New Mexico A & M; Clinton Chadwick, Shop and Social Science, Northwest State Teachers College, Maryville, Mo., Mrs Margery Gorden, Home Ec, and Social Science, Iowa State College; Miss Dorothy Schlomer, 6th grade, Mason City Junior College; and Mrs Eunice Kinsella, 2nd grade.

Faculty members returning from last year are Robert Andreae, Principal; William Westberg, Driver Training, Coach, Boys and Girls P. T.; Francis Johnson, Assistant Coach and Commercial; Charles Whitford, Instrumental Music, Mrs Selma Griesy, Vocal Music; Orin Holstad, 8th grade; Mrs Helma Proper, 7th grade; Mrs Jean Pearson, 5th grade; Mrs La Von Montgomery, 4th grade; Mrs Mary Holstad, 3rd grade; Mrs Gladys Wessels, 1st grade; Mrs Aline Burgess, Grade Principal and Remedial Reading; Mrs Dorthe Mernin, Kindergarten; Mrs Mildred Robbins, Twin Lake No. 5; Mrs Noreen Barkema, Liberty No. 7; Miss Bertha Johnson, Liberty No. 8; Emily Long, Liberty No. 9; and Mrs Betty Westberg, Secretary.

Bus drivers for the year will be Calvin Josten, Lyle Goll, Worthie Usher, Merlin Brinkman and Leroy Bamman.

Merlin Brinkman, who this summer returned from service in the army, will be janitor in the grade school building in place of Worthie Usher, and George Lawhorn will continue in that capacity at the high school building.

Cooks for the Hot Lunch program will be the same as last year, Mrs Alvin Thiemann, Mrs Roy Schaefer, and Miss Lydia Bock.

Following are the courses for each grade in high school. There will be no electives for Freshmen. Drivers training will be a required fifth subject for Sophomores. Juniors and Seniors will have a choice of two subjects. The class schedule will be arranged after registration.

Subjects for Freshmen are as follows: English 1, General Math., General Science, Shop I (boys), and Home Ec. I (girls).

• RANDOM THOUGHTS

"We enjoy very much receiving The Times. Last week we read in your "Random Thoughts" column about the Ed Thompson family visiting in Klemme. We get over to Walnut Creek every so often to see them and they have been here to visit with us. We also visit occasionally with Mr and Mrs Don Speers and family. Last spring we enjoyed a visit with Mrs Speers' parents, Mr and Mrs Verner Lewis."

The Smids go on to tell about Mrs Smid's mother having accepted a teaching job in Concord, the same town where Ed Thompson is going to teach in California, and that they are expecting her to arrive there from Clear Lake the latter part of this week. Then they go on to say, "the weather back there must have been extremely hot recently. We can imagine. A little warm weather here in San Francisco would be greatly appreciated. The past week or so has been fairly warm . . . from 65 to 75 degrees."

The Smids are planning on vacationing the first part of September. They intend going to southern California and visiting with the Milo Patets at San Fernando, and with the Clarence Swalves at Compton, all former Klemme folks.

The Smids end their letter with a cordial invitation to take some of the itch out of our editorial feet and "come on out and see us". Sure would like to and maybe we'll take 'em up on the invite some day.

A number of years ago, we spent a day visiting with the Patets in San Fernando. They live high up on the mountainside, some 1800 feet above the valley floor, and have a wonderful view from their place. They have a nice home, a lot of which Milo built himself being a handy man with tools.

Their's was the last house up the mountainside and we can remember with amusement Milo's comments about the nights there. He said that usually it was pretty quiet but on occasion it got pretty noisy. The neighbors across the street had some burros and two or three dogs and the brush on the mountain side harbored a lot of coyotes. Some times the coyotes would come down a little to close to the buildings and get to yapping and howling. Then the dogs would start barking, and finally the burros would start to bray.

Milo said it made quite a chorus but didn't make for very good sleeping. We can imagine that it wouldn't.

Ever notice how meeting a pleasant person can perk up your whole day? A friendly greeting, a flash of a smile, a cheerful " Hi, there!" can start a whole chain of reactions. For moods are contagious. If you feel better, you may pass a bit of pleasantry on to the next person, and he, in turn, may do the same. Yes, a genial person can do much to make life worth living for his fellowmen.—Fran O'Brien, Algona Advance.

The ladies of Esther Circle of the Methodist WSCS had a very successful ice cream social last Saturday evening. They sold out of everything before the evening was over and Mrs Graydon Back reported that she even had telephone calls Sunday morning wanting to know if there was any ice cream left to sell.

Mrs Bert Lieuwen called us the other day to tell us about a rather unusual firm name for a trucking company. She said that she was driving to Belmond the other afternoon when a large semi passed her (she says everything on the road passes her) and she got a big kick out of the sign on the back of the truck. It read "Hardly-Able Trucking".

Beautiful, lovely, wet rain. It began falling in earnest about four o'clock this morning (Wednesday) and has been at it most of the time since. By eight o'clock it had rained about a half an inch, falling gently for the most part and soaking into the ground. First rain of any consequence to put in an appearance here since the 4th of July. We like it!

Back east, though, we imagine that they have seen all the rain they want to see for some time to come. Flood damage there is almost beyond belief with an appalling loss of life and property. Too bad that there couldn't have been some sort of an equalizer put to use so that the drouth stricken areas could have had some of the surplus moisture. We would have appreciated the rain here, and we are sure that those in the flood areas would have appreciated a lesser amount than they received.

Even so, when it comes to weather, we take what we get. We don't always like it, and we talk about it a lot, but good or bad, we're stuck with it. Guess that's the way it should be, too, for if every individual could order weather to his own liking, what a mess we would have. It takes all kinds of people to make up the world and it would take all kinds of weather, simultaneously, to suit them all. Better it shouldn't happen.

We're working without the help of our printer, Merlyn Olson, this week. He and a group of his friends are vacationing up in Canada. There are four boys in the group, Tom Waddingham, Lee Gruis, Gordon Lemke and Merlyn. They took a tent with them and made their plans to sort of rough it. Suppose they are having a lot of fun and will have a lot of tall tales to tell when they get home.

Error Made In Deer Season Dates

The State Conservation Commission today announced that an error has been made in the first release of the deer season dates. The correct dates for the gun-hunting season for deer are December 3 - 5, both dates inclusive.

The error occured in an oversight of the New Commission policy of opening all fishing and hunting seasons on the Saturday before the previous seasons' openings. This year's deer season for firearms will begin on Saturday, December 3, and continue through Monday, December 5.

The bowhunting season for deer is from October 29 to November 20, both dates inclusive.

Iowans wishing to hunt deer this season are reminded that deer license applications are now available from all State Conservation officers and from the Conservation Commission in Des Moines. The license applications must be returned with $10 in check or money order to the Conservation Commission in Des Moines not later than October 12. No more than 6,000 licenses will be issued, and if applications exceed this number, a special drawing will be held to determine applicants receiving licenses.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Seems good to see the youngters on the street going to and from school. During the summer you often see children alone—or sometimes two or three of them—walking along the street, but after school starts, they go by several in a group, and all talking and laughing and having a good time, glad for the chance to be together.

They aren't aware of it now, but after they have been out of school for a few years they will begin to realize that those good old school days were the best days they ever had. They have nothing really to worry about, Pa and Ma are footing the bills, seeing that they get three squares a day, and helping them to make what decisions they have to make.

Not that living after you get out of school is such an unpleasant and nerve-wracking task, but there just never is another time in life when one has so much time to enjoy oneself and so much surplus vim, vigor and vitality with which to make the most of it.

We wouldn't mind going through high school again—if we could get back to the proper age—but things being as they are we don't think we would have the physical stamina to make it.

It's amazing now youngsters keep their vitality and eagerness on new adventures every day when the most familiar word to their ears is "don't".—Paul Bumbarger, Charles City Press.

Labor Day will be with us Monday, and the traffic for the long weekend will begin Friday night. It's the last big holiday of the season and there will be lots of people taking advantage of it. It will be the last chance to take a trip during nice weather and no doubt the roads will be carrying a lot of traffic.

Most of the traffic will be sensible and will adjust driving to fit conditions. Those, you don't have to worry about, but look out for the darn fools. They have just one way of driving—floor board throttle and widen out, we're comin' through.

The only reason that they are still driving is because everyone else has been lucky enough to avoid becoming entangled with them. Whoever it was that said that "the only way to drive was like everyone else was crazy" was about right. Of course everyone isn't, but you never know when you'll meet up with one that is.

Safety officials are expecting in the neighborhood of 400 deaths over the weekend, so if you drive, do your best to try to keep from being counted in that number. Give the other guy plenty of room and then watch him. Live to labor after Labor Day.

We haven't heard anyone complaining about the cool weather. Don't think that we will either. We had so much really hot weather this summer that a few goose pimples are more than welcome.

The best platform for a local ticket this year would be one guarantying wet weather. Rains every week of at least one inch, and more when needed could gather a lot of votes.—Willard Archie, Shenandoah Sentinel.

E. F. Kirkpatrick New Superintendent

Activity for the new school year got underway Monday in the Klemme Community School District with the largest enrollment in the history of a Klemme school. Four hundred and seven students are enrolled to begin the new year, topping last year's mark of 379 by 28.

Following the resignation of T G Ahrenkiel as superintendent of the local school, the school board, last week, selected E F Kirkpatrick to fill the vacancy. Mr Kirkpatrick, whose home is Fairfield, was superintendent at Kiron in western Iowa, last year. He would no doubt have stayed there except for the fact that this will in all probability be the last year that Kiron will have a high school. Present plans call for them to consolidate with Odebolt for the next school year.

Mr Kirkpatrick graduated from the Fairfield high school, received his Bachelors Degree at Parsons College at Fairfield, his Masters Degree at the University of Iowa, and has taken postgraduate courses at the University of California, Los Angeles. He has had fourteen years of teaching experience.

His wife, who is a native of Arthur, Iowa, also has several years of teaching experience. They have a son, Ricky, three years old.

They plan to move Saturday into the house in which the Ahrenkiel family formerly lived. The Ahrenkiels moved Tuesday to their new home at Ringsted..

Breakdown of the enrollment figures shows the following. Seniors, 23; Juniors, 29; Sophomore, 25; and Freshman, 21; making a total in high school of 98. Kndergarten, 39; 1st grade, 32; 2nd grade, 32; 3rd grade, 29; 4th grade, 31; 5th grade, 28; 6th grade, 24; 7th grade, 22; and 8th grade, 27, making a total enrollment in town of 362. The country schools show the following: Liberty No. 7, 11; Liberty No. 8, 13; Liberty No. 9, 10; and Twin Lake No. 5, 11; a total of 45 in the country schools, and a grand total of 407.

Mr Kirkpatrick announces that plans call for kindergarten students to attend classes as follows: Those living west of the highway and in town will attend classes Tuesday and Thursdays the first semester, and those living east of the highway will attend classes Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays the first semester. During the second semester this schedule will be reversed.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

HE'S GAME

Reporters covering the Iowa state house have come to expect most anything from Gov. Hoegh at the daily press conferences and in his tours around the state.

The governor recently outdid the hardy press corps by sampling fried grasshoppers passed along to him by a transplanted Iowan now living in Texas.

More recently the governor also became the first chief executive of the state to fly in a jet aircraft. This "first" was accomplished at the encampment of the Iowa Air Guard in Wyoming.

It wasn't long ago that Hoegh hopped onto a western saddle, mounted on a sawhorse in his office, and waved aloft a ten-gallon hat to advertise a rodeo. All for the benefit of the press.

He did an Indian war dance at the Tama Indian powwow and not long ago did some square dancing at an eastern Iowa celebration.

BIG REDUCTIONS

A reduction of $45,000 in the cost of the aid to dependent children program in Iowa was effected in August.

It was the first month the new $175 a month maximum payment per family for aid to dependent children applied. Total reduction was $45,929. The program for this month cost a total of $706,108.

The 1955 legislature revoked the system of basing payments on need and applied the $175 maximum.

OPEN DOOR

Governor Hoegh has left the door open to his becoming a first-class personnel counselor.

He told his news conference that he will see all state employees who desire to bypass their department heads to take their troubles to the governor.

The governor said that he has seen 7 or 8 employees since January "which isn't a great number". He said all such interviews are on a "confidential" basis.

Asked if his position isn't in direct contrast to his stand that he will back all of his appointed department heads in running their departments, Hoegh said:

"The door of the governor's office is always open to Iowa citizens. That includes employees who are citizens too, of course."

He said he didn't expect many employees to bring their troubles direct to the governor's office, however.

LONGER HUNTING

A 70-day waterfowl hunting season is in store for Iowa hunters this year. The season has been extended 15 days by the federal wildlife service.

The state conservation commission has announced the hunting season for ducks and geese will open Oct. 8 and end Dec. 16.

Daily hours of hunting will be from 30 minutes before sunrise to 30 minutes before sunset.

YEERLY PAY ASKED

First Iowa plant to be faced with a request for a guaranteed annual wage for its employees is the Maytag plant at Newton.

Robert Roberts, a union spokesman, said local 997 of the CIO United Auto Workers is asking such an agreement in its new wage demands from the Maytag plant.

The plan is similar to those approved by Ford, General Motors, and Deere and Co.

Fred Maytag, company president, has expressed strong opposition to the guaranteed annual wage.

SPECIAL SESSION

Gov. Hoegh says he will give "thorough consideration" to suggestions that he call a special session of the Iowa legislature to consider reapportionment.

The statement was in response to a recommendation from State Sen. Duane Dewel of Algona, majority floor leader in the last session. Dewel suggested the special session on reapportionment after statements made by Hoegh and Lt. Gov. Leo Elthon on the subject.

The governor, in a statement made at Camp McCoy, Wis., blamed the senate for lack of action on reapportionment in the last session. Elthon, in defending the senate, reminded that it had considered and defeated a Byers reapportionment bill, and had a special committee study the matter during the session.

Dewel said he feels reapportionment must be discussed in a special legislative session where full attention can be given to the subject.

WHOSE FAIR SHARE

The state's tax study committee has asked for a special committee to determine whether trucks and cars carrying their fair share of the tax load in Iowa.

During the last session of the legislature there was considerable discussion on a ton-mile tax proposed for trucks which would increase their tax share for highway support. The matter revolved around the idea of all vehicles paying their "fair share" of the tax.

Everyone has a different idea on what a fair share amounts to.

The Iowa Automobile Dealers association has been asked to organize the special committee to make the vehicle tax study. Represented in the group will be the Iowa Motor Truck association and the state highway commission.

TAX PROPOSALS

The Iowa Auto Dealers, meeting with the state tax study committee, made the following recommendations to the legislative group.

Issuance of auto plates each year; elimination of the personal property tax; retention of the state's present motor vehicle license fee system; added sources of revenue for primary road constructions be paid for by highway users in proportion to the amount of use; improvements in methods of collecting use taxes on cars; earmarking for road fund uses only any surpluses of fees received by the counties for motor vehicle administration.

LEGAL RESEARCH BY BAR

Legal research on problems of constitutionality and drafting of bills for the Iowa tax study committee will be handled by the Iowa State Bar Association.

The study unit accepted the offer of the state bar to perform the services, and specifically asked the legal association to do research on taxation of all services, particularly radio and television advertising.

Research was also asked on the question of a $10 minimum state income tax payment on returns showing no tax due, or a $10 payment in addition to all income tax paid at regular rates.

SCHOOL HOUSE

How much is a school house worth? Recently eight rural schools in the Postville school district sold, bringing a total of $4,974.50 for the buildings and the contents.

Give Social Security Information for Farmers

Since January 1, 1955, any farm employee, regardless of age, who is paid as much as $100 in cash wages by any one farm employer during a calender year is covered by social security. This means that the farm employer, who has such an employee, will deduct a 2% social security tax from the cash wages he has paid the employee and he will contribute an equal amount. He must report the amount of wages that he has paid to each such employee and send the total tax to the District Director of Internal Revenue.

The first social security wage information returns covering farm employees, together with the payment of the social security taxes due, should be sent to the District Director of Internal Revenue not later than January 31, 1956. Large farm operators may be required to file returns and pay taxes earlier.

Every covered farm employer is required to keep all records pertinent to the taxes. No particular form is prescribed for keeping records. The following records should be kept for each employee:

(1 The name and social security account number of the employee,

(2) The payments to the employee of cash wages for agricultural labor; and

(3) The amount deducted as employee tax.

Newly covered workers will need social security cards which they can get from their nearest social security district office. If the farm worker once had a card but lost it he should apply for a duplicate card.

By keeping proper records and filing complete and accurate social securiity tax returns, the farm operator is helping to build future financial protection for his employees in old age and for their families in case of death.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Del was kissing the children goodbye when Charlie walked into the front room, ready to go. When the kids turned their small faces toward him, he suddenly wondered if he were smart trying to cram a quick trip into the Labor Day weekend.

The youngsters would be safe with their grandparents, of course, but what if he and Del didn't come back? There could be an accident. He had never had such a thought before. He must be getting old, losing confidence. When he kissed the youngsters he could not shake off the touch of fear. It was as though he were risking too much for nothing.

"Don't get impatient on this trip," he said to Del as they drove out of town. "I've decided we'll just take it easy—drive about 55 maybe.

For an hour he moved easily and safely along the highway. He watched approaching cars carefully. The vague worry in his mind had settled into a fear that some oncoming car would swerve across the line and leave him helpless to avoid an accident.

But traffic was surprisingly light. He began to think about the office and a new system that would speed up work. When once he looked down, he was doing 63 miles an hour.

The trip was really too long for the time they had. The rich, uneventful land slipped past monotonously. Driving became a chore. Traffic became thicker and delays and slow-downs more irritating. By late morning, all he wanted to do was "get there and get started back."

When he glanced down for the last time the speedometer was showing 78 miles an hour and yearning for 80. Well, he had to go that fast to get around the "goof" ahead poking along at 60.

Let's leave Charlie there. What we might see in the next few minutes would be too terrible considering the two youngsters waiting at home.

1955 Waterfowl Season Rules Announced

Iowa's 1955 waterfowl season has been set by the State Conservation Commission, and will extend from October 8 to December 16, both dates inclusive.

Shooting on opening day for the new waterfowl season will commence at one-half hour before sunrise, rather than at noon as it has for several years. Daily shooting hours will be from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour before sunset.

The bag limit for ducks is 4, with a possession limit of 8. One wood duck is allowed in a bag or possession limit, and one hooded merganser is allowed in a bag or possession limit. The daily shooting time was set for the Mississippi Flyway to end at one-half hour before sunset, rather than at sunset, in an effort to protect wood ducks, which are particularly vulnerable at sunset.

The bag limit for geese is 5, with a possession limit of 5. No more than 2 Canada geese or their subspecies, or 2 white-fronted geese, may be included in any single bag or possession limit. No more than 1 Canada goose and 1 white-front may be held in any bag or possession limit. The bag and possession limit of geese may be comprised entirely of snow geese, blue geese, or any combination thereof.

The bag and possession limits of coot is 10.

The season for jacksnipe or Wilson's snipe will be 15 days, extending from October 8 to October 22nd, both dates inclusive, with a bag of 8 and a possession limit of 8. Daily shooting hours for snipe are the same as for other waterfowl.

Officials of the U S Fish and Wildlife Service and of Ducks Unlimited in Canada report that bumper crops of ducks have been reared this year in Canada's prairie provinces. Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan are said to have had excellent duck hatches, with the second hatch being even better than the first in most areas.

Tom Berkley, Game Manager for the Conservation Commission, recently returned from a special assignment in Saskatchewan where he assisted federal agents in banding and marking ducks.

"The water conditions up there are excellent", Berkley reports, "and there are plenty of young ducks. Some Canadian and American duck men told me that they could never remember seeing a better duck hatch in the Canadian pothole country."

To most Iowa duck hunters, however, reports of high northern duck production were tempered with the knowledge that Iowa rivers and ponds are shrinking rapidly and that heavy rains will be needed to attract the northern flights.

Portrait of a Businessman: The Average Iowa Farmer

The average Iowa farmer is truly a smart, aggressive, businessman, according to the Iowa Development Commission, and "big city folk" shouldn't be tempted to underestimate him.

Mr Average Iowa Farmer owns his farm, which is about 178 acres in size and worth approximately $35,000 in land and buildings. (Many averaged-sized farms, stocked with their full quota of equipment and livestock, represent an investment of perhaps double this—$70,000).

The U S Department of Agricultural Economics gives Iowa's farm families one of the highest standards of living in the nation. The farm operator family level-of-living index in Iowa is 185 against the national average of 134.

As for the business of farming—equipment alone needed to operate an average-sized farm represents $15,000 or more.

In the farmyard, or at work in the fields, our average farmer is likely to have: a tractor (worth $2,500); a hay baler or chopper ($1,500)—probably both; a combine ($1,500); corn picker ($1,800); pickup truck ($,000); disk ($350); plow ($300); manure spreader ($250); corn planter ($300); cultivator ($300); seeding equipment ($250); mower ($300); side rake ($300); grain elevators ($500); grinders ($200); and perhaps $2,000 additional in such things as feeders, waterers, pumps, blowers, engines, motors, and if he's a dairyman, he's likely to have $2,000 or $3,000 more invested in special dairy equipment.

His average gross income is more than $12,000. Part of this goes into the $250,000,000 spent by Iowa's famers for livestock feeds to supplement their home-grown grains, and into the $60,000,000 dollars they will spend this year for some 700,000 tons of commercial fertilizers to increase even further the high fertility of their fields, and boost production even further.

It is the average farmers of Iowa who produce one-tenth of the nation's entire food supply, the Development Commission points out, and who have given Iowa her ranking as the nation's leading farm state, the top producer of food and livestock feed in the United States.

Fall Seed Forages By September 15th

If your new seedings killed out this summer, you have until about Sept. 15 to get them seeded again for next year, says Hancock County Extension Director, Paul Henderson of Garner.

He says alfalfa is about the only legume that will do well in a fall seeding. Best results are obtained with timothy and bromegrass.

Moisture content of the soil is important to the success of a fall seeded crop. Harvey Thompson, Iowa State College extension agronomist, says it just doesn't pay to seed in dry ground. But fall seeding should be successful if moisture is adequate. He says it would be a good idea to have seedbed ready, so when you get some moisture, you can immediately get the crop in the ground.

The same consideration should be given to soil fertility as in spring seeding. Potash and phosphate can be applied according to soil test recommendations.

Henderson says you should work up a good seedbed before planting the seed. In oats stubble, it is merely necessary to disk the ground. Fall-seeded crops will grow best if the seed is not planted deep in the soil. It's important to pack the ground after seeding. Many crop failures have resulted when farmers failed to pack their seedbed to hold the moisture in.

This might be a bad fall for grasshoppers, so farmers must be on their toes, and take special precautions whenever they see any danger from hoppers.

Preparation of Lawn Gives Good Spring Start

It's time to start getting your lawn ready for winter and give it a head start next spring says Paul Henderson, Hancock County Extension Director.

During the first part of September, you should fertilize and water the lawn so it will be green when it freezes this winter.

Henderson reports H L Lantz, Iowa State College horticulturist, says the grass will get an earlier start next spring if it is kept growing this fall.

Most fertilizers on the market are adequate if they are used according to manufacturer's directions. After the lawn has been fertilized, give it a good soaking so the soil will be wet to a depth of about six inches. This will be enough to carry it through the fall.

Tells of Northern Vacation Trip

By Merlyn Olson

On Friday evening Thomas Waddingham, Lee Gruis, Gordon Lemke and I left for the wilds of Canada. The first overnight stop was at the home of Mr and Mrs Don Daggett of Minneapolis. (Mrs Daggett is a sister of Lee Gruis). Saturday we drove north around Lake Mille. Lac. This being the second largest lake in Minnesota, proved to be interesting because none of us had ever seen a body of water this big before. Saturday night we stayed at a lodge on the Upper Red Lake. It was dark when we got there and we didn't find out until morning that we were beside the largest lake in Minnesota. From where we were all the eye could see was water.

Sunday we drove on into Canada. Our opinion of Canada all seemed to be about the same. It is a wonderful place for a hunter's and fisherman's paradise. That night (Sunday) we put up our tent about 15 miles south of Kenora, Ontario, by a river called Rushing River. This name fit pretty well because it moved rather rapidly down a pretty steep slope. Must say we never sweat very much at all that night. To be truthful about the whole thing, it actually got "nippy".

Monday, we drove back to the U. S. and drove as far as Ely, Minn. This town is located on the northeastern corner of the world's largest open pit mine, the Mesabi Range. Around here we saw many steam engines pulling their loaded cars of iron ore to Two Harbors and Duluth. The maximum number of cars they pulled was about 100 loaded cars. The engine that pull these cars have a sixteen wheel drive.

Tuesday, we enjoyed a very scenic trip along North Shore Drive of Lake Superior. There are many interesting things along this lake such as waterfalls, the iron ore ships and lighthouses. One very interesting sight was the building of a complete town which five years ago was nothing but solid rock and trees. Now they have dynamited and built a complete town of business places and new homes within three years. It is named Silver Creek.

Tuesday afternoon we stopped for a visit with Mr and Mrs "Coonie Quandt at Two Harbors. We enjoyed our visit with them very much because "Coonie" and his wife live there every year from the last part of July until October. They told us many interesting facts about Lake Superior and the ore ships. Toward evening we got to see an iron ore ship dock at Two Harbors. The harbor there has a capacity of twelve ships which hold approximately 180,000 tons of ore each. It takes about 11 hours to load one of these ships and about a week to cross Lake Superior and return. They travel at the speed of about 20 to 25 knots. We say "Thanks" to Mr and Mrs Quandt for their fine hospitality and for the niterest-ing facts we learned from them.

After supper we drove about nine miles south to Knife River,, where we visited with Fred Arnold, Jr., who is staying there during the hay fever season also. Both the Quandts and Fred Arnold, Jr. have a beautiful view of Lake Superior. We enjoyed our visit with Fred Jr. and want to thank him also for everything.

Wednesday we spent driving through Wisconsin to "The Dells". Thursday we toured the Upper Dells an a launch. We returned home Thursday night after traveling 2,000 miles.

Martha Circle To Meet

Iowa deer hunters are reminded that deer licenses are now available and are being urged to send in their applications early.

About 400 applications have been received by the Conservation Commission. There will be 6,000 licenses issued, but there is usually a last-minute rush for the deer-hunting permits.

License applications are available from all State Conservation officers. The completed application should be sent to the Conservation Commission in Des Moines with $10 in check or money order.

The 1955 Iowa deer season for bow and arrow will extend from October 29 to November 20, both dates inclusive. The gun season for deer will be during December 3, 4, and 5.

We still have hopes for some seasonal price rise in better grades of cattle, according to Francis A. Kutish, farm economist at Iowa State College.

But, Kutish adds it will have to develop in the next 4 weeks. And it definitely won't be anything like last year—too many cattle are headed for market.

Meanwhile, Kutish reports, contracting of feeder cattle is slow. Prices at the markets dropped $1 to $2 during the hot weather. But since then have bounced back about half way.

The price spread between up-widening. The lower grades widening. Lower grades grades now are selling under this time last year. Good and choice are higher. But choice yearlings still were about $1 cheaper in early August than last October.

With more cattle headed for the late market, we are not likely to have a repeat of last year's more than normal price rise. The question, Kutish asserts, is "Are we going to have any?"

He says part of the reason for this year's lag stems from the larger supply. Another part of the hot weather. It cut the consumption of all kinds of fresh meats.

Farmers sold about 50 percent more prime slaughter steers at Chicago during July than in the same month last year. Prime steers made up 20 percent a year earlier and 16 percent 2 years earlier. Bottom three grades made up 26 percent of total this year: 28 percent last year.

Lower grades have been selling in line with last year—but the upper grades are lower.

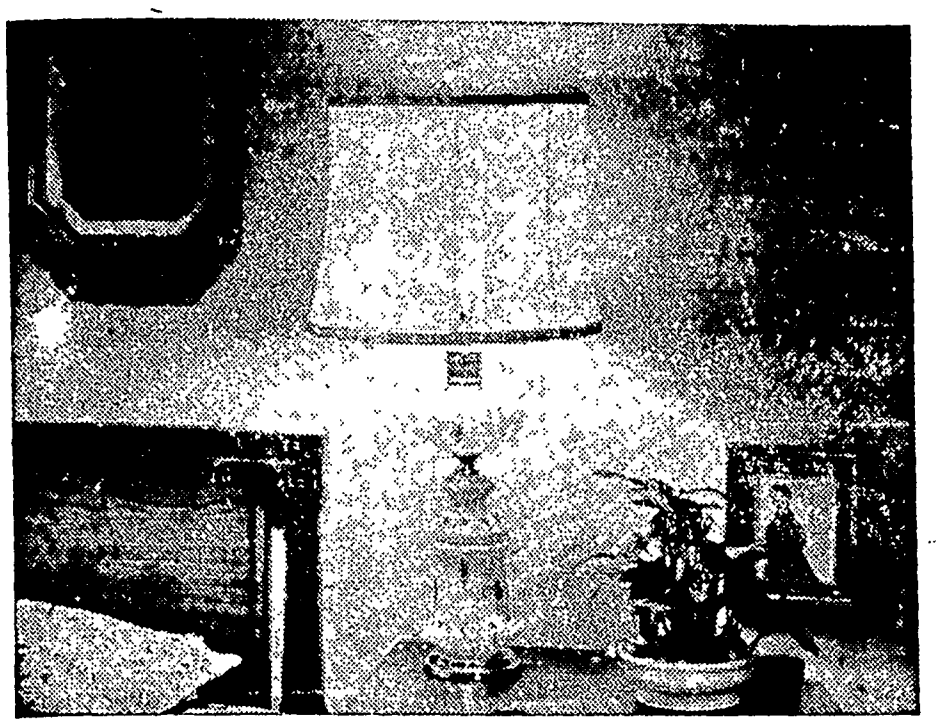
Time To Know—

The 'Latest' in Lamp Shades



This lamp, a model of white glass, has a key and fount reminiscent of old oil lamps. You'll notice the white translucent fabric on this shade is broad enough to create a wide spread of light. The lamp does a nice job of achieving both functional and aesthetic purposes.

* * *

Have you taken a close peek at the lamps in your house lately? You know, many times after homemakers have finished their spring cleaning the older, more worn lamp shades stick out like sore thumbs, in contrast. Do yours?

The average lamp base outlives three shades, according to June Brown, extension home furnishings specialist at Iowa State College, and this means it could well be time for you to shop for some new shades. Here are a few tips on what's new in lamp shades:

Tailored Drum Shape

Many of the lamp shade styles now have a tailored drum shape coupled with straight sides. The top opening of these shades is as large, or nearly so, as the bottom diameter.

The thing you'll be really happy to hear is that this style can be used beautifully with both modern furnishings and those from the traditional period, says Mrs Brown.

You'll still find empire shades with slanting sides, curved bell shades, and the familiar rectangular, square, oval and six-sided shades if you'd like to stick to these styles, according to the Lamp and Shade Institute of America.

Flared Sides

If you have a lamp with a slim and delicate looking neck, a shade with flared sides will probably be more appropriate than one which has perfectly straight sides.

Your best bet in lamp shade shopping is to pack up the lamp base and take it with you. If this is inconvenient for you, measure the center of the lamp from the top of the reflector bowl to the bottom of the socket. Remember, the shade must be deep enough to cover all the lighting equipment. Another helpful tip—a drum shade looks larger than a tapering shade—so if you're replacing an empire shade or bell shade, be sure to try it on your base before making your final decision.

Silk Shades

There's such a variety of surface treatments these days you can safely choose whatever you like and still be in good taste. Although silk shades were reserved, at one time, for fine traditional lamps of porcelain, glass and china—they now are used with contemporary lamps. By the same token, paper and plastic shades have taken their places on traditional lamps.

The silk shade category includes not only pure silks, but also acetates, rayons and nubby textures that are stretched over wire frames. You'll find smocked treatments in this group charming because of their finely detailed pleating—it's delicate, but preserves the popular tailored lines.

Plastic-Coated Fabric

There are fabrics coated with plastic, too. They have lots of advantages, and vary from lacy to tweedy weaves.

Paper parchment shades—moderately priced—are ideal for the summer season. Included in the parchment family are paper-backed fabrics, from chintzes and provincial prints to modern textures shot with metallic golden glints. If your home is done in Early American style, look for shades of dotted Swiss stretched over parchment. They are perfect over milk glass and hobnail glass bases.

Perhaps you're looking for a cool, outdoor material to use on your porch or summer room lamps. If so, try the woven straw, matchstick and wood slat shades.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Local folks can have an opportunity to help spread a little sunshine by remembering Glen Osman on his birthday this Sunday, September 11th. Glen has been in Oakdale Sanitarium for some time now and has an indefinite stay ahead of him. We believe that it would be a nice gesture to send a flood of greetings his way.

Herb Greiman, Jr., who is a junior in high school, is missing some school and is having a very enjoyable time. He and his grandpa, W F Greiman, left last week for Casper, Wyoming to get in some antelope and deer hunting. Junior had the good fortune to get a big buck antelope on the opening day of the season. Broke the critter's back with his first shot at about 150 yards. No "buck fever" for Junior.

It was the first big game hunting for Junior and we imagine, that he was really thrilled at having such success. We know his dad was pretty happy about it, because we talked to him after he had received the card telling of the incident. Junior and his grandpa plan to return to Klemme some time next week.

We always enjoy visiting with people from different sections of our country; especially when they are people who have lived here and are able to make comparisons. Consequently, we were pleased when John Schwichtenberg, former Klemme resident who now lives on a farm at Grand Bay, Alabama, stopped in last week and "chewed the fat" with us for an hour.

John, who was raised on farm here, met his wife, a southern girl, while in the service during World War II. After farming here for several years, the couple decided to try their luck back in Mrs. Schwichtenberg's part of the country. Hence, the Alabama address.

John manages a farm of approximately 700 acres near Grand Bay for a man who runs a large restaurant in Mobile, some 20 miles to the northeast. Grand Bay is only five miles or so from the Gulf of Mexico, they live just about as far south as they can get without getting out of the United States.

We talked of many things while John was in the office, but mostly about farming differences between here and there. John says that the fertilizer investment to raise a crop would really shock a farmer in this area. He said that on the farm he manages, they have the only successful alfalfa field in the county. They have two acres and it cost them $80 an acre just to get the ground in shape with fertilizer, etc.

We ventured the opinion that the price was pretty steep, but John soon convinced us that it wasn't. He said that in a normal year he could get five cuttings from the field and that it would go about a ton to the acre each cutting. That would make ten tons of alfalfa, and the going price for such hay in that area is $40 per ton. Not bad.

Tax Valuation for 1955 Sets County Record

Increase of $719,932 Over Previous Year

Hancock County Auditor Hattie Jass received word on Friday from the Property Tax Division of the State Tax Commission that all property values returned by the office of the County Assessor in Hancock County were approved as reported and approved by the County Board of Review.

The total taxable valuation on which 1955 levies will be computed and spread is the largest in the history of Hancock County and totals $38,284,114.00, an increase of $719,932 over the previous year, when the total was $37,564,182.00.

New buildings added to real estate in 1954 account for a large part of the increase. The 1955 valuation on real estate is $28,031,672.00 an increase of $412,898.00, and most of this increase is reflected in new buildings. Last year the total on real estate was $27,618,774.00.

New television sets purchased in 1954 also added value to property totals. These are reflected in the increase in personal property values which increased from $5,325,399.00 in 1954 to $5,485,962.00 in 1955 or an increase of $160,563.00. Assessment on radio, musical and television equipment in 1955 totaled $135,058.00 or a substantial increase over the previous year.

Expansion of utilities accounted for an increase of $146,471.00 in 1955 property values. In 1954 utility valuations totaled $4,620,003.00 and in 1955 the total reported to Auditor Jass by the State Tax Commission is $4,766,480.00. Most of the increase in this field is reflected in expansion of Natural Gas Service to various communities in the county.

The 1955 valuations as listed are net 60% taxable valuations and do not include military service exemptions which total $570,705.00 in Hancock county in 1955.

As soon as valuations are received from county auditors in nearby counties on joint school districts, levies will be computed by the auditor's office on budgets and valuations submitted and now approved. Tax lists are in the process of completion and levies will be spread later this month and in October by the auditor.

When taxes have been levied and tax lists balanced by the auditor, the lists are turned over to the County Treasurer for the preparation of tax receipts for the collection of taxes. Taxes are due January 1st of each year with the first half becoming delinquent on April 1st and the second half becoming delinquent on October 1st.

Local Chapter Transfers $500 to Aid Polio Victims

In an unprecedentetd move to save the March of Dimes nationwide program of providing for the necessary care of polio patients, the Hancock County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis today transferred $500.00 of its "surplus" funds to the national organization.

In announcing the payment, Joe Osman, chairman of the chapter, explained that the money was to be earmarked and pooled for redistribution among chapters of the National Foundation which are confronted with bills for patient care beyond the limits of their financial resources.

"We have made this payment", he said, "in compliance with a call issued by President Basil O'Connor of the National Foundation to all chapters with surpluses beyond their estimated needs for this year."

"The nature of polio—unpredictable and geognaphically without pattern—has made a nationwide adjustment of March of Dimes resources necessary if the vital patient aid program is to survive," Mr Osman continued. "We of the Hancock County Chapter are proud to contribute toward the continuation of the program so essential to polio patients everywhere."

"Our own needs for the care of polio patients continue large, and the people of Hancock County will go on meeting them through contributions to the March of Dimes. While the promise of the Salk vaccine is bright polio isn't licked yet. No one knows where this disease will strike next. Hence Hancock County's continued support of the March of Dimes is not only a contribution to the nation's fight against polio; it is the way our people have of insuring themselves."

Mr Osman cited a recent statement issued by the National Foundation which showed that the 1955 March of Dimes total for the country fell short by approximately $12,000,000 of meeting polio needs of this year. Through the call for surpluses to 1,781 chapters which are in the black, it is expected some $10,000,000 will be made available for 1,274 other chapters that are now in the red because of heavy inroads to help polio patients.

September Induction Call

The Hancock County Local Board will fill the induction call for the month of September using the following registrants to make up the call: Kenneth Leon Cook, Britt; and Frank R Smith, Mason City.

These men will report to the Armed Forces Examining and Induction Station in Des Moines on 13 September 1955.

Coal Contract Awarded

Hancock County Supervisors Friday awarded a contract to the Woodford Wheeler Lumber Co., of Garner to supply the Hancock County Home with 100 tons of oil treated stoker coal for the ensuing year. Fifty tons are to be delivered about December 15th and the balance in February of 1956. The firm bid $9.95 a ton at a letting held on Friday.

20-Foot Fall Fatal to Oda Hansen's Brother

Miss Oda Hansen received word Tuesday of the death of her brother Oage, 51, of Thornton.

Mr Hansen was helping shell corn on a farm near Thornton, Tuesday, when the fatal accident occurred. He had climbed into the upper part of the granary and stepped onto what he thought was floor. Instead, it was merely tar paper laying flat over the joists, and he fell through.

He fell head first twenty feet to the concrete driveway floor.

• RANDOM THOUGHTS

We talked some of farming methods and management and John says that as near as he can tell, Iowa State College at Ames, and Purdue University in Indiana, are two places that are really respected in that part of the country. The agricultural schools there really look to them. John says, "Never forget that the eyes of agriculture all over the country are pretty much focused on good old Iowa."

We also talked briefly about the problems involved in the south with regard to desegregation, and we agreed that where there is such a heavy colored population (50 percent or more in many areas) there are problems. John stated that he thought the only solution was education; not only for the colored folks, but for the whites as well. He thinks that prejudices are too deep-seated to be rooted out overnight, but he says that already some changes are becoming apparent.

Desegregation is a big job, but it is also a job which anyone who has never put in any time in the south, would find hard to understand. There have been inequities and gross injustices in the past, and like John, we believe that the only way to keep them from continuing is through education. It's going to be a lengthy process but we think our nation will be better off when it's accomplished.

The next time you're tempted to high-brow someone, don't overlook the possibility that he may be next person to whom you will turn for help.—Dale Ahern, Decorah Journal.

"Two hints for making any day more pleasant—Think and Thank."

Dry weather is still with us but at least the temperature is down so that one feels more like living. The past week has been a good one for getting farm work done and a lot of silos have been filled. Normally that work doesn't get underway as early as it did this year, but the long spell of dry weather put the corn into condition for silage, so silos had to be filled.

Some fall plowing has been done in the past week, too, but it's a rough job. The ground is dry and hard, making it difficult to do a good job of plowing, as well as running up the expense. Many farmers are waiting for rains to come and soak the ground before they attempt to turn their soil.

The past week of cool weather has been more than welcome so far as we are concerned. The air is beginning to have the feel of fall in it, and fall is our favorite season. After the first frost comes and begins to paint the landscape with all the various shades of brilliancy of which it is capable, it seems to us that we always feel better. Mornings are chilly, but soon warm up and make shirt sleeves the uniform for the day. It's cool enough to work and be comfortable and not so warm as to rob one of ambition.

As far as we are concerned, outdoors is the best place to be most of the year, there is a tang in the air, come fall, that makes being out more desirable than ever. There is just one trouble with fall . . . always in the back of the mind is the knowledge that soon the snowballs will be flying . . . and that time of year we don't particularly like. Guess it's necessary, though.

"Now, as a freedom-loving American, let's say that this pail represents your right to work—and those windows, the work!"

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

FARMS AND ROADS

Governor Hoegh has scheduled two conferences on topics which always, in agricultural Iowa, are important to its citizenry. The conferences are on farm prices and roads.

First meeting is slated for September 23 when the governor and the Iowa toll road committee will meet with an Illinois toll road delegation headed by Gov. Stratton of Illinois.

Iowa can't build its toll road, by law, until Illinois builds to the Iowa borders on the east. Purpose of this meeting, which will be held at Davenport, will be to coordinate and review plans of the two states on toll roads matters.

Second meeting, and the one that will draw the greatest attention, will be the conference on farm prices. Governors from nine states will come to Iowa for this parley on October 4 and 5. It will be in Des Moines.

Hoegh said that governors from Wisconsin, Kansas, South Dakota, Nebraska, Wyoming, and Indiana have already accepted, and that Illinois' Governor Stratton, who will be unable to attend, will send a representative.

In addition, members of the Iowa congressional delegation have been invited to attend as have members of the U. S. department of agriculture.

Democrat governors in Minnesota and Missouri were not invited.

HOME OWNERS

Opposition to the state's homestead exemption plan, whereby home owners receive tax exemptions, may have softened in the face of recent news from the state tax commission.

The commission reports that Iowa home owners have increased more than 25 percent in the last 10 years.

National statistics have indicated that the gain in Iowa has been greater than in any other state.

The Iowa figures are based on the number of homestead exemptions. The exemption maximum is $62.50 per year.

Purpose of the homestead plan is to influence greater home ownership. Proponents are already giving it credit for much of the increase reported.

TO BUY POLIO

Plans have been completed by the state department of health for Iowa's participation in the federal government's $30 million polio Salk vaccine aid program. It must be approved by the U. S. public health service.

Under the program this state would buy about $500,002 worth of polio Salk vaccine for use this fall to inoculate children under 20 years and expectant mothers.

Vaccine thus purchased will be available to all persons in the eligible groups without charge.

STATE FUND GROWS

There will be an increase of more than $1 million in the unencumbered balance of the state treasury at the end of this biennium.

State Comptroller Glen Sarsfield forecast this information in a report mailed out to all legislators.

He predicted the balance would move to $1,367,659 in the two year period.

STUDY REQUEST

The state executive council decided to study a request of Atty. Gen. Dayton Countryman for another special attorney general to represent the state in handling proceedings for land condemnation near Harlan for Prairie Rose state park. Some councilmen are questioning the need for another special assistant.

STAMP SALES CONTINUE

Despite the attorney general's campaign the sale of federal liquor tax stamps in Iowa continues.

The total sold up to the start of this week was 856. The sales of the new stamps began July 1, start of the current fiscal year.

Last year a total of 1,616 stamps were sold through the bureau of internal revenue to Iowa clubs, taverns and other establishments.

The attorney general contends that a holder of such a tax stamp can be considered as evidence of intention to violate the Iowa liquor laws which prohibit the sale of liquor by the drink.

BIG ROAD PROJECT

The state highway commission has approved low bids totaling $11,300,000 for highway construction and improvement. The projects were approved in one of the biggest single lettings in recent years.

Low bids totaling $4,633,229 were received for 22 cement widening projects, and the total amount of money involved in asphaltic cement work is $4,820,427 for 193 miles of new paving.

IOWA FLOOD QUOTA

The Iowa quota for donations for flood sufferers in Eastern states will be $100,000.

The estimate of the total quota was made by Arthur Jackson, state public relations director for the American Red Cross.

FIRST IN RING

A Storm Lake attorney, Wendell Pendleton, is the first Iowan to toss his hat into the ring as a candidate for lieutenant-governor in the 1956 elections.

Pendleton, speaker pro tem of the house during the last legislature, will be seeking the Republican nomination. His announcement follows the late July statement of Lt. Gov. Leo Elthon of Fertile that he would not seek reelection next year.

Pendleton, who has served 3 terms in the Iowa house of representatives, is expected to have opposition in the Republican primaries.

NIXON TO IOWA

Vice-President Richard Nixon will give an Iowa talk, to teachers, at the annual convention of the Iowa State Teachers Association, November 3.

Nixon's address will be given at the opening session of the general convention at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium. For the vice-president's appearance, the first in this state in several months, seating capacity will be arranged for 15,000.

SUE FOR VACATIONS

The state of Iowa is being sued on a vacation plan for employees law passed by the last legislature. The action was filed in Polk Co. district court by a group of state workers.

The legislature passed a law, which grants three weeks vacation to state employees who have been on the payrolls for 10 consecutive years. The attorney general has ruled that persons whose 10th or succeeding employment anniversary fell before April 21, the effective date of the law cannot claim a three-weeks vacation until their employment anniversary next year.

Thus, if an employee completed his 10th year on April 1, 1955, he would get only a two weeks vacation this year instead of three.

The state employees want the court to rule that all employees with 10 or more years of service in 1955 get three weeks vacation, and that the length of service for vacations not be considered consecutively but collectively.

FUNDS INVESTED

A total of $44,051,040 of the Iowa public employees' retirement fund is now under investment. The money represents employer and employee contributions to the pension and retirement program.

The total is the largest amount invested by the state.

About 80,000 persons are covered by the system. The employees and the state contribute four percent each of the employees salary toward the system.

"Trouble with the average man is that he seldom rises above the average."

REUNITED

At Waverly, Otto Matherny expects to be reunited with his wife and two children, after 11 years. Otto is a displaced person from Yugoslavia. He came to the United States in 1952 with his two oldest daughters, but has been separated from his wife and two younger children since 1945 when the Russians captured Budapest.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Ranchers have been a little slower in selling stockers and feeders thus far this summer than a year ago, Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist points out this week. Grass conditions over most of the West are the best since 1951. So ranchers are holding for greater gains.

Also, ranchers and farmers have not been able to get together very well on prices for this fall, says Kutish. Thus far, feeder prices are about in line with a year ago. But the fat cattle market is lower.

One of the forces helping hold up the feeder prices is the larger feed supply. Colorado and Texas farmers have a lot more acres in grain sorghums than usual. The barley crop is large. And we had a big small grain crop here in the Corn Belt. The drouth has taken the edge off the corn crop here in the Western Corn Belt. But Eastern Corn Belt farmers will harvest a good crop.

There always are more feeder cattle available than are fed, Kutish stresses. The price and the number actually fed is determined by how strongly the farmers bid against the packers for those cattle.

That's why Kutish urges farmers to do some close figuring this fall in deciding their feeding program. Don't figure on fat cattle selling any higher next spring, summer and fall than this year, says Kutish. Then take the price you can get for your feed—figure what your gains will cost you. Decide on how much profit you will have to have to cover your efforts. Then you can estimate how much you can afford to pay for feeder cattle, says Kutish.

Not until this is done, are you ready to bid for feeder cattle.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Ben never missed those little red signs that jingle out an advertisement for a shaving cream along the highways. He could spot the tiny signs far up the road and he'd grin in anticipation of being amused.

The little red signs were so attractive to Ben that he made what for him was a big concession in order to read them—he'd slow down.

Hunched up in the seat, Ben would read all the words on all the little signs as he passed slowly down the line. Then, satisfied, he would push the car back up to a blistering highway speed.

After all his years of careful attention to the little red boards with their rhymed sales messages, Ben could have been called something of an expert at spotting highway signs.

It was a little surprising then when Ben drove past a series of nine signs in a half mile stretch and paid them no heed.

It was even more surprising when a reflectorized sign right in the middle of the highway failed to catch Ben's attention until, at his speed, it was considerably too late.

After they pulled Ben and his car out of the creek bed, someone came up with the reason. The nine signs Ben had ignored just weren't amusing—they all warned of bridge construction ahead.

Ben was one of the many drivers who would rather be entertained than warned.

FALLS

Bill Zearing Jr., had a 50-foot fall from a tree at Mt. Vernon recently, when the limb he was sawing off fell to the ground with him. He had hooked his safety belt to a small shoot on the same limb and when the limb was sawed through, it split back toward the trunk and took with it the shoot to which he was fastened.

Large Poultry Flock Is More Profitable

It's safer to start in the poultry business with a small flock, but once you know the business it pays to get into the chicken business on a bigger scale.

W. R. Whitfield, extension poultryman at Iowa State College says records have been kept on Iowa Poultry Demonstration flocks for the past 10 years comparing the brooding of large and small flocks.

According to a 10-year study, flock owners who brooded 1,000 or more chicks made an average return of $1.91 per hour for their labor in raising pullets from chicks to 5 months of age. Those who brooded 500 chicks or less made an average return of only $1.15 an hour.

Costs of production and hours of labor per bird make up a large part of the difference. Feed for smaller flocks has to be bought in smaller quantities and therefore at higher prices per pound. During the 10 years, feed for the small flocks cost an average of 4.2 cents a pound. Feed for the large flocks costs only 3.6 cents a pound. The owner of the small flock put in 36.3 hours of labor for each 100 birds during the 5-month growing period. The owner of the large flock put in only 18.3 hours per 100 birds.

The small flock has only one advantage, Whitfield says. If the owner makes a serious mistake with it, he doesn't lose so much. On the other hand, if he does a good job, he doesn't make much with the small flock. Whitfield says the small flock is a "place to start" in poultry raising—not to finish.

November 1 Deadline For Enrolling In 4-H Laying Flock Project

This year's Poultry Club Tour is over, but Hancock County 4-H'ers will have to start preparing for next year's competition now.

Doyle Gorden, Hancock County Youth Assistant says a five-day, expense-paid trip will be available again next summer for the top two winners from each county with 10 or more members participating in the 4-H Laying Flock Project.

To qualify, each member must have a minimum of 50 pullets and exhibit four hens and one dozen eggs at the county achievement show. A 4-H member who manages the farm flock is also eligible for the tour. Deadline for entries is November 1.

According to Gorden, each county will receive premium money through a plan set up by the poultry department of the Agricultural Extension Service at Iowa State College. At the State Fair, a winner is named each year and awarded the Sears Roebuck Foundation Scholarship of $300.

Selection of trip winners will be on the basis of records showing management practices used, egg production, financial return, quality of exhibit at the county 4-H Poultry Achievement show and overall participation in the 4-H program.

Quail Hitchhikes To State Fair

An Eastern Iowa quail evidently wishes to visit the State Fair this year, but he's doing it the hard way. Theh quail, formerly of Grundy County, hitchhiked to Des Moines on a truck bumper.

Truck driver Tom Mumford of a Des Moines construction company made a delivery on August 22 to Grundy Center. On a nearby gravel road he drove by a covey of quail that flushed as the truck passed.

Mumford returned to Des Moines that night, made several local deliveries the next morning, and reported back to the firm's parking lot.

While the truck was given a routine check, a wild quail was found walking groggily along the bumper and trying to hide under the radiator grille. The bird was caught, and a Conservation Commission leg band showed him to be a bona fide resident of Grundy County that had been released in late July. Mumford had evidently ran into the quail covey as it flew, and one injured bird stayed with the truck.

The wandering quail was turned over to the Conservation Commission officials, who plan to show it at the Conservation Exhibit at the Fair if it recovers. So far, the bird is alive and doing well in spite of being "taken for a ride."

She is the first child for the Brothertons and has been named Kathryn Eliseen. Mr Brotherton worked at Larsen's before resigning last spring to work on a farm near Goodell.

Sophomore Class News

This year we start our school day out by having literature first. We have been reading stories and reviewing them in class.

In history we have been studying about prehistoric man and the old and new stone age. It has been quite interesting so far.

We've been studying the principles of biology in biology class. We have also been talking about projects which we would like to work on sometime during the school year.

In algebra we have been doing some simple algebra problems. We glanced at some problems a little further in the book and find that they aren't all so simple.

There are twelve sophomores taking drivers training this first semester and thirteen the last semester, so it looks like everyone's eager to learn to drive.

We haven't elected class officers yet, but we plan to do so the latter part of this week.

This and That Around K. H. S. . . .

I was told that Berleen Bridges should be more careful with the letters she writes or Merle will get hold of them.

It looks like the summer hasn't been to bad for Beverly and Pete. They seemed to have made it through with only one disagreement.

Why is it that Dorothy K is so interested in Belmond lately? Is it because of a certain fellow named Dean Pruisman.

It looks like the summer has brought about a new romance between Joyce Thieman and Mickey B from Garner. You are doing o. k., Joyce.

It has been going around school that Garz Lenz wants to go with a certain freshman girl that we all know. (It isn't Myrna Barz is it?)

I guess the summer vacation must have been just fine for Elaine and Egon, because I see she still has his ring.

It looks like Rosalie can't make up her mind about who she wants to go with. For a while it was Belmond she was always so interested in, but I guess a certain fellow came back into the picture (John Smith).

The summer ended in a tragedy for K N and J T. We thought everything was clicking fine but I guess it was just one of those summer romances. (What about this Keith?)

I gained the information recently that Martin Brinkman was now a woman hater. I wonder how long this could ever last.

Martin and Keith must have gone on a shopping spree by the looks of all the new shirts they have been wearing to school.

I guess we really hit the nail on the head when we mention Denny and Carol. I guess Denny really seems to like Garner and now that he has had his license returned and has a car, he should be fairly satisfied.

Senior Class News

American History: We are studying the physical features of our country.

English: We just got our American Literature books. Through a slight mix-up we almost had to take English Literature again—we had it last year, but we got it all straightened out. Thank goodness!

Bookkeeping: We are learning how to write out a balance sheet.

Typing II: Typing! Confidentially, we just got a good start.

Business Training: We have started to read the text book and diligently delve into business training.

Sociology: We have begun to study about heredity.

Chemistry: We haven't our text books as yet, but we have started to learn the names of the utensils we will be using, something about the metric system, and a few of the terms in chemistry. All of these are needed to be known in order to do experiments.

Question of the Week

Have you settled down and started really concentrating on school or is your mind still lost somewhere in the summer?

Denny Haefner — Mine's just plain lost.

Elaine Jurgemeyer—I'm stiill trying to get used to the teachers

Fonda Bier—I can't place where my mind is.

Jimmy Karsjens—My mind is still lost.

Carol Bridges — Now that's a silly question. Isn't it?

Douglas Roul — I don't think mine will ever be made up .

Marvin Michelson — I haven't reached the stage where I can really concentrate yet? But I suppose I never will.

Junior Class News

Our required subjects are English and government. Five in our class are taking chemistry, a new subject which is being offered. Every one is taking typing. Nine of the girls in our class are taking advanced home making and nine boys are taking shop II. Four juniors are enrolled in the sociology. There are 27 Juniors this year.

In English literature we are reading "The Canterbury Tales" by Chaucer. We're discussing the first chapter "Strength Through Union" in Government. Typing we've learned the home keys and a few of the others. In Home Making we're preparing to start sewing. The Chemistry Class is learning the names of the utensels, some chemistry terms, and metric system of measuring. Sociology—they've begun the study of heredity.

Wouldn't It Be Funny If

Joyce T had long black natural curly hair?

Keith N didn't have an answer for everything.

Bobby T were as tall as Denny Haefner?

The senior class read their history lessons?

The junior typing class could type 90 words a minute.

The advanced home ec class took the wrong measurements?

Margaret H couldn't play the piano?

The school house were a tent?

The boys wore skirts and the girls wore slacks?

We had a snow storm this week end and couldn't get to school for four weeks?

If everyone liked to study?

Beverly and Pete didn't go together?

If Nancy didn't sleep in study hall?.

If there were a swimming pool in back of the schoolhouses and we could go swimming between classes.

If there weren't any windows in the school house to stare out of?

$81,500,914.00 to Boost Iowa Income

Taking ordinary business expenses, taxes and payroll alone, the brewing industry last year spent over $81,500,000.00 in Iowa. It figures out this way:

BUSINESS EXPENSES	$27,544,621.00
TAXES	23,484,632.00
PAYROLL	30,671,661.00
	$81,500,914.00

This revenue reaches down to every nook and corner of the state, every field of endeavor... goes to swell our welfare and prosperity week in, week out, year after year, wherever we live and however we are employed. Truly, the brewing industry is an important factor in our economy and progress.

Wax Can Do So Many Jobs

See what an easy job this homemaker's making for herself. Her traverse rods have been waxed—so she can pull the drapes smoothly and with lots of ease.

* * *

Have you ever stopped to think about the many little—as well as big—jobs with which wax can help you? Many of us are really missing out on the company of a valuable helpmate by not using wax for all the jobs it's capable of doing, says June Brown, extension home furnishings specialist at Iowa State College.

Less Tarnish on Silver

Not many things are more down-right annoying than having your lovely silver become tarnished—right? So, you'll really be happy to hear that there's a way in which you can cut down tarnishing.

Apply a no-rubbing furniture wax to silver immediately after you clean it. Use the wax on the surfaces of silver coffee and tea services and trays and on the handles of knives, forks and spoons. This wax protection will keep the surface tarnish-free three times longer.

Perhaps you have trouble with spilled medicine and cosmetics on painted shelves in the bathroom cabinet—many of us do. These substances are less likely to stain if the shelves are waxed. You'll find that bottles and jars won't stick to the waxed paint during damp weather as much either.

Wax for Knicknacks

If you're interested in a way to keep lamp bases and knick-knacks of wood and porcelain shiny and clean, try a non-water base wax. Ashes won't stick to the waxed ash trays either and if you wax your telephone, it won't collect fingermarks.

Oh, those Venetian blinds! They always entail so much "elbow grease," it seems. Well, don't let them wear you out. Instead, take your choice between a cleaning and polishing wax or a mixture of detergent and wax. All of them do a good job—and the blinds will come out looking bright and new.

Here's a tip for closet cleaning time. Remember to put a coat of paste wax on all smooth leather articles before you return them to the closet after clean- These include shoes, luggage, sports equipment, belts, purses and any other leather goods. Besides improving leather's appearance, it helps preserve it.

The finish on your window sills probably is exposed to lots of moisture and blown-in dirt. So remember at house cleaning time to use a cleaning wax instead of a harsh abrasive. Then every once in a while, apply a coat of paste wax—this should protect the finish from deterioration.

Now for an easy way to get those drapes to move smoothly. Just wax the rods, especially traverse rods. Your curtains will move like clock work.

Furniture Care

If your porch and outdoor furniture seem to be "taking a beating" from the wind, rain and sunshine—and hard use, here's a tip in which you'll be interested:

Protect gliders, swings and all outdoor furniture with a non-water base wax. This will really keep the finish in fine condition, and you'll find the furniture lots easier to keep clean when it's protected with a coat of wax.

Every now and then we all get the urge to change our furniture around. It really seems to give the home interior a new look. If you wax the bottoms of the table and chair legs they'll move much more quickly and easily. Try it and see!

This damp weather we've been having here in Iowa has done quite a job on lots of our screens, which makes them stick. Rub paste wax on the edges of the frames to prevent sticking. Lubricate your doors and drawers the same way if they stick.

Hancock County Farmers To Hear Outlook Reports

One of the most important farm meetings to he held this fall is scheduled for Tuesday night, Sept. 20th, at the Britt High School at 8 P. M.

County Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner expects at least 100 Hancock County farmers to attend, to discuss livestock and feed problems with Rex Beresford and Gordon Bivens from Iowa State College.

Each farmer attending the meeting will receive a copyrighted chart which he can use in figuring the price he can afford to pay for feeder cattle, Henderson says.

With lower feed prices and narrow margins, Hancock farmers will need to do careful figuring in planning their 1955 livestock programs. Gordon Bivens, Extension Economist will show how to figure the price a farmer can afford to pay for feeder cattle. He will also discuss prices farmers can expect for grains, soybeans and hogs this fall and winter.

Rex Beresford will explain results of latest feeding experiments at Iowa State College and he will outline feed requirements for different feeding programs.

A fire destroyed six buildings, including the barn, on the Marvin Lappin farm near Riceville recently. The blaze started in the 100-foot long barn.

"Sure, he's too busy. But if you want to see a man of action, just tell him the fish are biting!"

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

When you read this we will be in the Black Hills of South Dakota enjoying a brief respite from the usual weekly routine. Mrs Clifford Montgomery and Merlyn Olson are getting out The Times this week while we loaf.

We had a brief visit with Walter Bachman Friday. Walter, who has spent most of his life in Klemme, now lives in Sterling, Illinois, and is employed in a steel mill. We asked Walt if the work didn't get a little hard, and he said that on the contrary, he found it quite easy.

Walt works three weeks and then has five days off. He works from 7:00 a. m. to 3:00 p. m. for a week; then from 3:00 to 11:00 p. m. for a week; and then from 11:00 p. m. to 7:00 a. m. for a week. Says he really prefers the "graveyard shift" ,11 to 7) the most of any of them. Doesn't break up his day so much.

Our column is short this week. what with getting enough work out of the way so we can take our short vacation trip and getting things packed and ready to go, our mind isn't working right for the writing of a column. We hope, though, that our trip will go okay, and we will be back on the job next week.

Legion Auxiliary Plan To Purchase Sick Room Equipment

The American Legion Auxiliary, Gifford Olson Unit No 256, of Garner, announces the start of their annual magazine subscription campaign. Mrs Deloris Neilsen, President; Mrs C J Johansen, secretary; and Mrs J R Keith, Equipment chairman, state that the commissions derived this year will be used to purchase new additional portable sick room equipment, for the treatment of patients in their own homes.

Robert Schulz Honored As Poultry Raiser

Robert Schulz of Klemme has been honored as an outstanding poultry raiser by the Moorman Manufacturing Company, Quincy Illinois.

His success at growing chicks this summer won him membership in the company's "Beat 2.5 in "55" Club. He was among winners in 14 states announced this week.

He grew chickens on an average of less than 2½ pounds of total feed per pound of body weight at 8 weeks of age. The national average is 4 pounds. Poultry experts say that 3 pounds is "very good" and that 2½ pounds is "outstanding".

So, with superior care, management and feeding, he "beat the experts" at growing chicks efficiently.

RE-UNITED

After 28 years, a mother and son were re-united at Glenwood recently. Mrs Mabel Washburn of Port Angeles, Wash., and her son, Jesse Brown of Keokuk met at the home of her father. She'd lost track of the son, after leaving him in a children's home at Stanton after the death of her husband.

First Beans Combined

First beans to be brought into the elevator this fall were combined last Thursday on the Arthur Katter and Caris Kropp farms. Compared to normal years this is very early to combine and the summer's hot, dry weather has made the moisture content on the beans very low. Those that were brought in Thursday tested only nine percent moisture according to Marvin Lemke, manager of the elevator here.

1955 Corn Loan Rate Is Announced

The 1955 corn loan rate in Hancock County will be $1.50, or only four cents under the rate for last year's crop, it was announced this week by J Leo Paulson, chairman of the county ASC committee.

Price support rates for 1955 corn in Iowa, as in all other commercial corn-producing areas of the nation, will reflect 87 percent of partiy. Because corn acreage allotmentts are in effect, the support rates in the non-commercial areas will be 75 percent of the full rate of 87 percent of parity.

Only corn produced on farms in compliance with corn acreage allotments will be eligible for price support in Iowa and other commercial producing areas. Loans and purchase agreements on eligible corn will be available from the time of harvest through next May 31, and they will mature next July 31. Theh corn must grade No. 3 or better, or No. 4 on the factor of test weight only, and must be adequately stored.

As in the past years, applications must be filed with the county ASC office serving the farm on which the grain was produced.

Wake Up, Davy— It's Squirrel Season!

Iowa's Davy Crocketts are oilingup their moccasins and blacking their rifle sights, getting set for the 1955 squirrel season that begins Saturday, September 17.

Thousands of hunters are expected to take advantage of a good squirrel crop and the Saturday opening, the first hunting season to open under the new Conservation Commission policy.

The season will extend from Steptember 17 through November 15, with a bag limit of 6 and a possession limit of 12 on fox and gray squirrels. The entire state is open to squirrel hunters.

Because of general dry conditions and noisy walking, "still-huntng" may be the best policy. This consists of just being lazy and sitting under a tree waiting for something to turn up—one of the most productive methods of squirreling. Commission officials advise hunters to wear neutral-colored clothing and soft shoes. A small pair of field glasses and a bottle of mosquito dope are also handy items.

Hunters are cautioned to use great care with .22's, since their bullets will carry up to a mile. Care should be taken in timbers where there is livestock, and rifle bullets should be fired along the ground only when there is a good backstop beyond.

May Choose Way To Report Income

$400-a-Year Farmers Must Pay Social Security

If a self-employed farm operator makes $400 or more net income a year, he is required to report it and pay Social Security tax on this net income.

OPERATOR HAS CHOICE

But some farm operators may want to take advantage of optional ways of figuring their self-employment income for Social Security purposes. according to I W Arthur, extension farm economist at Iowa State College.

The choice may be important, he points out, because the amount of income on which you pay Social Security tax may help determine the amount of the retirement benefits you and your wife may receive if you reach retirement age and the survivor benefits to your family in case of your death.

Here are the options you have:

1. If your gross income for the year from farm self-employment is $1,800 or less, you may report one-half of the gross income instead of figuring the actual net earnings. Thus, if your gross income from farming is $800, you may report $400 even though you didn't make that much net income from farming.

2. If your gross income for the year from farm self-employment is more than $1,800, but your actual net earnings are less than $900, you may report $900 instead of your actual net earnings.

FOR FARM INCOME ONLY

Arthur points out that the optional method for figuring Social Security payments is used only in counting self-employment tax and applies only to farm income.

DISCUSS EXEMPTIONS

The Iowa department of the American Legion is the first veterans organization to appear before the Iowa legislation tax study committee to discuss veterns exemptions.

Churchill T Williams of Oelwein, state commander of the Legion, responded to recent reports that the study committee is considering abandonment of certain tax exemptions now being granted to veterans and others.

In a prepared statement the Legion said it is not "asking for any special benefits for members of the American Legion, but we appear asking the same benefits for all veterans of all wars."

"The benefits we seek are to retain and enlarge, if possible, the tax exemptions granted to all veterans in Iowa," Williams said.

"When you hit the military exemptions," he said, "you hit the very persons who, each in his small way, helped to defend and preserve the nation, the state and the property on which taxation is based. The veteran is the only person to whom exemptions are granted who earned that exemption; earned it by years of service.

The Legion reminded the state committee that while some states do not grant exemptions they offer other benefits to veterans at state expense.

REAPPORTIONMENT

Is the state of Iowa drawing closer to legislative reapportionment?

In recent weeks the proposition of reapportionment of the state legislature, to enable certain areas to be more properly represented according to their population, has become a matter of statewide discussion.

Whether the question is solved in the near future remains to be seen, but one of the blocks to possible discussion of the subject in a special legislative session was removed when the attorney general ruled that acts of a special session on the subject would be valid.

It had been considered that such action could come only from the legislature in regular session.

The attorney general ruled the legislature could act with the same effect as a regular session on a constitutional amendment in special session.

Reapportionment would require a constitutional amendment. An amendment must be approved by two successive sessions of the legislature and then by a vote of the people. The attorney general said that the two sessions could be two special, two regular, or one of each.

Next regular session will be in January, 1957.

WOMEN'S PART

Mrs Margaret Thornburgh of Okumlgee, Okla., told an Iowa Labor Day crowd in Des Moines that women "have the potential to control next year's (presidential) elections."

Mrs Thornburgh, director of the women's division of Labor's league for political education, said:

"Women cast only 600,000 less votes than men in 1952 and they have the potential to control next year's election."

UTILITY ASSESSMENTS

Assessed valuation of properties owned by public utilities in Iowa has been placed at $464,-1128,347 this year, the Iowa tax commission reportts.

The utilities include railroads, telephone and telegragh firms, interubans, pipelines and gas and electric companies.

The assessments show slight decreases for railroad holdings, in Iowa, but increase in the other categories.

The major utility group including gas, electric and pipeline companies, has been assessed at $270,949,754, compared to the 1954 figure of $249,019,377.

The commission assessments have been certified to all companies involved. Three companies, commissioners report, have filed requests to appeal from the decisions. They are the Iowa Electric Light and Power Company, Iowa Southern Utilities, and Iowa Power and Light Company.

UNIFIED DRIVE

In Des Moines, in November, 30 protestant churches will unite in a fund raising drive, the first such effort to be tried on such a large scale in Iowa.

Although the churches will coordinate their activities in the drive, each church will collect funds from its own members for its own budget. The drive will be known as the United Church Canvass.

In other areas, where sumliiar drives have been held, officials reported collections were up by 50 to 100 percent.

DOING GOOD JOB

Iowa health officials believe that the one Salk vaccine, given to first and second graders this spring, has served to prevent polio and make milder those cases that did occur.

Among 112,000 Iowa children who received the vaccine there have been 28 mild polio cases reported, and two cases listed as paralytic. No deaths were reported in this group.

Among an estimated 150,000 children of the same ages who did not receive the Salk vaccine there have been 41 cases of polio, including four of the paralytic type. On of the four was fatal.

Dr Ralph Heeren, director of preventable diseases in Iowa, said that the figures indicate "that the vaccine is preventing polio and that it is making it milder."

Friday, the drivers training class go to Garner to get their permits. Then we begin to drive! Look out!!!!

Boys' Sports

The baseball season got underway for the Shamrocks last Friday as they journeyed to Kanawha for their first game. Lack of practice and experience however, proved fatal to the locals as they were soundly beaten 10 to 0. Coach Westberg gave all the boys a chance to play in hopes that he could find a winning combination for the future games.

Tuesday there was action on the local diamond as Klemme played hosts to the Fertile Indians. Again the Shamrocks made many errors as they were defeated 14 to 5.

The remaining schedule is as follows:

Sept. 27 Sheffield, here.
Oct. 3. Rowan, here.

Senior Interview

Our senior this week is Shirley Lavonne Barz. She was born January 25, 1938, at Hampton, Iowa. Shirley has light brown hair and brown eyes and is 5 feet 5½inches tall. She attended her first year of school at Garner and the rest of her school days were spent at Klemme except for six weeks at Minneapolis.

She has no nickname except maybe "Shir". Watching television and playing tennis are her favorite pastimes. Her favorite movie stars are Van Johnson and Elizabeth Taylor who stared in her favorite movie" The Last Time I Saw Paris." Nat King Cole is her favorite singer and her favorite song is "Rock Around the Clock".

Shirley likes eating steak, that is if it's well done. Her activities in and out of school are: Editor of the paper, president her sophomore year, student council her junior year, play her junior year, singing 1, 2 and 3, basketball her first year. She also sings in the choir, is sec. and treas. of the Young Peoples Bible Class, treasurer of the Tri-County Youth Federation. After graduation, she plans to attend A. I. B., then get a job.

Question of the Week

What do you think of the new rotating activity period?

Anita Katter: I think it is confusing, but after we get used to it, I think it will be O K.

Lois Heginger: Althought it is quite confusing, I like it because we get to skip a different class each day.

Marvalyn Carolus: To my notion it is alright.

Ronald Hummel: No comment.

JoEllen Clabaugh: It's quite confusing, but I sure think it's nice to eliminate some of these classes each day.

Nancy Council: It's O K, only a little confusing.

Shirley Barz: I like it real well. It at least gives you an extra study hall.

Jokes

Man on telephone: "Doctor, my wife has just dislocted her jaw. If you're out this way next week, you might drop in."

Sign on a florist's delivery truck: "Drive carefully or the next load may be yours."

Wife: "Don't drive so fast, George. The policeman on the motorcycle right behind you, wants to get by."

Mother: "Bobby, you are so naughty that I don't see how you can get to heaven. Do you know how?"

Bobby: (After thinking a moment) Well, I guess I would just run in and out, in and out, slamming the door, until Saint Peter finally said, 'Well for heaven sakes Bobby, either stay in or stay out'."

This and That Around K. H. S. . . .

Who was this guy from Ventura that R P went with Wednesday night? I hear he was quite nice.

What is all this we have been hearing about Myrna? We heard she has been waiting for some guy from Forest City to come down, but we don't know if he has come or not. What about it Myrna?

It seems like Marvin has become quite interested in Kanawha lately. We hear he was there Labor Day and went over Wednesday night and waited till the show was over so he could see her.

I guess Winola must really like Garner for some reason. This summer I guess it was Eddie Hrubes and now it seems as though it switched to Allen Baskerville. What about that?

We wonder who could be coming o see Gracka lately. It couldn't be Dick B.

What's this about Keith N and Myrna B? Could it be a new romance?

How are you and Joe S coming along, Rosalie? We haven't heard much about you two lately.

What's this about Roger O having so much interest in Garner lately? It couldn't be because of a girl by the name of Nancy B, could it?

Say what's this I hear about Karen C wanting to go with Terry G. Better watch it Karen, Craig N might get mad.

How does it come that Martin B is always sitting by Barbara A in study hall. Could this be another romance?

Now that vacation is coming to an end for the college kids, I suppose Carol and Shirley will be up nights writing those letters to Roger and Noel. But I don't think it will bother them too much.

I bet there was nobody happier in town, Sunday than Shirley when Noel dropped in to see her. I suppose this will be the last time before college starts.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The man got out of bed, shaved, dressed and ate his breakfast. What he had to say to the world was passed in a few grunts and groans. The morning held nothing new for him.

Looking at the breakfast fare, he decided he must have eaten the same things in the same sequence at least 10,000 other mornings. Thinking ofthe workday ahead, he knew exactly the routine he faced, the people he would meet, what he would say to those people and what they would say to him.

No, there was nothing new. He drove the car out of the garage thinking how far away he was from owning a new one. He listened for that worrisome noise in the motor and it was still there. He put on the brakes at the corner and they were still a little weak.

No, there was nothing. The streets he drove looked just the same as they had all summer and many summers before that. Now, that it was September he remembered how they would look in winter and groaned again.

Everything was the same and he lapsed into an almost semi-conscious state and drove automatically, about 15 miles above the speed limit. And that was nothing new, either.

He didn't snap out of it until he realized that a boy on a corner was waving to him, until he saw a group of youngsters crowding back to the curb.

He jabbed at his brakes but by the time the car stopped, he was 20 feet beyond the school stop sign standing there in the middle of the street.

No one was hurt, but the man who thought there was nothing new in the world finally realized that the youngsters are back in school, that school stop signs are appearing in the streets that have been empty all summer.

The Naomi Circle of the Klemme Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs Emilie Arnold, Thursday afternoon.

Feed Revolution Ahead Forecasts Nutritionist

Theh farmer is going to depend increasingly on formula feeds, according to Gustav Bohstedt of the University of Wisconsin Department of Animal Husbandry.

Bohstedt, speaking recently at the annual Iowa Nutrition Conference, said the formula feeds are being accepted as a "practical means of assembling the many ingredients that modern rations seem to require."

Bohstedt says there are suggestions that with new developments, especially in the realm of physics, feed men need to prepare for a technical and industrial revolution similar to the change from the era of the horse to that the mechanization. He says a great deal of attention is going to be devoted to the health and rapid growth of the young animals, weaned in most cases earlier than now. Prenatal as well as postnatal nutrition will be emphasized, he says.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

CATTLE

Sale of feeder cattle has lagged behind the figures of a year ago, the last six weeks, reports Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. Lack of stubble pasture and other green feed around western Corn Belt farms probably accounts for a part of the delay. The deteriorating corn crop in this part of the country is another cause.

Reports indicate that the best out let for feeder cattle is in the eastern Corn Belt. Chances are the more cattle will be fed in that part of the Corn Belt and in the South. States like Missouri will feed more native cattle.

Thus, in total Kutish believes we probably will feed at least as many cattle as last year—despite the dry weather in the Western Corn Belt.

Reports from the West indicate that good steer calves in the West are selling at 19 to 20 cents, some o 21, says Kutish. Heifers are selling about 2½ cents lower. Fancy lots have sold up to 23 to 24 cents, yearling steers at 18 to 21 cents depending upon quality: heifers 2 to 3 cents lower.

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad reports an abundance of fall and winter grazing. Lots of haystacks will permit ranchers to carry calves over. Indication is that the movement will be late, with the cattle in good condition.

As the feeder looks at the new feeding season, Kutish believes he can figure on a fat cattle price about as high next summer as this year—but below that of last winter.

Feed costs will be less for protein and roughage—less in some areas for corn.

It adds up to a fair feed outlook—probably a little below normal, Kutish concludes. But the risks are not as great as in some years either.

4-H Girls Rate at Fair

Marion Stromer of Garner, daughter of Mr and Mrs Aaron Stromer and Winola Zwald of Klemme, daughter of Mr and Mrs Kenneth Zwald represented the Hancock County 4-H girls in the state demonstration contest at the Iowa State Fair. The girls were placed in the red ribbon group. Both girls received blue rating on their record books and were given 4-H mechanical pencils for this rating by the Iowa State Fair Associatios.

Besides receiving an all expense paid trip for 4 days to the Iowa State Fair, the girls were entertained at the Grandstand Show by the Iowa State Fair Board. Meredith Publishing Co. entertained them to a luncheon and took them through the publishing house. They also went on a combined tour of the Des Moines Art Institute. Covered pictures were given to each girl as gifts.

The girls attended demonstrations at the fair and were hostesses in the Foods and Nutrition exhibit one part of a day.

Mrs George Legge, one of the Liberty Busy Bees 4-H leaders, also attended the fair as their chaperon. All leaders were given gifts of a pastry cloth for their efforts as 4-H leaders.

U. S. Farm Exports Continue Upward

Value of agriculturarl exports in July was estimated at about $265 million—25 percent higher than the $213 million total of July, 1954—by USDA last week.

The gain in July farm exports over July, 1954, was due mainly to government export programs which increased shipments of principal grains, tobacco and fats and oils. Government export programs are expected to continue to strengthen farm exports in 1955-56. As the result of recently enacted legislation, authority for foreign currency sales by the Department of Agriculture now amounts to $1.5 million for the three-eyar period ending June 30, 1957. Authority for foreign currency sales by the International Cooperation Adminstration for the current fiscal year totals $300 million. For the fiscal year ending June 30, United States agricultural exports totaled $3,143 million, or 7 percent more than the $2,936 million exported in 1953-54.

The Farm Bureau Federation is doing a considerable work in the promotion of foreign exports and they feel that this is one solution to our surplus problem. They have worked to extend the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Acts, and to simplify and stabilize tarriff rates customs procedures.

BULL

A 700-pound -bull wandered onto Highway 69 near Belmond recently and caused a two-car smashup. A semi-trailer driven by George Gwinner killed the bull, then sideswiped a Cadillac driven by J H Breeken, of Randall. Damage to the two cars totaled $1,500. Theh bull was a total loss.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Last week we made a five-day vacation trip to the Black Hills, and as we do every time we go there, we enjoyed ourselves. A day's driving makes a tremendous change in the scenery, and we think the drive across the prairie makes us enjoy the wooded hills and canyons even more than we would if there was something to see between here and there.

Mr and Mrs Bob Hartzell and 3-year-old son, Ricky, accompanied us on the trip and we got a large charge out of some of Rick's comments when we got in the hills. Biggest kick, though, was seeing him feed lemon drops and cookies to a roadside deer.

The buck seemed to know a good thing when he saw it, and hung out right along the road so that travelers could share their food with him. He came right up to the car and all but had his head . . . antlers and all . . . in the car window.

Haven't yet decided who enjoyed the deer episode the most; Rick, the deer, or us, just watching and listening.

Vacations are a fine thing, but one of the nicest things about them is getting back home. There just isn't any place like it.

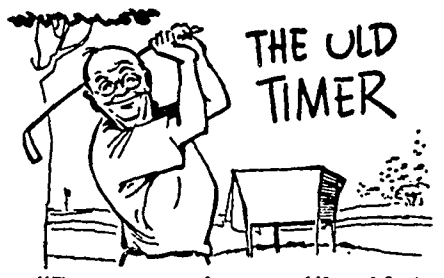
Mrs Clifford Montgomery, who normally sets most of the type for The Times, is enjoying a week's vacation from her duties, so we are having to put in a little more shop time than usual. We have an extra big paper this week, too, but guess we'll make out okay. We imagine that Lela had to work a little harder than usual last week while we were gone, so turnabout should be only fair.

Don't forget the annual teacher reception which is to be held this Friday evening, September 23rd. It's a nice way to meet the people who are going to work with your children all year, and there is always a good time at the affair.

Rev W K Usher, son of Worthie Usher, is pastor of the Methodist Church at Smithland, Iowa, and last Sunday the church was observing its centennial. An all-day program was planned for observance, including a homecoming picnic in the park and a centennial historical pageant, written and directed by Rev Usher. These things were in addition to the usual Sunday services.

We imagine that Rev. Usher's aunt, Miss Marie Blank, and his dad, were quite proud to be able to be in attendance at the church activities and see the work being done by their relative. We expect that they also enjoyed the family get together held in Rev Usher's home that evening, honoring the birthdays of Mrs Usher's parents, Mr and Mrs Kenneth Harding, of Estherville.

Our congratulations to Rev Usher and his rightfully proud dad.



"Some people are like blotters. They soak it all in, but get it backwards!"

Gloria Burrs and Wayne Stille Wed at Goodell

Gloria Dolores Burrs, daughter of Mr and Mrs Martin Burrs, became the bride of Wayne A. Stille, son of Mr and Mrs George Stille, all of Goodell, in a candle light service which took place in the Evangelical United Brethren Church at Goodell, Saturday evening, September 3rd, at 8 o'clock. The double ring service was read by the pastor, the Rev Park E Miller.

The bride and bridegroom are both graduates of the Goodell High School, and since completion of their educations have been employed in this locality. Mr Stille is an employee of the Klemme Cooperative Creamery Company.

Brotherhood Federation Met at E & R Church

A meeting of the Tri-County Brotherhood Federation was held Monday evening at Immanuel Evangelical & Reformed Church with some 50 men in attendance. Represented were E & R Churches from Ackley, Latimer, Geneva, Garner, and Klemme.

Special music was provided by a male quartet composed of Allen and Milvern Barz, Raymond Wille, and Ardell Rosendahl, accompanied at the organ by Ione Rosendahl.

Lunch was served by the officers of the Adult Bible Class and their wives.

The guest speakers stayed the night at the Carl Wille home.

Distribute $883.38 In Surplus Commodities

Value of surplus commodities distributed in Hancock county by Hancock County Welfare authorities during the month of August was placed at $883.33 by Welfare Director Elwyn Hodges.

The local welfare office distributed 420 pounds of butter; 308 pounds of cheese; 621 pounds of dry milk; 420 lbs. of shortening and 286 pounds of dry lima beans. These commodities went to low income families and those receiving payments through the Welfare office.

The cost of storing commodities distributed was $15 and cost of adminstration was approximately $86.40 and this will be materially reduced according to Director Hodges.

Additional commodities will perhaps be included in future shipments in addition to those now being received according to Hodges.

James Collins, while working near Madrid, had a close call recently as he worked with a highway crew. The huge bucket on a drag-line fell to the ground near him, so close that he was surrounded by its jaws and received a skinned knee. The bucket weighs almost a ton.

The 10 Commandments of Safety

1 Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the first rule of gun safety.

2 Guns carried into camp or home, or when otherwise not in use, must always be unloaded, and taken down or have actions open; guns always should be carried in cases to the shooting area.

3 Always be sure barrel and action are clear of obstructions, and that you have only ammunition of the proper size for the gun you are carrying. Remove oil and grease from chamber before firing.

4 Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle, even if you stumble; keep the safety on until you are ready to shoot.

5 Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger; know the identifying features of the game you intend to hunt.

6 Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot; avoid all horseplay while handling a gun.

7 Unattended guns should be unloaded; guns and ammunition should be stored separately beyond reach of children and careless adults.

8 Never climb a tree or fence or jump a ditch with a loaded gun; never pull a gun toward you by the muzzle.

9 Never shoot a bullet at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water; when at target practice, be sure your backstop is adequate.

10 Avoid alcoholic drinks before or during shooting.

530 Attend Annual Mission Festival at E & R Church Sunday

The Annual Mission Festival was held at Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church on Sunday, September 18th. Rev. Harry W Bredeweg of Terre Haute, Indiana, spoke to a large congregation in the morning service on the subject, "The Parables—a Study in Stewardship". Special music was provided by the church choir under the direction of Mrs E A Gerardi. Miss Ruth Ann Lauster served as organist. Rev. Jaberg and Rev. Bredeweg spoke during the Sunday School hour.

The afternoon service was held at 2:30 o'clock with Rev Bredeweg preaching on the subject, "The Stewardship of Suffering", and his remarks were based on Isaiah 53. The men's chorus provided the special music and Miss Ione Rosendahl served as organist.

The Rev Carl J Weidler of Nashua was the evening speaker and chose as his subject, "The Call to Godly Living". The special music was provided by the junior choir.

The women of the congregation provided a very delicious dinner which was served to about 530 persons who were in attendance. Mrs Leonard Kaduce and Mrs Ronald Barz were in charge of the dinner.

The benevolent offering for the day was somewhat more than eleven hundred dollars which will be used for missionary and benevolent causes of the church.

Council for Retarded Children to Make Plans For National Fund Drive

The Council for Retarded Children of Hancock and Winnebago Counties begins its regular schedule of monthly meetings after the summer vacation with a meeting in the Forest City library basement, Monday, September 26th, at 8:00 p. m.

Plans for the nationwide fund drive of the National Association for Retarded Children, which is to take place from November 13 to 23, will be discussed, and the group will be informed on the progress made towards organizing the fund drives in Hancock and Winnebago Counties. A film, "Tuesday's Child", will be shown.

Lunch will be served following the meeting with the Elwood Rices and the Robert Nicksons serving.

If you are a parent, grandparent, relative or friend of a mentally retarded child of any age, or anyone who is interested in, or who works with the problem of mental retardation, please come to the meetings of the Council for Retarded Children.

Parents, for instance, who are heart-sick because they have recently learned that their child is retarded, often say that being with others whose problems are similar is a great help to them. Doctors, nurses, social workers, teachers, pastors, etc. — all who have direct contact with the mentally deficient — can and should work with a group such as the Council for Retarded Children, and both groups will benefit by it. It cannot be stressed to strongly that the National Association for Retarded Children, with which the Council for Retarded Children is associated, is not for parents only.

COLLEGE RESTRICTIONS

Will admission restrictions be placed on Iowa's state-owned colleges of higher education?

That possibility was posed the other day by the state board of regents as they looked ahead to a problem of enrollments this year are now expected to exceed those contemplated six months to a year ago for the current school year.

The state board approved a motion for a special study aimed at caring for increased enrollments; the possibility of "selective admissions" was involved in the wording of the motion.

Admission at the University of Iowa and at Iowa State College is expected to reach 9,000, or slightly more, at each this year. Iowa State Teachers college reports it already is turning away about 100 each year through a selective enrollment system.

TOLL ROAD

Iowa's toll road committee meets at Davenport tomorrow with the toll road authority of the state of Illinois. The Iowa group will be headed Gov. Leo A. Hoegh, and Gov. William Stratton will head the Illinois delegation.

They'll discuss toll roads, of course, and the mutual problems that exist between the two states on this subject.

Governor Hoegh had invited Governor Stratton to be his guest at Iowa City the next day when Iowa opens its 1955 football season against Kansas State. Stratton said he'd have to hurry back home, however.

DEMO FARM CONFAB

Well, the Democrats are going to have their own farm conference. But their's will follow the one scheduled for October 4 and 5 by Governor Hoegh. The Democrat farm parley will be Oct. 21 and 22, in conjunction with their Midwest States party conference in Des Moines.

James Quigley of Nebraska, Demo conference chairman, said considerable time will be devoted to the farm quetsion and the "threat to agriculture".

Democrat chairmen of Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, and Wisconsin will attend.

Earlier in the month, Governor Hoegh will be host to midwest Republican governors at a farm meeting. No Democrat governors were invited to the Hoegh parley.

DRIVE ON COMICS

Delegates to the Iowa Federation of Women's Clubs fall meeting recently were asked to approve the state group joining in "a vigorous campaign" to remove crime, horror and sex comic books from newsstands.

The resolution, which passed, also recommended that the federation endorse and urge legislation prohibiting the sale and distribution of obscene literature with penalties for violators.

POLICEMEN NAME CHIEF

Edward Peterson of Boone has been chosen president of the Iowa State Policeman's association.

Three newly-named vice-presidents include Walter Ehrmann of Davenport, Harold McKenna of Sioux City, and Cliff Bennett of Muscatine.

Mrs. A. Carstens of Cedar Rapids was named president of the auxiliary.

EASY EQUALIZATION

It was an easy task equalizing personal property assessments in Iowa this year, Ray Johnson, chairman of the state tax commisson, reports.

Changes were made in only 2 counties which was considerably fewer revisions than usual. The commission ordered farm machinery assessments in Webster county boosted 10 percent.

Other than this, all assessments set by the county assessors were approved by the commission.

VETERAN POLITICIAN DIES

Death of Charles Fischer, Iowa insurance commissioner, marked the passing of one of the state's veteran old-school politicians.

Fischer was campaign manager for the late George A. Wilson when he was elected governor in 1938. He also managed the gubernatorial campaigns of former Governor Robert Blue and the late Governor William S. Beardsley. Hundreds of other candidates for major office sought his counsel and advice.

Fischer had been Iowa insurance commissioner for 12 years.

GOOD RECORD

A total of 48 Iowa cities, all with populations of 4,000 or more, didn't have a single traffic fatality in the first eight months of this year.

The department of public safety, which released the data, also said that the town of LeMars hasn't had a fatality since Dec. 31, 1940.

Knoxville's last one was in 1946, Creston's in 1948, and Cherokee's in 1949.

NAMED AIR CHIEF

Frank Berlin, 36, of Woodward a farmer, has been named as director of the Iowa aeronautics commission succeeding Norbert Locke of Des Moines, who resigned.

Berlin will take over his new duties October 1. His annual salary will be $5,640 per year.

The new director commanded a bomber group in the Pacific in World War II and participated in the Korean war. He is commander of a fighter-interceptor wing in the Iowa Air National Guard.

Locke resigned to enter the television field in Chicago.

TAX INCOME UP

Uncle Sam is collecting slightmore money this year from Iowans than last year in federal income tax payments.

The internal revenue department reports that the total collected the first seven months of this year was $384,896,473, while last year in the same period the collections totaled $381,952,225.

CONTRACTORS REPORT

Iowa contractors, through the Associated General Contractors organization, made three recommendations to the Iowa tax study committee this month.

They suggested the appointment of a citizens group to bring the 1948 20-year state highway improvement and financing, and urged the highway commission engineering organization be expanded and that more funds be spent for highway research.

The American Red Cross conducted 318 disaster relief operations last year in 47 states and territories, and gave emergency mass care to 62,000 persons and assisted 7,100 families with individual aid.

This week we chose two committees from our class to work on freshman initiation. One committee plans what the freshman wear for Friday and the other plans what they have to do Friday night.

In literature our stories are of pioneers moving westward across the wide prairies of the U. S. We read of the tall tales concerning Davy Crockett and Pecos Bill. However, we soon learned that this type of literature isn't the easiest to write, as creative writing of this type was an assignment.

Tuesday we had a test in American history over early Americans. Now, we are studying the events that led up to the Revolutionary War.

In typing II we are helping Mr. Andreae and the rest of the time we have a free period.

In General Business we found out how to detect counterfeit money and how to make proper change. Today we are going to have a test over what we have covered so far.

Girls' Sports News

School has started and again we are starting P. T. classes. There is just a little change this year. Instead of a woman teacher we have a man, Mr. Westberg. I'm positive the girls will enjoy P. T. even if it may be a little tougher than last year. We start the class with 15 or 20 minutes of calesthetics. Wow! What work. It looks like we students are pretty stiff. Do you all agree? In the first class we had some games which gave us plenty of exercise. "The Crows and the Craves" is one of the games. The class is divided evenly and half of them are on the other side. Mr. Westberg calls one of the names, either crows or craves and the name he calls must run to their end for safety. If the other side touches them before they reach it they are out. The side that touches all of the others wins. Also we dribbled the basketball between players on our side and made a basket and dribbled back without missing getting the ball to the leader. The girls line up and one girl faces the rest. She throws the ball to the first girl who does the above statement and then sits down so the ball can reach the other girls in the order in which they are lined up. It is hard to throw the ball such a distance. Again one girl starts. She stands in the center and touches the players running to the opposite end. The girls touched must hook hands with her and catch the rest of the girls. Exercise a plenty is gotten in P. T. class. I'm sure you'll agree.

Editorial of the Week

What do we have this activity period?

This is the question you'll hear echoing through the high school every day. This year we have tried something new in our schedule. It's called a "rotating activity period". Maybe you've heard about it but I'm sure you'd like to be filled in on the details. As you know for the past —no one knows how many years—all the extra curricular activities, such as glee clubs, working on such things as the annual, and any other thing we could think of to get out of study hall, was done at 2:40. Another thing that was done at this time was getting out of school early without skipping a class. This became quite a problem, so to discourage this common practice some one came up with the idea of "rotating activity period". It's somewhat hard to understand at first. In fact it even confused us seniors for a while, but I'll try my best to more fully "cue you in" on the subject. On Monday of last week we started this schedule. The activity period was the first one in the morning from 9:00-10:00. During this time there were no regular classes held and you attended your extra curricular activities. If you have none you get an extra - usually very much needed - study hall. Then at 10:00 your regular class for that time resumes and classes are held regularly through out the day. On Tuesday there's activity period from 10:00-11:00 cutting out the regular class for that time. On Wednesday from 11:00 - 12:00. Thursday , 12:40 - 1:40 etc. until the activity period has been held in all six periods of your day each day cutting out a different class. This gives you the equivalent of only four hours a week in each subject. This fact as you have probably guessed is enjoyed by all. It also solves the problem of skipping at 2:40. (Confidentially, this satisfies the teachers and not the student body.) In spite of this there seems to be more yea's than nays about it. It break up the day a little. It has it's disadvantages too especially when it falls on a study hall and you have an extra curricular activity to go to. But all in all I think every one likes it now that we have gotten in to the swing of things and really know what's going on. So, for the "rotating activity period", we say "three cheers".

Question of the Week

What would you do with an ICHNEUMON if you had one?

Bob Larson: I'd build a fire under it and roast it for dinner.
Janice Stokesbary: I'd bring it to school and give it to Mrs. Gordon to fix for freshmen Home Ec.
Kay Burk: I'd bring it to school and have Mrs. Gordon fix it for the teachers dinner.
Ron Hummel: I'd bring it to school and give it to Mr. Chadwick to put on his Buick.
Mrs. Gordon: I'd lock it up. Something that dangerous shouldn't be on the loose.
Larry Wessels: I would give it a kick and run.
Carol Bridges: I would cook it for a while, put it in a can without a cover and save it for Thanksgiving dinner.

An ICHNEUMON is a wild animal from Egypt something like a weasel.

The Sept. 1 estimate of Iowa's Corn Crop was 137 million bushels lower than on Aug. 1. Illinois showed a 37 million-bushel drop during the same month. But Ohio's Corn prospects went up 11 million bushels and Indiana's remained unchanged.

These facts are pointed out by Francis A. Kutish this week. They underline the fact that the eastern corn belt hasn't been hit nearly as hard by the drouth as has the western part.

For the country as a whole, total output of the four main feed grains: corn, oats, barley and sorghums, still is up 6 percent from last year. This is despite the drouth.

When we take account the larger carryover of old grains, prospects are that we will enter the new feeding year this fall with a total supply of feed about 8 per cent larger than a year ago. In contrast, we have only about 2 per cent more livestock.

So, feed grain supplies will be more plentiful, for the country as a whole, than a year ago. This will keep the Chicago price of feed grains from reflecting the full impact of dry weather on our Iowa crop yields, says Kutish. Rather, he looks for local feed prices in Iowa to depend more upon feeder demand in the community. It will make for a spotty feed price structure-varying considerably from community to community.

Meanwhile, combining soybeans began in southern Illinois last week. Prices paid to farmers was a couple cents over loan, Kutish reports.

Two years ago it paid to store beans. Last year, farmers who held beans into the spring lost money. Those who held onto early December made a few cents a bushel, however.

No wide profits seem likely from storing beans this year, unless prices sink well below loan level at the height of harvest, Kutish believes. But on the other hand, a farmer doesn't risk much by storing beans on his farm if the price is around loan level at harvest, the economist adds. Kutish thinks that soybeans could work up to $2.15 to $2.25 on Iowa farms by spring—if export outlets for soybean oil develop.

All objections to such assessment of benefits shall be filed in writing in the office of the County Auditor in Garner, Iowa, at or before the hour set for hearing thereon. The County Auditor be and she is hereby directed to cause notice of such hearing to be published in the Britt News-Tribune, a newspaper of general circulation published at Britt, Iowa, said to set out the description of real estate and the designated assessments.

50 Iowa Dairymen Earn '400' Club Membership

Fifty Iowa dairymen were named honorary members of the "400" Club this year, according to Floyd Arnold, extension dairyman at Iowa State College. This is the largest number ever to receive this honor for any year.

Arnold says the increase in numbers of "400" Club members is in line with the increasing efficiency of dairy production throughout Iowa's Dairy Herd Improvement Associations.

The "400" Club is composed of Iowa Dairy Herd Improvement Association members whose herds have made yearly butterfat averages of more than 400 pounds per cow in 10 or more years, including the current year. So a dairyman has to make high yearly butterfat averages consistently in order to stay in the "400" Club.

Six of this year's members have made the 400-pound honor roll 20 or more times. Fourteen have made it from 15 to 19 times. Ten achieved the honor for the first time this year.

Longest record in this club is held by the J N Martin and Son herd at New Providence, whose herd has made yearly butterfat averages above the 400-pound minimum level 28 times.

Iowa's heavy soils need to be plowed in the fall, according to E R Duncan, extension agronomist at Iowa State College.

$100,000

A $100,000 damage suit has been filed at Logan, arising from the death of S. G. Hornbeck last spring. He was killed when a tractor he was driving was struck from the rear by a gasoline transport truck.

LIFEGUARD DESIGN—A mother makes sure that her son is securely seated in a 1956 Ford Sunliner. The new Fords, which will be shown to the public Friday (September 23) incorporate five safety features in a "lifeguard design" intended to reduce chances of accidental injury. On all new Fords, safety-designed steering wheels, door latches and rear view mirrors are standard equipment. Wheels are designed to absorb force if the driver is thrown forward, reducing the chance his chest might strike the steering column hub. Safety door latches (lower left) will resist crash impact, and help keep passengers inside the car where they are twice as safe, according to research figures. Mirrors have a special backing to help prevent shattering. Optional seat belts will withstand up to 4,000 pounds of force. Optional crash cushions for instrument panels and sun visors will provide added protection if a passenger is thrown forward.

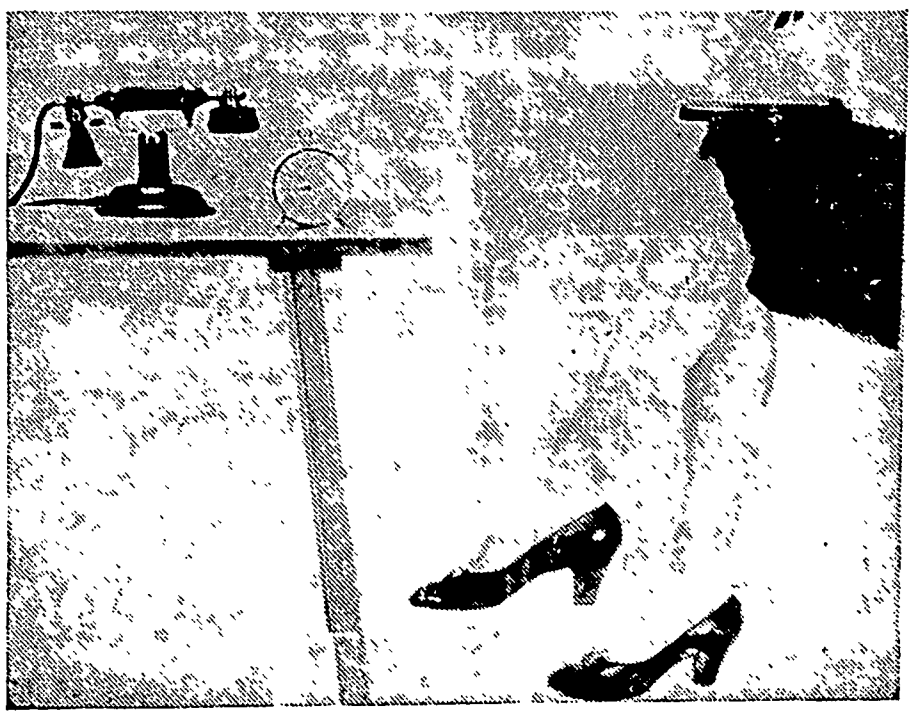
Shopping for Stockings?

Try New Stretch Nylon Hosiery



You'll be pleased with the "latest" in stocking news. The new stretch nylon hose will fit any leg size beautifully. Take a peek at them the next time you shop.

* * *

Buying new hosiery can bring you lots of pleasure—but it can create diapointments, too, If you don't shop wisely. Have fun when you shop for stockings. It's really easy if you know, first, what's on the hosiery mart from which to choose; second, for just what qualities you're "scouting"; and third, how to find these qualities, says Opal Roberson, extension textile and clothing specialist at Iowa State College.

WHAT YOU WANT

We'll begin by listing the features you probably want in hosiery: Resiliency (the ability to "snap back" into original shape after being stretched) is important to better fit and shape retention. Permanent dullness, snag resistance and durability are good characteristics for hose, too.

You'll find that proportioned sizing is the most widely used construction for achieving good fit. By this method, not only the leg and foot lengths are varied, but also the leg width. The leg contour (relating to width) is fashioned in proportion to the length of your leg. These hose come in small, average and tall. If you're average or tall and would like a stocking knit larger above the knee, you can find this in some brands.

The knit fabric used in hose is so elastic that medium proportioned stockings will fit not only the woman of average height and leg size, but also short and average women with full legs and tall women with average or full legs. In each category, there are several combinations of foot size and leg length.

LOOK FOR COMFORT

Probably the first thing you consider when you shop for hose is comfort—and for getting the most comfortable stocking, you must buy the correct size. For you ladies with problem legs—especially heavy thighs—there are specially constructed hose.

The newest of these specialties is the introduction of stretch nylon yarn for use in hosiery. Becauses of outstanding stretching capabiliites. these stockings will fit all foot and leg sizes and shapes. And there's no possibility of sagging, wrinkling, or seam twisting if thy're put on and gartered properly. In 30 denier construction. these stockings are excellent camouflage for leg blemishes.

Knit-in elasticity in the welt (top band of stocking) is another aid for you if you're troubled with heavy thighs. Stretch nylon is often inserted in the welt, too.

FOOT PROBLEMS

If your feet perspire excessively, your problem is probably centered around the foot of your stocking. As you've discovered, nylon is non-absorbent. But, to overcome this quality, yarns such as cotton or silk are used for sole reinforcement in some hosiery. At one time, this reinforcement was reserved for utilitytype stockings—but no longer. Now reinforcements are designed in sandal-foot, dressy sheer styles.

There's still another solution for foot troubles. A special foot construction, in which hundreds of tiny perforations are knit into the sole, in the under-toe and arch areas, increases circulation of air.

If you're a working girl with a job where you must stand on your feet for long hours, take note! Soles of cotton, silk and stretch nylon have an insulating quality that really makes for long-term comfort.

1500 Deer Hunting Applicatians Sa Far

About 1,500 deer license applications had been received by Conservation Commission license officials up to September 15, it was announced today.

The deadline for 1955 deer license applications is October 12, license officials said, and no applications postmarked after October 12 will be accepted.

Applications may be obtained from all state conservation officers and from the Conservation Commission offices in Des Moines. They should be completed and mailed to the Commission offices with check or money order for $10. Licenses and 1955 deer tags will be mailed to eligible applicants after October 12.

If total applications exceed 6,000, a special drawing will be held to determine applicants receiving licenses.

The 1955 Iowa deer hunting license may be used for both the bow and arrow season and for the gun season. However, only one deer may be taken by each hunter during the entire season, whether he kills it with arrow or gun.

County Cancer Society Leaders at Meeting

Two American Cancer Society volunteers from this county attended a one-day leadership conference held at Humboldt, Iowa, September 14, according to Mrs. E. E. Hunsley of Britt, ASC chapter chairman for Hancock county.

Thirty-six were present representing five other counties in this area.

Methods were discussed for promoting more widespread knowledge of cancer and the known protective measures. It was pointed out that more effective public education is needed in Iowa to help save the lives of an estimated 1,400 Iowans who each year become cancer victims because they fail to recognize early symtoms of the disease.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

When the gun went off ending the game every rational mind in the stadium seemed to take off with it like a flock of frightened birds. People stood beating each other on the backs, crushing hats and screaming like universal disaster. They had just seen a stunning football vitory racked-up in the last seconds of defeat.

As the crowd pressed out through the gates the excitement began to die in the adults but it still raged among the young people. Dozens of cars filled with teen-agers roared out of the parking lots and headed for the business district.

Behind them, lost in the noise, the public address system droned out something about safety . . . careful driving . . . "The life you save . . ."

In minutes, the downtown streets were filled with racing cars, blaring horns. The outnumbered police were virtually helpless and pedestrians kept to the sidewalks knowing they risked their lives in the streets.

While the demonstration went on, parents walked, took cabs or found rides to their homes. The night, they felt, belonged to the youngsters and, of course, they had to have cars to celebrate.

The traffic riot continued for nearly an hour in the town streets and no one noticed one car painted with dire threats to the opposition, that slipped out of the parade and raced out of town to the open highway.

The car was crammed with six teen-agers driven to spread the teen-agers driving to spread the tryside, into surrounding towns. They weren't heard from again until well after midnight.

Then, the lights in six homes came on as parents received calls from the highway patrol. The car had been found nearly 300 feet off a curve. A boy was dead, 3 youngsters were injured and two were in a state of shock.

Friday night the team plays again and, if it wins, perhaps very few will notice one less car in the victory parade that will overrun the town once more.

Haste and Carelessness Cause 90 Percent of Corn Harvest Accidents

Hurrying and using an unsafe method were causes for 90 percent of all Iowa Corn harvest accidents last year. Paul Henderson, county extension director of Garner, asks Hancock County farmers to remember this fact when they are working around pickers, elevators or silage cutters in the next few weeks.

Mr. Henderson says Norval Wardle, Iowa State College extension farm safety specialist, reports there were at least 200 corn harvesting accidents in Iowa last year. Sixty three of these happened when the operator was in too much of a hurry to take proper precautions. One-hundred and thirty eight accidents were put down to using unsafe methods. Wardle says the most common unsafe method used is that of manually cleaning out the roll of a picker while the machine is running. Last year, accidents occurred when farmers tried to clean out a silage cutter while it was running.

Tiredness, lack of a safety device or lack of training were also reported causes. Wardle says machines, animals and other objects are sometimes listed as causes. But they are merely agencies involved. Human actions are the basic cause of accidents.

Wardle believes adequate training and understanding should overcome all of these causes. He suggests these rules for corn harvest safety.

1. Train all operators in the safe efficient operation of the machine.
2. Stop all rolls before you try to clean them or brush off trash.
3. Remember that mid-morning and mid-afternoon are the times when accidents are most frequent.

Wardle suggests a break for light lunch or drink, a break to lubricate the machines or a change of jobs with an experienced operator.

4. Never hurry.
5. Wear close-fitting clothing.
6. Always stop the picker, elevator and tractor for any adjustments and lubrication.
7. Always keep the power take-off shield in place.
8. Never use a stick or corn stalk to push clogs through the rolls while they are in motion.

Rats Are a Menace On Farms in Fall

Along with the cool weather and corn harvesting this fall will come the rats. During the fall they start seeking shelter for winter, and consequently they invade farmsteads from the surrounding fields.

Each rat in Iowa eats 25 pounds of food a year, with a preferance for valuable grains and livestock feeds.

Rats also carry many serious diseases of farm animals and serious pests on the farm.

Earle Raun, extension entomologist at Iowa State College, says it's time farmers star making plans to rat-proof their farms. He says cleaning up is the first step in the program.

The primary objective is to remove their hiding places. Keep weeds mowed around buildings where grain and livestock feed are stored. You must spot rat harbors before rats do.

The farm equivalent of a city dump makes a good harboring place for rats. Most farms have equipment available to dig a trench 3 to 4 feet deep and 3 to 4 feet wide. Trash and garbage can be dumped in the trench and packed and covered periodically.

New Hunting Seasons Have Saturday Openings

Iowa hunters were again reminded by the State Conservation Commission that all 1955-56 hunting seasons will commence on Saturdays.

Some confusion arose among nimrods over the sqirrel season opening, which began this year on Saturday, September 17. Under a new Commission policy, future fishing and hunting seasons will open on designated Saturdays.

The 1955 Iowa waterfowl season will open on Saturday, October 8, and extend through December 16. Pheasant season in this locality will extend from November 12 through December 5.

The bow and arrow season for deer will open on Saturday, October 29, and extend through November 20. The shotgun season for deer will open on December 3 and extend through December 5.

The provision for Saturday openings was made at the request of various church, school, patriotic and labor groups who objected to openings that fell during the week, on Sundays, or on patriotic holidays.

NOW. From less than 1 pound of coal . . .

A KILOWATT HOUR of ELECTRICITY

Reddy Kilowatt, using the energy from a mere handful of coal,

RUNS AN ELECTRIC FAN 18 HOURS

Reddy says: "It may be hot, sticky, humid weather, but when I start fans and air conditioners going, you forget all about discomfort — you relax and are refreshed. You really 'beat the heat' with my help!"

Good for Reddy! He brings hot weather magic, cool breezes, the opportunity to rest comfortably. Better still, he provides these pleasantly cool breezes at pleasantly low cost. It's just one of the many ways that low-cost, dependable electric service makes your living more comfortable — more convenient.

Who Wants "Low-Cost" Electricity the Most?

Of course it's a pleasure to the consumer to enjoy moderately priced electrical service. But it's the electric companies themselves who are most keenly interested in keeping prices down. They make every saving possible by building as economical generating plants as they can and producing electricity at the lowest possible figure. Thus, customers can use more electricity, the companies can spread fixed costs over a larger number of units of electricity and so hold down the price per kilowatt hour.

Science or Politics?

It is in the practical area of production that science proves itself. No efficient power-generating plant was ever yet built with high-sounding phrases. The men responsible for these plants are the scientists — the technicians — the men with electrical "know-how." Their work is its own best proof of efficiency. Under their supervision the amount of fuel necessary to generate electric power has steadily dropped until today LESS THAN 1 POUND OF COAL does the work that in 1927 required nearly two pounds to do.

Reddy Kilowatt says: "It's a good idea to trust to science to keep us enjoying ever-better electric living at a low cost."

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Friday, September 30th, is the day the Klemme Cooperative Grain Company has picked for the grand opening of their new concrete storage elevator. This week's issue of The Times is full of congratulations and well-wishes to the concern. In fact, so many nice things have been said concerning the company, that all we can do is add our congratulations and best wishes, and say that we are proud for Klemme to be the home of such an up-and-coming business.

Most of you know our sister, Ellen (Mrs Merrill B Smith). Her husband is a Marine, until recently stationed at Edenton, North Carolina. He was transfered to Morehead City, N. C. just shortly before hurricane "Ione" went to work on that city.

The following letter is one received from Ellen, describing the hurricane and their experiences. We thought it was interesting and hope you will, too.

Figure I'd better do some letter writing this morning. Mer is going to try to send telegrams from the base this morning, but doubt if he has any luck, so I'll get some letters going.

Suppose you fot my letter telling of transfer to Morehad City just about in time to find out we were in the hurricane. Well we were!!! I've finally been in a humdinger and I don't ever care about being in any more.

Here's my story and I'm stuck with it. Started raining and blowing Sunday afternoon so we secured stuff outdoors and took down the TV antenna. Sat around Sunday evening until high tide but no high water so we went to bed—sleep, that was a different story, this house has a tin roof and it billows and bangs in the wind. Sounded Sunday night like a herd of elephants was stampeding over it. Put out a "boom" that makes a kettle drum sound like high soprana. Anyhow the roof a banging, the wind a whistling and the water pounding—no good combination for sleep. But I had a good sensible tale for myself—everything's OK—the wind's coming out of the northeast so the storm is passing to the eastward of us and the northeast wind blows the water away from our house, so go to sleep, and I did. We woke up about six a. m. and it was sort of windy and the sun was trying to break thru here and there. Good! Storms over and no harm done. Then we really woke up, the wind was blowing out of the southeast and altho the tide was only about half high, it was breaking against the sea wall. Something screwy somewhere. About that time and pardon my French, all hell broke loose. That darned fool storm had veered and the Smiths slept thru the front half of it and woke up in the eye. By 8 a. m. things were getting too rough for Mrs Kilgore's little girl Ellen. No power, so the only hot water was what was in the tank. Bet I drank a gallon of tepid instant coffee. The water went over the sea wall (it's about ten or twelve feet out in front of the houses) and it was beating against the steps and still a couple of hours til high tide. There's a one story house next door to us, even closer to the water and when I looked at it, the waves were

Grand Opening of New Elevator This Friday

Door Prizes, Animal Acts, Free Lunch

Friday of this week, September 30, will be a big day in Klemme. That is the day that the Klemme Cooperative Grain Company is holding open houses on the occasion of the grand opening of their new concrete storage elevator.

The elevator, which was recently constructed and completed by the T E Ibberson Company of Minneapolis, is an addition to the grain company's plant which makes their facilities among the finest in this section of the state.

Coffee and Doughnuts

The open house will be on all day Friday, beginning at 9 o'clock in the morning and lasting until 9 o'clock in the evening. Free coffee and doughnuts will be served to the visiting public throughout the day.

Door Prizes, Animal Acts

The grain company has selected several useful pieces of merchandise as door prizes. You will find them listed in their ad elsewhere in this issue. In addition, there will be trained animal acts, including "Casey", the baseball playing chicken, and "Popgun Pete", the cannon shooting rabbit.

There is a good time and an interesting time in store for everyone who visits the Klemme Cooperative Grain Company, Friday during their open house.

Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the company will be held at eight o'clock at the grade school basement. All members are urged to attend. Lunch will also be served at the meeting.

Description of Elevator

Construction was started on the new concrete elevator in October, 1954 at which time the reinforced concrete slab foundation was poured. The slab was covered up until spring when the pouring of the main walls commenced. The structure was ready to receive grain in July, 1955.

The bins proper are 126 feet high, surmounted by a cupola that is 34 feet high, allowing all bins to be filled by gravity flow. There are four tank bins and 17 overhead bins with a combined capacity of 185,000 bushels.

The elevator leg will move 4,600 bushels of grain per hour, and the automatic shipping-out scale will deliver the same amount of grain per hour either to railroad cars, trucks in the driveway, or to several bins. This equipment provides a rapid and economical means of moving a large volume of grain.

Considerable study went into the planning of the drive and work floor to allow trucks to be unloaded and loaded, and grain to be transferred with a minimum of labor and with maximum speed.

A cross-spout is installed so that grain can be transferred by gravity flow from the new elevator to the mill to eliminate expensive truck hauling.

A grain dryer is set up adjacent to new elevator so that high moisture grain may be dried for storage. The large storage bins in the elevator are provided with an aeration system which when operated in cold weather lowers the temperature of the grain and helps prevent its heating. Thermometer devices are installed in these bins so that an instantaneous record of grain temperatures may be obtained as a further check on grain spoilage.

Provisions were made during construction so that additional facilities may be added in the future as construction warrants, thus eliminating costly remodeling. Some of these provisions include room for a second leg, work floor room and facilities for installation of grain cleaning machine and a manually operated hopper scale; and ease of constructing additional storage bins.

The stock holders of the Klemme Cooperative Grain Company are to be congratulated on having one of the most modern and efficient grain storage and handling facilities in this part of the country.

Services Were Monday For William C. Velau

Funeral services for William C Velau, 58, of Klemme were held Monday, Sept. 26th, at the Methodist Church in Klemme. The Rev Melvin B Miller, pastor was in charge of the service.

A trio, Mrs Roy Arnold, Mrs Gerald Koerner and Mrs Marvin Lemke, sang for the service.

Mr William Chris Velau, age 58, passed away at his farm home in Liberty Township, early Friday morning, September 23, following a long illness.

Mr Velau was born October 17, 1896, in Liberty Township, where he lived all his life. He attended the Klemme Public Schools and then farmed with his parents, until his call to the service during World War I.

On July 1, 1922, he was united in marriage to Lydia Her Wald. To this union were born three children: Mrs James (Eva) Fatland, of Nora Springs; Mrs Don (Kathryn) Alden, and one son, William, both of Klemme.

He is survived by his wife, Lydia, three children and three grandchildren. Also surviving are one brother, John of Klemme and two sisters; Mrs Echard Zeidler, of Klemme, and Mrs Earl Kahler of Garner and many other distant relatives and friends.

Interment was made in the Ell Township cemetery, with the Osman Funeral Home in charge. Pallbearers were John Her Wald, Rudy Her Wald, Samuel Her Wald, David Her Wald, Charles Boehm, and William C Velau Jr.

World-Wide Communion To Be Observed Sunday

By Rev. Melvin Miller

World-Wide Communion Sunday will be observed this year on October 2. As the day unfolds over the earth, followers of the Christian Way in land after land will unite in this central act of devotion. Over all the world they will celebrate this common bond of loving fellowship.

The forms which this celebration will take are the forms endeared to a particular people through years of worship, sometimes decades, sometimes centuries, but always meaningful. Bells in tall spires will ring out over cities, and tom-toms will resound in jungles, calling together all who would remember the life and death of Jesus.

Some will receive the Sacrament standing, some kneeling at an altar rail. Some will drink wine mixed with water from a chalice, some will drink grape juice from a paper cup. But in whatever fashion a Christian celebrates his covenant with Christ, he will go out strengthened according to the purposes of his own heart to follow Him with renewed devotion.

Meeting Cancelled

The regular October meeting of the Commercial Club has been cancelled according to Don Schaefer, president of the organization.

However, he says, there will be an important meeting on November 1st.

Pancake Supper

There will be a pancake supper at the Liberty Methodist Church on Thursday evening, October 13th.

Pancakes, sausages, pie and cake will be served beginning at 5:00 p. m., and you can eat all you want. Admission is 50c and 75c.

Some news had to be left out this week, but we will run it in the nextissue.

breaking against his porch and the spray going over his roof. The water was all the way around our houses altho just a creek in back. We got to work—the TV set upon the table, the desk on top of a big chair, the couch balanced on top of the oil heater, drawers on top of dressers and mattresses and box springs piled on top of there. Clothes and small gear up in the attic. About that time a fellow that keeps his skiff out front came in and invited us over to his house. Never had an invitation I accepted with greater pleasure. Mer boarded up the lower half of the front windows and we left. The rest of my day was very uneventful—sat in a total stranger's house and made polite conversation.

Mer spent most of the day at the house, coming back to report now and then. About 11 a. m. the water knocked out our front steps (concrete ones) and knocked out the brick and concrete foundation under the front of the porch and it wasn't letting up a bit. By noon they were afraid the house was going to go cause the water was up under the house pushing at the floor. The wind was in the southwest by then and the water piling in. We all rode down about 1:30 p. m. and I've never seen an uglier piece of water. Ocean breakers in my front yard and the back yard too, for that matter. Really makes the hair on the back of your neck bristle.

By 4 p. m. the tide had fallen enuf and the wind was down to human understanding so we came home. Bless Bess what a mess of sand and water in the house. It rained and blew so hard it rained "right thru the darned windows." The men had tracked bushels of sand all over the place. Small matter! I still have a house and my junk and that's more than we expected. Anyhow we started cleaning up. About supper time the power came on, so a good hot cup of coffee came first and then some hot food.

According to the radio, the hurricane was heading for Elizabeth City and Norfolk and we shouldn't be having any more storm, but I'll tell you a little secret those elephants were still stampeding over our roof, and you were hard put to stand up if you went out in the wind. Thank the Lord for small favors, the water didn't rise on the evening high tide, any more than normal. So the Smiths retired and the last thing I heard was those blasted elephants.

Yesterday was a day of recuperation and puttering. Pick up a plank and put it down again—no ambition to clean up. Mer jacked the front porch up and propped it so it's usable. The big cleanup hasn't started yet. We've got washouts all around the houses and yard. The landlord is unhappy—just had over $300 worth of dirt hauled in to fill up and it all washed away and more of his lot went with it.

That's "wha hoppened" at our house. Complete reports from around us aren't in yet. Just bits here and there. "Down East" (Atlantic, Sea Level, Davis, Stacy) is isolated; a bridge went out. Tides went extra high even for a storm. Three to four feet of debris on the road. The highest land in Stacy had two feet of water, so heaven knows what happened in the low spots. So many places down there are sea level or below.

All in all, the 19th of Sept. was quite a date. The worst since the '33 storm, so they say. Know I don't care anything about any more hurricanes. One thing about living right on the Sound, you don't try to sit it out, you move out.

Editorial of the Week

Attention All Students

The editors of your school paper would appreciate it very much if you would give us suggestions on how to improve our paper.

Put all your suggestsions, gossip, or songs for the juke box in the basket on Miss Beardsley's desk in the south room. If enough of you are intreested in the idea of a column where you tell us, the editors, your problems and we try to answer them, let us know. If you like the idea and say you do, it will be up to you to supply us with the letters containing your problems. These can be anything from lovelorn problems to problems about study habits. We hope you will cooperate with us on this idea.

Junior Class News

Government: We have finished studying "The Development of the State" and are reviewing for a test.

Literature: We have read and had tests over the first three acts of "Macbeth". We have been given different parts to learn for a test after we finish reading "Macbeth."

Typing: We are having timed writings to see how many correct words we can type per minute.

Sociology: At the moment we have been studying the formation of habits and also how to break bad habits. This information comes in very handy at times if we can only make it work.

Home Ec: We are working on our sewing projects. The girls are making a number of different articles. Some are making dusters, some blouses, and some skirts.

Freshman Initiation Was Fun for All

At the beginning of every year there's one thing that everybody looks forward to—especially the freshman—and that is initiation.

Last Friday was freshman initiation. All the freshman came dressed in their most becoming outfits. Each freshman was dressed differently. They were supposed to bow three times every time they met a senior and say, "Oh king, oh queen, what have I done?" This continued all day Friday and then that night we had a party. All the freshman and the new teachers were initiated by having to do some stunt such as: Myrna and Jerry J eating limburger cheese; John carried Joyce across a board full of "nails" barefooted; Virginia put a girdle on Jerry L and Cozette and Ronnie ate worms, and they each had their turn at it.

After the stunts were finished, the freshman received the privileldge of serving the seniors lunch and the seniors certainly enjoyed it. Soon the lunch was finished and everyone found themselves a partner and danced. It was a lot of fun.

Girls' Sports

Well, we are back at the job again. The rate we're going the girls should be quite a bit stronger if Mr Westberg's statement of strengthening the muscles is true.

We added more work to our excercises this week. After 15 to 20 minutes of exercising our bodies, we had competition races. The class was divided into two sides. We jumped rope down to the opposite end of the floor and back. If we missed we had to start all over again. The side that lost had to run one lap around the gym floor.

We also had a race called the Kangaroo race which consisted of putting a volley ball between our knees and hopping to the opposite end of the floor.

Two other races were passing the ball with a partner while running from the one end of the floor to the other as before.

Last was the wheelbarrow race. One girl walked on her hands while the other girl, her partner, held her legs up. They exchanged positions at a certain mark and then ran back to their end.

Those poor girls that lose every time, if any, sure get enough exercise. I'm sure I'm not the only one that has noticed how stiff the girls were this week. No use complaining cause it doesn't do any good. Take it in stride girls, you'll change your condition as time goes on.

Teacher Interview

Our teacher for this week is Margery Kay Gorden. She was born in Waterloo, Iowa, on January 31, 1929. Mrs Gorden attended high school at Orange Township Consolidated School in Waterloo. She attended the McPherson College at Kansas for three year and graduated at Iowa State College.

Her favorite pastime and hobby is sewing and reading. Her pet peeve is noisy gun chewers (we were wondering about the quit one). June Allyson and Jeff Chandler are her favorite actress and actor. Her favorite movie is "The Glenn Miller Story". Her favorite singer is Eddie Fisher. She also enjoys eating broiled steak.

Mrs Gorden has taught school at Newhall Public School at Newhall; New Hampton Public School at New Hampton; and Bridgewater College in Virginia.

Her most embarrassing moment is the time she dove into a ditch on a mountain road in West Virginia.

Mrs Gorden's interest outside of school is her husband. Her future plans are to be a full-time homemaker.

Question of the Week

What did you think of freshman initiation?

Dave: I think it was all right.
Fred: I refuse to answer that question on the grounds that it might tend to incriminate me!
Margaret: In the evening I thought it was a lot of fun.
Ione: The night was fine.
Shirley: It could have been more of a success, but then it wasn't too bad.
Jo Ellen: I thought it was a lot of fun in the evening. I hope next year they will have even more fun.
Margaret P: I thoughth it was a lot of fun.
Marvin: I thought it was very good.
Keith: I think it was very good.
Miss Beardsley: I had a good laugh.

"So did we".—The Seniors.

Senior Class News

We sure have been having it rough in literature. The other day we received a hard test. In concluding the unit of the Westward Movement, the class was divided into four small groups and they were to discuss among themselves the various problems that confronted the American pioneer. A report was given in front of the class by each group, telling some of the problems and the conclusion that the group had come to.

On Wednesdays we have no regular assignment but spent our English period working on the newspaper.

We have finished the chapter on the Revolutionary War in our American history book. Now we are going to study the Confederation of the Thirteen States. One history period out of each week is devoted to discussion of current events of international affairs.

In our bookkeeping workbooks we have learned to total our journals and then balance the book to see if we have made any errors.

We have been studying how to write out checks in business training. We have also been studying about checking accounts and savings accounts.

In sociology we are writing reports on one of our fears and learning how this fear came into being. We are also writing reports on one of our bad habits and learning how to break it

We are taking ten minute writings in typing and also working a few problems in our spare time.

Boys' Sports

As there were no baseball games scheduled this past week, the boys have been busy preparing for the free conference track met which will be held at Sheffield on September 28th. The only event in the meet will be the mile run with each school entering five participants. A trophy will be awarded to the winning team and individual medals given to the five fastest runners.

In P T we have been doing exercises and learning some of the fundamentals of football. We also have gone through some of the formations and worked on simple plays. We later plan to have scrimmages between the different classes.

Features Listed for Farm Field Day

Five phases of this year's studies on the newest of the Iowa State College outlying experimental farms will be shown and discussed at the field day Oct. 5th on the Clarion Webster Experimental Farm south of Kanawha.

Many Hancock County farmers will find interesting and valuable ideas from the reports says Hancock County Extension Director Paul Henderson.

Henderson received word on the field day this week from the program co-chairman, Agronomist E R Duncan from the college and Wright County Extension Director Aaron Bowman. These are the features listed for the afternoon program at which all interested folks are welcome.

The relative effectiveness of different sources of phosphorus in fertilizers will be reported. Visitors will get the oat yield results from plots which received phosphate from different fertilizer sources. And they will be able to judge for themselves how well phosphate fertilizers with different amounts water-soluble have performed in starter fertilizer for corn. Recent college work shows that this factor of water-solubility can be important in starter fertilizers

Soils on the farm have given good responses to legume yields when phosphate has been added. Field day guests will see and discuss the best rates of phosphate and potash on legumes.

Three rates of actual nitrogen in fertilizers were applied to second-year corn this year. Those rates were 40,80 and 120 pounds of actual nitrogen. Folks will see the plots and discuss the influence of nitrogen on corn in this dry, hot season.

Legume green manure crops have been a standard practice of many farms in this area. An experiment at the farm is comparing four legumes alone and in combinations as green manures. The legumes are southern alfalfa, northern alfalfa, sweetclover and Ladino clover.

Soybeans sheaves and beans will be brought to the farm from the nearby Northern Iowa Experimental Farm. These will be part of the soybean performance discussion on the field day program.

Another stop at the farm that will interest many will be a visit to the weather station, where the rainfall and temperatures are recorded. This will help nearby farmers know exactly what the records show for the last season. This station also includes recording devices for other important weather factors.

There will also be a visit to the site where a drainage experiment is underway. One of the main reasons for work at this farm, Henderson says, is to solve some of the problems of draining excess water from the flat, black Webster soils of this area. This year there was little drainage, but this experiment should give important facts for handling soils in more normal seasons.

Henderson reports that the field day program will begin at 1 p. m. Oct 5. The farm is located on county road K, about 1½ miles south of Kanawha.

Worms aren't welcome in the laying house, so be sure you house a "clean" flock. Free your pullets of worm burden, improve their health and feed efficiency, and help them lay better by giving 'em Wormal. Wormal expels 3 major kinds of worms: large round, tape, and cecal. And you can give Wormal in the feed (ask for Granules) or individually (in tablets). Either way, Wormal does the job safely, surely. Help your layers become good payers — treat with Wormal.

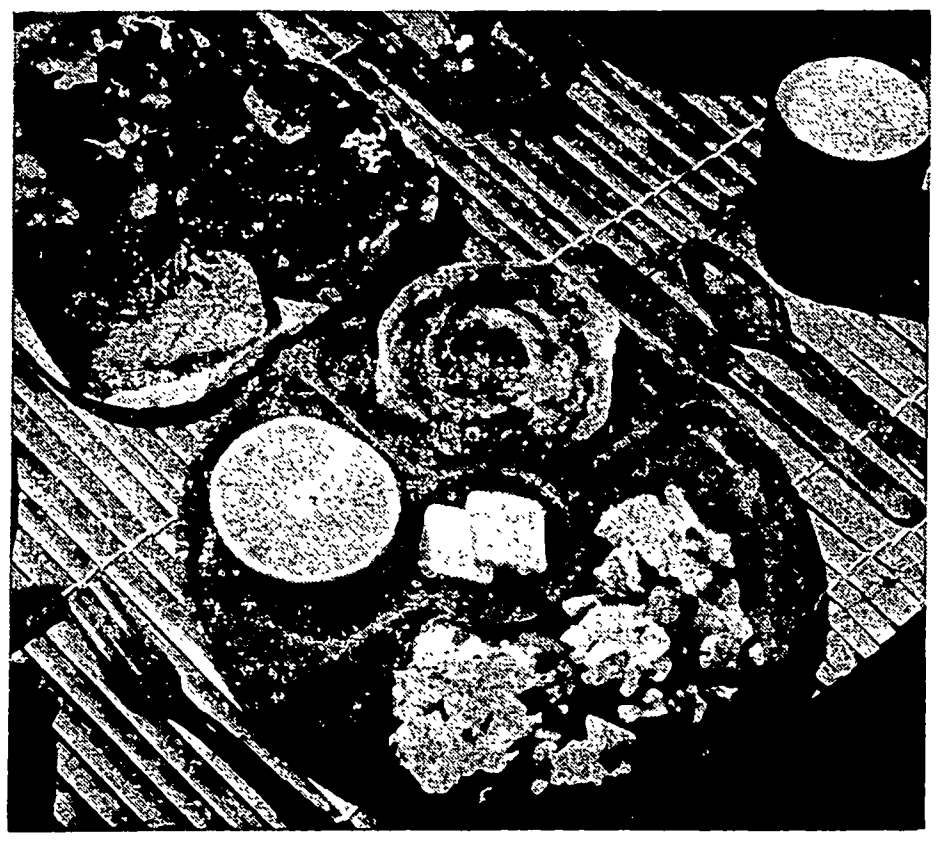
Perk Up Your Day—

Eat a Better Breakfast



A better breakfast is most important to you—and your family. Shown above is a "breakfast scramble". You can make it easily. Simply combine scrambled eggs, ham, browned potatoes, salt, pepper and chopped green pepper for a delightful and different family treat.

September is "better breakfast month." This proclamation really honors the key meal of the day. Yes, those school-age youngsters and you parents, too, need the backing of a good, hearty breakfast on cool autumn mornings.

Nutritionists and teachers feel children who skip or skimp on the morning meal usually suffer from an "eleven o'clock slump" —both physical and mental, says Harriett Roberts, extension nutritionist at Iowa State College. Don't let this be your child—don't let it be you!

Weight Watcher?

Perhaps you're a calorie counter. If this category hits you or any member of your household, remember this is no excuse for skipping breakfast. In fact, it's an excellent reason to eat a nourishing morning meal. Then dieting won't make you tired, empty and weak. No breakfast—and you feel compelled to snack during the morning. Unfortunately, the foods we choose for snacking are usually those with high calorie count—all in all, foods better done without if we really want to cut those pounds.

Nutritious Breakfasts

Now for the foods you should include in your family breakfast. First of all, a vitamin C-rich food is important. Oranges, grapefruit and their juices; strawberries: cantaloupe; tangerines and their juice and tomato juice are all good sources of vitamin C.

A protein-rich food is a must for breakfast. You can get this this through milk, eggs, meats, cheese and other foodstuffs. A word about milk—besides being high in protein, milk should have special consideration because of the rich supply or calcium it offers.

Now to provide energy for the morning, you'll need some additional foods for breakfast. These might include a breadstuff such as toast, muffins, rolls with butter-or it might be a breakfast cereal.

Suggested Menus

Now perhaps you're saying "Well this is all very interesting, but thinking up different breakfasts for my family isn't so easy." To start you off on your breakfast plans, Miss Roberts offers four menus your family will like if they're the typical Iowa family.

No. 1. Cantaloupe, prepared whole grain or enriched cereal with eggnog topping, whole grain or enriched toast, butter, milk and/or coffee.

No. 2. Banana chunks in orange juice, French toast, sirup or preserves, link sausages, milk and/ or coffee.

No. 3. Tomato juice (hot or cold), baked eggs, muffins, butter honey, milk and/or coffee.

No. 4. ½ grapefruit, scrambled eggs with ham, whole grain cereal cooked in milk and topped with whole milk, cinnamon toast and hot cocoa.

For a speedily prepared breakfast and a novel way of including eggs, try eggnog topping for prepared cereal. Here's how it's done: Beat one egg slightly; add two thirds to one cup milk, 1 teaspoon sugar and a few drops of vanilla; beat or shake until mixed. Serve in a pitcher and use instead of sugar and cream on cereal.

4-H Books Judged

The 4-H girls longtime record books were judged and announcements made last week of top record books in the county by Elsie Mae Van Wert, County Extension Home Economist.

Farmers Need Not Have Deer License to Hunt On Own Land

Conservation Commission officials said today that no special deer hunting permits are required for farmers hunting deer this season within the boundaries of their own lands.

Last year farmers needed special permits to hunt deer on their own property, but the permits will not be required for the 1955 deer season. Deer hunting licenses are required for those hunters, whether farmers or not, who hunt deer on the property of others or on public lands.

An application must be made in order to receive a deer license, and to date nearly 2,000 deer hunting applications have been received by the Conservation Commission. All applications must be received in the Conservation Commission offices in Des Moines not later than the October 12 deadline, accompanied by a check or money order for $10. Applications are available from all state conservation officers.

The 1955 Iowa deer season will extend from Octoper 29 through November 20 for bow and arrow, and from December 3 through December 5 for shotguns shooting rifled slugs. All counties are open to deer hunting.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Latest figures show that net farm income for the nation during the spring was at the rate of 10.8 billion dollars yearly. That's a drop of about three-fourths of a billion dollars from the rate of the first 3 months of this year, Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist reports.

The current rate of net farm income is down 35 percent from the peak hit in 1948. And it has happened at a time when most other parts of the economy have seen their incomes go up, Kutish adds

The big part of the drop in farm income has come from lower prices for farm products. But Kutish points out that costs also have gone up-bringing pressure from both sides of the pincers.

In August of this year—latest cost figures available—the index of prices paid by farmers was 279. That means costs averaged only 3 percent lower than at the peak three pears ago. And they were 41 percent higher than at the end of World War II.

Farm prices hit their peak in 1948—except for a brief spurt during the Korean War. Prices have slumped steadily since February of 1951, Kutish points out.

Our farm prices now are 25 percent below the 1951 peak—and they are 1 percent under the previous postwar low set back in 1950.

The combination of falling prices and higher costs has squeezed the parity ratio. The result: prices now stand at 84 percent of parity. That's 5 points under a year ago and the lowest since 1946, says Kutish.

CAR WASH

At Bedford, strong winds pushed an automobile belonging to Harry Powell into a nearby farm pond.

At Indianola, Lester Beck is recovering from a concussion occurred when he fell from a tractor. The machine hit a bump and he was thrown into a ditch.

Dr G A Evans, Clarion, recently pulled a 27 pound catfish from the Des Moines river. It took an hour and a half to beach the big fellow.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

If Brown had been looking through his breast pocket, he might have avoided the accident. That's where he carried his glasses, in the breast pocket of his jacket.

He had some vague idea if he were ever stopped by the police of highway patrol, he'd have time to slip the glasses on before the officer could check his license anl see the words: "Restricted to adequate eye glasses."

Like many people, Brown had the idea that obeying the law was simply a matter of compliance whenever the law came close. So he faithfully carried his glasses along whenever he drove—just in case.

It must have been a touch of vanity that made Brown hide his glasses. He had been a good local athlete as a young man. Occasionally, men from his own generation would still recall some of his exploits. He was 33 when he had to be fitted with glasses in order to renew his drivers license.

Perhaps Brown felt the glasses made him lose his character of the athlete that was still faintly remembered around the town. He only wore them in the darkness of a theatre.

Actually, Brown had 20-50 vision which means he could see at 20 feet what he should have been able to see at 50 feet.

Brown didn't run into trouble until the day he was traveling an unfamiliar highway and approached a stop sign at 60 miles an hour. Skid marks indicated he hit his brakes about 90 feet from the sign. or, at about the point he was first able to see it.

At that speed and distance, Brown would have skidded 227 feet beyond the sign except that another car entering the intersection stopped him. Everything was broken except Brown's glasses, neatly encased in his breast pocket.

One more year and Mrs Mary Walsh, of LeMars, will reach the 100 year mark. She recently observed her 99th birthday. Mrs Walsh was born in Dubuque in 1856.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

HIGHWAY PROGRAM

For the first time in years, if ever, the Iowa highway commission plans to make public its program for highway improvements a year ahead. What that means is the present commission will soon unfold its blueprint program for improvements planned for the state's highways in 1956.

In previous years the commission has mapped out its program or its highway improvement objectives but has chosen to keep the plans secret from the public. Contractors, graders, and others involved directly in the work, of course, knew what the future programming entailed, but not the public.

Chairman Russell Lundy of the commission has announced that the 1956 program, now being mapped by the commission, will be announced in approximately 60 days.

Lundy also has laid at rest seriously expressed doubts over the commission's present highway widening program. Lundy, in hearings at Ames the other day, told the Iowa Good Roads Association, and the Associated General Contractors, that the present widening is only part of the overall improvement contemplated.

When the widening is completed, Lundy said, shoulders will then be built up to standards, and the overall slab then resurfaced. He also said that while the widening program is now underway, other projects including improving of sight distances, new construction and relocation is being carried on in other major projects.

'We are working for the best interests of all of the people of Iowa in our road improvement program,' the chairman said.

His remarks followed expressions from the IGRA and AGC in which both groups expressed concern on the construction program and urged that a long-range program be adopted by the commission and that the highway modernization program at least match certain minimum established highway standards.

IOWA TANGLE

Iowa employment security commision officials report that probably a supreme court decision and state legislation will both be necessary to work out the guaranteed annual wage provisions for labor under the existing state unemployment rules.

The commissioners feel that the law is clear that an employee cannot draw maximum benefits from his employer under provisions of the guaranteed annual wage plus full provisions under the state's unemployment compensation law.

They indicated a court test would be necessary to resolve the question and that probably amending legislation would be necessary to provide that unemployed persons obtain maximum benefits under both plans.

IOWAN HEADS FTC

John Gwynne, an attorney and a native of Waterloo, is the new chairman of the Federal Trade Commission. He has served on the FTC for two years.

Gwynne, a former congressman, succeeds Edward Howrey, as chairman. Howrey, like Gwynne, is also a native of Waterloo. Howrey resigned to enter the practice of law in Washington, D. C.

INSURANCE RATES

The state insurance commission has approved certain automobile insurance rate reductions. The cost of $50 deductible collision insurance for private autos has been reduced by 14.4 percent, and of $100 deductible insurance by 17 percent.

The rate reductions are the result of fewer claims filed by policyholders during the last year.

Cost of comprehensive insurance coverage on autos, however, has surged upward. The rise is 9.4 percent. The department said the increase is due to losses by damage to the costlier curved windshields.

SEES HYPOCRISY

State Sen. George O'Malley, Democrat floor leader in the Iowa senate during the last legislative session, said recently that hypocrisy and side issues must be overcome before reapportionment will be realized in Iowa.

"Everybody's for reapportionment but to get right down to it and nothing happens," O'Malley declared, "I've come to the conclusion that there's a lot of hypocrisy about it."

The senator attacked the statement made by Lt. Gov. Leo Elthon that reapportionment would give legislative control to the cities which are "dominated by labor."

"In all charities," O'Malley said, "it was a most unfortunate statement."

He said he would wage an all-out fight for reapportionment in the next session.

NEW STATE DIVISION

Martin Lauterbach, vice-chairman of the Iowa state tax commission, said that a division of valuation assistance will be organized.

This new division will assist county and city assessors in their work, he said.

Lauterbach called for uniform assessment of property on the local level in order to accomplish equalization.

He warned that the commission will order reassessments whenever local assessors cannot accomplish uniformity in their assessments.

Machinery on Farms Totals More Than '53

Hancock County farmers had more tractors, combines, mechanical corn pickers, hay balers and motor trucks on farms in 1954 than in 1953 according to the recent farm census released by the Iowa Crop and Livestock reporting service in Des Moines. The enumeration was made in the spring of 1955.

In 1954 Hancock County farmers had a total of 3,444 tractors on farms as compared with 3,314 in 1953 an increase of 130 over the previous year. They had 1,091 combines as compared with 1,056 a year earlier an increase of 35. They had 1,271 mechanical corn pickers as against 1,266 in 1953, an increase of 5; 306 balers in 1954 an increase of 49 over 1953 when the total was 257. Motor trucks in 1954 totaled 882 as copmpared with 842 a year earlier, an increase of 40.

Hancock County farmers decreased the amount of limestone used in 1954 to 2,206 tons as against 3,110 tons in 1953, but stepped up the use of commercial fertilizer from 9,681 tons in 1953 to 10,693 tons in 1954 an increase of 1,102 tons in spite of the fact that total numbers of crop acres were less in 1954.

Hancock County farmers produced a total of 510,500 pounds of pop corn in 1954 from 237 acres an increase of 391,830 over 1953 when a total of 118,670 pounds was grown from 45 acres

Hunters Cautioned Against Loaded Guns In Automobiles

With the beginning of a new hunting season, the State Conservation Commission is cautioning hunters against carrying loaded and assembled guns in automobiles.

Under state law, "no persons, except as permitted by law, shall have or carry any gun in or on any vehicle on any public highway, unless such gun be taken down or contained in a case, and the barrels and magazines thereof be unloaded."

Carrying loaded and assembled guns in automobilees is one of the prime causes of Iowa's fatal gun accidents according to statistics of the Iowa Department of Health, and each year several deaths are caused by accidental shootings in cars.

Decoys and Blinds Not Allowed Overnight In Some Public Areas

Under a new ruling by the Conservation Commission, duck blinds and decoys will not be allowed on state-owned marshes and lakes between the hours of 5:30 p. m. and 5:00 a. m. during the waterfowl season.

The new regulation was adopted in an effort to give all hunters an equal opportunity in setting out blinds, decoys and choosing hunting sites. In the past, some hunters have staked out choice areas for their own use, leaving blinds and decoys overnight to mark their "claims".

This regulation applies only to state game management areas, and not to rivers and private waters.

Local Hot Lunch Program Commended

The Klemme School Hot Lunch Program was inspected by consultants from the Department of Public Instruction during the first few weeks of school.

On the whole the program was highly commended. The following minor changes were suggested:

1. The cost of the food, especially bread, appears to be higher than schools are paying in surrounding communities. Many programs buy bread directly from the company at wholesale price. Other food items are also purchased at wholesale.

2. To promote steady participation in the program and electing individual meals, menus should not be publicized in advance. To encourage good relationship between home and school a planned program of parent participation by rooms could be arranged.

3. Plan was worked out with superintendent and Mrs Thiemann whereby children will not pass through the kitchen to get food. Very little expense or changing was necessary.

4. Commodities not as well utilized as they should be. Too much on hand. Would be willing to transfer some peanut butter.

The federal government is subsidizing the special milk program that was started last week. By this plan, each child in the lower grades gets a glass of milk free each morning and afternoon.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Some time back, we told in this column of the antelope killed in Wyoming by Herb Greimann, Jr., He and his grandpa, William F Greimann, returned from their hunting trip a couple of weeks ago. "Bill" has been on plenty of hunting trips before, so to him it was just a good enjoyable time. To Junior, though, it was all new and very interesting. Following is what he had to say about the trip.

We hunted antelope and deer about 65 miles north of Lander, Wyoming, and had good hunting. That area also gave us a chance to see uranium mines which stretch as far as the eye can see and give a yellow appearance to the dessert. The federal government has warning and no trespassing signs posted all over this area.

From that locality we went on to the Lloyd Allen Ranch, near Riverton, Wyoming, where we hunted mule deer. They are much bigger and faster than the eastern white-tail deer.

We also hunted elk and did some trout fishing in the Jackson Hole County. We only saw one herd of elk (about 15) and when we saw them we were very high up in the mountains where breathing was difficult.

When we were preparing to go out to our hunting camp, three of the pack horses which were carrying provisions started a small rodeo. They went into every phase of bucking. Before they were through there were apples, oranges, tobacco cans, coffee cans, etc., flying all over the place. When it was over with, we were all laughing and hanging on to the fruit and supplies we had caught.

One of the most interesting things was goppi hunting. The goppi is a small fish that is used for trout bait. He lives on sediment and his only method of survival is to stay under rocks where the trout can't get too him. One flat rock that we picked up hid fifteen. They grow up to six inches long. The way to get them is to lift up a rock and spear them with a common table fork. Fun!

One of the most interesting things to me was getting to act as one of the wranglers for the party while we were at the Bob Robinson ranch. His son, Bill, is considered to be one of the best registered guides in Wyoming and he let me ride his best pony, "Black Jack" in doing the work. Black Jack has the reputation of being the best trained mountain pony in that section of the country. Here when we get off a horse, we "dismount"; out there, they "fall off".

The hunt, planned months in advance, turned out to be a real success, and to my mind hospitality of the western people is wonderful.

We expect that there are lots of high school lads who would have just about given their eye teeth to get to go on a trip such as Herb, jr. tells about. We know that when we were that age, we would have been so excited about such a prospect that we wouldn't have slept for a month. In fact, we could get a little bit excited about such a trip right now.

Fall is our favorite season of the year for being out doors. The

Herbert Pike, Farm Visitor to Russia to Speak at Garner

Herbert Pike of Whiting was a member of the 12-man agricultural delegation which visited the Soviet Union this summer. He will be in Garner Thursday, Oct. 13, at the Garner Memorial building to give a talk on agricultural conditions and methods used in Russia.

Mr Pike operates a large farm in the Missouri River Valley between Sioux City and Omaha. The Pikes supplement an intensive corn-soybeans-alfalfa cropping program with 700 hogs, 100 cattle, and 50 breeding ewes.

Mr Pike, an Iowa Master Swine producer, has appeared on numerous farm management and swine production programs, including the Swine Institute at Austin, Minn.; the Pasture-Forage-Livestock day at the Omaha stockyards and the National Farm Institute, Des Moines. He also contributed to leading farm magazines and has appeared on farm radio and television programs.

Articles of Mr Pike's Russian trip were published in US News and World Report, Town Journal(and the Woane Agricultural Digest.

The farm folks of this community and adjoining vicinities are particularly invited to hear Mr Pike. He is coming to Garner at the invitation of the United Presbyterian church of Garner of of which the Rev D Barry Lash is pastor.

Mr Pike will supplement his talk with slides taken in Russia. He has been touring the Midwest states and giving talks on this subject—so it is a certainty, that his talk will be most interesting and informative.

It should be remembered that the time is 8 p. m. at the Memorial building in Garner on Thursday, Oct. 13.

Mr Pike is 43 years of age, is a graduate of Iowa State College with a master's degree in Economics, a trustee of the Iowa State Agricultural Foundation, and a former member of the college extension staff. He has also had experience as a farm manager and land appraiser for an insurance company.

Wessels Moves Into His Own Building

Henry Wessels, owner of Wessels Floor Covering, has moved his office and merchandise from the basement of the Wellemeyer Building into the building formerly occupied by Thada's Store.

Mr Wessels purchased the bulding last spring and has done considerable painting and cleaning up preparatory to making the move. Last Wednesday evening, a large crew of neighbors and friends helped carry all the fixtures, linoleum, rugs, etc., across the street to the new location, and were treated to a steak dinner by Mr Wessels.

The other half of the Wessels Building will still be occupied by Sawtelle's Superette.

Encourages Giving to Worthy Causes Thru One United Effort

East Hancock Community Chest drive will get underway Monday, Oct. 17, and will extend through Saturday, Oct. 29th. Doubtless, most of you know, that this United Fund effort covers the east eight townships, and all of the towns therein, of this county.

Last year was the first year for this Community Chest and the solicitors and workers did an outstanding job in putting the collections and pledges over the top—making the inaugural year a most successful one.

Again this fall, each captain soliciting will have a card for each family in his particular area—rural school district or block—and, this card may be used as a pledge, if full payment cannot be made of the amount to be contributed, in fact, the contributions may be made in quarterly payments.

All of us should be reminded—it is NOT the purpose of the Community Chest to attempt to minimize giving to those worthy organizations included in the Chest, but it is the purpose of the Chest to encourage giving to legitimate organizations and agencies through a united effort. Each organization in the Chest has been thoroughly investigated and by contributing to the Community Chest, one can be assured that his money will go to some worthy organization or agency.

The organizations included in the Chest this year are the same as last year, or: American Cancer Society, American Red Cross, Salvation Army, Iowa Association for Retarded Children, Iowa Children's Home Society, Sister Kenny Foundation (polio), Winnebago Council of Boy Scouts, United Fund of Iowa, and in the town of Garner only, there are two additional ones; Garner Recreational Club and North Iowa Council of Girl Scouts.

The budget has been approved at the same figure as last year, or a total of $14,000, although an increase in the budget allotments was made to several agencies. Remember— all amounts contributed to the Community Chest are deductible on your income tax returns.

It should be pointed out, too, that the United Fund of Iowa includes a number of agencies within itself, they are; American Society Hygiene Ass'n, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, Blinded Veterans Ass'n, Multiple Sclerosis Society, National Recreational Ass'n, Roscoe Jackson Research Laboratory, United Community Defense Service, and the USO (United Service Organizations).

This is the second year for the Community Chest in East Hancock county—let's go all out to make it another successful year, and insure the continuation of the East Hancock Community Chest.

air has a crisp tang that is missing at any other time of the year, the temperature is not so low as to keep one from being comfortable, and the colors taken on by the leaves, after frost, are extremely beautiful.

Conservation Commission park officials pass on the information that state parks are nearly abandoned by mid-October, compared to their heavy use during the summer. They think that many people are missing a good bet by not planning some fall outings in the parks and taking advantage of the fine weather and beauty to be seen.

In addition, the park officials say that by mid-October, fishing in the lakes is usually on the up-swing and most of the aggravating summer bugs are gone. For your comfort, they suggest that you take along sweaters and light jackets, and for your pleasure, they suggest out door cooked meals, colored film, and fishing tackle.

We are pretty much inclined to agree with them . . . at least to the extent that you can't beat out doors in the fall. We don't say that you have to get your enjoyment from state parks, but the state does have several beautiful ones to choose from. If you don't feel the urge for picnicing, fishing, etc., you can still have an enjoyable time just by going for a leisurely ride through the country. There is much to see that can be seen only in the fall.

Guess our sis, Ellen, writes a pretty good letter. We have heard a lot of comment about how the letter sounded just like her, and even some who didn't know her, have commented about how interesting the letter was. Marie Blank says that the letter has been quite a topic of conversation at the beauty shop this week

Recent rains have certainly changed the appearance of the countryside. Everything is getting green again. Lawns and pastures were parched for so long this summer that it looks good to see them all greened up again.

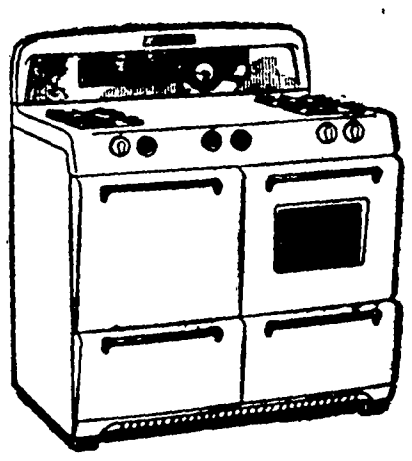
We decided on a modern GAS RANGE



Almost everything we buy for our family calls for careful planning. We needed a new range, and we looked at all kinds. We chose a modern natural gas range for three BIG reasons. It's dependable . . . cleanest . . . and lowest cost. When you get right down to it, NOTHING does it like low cost gas.

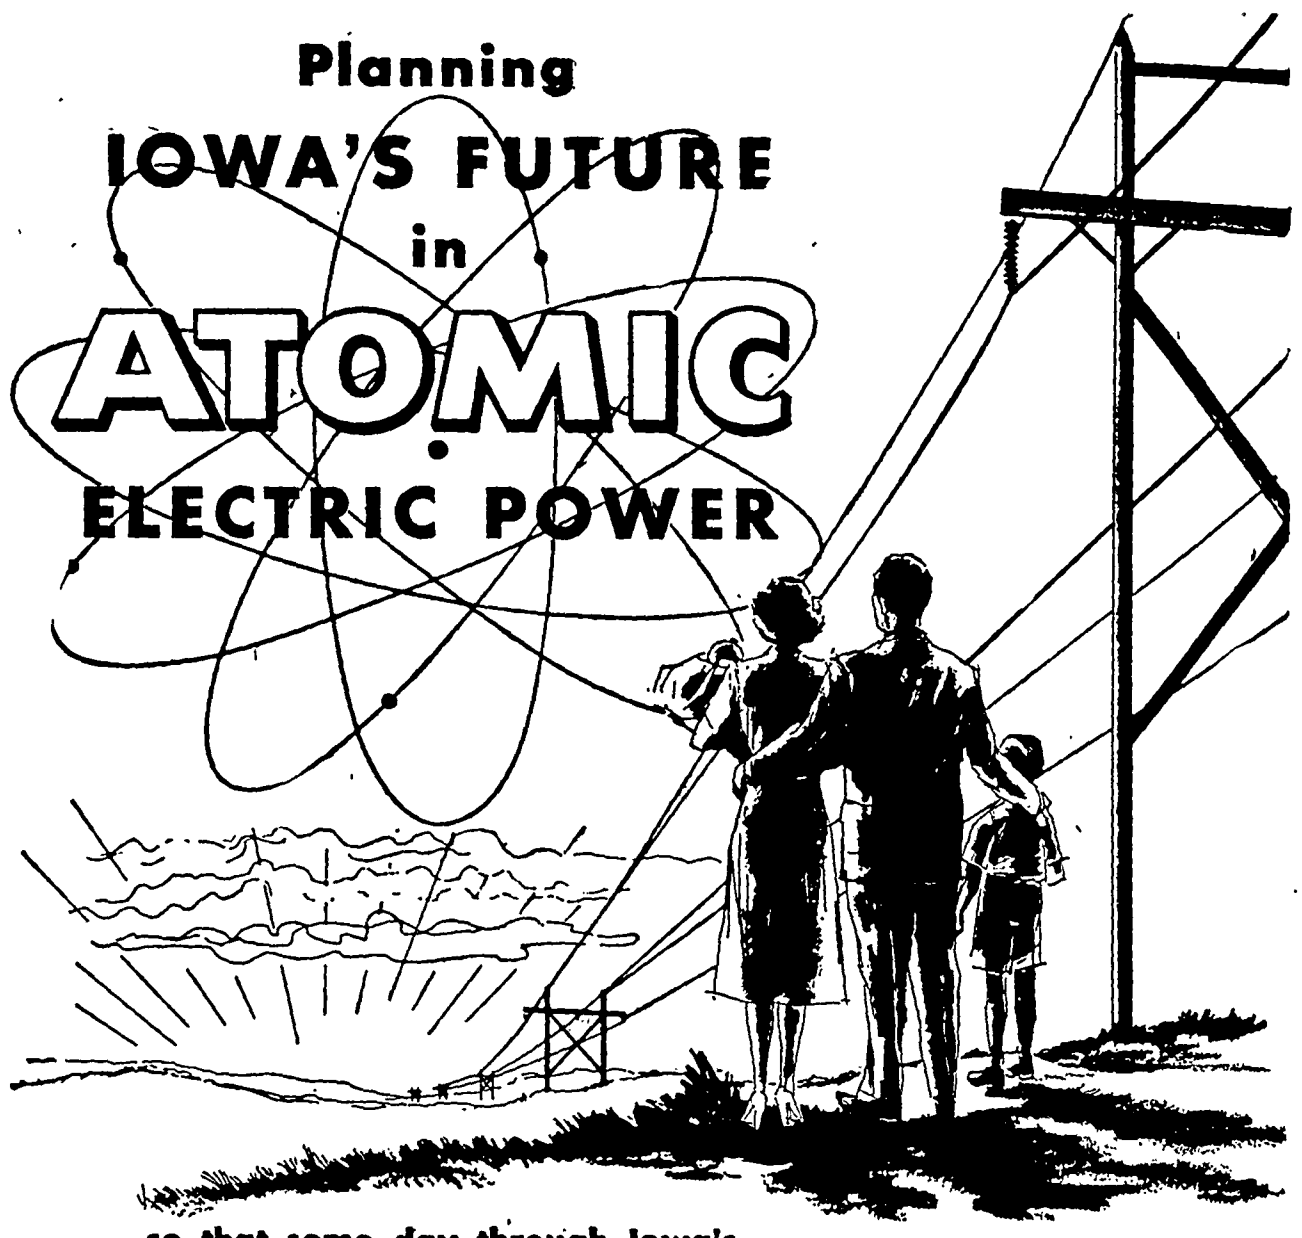
Planning IOWA'S FUTURE in ATOMIC ELECTRIC POWER



so that some day through Iowa's

"EXPRESSWAYS of POWER"

may surge the force of the Mighty Atom
. . . tamed to Serve Mankind

THE JOINING OF THIS COMPANY with other Iowa utilities in forming Atomic Power Associates of Iowa, has been widely hailed as an important step toward bringing atomic electric power to the Hawkeye State.

This Company intends to participate actively in studies of atomic electric power generation. However, it would be premature to say that this development is just around the corner. Much remains to be done before there can be much commercial progress in this area.

Atomic power, as we now understand it, can produce electricity only by the production of heat. The heat generated by nuclear fission must be transferred to a boiler for the generation of steam, which, in turn, will operate a conventional type of steam turbine, driving a generator for the production of electricity.

This new source of heat energy is extremely important, because, if this country is to continue expanding its electric consumption, we must face the eventual depletion of our store of conventional fuel, such as coal, gas, and oil.

The cost of building and operating an atomic power plant, based on today's knowledge, is greater than that for a conventional plant. Nevertheless, the electrical industry is going ahead with the construction of several experimental plants using different type reactors. While the operating costs of such experimental plants will be higher, it is hoped that the knowledge gained from such developments will eventually result in greater economy.

The Company and other of American's investor-owned electric light and power companies are willing to take this risk, because they know the importance of guaranteeing the future of our country's power supply. This is vital to the future of our nation.

Editorial of the Week

Last year on the Iowa and nation's highways, there were a very large number of people killed. The greatest cause of accidents lie in the careless driver. Safety belts are being experimented with in cars to test how much protection they would furnish a person in an accident. There are many new experimental inventions being tested, but even with all of these, the only way the death toll can be decreased is by the education of drivers. Therefore in the public schools of Iowa and the nation, drivers training is a required course, given to students in their sophomore year in high school. It has been proven that a student which has taken drivers training is a much better and a more careful driver than a person who hasn't.

Let us take careless driving, for example. Most of the careless drivers of today, haven't been given the chance to take drivers training and usually it's the fact that they didn't know any better. That is, they haven't been educated to what might be the outcome of their careless and reckless driving. A careless driver is covering up his lack of knowledge about driving by driving recklessly. Really he is not fooling anyone, not even himself, but he is trying hard to convince everyone by his driving that he is a "big wheel" not only behind the wheel, but always. He really feels inferior and in trying to combat this feeling is endangering the lives of everyone he associates with as well as his own.

"It's these young kids that causes the accidents" is a well-known quotation very often heard. People that make this rash statement haven't been educated either to the facts! The young people of today are on the road more than any other group of people, therefore they would naturally, according to the law of averages, have more accidents. Yes, of course, there are those young people that drive recklessly just as there are other people that drive recklessly. But no one condemns all drivers, so why for a few reckless drivers condemn all young people as drivers.

The reaction time of a young person is much quicker than of someone who is older. So if a young person has been educated on how to react, he has a good chance of preventing an accident if the situation should arise on the highway. So, to you people that have made this statement we hope next time you hear of a young person getting in an accident, you will take into consideration "the facts" before you pass sentence on all of us. After all, we want to do away with ALL reckless drivers just as much as you do. The following poem which was written by a student of K H S expresses the feeling all the drivers training students and other students that drives cars carefully, have towards reckless drivers and their end.

RECKLESS DRIVERS

Down the highway lickety split,
Doesn't care who gets hit,
Turning corners on two wheels,
Gay and reckless is how he feels.
He comes to a stop sign and slams on his brakes,
His car has everything that it takes,
Red light, green light: what does he care,
Just as long as he gets there
Speed limit sign says 45
But he's flying low at 95,
Passing two cars on a hill,
Man alive! This is a thrill.
Round the curve at 85
Thinking how much fun it is to drive,
He comes to a viaduct, going to fast,
He's sprouting wings up there at last.

Girls' Sports

We started this week of P T with the usual strenuous and tiring excercises. Mr, Westberg also explained to the girls the game of football. He said if we knew something about the rules and how the game was played, we would be more interested in it, which is very tree. Since Klemme does not have football yet, most of the girls do not know much about this game and aren't very interested in it, but after Mr Westberg explained just how it works, we at least know what is going on. The main reason for his explaining the game was becauses when we get to college, all of the girls will go to the popular football game whether we know anything about it or not, and the girls that know the game of football will enjoy it much more than the girls who do not. Well, time will tell if this is true.

Cackles from the Coop

On Saturday, September 17th, at 7:00 a. m. the marching band left for Ames to appear along with many other high school bands, at halftime at the Iowa State - Denver football game.

We arrived at the stadium at about 9:00 a m, found out where we were supposed to sit and sat there until 10:00 a m waiting for the rest of the fifty bands to get seated.

We practiced from 10 to 10:45 and then ate lunch, consisting mostly of water, pop and ice cream, as the temperature was 91 degrees in the shade, and we were in the sun. If you don't think a wool band uniform can be uncomfortable at that temperature, you undoubtedly haven't tried it!

After we finished eating, we took our places in the stands, and watched the game. At halftime we went down on the field, the bands formed the letters SOUSA and played three of John Phillip Sousa's marches. Then we watched the last half of the game, drank more pop and water, and in general had a good time.

We got home about 6 p m, tired but happy. Oh yes, Denver won the game.

Question of the Week

Even though, we the students of K H S can not vote in the presidential election, we too are interested in the now crucial situation of President Eisenhower's health.

Do you think President Eisenhower will run for re-elction? If not, how might you guess the presidential election outcome to be.

JoEllen—No, I don't think he will run again. I wouldn't want to guess.

Marvin M—Yes, if he is in good health.

Larry W.—Yes, if he is in good health.

Maynard—No, if he's smart he won't run again. Those Democrats have it in the bag without even putting up a fight.

Fred—He has said that he might run again if his health permitted. I don't think that after having had a heart attack he will feel that his health does permit him to run again. I'll guess after I know who the candidates are.

Margaret H—I don't think that he will run again since his health will probably not permit him to do so. I don't know know what the election outcome will be.

This and That Around K. H. S. . . .

We hear Rosalie has really been making the rounds. First it was John Smith, then Joe Smith and now it's Gordon Morris. Is this right, Rosalie? We may have heard wrong.

We hear Eva and Larry are going together again .Could this mean an old romance is blooming again?

It looks like Margaret H just can't quite decide upon any one person. First it's Ventura, then college, then Garner, and now Klemme.

What's this we hear about Winola and Lee G?

We've been seeing a Mercury down to Shirley's lately. It couldn't be Gordon Lemke's, could it? They're really making a time of it. He took her home after initiation and she was with him again Wed. night.

Does anyone know what boys Fonda, Leila, and LaVohn were looking for Sunday in Garner?

What's this we hear about Donald A and Myrna Goodrich from Kanawha? He tried to deny it but it won't work, Don.

It looks like Marvin M has been making quite a few trips between Kanawha and Klemme lately. It coudn't be Marilyn W that Marvin is still interested in, could it?

I guess Kanawha is getting to be a pretty popular place for some Klemme boys. Roger B has been spending a lot of his time there visiting with Sandy N.

I wonder who asked to take Margaret H home after the teachers reception Friday night? Can anyone bring us up to date on this?

Ruth P has been spending a lot of her time with Norman H lately. What about all this, Ruth?

For Autumn Meals—

Remember Tasty, Economical Rice

For a really different treat, rice. Your family will love this try green peppers stuffed with tasty and thrifty dish.

You homemakers who are doing some entertaining on these brisk, cool, fall evenings—especially you who are doing so on a budget or when time's at a premium—will be wise to realize that one of your best friends is rice. It's a natural for people who are thrifty, plus being a great blender with many other foods, says Leslie Smith, extension nutritionist at Iowa State College.

RICE CAMPAIGN

As you probably know, rice has been on the plentiful foods list for quite some time—but now there's even more of it. The rice harvest got under way about August 1—and now supplies are increasing sharply. So industry and government have combined to declare this week (Sept. 29-Oct. 8) as rice campaigning time. Do your part in the national campaign. Your reward will be two-fold—speedily prepared, appetizing dishes for your family and more money in your pocket book.

You get lots of food energy from rice at moderate prices—also some protein, vitamin and mineral values. It's important to serve foods high in protein, minerals and vitamins with your rice because it isn't exceptionally high in these values.

Rice combines beautifully with such high-protein foods as eggs, meat, fish, poultry, milk and cheese. For vitamin and mineral intake, it blends well with vegetables, especially green and yellow kinds. We mustn't forget about friuts Rice and fruit walk hand in hand to make a tasty combination. Your fruits can be fresh or dried, raw or cooked. Especially good with rice are dates and raisins.

RICE FOR BREAKFAST

Perhaps you hadn't thought about serving rice for breakfast. Being the good mixer it is, it makes a delightful addition to any meal.

Mrs Smith gives a recipe for cinnamon rice waffles—delicious for breakfast or for dessert. Here are the ingredients: 1½ cups sifted flour; 1 teaspoon salt; 2¼ teaspoons baking powder; 1 tablespoon sugar; 1 teaspoon cinnamon; 4 eggs, separated; 1½ cups cooked rice; 1¼ cups milk; 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind and ⅓ cup melted shortening or oil. Now to make about six waffles, sift dry ingredients together. Beat egg yolks and combine with rice, milk, lemon rind and melted shortening or oil. Add to dry ingredients and stir until well blended. Beat egg whites until well blended. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry, and fold into batter. Bake in hot waffle iron.

For dinner, serve rice in meat cakes, with meat or fish in baked dishes, with panned vegetables or in stuffings for meat and fish.

Tasty lunch or supper dishes combine rice with eggs or cheese in omelets or baked dishes, with creamed meat, fish or eggs and in desserts. Rice is a natural for buffet meals or meals that have to wait. Try having a curried chicken party—buffet style—the next time you entertain.

Don't forget about savory brown rice topped with butter, either. It seems to hold its kernel shape a little better than the white—and is it flavorful..

LEFTOVER RICE

To keep cooked rice for future uses simply cover it and store it in a cold place. For a flavor treat, try this: If you have some leftover beef broth, cook rice in it instead of in water.

Here's a tip that calls for more ease of preparation. You can cook your rice 2 or 3 days ahead of time, then store it—covered—in the refrigerator until serving time.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Corn Belt farmers are producing the smallest share of the national corn crop in several years. The reason, Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist points out, is that the drouth reduced the crop in the western part of the Corn Belt. At the same time, the South is harvesting one of the best corn crops on record.

This is one of the reasons why Kutish looks for a small increase in the 1956 spring pig crop-enough to make hog prices average a little lower next year than in 1955.

Corn Belt farmers have boosted hog production by a larger percentage than have other hog producers since the bottom of the hog cycle back in 1952. If these other farmers were to make a corresponding boost, we would get an additional 2½ percent hike in the nation's pig crop—even if Corn Belt farmers held steady, says Kutish.

CATTLE CYCLE

The cattle situation shows a little more stability. Kutish thinks that we won't see much change in numbers, either way, this January 1.

During the first 7 months of this year, cattle slaughter totaled 1.3 percent more than a year ago. The increase was all in cows and heifers. Fewer calves were killed than a year earlier

Kutish believes that this means a continued large cattle slaughter the next few years. But the larger cow and heifer slaughter means that we won't have quite as many calves born during this period.

With our population growing, beef supply leveling out, and consumers incomes high, the Iowa State College farm economist looks for satisfactory beef prices during the next few years.

"Beef cattle raising profits should hold up as well as any farm enterprise," forecasts Kutish. But he adds that a farmer should be sure that beef cows fit in well in a sound farm management program on an individual farm before any farmer decides to put a herd of beef cows on his farm. You don't get a large volume of business from a beef cow herd, he points out.

"Public relations" is everything you do.

Truth has only to change hands a few times to become fiction.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Beginning next Monday, October 17th, the East Hancock Community Chest will begin its second annual drive for funds. All organizations which will benefit from the funds collected by the Chest have been found worthy and are those that you would normally contribute to in separate fund drives.

The Community Chest eliminates the necessity of having to contribute to each of several causes in separate campaigns and makes it possible for you to extend a big helping hand in several directions at one time.

The goal for the East Hancock Community Chest this year is the same as it was last year, $14,000. This amount was raised last year with no particular strain on anyone, and your generosity will make it easily possible again.

When the Chest workers come to your place, treat them courteously. They are your neighbors. They have volunteered to do this charitable work and by so doing, give you a chance to take care of nearly all your contributions at one time rather than having solicitors at your door throughout the year.

Remember, the East Hancock Community Chest includes no unworthy organizations in its list of those who will receive aid from the money you contribute, so "GIVE" and know that your gift will give comfort and aid where it is needed.

We are laboring this week without the services of our printer, Merlyn Olson. He and Dick Dulmes left Monday for Des Moines where they took physical examinations Tuesday and were inducted into the army.

We had become used to Merlyn being around and will miss him. He worked for us for some time when we ran the service station which is now owned by Bert Lieuwen, and soon after we took over The Times, he again began working for us. Altogether he had been with us for some over four years. We wish both he and Dick good luck during their stay in the army.

Tuesday was the deadline for filing nomination papers for city offices for this fall's election which will take place on November 8th. Everyone seemed to have forgotten about the election and the deadline until about six o'clock Tuesday evening, and then there was a rush of activity to get petitions signed, affidavits signed and sworn, and everything filed with the Town Clerk before midnight.

However, considerable fast action took place and by shortly after eight o'clock two petitions and accompanying affidavits were on file. Now all that remains is to have an election. Details on the candidates and the election can be found in a news story in this issue of The Times.

As near as we could tell from behind the scenes, last Wednesday night's Lions Varieties was

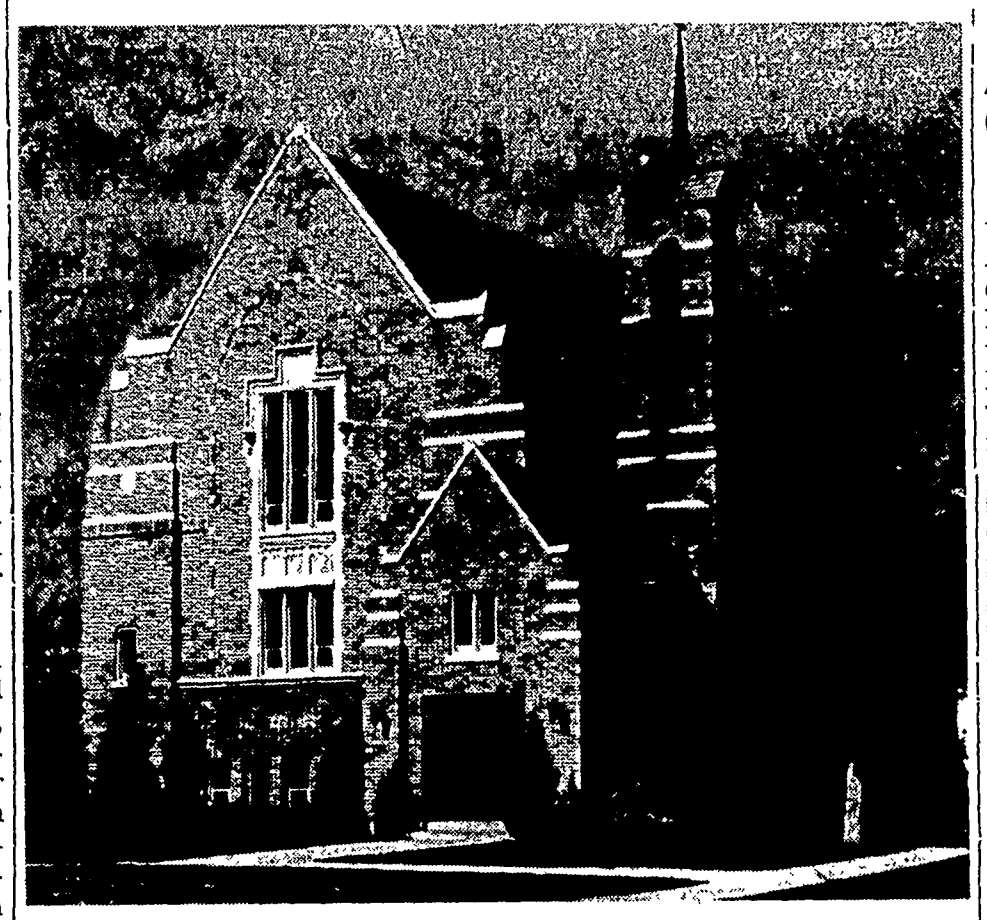
Methodist Church Has Been in Use 25 Years



Methodism's first religious service in Hancock County, Iowa, was held in the Sebastian Ell farm home, by a German-American circuit-rider, Rev. William Koerner, in 1871. Rev. Henry Kaste held German services in Klemme proper, in 1889, the year the town was platted. On February 15, 1892, a German Methodist congregation was organized, and, under the leadership of Rev. F. H. Wellemeyer, a church was built in 1893.

English Methodism had its first meeting in Klemme, in 1890, through the efforts of two lay-women, Mrs Amanda Kirkwood and Mrs Myra Peitzeke. A church building was begun in 1894, under the direction of Rev. Charles Plummer, and was completel and dedicated in 1895, during the pastorate of Rev. C. E. Anderson. An English Methodist congregation was incorporated on April 2nd of that year.

The two congregations carried on separate ministries until 1923, when under the pastorate of Rev. A. W. Gauger, they were merged to form the present Klemme Methodist Church organization. Worship services were held for seven years in the German Church while the English Church served as the Parish House.

The present impressive gothic structure was erected in 1930, on the site of the old English Church and Parsonage. It was dedicated on October 5th, of that year, during the ministry of Rev. Harry E. Whyte.

In 1941, under the pastorate of Rev. H. E. Harvey, the chimes were installed. In the same year, a special tower was built for the church bell - the bell originally was used in the German Methodist Church. Six years later, during the pastorate of Rev. E. M. Egeland, the electric organ was also added.

In the past 25 years, the Church has been served by the following ministers: J. L. Ralston, William Zabilka, H. E. Harvey, E. M. Egeland, and Melvin Miller, who is the present pastor.

Sunday October 16, 1955, We meet to celebrate the TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY of the new building, the 84th year of Methodism in our community. In a spirit of humility we breathe a prayer of thanksgiving to Almighty God for the riches of His grace, and the privilege of serving His kingdom. May we serve Him faithfully all the days of our life.

"Before I was born, my Church gave to my parents ideals of life and love that made my home a place of strength and beauty. My Church enriched my childhood with the romance and religion and the lessons of life that have been woven into the texture of my soul.

"When first my heart knew the strange awakening of love, my Church taught me to chasten and spiritualize my affections, sanctified my marriage and blessed my home. When my heart was seamed with sorrow, and I thought the sun could never shine again, my Church drew me to the Friend of all the weary and whispered to me the hope of another morning, eternal and tearless. When my steps have slipped and I have known the bitterness of sin, my Church has believed in me and wooingly called me back to live within the heights of myself.

"My Church calls me to her heart. She asks my service and my loyalty. She has a right to ask it! I will help her to do for others what she has done for me. In this place in which I live, I will help her keep aflame and aloft the torch of living faith."

well received. The gym was full and the laughter came loud and often. The sight of so many local "characters" being so far out of character apparently afforded much amusement.

The Lions go to considerable work to put on the annual event and having such a large crowd turn out to view the results of their efforts is gratifying. Then, too, most members of the club say that they rather enjoy participating in the show.

In any case, most comments heard since the show have been good, so apparently the crowd felt that they got their money's worth. In addition to the enjoyment derived from the show, they can have the added satisfaction of knowing that the money they spent for tickets will be used locally for some community betterment project.

Sunday was a beautiful fall day and people took advantage of it. Most folks had the feeling that it might be one of the last nice Sundays before winter sets in and they wanted to be outdoors enjoying mother nature's handiwork. We felt pretty much the same way and took a rather lengthy scenic drive.

On Saturday we took in the football game at Iowa City and saw the Hawkeyes dump the Hoosiers from Indiana, 20 to 6. That evening we drove on over to Moline, Illinois, and stayed overnight with our uncle and aunt, Mr and Mrs A V Eckerman. When we climbed out of the sack, Sunday morning, the day looked so perfect, that we decided to take a roundabout way home.

We drove out of Moline, following the Mississippi river for miles. We switched west on highway 20 east of Galena, Illinois, and there we saw our first large group enjoying the out doors. A large group of horsemen had gotten together and were enjoying a trailride through the hilly countryside. The highway runs along a high ridge for several miles there, and a better place for a fall trail ride would be hard to imagine. Of course, the horsemen weren't on the highway, but their course seemed to parallel ours, and their leisurely gait plus the colorful view, both near and distant, made us feel that we would have liked to have had the time to stop and enjoy the ride with them.

Just west of Galena, we switched back north again and continued in that direction as far as Boscobel, Wisconsin. Then we followed the Wisconsin River into Prairie du Chien. Then we crossed the Mississippi into Iowa. We drove up to Pike's Peak at McGregor, and the people were there in droves. Some were enjoying picnics, some were enjoying the majestic view to the river, and one large group was getting ready for a trail ride. the view from the river bluffs would make an ideal place for such recreation, and according to an item we saw in the Des Moines Register, Tuesday, 218 riders were there with their horses.

From McGregor we followed highway 18 to just east of Nashua. Then we cut across on the gravel, going by the Little Brown Church, through Nashua, Marble Rock, Rockwell, and on home. We got home just at dusk, and although we were tired, still we enjoyed the trip very much.

The amazing part of the trip was that we saw no crazy driving. With all the cars that were on the highway around Iowa City, and all the cars that were on the highway in the McGregor area, we saw nothing that looked to be very much out of line.

Whenever we get to thinking we're really smart and figure we've cooked up a lot of new things in this twentieth century, we ought to check off air-conditioning at least, as the bees on hot days line up at the entrance of the hive and turn on their motors full blast to air-condition the hive so the wax won't melt or the young hatching bees get hot and uncomfy.—Elmer Carlson, News-Guide.

Farming costs are not expected ot drop in the coming year, Francis A Kutish, Iowa State farm economist, predicts.

Prices paid by farmers for production items and for family living were about stable during the past year, showing a decline of only about 1 percent, Kutish reports.

Feed prices and costs of fertilizer and farm supplies dropped slightly; but seeds, wage rates, taxes and building and fencing materials and motor vehicles rose.

Looking ahead to 1956, Kutish expects that fertilizer prices probably will be a little lower in line with the trend of the past year. More high analysis material probably will be used.

He looks for slightly higher list prices for new machinery and farm supplies—in line with increases in the cost of steel and manufacturing labor rates. Meanwhile, farmers probably will reduce machinery purchases some during the coming year. The reason for this, according to Kutish, is that in the short run farmers' purchases are fairly closely related to current and prospective farm incomes. He looks for some further slippage in farm income next year.

Feed probably will carry a lower price tag in 1956—although not as much lower as seemed likely earlier in the summer before the drouth lowered the boom on the western Corn Belt, says Kutish. Feeder cattle prices are averaging about as high this fall as a year ago. Prices of hog breeding stock are expected to be 10 to 15 percent lower than a year ago due to lower market hog prices.

Meanwhile, property and real estate taxes are expected to be slightly higher, following the trend of recent years.

A man has tact who won't change his mind, but will change the subject.

Ten Reasons Why Worship Regularly

BECAUSE OF the example of our Lord, "He went as His custom was."

BECAUSE OF the scriptual exhortation that echoes across the centuries, "not forsaking our own assembling together as the custom of some is."

BECAUSE OF the uplift which comes through worship. Who is not conscious that his greatest need in these days is "A Presence which disturbs me with the joy of elevated thoughts.

BECAUSE OF the harmonizing of the soul with music of the spheres. Our age cries out for those who are "in the spirit on the Lord's Day."

BECAUSE OF the joys of Christian fellowship. "Behold, how pleasant and how good that we, one Lord confessing, together dwell in brotherhood our unity expressing."

BECAUSE OF courage and Christian optimism received. "I had fainted unless I had believed to see the goodnsss of the Lord in the land of the living."

BECAUSE OF the contribution that worship makes to the building of a peaceful world. "The rich and the poor meet together. The Lord is the maker of them all." World brotherhood can be realized only as it finds its source in our hearts, our homes, our communities, our nation.

BECAUSE OF the development of a sensitive conscience. It is when we see the "Lord high and lifted up" that we cry "Woe is me for I, am a man of unclean lips and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips."

BECAUSE OF the acquiring of a passion to serve. It is the love of God nourished in the sanctuary, which leads us to love our neighbor as our selves" and to serve in the name of Him "who came not to be ministered unto but to minister."

BECAUSE OF the fact that Christian worship ascribes to God. "Worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness" Our age needs to come to an appreciation of the glory and majesty of God."

Editorial of the Week

We have now started on our annuals. This year they are going to be bigger and better than ever before. The editors of the annual are Fred Arnold and Margaret Haefner. They have set up groups to work on different sections. We want to have the annual finished and ready to pass out by the time school is over rather than waiting until the next year.

We have something new this year. We will have a padded cover. We also want at least forty pages. Wednesday afternoon we are going to the surrounding towns to sell advertisements. Having forty pages means $400 worth of ads.

Next week we are going to start selling our annuals. We have little pins you get when you buy our annual. We only have one hundred of these pins so when they're gone, you are out of luck.

If you want an annual, be sure to get in touch with a senior.

Boys' Sports

Klemme ended their fall base ball season last Friday in an 8-8 deadlock with Sheffield. The game was called after the eighth inning because of darkness. Klemme collected 11 hits off two Sheffield pitchers but failed to get the runs home as they left 18 men stranded on the bases. Klemme had a total of 5 errors while Sheffield committed 4, This ended the season for Klemme with 2½ wins and 4½ loses.

In P T we have been learning the fundamentals of football and basketball and we have also been having some scrimages.

Last Saturday 5 Klemme runners went to Iowa City where they participated in the mile run. In the afternoon they watched the football game between the Iowa Hawkeyes and the Indiana Hoosiers.

Senior Class News

We finished the unit on Democracy in literature Monday by reading what Vannevar Bush had to say about future of democracy. Last week, we compared Abraham Lincoln's Second Inaugural Address to the Gettysburg Address according to literary style. We found them very much alike. Tuesday we had a test over the unit.

We haven't finished the oral reports on current events in American History, so more class time will be devoted to this activity. Following the textbooks, we began studying about the new Republican form of government and the serious problems that it was faced with in its early days.

We went through two chapters in bookkeeping this week. The first chapter was about the modern method of analyzing the trial balance and the last chapter dealt with the subject of closing the ledger. Most of the time we have been doing problems in our workbook which covers these last two chapters.

We have been moving along in sociology. This class' topics lead us into rousing discussions concerning matrimonial problems. We also typed everyone in our class as to whether they were introverts, extroverts or ambiverts.

We found out in general business that there are several ways for paying for things: bank drafts, cashier checks, certified checks, money orders, postal notes and registered checks. We are also studying about interest rates and how to spend money economically.

Problems in typing class have dealt with tabulators. Our subject is still to gain speed. For more practical purposes, we have making booklets for Mr Kirkpatrick concerning the Hancock County Teacher's Association..

Cackles from the Coop

This year we are trying a new set-up for band rehearsals.

Blue band, which includes everyone who scored above a certain number in the test, practices on Friday morning. White band, which consists of the first two-thirds of each section in the blue band, practices on Tuesday and Thursday mornings, and red band which consists of blue band members who are not in white band, practices on Monday and Wednesday mornings. If you can't understand it, don't feel bad, you aren't alone.

All the bands are working hard for an exchange concert with Ventura on November 14th and the Fall Concert on November 16th.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The first half-century of traffic deaths ended last month in Iowa with an unofficial tally of 17,000 victims of the man behind the wheel.

Something else happened during those 50 years that is almost as appalling as the list of dead. Somewhere along that bloody line a lot of people began to feel that nothing much could be done to stop the slaughter.

It is a belief that is seldom spoken, but it persists. Proof of an underlying hopelessness seems to be in the number of defunct safety organizations that litter the last 50 years. Most of them bloomed one season and died the next—if not sooner.

Service in a volunteer group has become a kind of civic gesture—an expression of a desire that traffic deaths be stopped rather than an expression of belief that the job actually can be accomplished.

This is understandable, considering the problem. The traffic death usually occurs in the mind and reactions of an isolated man moving at high speed. How can the safety organization reach this man and save him at the critical moment?

If we haven't found a way, possibly it is because we don't really believe there is a way. At the same time, however, the limited traffic safety funds and measures we allow the state apparently have held the traffic death rate stationary during the past several years, despite a tremendous increase in traffic and travel.

But the question remains, do we really believe we can stop traffic deaths? If we don't think so, the next 50 years in Iowa, at our present rate, will see 30,000 killed and 1,000,000 injured in some 2,500,000 traffic accidents.

Speech and Hearing Program for Some Pupils In County

It is expected that each third, sixth, and ninth grade pupils in the public schools of Hancock County will participate in the annual speech and hearing screening program which is to be conducted at Britt on October 14 and 17 and at Garner on October 18.

This program, which is part of the services offered by the Division of special Education, Department of Public Instruction, is being directed by Chas. S. Whitney, County Superintendent of Schools and Don Potter, Supervisor of Special Education. Directing the project in the local schools are Earl Miller, Britt, and Allen Stroh, Garner, Superintendents.

In addition to testing each third, sixth, and ninth grade students for hearing, all referrals will be checked. These referrals will include students who appear to have a possible hearing loss, those who have suffered during the past year from diseases which affect the ear, and those students who were indicated for retest last year. All third graders and any referrals will be given a speech test.

A careful "follow-up" program will be administered about a month from now. Each child who did not pass the hearing or speech test adequately on screening will again be thoroughly examined and parents and teachers will be contacted.

The tests, both on the survey and follow-up, will be administered by a graduate speech therapist and hearing technician. Personnel of the rough screening team will be Dale Bingham of the State Department; Miss Marcia Mitchell, the County Health Nurse; and the Special Education Staff, Don Potter and Eric Allen.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

COLLEGE FUNDS

During the next decade the state must appropriate $5,500,000 annually to provide capital improvements for the state's three institutions of higher education, University of Iowa, Iowa State College and Iowa State Teachers College.

This estimate was made by the state board of regents in its presentation to the special state tax study committee.

The board said that already the three major institutions are bulging at the seams with student enrollments already exceeding the anticipated totals for this year by several hundred. Iowa U and Iowa State have over 9,000 students each registered, and State Teachers has more than 3,000 in school now.

The regents urged the lifting of the pay-as-you-go program, and proposed instead that a borrowing plan be approved so they can undertake an immediate long-range capital improvement program.

The board said that by 1970 the three institutions expect more than 38,500 students compared to the present 21,000 or more.

TAXES ARE DUE

About 46,000 Iowans were notified earlier this month that their second-half payments of state income taxes are due October 31.

The notices went to those who paid the first-half of their total bill by the April 30 deadline but postponed the final check-writing until this month.

The installment plan of payment is available to Iowans whose state income tax bill was more than $10. Next year, however, the tax will have to total more $50 before the taxpayer can split the payments in two.

OLD AGE GRANTS

Iowa's old age assistance grants will be increased by $6.50 a month beginning in December.

The state board of social welfare said the increase will go to each of the approximately 5,700 old-age assistance recipients receiving care in nursing homes.

An increase of $1.50 a month will be given to the other 35,000 on the old-age assistance rolls.

Main purpose of the increase is to meet increasing costs of nursing home care and provide better care for cases in such homes.

ASKS MORE FUNDS

The Iowa State Education Association, an organization of nearly all teachers in the state, has asked the state tax study committee for an increase in state income tax rates and a reduction in agriculture land tax credits to help raise a total of nearly $60,000,000 a year for state aid to schools.

The ISEA also urged a uniform 15-mill county school tax and creation of an equalization fund in each of the 99 counties; full payment of state aid under existing formulas and creation of a new "standard school aid".

IOWAN HONORED

Percy A. Lainson of Fort Madison has another title.

Most folks know Lainson as Warden of the Iowa state prison at Fort Madison. Now he's wearing a new title—warden of the year.

He was cited just recently for his "outstanding services as a warden for the past year", the first ever to receive the honor.

It was tendered by prison wardens of the nation at their recent annual meeting at the Congress of Correction convention in Des Moines.

The ward will be made annually hereafter.

ITS OBVIOUS

U.S. Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper is back in Iowa, plans to be here for sometime. He's already launched himself on a series of speaking programs around the state.

In the statehouse the other day a reporter asked him if he intends to seek reelection next year.

The senator declared:

"That's pretty obvious isn't it?"

SOME SLOGAN

The state board of regents, who feel they sometimes have a difficult time weaning sufficient funds out of state legislators, didn't know quite how to take a sign in front of the chairman of the legislative tax study committee the other day.

The regents appeared before the committee to explain future planning for the colleges and universities.

The sign, in front of Tax Committee Chairman X T Prentis said:

"My mind is made up so don't confuse me with the facts."

The regents, it may be said, are fearless folks. In the face of such words, they went right ahead with their 23-page factual report to the committee.

THE OTHER HALF

Half the pupils in Iowa attend 120 high schools.

There are 811 high schools in Iowa, and 3,331 other districts with schools that teach only through the eighth grade, or have no school whatsoever.

These figures were presented to the state tax study group by J C Wright, state superintendent of public instruction. Said Wright:

"It is hardly conceivable that it is necessary to maintain 4,022 districts to educate the other half of the children in Iowa".

Wright assailed the state's "unsound" school finance policy but did not make specific recomendations either on taxes or state aid.

FAVOR EXEMPTIONS

The Iowa Supervisors association has reported to the state tax committee it opposes any plans for elimination of the homestead and veterans tax exemptions; opposes any additional taxes at the local level, and is against any form of county-manager government.

The association membership comprises members of boards of supervisors in 99 counties.

The group asked allocatoion of additional road use tax money to the county boards.

BIG JOB

About $710-million should be spent to correct present critical deficiences in the primary road system, Chairman Russell Lundy of the highway commission reports.

He said it is obvious that highway finance, in its present volume, will be required for at least 15 to 16 years.

He declared that 15 years is about the shortest time in which the presently needed widening and rebuilding can be done.

ROAD PROJECTS

The Iowa highway commission has tentatively approved projects for 1956 lettings for surfacing materials on new construction, relocation and on improvementts on present roads.

The surfacing contracts, which will be let in 1956, will include both asphaltic concrete and Portland cement. The commission said it is using every sack of Portland cement it can obtain for the highway program. It has been promised about 1,900,000 barrels for 1956.

The projects approved, in all sections of the state, include 78 miles of asphaltic concrete surfacing 22 and 24 feet wide; 142 miles of Portland cement surfacing 22 and 24 feet wide, and 43 miles of Portland cement surfacing on highways more than 24 feet wide.

Retarded Children Ass'n Fund Drive Will Be Thru Community Chest

The National Association for Retarded Children will conduct a nationwide fund drive during National Retarded Children's Week from November 13 to 23, in order to continue and expand its work in behalf of the mentally retarded people of the United States. Funds received during the drive will be used to continue research into causes and prevention of mental retardation and will be used to provide better facilities for the care of the mentally handicapped, whether in the institutions or in the community.

The National Association for Retarded Children announced recently that Jack Benny of radio, screen and television fame is to serve as the national fund drive chairman.

The Iowa Association for Retarded Children and the local affiliated groups, working for the estimated 26,000 retarded people of all ages in the State of Iowa, are now organizing for participation during National Retarded Children's Week.

The group in this area, the Council for Retarded Children of Hancock and Winnebago Counties, is planning a house to house drive in Winnebago County with Mr B L Nerby of Lake Mills as county chairman. Volunteers are now being organized to conduct the house to house solicitations.

Hancock County will be canvassed through the Community Chest and plans are being made to canvass individual townships not included in the Community Chest.

A successful fund drive will enable the Council for Retarded Children of Hancock and Winnebago Counties to continue financial support of two classrooms now being operated for mentally handicapped children in Winnebago County, as well as to begin additional programs planned in behalf of retarded children.

Farm Bureau Annual Meeting October 17

WHAT NEXT

We've heard about kids putting sand, gravel and various other items into gas tanks but some pranksters at Madrid added a new twist the other day. They slipped a balloon into the gas tank of a school bus. The bus got part way over its route and conked out. Mechanics sweated long and hard before finding the source of the trouble. The balloon, sucked from the gas tank, lodged but good in the bus' fuel pump.

IOWA PELICANS

Mrs Elbert Clark of Lake Park, in Dickinson county, was surprised recently when she saw several flocks of pelicans flying in the vicinity. Mrs Clark said they were a beautiful sight as they winged around the farm before heading off for parts unknown.

AUTO USES BOTTLE GAS

Albert Pokorney of Decorah has converted his auto so he can use bottle gas for fuel. It cost him about $300 but he'll save it in fuel costs he believes. He claims be gets more mileage per gallon, changes oil every 10,000 miles instead of 2,000 and that the motor generally is cleaner.

From less than a pound of coal

Today's Marvelous Steam Powered Electric Power Plants produce...

"IT TOOK 1.82 POUNDS TO MAKE A KILOWATT HOUR IN 1927" enough electricity to keep this 100 watt lamp burning for ten hours

During 1955 the utility industry country-wide has averaged less than a pound of coal per kilowatt-hour of electricity. No wonder Reddy's proud! Because, in 1927, it took nearly two pounds of coal to do the same job. That's what technical "know-how" has achieved. And it proves that coal is still our primary source for electric power and that we can depend on modern science to give us "plenty of power."

WE HAVE SEEN what modern science is doing to bring MORE AND MORE electric power to our homes, farms and businesses — and at the same time use LESS AND LESS of the coal vital to its production. And, as science accomplishes this tremendous task, it achieves another great piece of work — that of delivering that power at a BARGAIN rate.

What is "Low Cost" Power?

If you will look at the "Cost of Living Index" you will see that it has steadily gone up. But there's one commodity that has gone down. That's the average kilowatt hours cost of household electricity. It's gone down while other prices have zoomed. That makes the cost of electricity about the only bright spot in the household budget!

Science or Politics—Which?

Politicians have talked a lot about lower prices. But meantime the scientists have gone quietly ahead — experimenting, testing, working things out. They've drastically cut down the quantity need of fuel — coal — the primary source of power. And so it is possible for your power companies to do a better job for less cost — boosting production, expanding and spreading costs —in the typical American way.

The Pace of Progress Quickens

Without using one penny of tax money, the electric light and power companies of Iowa are building plants, facilities and equipment to keep ahead of our constantly increasing demand for more electric power at the lowest possible price. It is our aim to give you moderately-priced, dependable power, based on scientific progress and good management — and always showing a friendly interest in your needs.

Swelling Farm Income By $250,000,000

Iowa's farm income receives a growing benefit from America's great brewing industry.

At a conservative estimate, brewers last year paid out over $250,000,000 for farm products used in the making of beer and ale. This included our Iowa corn, soybeans, wheat, barley, and other grains. In addition, approximately one-third of the grains used by the brewing industry, later return to the farms as protein-rich cattle feed.

Yes, the brewing industry is an important customer of the Iowa farmer . . . and a vital element in our economic scheme of things.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Tuesday's Iowa Supreme Court decision, reversing and remanding the decision of the District Court as regards the validity of the Klemme Community School District, comes as a "low blow" to proponents of the district, and no doubt puts a feather in the cap of Harvey Harberts and those who sided with him in his seeming attempt to make trouble for the recently organized district. Just how much trouble they have succeeded in stirring up is not yet known for sure, but should be in the near future.

According to the Supreme Court's decision, they are legally within their rights in what they have done, so whatever action proves necessary in view of the ruling, will have to be taken.

Many people have confessed to being in somewhat of a quandary as to what school district is the choice of Mr Harberts since according to word of county officials, he asked a public hearings to be set out of both the Belmond and Klemme districts at the time they were being organized.

We have a feeling that the town election coming on November 8th will have a little more excitement than what appears on the surface at present. Only one complete ticket has been filed and one man has filed as an independent for the council. However, we have heard some mutterings up and down the street that lead us to believe that some surprises may be in store..

Try to keep an open hand as well as an open mind. If you go through life with a clenched fist, nobody can put anything in it. The same goes for your mind.—Marvin E Brown, Ellsworth News.

Klemme school children got an unexpected and welcome vacation Monday and Tuesday. The water pipe that broke and flooded the furnace room was nothing but a lot of work and a headache for school officials; plus the thought that the time would have to be made up in the future. Kids, though, felt like kids have always felt about anything that made it possible for them to be unexpectedly able to miss school. They were excited and happy at having a couple of days to do with pretty much as they pleased.

"Shonty" Ausborn recently brought us an egg that would be just the stuff for Easter time. The egg, laid by one of "Shorty's" hens, has a smooth shell like a normal egg except for the large end, which looks as though someone had decorated it in the same manner as cake icings are decorated.

Now, if "Shorty" can just teach the old gal to color the decorations, he'll have a really marketable product.

Speaking of eggs, we would like to thank the "good egg" 'who stopped long enough to let us get out of a parking lot and into a long line of traffic after the football game at Iowa City a couple of weeks ago. We don't know who he was, but we appreciated his courtesy.

Iowa Supreme Court Reverses Decision On Klemme School

Dr. Soper to Speak at County Reformation Day Service October 30th

The Annual Hancock County Reformation Day Service will be held at the Memorial Building in Garner on Sunday, October 30 at 8:00 P. M. The guest speaker for this annual event needs no introduction to the people of the Klemme community, having spoken at the Reformation Day Service held here in October 1951 and conducting a Preaching Mission here at the Methodist and Evangelical and Reformed Churches in the spring of 1952.

Dr. David Wesley Soper is Professor and Chairman of the Dept. of Religion at Beloit College, Beloit, Wisconsin. He has just returned to our country from eighteen months as lecturer on Contemporary American Theology in Oxford University, England.

DR. DAVID WESLEY SOPER

During the past year, Dr Soper has served as pastor of the Congregational Church in Bandbury, England. For ten years he has been a lecturer on Contemporary Christian Thought in Summmer Pastors Schools of the Methodist and Evangelical and Reformed Denominations. The Reformation Day speaker is the author of many books among which are "Major Voices in American Theology", "Highways to Faith and Men who Shape Belief." Dr Soper will speak on the subject: "Between Two Fires."

The special music for this service will be provided by a county youth choir. This group will meet at the Memorial Building at 4:00 P. M. on October 30th for rehearsal and an afternoon of fellowship.

A cordial invitation is extened to the Klemme Community and to the people of Hancock County to attend this annual Reformation Day Service.

Scouts Glean Corn

Klemme boy scouts went into the corn fields of Dwight Helps, recently and picked up corn that was missed by the picker. Tuesday, they performed the same operation in the fields of Everett Guth. The scouts normally get to keep half of the corn they pick up and the money from the sale of the grain goes into the local scout treasury.

The scouts are going to attempt to raise more money for their treasury soon by having a pancake supper for the public. Details as to time, place, etc., will appear in a later issue of The Times.

110 Attend Education Ass'n Banquet Here

One hundred and ten school men and women, members of the Hancock County Education Association, attended a banquet here Tuesday evening. The banquet which was to have been held in the high school gymnasium, had to be held in the basement of the Methodist Church because of the repair work still going on at the school as a result of the broken water pipe. The broken pipe flooded the furnace room and put all of the heating equipment in the building out of order.

The ladies of the Methodist WSCS prepared and served the banquet dinner, and Ernie Gerardi entertained on the accordion throughout the meal.

Sam Kataldo of Britt, president of the association, introduced the chairmen of various committees, including E F Kirkpatrick, chairman of the program committee. Kirkpatrick in turn introduced the various numbers on the program. The program inculded group singing led by Mr Hall, music instructor at Britt; a saxophone solo by Joyce Lassahn; a vocal selection by a girls' sextet, composed of members of the freshman class; a skit entitled, "The Decision is Yours" by a group of teachers; and vocal solos by Mr Hall.

Main speaker for the evening was Mrs Grace McCullough, 4th grade teacher from Mason City who is president of the Classroom Teacher's Association of Iowa.

Former Klemme Resident Wins Second Place In Canning Contest

Mrs Herold Ridder of Nora Spring, Iowa, won second place over all in the Open Class Canning Contest at the Waterloo Dairy Cattle Congress.

Mrs John Goseke of Marshalltown placed first and Mrs Ridder second in a field of more than forty entrants.

The most coveted prize of all was a display of 10 jars of fruits and vegetables The first prize for this was $10.00 which was to be given to some church or civic project. Mrs Ridder won this prize along with her others. This money was designated by her to go to the Live Nativity Scene of the four cooperating Churches in Nora Springs of which Mrs Ridder is co-chairman.

This live Nativity Scene will be shown in Nora Springs near Christmas time. The exact dates have not been set as yet. There will be several showings and it will be open to the public at no charge. The young people of the four churches in Nora Springs will depict the leading roles.

Mrs Ridder is the former Mabel Schaefer of this community.

Makes TV Appearance

Gary Hummel, son of Mr and Mrs Hugh Hummel, won a coveted prize for coloring a picture. His picture was judged the best out of many entries, and as a reward, he appeared on KGLO TV Tuesday afternoon during the Bob Cavanaugh show. What made the appearance so desirable to the youngster was the fact that Gene Autry was also on the show.

25th Anniversary Observance at Local Church Held Sunday

The observance of the 25th anniversary of the new Klemme Methodist Church building was held last Sunday, with a large crowd on hand for most of the day.

After the morning services, a pot luck dinner was held in the church basement. Services were again held in the afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock.

Rev Harry E Whyte of Algona, who was pastor here when the present church building was erected gave the morning sermon. Dr. William Zabilka, who was also pastor here for a number of years, gave the afternoon sermon.

Also appearing during the afternoon services were E J Arnold, who was chairman of the building committee when the church was built, and Rev E Morris Egeland of Sac City, who was minister here just previous to Rev Miller, present pastor.

Ulrich Is One Of 100 Certified Sewage Plant Operators In State

Congratulations to Mr Richard Ulrich of the Klemme sewage treatment plant. He has recently been certified by the Iowa Sewage Works Association's Voluntary Certification Committee as a qualified Grade III sewage plant operator, having met all the qualifications (and passed the written examination) as required by the Association.

This community should feel proud to have a man sufficiently interested in his work to voluntarily qualify for certification in the Association's program.

We sincerely trust that Mr Ulrich will continue his active interest in improving his knowledge and skill of sewage treatment and sewage plant operation.

Mr Ulrich is now one of 100 sewage works men in the State of Iowa certified to operate the municipal and industrial waste treatment plants.

County Attorney Not Yet Certain As to Affect On District

The Iowa Supreme Court, Tuesday, handed down a number of decisions including a reversal of a decision made by the District Court as to the validity of the Klemme Community School District. The lower court had ruled that even though there were poorly written laws in affect at the time of the reorganization, still procedures followed in the reorganization of the local district were legal.

The Supreme Court, however, reversed this decision due to what they called a jurisdictional defect. They ruled that since Belmond had already begun reorganization of certain territories, it was then improper for Klemme to include these territories in its proposed district.

County Attorney G W Templeton said this morning (Wednesday) that he had not yet received a copy of the Supreme Court's decision, as he couldn't tell as yet whether the ruling would invalidate the whole district or only the section and a half of disputed territory.

The Supreme Count took the case from the District Court on a petition for review by Harvey Harberts and several other residents of Twin Lake and Avery Townships. The petitioners questioned the validity of the Klemme district, organized under a 1953 law.

Broken Water Pipe Closes School 2 Days

A broken water pipe at the high school basement caused school to be closed here Monday and Tuesday. The pipe, which leads into the furnace room from the north side of the building, broke Saturday morning, and before the break was discovered about five and a half feet of water flooded the furnace room.

All the motors and controls in the furnace room were under water so that they were wet and full of sand. They all had to be taken apart, cleaned up and put back in running order. The motors were all back in condition by Monday night, but the electronic controls for the furnace were still not working.

The control box was taken to Des Moines, Tuesday for repairs, but examination showed that the bes action would be to purchase a new unit. The new unit was installed Tuesday, and today (Wednesday), school was again in session.

Enjoys Furlough

Gerald Kastler, son of Mrs Maxine Kastler, enjoyed an 11-day furlough recently with his mother and with his sister, Mrs Verne Batcheller of Webster City. On Sunday, October 9th, a family gathering in his honor was held at the Batcheller home.

Gerald drove back to Fort Eustis, Virginia where he is stationed in the Transportation Corps, making the 1500 mile trip in two days.

He was happy to see Iowa and his friends and relatives again, and told of many interesting things he has seen. He visited Washington, D C, on July 4th, Fort Eustis being only some 150 miles from there. He often visits Richmond, Virginia and Norfolk, both cities being within easy weekending distance of camp.

● RANDOM THOUGHTS

A little later we had a chance to even things up a little by giving another fellow the same break. He was so surprised that he could hardly believe that we were motioning him into the traffic. He had to look twice before he could realize what was going on, get his car in motion, and get out into the street.

We think it's rather a sad commentary on the driving habits of the public when such a small courtesy brings such a reaction. We gave the same courtesy to a man at the intersection of highways 69 and 20 at Blairsburg one time and his reaction was the same . . . surprise and then quick action. Almost as though he wanted to take advantage of the moment before we changed our mind.

These little courtesies while driving, cost nothing to the donor, leave him with sort of a good feeling, and save the beneficiary a lot of aggravating waiting. Try it some time.

Senior Class News

We have completed the basic fundamentals of bookkeeping, and we are now doing projects in our workbooks. In these projects we are working on the entire bookkeeping cycle. We also had a test over the two previous chapters.

In history we have finished the chapter of "The Federalists Making a Going Concern of the New Governmnt". After finishing the chapter, we wrote out questions and discussed them in class. Thursday, we each wrote a report on various points of interest in Washington, D. C. After giving our reports in front of the class, we saw slides of Washington, D. C.

In Business Training we have been learning how to keep records and budgets. We have been doing several problems in our workbooks.

Most of our typing classes this week have been spent in typing booklets for Mr Kirkpatrick and typing tickets for the Junior Class play.

We have opened a new chapter in literature entitled, "The Pursuit of Happiness". We have been reading stories by Mark Twain and Clarence Day. Mark Twain told of his boyhood days on the farm and Clarence Day told of his childhood in the city. We discussed the entirely different type of childhood that each boy led.

In sociology we have been been discussing how to prepare for marriage. We also had a movie on the social behavior fo a business man.

His pet peeves are students with indifferent attitudes who are not willing to learn.

His most embarrassing moments are everytime he works a problem wrong in front of his class.

In the future Mr Andreae would like to do more work towards a Masters Degree.

Jokes

Two GI's were surveying the damage after a three day pass. "How," asked one, "Did you get that black eye?"

Replied his buddy, "I was hit by a guided muscle."

Granny was reminding her granddaughter to wash her hands before going to school.

"Oh, that isn't necessary," the tot reassured her, "I'm not one of those kids who's always raising her hand in class."

"Mother, you know that dirty ring I had around my neck?"

"I certainly do."

"It's around the bathtub now."

Ann: "What is the definition of the word dieting?"

Andy: "The triumph of mind over platter."

Question of the Week

Work is starting on the annual. We would like to know how you think the annual can be improved over previous years.

Roger Olson: I think it's alright the way it is.

LaVohn Josten: I think there should be more snapshots of initiation and other parties.

Paul Gilpin: I think there should be more pictures of the basketball games and track meets.

Raymond Helps: There should be some pictures of things happening at noon and out of school.

Martin Brinkman: I think it is alright.

Winola Zwald: There could be more snapshots. Otherwise it is alright.

Margaret Haefner: I think there should be more activity pictures of the various music groups, parties athletics, etc.

Ione Rosendahl: I think there should be more activity pictures, too.

Miss Beardsley: It seems to me more pictures of informal activities would make the year book more of a treasure in later years.

Denny Haefner: More pictures of the faculty when they were young and more activity pictures of basketball games, etc.

Don Kramer: More pictures.

Roger Bachman: More pictures of the seniors throughout their school years and interviews of the seniors.

JoEllen Clabaugh: I think they ought to have more pictures of sports and also pictures of students and teachers in their younger days.

Cackles from the Coop

This week we will try to give you an idea of what the rotating period does to the vocal music schedule.

When the activity period falls on the first or third periods, we have mixed chorus, when it falls on the sceond period, we have boys glee club, when it falls on the fourth period, we have girls glee club, and when it falls on the fifth or sixth periods we have small groups.

In mixed chorus we have been trying to memorize the songs that we will sing for the concert. We have met with little success.

That's all until next week .

Girls' Sports

This week we have been learning a few of the fundamentals of golf. Mr Westberg brought his golf set to school and has been explaining the difference between the wooden clubs and the iron clubs. He has also taught us how to play the game.

There are four wooden clubs: No. 1, which is the driver; No. 2, which is the brassie; No. 3, which is the spoon; and No. 4, which is called the No. 4 wood. There are also about 12 iron clubs. Besides the clubs there is a tee, which is placed in the ground to hold the golf ball. We have been practicing with perforated balls so they won't go so far.

In golfing, there are two types of scoring, a match play and a medal play. In match play you try to match the opponents score and in medal play, the winner is the person with highest score after adding the number of holes they play. Mr Westberg has also given us a sheet of paper with different words known to golf, for us to study. These are some of the basic parts of golf. To my knowledge, the only way to become an experienced golfer is to get a ball and a club and swing. You may miss the first time, but try, try again.

Editorial of the Week

Confidence is one quality which everyone should have, but most people lack. You know, of course, what confidence is. It's what would stop you from shaking when you have to get up in front of a group of people. Every one simply hates to get up in front of anyone for any good reason at all. No matter where it is, in class, in church, in group organization, if you're asked to arise and say a few words, you get that same old feeling.

"Oh, if I could only run and hide". This urge is caused by the adrenal glands functioning in the body.. During the time when our world was slightly uncivilized, these gave the people that extra spirit of energy to run from the monster that was chasing them. Although our civilization no longer has those monsters, the human race still have their adrenal glands. Our civilzation has improved, but our body has not yet adapted itself to this high civilization. In due time this power of the human body may be overcome but until then we will continue to battle this element when we arise "to say a few words".

Nervousness is always there. I don't think anyone can do anything in front of a group without a slight twinge of nervousness. But if you build up confidence in yourself and tell yourself, "Well, I can do that", or "I'll at least try my best," your performance won't seem half so hard. Enjoy yourself. If you get up and think, "I'm going to have the time the time of my life and try to make the people I'm talking to enjoy what I'm saying or doing," you will soon forget all about your nervous twinges and actually will enjoy yourself. Eventually this will build up your confidence in yourself. One thing is certain, you'll never gain confidence to do the things you want to unless you get up and try to do things. This is one thing you'll gain only through experience, so the next time someone asks you to do something, don't say, "No, I can't." Say, "Yes. There's no time like the present to start learning."

LOTS OF HEALTH

At least one apple tree is doing its best to "keep the doctor away" if one believes that old saying about the health-giving qualities of the fruit. At Manilla, an apple tree on the Claude Conrad place is doing right by its owner. The tree had produced its second crop of apples this season.

"261"

Three sisters who attended a family reunion at Redfield recently had a total age of 261 years. There were Mrs Clara Huffs, 83, of Rockwell City; Mrs Etta Noel, 93, of Newton, and Mrs Hale Litchkey, 85, of Denison. They're the last of a family of nine children.

This and That Around K. H. S. . . .

What were Leila, June, Fonda and Lois doing Saturday night? It seems they were doing something to annoy the Belmond cop. Right girls?

Why does June always want to go to Belmond Could it be that she is looking for Larrry M?

Who is this Kanawha girl who is mad at Lois? I guess Lois went with Lester L. Better watch it, Lois.

Dorothy K and Dean P are getting to be a pretty steady pair. Are we right about this?

Who were these guys that Winola, Ruth and Marcia are always talking about. Would you care to tell us girls? We think you are talking about Calvin J and Butch B. Are we right girls?

Who was Leila writing to the other day in study hall? Could it be a boy from Allison?

There seems to be a new romance blooming around Klemme High, Larry Wessels and Coleen G. What about this kids?

Who was this guy that Berleen was with Saturday night? Could it be Gordon M? Let us in on it Berleen.

Fonda is really living it up in sociology class, huh, Fonda?

What was so funny in Hull's Cafe Wednesday night, Jo and Winola? (Waitress)

Nancy C has been seen making eyes at a certain M B. (New love?)

We haven't heard much about Ione and Gord lately, but I guess they haven't been doing anything to make any news.

Who did Larry W have a date date with Friday night after the seniors had their pictures taken? (So that's why you are always going to Belmond.)

I wonder who Dave was with last Sunday night at the show in Garner? It couldn't have been Marie Meyers again, could it?

Who is Lee Gruis going out to see west of Klemme? It isn't Winola Zwald, is it?

What boy is Leila A continually after?

Who has Gracka been going with after junior play practice lately? Could it be John Dates?

HIT BY SCOOP

Harley Chumbley of Osceola is recovering, after being hit by a scoop at the end of a crane, which got out of control. His chest was injured, and he was unconscious for half an hour.

Arrange your schedule now to include this meeting and enjoy afternoon tea, served by ladies of the new Wesley unit. This group was organized just during the past week and we welcome these seventeen members into the Auxiliary.

Fifteen cows in the Hancock Co-op D H I A completed lactations of over 400 pounds of butterfat during the month of September, 1955.

Top producing cow was a grade Guernsey belonging to John W Fox of Britt, which made 501 pounds of butterfat and 9,380 pounds of milk in 305 days. Second highest lactation completed during the month was a registered Holstein of Everett Sheets of Britt which made 500 pounds of butterfat and 14,240 pounds of milk in 303 days. Third highest lactation record was made by a grade Holstein belonging to Myrlen Olson of Britt which made 469 pounds of buttterfat and 13,030 pounds of milk in 305 days.

The average production for the 21 herds on regular D H I A testing was 704 pounds of milk and 26.4 pounds of butterfat per cow. There were 338 cows on test of which 89 were dry. Nine cows were removed during the month, 4 for reasons of health, 4 were sold for dairy purposes and 1 was sold because of low production.

You have up to 40 years to pay . . . yet, you can pay off the loan in full from your income without penalty. You are a member not just a borrower. You deal with your friends and neighbors.

The Federal Land Bank has only one primary purpose — to help its members achieve debt-free home-ownership. Come in and talk it over.

2 things you should know about cattle feeds with Stilbestrol

Research points to Stilbestrol as a powerful and practical ingredient for cattle feeds. But here are two facts to remember.

1. Stilbestrol makes the quality of other feed ingredients even more important.

2. Stilbestrol calls for skilled, dependable mixing to give maximum results.

These are two good reasons why new Larro SureCattle 32 with Stilbestrol will deliver more for your money in terms of results.

It supplies a scientific blend of top-quality proteins, minerals and vitamins that help deliver top results with Stilbestrol. Because SureCattle 32 is highly fortified only 1½ lbs. need be fed to provide the required level of Stilbestrol per animal per day.

And Larro's skilled mixing and modern equipment assure uniform distribution of Stilbestrol throughout every bag of new SureCattle 32.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Looks as though the Klemme Community School District, as such, is now defunct. That means an awful lot of hard work has gone down the drain. It also means that by the time we get around to completing reorganization procceses again, we will be some two years behind schedule.

How soon the work of reorganization can begin depends upon how soon a lot of legal red tape can be unsnarled. Would be nice if the tape could just be cut, but the law of our land is a stickler for complete untangling.

The one redeeming feature in the whole fracas, as far as we can see, is that the school students are not affected. They keep right on going to school as though there was no litigation . . . and that's as it should be.

After all, the school is for their benefit, and through proper education for them, we help to insure the future of our country.

The bad part about this affair is that any improvements in the cirriculum, plant, etc., will have to wait until everything is cleared up and legally untangled. Too bad!

Be careful of your thoughts. They may break into words at any minute.—B D Merriman, Clear Lake Mirror-Reporter.

Lions president R C "Bob" Andreae is responsible for the next few paragraphs in our column. The Lions are holding a "Bag of Bulbs" sale, and Bob lets you know why he thinks everyone, including bulb purchasers, get a good deal from this sale.

Would you like to contribute to a worthy cause and at the same time receive something to be used at bargain prices? That is what the Klemme Lions Club is offering in its "Bags of Bulbs" campaign.

The purpose of this money raising is to supply funds for the Iowa State Eye Bank, which places healthy eyes in those who are blind, money to buy Leader Dogs for the blind, and the purchasing of glasses for needy children in the Klemme area. All will agree that these three are very worthwhile charities. Last year Iowa Lions Clubs raised over $25,000 to support these causes.

The Klemme Lions Club plans to get the contributions in the following manner. Wednesday evening, November 2nd, starting at 7:30 P. M., club members will go from door to door selling "Bags of Bulbs". Each bag will contain 4-60 watt, 2-75 watt, and 4-100 watt light bulbs. This would be an amount worth $2.50 but the Lions Club is selling them for $2.00 per bag. At this price, many will want more than one bag and there is no limit to the number you may purchase. Remember that you are getting a bargain and also contributing to a worthy cause.

Let's help the blind to see. Let's light up Klemme. If you have a

Locally, school musicians are practicing for the annual fall concert which is to be held on November 15th.

County Extension District Council Elections Set

The election meeting for members of the Hancock County Extension Council have been set up by the County Extension Council in each of the 16 townships in Hancock County. The terms of office starting January 1, 1956 have also been set by law. One half of the Council will be elected for 2 year terms and the other half for a one year term. The townships were numbered alphabetically and the even numbered townships will elect for 2 year terms and the odd numbered townships will elect for a 1 year term.

Court Action Invalidates Klemme School District

Will Mean Complete Reorganization

The Klemme Community School District is apparently a thing of of the past. The recent opinion handed down by the Iowa Supreme Court reversing an earlier District Court ruling, will in all probability make it necessary to go through all reorganization procedures again before Klemme can have a legally organized school district.

The school will continue to operate just as it is now, but the District Court will have to consider the opinion of the Supreme Court and then rule as to what will happen to the district insofar as taxes, etc., are concerned. Until the Court does rule on the district nothing can be done towards reorganization.

Local school authorities and proponents of the district are hoping for an early court decision so that work can get underway on legalizing the district.

The left arm of Harry Harms, 12-year-old son of Taas Harms of near Meservey, was torn off at the shoulder in an accident on a Cerro Gordo County road just north of Meservey, Sunday evening.

The accident occurred when the car in which young Harms was riding with his three older brothers stalled on the road. As the brothers were climbing out of their car, it was struck from the rear by a car driven by LeRoy Josten, son of Mr and Mrs August Josten of Klemme. Harry, who was sitting on the right side of the car was just getting out when the collision occurred. The Harms car was knocked about 148 feet from the point of impact.

Officials were unable to determine just how the boy was injured, but both he and Josten were taken to the Belmond Hospital. Josten had severe facial lacerations, but both patients are reported to be recovering.

Halloween is next Monday, and we would give a word of advice to those who would be pranksters. Nobody minds a joke that is fun and does no harm, but when you become destructive, you break the law just as bad on Halloween as though it were any other day of the year. Halloween gives no license for vandalism.

Near perfect fall weather has sent farm work along at an exceptionally fast pace. As a result, beans and corn in this area have all been harvested and most of the fall plowing has been done. Soil, which was most too hard to plow earlier, took on some moisture from needed rains and made plowing an easier chore. Farmers should be in good shape work-wise come spring.

Miss Josephine Ell of Panama, Nebraska, sent a check this week to renew her subscription for another year. Along with her check she wrote us a short note telling how much she enjoyed the paper.

She said from what we reported on the local weather that we must have been having about the same kind of year that they were having. She says they had more rain the latter part of September than they had all summer. Says the corn went about 10 bushels to the acre.

Miss Ell sends her regards to everyone and signs her letter as a "Constant Reader".

The Boy Scouts are planning a pancake supper for the evening of Tuesday, November 1st. The money that they take in will go into their local treasury and will go to further the cause of scouting in Klemme. No person connected with Scouts has come right out and said so, but we imagine that they would really appreciate your turning out for the event.

It's probably to your benefit to be there, too, since they are going to serve all the pancakes, sausage and coffee you can handle for just 50 cents. Good chance to find out who the local "chow hounds" are.

A well-placed monkey wrench can certainly mess up the gears, and people of this community have now had an opportunity to see a well-placed one. Oh well, if everyone agreed at all times with everyone else it yould certainly be a dull world.

GOP MEETINGS

A series of seven Republican organizational meetings will windup early next week, with the final three sessions scheduled at Cedar Rapids, October 21; Waverly, November 1, and Des Moines, November 2.

The meetings, Don Pierson, Republican state chairman said, are designed to give the county leaders an opportunity to take part in informal discussions and to hash out party problems, issues and the coming campaign.

The states two U S senators, congressional members, the governor, the national committeemen and state chairman and vice-chairman have been participating in the parleys.

Russell Lundy, state chairman of the Iowa highway commission, and Clinton Moyer, state commissioner of public safety are also on the programs.

LIQUOR LICENSES

Almost 1,000 federal retail liquor tax stamps have been issued in Iowa this year.

The purchase of the federal tax stamps have been in the face of opposition on the part of Atty. Gen. Dayton Countryman, who has taken the position that a possessor of one of the federal stamps is presumed to be violating state liquor laws.

The total number of stamps sold in the current fiscal year, Countryman reports, is 926.

IKE CAN'T RUN

Ed R Hicklin of Wapello, chairman of the Iowa Eisenhower-for-president campaign in 1952, and himself recuperating from a coronary thrombosis, has told newsmen that "the next president just cannot be Eisenhower."

Hicklin, who suffered a heart attack similar to that suffered by the president, said that the rigors of a second national campaign would be just too much to expect of a man recovering from such an attack.

Hicklin said: "I just love the man (Eisenhower) and have only the greatest admiration for him. I know from my own personal experience that he can recover from his heart ailment, but he will not b able to accomplish all the things he could before."

TAKES NEW JOB

Clarence Kading, first assistant attorney general, has taken over his new duties as supreme court statistician. The job created by the last legislature pays $8,000 a year, the same as district court judges.

TAX MEETINGS

The Iowa tax study committee plans a series of meetings in at least nine Iowa cities to permit citizens to appear before the committee to make recommendations on the state tax structure.

The committee, headed by State Sen. X T Prentis, Mt Ayr Republican, has been meeting all summer in its study of the entire state tax picture. It will make recommendations to the governor and the legislature.

The statewide series of meetings, Prentis said, will enable all Iowans to have an opportunity to present their likes and dislikes about state taxes to the committee.

PATROL LIEUTENANT

A new lieuenant in the Iowa highway patrol is Howard Wilkins, sergeant in charge of patrol activities in Cherokee, who has just been advanced from sergeant.

Wilkins, named by Safety Commissioner Moyer, is a native of Council Bluffs. He will be in charge of the patrol district which has its headquarters in Cedar Falls.

Wilkins is 48 years old, has been on the patrol since 1937.

WHAT'S HIS CHOICE?

Apparently William H Nicholas of Mason City, former lieutenant-governor of Iowa, is eyeing all of the political possibilities these days.

A few days ago he appeared at the secretary of state's office to determine whether he could use old nomination papers he'd had printed two years ago for the govenorship primary contest.

He wanted to know if it was alright to place the word "lieutenant ahead of governor already printed on the papers.

Nicholas played it coy with statehouse newsmen, however. He said he was interested in the lieutenant-governor race, but also indicated interest in congress, the state senate and governor.

ANNUAL SESSION

Gen Sarsfield, state comptroller, recommended to the Iowa legislative government reorganization committee, an annual legislature to handle appropriations matters on an annual basis rather than the present biennial plan.

Annual legislative sessions have been under discission, particularly in the Iowa house of representatives, in recent sessions. In the last session such a measure passed the house but died in a senate committee.

HITS PARLEY

While GOP governors recommended the department of agriculture adopt "short term emergency measures to restore to the farmer his fair share of national income," a former Iowa governor criticized their farm confab.

Dan Turner of Corning, former chief executive in this state, said he was dissatisfied with the results of the farm meeting. He declared the governors should have demanded that the federal government support farm products at 100 percent of parity.

He said that the "governor's conference revealed a lack of normal courage on the part of the state executives to face the issue."

GETS RESEARCH JOB

Clay Ringgenberg, 31, of Iowa City, has been named as the first director of the state legislative research bureau.

The new director will begin his new duties December 1 at a salary of $7,500 annually.

The legislative research bureau was authorized by the last session of the legislature. Chairman of the committee is State Sen William Stuart (R) of Charlton. State Rep Scott Swisher (D) of Iowa City is secretary.

NEW CONSTRUCTION

New construction projects have been approved by the state board of regents for the state institutions of higher education.

The board approved bids totaling $1,833,250 for construction of Linden Hall, a new women's dormitory at Iowa State College, Ames.

The state sanitorium at Oakdale was authorized to proceed with plans for a patient building addition, including kitchen, and dining facilities. The legislature appropriated $477,000 for the project. It will also uses $106,000 in federal funds for a rehabilitation unit.

The University of Iowa was also authorized to proceed with plans for a fourth wing of Burge Hall, a proposed new women's dormitory in which only three units were originally included. The three units would house 900 women.

Board officials will also ask the state budget committee for $52,500 for funds to complete the remodeling of the new armory at ISC.

Senior Interview

Our senior this week is Jo-Ellen Clabaugh. JoEllen is seventeen years of age, is five feet, two inches tall, has blonde hair and blue eyes.

Her favorites are:
Food: Steak, mashed potatoes and apple pie.
Show: "Battle Cry"
Actor: James Stewart
Actress: June Allyson
Song "I'll Never Stop Loving You" Band: Guy Lombardo
Singer: Webb Pierce
Saying: "Golly"
T V Program: "I Love Lucy"

JoEllen's hobby is collecting records and she spends most of her spare time listening to her collection. Her favorite sport is basketball in which she participated during her freshman and sophomore years. JoEllen is also a cheerleader for the varsity team. In the future she plans to be a teacher or a telephone operator and later on get married and raise a family. If anyone would like to know what Jo-Ellen's most embarrassing moment is, Mr Johnson and Mr Westberg can tell you about it.

Nobody ever gets anything for nothing, but a lot of people keep trying.

Question of the Week

How do you feel about the Iowa Supreme Court's decision concerning the illegalness of the Klemme School District and how will the decision affect you?

Marcia: I feel that its decision concerning this was correct. The only effect it could have on me is that I may be switched to the Belmond School.

Leila: I don't think it's right to come so far north. Kids are falling out of the windows now. I want to be able to stay in the room. Since I graduate this year it won't affect me too much, but it will others. I think Belmond should quit playing hog and take care of the students they have.

Denny: I think the whole thing is in the wrong. This person who filed the claim, ... have any business doing so. He hasn't a person in school or anyone coming up to go to school, and he may just as well pay tax to Klemme as Belmond. If he is seeking publicity, there are easier ways of doing so. Anyway, Belmond has more kids than they can handle.

Larry: I agree with Denny Haefner.

Ione: I don't know what he thinks, after all Belmond isn't the only town that needs a new school, and that is what he is working for. I would think now that they have Goodell High School and are giving them a new school they would be satisfied.

Jokes

Girl (at a soda fountain): I want a double banana split with whipped cream, marshmellows, and nuts on top.

Clerk: "Would you like a cherry on top, too?"

Girl: "Oh, No! I'm on a diet."

Professor: "I'd like a preparation of allye isathiocyanate."

Drug Clerk: "Do you mean mustard oil?"

Professor: "Yes, I never can think of that name."

Willy: "Is your new horse well trained?"

Nilly: "I'll say he is. He's so polite when he comes to a fence, he lets me go over first."

Cackles from the Coop

The bands, chorus, and glee clubs need all the practice they can get, so what happens? No school for two days. This hasn't helped those who are working on solos for All State Band tryouts at Spencer on the 22nd of October. Those who will try out are: Cozette Lau, Joyce Thieman Dorothy Kroehnke, Eva Thiemann, Joyce Lassahn, Virginia Kudje, Arthur Carlson, JoAnne Jacobs, Val Stromer and Fred Arnold. Those who are selected, if any, will play in the All State Band at Des Moines during the Thanksgiving vacation.

Senior Closs News

Because school was closed, there wasn't any literature, sociology, and business training to write about. Of course we feel awful about this.

1956 Seed Directory Available to Farmers

The 1956 "Buyers Guide to Iowa Certified Seed" is now available for distribution, according to Paul Henderson of Garner.

The annual directory of Iowa certified seed producers lists all the growers of small grain, soybeans, corn, forages and potatoes whose seed fields met field requirements for certification this year. It is published each year by the Iowa Crop Improvement Association as a service to farmers who are interested in buying certified seed.

Certified seed is the name given to seed which is inspected by and meets the requirements of an official certifying agency. In Iowa this agency is the Iowa Crop Improvement Association. By law, only certified seed can be sold with a blue colored tag.

This year's booklet is blue and white, with a large blue tag on the cover. For easy reference it lists the growers alphabetically, according to county and variety of crop grown.

Henderson cautions that the producers listed in the directory have met field requirements only. Farmers should demand that the blue tag be attached when they buy, to be certain the seed has met all requirements of certification.

The buyer's guide is available from all county extension offices.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The old sheet that draped from his thin shoulders was marked with small black blotches where his tears had touched the cheap dye of the mask he wore.

He was the smallest and youngest of the "older" boys in the block and sometimes the gang came to pick him up and sometimes it didn't. Tonight—Halloween night— the gang hadn't come.

Just then, a thunder of fists at the door made him leap up, his tears forgotten, "The gangs here, Ma," he screamed and raced out of the house.

When his mother came to close the door she knew her "Don't do anything mean" was lost on the small figure in the flopping sheet disappearing down the dark street.

For an hour the small boy worked hard to keep up with the gang that stormed around the neighborhood. He had gone out to scare the world but he was scared himself, sometimes, by the darkness and stories of this night.

He was standing a little to the rear, watching the gang creep up to the windows of a house, when he heard a step behind him. He turned to see the big, blank shadow of a man. A gruff voice shouted, the gang yelled and started to run and he ran too, and he was afraid.

The small boy felt the hard street beneath him. He felt the violent tug of the sheet as it caught beneath his feet. A shattering light seemed to break his head as he fell. He heard a scream that didn't come from the gang. He saw the headlights of the car.

I guess Don K has been down to see Linda Anderson, because it was reported that he was with her Sunday night.

What did Ruth P do Sunday night that made Norman kind of disgusted? You better be careful or he won't be back, Ruth.

Who seems to be taking Marcia W's attention lately? Could it be someone from Buffalo Center?

Lois H has been having a lot of fun with Dick J lately. Tell us more.

It look like Roger has quite a case on Marie C. I hear he has taken her home from the last two dances at Duncan.

What's this we hear about Larry W and Bob Ausborn, wanting to go with Coleen Gifford. I guess you guys are going to have to take turns.

It looks like Dave has been making quite a go with Marie M, because we saw him with her Sunday night again.

Who was Rosalie with Wednesday night? It looked like Gordon M from Belmond. How about this, Rosalie?

Slaughter lamb prices probably have seen the bottom for this year, according to Francis A Kutish, extension farm economist at Iowa State College.

He believes the price rise into the winter will be limited by the plentiful supply of poultry. But wheat pasture prospects are reported still poor in Kansas and Colorado, due to late seeding and lack of volunteer wheat. This, Kutish says, should add up to plentiful supplies of fed lambs this fall, but more favorable supply pattern during early winter.

Kutish says that feeder lambs at current prices, current feed costs and the prospective fat lamb prices in January add up to moderately good lamb feeding outlook.

Regarding the cattle market, Kutish points out that movement of feeder cattle continues at a slower pace than a year ago. The big exception is heavy feeders. During September, about a fourth more feeders weighing over a thousand pounds were sold at the 10 main markets than were sold there a year earlier.

Undoubtedly, Kutish says, feeders remember the good profit from short feeding last year. They look at the fact that we have not had any seasonal price rise in fed cattle this year. So they are laying in heavy cattle for short feed.

Chances are, he says, that enough are doing this to prevent any great cattle price advance this fall.

Boulders in our paths can be stumbling blocks or stepping-stones.

Look At Yourself—

Now Choose Clothes Right For You

If you're to look your very best at all times, you must choose your clothing with care. Analyze your features—good and bad—then apply this analysis when you shop

Have you envied those women—be they homemakers or career girls—who always seem to look like they just stepped out of a fashion illustration?

Well—no need to envy—not when you can do the same thing yourself with a little careful self-analysis. There isn't any "secret" to looking well dressed. All you must do is know what good features—and bad—you have, and then how to emphasize—or de-emphasize—them whatever the case may be. Opal Roberson, extension textiles and clothing specialist at Iowa State College, gives a few tips on how to choose the clothes that are right for you.

Comm on Figure Problems

Unfortunately, few of us have perfect proportioned figures. Most of us are troubled with one of eight basic problems. Here they are, along with what you can do about them. Apply these to yourself. Whether you do your own sewing or buy ready-made clothes, this list will help you to choose the garments most suited to make you look your best.

1. Long, thin neck. Collars that rise above the base of your neck play down this characteristic. A high neckline with ruffles or lace is flattering. You'll find a choker necklace or a collar in a contrasting color does a good job too.

2. Short or plump neck. Most effective for this problem is to choose the v-necklace. Keep your neckline finishes simple. An upswept hairdo does wonders Scarfs, ruffles and collars that roll too much above the base of your neck should be avoided.

For Shoulder Difficulties

3. Narrow shoulders. You'll want to avoid the dolman and raglan sleeves if your shoulders are not broad. Instead, choose clothing with puffed sleeves, short capes wide lapels and bright colored neckwear, double-breasted jackets do a fine job of widening shoulders. Of course, shoulder pads help, too.

4. Wide shoulders. Garments with broadened, padded shoulders, just aren't for you if you're "in a tizzy" about the broad shoulder look. Instead, look for halter necklines, narrow lapels and raglan or dolman sleeves. To draw attention away from shoulder width, use vertical lines in neckwear and trimming—also in your necklaces.

5. Large waistline. If your waistline measures a few too many inches, strive for unbroken lines from shoulder to hem. You can do this by the use of panel fronts, full-length trimmings, coat-style dresses. Avoid accenting your waistline by trimmings. For example, contrasting and wide belts will draw the eye to your waistline, so use narrow belts which blend in with your outfit's color.

6. Large abdomen. Tight fitting, narrow skirts only draw attention to the wrong place if you are troubled with this problem—so, avoid them. Allow from 2 to 4 inches "ease" in skirts. You'll find that unpressed pleats and gathers which form a panel effect help a lit. In general, front drapery and front fullness in your skirts will do a lot for you.

Avoid Extreme Sleeves

7. Thin or heavy arms. You with arm troubles will want to look for sleeves that are neither too tight nor too loose. Extremes in sleeves will only make your arms look conspicuous. Choose a natural, soft effect for your sleeves.

8. Flat chest. Fabrics with some body and crispness will flatter your bustline more than those of sheer softness. The use of shirring, pleating, tucking, lace and ruffles is becoming, too. At any rate, advoid tight-fittings sweaters.

has reported to him that more than $5-million worth of commercial property in Iowa, owned by private educational institutions, is tax exempt.

Johns had requested the figures after an unsuccessful attempt to repeal during the last legislature, the state laws which allows tax exemption on property held by such educational institutions.

Rural property eligible under the exemptions is valued at $2,-356,915 and urban property, held by the institutions, at 2,975,207. If the property were taxed, the local taxes would be at 60 percent of the full valuation.

Johns contends that such exemptions deprives local school districts, counties and cities of tax revenue.

GOP FARM PARLEY

The Republican Midwest Governors' farm conference in Iowa focused national attention on the present farm price squeeze, and also served to highlight the fact that even top executives are not "together" on solutions.

Of five governors who participated in the conference, Governor Hoegh of Iowa and Foss of South Dakota were not in full accord with the present Benson farm program, want some changes now to offset the present price squeeze. Governors Craig of Indiana and Anderson of Nebraska professed their interest in and support for the administration's farm policy. Governor Hall of Kansas was on the fence.

Hoegh gave the chief address among the governors and asked ed a government livestock purchase program to bolster prices, a soil reserve system to promote conservation, a committee to create new domestic and foreign food markets, and the stockpiling of food.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Much credit is to the Klemme Boy Scouts and explorers and to their leaders and advisors for the fine pancake supper they put on at the Methodist Church basement Tuesday evening. They served approximately 250 people during the course of the evening and everyone went away feeling quite sure they had gotten their fifty cents worth.

Local merchants and some wholesalers are also responsible in a measure for the success of the affair and the scout committee thanks them all for their help.

Next Tuesday is the night set for the first basketball game of the 1955-56 season for the Klemme Shamrocks. They tangle with Woden on the local floor. They have twenty games scheduled plus tournaments, so they will have a busy season. Be on hand Tuesday night and give them a boost; then follow them all through the season if possible. You will see some good basketball games, have a lot of fun, and at the same time lend moral support to the squad members.

If you are an eligible voter in the Town of Klemme, don't forget the town election coming up next Tuesday. You are entitled to your say-so on how town business is conducted and your most certain way of getting it is to go down to the city hall and mark a ballot.

We'll grant you that there are not too many candidates from which to choose, but if you think you have someone better in mind than one of these men whose name appears on the ballot, there is a space to write in your choice . . . or choices. If you do write in a name, don't forget to X the square in front of it.

In any case, it's your chance to have a voice in local government. We would suggest you take advantage of it and vote.

At noon, Saturday, November 12th, the pheasant hunting season will open. There will be a lot of "No Hunting" and "No Trespassing" signs posted by that time. Ignoring them could mean trouble. The State Conservation Commission offers the following few paragraphs on the farmer-sportsman situation.

These are the days when thousands of Iowans are thinking of pheasants, geese, ducks and rabbits. It's hunting season, but many hunters are stymied. Most of the state, they say, is posted against hunting.

But even in a state where 97% of the land is privately owned, there are still thousands of acres of hunting grounds, the "No Hunting" signs notwithstanding. The majority of Iowa farmers will permit hunters to enter their lands, but more and more are insisting that the gunner ask permission first.

In a poll conducted over the state last year, it was found that only 5% of the farmers

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, NOVEMBER 2, 1955 | VOLUME 60 | NUMBER 45

Local Students at Iowa State College

Ames, Iowa, Oct. 2—Among the 9,176 students who registered at Iowa State College for the fall quarter, 50 were from Hancock County, according to figures released today by the office of the Registrar.

"This fall is only the beginning of mountainous problems for us and for other institutions of higher learning," President James H Hilton told faculty members at their annual fall convocation. "The first wave of this great influx of students about which we have all been talking is already on our campus—with the great tidal waves of these youngsters still five or more years ago."

Reason for President Hilton's concern was the fact that 1955's fall enrollment represented an increase of nearly 875 over last fall's figure of 8,304. The college did its best to meet this situation by converting as much space as possible to classroom use, scheduling classes at every available hour (including early morning, noon, late afternoon and evening), and appealing to Ames residents to provide additional housing space (even though some of the space available in private homes could not be brought to standards which the college ordinarily would approve).

"If we have another increase of 700 to 900 students next fall, then our space problem will become desperate," said President Hilton.

By divisions, Agriculture had 1,716 undergraduates; Engineer-1,543; Science, 1,461; Veterinary Medicine, 259. Agricultural Engineering (where students take work in both Agriculture and Engineering) had 158. The Graduate College enrolled 972.

Iowa students enroll at Iowa State almost directly in proportion to the size of population in the counties and inversely in relation to the distance from Ames. Polk and Story counties have the largest enrollments. Counties with small populations on the border of the state have the fewest.

Klemme students enrolled at Iowa State are Terry Koerner, son of Mr and Mrs Gerald Koerner; Wilford Back, son of Mr and Mrs Herman Back; Glenn Blumer, son of Mr and Mrs Walter Blumer; Elwyn, son of Mr and Mrs Albert Etchen; Cecil Jacobs, son of Mr and Mrs Roy Jacobs; and "Bill" Waddingham, son of Mr and Mrs John Waddingham.

Reverdy Mace Is Junior at Morningside

Reverdy Mace, son of Mrs Vivian Mace of Klemme has enrolled for the fall term at Morningside College in Sioux City.

The total number of students enrolled for the fall term at Morningside is over 900, an increase of more than 150 over last years figure. This count does not include students who are attending the ever growing evening division of the college. A faculty of 47 professors is instructing at Morningside.

The Sioux City college is a liberal arts school which offers 4 degrees. They are Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Music, and Bachelor of Music Education.

Reverdy is a junior at Morningside majoring in English, and is a member of the College Choir.

Shamrocks To Open Basketball Season With Woden Tuesday

The Klemme Shamrocks will play their first basketball game of the 1955-56 season next Tuesday night, November 8th, on the local floor.

First game of the evening will see the Little Shamrocks tangle with the Woden reserves at seven o'clock, with the varsity game immediately following.

Coach "Bill" Westberg boasts a taller than usual team this year, and although he has not as yet decided on his starters, he lists seven men from which he will probably pick his starting five. They are Roger Bachman, Martin Brinkman, Warren Terhufen, Dennis Haefner, Keith Nuehring, "Bob" Larson, and "Don" Kramer.

Others on the squad, who have shown improvement and from whom Westberg expects some help before the season is over, are Gary Lenz, Marvin Josten, and Dave Waddingham.

Woden has three lettermen back from their last year's team which was runner-up in the county tournament. They also boast a tall team, so Tuesday night's game should prove interesting.

The Shamrocks have a twenty-game schedule for this season besides tournaments. Their first action in the North Star Conference will be against Dows on the local floor on November 18th.

Legion and Auxiliary to Hold Dinner on Vet's Day

On Tuesday evening, November 1, twenty-four members of the American Legion Auxiliary met at the home of Thelma Arnold for its regular monthly meeting.

Lois Chambers was appointed legislative chairman.

It was voted to have a potluck 6:30 p. m. supper for the Legion and Auxiliary members and their famlies at the Grade School building on Veteran's Day, November 11th. Each family is to bring a package for the grab bag prizes. Also bring covered dishes, sandwiches, and dishes for your family.

Marion Arnold is to send the package to Billy Joe this month.

The membership committee reported that 73 members have paid their dues. Our quota is 77, so if any member has not paid her dues, she should do so now. Women who are eligible for membership, can contact Ruth Tue, secretary or Carrie Schwichtenberg, membership chairman.

Following the business meeting, Flora Back and Marilyn Buseman provided entertainment for the group.

The hostesses, Nellie Arnold and Thelma Arnold served lunch at the close of the evening.

Grandmothers' Club

The regular meeting of the Klemme Grandmothers' Club will be held at 1:30 p. m., Tuesday, November 8th, at the home of Mrs Esther Barz. Installation of of officers will be held and new members will be pledged.

Eastern Star Meeting

Relief Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star will have its regular meeting at eight o'clock, next Tuesday night, November 8th, at the Masonic Temple in Garner. A good attendance is desired.

Former Klemme Coach Named State Director Of Selective Service

Klemme folks will remember "Bodge" Bowles who coached some fine basketball teams for Klemme High School back in the days just previous to World War II. He enlisted in the service as a private in 1941, was commissioned a second lieutenant and has continued to rise in rank in the army ever since.

Bowles in is the holder of the Legion of Merit, the Bronze Star, and the Purple Heart, all won during his service in Europe during the second world war. He is married and has three children.

Last Friday, Bowles, who was been on active duty in Washington, D C as a lieutenant colonel, was appointed state director of selective service by Governor Leo Hoegh.

Bowles, who was also promoted to the rank of colonel, will succeed Col. Ralph A Lancaster on December 1st. Lancaster, who has been director of selective service for five years, will retire November 30th on reaching the age of 60.

Hoegh said the director's salary is paid by the federal government and that taking into account the base pay for a colonel and allowances, the salary runs "about $12,000 a year."

The governor told his news conference he felt the state was "fortunate in being able to obtain the services of Col. Bowles, who is a native Iowan and who had a distinguished military career."

Bowles will come from Washington, where since 1953 he has worked in the office of the director of personnel as a deputy chief of staff for logistics. Hoegh and Bowles served together in the Iowa National Guard.

Five Klemme Students Enrolled At Iowa U

IOWA CITY, IOWA, Oct 26—Five students from Klemme are among those enrolled at the State University of Iowa this fall, Registrar Ted McCarrel reported today.

Final enrollment figures show 9,331 students registered in the University's ten colleges this fall, an increase of 917 over the fall enrollment last year.

Local students attending SUI this fall include:

Graydon and Harley Barz, son of Mr and Mrs Harvey Barz; Lois Boland, daughter of Mr and Mrs Henry Boland, Gary Day, son of Mr and Mrs Droance Day, and Melvin Howard, son of Mr and Mrs Ned Howard.

All are taking liberal arts courses except Miss Boland, who is in nursing.

Is Student Teacher

Decorah, Iowa—Lois Christians, Luther College sophomore from Klemme, is a student teacher in the sixth grade of the Decorah West Side school.

A member of Phi Theta Theta, elementary society, Miss Christians is the daughter of Mrs Ann Christians of Klemme.

Draft Board Work Week

The following administrative work week will be establishel for the Hancock County Local Board office at Britt effective 6 November 1955: 8:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon; 1:00 p. m. to 4:00 p. m. Monday through Friday.

Town Election Will Be Tuesday, Nov. 8

Next Tuesday, November 8th, is election day for the Town of Klemme. City officials will be elected for a two-year period.

There is a scarcity of candidates for the various town offices. The ballot will carry one complete ticket with V A Cook as a candidate for mayor, Martin Barz as a candidate for treasurer, and Henry Buseman, Edwin Josten, Byrnes Lemke, Roy Schaefer, and Frank Schulz as candidates for councilmen. All these men are incumbents, except Edwin Josten.

One other name will be on the ballot; that of W F Pavey. Pavey is an incumbent councilman, and is seeking another term in that office.

The polling place for the election will be the fire station and the polls will be open from eight o'clock in the morning until eight o'clock in the evening.

Some talk was heard of a write-in campaign for one or two positions but the talk has apparently died out, and it looks now as though the election would not be too exciting. The only contest apparent now will be to see whether Pavey can win out and keep his seat on the council.

queried said "Absolutely no hunting on my place!" Seventy-six per cent said, "It's O K to hunt, but ask me first."

Since everything a farmer owns may be tied up in his land, buildings and livestock, he has a perfect right to control public access to that land. Many farmers are hostile to intruders, and justifiably so. However, these same farmers will often grant permission to hunt if the sportsman asks that permission in a courteous and considerate manner.

The future of Iowa hunting lies with the farmer, who controls the access to most of our game birds and animals. Even mre, it lies with the hunter who must recognize his sport as a privilege, not a right. For better hunting, both this season and in years to come, ASK THE FARMER FIRST!

"Whether laughter is healthful or not depends on the size of the fellow you're laughing at!"

Hunters. Remember it is better to go hunting with your boy than to have to go hunting for him. Be careful with those guns that aren't loaded. They are always the one that causes the accidents.—"Roving Reporter", Buffalo Center Times.

If anyone thinks that our smiles mean the abandonment of the teachings of Marx, Engels and Lenin, he is deceiving himself cruelly.—Russian Communist Party Chief Khrushchev.

Which just goes to show that the safe sort of skull-dugery as usual can be expected from the the Russians. They are just using different methods to get the same dirty work done.

One of the male small fry of our town was really a gentleman on Halloween night. He escorted four small girls to our door for their treat, then annunced that he had already been to our place and didn't want to take another handout. Just wanted to see that the ladies were taken care of, we guess.

We wonder how many kids ate all the "loot" they collected going from door to door demanding "Trick or Treat" on Hallowe'en night?

We hate to see winter weather come this early, but it looks like we've got it whether we like it or not. We didn't get the snow that some other parts of the state had to deal with, but it got plenty cold. If it stays cold, it's going to be a long winter.

TOLL ROADS

Interest is generating in the Iowa toll road picture these days

At the recent Iowa Taxpayers Association meeting, Thomas E Fiske, attorney for the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, while suggesting a "go slow" approach on the toll road proposition, suggested that "You taxpayers of Iowa think twice before you put the "full faith and credit" of your state back of a bond issue covering toll roads in an area not as heavily populated as the areas traversed by the successful toll roads in the densely-populated areas east of the Mississippi!"

More recently, the state of Illinois approved a 415 million dollar bond issue to finance construction of 193 miles of toll highways in that state. The sale was approved and Governor Stratton has signed the papers authorizing the 40-year, 3¾ percent revenue bond issue.

Iowa Governor Hoegh said the Illinois toll issue is "great news for Iowa".

He said the Illinois sales may mean a toll road built and in operation in Iowa by Christmas of 1959, or before.

However, the 193 miles in the Illinois system for which bonds are being offered for sale does not include a project west toward the Iowa border. The proposed toll road from Chicago west to Aurora is expected to be included in a later bond issue. An Iowa toll road would connect with an Illinois road running from Aurora to the Iowa border.

Ed Frick, chairman of the Iowa Toll Road Authority, may have information to add at the annual meeting of the Iowa Good Roads association which will be held in Des Moines November 14. Frick is one of the featured speakers on the program.

GETTING FARMED

This state has been "farmed" in recent days by a good many farm experts and political officials. The spotlight certainly has been focused on Iowa and the plight of the farmer now caught in a price squeeze.

First, it was the Republican Governors' farm conference, in which five governors and representatives of four other states gathered with U S department of agriculture officials to discuss the farmers plight.

Then came the Democratic Midwest Conference featuring its farm panel discussion, a recommendation on farm policy from Adlai Stevenson, the party's presidential candidate and a farm discussion by Averell Harriman, governor of New York and himself a possible presidential candidate on the Democratic ticket.

A senate agriculture committee hearing capped the series of farm conference. The committee got a thorough report on farm problems from Iowa farmers who made statements before the senators.

Sen Allen Ellender, Louisiana Democrat, was chairman of the committee, and Iowa Sen Bourke B Hickleooper was one of its members.

IOWA FARM BUREAU

Howard Hill, president of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation, drew the biggest round of applause from farmers attending the senate agricultural committee hearings in Iowa. One of the senators told Hiil that his statement "is one of the most encouraging signs I've seen on this farm proposition". He said he had read and heard a lot about the farm problems but Hill's was the first sound proposal to remedy what he'd heard.

Hill suggested: A continued and intensified effort to increase domestic and foreign markets, government loans on storable commodities in order to provide orderly marketing, that the accummulation of reasonable reserves of storables is in the national interest, that production must be reduced in line with effective demand, that it is in the interest to assist farmers to conserve the soil.

The soil fentility bank plan, Hill declared, provides for governmental rental of farm land to be seeded to soil building crops with no harvesting or grazing.

SPECIAL SESSION

State Sen X T Prentis (R) of Mt Ayr, chairman of the state tax study committee believes a special session of the legislature will be called next year.

Prentis said the special tax committee will no doubt come up with several important recommendations that should be considered by the Iowa legislature in a special meeting. He believes that sufficient attention would be given to the tax commitee recommendations in a regular legislative session.

"I think our committee has to drive for a special session if our recommendations are to receive sufficient attention," Prentis said.

NOT PROSECUTED

Frank Engel, member of the Iowa employment security commission, erports that 125 fraudulent claims filed with the commission were not prosecuted because the one-year statutory limit ran out during the last year. He said largest of the claims was $400, but that most of the others were under $100. Delay in processing was the big reason for the statutory limit expiring.

MIFFED AT SLIGHTS

Two state elective officials, Melvin Synhorst, secretary of state, and M L Abrahamson, state treasurer, said they were not invited to appear at the series of district Republican strategy meetings held for county chairmen and vice-chairmen in the state.

No elective state officials appeared at the meetings except the governor. However, 2 of the governor's appointees, Russell Lundy, chairman of the highway commission, and Clinton Moyer, commissioner of public safety, appeared on the programs in all districts.

NO EGG TEST

A suit challenging the constitutionality of Iowa's new egg grading law has been dismissed.

Enforcement of the law, passed by the last legislature, is now in hands of the state department of agriculture.

A temporary injunction against its enforcement had been granted in Polk county district court last July.

A produce dealer and a grocer had complained the new law discriminates against egg dealers and grocers in favor of farmers who peddle their eggs from door to door. They asked dismissal of the case on grounds that court tests were proving too expensive.

POLIO MAY DROP

Iowa health authorities predict a drop in polio cases for state next year, particularly if sufficient Salk vaccine is available for large numbers of youths and persons in older age groups.

Total immunization then would begin to increase and represent a larger portion of the population, authorities point out.

Results from use of the Salk vaccine in Iowa this year indicates it is giving protection.

WHO'S RIGHT?

State Rep Tom J Frey of Neola has charged that thousands of Iowans are not filing income tax returns. Frey told the state tax study committee that 5,000 to 6,000 in Pottawattamie county alone are working in Nebraska and not paying an Iowa income tax.

However, a tax commission official reports that Frey's estimate of the number of persons avoiding such payments "are grossly exaggerated".

Frey was a member of a state legislative committee that made a study in the last session of tax commission operaions and procedures.

MORE ELECTED

Jake More, state chairman of the Democratic party, is the new chairman of the Democratic Midwest conference, a 13-state organization.

More was elected after the recent party parley in Des Moines. He succeeds James Quigley of Valentine, Neb.

Freshmon News

We are now in the middle of our nine weeks tests and we are all studying real hard. The teachers are pretty good at giving us quizzes so they help a little even though we don't appreciate them at the time.

In home ec the girls are learning how to make breakfasts. On Tuesday we bought our groceries and Wednesday we made our breakfasts. They all turned out quite good, too, considering.

In shop the boys are making various things.

For math we are reviewing last year's arithmetic, so it is not too difficult.

In science we are learning about conservation.

In literature we are reading various stories and they are very interesting.

FATAL

Burns from flaming gasoline proved fatal to Marvin Nimke, of Knierim, recently. Operator of a bulk station, he was filling his tank wagon when it exploded. The fire was believed caused by sparks from an electric motor.

Question of the Week

What would you do if all of a sudden someone gave you $100,000,000 tax free?

Val Stromer: Pay all of my debts then have a long vacation.
Roger Johnson: I'd have a doozy of a time.
Kay Burk: I'd take it, "naturally".
Ron Hummel: It's very unlikely to happen but if it would, I'd get me a new Cad with continental kit and save the rest for a rainy day.
Ginger: First of all I'd buy myself and Myrna a Thunderbird and then buy a farm and go on a trip to Europe.
Denny: Fall over dead from shock.
Audrey: Save it until I get married.
Judith G: Buy my folks a farm.
Roger Bachman: I would invest it in something useful.
JoEllen Clabuagh: I would travel around the world and end up doing something interesting.
Shirley Barz: I'd take Carol with me and we'd go to Hawaii for an extended vacation.

Senior Closs News

For not knowing our literature assignment, Miss Beardsley assigned us a long report. The report was why we agreed or disagreed with what Ralph Waldo Emerson had to say about self-reliance.

We finished reading chapter eight in our American History book, which listed all the events which led up to the War of 1812.

Now in bookkeeping we are learning how to record transactions in Special Journals. In chapter nine we learned how to fill out a Purchase Journal, and in chapter ten we learned how to fill out a Sales Journal. Tomorrow we'll have a test over chapter ten, and the next day we'll have our nine weeks test.

In sociology we are studying the cause for juvenile delinquency. We found it to be true that the parents were at fault in most cases.

We have been doing written problems on mixtures and uniform motion in advanced algebra.

We found out in business training that it is necessary to plan a budget. In our workbooks we are doing problems concerning budgets. Since the nine weeks tests are coming we are now reviewing the information in our books.

In typing II as usual we are still taking ten minute writings concerning different types of letters.

Because of the nine weeks test this week, the last couple days have been devoted to reviewing.

Typicol Noon Hour At K. H. S.

This noon I took my little black book along with me and these are some of the things I saw.

On the way home I saw nothing but dust because everyone was rushing to dinner.

A patrolman was in town this noon so the kids were driving pretty careful.

I saw Gary L and Marvin J riding around alone this noon. This is something different. Usually they have a whole load.

Because it was a little early this noon Butch had to eat his dessert on the way to school.

I also saw Fred walking to school with Sharon Blau!

I was surprised to see Keith with only one girl this noon (Margaret P.) as he usually has a whole car load.

Mr Johnson was chaufeuring Mr Chadwich in his back seat. Where they were going nobody knows.

Denny had his little car so full of kids we couldn't see who was in it. They were even hanging out the windows.

Eva T and June M were riding around with Dick G and Douglas S.

Tom and JoEllen were doing a lot of taking in Tom's car this noon.

Jeanne and Chuck were standing in the hall with their arms around each other.

Keith was making his usual rounds talking to all the girls.

About five minutes after the bell rang, the seniors entered the schoolhouses.

Girls' Sports

The last two weeks we have been talking about football. As usual, we have been doing exercises and have added some new ones.

We haven't had P T very often lately becauses there wasn't any hot water after the tragedy with the water main.

We played a game of touch football this week. It was a lot of fun and all of the girls enjoyed it very much even though it turned out a little rough. There were only six on a team as there are only twelve in our class. The game was twelve to six with only seconds to remain. But on the next play, which was extremely vital, a touchdown was made tieing up the game.

Wouldn't it be funny if we had a girls football team. I believe it would be quite interesting.

Sophomore Class News

In literature we have been studying a unit on ghost stories. Each person has had a chance at oral reports on a ghost story that they have read.

History reports have been our main interest lately; seeing how well we know our subject and getting it across to our class.

Algebra adds up to one thing; trying to get the right answers when we add, subtract, multiply, and divide sign numbers.

In biology we've just finished a unit on "Invertibrate Animals and Insects". We are now starting a unit on "One Celled Animals".

They tell me that in Drivers Training they are learning different steps in driving. So beware when you see the Drivers Training car coming your way.

Jokes

Mr Andreae: "What is it from which you can take the whole and still have some left"?
Algebra Student: "I give up".
Mr Andreae: "Wholesome".

Jo Ann hated school, and when her sister suggested that they play school, she refused. Then she had a bright idea.

"Okay", she agreed, "and let's play I'm absent".

Billy: "Mother, Bobby broke a window"!
Mother: "That's terrible! How did he do it"?
Billy: "I threw a rock at him and he ducked".

Perhaps you think the jokes are bad, but you'd quickly change your views if you compared the jokes we print with the ones we never use.

Boys' Sports

Once again it is time for the start of another basketball season.

For the past three weeks, eighteen boys have been diligently practicing for their season opener November 8, when the local team will play host to a strong Woden team.

Klemme, this year centering their hopes around a much taller team, should be a strong contender in the North Star Conference and also a strong tournament team by the end of the season.

It is felt by we, the editors, that this can be one of Klemme's most successful seasons; but only through the support of the people of this community. Come to all the games this year. Back the Shamrocks.

Cackles from the Coop

Congratluations are in order this week for Virginia Kudje and Art Carlson. They made All-State Band at the tryouts at Spencer.

Mr Whitford has started to organize small groups for the solo and ensemble contest in the spring. One of these is the cornet quartet.

Its members are: Fred Arnold, a senior, first cornet; Val Stromer, junior, second cornet; Chuck Bacon, a sophomore, and Carroll Priebe a freshman, third and fourth cornets, respectively.

Avery Sunbeams Met

The regular meeting of the Avery Sunbeams was held at the Ostendorf home on October 20. After the business meeting, installation of the following officers was held: President, Darlene Ostendorf; vice president, Kathleen James; secretary and treasurer, Diane Avery; historian, Dorothy Ostendorf; reporter, Jo Ann Helps.

A special meeting of the officers of the Avery Sunbeams was held at the home of Mrs Harry Ostendorf the evening of October 20th, to make out the program for the following year. Our new leader, Mrs Ralph James was present. Mrs Dwight Helps, a past leader was present also.

FACE RED

Postal officials at Maquoketa were embarrassed recently. The United States flag was flown upside down. Flown in this fashion, the flag denotes "trouble" and the custodian had some until he reversed the bunting.

This and That Around K. H. S. . . .

It seems Coleen Gifford can't make up her mind between Bob A and Larry W. You better hurry Coleen! You're going to make someone mad.

Marvalyn C and Pete H have been having a struggle at play practice. How about that Beverly?

Say, JoEllen, what was that diamond doing on your finger?

Who did Jeanne Barz go to the Junior Class play with? (What about this Chuck?)

I wonder who asked Margaret P to go to the party Friday night? (It couldn't be Craig L could it?)

It seems like Leila has a certain habit of writing letters, hasn't she? (We wonder who to?)

What happened in study hall the other day Bev and Pete? Who is your trainer, Bev?

What is this we hear about Betty C having a crush on Larry W. Quite a thing, huh?

LaVohn J has been making eyes at a certain person in our last study hall. (It appears he had a purple mark on his face.)

We wonder how Coleen and JoEllen lost their voices. But they won't tell us.

I wonder who Lois H went with the night of the class play.

Dave, how is the hunting going?

Margaret and Ray have been rather quiet, don't you think? Do you suppose they have been up to something?

Who does Ruth go with now? Does anyone know?

Karen C and Craig had quite a time Saturday night. Right kids?

Who does Raymond H go with now? It isn't Sharon West from Garner, is it Raymond?

Gee. who could Fonda be waiting for so faithfully? Tell us.

Carol and Shirley sure are quiet, but I guess they have a reasonable excuse. Right?

Retarded Children Group Hears Speech Therapist

The Council for Retarded Children of Hancock and Winnebago Counties met Tuesday evening, October 25th, at the Forest City High School lunch room.

Featured speaker of the evening was Mr Eric Allen, Speech Therapist for this area. Mr Allen talked to the group about his work with the children of school age who have speech problems, and discussed the speech difficulties of mentally retarded children.

The speech therapist is hired by the schools of the area to give help to children in the schools who are hampered by poor speech. Due to the large numbers who need assistance, Mr Allen has had to choose those whose speech handicaps are causing other difficulties, or who are about to graduate, as the first people with whom he will work in the eight or nine speech clinics he has set up in this area. The 300 or more children still on the waiting list will be given attention as he is able to get to them. The area has been without speech therapist for two years, which accounts for the large number waiting for help. There is need for many more speech therapists in the state, so young men and women who are planning their college programs would do well to look into the field of speech therapy. Mr Allen stated that some mentally retarded children are included in the groups of children with whom he is now working, and that he hopes to work with all the children, including the mentally retarded, who need his help.

A question and answer session completed the program.

The business meeting included reports on the fund drive progress in the two counties. Hancock County Community Chest is now completing its drive, and the group will receive funds through that drive. Winnebago County fund drive, under the chairmanship of Mr B L Nerby, Lake Mills, will take place during National Retarded Children's Week, November 13 to 23. The group was told that organization of the county for a house to house canvass is proceeding satisfactorily. Lunch was served following the meeting.

"Your children may not follow your advice, but they will follow you!"

The 12 year old cat of the Heinie Dethlef's of Manning, died there recently. During her career she mothered 125 kittens of all species, color and temperament.

Hancock County Farm Employers Need Social Security Indentification

Any Hancock County farm employer who has paid, or expects to pay, any one farm worker $100 or more cash wages during this year, needs an employer's social security indentification number, according to County Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner. This is in addition to the farmer's own social security account number.

Henderson says the farm employer should use form SS-4a to apply for this employer's identification number. The form can be obtained from any social security office. This form is to be found on page 5 of the information pamphlet, "Social Security for Farm Families," which can be obtained from any social security office.

When completed, this employer's application is to be mailed to the District Director of Internal Revenue, Des Moines, Iowa.

The farm employer does not need to have an employer's indentification number unless he has paid, or expects to pay, any one farm worker $100 or more cash wages during the year, starting with the calender year 1955. For instance, if he pays one man $35, another $70 and a third $90, he would not be required to have an agricultural employer's identification number. He has not paid any one of the three $100 or more cash wages.

Extension Director Henderson says the district Social Security office which served Hancock county, may be addressed at Mason City, Iowa. Or anyone who has questions about the social security program may call at the office at the court house in Garner between the hours of 9:00 A. M. to 10:30 A. M. on October 28, November 23, and December 28.

Generally speaking, the farm employer will report his employees, to whom he has paid $100 or more cash wages in the year, only at the end of the year. In those cases involving more than the annual report, full instructions will be furnished at the time the employer receives his identification number from the Internal Revenue Service.

Extension Director Henderson points out that the farm employer would have two numbers required by the social security law. However, each number serves a different purpose. His account number indentifies his earning record as an individual to assure him that he will get credit for all wages and self-employment income under the social security law. His employer's number is for the purpose of identifying his business as an employer who is required by law to report wages paid his employees.

Prepare Snacks, Mom—

Supplement Meals for Youngsters

For young appetites that really shoot upward, snacks are the answer. This picture, taken by the National Dairy Council, shows the part which plentiful milk can play in an ideal after-school snack.

Those casual pick-up meals at all hours are considered past history now that the junior citizens are in classes once again. To many of the nearly teen-age youngsters, gaps between meals are almost more than they can bear because their age warrants an appetite that's never really satisfied. It's only normal for them to want an after-school snack, so do see that they get it, in addition to well-selected meals.

Leslie Smith, Iowa State College extension nutritionist, says that many young appetites dart upward in the fall. The lunches you served the youngsters a year ago aren't adequate this year. Why? She says it's not the change to cool weather as much as the fact that increased appetites parallel the growth spurts which are natural for the adolescent in his early teens.

High School Food Habits

There's no disputing that these are the crucial years in keeping good diet habits. School surveys show that children in elementary grades have better food habits than high school students. The problem most cited for the fellows is that they never seen to get enough food. Figure-conscious girls at this age often fail to increase their daily calorie, protein and calcium needs to keep pace with their physical growth.

As you know, the best way for that boy or girl of yours to achieve maximum growth and health is to eat three full meals a day. Breakfast and lunch should each carry one-third of the child's food needs. This often is difficult, however, because children in this age bracket require about 3,000 calories a day—and few youngsters can eat as much for breakfast as they require. So these diet requirements should be carefully distributed throughout the day.

Lunch offers the best opportunity to provide one-third of the requirements—because at noontime those youngsters have peak appetites. A new and drastic situation is arising in many schools. Because of the lack of facilities, lunch periods are cut to 20 minutes.. Obviously, this isn't long enough for second helpings which older girls and boys need to satisfy their hunger. If you have a youngster who's hit by this situation, be sure to fix a packet lunch—a good supplementary snack to eat with his lunch.

Sandwich Makes Snack

A well-chosen sandwich makes a top notch snack for the youngster who's always "just famished".

Food shops and bakeries offer a variety of delicious breads—enriched white bread, whole or cracked wheat, rye, French or raisin breads.

Combine one of the breads with a different filling and you have a tasty and nutritious snack. Here are some tips on how you can dress up peanut butter to make a tasty sandwich filling:

1. Chopped raisins, pecans, and orange juice.
2. Chopped cooked bacon.
3. Apple butter, grated Cheddar cheese and lemon juice.
4. Cream cheese, piccalilli and chopped stuffed olives combined with milk for spreading.
5. Chopped sweet pickle, green olives and cooked bacon with mayonnaise.

For some liver sausage tricks, try these:

1. Chili sauce and chopped green olives.
2. Chopped stuffed olives and mayonnaise.
3. Chopped hard-cooked eggs, mayonnaise and grated onion.
4. Chopped celery, dill pickle and salad dressing.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Prices of eggs have probably hit their seasonal peak, but should continue at high levels through the winter, according to Steve Hiemstra, extension farm economist at Iowa State College.

Heimstra points out that this is the season of lowest production of the year. Indications are that pullets are currently being housed in large numbers and production will soon be increasing seasonally.

Hens have been held back to partially fill the gap of fewer replacement pullets. Hen prices have been holding up well this year—indicating lower numbers being marketed.

Hiemstra points out that United States farmers received an average of 44 cents per dozen for eggs on September 15, an increase of 4 cents from a month earlier and 10 cents above a year earlier. At the present time prices are a few cents under the September high but still compare favorably with a year ago.

On the other hand, Hiemstra says, feed prices have gone the other direction. On September 15, the average price index was 11 percent below a year ago. He says this gives a feed-price ratio much better than year ago, but only about equal to the 5-year average.

Production of eggs during September was 2 perdent above September, 1954—resulting from increased production per hen. Hiemstra says higher prices are the result of a continued high level of consumer demand.

60TH

At Sumner, Mr and Mrs William Sneller recently observed their 60th wedding anniversary. Natives of England, they came to this country in 1907.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

For the first time in nearly ten years, Thomas lay in the small upstairs room of his mother's home, listening to the silence of the country trying to drift off into sleep. But he seemed to be waiting for somethings, something he could remember only dimly and not identify.

Since late that afternoon, when he had arrived on the long-delayed vacation, memories of his early years had been flooding in, bringing him a sad kind of peace. But now there was something else to come.

Then, he heard it. Through the window, open to the chill November night and from a great distant, came the sound of a train. That was what his sleep had been waiting on—the sound of the train that every night, as a boy and young man, had stirred him to restlessness in this room.

Now, listening to the long, lonely wail of the train coming toward the crossing just below the houses, he knew it for the promising sound of the world and distance that had lured him away years before. Then he slept.

The next morning was sharp and cold and while his mother plied him with an enormous breakfast that suprised his toast and coffee stomach, he began to worry about his car.

"If the weather's going to keep on like this, I'd better drive into town and have the car winterized," he said." "I can look up some of the boys at the same time."

He drove out of the yard with all the windows of the car closed tightly against the cold. Probably he switched on the heater, too. His mother, watching him drive down the road, said he was driving slowly as though he was looking at all the old scenes carefully.

It was later decided that when he approached the railroad crossing he had not heard the train through the closed windows, that he had not slowed down or watched for a train because the crossings had such a friendly, familiar look.

LOST HAND

Near Montezuma, 18 year old Leroy Sterk became one of the season's first cornpicker victims recently. His glove caught as he tried to remove a stalk and his left hand was mangled in the rollers. It was amputated just above the wrist.

GERMAN

Services at the East Friesland Presbyterian Church in Ackley were conducted in German recently. There was singing and meditation all in the German language.

JAILBIRD

A pelican injured its wing when it collided with some wire in Akron. It was lodged in the city jail while the injured wing was mending. The bird weighed 30 lbs.

It takes a lot of courage to admit that sometimes you don't have any.

"A chrysanthemum by any other name would be easier to spell!"

ESCAPED

Lafe Fairchild, of near Irwin, had a narrow escape when his foot slipped into the power take-off as he climbed back onto his tractor. The machine ripped off his overalls and jacket, but he escaped with minor bruises. At LeRoy, Rolla Fight was caught in a similiar accident and lost his overalls as he held to the seat of his tractor. He was hospitalized.

LOSES FINGERS

Russell Shaffer of Tipton suffered the loss of two fingers on his right hand recently when he was adjusting a part on a power lawn mower.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

This is one of those times when we would like to take our typewriter, turn it over to a guest columnist, and quit banging our head against a brick wall in hope of jarring something loose that might fit into the column.

We have made several false starts, partially filled a waste basket with the results, and have ourseleves about in the mood to call it off for the day and hit the sack.

However, some months ago, we made the change in the layout of our paper that put this column on the front page, and since then we have felt that we just had to have some mutterings about something or other, in order to keep face.

We can hear someone answering that one with "what a face to keep. Better he should let it get lost!"

Maybe they've got something there, but we startel this thing, we're stuck with it, and we're going to keep it going some way or bust a gusset. We're a little like the guy that grabbed the lion by the tail and then was afraid to let go.

Which, for some reason, reminds us of the colored World War I soldier, who on going over the top, came face-to-face with a German soldier. The German took a pass at the Negro with his bayonet, but the colored soldier got out of the way just in time, saying, "Oh, oh, boss, you missed me." He then whipped out a large straight-edged razor and made a pass at the German soldier. The German said, "Dumkopf, you missed me." Whereupon, the negro began to laugh and said, "Boss, wait'll you shakes yoah head."

Which reminds us that the World War I vintage Armistice Day has had its name changed to Veterans Day so that the veterans of all our wars might be honored at one and the same time. November 11th is still the day for the holiday and it falls on Friday of this week.

Governor Hoegh, in the closing paragraph of his Veterans Day proclamation says, "Now, therefore, I, Leo A Hoegh, Governor of the State of Iowa, do hereby proclaim the 11th day of November, 1955, as Veterans Day in Iowa, and I call upon the people of Iowa to observe it as a legal holiday in honor of those who have been members of the armed forces of the United States, and urge state officials to display the American flag on all state and school buildings and the people of the state to display the flag at their homes, lodges, churches and places of business; that business activities be held to the necessary minimum, and that appropriate services and exercises be had expressive of the public sentiments befitting the occasion."

Which reminds us that for the past several years, the pheasant season has opened at noon on November 11th. However, due to numerous complaints from

Will List Names of Tax Delinquent Residents

Names of about 150 County residents who are delinquent in Personal Property tax payments will be made public on Thanksgiving Day, November 24th.

Publications of such lists will be general on that day throughout Iowa under a law passed by the last legislature.

The new law directs county treasurers to publish the names in a county newspaper once each week for two consecutive weeks, the last of which shall be not more than two weeks before the first Monday in December.

Hancock County Treasurer, Roy L McMillin, said the Britt News Tribune will carry the list for Hancock County. He said "Courtesy Notices" were sent to about 300 delinquent personal property tax payers in Hancock County and that about half of them responded.

He said a 45 cents publication charge will be added to the tax and penalty already owed by those lists.

The lesson was given by Mrs Henry Gusse, and the speaker for the afternoon was Mrs Louis Bell of Britt, a former missionary. Mrs Melvin Miller and Mrs Roy Arnold sang as a duet.

Josten New Councilman; Replaces W. F. Pavey

Main interest in Tuesday's town election was centered around a race to see whether or not W F Pavey could retain his seat on the council, or whether Edwin Josten, a new candidate for the office would win out. Josten's name was substituted for Pavey's on nomination papers which otherwise carried the names of the incumbents, so Pavey filed an individual nomination paper and ran as an independent for the office.

However, his bid was not successful, as voters cast 52 ballots in his favor while marking 115 in favor of Josten.

High man in the balloting was Martin Barz, candidate for the office of treasurer. He received 119 votes. Byrnes Lemke, councilman, was next high with 118 votes. Mayor Cook received 110 votes and several names were written in for that office. W C Keraus received 7 votes for mayor, Jack Etchen, 4, C J Larsen, 2, Byrnes Lemke, 2, Richard Ulrich, 2, Don Bacon, 1, and Fred Bell, 1.

Other councilmen received votes as follows: Roy I Schaefer, 110, Frank Schulz, 103, and Henry Buseman, 116. Names written in for the council included W C Keraus, 18, Lyndon Kilgore, 5, Lloyd Lau, 2, D P Anderson, 1, and Fred Klinge, 1.

Net result of the balloting was that V A Cook is again mayor, councilmen are Roy I Schaefer, Edwin Josten, Henry Buseman, Byrnes Lemke, and Krank Schulz, and treasurer is Martin Barz.

Services Will Be This Thursday for Mrs. Mace

Mrs Vivian Mace, age 53, passed away at the Mercy Hospital in Mason City, early Tuesday morning, Nov. 8, following a long illness.

Mrs Mace was born in Hutchins, Iowa, on June 21, 1902. She attended the public schools of Britt, and was graduated from the Fort Dodge Business College, in Fort Dodge, Iowa. On June 25, 1925, she was united in marriage to Max M Mace, of Fort Dodge.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Max, who died in January of 1944; and by her twin sisters, Vida Naser, and Mrs Vira Blankenship.

Shamrocks Trounce Woden In Season Opener

Hit 57% of Shots During First Half

The Klemme Shamrocks got off to a start when they opened the 1955-56 basketball season against Woden here Tuesday evening. In a game that was close for three quarters, the Shamrocks poured on the coal in the last stanza to win by a score of 63-50.

Showing a lot of spirit, the Shamrocks fought the Woden team on equal terms throughout the first three quarters of the game. At the end of the first period they led 10-9, at the half it was 24 all, and at the end of third period, the Shamrocks held a narrow 40 to 38 lead.

In the final period, they really went to work and out scored the visitors 23 to 13. For the past several years there has been a tendency by Klemme teams to fade in the fourth quarter, but this year's Shamrocks showed none of that. In fact, they seemed to have more zip in the final period than they did at the start of the game, and employed a fast break to really break things open.

Denny Haefner led the attack for the Shamrocks with 22 points, while Kramer and Terhufen had 17 and 16, respectively. Christensen and Tegtmeyer led the Woden team with 17 and 16 points, respectively.

Coach Westberg used only six men in the game, substituting Bob Larson early in the fourth quarter for Roger Bachman, who had played from the start. Both men played some good ball.

The Little Shamrocks got behind four points by the end of the first half and were unable to overcome the deficit, losing out to the Woden reserves by a score of 32-27. Dave Waddingham led the local reserves with 10 points, while Trager had 9 for the Woden reserves.

The games were played before a small crowd compared to the number that usually turns out for games in Klemme, but it is thought that a number of conflicting activities had considerable to do with the number in attendance.

Saturday night, the Shamrocks travel to LuVerne for a non-conference tilt, and then next Friday night, November 18th, they meet Dows on the local floor in their first conference action of the season. Be there if you can. The team is showing a lot of spirit and a good attendance should make it even better.

● RANDOM THOUGHTS

various organizations, the state conservation commission has found it advisable to have no hunting or fishing season open on holidays or Sundays. Consequently, the pheasant season this year, will open at noon Saturday, November 12th. So don't be an eager beaver and start banging away at the ringnecks on November 11th as you have in the past. At a hundred dollars per bird, they are just a bit high . . . especially when you don't even get to eat them.

Which reminds us of the car load of hunters we heard about, who, while returning to their city home, were apprehended by a patrolman for failure to observe a stop sign. Worst of it was that while they were stopped, they let their hunting dog out of the car. The dog came to a perfect point on one of the hub caps of the car, and the ptarolman, being a suspicious cuss, pried off the the hub cap. Out dropped a hen pheasant. The other three hub caps yielded a similiar harvest, so instead of a small fine for a minor traffic violation, those hunters really got clobbered.

We wonder what they did with the dog? Man's best friend. Ha!

Which reminds us that the basketball season is again with us and with it come that necessary "evil", referees. Now referees don't normally classify in the best friend department, but we believe that they are at least worthy of common courtesy, and we know that your booing does nothing toward influencing them in favor of your team. In fact, it's quite possible that it has an opposite affect.

We know that there are times when is looks as though the referee was out to take everything but your eye teeth, but we doubt that such is often the case. We have, on occasion, felt the urge to "moider the bum", but we believe that you will help your team more by restraining that impulse . . . even though you think it is a righteous one. And after all, the poor referee is just another guy like you when he gets out of that striped shirt and spits out that whistle.

Which reminds us that for all the whistlin' in the dark we did with regard to Tuesday's election, it turned out pretty much as everyone expected. The same group is back in office . . . with only one change. Wallace Pavey, who entered the race for councilman as an independent was defeated and Edwin Josten is councilman instead.

There was considerable early talk of a write in campaign for a councilman or two, and we hear now that there was some effort in that direction. However, there was apparently no concerted action in that direction.

There were, however, a number of names written in for the various offices, and we know that there are at least five people in Klemme with a sense of humor, because we got five votes for the office of councilman. Wow!

Which reminds us that people who run for office should be qualified for their jobs . . . and we think we have a pretty well qualified group. Our congratulations go to Mayor Cook, the councilmen, and to treasurer Martin Barz. We feel that they will serve our community well.

Editorial of the Week

Because it's so hard to find things to write editorials about I thought I would write in poetic form a typical K. H. S. school day. This poem was written by Jeanne Barz and I must say you would find this very true if you were to visit our hallowed halls.

A Typical K. H. S. School Day

The clock on the wall says 8:45
And already the kids begin to arrive
And by nine o'clock the rooms will be packed
With noisy, mischievous, spoiled little brats.

By 9:15 the laggers drag in
And slide in their seats with sleepy grins,
They just couldn't hurry, 'cause hurrying's a crime
And besides who can hurry at this early time.

At 9:25 the lessons commence
Of reading and writing and other nonsense,
And all through the morning time drags slowly on Until by the bell the morning is gone.

Then there's a mad rush and the halls are all filled
With the banging of lockers, you'd think you'd get killed.
Then the kids fly past and before you can wink,
The place is as still as the halls of the Sphinx.

When you come to your senses and outside you rush
All that remains is a thick cloud of dust.
There isn't a solitary soul within sight
And the street is as dead and as quiet as night.

It's peaceful and quiet and till once again,
The studious students begin to drag in—
Not at all in the manner they left just before
But much more slowly they come in the door.

Once again there's a clammer of lockers and doors
And the prevailing silence just isn't anymore.
The hallways echo with noisy shouts
And kids are running around and about.

And then finally after peace is restored
We get to the process of studying once more.
By this time the teachers are nerous and pale
And they themselves long for the dismissal bell.

After a long tedious day, which seems like three years
The dismissal bell rings and is greeted with cheers.
Once again the dear old schoolhouse rings
With the clammer of lockers, books and such things.

And then once agin the halls are all clear
And a lonely silence once more doth appear.
Until disturbed tomorrow at 8:45
When the angelic students begin to arrive.

Senior Class News

We consider budgets very important in our rapidly moving world of today, so a longer amount of time is being spent in studying this topic in business training.

We have found many interesting things about Benjamin Franklin after reading some of his articles in literature.

Franklin, as a great commonsense philosopher: we read, "Project of Arrivng at Moral Perfection". As a witty writer: we read, "Let us now Forgive and Forget," which was a reply to England's request for money lost in the war. As a scientist: we read, "The Electrical Kite" and "First Aerial Voyage by Man," which were letters that were published in the "Transaction".

We finished the chapter on cash receipt journal which is the third journal in a series of five special journals. Now in bookkeeping we are reading the chapter on cash payment journals which is the fourth journal.

We finished discussing our 9 weeks test in sociology and now we have started reading in our book again. We are on the chapter, "Safeguarding Public Opinion is Essential in Our Democracy".

In advanced algebra we are starting to work on equations having two unknowns. We are solving them by the graph method at present.

We finished discussing the chapter, "How Nationalism exists in South America and Canada. We are now reading how "Economic Difference Breed Sectionalism" in American history.

In typing II we are doing outside work gain. For instance, we are typing out programs for the band concert.

Question of the Week

What means of devilment and destruction did you perform on Halloween? (Any thing you say will NOT be used against you.)

Mrs Gorden: Helped give a party so others were kept from devilment and destruction, I hope.

Ronald Hummel: I refuse to answer that on the grounds that it might tend to incriminate me.

Marvin Sandry: None. (Who are you kidding, Marvin?)

Herb Griemann: Teased the cops in Garner and was run out of town.

Joyce T: I stayed home and went to bed early.

Margaret P: Went to a few of the neighbors and messed up a few things. (In the country.)

Carol: I had planned to spend a quiet evening at Shirley's house but we were distrubed by all the little trickers who came for treats.

Gracka: I wasn't planning to do any crime or destruction - just a little devilment. But my 2 fellow comrades and I didn't succeed in doing a thing.. Don't think we didn't try, just ask Beverly and Marvalyn.

Miss Beardsley: After much deliberation, "we" decided it would be for the best if "we" spent a quiet evening, just passing out the treats to our callers.

Denny: Nothing out of the ordinary. Although I got blamed, by a few of the gossipers of this town, for organizing a gang for destruction. I think these people found out different, though.

Jokes

Mr Kirkpatrick was inspecting the junior class room. He wrote on the blackboard, LXXX, turned to LaVohn sitting in the front row and asked, "What does that mean?"

LaVohn blushed slightly but replied in a confident voice, "Love and kisses."

A beggar stopped an elderly lady on the road and asked her for some money.

"Do you really like walking and begging?" she asked.

"No", the beggar replied, "Some-times I wish I had a car."

Two small boys came to the dentist's office. One said to the dentist, "I want a tooth out and I don't want gas because I'm in a hurry."

"That's a brave boy", said the dentist. "Which tooth is it?"

The boy pointed to his companion, "Show him your tooth, Albert,' he said.

Work on the concert program is progressing fairly well, and it is our opinion that if you come to the concert on the 20th of this month, you will not be disappointed.

This week we will introduce you to the woodwind trio. It's members are Gracka Gerardi, a senior, flute; Sharleen Swanson, a junior, saxophone; and Dorothy Kroehnke, a sophmore, clarinet.

And so ends this column til another week.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The boy's reaction was unexpected and violent. He stared back at the driver testing equipment lined up in the school auditorium. "That junky stuff don't prove anything," he sneered.

"It isn't being used against you," the man in charge of the test said quietly. "It's just a warning that your vision is too poor to drive safely. Your distance judgement is very poor, but probably it can be corrected."

"I can see as good as any of those guys," the boy said, waving to the group of classmates watching the incident. "And I don't need glasses."

"You or someone else can decide that," the man said, "and it will come up when you apply for drivers license. In the meantime, don't try to drive a car."

As the man was leaving town that afternoon, he thought of the belligerent boy again. It was pretty obvious be knew his own defect but wouldn't admit it. And there was a good chance he was driving without a license.

The man decided his job wasn't quite done so he looked up the boys parents and explained to them that their son's eye sight could make him a dangerous driver.

He got another unexpected reaction. "The boy was home for noon lunch," the mother said, "and he told us how you held him up in front of all the others. I don't think that was fair or decent. The boy can see as good as any."

As the parental comments grew stronger, the man decided to leave but before he went he managed to get in a point-blank question: "Do you let that boy drive a car?" Both parents said no, the boy was too young.

Little more than one month later the boy killed himself when he drove the family car squarely into a bridge abutment at something like 70 miles an hour.

This and That Around K. H. S. . . .

It seems as though Fonda and Mart are getting along pretty well in English class lately. Tell us more kids.

The way it looked, some Klemme girls were having a pretty good time in Garner. Sunday.

It seems that Marvalyn has been having a great time lately. It that right, Marv?

Say Winola, what happened to your heart-throb? Maybe we better ask Gracka. How about that, Gracka?

Does anyone know who Berleen is going with? Won't you tell us, Berleen?

One of our spies told us about a girl from Garner who has been chasing Keith Nuehring. How about this Keith? It isn't Marilyn R, is it?

Weren't you lonesome, Jerry, on the hayride when you girl friend from Belmond was waiting at the school house for you?

I wonder who Larry W took to the show Halloween night? That's a pretty good way to stay out of trouble, Larry. What do you think, Coleen?

Say, June, did you have fun on the hay ride Friday night? It seems that Ronnie B did.

What has happened between Herb G and Sandra S? He seems to be peeved with her. Is this right, Herb?

Prospects Look Good For Pheasant Hunters

The Big Noon is almost here, with 12 o'clock Saturday, November 12, marking the start of the 1955 Iowa pheasant season.

Conservation Commission officials report some of the highest pheasant population in recent years, and conservation officers in northern and northwestern Iowa—men usually sophisticated in the comings and goings of pheasants—are excited about this year's prospects. Commission biologists attribute the increased pheasant crop to near-ideal hatching and rearing conditions in spring and early scmmer.

The long season pheasant zone will extend from November 12 through December 5, with daily shooting hours from noon to 4:40 p. m. There is a bag and possession limit of 3 cock birds. Hancock and adjoining counties are in the long season zone.

With prospects for a fine pheasant season ahead, hunters are being urged by the Conservation Commission to avoid all friction with landowners, and to always ask permission before hunting on private lands. Commission officials said that asking the farmer first will insure better huting this year and in years to come.

We Like to Work!

Maybe this is a surprise to you, but the fact is, we like to work. We don't go on strike. We don't know the meaning of a "40-hour week". What is a "guaranteed annual wage?" There doesn't seem to be much room for such things in this community.

Since we like to work, we sometimes have to find something to do ahead of time. So, if your farm machinery is in tip-top condition, how about the engine in your car and truck? The same tools and "know-how" can be used for a lot of different things. We are not afraid to work. We like it.

Farmers reap a substantial benefit from the brewing industry. Last year America's breweries purchased over $250,000,000 worth of corn, soybeans, wheat, barley and other grains. Yes, the industry is an important customer of our Iowa farmers.

$23,000,000 Tax Money . . .

We would all have to dig a lot deeper for taxes if it weren't for the brewing industry. For the year ending June 30, 1954, the industry paid over $23,000,000 in taxes on beer sold in Iowa alone. Yes, from every standpoint . . .

OPPOSE FILING FEE

The Iowa State Bar association has advised the state tax study committee that it is opposed to the proposed minimum filing fee in connection with state income tax returns.

The minimum filing fee which had been proposed in the last legislative session, has been mentioned frequently since then. Henry J TePaske, Orange City, president of the bar group, declared:

"The association does not recommend the imposition of a minimum filing fee, either for the so-called no-pay income tax returns or for any other returns, because it is inconsistent with the basic concepts of income taxation and more nearly resembles an excise or poll tax."

He said the association opposes such a tax in principle and not on the basis of whether it is good policy to raise additional revenue.

TePaske said his association did not have an opinion on the point of radio and television advertising as a source of revenue but noted that such a tax might involve serious questions of constitutional law,

FARM BUREAU

Henry A Wallace, native Iowan and former vice-president of the United States, and Joseph N Welch, Iowa-born Boston attorney who represented the army at the McCarthy hearings will headline the speaking program Monday and Tuesday for the annual Iowa Farm Bureau federation convention in Des Moines.

DUCKS SPEED ISSUE

State Rep William Denman (D) of Polk County, said that the Iowa attorney general has ducked a direct answer to his inquiry on whether the commissioner of public safety or chief of the highway patrol have authority to establish emergency highway speed limits.

However, Denman said, the attorney general "has clearly ruled by implication that the mandatory maximum speed limit imposed by Highway Patrol Chief Herrirk and Saftey Commissioner Moyer was illegal."

The emergency speed limits were set last July 4 by Moyer and Herrick, Denman challenged their authority to take such action and asked the attorney general for a ruling.

Countryman's reply pointed out that the state legislature has the authority to declare speed limits, and has authorized the highway commission to fix speed limits under certain circumstances.

SELECTIVE SERVICE

Governor Hoegh has announced that effective Dec 1 the new state director of selective service will be Glenn R Bowles, a lieutenant-colonel in the national guard. Bowles will succeed Col Ralph Lancaster, who has spent 15 years with the selective service, eight as director.

Bowles, 37, will get a salary of about $11,000 a year. He formerly taught school at Klemme, Murray, Indianola and North high school in Des Moines.

WASHINGTON PARLEY

A total of 26 Iowans will go to Washington the end of this month to participate in the annual White House conference on education. The parley will be Nov 28 through Dec 2.

The White House conference is a climax to the nationwide series of county and state meetings held in each state in recent weeks. All Iowa counties held such meetings and named delegates to the state conference. The governor names the delegates to the Washington meeting.

Included in the list of delegates are Melvin Baker of Humboldt, C H Becker of Waverly; Art Carpenter, Blairburg; Ed Groomes, Menlo; G W Hunt, Guttenberg; C C Peterson, Indianola; Mrs Eldon Rosene, Madrid.

Delegates pay their own expenses with the exception of transportation.

NEW DIRECTOR

Dr Karl Catlin, clinical director of the state Mental Health Institute at Clarinda, is the new superintendent of the institution succeeding Dr Norman K Render, who has resigned, effective this month.

Dr Render will join the Norfolk State hospital in Nebraska as staff psychiatrist. In his new position he will be freed of administrative chores which he had while in Iowa.

The board of control, which made the announcement, said the change will be effective Dec 1. Dr Catlin, who has been with the institute since 1948, is 42 years old. He came here from the state hospital at Topeka, Kansas.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

The last news report that we heard Tuesday evening, called for snow in the southern part of the state, but said that cold weather moving in from the northwest would eliminate the possibility of snow in this area. They goofed!

When we woke up this morning, everything was covered with snow, the wind was blowing about umpteen miles per hour, and the thermometer on the north side of our house read four above. If it was in the middle of January, we wouldn't squawk to loudly about this kind of weather, but coming this early . . . phooey!

We hadn't planned on making any use of the snow shovel for some time yet, but we had to dig around in the basement and find it this morning. Could be that we will get to make a lot of use of the blasted thing this winter. At least, we're off to an early start.

Oh well, it's only five and a half months til the first of May.

The Iowa Development Commission says there are over one and a half times as many turkeys as people in the state of Iowa. Boy, are we glad that some of those turkeys are going to be shipped out of the state. We would hate to have to eat our share of that much turkey on Thanksgiving Day. Not that we are averse to eating turkey, but imagine a family Thanksgiving dinner with a turkey and a half at each place. Alka Seltzer sales would really zoom.

Thanksgiving Day will see another event that makes us proud of Klemme. There will be a union church service at 10 o'clock in the morning at the Methodist Church, with Rev Jaberg, of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, in the pulpit, and members of both congregations in attendance.

Many towns cannot boast this harmony among their churches, but it has existed here for years. We think it is a fine thing, and is the way it should be. The ultimate goal of all Christian religions is the same, and we thinks it is a small person who will not tolerate minor differences in the teachings used to reach the goal.

Anyway, we're proud that the church people of this community can work together in harmony, instead of going their individual ways and doing their best to undermine the position of others as is the case in many communities.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, NOVEMBER 16, 1955 | VOLUME 60 | NUMBER 47

A PROCLAMATION

As Mayor of the City of Klemme, I hereby proclaim the period from November 13 to 23, 1955, as Retarded Children's Week in tribute to the many families of the retarded in our community.

Let us pledge our support and understanding so that these forgotten children need no longer be overlooked by our leaders, ignored by our schools and shunned by society.

Our local chapter of the National Association for Retarded Children, the Council for Retarded Children of Hancock and Winnebago Counties, should be commended for its efforts in bringing before the general public the essential facts about mental retardation, and for inspiring public cooperation for a broad, concerted attack upon this major social problem.

During the period from November 13 to 23, I urge everyone in this community to give moral and financial support to the fund-raising campaign of the Council for Retarded Children—improvement of facilities and an organization dedicated to the services for all the retarded, regardless of age, color or creed.

V. A. COOK,
Mayor, City of Klemme

Retarded Children Group To Be Guests At Algona

An interesting program is scheduled. Mr Marlin Roll, the Director of Training at the State School at Woodward, will be the featured speaker of the evening. Mr Roll will bring with him the "Happy Harmonizers", a group of teenage boys from the school who will present a program of songs. A film, "Tuesday's Child", describing the work of the various associations for retarded children from the national to the local level, will be shown.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Goodwill Truck to be in Klemme November 29

The Goodwill Truck will be in Klemme, November 29th to pick up discarded clothing, toys, shoes, etc. for the handicapped workers at Goodwill Industries. These discarded household items are the material worked on by the handicapped as they attempt to help themselves.

The Goodwill Industries operate on the principle that the handicapped person does not want charity, but a chance.

Don't throw it out—throw it in a goodwill bag, or a box will do. Bring materials to Mrs Martha Bredbenner's home.

Courthouse to Close

All offices at the Hancock County courthouse will be closed all day on Thursday, November 24th, in observance of Thanksgiving Day, according to an announcement by County Auditor Hattie Jass.

Poor First Quarter Cost Shamrocks Game At LuVerne Saturday

A first quarter that saw the Klemme Shamrocks practically unable to buy a basket, caused them to come out on the short end of 64 to 56 score at LuVerne, Saturday night. It was not for lack of spirit that the locals lost, it was just that the 20 to 6 lead LuVerne held at the end of the first quarter was too much to overcome.

Shortly after the second period got underway the Shamrocks were behind 24 to 6, but by the half time they had come back enough to make the score 29 to 18. The end of the third period saw them trailing 51 to 37, but they never gave up, and were gaining on the LuVerne cagers when the whistle ended the game.

Kramer and Heafner handled most of the scoring with 27 and 21 points, respectively. Henderson accounted for 30 points of the LuVerne total.

Friday night will see the Shamrocks in North Star Conference action for the first time this season when Dows appears on the Klemme floor. Tuesday night, Britt will be here, and then on Friday, November 29th, Garner will tangle with the Shamrocks on the local floor.

Winnebago Council BSA Semi Annual Meeting

Herb Ohrt, President of the Winnebago Council of Boy Scouts of America, announced today that the Semi-Annual Meeting of the Council will be held on Thursday, November 17th, at 6:30 P M, in the dining room of the Holy Family Church in Mason City.

All Scouters have been invited to attend this meeting. It is a business session, basically, for the purpose of planning the program of emphasis for the first year of the Four-Year Program, "Onward for God and My Country", which will be launched in February, 1956.

Edgar W Wolf, Assistant National Director of the Rural Scouting Service, Boy Scouts of America, will be the main speaker. Wolfe has visited this Council previously, and did some outstanding work in relationships conferences.

Operating committee chairmen and officers of the Council met last week with President Orht to develop agendas for the committee meetings which will be held at the time of this meeting. Committee chairman are: Dr Sidney Rand, Forest City, Advancement; Russel McMains, Charles City, Camping and Activities; Dr Dulmes, Klemme, Health and Safety; Ted Leaver, Mason City, Leadership Training; Dean Galvin, Charles City, Organization and Extension; E F. Bisbey, Clarion, Finance.

Polio Vaccine Available For Children 3 to 12

At the recent Hancock-Winnebago Medical Society meeting a plan was formulated to administer Polio vaccine which has recently become available. It is being made available to family physicians for inoculation of all children, ages three through twelve, and pregnant mothers. Those innoculated will receive one injection now, one a month later and one about six months later.

If the series of injections was started now, immunization would be completed for next year's polio season. Those children innoculated last year had a 70-90% lower incidence of polio in those areas where it was epidemic than did those children not vaccinated.

Studies have demonstrated that immunization with the new polio vaccine gives a more complete immunity than the disease itself does.

Those desiring the immunization should contact their local doctor.

company . . . and sees to it that they get around where they will be read.

One of the recent best ones that "Sandy" has been distributing reads as follsows: "Doing nothing is the most tiresome thing in the world, because you can't stop and rest.

We would say that the old world hasn't gone too far to the bad . . . and as long as there are people who are willing to extend a helping hand to others, we don't think it will.

A case in point is that of Irvin Blank, who farms west of Klemme. He has been suffering from arthritis for some time and has been unable to properly handle all his farm work. Good neighbors Homer Schoenwetter, Wavel Schaefer, Herman Meyer and Virgil Stille took a load off his mind last Thursday when they came to his farm and plowed approximately fifty acres for him.

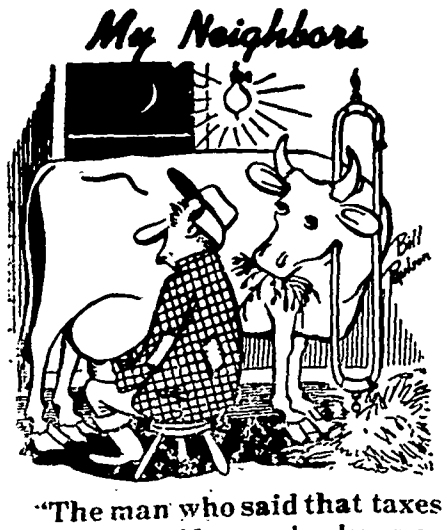
Such happenings tend to bolster one's faith in human nature . . . and with some of the things that are going on in the world today, an occasional boost is all to the good.

"A philosopher is someone who always knows what to do — until it happens to him!"

A stuffed pheasant, placed in a prominent position just east of town on opening day of the pheasant season, caused any number of red faces, and a considerable amount of wasted ammunition. We heard about one perplexed hunter, who unloaded three rounds into the lifeless critter, reloaded his shotgun, and pumped in three more rounds before he wised up.

With shotgun shells (12 gauge) selling at almost 15 cents apiece, not only his confidence in his markmaship, but also the bulge in his pocketbook took quite a beating.

The old bird has taken on a very bedraggled appearance now, but his position is changed so that he now roosts atop a sign at the very end of Main Street, where all can see and chuckle as they are reminded of the hapless hunters who tried to bring him down.



"The man who said that taxes keep us half-way broke was sure a poor judge of distance!"

In case you have been wondering what has happened to the Lions Club light bulb sale that was publicized some weeks ago . . . the bulbs never arrived. There was some foul up in Des Moines in getting the order placed. Lion President Bob Andreae says that they should be here by next week, though.

Then there is the guy who says that having fun is like having insurance — the older you get the more it costs you.

And another fellow, brighter than we, says that often times opportunitye is missed because we are broadcasting when we should be tuning in.

VETS DIVIDENDS

Iowa veterans will be interested in the report of the Veterans Administration that regular annual dividends will be paid during 1956 on National Service Life Insurance (NSLI), the government insurance program for servicemen in World War II, and on U S Government Life Insurance (USGLI), the insurance policies for servicemen of World War 1.

The VA reports that payments will be made shortly after the anniversary date of each policy, beginning in January and ending in December.

GOP MEETINGS

Republican county chairmen in the state are planning a series of workshop or strategy meetings as results of district conferences which have just been completed by state party leaders. The county chairmen will model their county parleys, for Republican leaders and workers, after the state district affairs.

The seven district meetings (the fourth and fifth districts combined their get-together), observers declared, gave strong indication that probably top of the ticket candidates will have no primary opposition. That means, if no candidates step out of the ranks, that U S Sen Bourke B Hickenlooper and Gov Leo A Hoegh will not be opposed in the GOP primary next June. Both, of course, will face Democrat opposition in the November general elections.

Don Pierson, state chairman, said after the district conferences:

"There is a real feeling around the state that if President Eisenhower does not run for reelection, the Republicans will select a candidate who will follow the policies and principles of President Eisenhower, a man who could be supported by Ike."

STUDY COMMITTEE

Gov Leo A Hoegh has plans for a committee to study the state's retirement system programs. State Sen Duane Dewel of Algona, Republican floor leader in the senate during the last legislature, had urged the governor to activate the committee.

The senate, in the last session, had passed a resolution directing the governor to name such a committee "to make an unbiased study of the retirement systems and the extent of the obligations of the state in the future.

The senate resolution also asks state department heads to recommend to the next legislature a "means of making savings in the departments."

OBSERVE FOUNDING

Several Iowa chapters in various programs helped observe the 36th anniversary of The American Legion Auxiliary last weekend. The auxiliary of the Legion was organized in 1919 in Minneapolis.

Iowa women have held many top positions in the national organization, including national president. Mrs Donald Macrae of Coucil Bluffs was the first Iowan to serve as president in 1921-22, and last year Mrs Percy Lainson was the top officer.

Present Iowa department president is Mrs Walter H Glynn of Des Moines.

LIQUOR-BY-DRINK

State Rep William F Denman (D) of Des Moines told a Wapello county Young Democrat's meeting he believes that the next session of the legislature will legalize ahe sale of liquor-by-the-drink in Iowa.

He said unrelenting law endorcement by the county general plus added pressures in legislators for reduction of the state sales tax will force lawmakers to the liquor legislation for additional state revenue.

Denman said Countryman is the only attorney general who ever "really attempted" to endorce the state liquor laws.

CURTAIL ACTIVITIES

More classroom time was recommended for Iowa school students at the recent state teachers' convention in Des Moines.

Iowa high school principals said that students competing in athletics, drama, speech and music are spending too much time outside the classroom in their extra curricular school activities.

Some principals criticized the basketball and wrestling programs being administered by the Iowa High School Athletic Association.

They adopted a resolution which called for elimination of duplication of events of the High School Speech association, the High School Forensic League and the Play Production Festival, and the limiting of student participation to two invitational tournaments and festivals, other than the three mentioned above.

SALES TAX

A study by the Associated Press reports that in the 22 years the two percent sales tax has been in effect in Iowa, it raised a total of $657,035,005. This money, of course, has helped finance state government and various state aids.

With the increase of the rate to two-and-a-half per cent, the collections are expected to yield about 25 percent more than in the past, state tax officials believe..

The last legislature raised the sales tax to increase revenue for higher state appropriations.

S-D DAY

All Iowans are being asked to participate in the second nationwide Safe Driving Day (S-D Day), Thursday, December 1.

The Safe Driving Day has been endorsed by President Eisenhower and in turn by the governors of the 48 states, including Iowa Gov Leo A Hoegh.

The observance, of course, is to reduce the number of highway accidents and particularly the death toll on the nation's highways. It is sponsored by the President's committee for traffic safety in cooperation with nearly 200 national organizations, government agencies and municipalities.

The Iowa department of public safety, the state highway patrol, county and city enforcement agencies and other groups are preparing for the day with plans for an intensified drive to build up during the remainder of November.

Question of the Week

How do you like the new idea of putting the reference books from the library in the study hall?

Carol Bridges: I can't see how it is of any advantage to anyone.

Juda Stahl: I don't care too much because I don't use the books much, but I think it's kind of odd.

Marvin Michelson: I don't like it.

Marcia Watne: The only advantage is that I think the kids are running around more. I dislike the idea.

Donald Auborn: I think it's nuts.

Berleen Bridges: I like them better in the library. That's what the library is for.

Eva Thiemann: I think they should have been left where they were. I don't think the study hall is anyplace for reference books to be kept.

John Datema: I don't like it because I can't go to the library if the reference books aren't in there.

Senior Class News

After a week of discussion, we finished the chapter about Franklin. Today we received a whopper of a test. It was an essay-type test and those essay questions are really complicated.

In bookkeeping, we have finished the exercise on how to reconciliate the bank statement with the checkbook. We are now ready to begin a fifth group of special journals. We have completed the purchase journal, sales journal, cash receipts journal and cash payment journal. Our final journal is the general journal in which all miscellaneous transactions are recorded.

We have been dealing with the different types of crimes this week in sociology. There are three types: treason, felony, and misdemeanor. For an outside assignment we had to look for an example of one of these crimes in the newspaper.

In American history, we finished the chapter on "Economic Differences Breed Sectionalism," by discussing how John Quincy Adams won the election for president. Our next chapter deals with Andrew Jackson and how he advances democracy.

The advanced alegbra class has been solving equations in two unknowns by addition or subtraction, and by subtitution.

The advanced typing class has been making programs and tickets for the band concert. We have also been taking ten minute writings.

In general business we have been doing problems concerning notes. We have also been discussing buying on credit.

Jokes

Said one of Robinson Crusoe's fleas to another. "See you again on Friday."

The students were noisy when the teacher entered the room.

Teacher: "Order! Order!"

Voice: "Two oht dogs and a coke."

"What's your dog's name?"
"Ginger".
"Does Ginger bite?'
"No Ginger snaps."

Teacher: "If you had ten dollars in one pocket and fifteen lollars in the other, what would you have?"

Johnny: "Somebody else's pants."

Editorial of the Week

Gracka Gerardi, a senior at Klemme High School, has been selected as county representative in the Mid-America Leadership Discovery Prograrm final to be conducted on the Parson's College campus at Fairfield on November 18th and 19th.

We inquired as to how Gracka became interested in this contest and the following is what she told us:

"Coming up from band one morning, I noticed a poster on the bulletin board in the hall, giving information about a contest called the Mid-America Leadership Discovery program. I stopped to read it and found that I would have a chance to win a four year college scholarship just by writing an essay on the subject 'My Future in Mid-America'. It also informed me to get contest rules from my principal.

I went up to the office, got my information and found that I must send a card telling my intentions to enter the contest to Parson College, at Fairfield, Iowa, where the contest was to be held. The deadline on the card was two days from the day I received the rules. I mailed it right away and soon received more information about the contest.

The main topic was to be 'My Future in Mid-America' with the addition of a sub-topic about what the future would hold for you. They gave examples such as My Future as a Farmer in Mid America' or as a homemaker, school teacher, etc.

I was rather preoccupied with other things for a couple of weeks and didn't have time to start my essay. The deadline on the contest was but two weeks away when the water pipe in the school house broke, and school was dismissed for two days. Bless that water pipe. During this vacation I composed my essay. I must admit it took some deep thought for although I knew I wanted to go into the field of commercial art, I didn't know exactly what part of the field. I finally hit upon the idea of "My Future as a Good Citizen in Mid-America' and this is what I wrote on. I was sure of what I wanted my future to hold for me on this subject.

I mailed my essay with this thought in mind: 'I have nothing to lose and everything to gain.'

When I was notified of 'my success', it was quite a shock. I feel that being one of the winners in the primary contest is in itself a great honor and privilege."

Being one of 85 winners in the primary contest chosen out of at least 500 entries, Gracka will read her essay orally for a panel of judges at Parson College the 18th. She will also be interviewed by a judge. Four will be selected. The grand prize is $500 and a four-year college scholarship. Second, third and fourth prizes are four-year scholarships. For being one of the primary winners, she will receive a trophy. We all join in wishing Gracka the best of luck on the 18th.

Teacher Interview

The teacher interviewed this week was Francis M Johnson. He is commercial teacher in K H S and assistant basketball coach. This is his fourth year of teaching here.

He has attended Waldorf College for 2 years and Luther College 2 years where he received his B A degree.

For his hobby, Mr Johnson named photograghy. His favorite pastimes consists of hunting and fishing and also that wholesome sport of sleeping.

French fried shrimp and French fried potatoes are his favorite foods. "Hawkeye" is his favorite song. On Tuesday nights you will be sure to find Mr Johnson in front of his TV set watching his favorite program, The $64,000 Question. Whenever a movie is playing with either Marilyn Monroe or Marlon Brando in it, Mr Johnson will see it for they are his favorite actress and actor.

All students take note of this next statement! Mr Johnson's pet peeve is "students that whisper without permission".

Fred Waring is his favorite orchestra and "Somebody Goofed" his favorite saying.

He just can't seem to recall any most embarassing moment (we don't think he tried just too hard).

Mr Johnson's future plans are to continue his schooling and work toward a MA degree, also to stay in teaching profession.

Senior Interview

Our senior this week is Dennis LaVerne Haefner. He was born in Klemme, Iowa on the fateful day of May 7, 1938. He has grown to reach the height of 6'1" and weighs 160 pounds. He is equipped with hazel eyes and brown hair. The following is a list of some of Dennis' favorites:

Denny's pet peeve is boisterous people. For the future he plans to attend college.

So ends the picture of Dennis LaVerne Haefner, senior of Klemme High.

P S: Dennis says his outside interest is Garner. Need we say more?

Cackles from the Coop

The time for our band concert is getting batted around like a rubber ball. First it was the 16th, then it was the 15th, and now it is Sunday afternoon, the 20th at 3:00. Let's hope that it stays there!

This week we will introduce you to another contest ensemble group, whose members are: Gracka Gerardi, flute; Cozette Lau, first clarinet; Winola Zwald, second clarinet; and Virginia Kudje, bass clarinet.

Last Sunday afternoon, Paul Behm, Mason City High School band director was here and gave our clarinet section some instruction. Everyone learned something and we appreciated his help.

Girls' Sports

More exercise, is the word for P T. We have also been doing acrobatic tricks and tumbling Some of these include: standing on our heads, back bends, hand springs, and turning cart wheels. Each of the girls had their turn at these. Some do fairly well, but most of us are having our troubles. We're doing our best, though. We found that you must not be frightened, but have confidence in yourself.

After we are finished with this course, we should all be able to get a job in the circus doing acrobatic tricks.

Naomi Circle Met

The Naomi Circle of the Methodist Church met with Nellie Arnold on Friday afternoon with Kate Sandrey as co-hostess,

The table for supplies, including cookies for missionary projects was well filled. Another table with surprise packages netted almost $9.00.

A luncheon of chicken sandwiches and coffee was served by the hostesses.

Mary Circle Met

The Mary Circle met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs C A Larsen. Miss Leona Lau gave the lesson and Mrs Melvin Schaefer had charge of the Supply Christmas party.

I hear June wants to go with a kid from Tennessess. Tell us more.

Coleen certainly is busy lately. Have you made up your mind between Bob A and Larry yet?

What's this about Karen C asking Maynard to walk her home Tuesday night after school because she didn't want to walk home alone? Is this the real reason, Karen?

Who did Donald A and Maynard W pick up after the ballgame Tuesday night at Belmond?

I wonder if the Garner girls who came to the game Tuesday night made any difference in the way the boys played? If it did, I sure hope they keep on coming.

Who did Denny take home Saturday night, after skating? Can't you make up your mind, Denny?

It looks like Don K is still interested in someone from Garner. Could it still be Linda A?

It seem Gordon and Shirley have been hitting it off quite regularly lately. They were sitting together in the show Sunday night.

Does anyone know anything about Gracka? We have been informed she had a date with Lee Saturday night.

It sounds as though Roger B can't make up his mind about the Kanawha girls. He sure has been making the rounds.

One of the new couples on the GSCS hayride was Bob L and Barbara A.

Ruth and Norman haven't been getting along too well lately. Maybe Don T has something to do with this.

Who are Keith's and Martin's girl friends now? Bring us up to date, someone.

The Time Is Now—

Get Acquainted With Your Child

Your child's characteristics probably indicate the age group of which he's a member. At specific ages, he needs a very specific type of attention. Do see that he gets it.

If you "rack your brain" occasionally, Mom, about what makes the small fry act the way he does, you're not alone, for child development and family life specialists throughout the country have been studying this age-old problem for years. And, they've managed to come up with a pretty basic set of definitions—definitions which say even though your child is an individual and must be treated as one, he still has the same needs and reacts much in the same way as every child does. Your job is to know his needs—and then to fulfill them.

According to Ruth Littlefield, child development instructor at Iowa State College, Erik Erickson, noted psychoanalyst, has categorized your child's need stages into four groups. He terms them "components of a healthy personality." It's important that you know these—for what's more important than your young one's personality, and how you can contribute to its top-notch health?

TRUST

If your baby's new, he is looking for trust. During the first year of his life, the trust foundation is laid.

That's why it's vital that you attend not only to his physical needs but also to his emotional needs. Perhaps you think "Oh, he's so little, he couldn't possibly tell the difference between my arms holding him and his own crib." How mistaken you are! He must feel secure and be certain that everything is all right. It's impossible for him to feel completely secure without plenty of attentiveness on your part.

Children who miss out on a secure first year often become mistrustful adults. Of course, it's normal for the toddler who's first venturing into sociability to be slightly mistrustful of strangers. This will pass, however. It's the youngster who misses the "trust boat" who won't successfully pass through this stage.

AUTONOMY

Miss Litchfield says stage number two is autonomy. If you are the mother of a child 1 to 4 years old, this is most likely where he is in his stage of emotional development now. He's trying so hard to be independent—yet he's actually still very dependent.

He's trying to assert humself as an individual and has lots of fun saying "no" just to see what what your reaction is. He's testing himself to see how much he can get by with. You'll probably find him struggling to get his own shoes on about now. Let him do it—even if you can see it's hopeless, let him attempt these tasks for they develop within him a sense of independence and self-worth. You and Dad will need to set disciplinary controls during this period, too.

INITIATIVE

Four to six-year-olds fit right into the initiative period. About now, that junior citizen is feelng results of the trust and autonomy stages, and it's high time for him to try out his very own ideas. See that he gets as many different experiences now as possible—and that he uses his own initiative and ideas during these experiences. If he's stymied in this stage, he may grow up to be a hesitant, withdrawn person—one who doesn't contribute the ideas he has.

ACCOMPLISHMENT

Accomplishment manifests itself as an extension of the initiative stage—and you're apt to see it when the youngsters are between 6 and 12 years old. Accomplishment, like all these components needs to be fulfilled throughout life to maintain a healthy personality. The actual foundation is laid during childhood years, however, and that's when you, Mom, with the help of Dad, can help build some healthy personalities if you recognize the needs of your own brood.

Investigate Two Auto Accidents Near Garner

State Highway Patrolman Elmer Angle was called to check two recent traffic accidents in Hancock County. On Saturday morning, a 1953 Ford driven by Clair Thompson of Forest City, left the highway about 2½ miles east of Garner, when the driver misjudged the speed of a car ahead and in applying the brakes to avoid crashing into the rear of the car ahead, lost control and his car overturned. Riding with Thompson were Howard Johnson and Robert Etzen of Forest City. All were taken to the Mercy Hospital in Mason City for treatment.

On Saturday night, a 1950 Mercury driven by Dean Mallow of Belmond going east on highway No. 18 near the Butz Service Station west of Garner, crashed into a 1955 Chevrolet driven by Delmar Quandt of Camp Hale, Colo., which was entering the highway from the service station grounds. Damages in this accident were estimated to be $1350 by Patrolman Angle. Mallow was taken to the Hancock County Memorial Hospital in Britt for a checkup and Quandt suffered a knee injury in the accident.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

The town of Klemme sits smack dab in the middle of some of the finest farm land to be found anywhere on the earth. Consequently, the Klemme community is an agricultural one. People who live in town and those who live on farms in the surrounding countryside, all have a vital interest in anything that affects the agricultural economy of the country . . . and the agricultural economy pretty much controls the over-all economy.

Percentage-wise, farm population is on the decrease, with latest figures showing that only some thirteen percent of the people in the United States now live on farms. Thus, there must be eighty-seven percent who are engaged in some other form of activity calculated to make them a living. But whether they realize it or not, they are almost wholly dependent on the farmer. Without the produce from his fields and feedlots, and the purchases he makes with the income from this produce, they would find the pickings pretty slim.

We, here in Klemme, realize this dependency. Not that we and other small towns like us aren't also necessary to the farmer, but he and his farm are the only excuse for the town's existence. When fortune smiles on the farmer, it also smiles on us, and when the going gets rough, either from weather or markets, we feel it almost as soon as he does. It takes a little longer in the city, but the feeling gets there, too.

Right now, what with $10 hogs and one thing and another, things are a little rough. Many people are concerned. Many of them are grumbling and saying that the government should do so and so, or such and such. Maybe they are right to grumble, but whether they are or not, we're beginning to get around to where we wanted to get when we started this column.

Thursday is Thanksgiving Day, and one of the things for which we can be truthfully thankful is that we can grumble about the government all we want to. Whether we're right or wrong in our grumbling has nothing to do with our freedom to do it. We can criticize who we please, as much as we please, to whomever we please, and not have to worry about being picked out of our beds in the middle of the night, and thrown in the salt mines or put before a firing squad. We like it! We're more than thankful that our ancestors had the foresight to make this country their home.

We're also thankful for the freedom that allows us to choose our own religious beliefs. There are many people in the world today who are more oppressed and persecuted religiously than were the Pilgrim founders of our country. We like it here!

We're thankful for the fact that regardless of $10 hogs and one thing and another, tables will again groan on Thanksgiving Day with their overloads of

THE FIRST THANKSGIVING

An Example to Remember

The first crop had been bountiful in the new, strange land; the perils of its wilderness, while present still, were no longer unknown. So the Pilgrims offered prayers of thanksgiving on the day of the feast—girded spiritually and materially against all dangers.

As we today follow, in effect, their example in the festive turkey, so should we be girded as they were that first Thanksgiving, against all who imperil us and our heritage of freedom.

It is from our Pilgrim Father's grateful prayers in the wilderness that our present Day of Thanksgiving derives. They set an example in word and deed which we well might remember at least once a year. Even before the Mayflower landed them at Plymouth they had written in their Compact: "We whose names are underwritten have undertaken, for the glory of God, to establish in Virginia, the first colony for the advancement of the Christian faith . . ."

So glorious our heritage, so short our memories!

Marie Blank Hostess To Flying Club

The Upper Iowa Chapter of the "99's", International organization of Women Pilot's, held their November meeting in the Aero Room of the Mason City airport, with Miss Marie Blank as hostess A turkey dinner started off the meeting at 1 p. m., with prizes given to the first arrival, the one coming the greatest distance and the pilot having the largest number of flying hours during the past year.

There were several who tied for two honors. Mrs Beulah Smith of Forset City won the first arrival gift, Mrs Dorothy Hunt of Sibley, Iowa won the gift for coming the greatest distance, Miss Helen Flaherty of Fort Dodge won the gift for the most flying hours.

Following the dinner, the business meeting was held in the basement dining room with the chairman, Mrs Beulah Smith in charge. After the close of the meeting, the group visited a sister "99", Mrs Bernice Hughlen, of the air activities, who was unable to attend the dinner or the meeting.

Sunday was a beautiful day and all reported a good time.

The December Christmas party will be held in Fort Dodge.

Lenz is Champion Pork Producer

Raises Average of 9.05 Pigs Per Litter

Clarence Lenz of Klemme, has been named Champion Pork Producer of Hancock County, it was anounced today by Farmers Hybrid of Hampton, Iowa, sponsors of tre National Champion Pork Producers Contest.

Mr Lenz's records that brought him this honor show the combination of good breeding, feeding and management, and disease and parasite control practices in hog production program.

Lenz's record was judged best in the county with 181 pigs raised from 20 sows for an average of 9.05 pigs per litter with a gain of 1.23 pounds per day from birth to market.

A personlaized, engraved plaque was awardel to Mr Lenz at the Champions Recognition Dinner, held on the Iowa State College Campus at Ames today.

This is an annual award presented by Farmers Hybrid Hogs to those who do the best job on their spring pig production within the counties entering.

Ronald Greiman of Garned, and Johnny Hill of Kanawaha, won County Championships in the past years and retained those championships this year by participating again. Hancock County now has three Champion Pork Producers. The contest is set up on along-time basis, enabling County Champions to enter year after year to try for the Area Championship. All records from Hancock County were considered in this year's Area Contest.

There are eleven areas set up in six mid-western states. One Area Champion has been chosen from the County Champions in each area. The anouncement of the Area Champions was made at the Ames event, and the 11 Area Champions will be taken on an expense-paid trip to the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago this year by the sponsoring company. John W Moore of Grundy County is the winner of the area award this year.

Among the primary purposes of the contest is to learn what methods are used by these pork production Champions to help make them Champions. This information will be made available to all farmers who raise hogs so that they may benefit from the good practices and experiences of men like Mr Lenz, Mr Greiman, Mr Hill and Mr Moore.

Shamrocks Win Over Dows in Conference Opener Friday Night

Friday evening was the first basketball action of the season in the North Star Conference for the Klemme Shamrocks, and they started off with a decisive 58 to 32 win over Dows on the local court.

The game which was rather a ragged affair for the most part, saw the Shamrocks miss shot after shot in the first quarter . . . and they were shots that normally would have been made. They still managed to lead by 9 to 7 at the end of the first period, and improved shooting in the second quarter saw them run their lead to 25 to 12 by half time.

By the end of the third period they had increased their lead considerably and were out in front 47 to 19. Coach Westberg began inserting substitutes into the Shamrock lineup early in the fourth period, but even the subs held their own fairly well. Dows did manage to outscore them by two points in the final quarter, but there was never any danger of them overtaking the locals.

Don Kramer, who was really having tough luck with his shots in the first half, got his eye sharpened up before the game was over, and led the Shamrock scoring with 21 points. Haefner and Larson each had 10 and Brinkman had 9. Terhufen, Lenz, Bachman and Nuehring also contributed to the Klemme scoring with two points each.

Brannick was the big gun for Dows, getting 25 of his team's 32 point total.

The Little Shamrocks were too much for the Dow's reserves and came out on the long end of a 32 to 10 score. Val Stromer led the scoring for the local reserves with 7 points, but eight of his teammates also accounted for some of the 32 point total.

Seven Re-elected To Extension Council; Nine New Members

The voters in the sixteen Hancock County townships elected seven of the present council members and nine new people to run the County Extension Service during 1956. The 16 township elections were completed Thursday night, November 17, according to County Extension Director Paul Henderson.

The following were elected for a one year term starting January 1, 1956: Harvey Benson, Amsterdam Township; Imko Huisinga, Bingham Township; Don Eiseman, Britt Township; Ralph Anderson, Crystal Township; Merle Hall, Ellington Township; Rudy Urich, Garfield Township; Rixine Durant, Madison Township; and John Fox, Orthel Township.

Those elected for a two year term starting January 1, 1956 are: C E LaFavre, Avery Township; John McMahan, Boone Township; Lowell Maley, Concord Township; Alfred Jurgemeyer, Ell Township; Laura Townsend, Erin Township; L M Bonnstetter, Magor Township; Laurice Lemke, Liberty Township; and Mrs Berniece Eliason, Twin Lake Township.

These folks will want the people in their township to offer suggestions that they can use in the extension program.

It was a cold, rather than a hot election in the sceond ward at Osceola recently. The stoker had broken down during the night, at the polling place.

● RANDOM THOUGHTS

turkey and dressing, cranberry sauce, pumpkin pie, and all the other good foods traditional with the day. (There will probably be some groaning stomachs, too). Many places in the world there are people who could make the best meal they have ever seen from what will be left on those Thanksgiving festive boards.

And whether last of all or first of all . . . we can't decide . . . we're thankful for the good health that enables us to enjoy to the fullest all the other things that the Good Lord put here for us to be thankful for.

Paying taxes in this country is always a blow and a real privilege too, when you stop to think of all our great rights. — Duane Griggs, West Branch Times.

Thursday, December 1, is "S-D Day"—Safe Driving Day, throughout the United States. The goal of this day is 24 hours without a single traffic accident anywhere in the country. The basic purpose of the day, however, is to get people to accept their personal responsibility for safety, either as motorists or pedestrians.

We have been flooded with publicity releases for "S-D Day", full of many pointers for safe driving, but in our own mind we still think that common sense and courtesy will keep your safety record about as nearly intact as anything could. Give the other fellow a break and maybe he'll give you one in return.

"A reckless driver is someone who passes you on the highway, no matter how fast you go."—Harry Toffel.

And another guy who ain't so dumb says, "Don't drive as if you owned the road—drive as if you owned the car."

We suppose a lot of those many Iowa turkeys, who outnumbered us Iowans so bad, will stick around through Thanksgiving and then lose their heads and go commercial at Christmas time.

ESCAPED

Walter Wittrock of Halbur, near Manning, jumped for his life when his tractor ran off an eight foot bridge as he left his field. He received a cracked rib and facial bruises. His seven year old son, riding in the wagon, was unhurt. The tractor broke loose, the wagon stayed on the bridge.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

EASES POLICY

The state board of regents, governing authority of the institutions of higher education, has eased its policy to permit Iowa State College television station WOI-TV to carry local advertising.

Board action was somewhat of a change from past thinking. For years radio stations at Iowa State College and the University of Iowa were not permitted to solicit or carry commercial advertising under the theory they are public-financed operations and should not compete with private enterprise.

When WOI-TV first came on the air, however, the board reviewed its advertising policy and permitted the college station to compete with local and state private industry in the advertising field.

NEW YORK DOES IT

The National Republican Club of New York stirred things up in Iowa when it announced that several "presidential possibilities are being invited to appear before club members in the next few weeks. Among those on the invitation list is Iowa's Gov Leo A Hoegh.

Two Washington political writers, Robert S Allen and Stewart Alsop, have reported the Iowan, along with Governors Hall of Kansas, Stratton of Illinois and Craig of Indiana as "dark-horse" possibilities for Republican nomination.

At his desk in the Iowa capitol, Governor Hoegh had only one comment:

"I'm not interested in a campaign at the national level."

PLANS DOUBLED

Iowa State College had had plans for a new 300-student dormitory for men at the college, the building to be completed by the fall of 1958.

Now, however, with the college enrollment zooming faster and higher than anticipated, the state board of regents has approved plans to increase the dormitory capacity to 600 men. The board also asked that the completion date be hurried along with a deadline set for the fall of 1957, a full year earlier.

FIRST FORMS

William E Darrington (R) of Persia believes in getting started early. He's the first personn to take out nomination papers for the June primary elections next year.

The nomination petitions were issued by the secretary of state. First day for filing nomination papers, the secretary's office reports, is March 12, 1956.

NEW FAIR BUILDING

The state fair board has taken preliminary steps for construction of a new $300,000 communication's building at the fairgrounds.

The executive council has authorized the board to hire an architect and take bids on the building.

It would replace a smaller one razed by fire.

DOG CATCHER

Two candidates for lieutenant-governor, one who has announced and another who has't, popped up at the annual meeting of the Iowa Good Roads Association in Des Moines.

Wendall Pendleton, Storm Lake, speaker pro tem of the house of representatives during the last session, is the announced candidate for that office on the Republican ticket. He has been campaigning the state for several weeks.

The other all-but-announced candidate is W H Nicholas of Mason City. A former lieutenant-governor, Nicholas has also made two campaigns for governor.

At the IGR meeting, Nicholas' name tag, at his suggestion, listed his occupation as "Dog catcher."

POLITICAL POLICY

In a recent statement before the Iowa Good Roads association, Iowa Highway Commission Chairman Russell Lundy said:

"Any deficiencies in the present (highway) system (in Iowa) are due to obsolescence, a vacillating political policy of other state administrations, and local pressures."

BALL NAMED

Carl Ball, former editor of the Mystic Sentinel, has been named assistant state superintendent of printing. He took over his duties Nov. 16.

Ball was a member of the state printing board staff for many years and resigned to open his own printing plant in Des Moies.

Serm Needham is state printer.

GET SCHOOL AID

Some 3,322 school districts now have received general school aid checks totaling $14,335,000. The state department of public instruction reports that payment of the 1955 claims, which totaled $14,689,669 was made at the rate of 97.5 percent.

Last year $12,000,000 was paid out to 4,177 school districts at the rate of 80.8 percent on claims totaling 14,858,345.

The last legislature increased the amount available for general aid, and increased the minimum school levy requirement from 8 to 15 mills.

"TIGHT MONEY"

A 35 percent drop in FHA home loan applications was noted in Iowa last month.

Frank Wahrman, state director of the federal housing administration, said "tight money" is the reason for the decline. He said he feels the situation "will improve after the first of the year."

Wahrman said money is tight now "because the cost to the lender is higher."

"We have noticed," he declared, "quite recently that applications for loans from both the builders who want financing from homes they will sell, and also from persons who want to buy or build, are declining."

DROPS CASE

The state board of social welfare failed to prosecute a charge it had filed against the Boone Bibical College on the grounds it is operating a children's boarding home without a state license.

After Boone county attorney Donald M Statton withdrew from the case because he is a board member of the institution, the attorney general's office failed to name a successor to prosecute the state's action.

Justice of the Peace J B Weels ordered the dismissal after the case had been twice postponed.

Teacher Interview

Our teacher this week is Mrs Selma C Griesy. Mrs Griesy is a graduate of Northwestern University. She has had experience in teaching at Inwood 1 year, Earlham 1 year, Belmond 3 years, Alexander 2 years and Klemme 1 year.

Her hobbies are raising flowers and sewing.

A few of her favorites are:
Food: Angel pie
Song: 'Sweet Little Jesus Boy"
Movies: Musicals and drama
Actor: Gary Cooper
Actress: June Allyson
Band: Klemme Band

Mrs Griesy's pet peeve is gum chewing and her most embarrassing moment occurred when she was an organist at a church wedding and started to play the wedding march before the bride's mother was seated. Her future plans are to keep busy. We're all very much aware of Mrs Griesy's favorite saying, which is "Be Quiet."

Senior Class News

In bookeeping we completed another cycle by doing the third project in our workbook. The project included all of the five special journals that we have been studying which are sales journal, cash receipts journal, cash payment journal, and the general journal. Tomorrow we are expecting a test over all the special journals.

We started on a new chapter on Washington Irving in literature. We learned that Washington Irving was our first true American writer. He wrote more to entertain than to instruct like Benjamin Franklin. Our first story was a selection from the "Knickerbocker's History of New York." After reading, we had several questions that we had to answer.

We haven't accomplished too much in History so far this week. We've been mostly reviewing for a test that we are going to have sometime this week. It is going to be on the Independence of South America, how the U. S. was divided by sectionalism, and the rise of Democracy during Andrew Jackson's term as president.

We finished the chapter in our sociology book, "Why the Control fo a War is a Problem for the United Nations." Then we had a test over the United Nations, crime, the government and its services, and public opinion. We are now on a new chapter on "Why men Must Work by the Sweat of their Brows."

We have been learning how to type up invoices and telegrams in Advanced Typing. We are still taking ten minute writings.

If anyone has any erasers that they would like to donate to a worthy cause, give them to the advanced algebra class. It seems that there is more than meets the eye to solving equations with two unknowns by substitution.

In business training we are studying how to borrow money and make loans. We are studying the reasons why you have to pay money for the use of money. In our workbooks we are doing problems concerning interest rates.

Editorial of the Week

Basketball season has started, as you all know. The pep club has been organized and is busy with its activities. This year we started the season off with a snake dance. So far we have played three games.

We want more support and school spirit this year at the games. The teams and cheerleaders are trying to do their jobs but it helps to have a big student body cheering section behind them.

The game of basketball is an interesting one. If you come to the games, I guarantee you won't be bored. You won't be, that is, if you join in the organized cheering and yelling and really enjoy yourself.

There are, of course, times when it isn't possible for you to make it to the games. Things do come up that cannot by any means be avoided. But if you are just sitting at home doing nothing, I'm afraid you're lack of spirit is showing.

We all want the team to win, don't we? Well, let's get behind them and YELL ' CHEER ' and last but not least BE GOOD SPORTS!

Cackles from the Coop

Now the band members know what it is like to play two concerts in one day. On Monday we played at Ventura and Rockwell. Everyone seemed to think it was a good idea if Mr Whitford's ears could stand the strain.

Next Monday, the Ventura band comes here and on Dec 1 the Rockwell band will be here to play for our school.

We drew names for Christmas and also decided to have a basketball team.

Beverly Allen, Eldon Thompson and David Eliason gave talks.

FARMERS

For the past five years, members of the Polk City Kiwanis Club have operated a farm, with the proceeds going directly to the under-privileged children's farm. The project has been quite successful. They started with a 40-acre tract and this year are farming 100 acres. And they've netted 10,000 in five years.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

"I was just driving along. The street was pretty dark. Then I heard a noise and something big flopped on the hood of my car. Then I was looking down at a man dying in the street. I thought it couldn't be real."

The driver who made this statement after killing a pedestrian couldn't sleep that night or eat the next day. He forced himself to go to the victim's home but took along a friend to say the things he knew he would not be able to say. He was amazed that the widow had room in her grief for a little sympathy for him.

That afternoon he drove to a garage and had the broad dent removed from his hood because he couldn't stand to look at it. Two days later he went to the funeral and sat far back in the church and listened to the sermon and heard the rough, irregular sounds of grief that that came from among the relatives.

He followed the slow group that passed the coffin and gazed at the body for a momennt and shook his head as though the dream were lasting too long. "He looked younger," he said. "That night in the street I thought he was an old man."

This experience horrified the driver who is a sensitive, thoughtful man. But it is his honest description of his state of mind one month later that is interesting:

"I don't feel guilty anymore and I think it's because I didn't know the man. I'd never seen him before and I don't know his friends. There was nothing to make me miss him from my own life. Awful as that night was, I've begun to forget it. I wonder what's made us all such strangers that I could feel like this.

Liberty Go Getters Meet

The Liberty Go Getters met November 14th at the home of Carolyn and Alan Jass. Seventeen members answered roll call by giving the name of a tool.

The club decided on a bake sale at Garner, December 10th.

Alan Jass and Roger Pringnitz gave demonstrations on "Different Kinds and Uses of Nails." Walbert Mayland, Allan Greiman and Allen Dean Upmeyer are new members in our club. After lunch we practiced on our skit for Award Night.

Who was Shirley Barz sitting by on the way home from the Luverne game? None other than Ronnie B. Ha! Ha!

It seems Larry Wessels is still after Colleen Gifford. Don't you ever give up, Larry? He just can't get over the fact that she went with Herb G Sunday night.

By the looks of things Don A and Pat C must be getting along pretty well lately. How about that, Don?

I wonder why Marvin M is going to Belmond so often lately. Could it be because of a certain girl?

We heard that Gracka didn't ride the bus to the Luverne game Saturday night. We were told that a red Mercury with a 77 license number provided her transportation. (Herb Butzback) Why did you ride the bus back to Klemme after the game?

I wonder if our faithful English teacher is still keeping company with our science and chemistry teacher.

Who was Karen C with after the game Tuesday night? It coudn't have been Martin B could it, Karen? Better watch it—Craig might ge mad.

Say Joyce L, what happened to Tony A? We haven't heard much about you two lately.

We can't figure out what has happened to Eva and Larry. It seems Larry has been showering his attention on Wilma P.

Barbara A and Bob L have been seen together quite regularly lately.

What has happened between Donna and Maynard We heard she hasn't been writing to him lately.

Is there a new romance between Val S and Cozette L? We hear that he took her to a junior class party.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

HOGS

It has taken lower prices to move the big 1955 hog crop to market this fall: but consumers are eating it up. We have not piled up pork although about one-fifth more hogs have been going to market.

That's the key to the hog market outlook as reported this week by Francis A Kutish, extension farm economist at Iowa State College. Kutish says that packer storage demand is beginning to pick up. He believes we are around the bottom of the hog market unless severe storms force farmers to market a lot of hogs at once. However, he says, unless we hit bunched marketings, packer storage should take up most of any increase in slaughter during the next two months.

Kutish expelts the hog market during the next few weeks to move mostly "sidewise," with the price responsive to day-to-day exchanges in demand. He says farmers have been selling hogs at lighter weights than last year. This has added to current slaughter, but removes potential pressure on the later market.

FEEDER CATTLE

Kutish expects the hog markment of feeder cattle into the corn belt has gained in volume recently. Calves are also moving in better volume, but still below a year ago. He says some ranchers are holding back calves this fall, but a lot of calves are still left to come from the west He says the calf run is going to hold up longer this fall than seemed likely earlier.

NO HALL

Ogden won't get a new city hall right away, after all. The council recently rejected all bids on a proposed new structure, feeling that the costs were too high.

Ice Fishing Shelter Permits Available

Permits for ice fishing shelters are now available to ice fishermen and may be obtained free of charge, the Conservation Commission announced today.

The free permits are required for any structure on or over state waters, and may be obtained from:

Erwin Graettinger, Lake Patrolman, Clear Lake. For Clear Lake and adjacent waters.

Bill Ayers, Conservation Officer, Goodell. For Lake Cornelia and other lakes in that vicinity.

Ice fishing shelters must be substantially built structures and permit numbers must be painted on them in a contrasting color in numerals at least 6 inches high on all sides of the shelter. The name and address of the owner must be placed on the door in a "legible and durable way", and structures may not be locked when in use.

The bulk of winter fishing is for walleyes, northern pike and yellow perch. The 1955-56 season for walleyes and northerns will close February 15, but there is a continuous open setason for perch. The daily catch limit for walleyes is 5 with a possession limit of 10; daily catch for northerns is 4 with possession limit of 8. For perch, the daily catch limit is 15 with a possession limit of 30.

NATIONAL FARMERS UNION ENTERS IOWA!

Agriculture is in trouble. Serious trouble. That's why National Farmers Union is entering Iowa. We believe the strength of Iowa farmers added to the strength of National Farmers Union members in 27 other states will assere success in the fight for a prosperous agriculture.

In some states, like Illinois, National Farmers Union is new. In others, like Oklahoma, it's older than the state itself National Farmers Union believes that all reasonably diligent farm families should have the opportunity to earn 100 percent of parity income —regardless of the commodity they produce.

National Farmers Union has believed in 100 percent of parity for a long time. We've fought for it just as long. Very soon one of your neighbors will ask you to join National Farmers Union. It will be an important question.

For the sake of American agriculture, we hope your answer will be yes.

Several Hunting Seasons Now Closed

Thanksgiving will see a number of hunting seasons closed or closing, including squirrel season, quail and pheasant season in the short zones, and the bow season for deer.

Squirrel season ended November 15. A good spring squirrel reproduction and a substantial nut crop provided good squirrel hunting in spite of the wildness of he animals that was reported by many hunters shortly after the opening.

The short pheasant zone closes November 24 with plenty of birds still remaining in most areas. Many birds were killed on the opening weekend, but the surviving ringnecks grew extremely wild, flushing widely and running ahead of hunters. But the birds were there, and many counties in the short zone had record pheasant crops.

The 1955 bow and arrow season for deer closed November 20, and archers' kill reports continue to come into the Conservation Commission. A week before closing there were official reports of 14 deer taken by bow and arrow, with several other kills being reported in newspapers but not by hunters' report cards. All archers whether successful or not, are urged to return their hunt report cards to the Conservation Commission in Des Moines. However,, unsuccessful archers may also hunt deer during the Dec. 3, 4, and 5 gun season if they wish, and may return their bow-hunting results after that season.

During the December gun season, bowhunters may hunt deer with either bow or gun on their 1955 deer license.

Permit Required To Store Game Longer Than Ten Days

Hunters were reminded today by the Conservation Commission that they may hold game in storage for 10 days after the end of the hunting season without a permit, but that permits are required to store game for a longer period.

With a storage permit, game may be held until June 30, 1956. Such permits are free and applications for permits are available from locker plants and conservation officers. Completed applications should be returned to the Conservation Commission, East 7th and Court, Des Moines.

Permits are not required for game killed out of the state, but such game must be stored according to the regulations of the state in which it was killed.

Federal regulations on storing of waterfowl have been relaxed, and there is now no federal time limit for keeping ducks and geese. However, Iowa storage regulations still apply to waterfowl, and they must be stored under the free state permit just as other species of game.

Tripp has just completed an intensive 2-week training course at the Curtiss Farm at Cary, Illinois. In addition to learning the principles of the breeding program, Tripp was also instructed in such subjects as the basic anatomy of a cow, the technique of breeding, and the importance and relationship of timing to successful conception. All practice breeding was done on live cows so that he now has had actual experience for his work.

The Eagle Grove fire department answered three fire alarms within the space of 55 minutes one day recently. None was serious.

GOOD ADVICE

Before leaving the family home near Perkins early one morning recently, to take a son to the train, Mrs Sam Pollenma told the four smaller children that in case of fire they should crawl out of the north window of the one-door home. At 5:20 A M the stove exploded and the children dutifully headed for the window.

For Top Performance

Know How to Defrost Your Freezer

Important to your home freezer's good health and performance is the defrosting method you use. Your freezer will probably be prepared to give you quality keeping service if you defrost it the right way.

* * *

It's time again to replenish meat supplies in home freezers for the winter months ahead. To be sure of holding on to all the good quality of the meats prepared for freezing, be sure your freezer is ready to give quality keeping service.

FREEZER DESERVES CARE

A home freezer deserves some routine attention so it will continue its top-notch job of food preservation. Defrosting is one bit of attentiveness you should not neglect if you expect top performance, say extension home economics specialists at Iowa State College.

Your freezer should be thoroughly defrosted every 4 to 6 months to maintain selected temperatures and hold down its cost of operation. Is it defrosting time at your houses? Even if it isn't, you might like to review the following defrosting tips.

NO HOT WATER

Hot water for freezer defrosting is strictly taboo because refrigerated pressure is built up in the evaporater. This causes difficulty in starting the compressor.

Examine the depth of frost accumulation on your freezer occasionally to see if it needs defrosting. When more than ½ inch of frost has accumulated over a large area of the refrigerated surfaces, it's time to defrost. If possible, wait until the quantity of food in the freezer is relatively low before you begin your job. Usually this is just ahead of reloading meats in the fall—reloading vegetables and fruits in late spring.

About 12 hours before you start turn the temperature control to its coldest position so the food won't thaw so quickly while you defrost. If no ice has formed, simply scrape the surfaces with a spatula, putty knife or similiar tool. You can do this while the freezer is running. At no time, use a sharp pointed knife or other pointed tool.

AT THE SIGHT OF ICE

If ice has already formed, it calls for more work on your part. First, remove all packages and disconnect the freezer. Place your food packages on chilled trays or in chilled baskets. Wrap chilled blankets or other insulating material around your trays and baskets.

Plan to work rapidly so you can finish before the frozen foods start to thaw. You should finish in less than an hour if you work at top efficiency.

TO HASTEN MELTING

There's nothing better to step up the melting process than an electric fan. Use it to blow roof air into the freezer as well as cold air out. As the ice loosens, remove it. Remember now—don't use a sharp tool to chip the ice as it may damage the liner or coils.

To clean the liner and inside walls, use a solution of 1 teaspoon baking soda to 1 quart of lukewarm water. Avoid using soap and water, except for the gasket. The same soda and water solution can be used on the outside. Better still, use some of the special wax polishes to give extra protection to the outside.

Your last step is to thoroughly dry the inside of the freezer—then turn the temperature control to its coldest setting. If you have been able to do the cleaning with few interruptions, you can reload the freezer now. Otherwise, wait until the freezer has cooled sufficiently before you replace the foods.

The December meeting will be held the 2nd Friday (Dec. 9).

There were twenty members and two children present.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

BY AL BARZ

Would you like to share with me a very, very pleasant experience? Visualize what a Thanksgiving Holiday would be like in your own home if your guests were 2 foreign students, a Mrs Sarala Pradhan from the central part of India (city of Nagpur) and Mrs Lakshmi Pasqual from the island of Ceylon, just off the southern tip of India. I shall relate this Thanksgiving story as we lived it, from their arrival Wednesday afternoon, until their departure at 10:00 a. m. Saturday morning. (I might add here that the arrangement was such that the guests slept at my mother's home and ate their meals at our home, one block away.)

When they arrived, we found immediately that we had much in common; Mrs Pradhan was a grandmother with seven grandchildren, her age, 52. My Mother was overwhelmed upon hearing this, for Mother has ten grandchildren. Two grandmothers, though 20,000 miles apart in one sense of the word, still are "grandmothers" and this tie immediately meant much. Mrs Pasqual, on the other hand, was a young mother, 30 years of age, and has a 16 month old son back home in Ceylon with her husband and her parents. You can truly visualize then how thrilled she was when she found we had 3 sons, one a little fellow named Danny, 4 months old. Both Ihla (my wife) and I anxiously watched as Mrs Pasqual took Danny in her arms, cuddled him, and him giving her a big smile in return. If the Thanksgiving meaning ever has made an impression on us, it did here, for she could now share in part, with Ihla, a "Mother Love" which had been stored up since her separation from her son. What a wonderful start for our guests and for us—WE DID HAVE MUCH IN COMMON.

At 6:30 p. m. Ihla and I drove our guests to Garner where all the foreign students and their guests were assembled for a luncheon. We came home early, for tomorrow (Thanksgiving) would be a big day. I had asked Mrs Pasquel if she would honor our church youth group by attending a Thanksgiving breakfast at 7:00 a. m. She kindly consented to awake at this early hour. There in the church were over 100 young people from our churches in Garner and Klemme and so we joined their service and had breakfast with them. Mrs Pasqual was asked by Rev Jaberg to say a word to the group and you can be assured that her presence added much to the occasion. Knowing that she was a Buddist, her consent to come meant all the more to me. Likewise, Mrs Pradhan, a Hindu by faith, joined us as the Klemme churches held their joint service together at the Methodist Church at 10:00 a. m. We were indeed honored by her presence also.

When we got home from church,, the turkey was beginning to look "very handsome". Since both our guests were at Iowa State College learning about foods and nutrition and home economics, they were very interested in our foods and our American preparation of them. With all the "cooks", and kids, and the hungry dads in the house, all milling about, peace and quiet did not come until we were seated around the table. Mrs Pasqual and Mrs Pradhan

FOREIGN VISITORS — Allen Barz, Klemme resident, whose business is in Garner, is a member of the Garner Rotary Club. The club entertained foreign students from Iowa State College over the Thanksgiving vacation, and two of the student's were Allen's guests.

In the picture to the left is Grandma Clara Barz, Allen's mother and Grandma Sarala Pradhan of India, who is one of the students. The two ladies had an enjoyable time talking about their children and grandchildren.

In the picture at left are Allen, Mrs Lakshmi Pasqual, of Ceylon (holding the baby) and Mrs Allen Barz. Mrs Pasqual has a sixteen month old son at her home in Ceylon, and got a thrill out of being able to cuddle young Danny Barz.

Allen wrote a fine story about the visit of the foreign ladies and we used it as our column this week. We think you will enjoy it.

Darleen Hensgen Bride Of Marvin Dorenkamp

After the lunch, the bride and groom enjoyed opening their their many gifts.

Thanksgiving Youth Breakfast

The fourth annual Thanksgiving Youth Service and Breakfast was held at the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church Thanksgiving morning with 105 young people from the Garner Methodist Church and Zion Reformed Church at Garner, Klemme and Liberty Methodist Churches, and the Evangelical and Reformed Church of Klemme in attendance.

Services were held beginning at 7 o'clock with the following people participating: Larry Thiemann, Luverne Josten, Gordin Johnson, Shirley Barz, Sharleen Swanson, Gracka Gerardi, Ione Rosendahl, Joanne Barz, Marcella Nuehring, and LeVahr Josten.

Pancakes and sausage were served after the services by a group of mothers from the E & R Church.

Ministers attending were Rev Carl Mohr of Zion Reformed, Rev and Mrs Trevor Baskerville of the Garner Methodist, Rev Melvin Miller of the Klemme-Liberty Methodist, and Rev Vernon Jaberg of the Evangelical and Reformed.

Young people who were home from various colleges were given recognition at the breakfast.

The event is rather unusual in that few churches have such a Thanksgiving observance. The large group in attendance testifies to its success.

Property Valutions, Levies Both Up

Property valuations and tax levies in Hancock county for next year will both be higher according to a report released from the office of County Auditor Hattie Jass. Property valuations are $38,284,114 for 1955 as compared to $37,564,182 in 1954, an increase of $719,932. Most of this increase in valuation is reflected in new buildings added to real estate, with a sizeable sum added for TVs purchased in 1954. TVs accounted for an increase of approximately $135,000, in new taxable valuation.

Total taxes to be collected in 1956 as levied by the various levying boards in the county totals $1,933,306.25 as compared with $1,685,669.83 to be collected in 1955. This is an increase of $247,636.42 or approximately 14.69% over the previous year. Levies in 1955 to be paid in 1956 are higher in all of Hancock county's taxing districts except the Garner Independent school district and Garfield Township school district where there is a slight reduction. In some local school districts in rural areas, taxes are up almost 50%.

The levy to pay general operating expenses in the county this year will be 10.890 as compared with 9.420 last year, an increase of 1.469 mills. Most of this increase is reflected in higher levies in the poor, State Institutions and Soldier's relief funds and the levy of .391 for Agricultural Extension service, which is a new levy authorized by the last session of the Iowa Legislature, when farm bureau and the extension service were divorced. The county has always approriated money for extension service but this was a direct grant from the county general fund. General fund and road fund levies in the county are approximately the same for the past two years.

Tax levies have been spread by the county auditor and tax receipts are being written by the treasurer and the first installment of the 1955 taxes payable is due Jaunary 1st and becomes delinquent on April 1st. The second half becomes delinquent on October 1st. A penalty of three fourths of one per cent per month applies on delinquent property taxes.

Set out below are the tax levies for 1954 and 1955 in the various taxing districts in this vicnity. Thus taxpayers will be able to determine the increase in their respective districts.

• RANDOM THOUGHTS

were placed at the head of the table and Mrs Pradhan asked the group if she could give thanks to God at this time. I only wish I could repeat word for word the beatuiful prayer of Thanksgiving she offered. Briefly, she asked God to continue to bless this American home of which she and her friend were a part—"to bless those homes and loved ones some 20,000 miles away; to help us all remember those people of the world less fortunate than ourselves and to share our blessing with them and finally, that we might all live a life of service to our fellow man." A beautiful prayer and one surely worthy of the occasion.

After the dishes were done (our guests "pitched in" and helped), we gathered in the living room and they told us of their country, their fashions, the problems of the world, etc. The ladies, I might add, wore saris, a flowing garment of silk, six yards in length. It was very interesting to see how they put it about them. They brought out additional saris, one of which belonged to Mrs Pasqual (she wore on her honeymoon). This sari was of gold thread and should this sari every become worn beyond further use, it could be burned and the gold would melt and be recovered. This sari cost about $250.00. Mrs Pradhan then took Ihla into the bedroom and soon my wife came out dressed in a beautiful sari. Mrs Pradhan also put a spot of lipstick on Ihla's forehead, a sign that she was married and that her husband was living. She explained that, to them, this spot is as lipstick is to us; for beauty, but that it has this additional meaning. (Mrs Pradhan did not wear this as she is a widow.) Of course, I had my movie camera going all the time for this film would help us relive again and again this event. I slipped into the bedroom and, as a joke, placed a head scarf around my head in the form of a turban, came out, bowed low to my wife, and kissed her hand. I hope the movie camera was operating for I'd hate to go through that performance again. My wife looked very pretty in her sari (and I looked like ? in my scarf) but we had a good laugh.

Mrs Pasqual mentioned that her country Ceylon, is very westernized and modern. The pictures of her home, her husband, and her little curly haired son proved this to be true. She also showed us her wedding pictures (her wedding dress was a white sari, six yards in length, and her train another six yards. She said that 800 guests were invited to their wedding dinner and it cost $3200.00 to entertain them. They also practice the dowry system of marriage.

Her husband is a principal of a college in Ceylon and her parents live nearby and help care for her child while she is away. Mrs Pradhan, a widow, has two sons, one with a canning factory at Nagpur, and the other is an advocate (lawyer). Mrs Pradhan spoke of India's present role in the world, of Nehur's and India's "middle of the road" policy and their very earnest desire for peace since they know full well that only through peace can India solve her problems—that war could only cause chaos among her people.

The ladies were quite worn out by Thursday evening; we had questioned them so much and the day was so eventful that everyone turned in early. Friday morning was a morning of relaxation for them but they promised Ihla that they would prepare the noon meal and favor us with some of their own country's favorite dishes. We were looking forward to this very much. The previous day my brothers, Evert from Waterloo, and Raymond from Peterson, were asking them of their food preparations; they asked of the many spices they use. Evert asked them if they had ever eaten our chili. Mrs Pasqual said, "I surely have but chili is like eating nothing". Nothing? How hot can food get? They said they would go "easy" on us and we laughed and kidded about this "hot time" we would be having tomorrow. The things I recall getting from the store in the morning were sour cream, one pound beef roast, rice, raisins, and of course, the spices they desired were in our home. I wish I could describe the pleasant aroma which floated into the living room while the food was being prepared and cooked on the stove.

While Mrs Pradhan was in the kitchen, Mrs Pasqual and Ihla were talking about the care of Danny etc; I do recall her saying that the little rubber pants over the diaper was something very much to her liking for they did not have them in Ceylon. Also, we had little cowboy scenes and horses hung on the wall of the boys' room which she said she would like to buy and take back home with her in July of next year. She stated that the youngsters there are just as cowboy "crazy" as in America; that Gene Autry, Roy Reogrs and Hopalong Cassidy are their heros too. This surprised all of us and Mark and Michael especially.

Well, the dinner was ready to be served and we asked the boys to say their little table prayer. The dishes of food were brought in. The main dish was "pilau", made up of rice, beef cuts, raisins, bay leaves and other spices unknown to me. Then there were potatoes about the size of a small tomato and inside was turkey, coconut, onion, and again spice. We enjoyed this meal to the extent that there was very little left. Mrs Pradhan did not eat the Indian dishes; she ate turkey and the trimmings we had the previous day. You see, her Hindu fasting day always falls on Thursday and she observed this for many years and we were very glad to see her continue this observance, so that is why she ate turkey the following day at our home.

After dinner we drove out to the Eldon Hagen farm (my sister's husband) just east of Klemme. My mother showed them the farm where she and her husband had lived for 32 years and, of course, where we children had been brought up. Out at the farm, Eldon got out his tractor and first gave the boys a ride (they left their manners at home). Then the young mother, Mrs Pasqual, suddenly realized that she was out of film for her camera, so we drove back to town. She just had to have pictures of her driving a tractor, to show her husband and son. So upon our return, Eldon placed her on the tractor, started her out, and then he walked behind. Mrs Pasqual wants to learn to drive before going back to Ceylon for, just as we here, she knows what a poor teacher a husband is. "All husbands do not have enough patience," she said. How true, how very true. Well anyway, she got along fine until suddenly she turned a bit short and around and around in a circle she went, laughing so hard (and very excited) that finally Eldon jumped back on and got the tractor stopped.

Now it was Grandmother Pradhan's turn to drive. She did very well in the big yard, turning this way and that way, so Eldon jumped on back and down the lane they went in road gear. I can still hear her laughing as they sped down the lane. Avis and Eldon then took us around to see the cattle and hogs. Mrs Pasqual wanted to have a picture of her standing in among the hogs but when we were ready, she was a bit doubtful about turning her back to them. After assuring her that they would not bite her, we got the picture with her facing us and the camera, and not facing the hogs. Both ladies watched with exictement as Eldon fed them ear corn and how they fought and tipped each other up in the air to get at that corn. So that was the Iowa farm.

After warming our toes by the fire, we headed back for town to get ready for the banquet at Clear Lake. Other articles will go into this event further so I will not elaborate on it here. We did hurry back so that we could watch our pictures on television and this thrilled us all.

In closing, I know these words will be read, not only by people in this vicinity, but will reach beyond the oceans, 20,000 miles away, to India and Ceylon. And it is to you, a husband or a son or a grandchild that I write these final words: You and I have some of the worlds most wonderful mother and grandmothers, in Mrs Lakshmi Pasqual and Mrs Sarala Pradhan and my own mother. Through Rotary, we all have become, not only acquaintances, but lasting friends. So hard was it to say goodbye this morning, that our family is going to visit them at Ames next spring. We will have a chance once again, through movies of the occasion, and visiting, to relive Thanksgiving Day, 1955. And, if then, we must say a final goodbye, memories of them will always remain with us, and wonderful thoughts of three days spent with them in happiness and joy.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

CORN

Central Iowa prices for corn—which normally are 25 cents below Chicago—are as high as the Chicago prices.

This unusual corn marketing pattern—according to Stephen J Heimstra, Iowa State College farm economist—is due to this year's unusual corn production pattern. The western corn belt had a drouth. Nebraska and southwest Iowa had a short corn crop because of this. Corn in that area is selling around $1.35 a bushel. But the eastern corn belt escaped the drouth, produced a good crop and corn is selling there for 90 to 95 cents a bushel.

Heimstra believes that this unusual price relationship may change the normal livestock production pattern. He points out that livestock numbers will tend to increase in the eastern part of the corn belt and decrease in the western part.

PROTEIN

Protein prices average 8 per cent cheaper than last July. They are about 22 per cent below a year ago. Wholesale prices of soybean oil meal reached 10 year lows last week.

Cottonseed meal has declined more than any other protein, but Hiemstra says tankage is still the cheapest feed per pound of protein.

Good quality hay, if it can be utilized, is another economical source of protein, said Heimstra. He stated that most farmers had a good crop last year and that only a small amount of hay is being sold. Good alfalfa is selling at 50 cents a bale in central Iowa, but the price is variable, depending upon the quality and distance the hay is hauled.

Heimstra says that the lower the percentage protein content, the higher the cost per pound of protein. He added that it usually pays to buy high analysis protein concentrates.

Local Postmaster Says Shop and Mail Early

Postmaster Franklin Kluckhohn said today that patrons are urged to shop and mail early. He also said that cards and parcels for distant states should be deposited well in advance of December 15, to assure delivery before Christmas Day

Mr Kluckhohn continued stating that Christmas greeting cards when mailed for 2c may not be sealed, may not contain writing and will not be forwarded or returned. 3c per ounce, however, receive preferred handling and may be sealed, contain writing and will be forwarded or returned without charge.

It was requested by the Postmaster that all mail should be deposited as early as possible, preferrably during the morning hours, explaining that considerable preparation is required in postmarking, sorting and tying out letters and pacrel post for dispatch.

It was revealed by Mr Kluckhohn the Post Office Department will issue new label forms requesting the cooperation of patrons to assist in separating local mail from out of town mail. These labels will be placed in patron mail boxes in the next few days.

It was suggested by the Postmaster that all mail matter should be addressed plainly and articles should be packed carefully in strong durable containers and wrapped securely. Valuables should be insured or registered. All perishable articles likely to spoil within the time reasonably required for transportation should not be mailed.

Senior Class News

Henry David Thoreau is the author that we are now considering in literature. Because he and his ideas are new to us, we are finding him eccentric and revoluntionary. This assignment will continue over the holiday.

Wha'happened? Are the people of the community uncharitable or just short of erasers? We still need them in advanced alegbra.

The news in bookkeeping is going to be short and sour. We had a test over the last five chapters. (Need we say more?)

Do you know what we are doing in advanced typing? Answer: Typing.

Yesterday we received a nice long assignment in history. We have a week and a half in which to do it. The assignment is a project on one of the six topics that Mrs Gorden made up. We have a choice of writing it in story form, plan form, or diary form. The six topics are on the gold rush, preparing for an Indian attack, the journey in a covered wagon, an immigrant from Germany or Sweden, and last, a Kansas homesteader's wife.

In business training we are studying about installment buying. We are working problems out in our work book concerning buying on an installment plan.

In sociology we are studying about labor unions and why we disagree or agree with labor unions. We are also finding the difficulities that a young man or woman experience on entering the work world.

Wouldn't It Be Funny If

If Butch didn't have an answer for everything Miss Beardsley said.

If Keith didn't have a girl with him every time you see him.

If Beverly didn't go with Pete.

If Carol and Shirley weren't together.

If the advanced algebra class had their assignments done when they came to class.

If everyone did their bookkeeping without a mistake.

If every got to band on time.

If the basketball team didn't make any fouls.

If Gracka got her shoes for cheerleading.

Teacher Interview

Our teacher this week is Charles D Whitford. Mr Whitford graduated from the University of Minnesota, has a B S degree in Music Education, and has taught at Blackduck, Minnesota 2 years; Ringsted, Iowa, 1 year; Gillett Grove, Iowa, 1 year; and Klemme, 4 years.

Mr Whitford's hobby is photography and his pastime is playing chess. His favorites are Food, Shrimp; Song, Haven't Any; Movie, "Battle Cry"; Actress, Jane Wyman; Actor, Brando; Band, Benny Goodman.

His pet peeve is all that talking in the trombones and saxes during band rehearsal (some of you students better take heed), and his most embarassing moment is bawling out the wrong person.

Editorial of the Week

Report cards have come out once again for the nine weeks.

How were your grades? Were they satisfactory or do you think if maybe you had worked a bit harder and studied a trifle more your grades would show an improvement?

Think now! If you weren't satisfied why weren't you? Most of us give the excuses "those teachers just don't know how to grade." But let's be honest with ourselves. What is the real reason? Why blame someone else when you know deep down that you yourself are to blame. Resolve now to work harder and next nine weeks you won't have to make excuses for poor grades. With this advice I'm sure your grades will show a definite improvement.

The following is the honor roll for the first nine weeks. No student with a grade lower than a "B" can get on the honor roll. We are very proud it is such a lengthy list, but let's try and make it longer than ever next time. And to you students whose names appear below let's keep up the good work!

Question of the Week

What do you think of the Pep Club and do you think it will be a success?

Bob L: I think it is all right and I think it will be a success only if the kids keep coming to the games.

Joyce T: I think it will be a success if the kids don't lose interest in the middle of the season.

Denny: I think it is one of the better things in our school, and if the club stays together it will be a success.

Margaret: I think it has been a big help to both the cheerleaders and the basketball boys, and I think that it can and will be a success if everyone participates.

Leila: I think it has been a success so far. If the kids keep their interest in the ball games and yell like they have been, we should win the games as well as the success of the pep club.

Carol Bridges: I think the pep club has been a success so far. I hope they keep up the good work throughout the season.

Jo Ellen: I thing the pep club has been a great success and I believe the good work will continue throughout the season.

Gracka Gerardi: It's a very good idea and their backing really helps both the basketball teams and the cheerleaders. If all members continue in giving all their support, it will remain a great success!

Ione: I think it is a very good idea if all members cooperate.

Cackles from the Coop

Whew! Thank goodness that the concert is over. We hope that despite the absent players stuck cornet slide, missing trombone music, and the usual quota of wrong notes, the audience got some good musical entertainment.

The next event on our calender is the county band festival at Garner on the fifth of December. This band is composed of the better players from each band in the county. They will present a concert at 7:30 p m.

We drew names for our new secret pals and for Christmas gift exchange. Lunch was served by our hostess.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Iowa was beaten in the last 30 minutes last year in the deliberate attempt to get through a 24-hour period without a traffic death.

The day of the nobel try was December 15 - "Safe-Driving Day". Every state in the nation was trying to block out traffic deaths that day though, one by one, they fell out of the running.

But, for 23 hours and 30 minutes, Iowa was unscored on. Then, at about 11:30 p. m., a young man drove onto a patch of ice near Northwood. The car went off the road and the young man died.

So, Iowa came close- - if you can call the width of one unnecessary grave close.

When the nation-wide results of "S-D Day" came in, it was pretty obvious that drivers just weren't playing in the same league with death.

Traffic fatalities scored against drivers were chalked up all over the country despite a tremendous effort to make the day the first hand-made marker on the way to real highway safety.

We'll have another chance at our veteran opponent a week from today. December 1 will be "S-D Day" again. The goal will be the same - no traffic deaths in the 24-hour period.

If every driver will "show up" with a desire to win, we might pull an upset. This is one game where there can be no substitution for YOU.

North Ell Tip Toppers

The meeting of the North Ell Tip Toppers was held at the home of Carol Humphrey at 2 p m. Roll call was answered with "What Improvements I Plan to Make in My Room". The club is invited to a skating party on Nov 30 by the Ellington Young Farmers.

It was voted to have a Christmas party on Dec 14 at 7:30 p. m.

The committes for the party are: Invitations, Lois Weiland, Linda Weiland; Clean-up La-Vohn Josten, Inez Nuehring; Food, Carol Humphrey, Patty Tlack. Games, Virginia Schubert, Dee Ann Kubly, and Deloris Greiman. We plan to give a gift to our old leader of which Carol Humphrey is in charge.

A demonstration on "Winter Bouquets" was given by Diane Lewerke. An illustrated talk was given by Elaine Jurgemeyer on "Storage Boxes." A talk on "Fire Prevention" was given by Patty Tlach. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess and her mother..

This and That Around K. H. S. . . .

June was having a lot of fun at the game Friday night. Could it be because she was sitting beside Donald A?

Who was the girl that was with Dave Sunday, in Garner?

It seems Anita and Lois are waiting patiently for Roger and and Lester to get home from Texas. Right girls?

What has Marcia got lined up for Friday night? It seems she has a date with Ronnie L. Right?

Who did we see Anita K at the show with. It wasn't Roger Liemann from Alexander, was it?

It looks like Coleen G is having quite a struggle trying to make up her mind. First it's Larry, then Herb. How about it Coleen?

All day Wednesday, Gracka was floating on air. It couldn't be becauses a certain someone came home for Thanksgiving vacation?

It seems there is a new romance blooming between Keith and Margaret P. How about this, you two?

It looks like JoEllen and Tom have finally decided to quit quibbling and have fun because they haven't fought for quite some time now.

I'll bet Shirley really enjoyed Thanksgiving vacation, because it isn't every weekend that Noel gets on vacation.

Grade Teachers Will Hold Open House

By Supt. E F Kirkpatrick

With so much newspaper space nowadays devoted to the question of "How well are our schools serving our children?" it is natural that sooner or later our teachers would discuss the problem.

Recently the grade teachers here in Klemme got together and began a study of how their methods and results compare with other schools and other times.

Perhaps you too have wondered about this question.

The Klemme grade teachers will have an "open house" sometime next spring, at which time they will show the parents how they teach and will discuss their methods, probloms and results with all parents who are interested.

Watch for a later announce ment.

Shamrocks Down Britt and Garner

60-32 Over Britt
69-59 Over Garner

Tuesday night of last week the Klemme Shamrocks were hosts to the Britt Eagles and they allowed the visitors only 32 points while they were getting 60 for themselves. They jumped to an early 9-2 lead but then had a rough time of it through the rest of the first half. They led only 22-19 at that point in the game.

After the intermission, though, the Shamrocks began to click and by the end of the third quarter had allowed the Eagles only two points while getting 19 for themselves, making the score 38-21. They continued to have it pretty much their way in the final period and were never threatened by the visitors.

Kramer and Haefner led the Shamrock attack with 18 and 17 points, respectively. Terhufen got 9, Brinkman 8, Larson 6, and Bachman 2. Nielson was the big gun for Britt with 14.

This Tuesday night, the Shamrocks were hosts to the Garner Cardinals and accomplished what no Shamrock team has been able to do in the past six years. They beat the Cardinals by a score of 69 to 59.

The game was well played on the part of both teams with Garner leading through most of the first half. In the closing moments of the half the Shamrocks came on strong and managed to hold a 35 to 34 half time lead.

During the second half, Garner could not quite match the play of the Shamrocks, and although they tried hard and never gave up, still they had to be satisfied with second-best score. The Shamrocks led at the end of the third period 55-43.

The first half of the game saw phenomenal shooting on the part of Hrubes of Garner. He fired twelve times with a jump shot from out around the free throw ring and connected with ten. He lead his team for the evening with 22 points, Clark had 15 points for the visitors, Baskerville 14, and Niemeyer 8. The Garner team shows good balance and looks as though they might be comers.

Kramer and Haefner again led the scoring for the Shamrocks with 23 and 20 points, respectively. Bachman, Brinkman and Terhufen each got 8 points, and Larson got 2.

The Little Shamrocks played a close game with the Britt reserves, but won out by a score of 34-29. Waddingham and Josten led the scoring with 12 and 11 points.

In a game that could have gone either way, the Garner reserves downed the Little Shamrocks Tuesday night 32-30. Josten and Stromer led the scoring for the local reserves with 13 and 8 points.

Friday night, December 2, the Shamrocks travel to Sheffield where they will be trying to keep their conference record intact. Last year they lost at Sheffield by 49-45, and indications are that Sheffield has a good outfit again this year. However, Coach Westberg thinks his charges are capable of taking the Claydiggers.

Next Tuesday, December 6, will see the Shamrocks in conference action at Fertile. Last year the locals took a one-point win on the Indian's floor, and are hoping for a victory again this year.

A Kilowatt Hour of Electric Power from LESS THAN A POUND OF COAL!

The Modern Coal-Burning Steam Power Station now Produces Electric Power with Amazing Efficiency

There's a faithful servant in your home, just waiting to go to work for you. It's Reddy Kilowatt — the "helper with a thousand jobs."

Reddy lights the home, helps get the meals, does most of the housework. It isn't unusual for a family to have as many as fifty home electrical appliances—ranging from Dad's electric shaver to Mom's electric washing machine.

It takes a lot of electric power. And, thanks to modern science, that's just what your modern coal-burning steam power station is producing for you, with ever-increasing efficiency. Back in 1927, it took nearly two pounds of coal to produce a kilowatt hour of electricity. Today it takes LESS THAN ONE POUND.

It's a proud record. And it adds up to better living — the electric way — for you and your family.

Traffic's a delight in this agile car. Power flows smooth as oil when you leave a light, and with the sharp authority of 227 blazing "horses". Brakes respond with crisp, new certainty. The wheel answers fast as pointing your finger. You're driving with a confidence you've never felt before!

And highway touring is pure pleasure! You swing the curves with new sure-footed certainty . . . clear a high hill or sweep safely past a loiterer with the happy assurance that you command the greatest "go" on wheels.

And when you settle down to cruising speed on an open highway—that's the real payoff on your good judgment! This is living in a wonderful new way. Driving's exciting again!

Come in and try it—you can prove it in 10 minutes as easily as in 10 hours. And you'll prove something else to yourself. Pontiac's glamour matches its "go"—it's the greatest on the road!

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Recently we wrote in this column that we sometimes had quite a time finding anything to write about. It's a fact that sometimes we do, and contributions are more than welcome.

Mrs Edna Thada came to our rescue this week with a portion of a letter from her granddaughter Barbara Thompson, who now lives in Concord, California, near San Francisco. She is the daughter of Mr and Mrs Ed Thompson, who lived in Klemme until just a few years ago. Anyway, here is the part of her letter to her grandmother:

"I guess you read in the paper about our big earthquake of October 24th.

Natalie and I were at home alone when it happened. It was on a Sunday night and Mother and Daddy were at church. I was doing my homework and Lee was taking a bath. I had been reading for quite awhile so I had my head down on the table resting.

I guess I went to sleep. Anyway, I came about half way awake when things started to move. I still wasn't fully awake when I sat up in the chair. The whole house was moving and creaking. I saw my closet doors swinging back and forth. I fell over backwards in my chair and landed on the floor. I thought the world was coming to an end.

As I lay on the floor, unable to move, I heard a big crash and saw my light swing back and forth. Then I realized it was an earthquake. I ran into the hall to find Lee standing there.

When everything was quiet I ran outside, as the neighbors were all outside. Then Lee and I went up to the Gregory Gardens shopping center to find things in terrible condition. In the liquor department, bottles were everywhere, broken. In all stores it was the same way.

We went back home and went into the kitchen. What a mess! Most of our dishes were on the floor, broken. There was also a bottle of catsup and salad dressing on the floor. We got it cleaned up and mom and dad got home. They said the church about rocked apart.

We took off in the car to Walnut Creek to see the damage there. Almost every store there had their plate glass windows broken.

There were several after shocks that night which were very light. This earthquake measured about 5, and the big earthquake in San Francisco measured 8.5. Our quake lasted about two minutes. We are still having after shocks and I have felt about three while in school. Boy, for an experience!"

We imagine it would be quite an experience, and speaking of earthquakes reminds us of the one Dorance Day tells about a Texan who worked at North American in the Los Angeles area with him during World War II.

As we recall it, Dorance said that they were working the night shift when an earthquake hit. He said the Texan was up on a stepladder at some sort of work when the concrete floor in the huge building they were in began to ripple and the ladder began to sway. Dorance says that Survivors include his wife, Marguerite; his daughter, Mary and Luana; his parentts, Mr and Mrs L R Harson of Kanawha; three sisters, Mrs Bernrd Davenport of Belmond, Mrs Keith Jenison of Fort Dodge, and Mrs Else Pals of Waterloo; and two brothers, Maurice of Clarion, and Bill of Kanawha.

Shamrocks Win Two; On Top in Conference

Take Sheffield And Fertile To Remain Unbeaten in North Star

The Klemme Shamrocks went visiting both Friday and Tuesday and came home with wins both times. Friday they were at Sheffield where they came out on the long end of a 56 to 43 score, and Tuesday they were at Fertile and downed the Indians 67 to 52. These two wins keep their conference record intact and keep them at the top of the conference standings as the only team who has not suffered a loss.

Friday night at Sheffield, they played the Clay Diggers on fairly even terms through the first quarter, the end of that period seeing them in front 17 to 15. In the second quarter they forged ahead to lead at half time 32 to 22. From there on they stayed out in front by a substantial margin.

Haefner and Kramer each got 22 points to lead the Shamrocks attack, while Larson contributed 7, Brinkman 3, and Terhufen 2. Smit led the losers with 16 points.

The Little Shamrocks easily downed the Sheffield reserves 45 to 31, with Coach Westberg using every man he had available for the game. Seven men handled the scoring for Klemme with Chuck Bacon getting 8 points, and Josten, Waddingham and Johnson each getting 7.

The game at Fertile saw the Shamrocks take a first quarter 17 to 10 lead and never relinquish it. Then they splurged to score 22 points in the final quarter and win 67 to 52.

Haefner led the Shamrocks attack with 28 pointts, Brinkman got 16, Kramer 12, Larson 5, Terhufen 4, and Bachman 2. Rodberg led the Indians with 23.

The Little Shamrocks suffered a 39 to 26 defeat with Josten leading the scoring with 9 points. Bertness and Luther each had 10 for the Fertile Reserves.

Next action will be Friday night, December 9, when the Kanawha Bulldogs are here, and then on Tuesday, December 13th, the Shamrocks will be at Ventura in another conference game.

Stores to Close On Christmas Eve

It was decided Tuesday evening at a Commercial Club meeting that Klemme stores and business places would close at 4:30 Christmas Eve. Reason for the decision is so that all might properly observe and enjoy the evening, which falls on Saturday this year.

Kids' Christmas Party

The annual Kids' Christmas Party, which is sponsored each year by the Klemme Commercial Club, will be held at the high school gymnasium at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, December 17th.

There will be a free movie and Santa Claus will be on hand as usual, with treats for all the kids.

Mark the date on your calender and have the kids there for an afternoon of fun.

Accident Results In Broken Back For One

Mrs C D Miller of Prairie City received a broken back Monday when the car in which she was riding with her husband and two sons overturned on the Priebe hill just south of Klemme on highway 69.

The Miller car was traveling south and on meeting a semi-trailer, it either struck ice or got off the edge of the pavement. The car turned over and landed in the ditch.

Dr Dulmes and Osman ambulance were called to the scene and the Miller family was taken to the Belmond Community Hospital. Mr Miller and boys received minor cuts and bruises.

Another vehicle left the highway the same morning just south of the scene of the Miller accident. It was a panel truck, owner unknown. It plowed through the fence and into Emil Lau's grove, but apparently there was no damage.

Community Chest Again Goes Over Quota

Klemme Contributions Amount to $1,277.75

The East Hancock Community Chest has completed its campaign for funds, and its second year drive has been successful, as the money received and pledges has put the total slightly over the goal. The contributions and pledges went over the campaign's goal by several hundreds of dollars.

This is a fine tribute to the efforts of the solicitors, and the giving of the people in the eight east townships of this county. It should be pointed out, however, that the pledges must be met—if the full extent of the goal is to be reached.

The cash contributions totaled $13,824.20, and this is more than $600.00 less than last year's cash received for this purpose. It is hoped that all outstanding pledges for this campaign will be paid soon after the first of the year, or at least by income tax time. In any event, since the campaign reached the goal—each and every contributor is to be commended!

It is quite likely that additional worthy agencies will be included in the Community Chest next year. And, it is very likely that some of the allocations to the participating agencies will have to be increased next year since for the second row in a year, the allotments to certain agencies were kept at the minimum. So contributions will have to be increased next year—if the Community Chest is to meet with success in 1956.

This year's campaign results are as follows:

Town or Twp.	Cash Rec.
Avery	$ 597.50
Concord	761.20
Ell	805.50
Ellington & Miller	884.00
Garfield & Duncan	710.00
Liberty	976.50
Madison & Hayfield	787.00
Twin Lake	788.50
Klemme	1,277.75
Goodell	397.50
Garner	5,847.75
Total	$13,824.20

A thank you advertisement appears in this issue—thanking all contributors, the workers, the various officers, etc. And, it should be stated that all allotments to the various agencies will be paid as the appropriate requests are received by the Community Chest executive secretary, Mrs Anna B Williams.

The general campaign co-chairmen were Ben V Greiman and W L Baggs. B C Berge is president of the Chest. The various district campaign chairmen were; Liberty, Ben V Greiman and George Kern; Ell, Gordon Schubert and Glen Wille; Klemme, Mrs Melvin Schlei, Don Schaefer and Martin Barz; Concorn, Dover Kramer and Conrad Hollatz; Garfield, E A Christensen, Louis Urich, and Elmer Jante; Ellington, Mrs Harvey Sorenson, Martin Bleich and Stanley Boman; Madison, John Kester, Carrol Anderson, and Lyle Jefson; Goodell, Mrs V E Harris; Avery, Allen Lau Lyle Barkema and Raymond Wille; Twin Lake, Ole G Eliason, Russell Hanson and Mrs Herman Heginger; and Garner, Paul Shurts and Clarence Gatchel.

In all districts except one, the contributions this year were down—the one area that showed an increase was the town of Goodell, where Mrs Harris served as campaign chairman. Mrs Williams reported that the rural reports all came in an excellent manner—properly totaled and completed.

One of the cardinal principles of the Community Chest was to eliminate so much duplication of effort—it called for a one over-all acmpaign in the year for the participating agencies. The officers of the Chest feel this principle has been obtained again and it apparently is highly acceptable to the canvassers. In short—congratulations to everyone on another successful year in the Chest.

• RANDOM THOUGHTS

Texan climbed down off that ladder and announced in no uncertain terms that he was going back to Texas. "D" says that must be where he went, too, for that was the last they saw of him.

We had the opportunity to visit for about a hour with the two foreign students who were guests of the Allen Barz family over the Thanksgiving holiday. We were quite impressed with their intelligence and the sense of humor that was their's.

During the course of the conversation we learned that Mrs Lakshmi Pasqual, 30, of Ceylon, had tried for a number of years before her marriage to come to this country on a scholarship. However, her folks would not allow her to go alone all that distance. She laughingly said that since she was married her husband was apparently quite glad to get rid of her for the fourteen months she is to be gone from her home.

In talking with Mrs Pradhan, 53, of India, something was said about her probably knowing more things about Iowa than we who lived here. She said, "Oh yes. The closer to church the further from Heaven." Then she burst into laughter and pointed at Rev Raymond Barz of Peterson, Iowa (Allen's brother). We might add that Rev Barz enjoyed the joke at his expense, too.

Asked if there was any one thing about our country that particularly impressed her, Mrs Pradhan replied, "Yes, your people. They have open minds. They are willing to learn about others and see their side of things." She continued by saying that, "in some parts of the world if your ideas do not conform to those of the people living there, you are nothing." She thought that by nature we were not a warlike people but friendly and sincere.

We hope that she and others like her will be able to convince many of the people in their home countries what we are like. We feel that the more people know one another, the less chance there is for trouble.

We also wish that we could be sure that all Americans who go into other countries would create as good an impression on the people there as these ladies did on the people here.

ASK CHANGES

The Iowa legislative budget committee and the state board of control, since the hearing on the board's discharge of Dr Donald Kyer as superintendent of the Mental Health Institute at Independence, have made recommendations for improving the state law on mental hospitals.

The legislature group said it would recommend to the legislature that the Iowa law be changed to permit a hospital administrator at each of the state hospitals to handle administrative affairs thus freeing the medical director for the medical treatment program at the institution.

The same recommendation was made by the board of control in its meeting with the Iowa governmental reorganization committee the other day.

Board members pointed out that the hospital administrators should be appointed on the basis of their training and experience in hospital administration, and should not be political appointments.

This plan, it is hoped, would offset such problems as resulted between the board of control and and Dr Kyer. The board had lauded Kyer's work as a psychiatrist but said that his lack of administrative and personnel experience was the cause of the trouble at the Independence hospital.

NEW DIRECTOR

Greater emphasis must be placed on driver training in the state of Iowa.

That's the opinion of Russell I Brown, new safety education director for the state.

Brown said it is generally agreed that trained drivers have better records than untrained drivers.

Brown, 30, has just assumed his new duties. He resigned a position with the national safety council to return to Iowa. He is a graduate of Iowa State Teacher's College.

His state salary is $6,000 a year.

SEES BIG GAIN

The gasoline tax enforcement crackdown will increase state revenue about $1-million a state official estimates.

Earle S Smith, director of gas tax collections under the state treasurer, made the estimate.

Smith is directing the program where state treasury agents patrol Iowa's borders halting trucks that come into Iowa.

State law prohibits a truck from bringing in more than 20 gallons of gas without paying the Iowa tax. Tax must be paid on all gallonage above the 20 gallons.

CRITICAL REPORT

Criticism of certain estate administrators and attorneys was made in a recent state auditor's report of the Iowa Board of Social Welfare.

The report, issued by State Auditor C B Akers, declared certain fees paid out of old-age assistance recipients' estates to administrators and attorneys are excessive in view of the small amount of the estate.

The audit noted that some estates have been pending for 10 years, and reported that administration costs increase the longer the estates are kept open.

JUDGES ELECT

Judge Bruce M Snell of Ida Grove, is the new president of the Iowa district judges association, and Judge C Edwin Moore, Des Moines, is vice-president. Judge George Sackett, Perry, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Advance Typing. We have received folders containing office practice work. We are working on various types of projects from this folder.

Boy, you're sure lucky that you aren't attending school anymore. Yesterday, we unexpectedly received a real hard test in Literature. Since Bielefeldt was a man like David Thoreau, our Literature class thought it would be a good idea to go to the Goodell Woods and compare Bielefeldt with David Thoreau.

If you think you have a lot of work to do, just come to our Bookkeeping class and see all the workbook assignments we've been doing. We have been working on several worksheets, then from them we derive our profit and loss statement and our balance sheet. You may not think it's very much, but you'd be surprised.

We in the History class are still busy on our projects. We have only a few days left in which to finish them.

In Advanced Algebra we are multiplying and dividing single Quadramatic Surds. The simple is very misleading and we can still use those erasers.

If ever you should be so foolish as to be in the school house between 1:40 and 2:40, don't go anywhere near the science room. The chemistry class will either put you out, decompose you, set you on fire, or test you with litmus paper to see if you are acid, baxe, or neutral.

The studying of unit 4 has just been completed in General Business. It has been about spending money wisely. Now we are studying for a test.

If someone presented you with a wivern, what would you do with it?

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

This is a story of 16 men who didn't know what to do. They were men of many ages, of many degrees of life, experience, and education—but none of them knew what to do.

It began with a driver who didn't know what to do as he approached a bridge early one winter morning. He failed to slow down in case the bridge might still hold a patch of ice from a previous storm. It did.

Out of control at high speed, the car slammed back and forth between the walls of the bridge. Somewhere along that short path of violence, the driver was against the bridge like a half-against the bridge lkie a half-filled sack.

Within minutes, five cars stopped and 16 men gathered around the injured driver. They stood in a hesitant semi-circle, each one feeling a terrible urge to "do something." But no one knew what to do.

Finally, one man reached out and picked up the victim's wrist feeling for a pulse. Yes, he was alive and apparently returning to consciousness.

Then two men took the victim under his shoulders and lifted him to his feet. They stood him against the wall of the bridge and everyone moved in anxiously to look into the dazed eyes that opened slowly.

For seconds, the injured man stood. He seemed to try to speak but no sound came. Then he began to fall forward into the arms of the 16 men, everyone of whom reached to catch him. His back was broken and the movement of lifting and standing, killed him.

If you don't know how to handle the injured, don't move them. Keep them warm and comfortable and wait for expert help.

Hog and Cattle Sales Continue Higher

Marketings of hogs for slaughter from Iowa farms during November and December are expected to total 4,950,000 head, according to the Iowa Cooperative Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, and based upon reports by farmers as to their marketing intentions. These sales for the 2 months would be 13 percent more than the 4,371,000 head sold during November and December in 1954 and 17 percent more than the 1949-53 five-year average of 4,242,000 head marketed during the last two months of the year.

If intentions of market hogs are realized, November marketings are expected to be 2,600,000 head, an increase of 16 percent from the 2,247,000 head sold during November a year earlier and 23 percent more than the 5-year avearge sales for the month of 2,119,000 head.

Producers intend to market 2,350,000 head for slaughter during December. If intentions to market hogs in December are realized, marketings would be 11 percent more than the 2,124,000 sold a year earlier and 11 percent more than the 5-year average December sales of 2,123,000 head

Hogs marketed for slaughter during October are now placed at 2,100,000 head. This is ¼ more than the 1,677,000 head sold for slaughter during October a year earlier and 39 percent more than the 5-year October average sales of 1,509,000 head. The average age of barrows and gilts sold for slaughter during October was reported at 6.4 months. This may be compared with 6.5 months reported for October 1954 and with 6.1 months for September 1955.

Marketings of cattle and calves for slaughter from Iowa farms during November and December are expected to be 4 percent more than they were during the same period a year earlier and 31 percent more than the 1949-53 five-year average for the same two months. The cattle marketings are at a new high for each of the two months October and December. An estimated 610,000 head will be sold for slaughter during November and December. This may be compared with 589,000 head sold for slaughter during the same two months a year earlier and the 5-year average sales of 464,000 head. Cattle and calves sold for slaughter during November are expected to total 310,000 head. This is 3 percent more than the 302,000 head sold during November a year earlier and nearly 1-3 more than the 5-year average November sales of 237,000 head. Reports as of November 1 indicate producers intend to market 300,000 head during December, 5 percent more than the 287,000 head sold during December a year earlier and nearly 1-3 more than the 5-year average December sales of 227,000 head.

Cattle and calf marketings during October are now placed at 310,000 head, 15 percent more than the 270,000 head sold a year earlier and 44 percent more than the 5-year October average.

Jerold Finders Takes Bride In Californio

The following story appeared recently in "The Valley Times", North Hollywood, California.

Escorted down the aisle of Magnolia Park Methodist Church by her uncle, Lannes O Bufkin, Diane Bufkin became the bride of Jerold A Finders.

Daughter of Mr and Mrs Vergil C Bufkin of Clay City, Ill., the bride wore a princess-style ballerina length gown of white lace. She carried with her Bible a white orchid.

Her only attendant was Mrs John Creamer, and Donald R Finders was his brother's best man. John Creamer ushered, and officiating was Rev Zenas D Bancroft.

Following a reception at the bride's Burbank home, the pair honeymooned in San Francisco.

The new Mrs Finders attended Eastern Illinois State College in Charlestown, Ill., where she was a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma. Her husband, an alumnus of the University of Minnesota and Los Angeles City College, is the son of Mr and Mrs Carl K Finders of Fort Dodge, Iowa.

The wedding took place on November 23, and the couple is now at home at 3202½ Riverside Drive, Burbank, California.

No Rush for Plates

The sale of 1956 license plates began on Desember 1st but the usual rush for plates with small numbers was not in evidence this year according to County Treasurer Roy L McMillin. In previous years, long waiting lines formed in the corridor of the courthouse. This was not true this year. In Hancock county licenses are sold on a first come, first served basis and no numbers are reserved.

Herds of Bock and Brede Rate High In Production

High herd for the month in the Hancock County Dairy Herd Improvement Association was that of E A Christenson and Sons of Garner. The nineteen registered and grade Holsteins averaged 47.3 pounds of butterfat with one dry cow.

T B RATE LOW

Iowa's tuberculosis death rate was the lowest in the nation last year, the U S public health service reports.

The Iowa rate was 32 deaths for each million of population. The national average was 100 deaths for each million.

Iowa also had the lowest rate of newly found active cases of TB. It was 160 for each million population. National average was 488.

SEE CASE APPEAL

Attorneys for the Iowa Hospital Association predict that the court ruling which found it illegal for Iowa hospitals to employ physicians and charge patients for their services will be appealed to the state supreme court.

The ruling came at the conclusion of one of the longest trials on record in Polk County. The ruling, by Judge C Edwin Moore, was based on evidence presented during the 13-week trial. Moore's decision upholds the contentions of the attorney general's office and of the Iowa State Medical Society. The district action was brought by the Iowa Hospital Association.

In effect, the decision condemns a relationship that has existed between most hospitals and doctors in Iowa for 50 years. However, the ruling also has national importance for hospitals and medical specialists such as radiologists and pathologists.

Judge Moore said that though his decision is effective at once, as a practical matter the ruling would likely have to be made effective in each community on a local basis.

JALOPPY JEOPARDY

Too many jaloppies are jeopardizing the schooling high school youths, an official of the Iowa department of public instruction reports.

Roland G Ross, an official of the department, said youths are giving up chances for high school diplomas for second-hand cars.

He said used car prices are not beyond the reach of many high schoolers; that often parents help them buy autos. Then, to meet the problem of upkeep, many youths quit school to take jobs to finance the car costs.

BUILDING PLANS

During the last legislative session Iowa lawmakers turned a deaf ear to suggestions by the state board of regents that tuition fees of college students be used to pay for new buildings at state schools of higher education.

Now however, the state legislative tax study committee has said it would like more information and data on the recommendation.

Under the plan the regents would have authority to borrow money for an estimated $68-million worth of expansion in the next 15 years. The building loans would be paid off over a period of years with a portion of the tuition fees paid by each student.

An independent appraisal of this plan has been agreed to by the regents and the tax committee. It will be made by a committee of three financial experts.

HOSPITAL AID

Iowa's share of federal aid funds for building hospitals and other facilities this year is $2,100,000. The state hosptial services department has already received applications for $2,400,000 of federal aid monies.

The hosptial advisory council must sift the applications and decide who will share the available funds.

Local governments or groups building with federal aid must put up $2 for every $1 of federal funds used.

Oldsters Need Additional Nutrients

Folks need to bolster their energy and health with added nutrients when they reach the older age group. See that you and Dad stay peppy like this oldster is. You can do it by wise meal planning.

* * *

Are you one of Iowa's senior citizen homemakers? If you and your husband are over 50, chances are Dad needs more food rich in vitamin C than you do—and you both probably need more protein, more iron and less fat than most people eat.

According to Leslie Smith, extension nutritionist at Iowa State College, this is one of the conclusions indicated in a nutrition study project carried out by the University of California. A total of 577 men and women—all age 50 or over—was surveyed in the study.

MEN NEED VITAMIN C

Even though men had a higher average vitamin C intake because they generally ate more heartily, they had less vitamin C in their blood than women. Mrs Smith says tender bleeding gums and a subsequent loss of teeth are sometimes the result of an inadequate supply of vitamin C in the diet. A number of folks studied, whose blood tested low in vitamin C, suffered from such disorders.

A surprising discovery in the study was made. It concerns cholesterol—that fatty, wax-like substance associated with hardening of the arteries and coronary thrombosis. Tests of blood samples showed that women between 60 and 80 years old had more cholesterol than men of the same age.

CONTRADICTS LORE

"This contradicts medical lore," says Dr Agnes Fay Morgan, director of the study. "Doctors formerly took it for granted that women had a lower cholesterol level than men, simply becauses women, 50 and over, have fewer strokes and coronary failures."

The human body manufactures cholesterol from fat—it's also taken from various foods by the body.

When excessive deposits of cholesterol occur in veins, artery hardening and thrombosis may result.

The researchers found a direct connection between the amount of fat the people ate and the amount of cholesterol, they had in their blood. Underweight men had low cholesterol, while those overweight men had high cholesterol.

This did not hold true of the women, however. So apparently we women can endure more blood cholesterol without harm than our husbands.

"Now, how can this help us?" you are probably asking. Here's how: Older people are wise if they eat plenty of fruits, cottage cheese, vegetables, skimmilk, lean meats and lean fish. Important for vitamin C are oranges, grapefruit, strawberries, tomatoes, salad greens, broccoli and raw cabbage. Remember this when you plan your meals.

MORE IRON, PROTEIN

Another highly significant finding in the study! The red color in blood, called hemoglobin,, varies directly with the amount of iron and protein in food. This means—the more you eat, the more you have. Here the men rated above the women because most of the women tested had lower hemoglobin levels than men of the same age. After the age of 75, men and women didn't differ greatly in hemoglobin, however. This indicates that folks over 75 may need more iron and protein to produce the red blood required for good health.

No evidence of vitamin A deficiency was found among the Californians Some rough skin and eye trouble appeared, but these difficulites were unrelated to the amount of vitamin A in the diet and to its level in the blood. According to the study, this refutes the theory that such troubles necessarily are caused by a vitamin A shortage.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

It took us a long time to hear about this one, but we think it is well worth repeating. Last summer when Garner had their Fourth of July program which included fireworks, etc., they also had a speaker. Rev Jaberg and his family were there to take in the fireworks, and of course, they stayed and listened to the speaker. The Jabergs' young daughter, Mary, listened through a part of the speecch, then turned to her mother and said, "Mommy, why is it that everywhere I go they always have to preach?"

Rev Jaberg says that the resulting deflation of his ego was really something.

To get around to something a little more seasonal, we happened to be listening to a Mason City radio station the other afternoon when Santa Claus was placing calls to children. He talked with one little girl and then asked if she would sing a song for him. She said that she would and chose "Jingle Bells" for her song. She sang it thusly: "Jingle all the way. Jingle all the way. Jingle all the way. That's it!" It was a new version to us, and we think that even Santa was a bit surprised.

Boy, how the army has changed since we served our hitch. We received a news release from Camp Chaffee, Arkansas, telling about the camp's plans for Christmas. Some 8,000 men who are stationed there will be given 10-day leaves, and only a skeleton crew will be kept in camp.

To aid the soldiers in getting started for home, a transportation ticket office will be set up on the post. extra buses will run from the camp to nearby down town Fort Smith to help get them to rail and bus depots, and to the airport, and there will be an extra pay day on December 20th, so that men who are short of funds can draw an advance in pay and have money to make their trip.

Not only are all these plans being made for soldiers who will take leave, but plans are also being made for a happy Christmas for those who have to stay in camp. A great big Christmas dinner. including shrimp- cock tail, roast turkey, mince and pumpkin pie, etc. is set for them and for their families and friends.

That's a far cry from some of the Christmas days that we can remember having spent in the army. We're all for it, though, and maybe a little more of such humane treatment would help to insure that more men might pick the army as a career.

While we are on the subject of holidays, Eldon Lau, cousin of Leona, George, Ervin, and Wes Lau, writes of quite an experience he had on Thanksgiving. Eldon is doing construction work for the government at Point Barrow, Alaska, and spent his Thanksgiving in a native village. He went to church in the morning with the Eskimos, and then stayed for a big feed that they had at 2 o'clock that afternoon.

Santa Claus Here With Treats Saturday

Good Time at Lions Club Ladies' Night

It was a good time last Wednesday evening at Lions Club Ladies' Night held in the grade school basement. A fine dinner was served by the Music Mothers to begin the evening, and Tailtwister Roy Jacobs kept things moving throughout the meal.

After a brief business meeting, the rest of the evening was spent in playing games.

The upper picture shows Harvey Barz, secretary of the club, presenting checks to Mrs Chester Renner (Music Mothers), and Mrs Asa Arnold (Legion Auxiliary), for their commissions on sales of tickets to last fall's Lions Varieties.

The lower picture shows Mayor V A Cook purchasing the first bag of bulbs in the Lions "Bag of Bulbs" campaign from Lion President "Bob" Andreae.

Both pictures were taken during the course of events at the Ladies' Night.

Annual Christmas Party to be at High School Gym

Santa Claus will be in Klemme, Saturday afternoon, December 17th. He will be present at the annual Christmas party at the high school gymnasium and will hand out treats to all the kids who are on hand for the affair.

In addition to the appearance of Santa Claus, there will be a free movie for the kids. Each year the Christmas party proves to be a big success so far as the kids are concerned, and the Klemme Commercial Club is more than glad to sponsor the event.

The party will get underway at 2 o'clock with the doors opening at 1:30. Have the kids on hand and let them get all the enjoyment they can out of the Christmas season.

Don't forget that Klemme stores will close at 4:40 Saturday afternoon, December 24, so that everyone can enjoy Christmas Eve.

Shamrocks Still On Top In Conference

Post Wins Over Kanawha, Ventura

Last Friday night, the Klemme Shamrocks were hosts to the Kanawha Bulldogs in a non-conference game and sent them home on the short end of 67-39 score. The Shamrocks grabbed 15-9 first quarter lead and then stretched it out as the game progressed. They led 39-14 at the half.

Haefner led the Shamrock attack with 23 points while Kramer had 17. Hartwig looked best for the losers with 13.

The Little Shamrocks were unable to keep up with the Bullpups and lost out by a score of 34-32. They were behind 16-13 at the half. Nuehring rammed in 16 points to lead the way for the reserves.

Tuesday night, the Shamrocks journeyed to Ventura for a conference game and kept their conference record intact with a 62-40 win. The Shamrocks now own the only perfect record in the conference with all other teams having lost at least two games.

Leading by a 28-16 score at the half, the Shamrocks forged well ahead in the third quarter when they dumped in 20 points while Ventura could manage only 10.

Kramer led the way for the Shamrocks with 21 points, while Haefner had 14, Bachman 10, Brinkman 8, Larson 5, and Terhufen 4. Hollatz, Coe, and Thiemann had 12, 11, and 9 points respectively for the losers.

The Little Shamrocks did not play at Ventura as the Ventura girls had a game scheduled with the Nora Springs girls.

Next action for the Shamrocks will be this Friday night, December 16, when they will be hosts to the Franklin Consolidated aggregation in a conference game. The Shamrocks will put their 4-0 record on the line against the 1-5 record of the visitors. This will be the last game for the Shamrocks until after the holidays when they will meet Rockwell here on January 3rd.

Gerald Burk Named Master Swine Producer

Gerald Burk received notice last week that he had been named as one of the 25 Master Swine Producers in Iowa this year. A banquet and swine clinic was held in Hotel Kirkwood in Des Moines, Saturday which Mr and Mrs Burk attended.

The 25 Master Swine Producers are farmers who have outstanding records in the number of pigs weaned and marketed per sow and daily gains. Main speaker at the banquet was Marion Steddom of Granger, president of the Iowa Swine Producers Assciation, and member of the U S farm delegation which visited Russia last summer. He also showed pictures of his trip to Russia. This project is sponsored by WHO broadcasting company, Iowa Swine Producers Association, Iowa State College Extension Service, and the Iowa Department of Agriculture.

Gerald had 26 sows and marketed an average of 9.8 pigs per litter. He received a certificate and a gold belt buckle in recognition of his achievement.

To Have Living Nativity Scene at Nora Springs

The Nora Springs community is having a "Living Nativity" scene complete with live donkeys, sheep, and other animals. The young people of the four churches take the leading roles. Appropriate Christmas music and Bible readings will add to the scene. Special colored lights also show the scene off to advantage.

This will be shown Sunday, December 18, from 2 until 4 p m, and again Sunday evening from 7 until 9 p m. Then December 19 from 7 until 9 p m. It is free and open to the public.

The scene will be shown in a barn near highway 18. Lighted flares and a lighted star above the barn will lead the visitor to the scene.

The purpose of the scene is—that all who visit it will again be reminded of the true meaning of Christmas—the birth of the Christ child. The four churches, ministers, young people, commercial club, Legion, and Council are cooperating in the project.

The donkeys for the scene are being furnished by Elmer Schaefer of Klemme.

Mrs Herold Ridder is co-chairman of the project. She is the former Mabel Schaefer of this community.

Heavy Damage to Fjetland Home In Fire Monday Morning

The farm home of Mr and Mrs Darold Fjetland and family, four miles east and 3½ miles north of Klemme was damaged to the extent of about $12,000 Monday morning when fire broke out in one of the upstairs rooms.

The fire was discovered about 9:15 a. m. and the Klemme. Garner, and Ventura fire departments were called to the scene. They were hampered by a shortage of water but after a couple of hours had the fire under control.

Volunteers helped to remove the furniture from the downstairs portion of the house, but very little was saved from the upstairs. Neighbors hauled water in milk cans to help fight the fire and neighbor ladies brought lunch and coffee for those helping to fight the blaze.

The upstairs portion of the house was just about a total loss and the downstairs and basement were badly damaged by water.

He said there were some 2,000 Eskimos present for the affair and the main dish was Muk Luk, which he tried. Muk Luk is frozen whale meat with about an inch of black skin on it and they eat it raw. He said that the Eskimos really like it. They also had raw frozen fish.

Eldon said he missed out on a really good Thanksgiving dinner by not being at camp, but he said, "you can bet I was on hand for supper." Can't say that we blame him either. We imagine that after trying frozen whale meat for dinner, we would be quite hungry come supper time.

Representatives of Iowa Machinery & Supply Co. and Mid-Iowa Industrial Supply Co presented literature and arguments about merits of their respective power pumps. Motion was made by Pavey, seconded by Schaefer, and carried that Council purchase a two inch power pump from Iowa Machinery and Supply Co.

On motion by Lemke and second by Buseman the application of the Larsens Food Market for cigarette permit was approved.

The following letter to the Town Council from County Attorney Templeton was read:

"This will acknowledge your inquiry concerning land lying in Auditor's Divisions in Section 30 and Section 31 of Ell Township which are situated immediately west of the Rock Island Right-of-way.

Your inquiry is in substance whether or not lands situated within the subdivisions referred to above are legally a part of the municipality of Klemme Iowa.

The records at the Court House indicate that this territory was laid out in two Auditor's Sub-divisions and plats are now on file. It further appears that the Original Town of Klemme and its Additions does not include this territory. I also find that the levy for the Town of Klemme made by the Council over the past years has been spread over the land located in these Auditor's Sub-divisions and, in fact, the owners of such land have paid the same levy as property owners within the Original Town of Klemme and its Additions. It further appears that the people in the Auditor's Sud-divisions are served with municipal utilities such as sewer, water, lights, fire protection, police protection and so forth.

I am advised that this situation has been brought to a head by virtue of the fact that one party living in one of the Auditor's Subdivisions has questioned the right of the Town Council and Mayor to exercise jurisdiction over the area in question

It is my opinion that since this land is laid out in Auditor's Subdivisions and is not included in the Original Plat of Klemme or any of its Additions, that it is not legally a part of the Town of Klemme and further it is my opinion that this is true irrespective of the municipal benefits that the people residing in the area in question have enjoyed

Your immediate concern is how this situation may be remedied. In reply to this inquiry I can advise that Chapter 362 of the Iowa Code (1954) provides several methods whereby unincorporated territory adjoining a Town may be annexed thereto and become a part thereof.

The most simple of these procedures and the least expensive is contained in Section 362.30. Under this Section if all the owners of any territory adjoining a town make application in writing to the Council attaching thereto a plat of the situation thereof with reference to the existing limits of the Town and if the Council by resolution assents thereto, such territory is thereafter and will become a part of such city or town Your attention is invited to the fact that under this procedure all of the owners within the territory in question must join thereto If the consent of all of the owners cannot be obtained, then the procedure must be abandoned and further action taken by one of the two methods hereinafter referred to Section 362.26 provides another method whereby the municipal corporation shall publish a notice to the effect that the Council will meet a certain date, time and place to consider proposed resolution for the annexation of a certain described territory and to hear the objectors and proponents respecting such annexation. After the hearing the Council may by resolution setting forth the proposition to be submitted. Notice of the submission of the proposition shall be given and an election held and if a majority of those voting vote in favor of the proposition, the Council shall cause to be filed in District Court a suit in equity against the owners of the property proposed to be annexed. The statute provides the various matters that the petition must contain. Upon hearing in District Court, the Court, if it finds there is an affirmative showing that the corporation is capable of extending into such territory and that the proposed annexation will not result merely in increase in the revenue from taxation and that all matters required by the statute have been complied with, shall enter an order decreeing the annexation.

The third procedure is the same as the one immediately set forth except that 10 percent of the owners of territory in the sub-division may petition the Council for annexation The only difference being that the petitioners shall be the plaintiffs and the city or town to be named defendant along with other owners of the territory proposed to be annexed other than the petitioners.

It is my suggestion that the owners of all the territory proposed to be annexed be first contacted to ascertain whether or not all of such owners will consent to the annexation. To ascertain these parties, it will be necessary that the records of the Auditor's office and Recorder's office be examined and a list made of all of the property owners affected and the description of the property which they own.

In the event you have any further questions concerning this matter, please feel free to see me at any time."

Motion was made by Pavey, seconded by Schaefer, and carried that the necssary work be done toward annexation of Auditor's Sub-divisions No. 1 and No. 2 now in Section 30 and Section 31 of Ell Township, Hancock County, in accordance with information set forth in the letter printed above from County Attorney Templeton.

Town Clerk was appointed to contact County Attorney in regard to responsibility of Town for installation, maintenance and repair of private water lines from water main to meter on said private lines, and to get an Ordinance or Resolution covering said matter drawn up immediately.

Mayor Cook appointed Public Safety Committee to get prices on ceiling insulation and gas heaters for fire station and report to Council.

Mayor Cook reported that in behalf of Town of Klemme he has accepted the concrete slab installed in City Park by Lions Club.

Meeting adjourned.

In advanced algebra we are engrossed in solving complete quadratic equations graphically. In other words, solving equations which have a square.

The chemistry class is now in the process of trying to recover from the test we had on Friday We are also studying quantitive properties of solutions.

Our author now in literature is Walt Whitman. The literature book tells us that he was first called Walter Whitman, but after he changed his style, he changed his name to Walt Whitman.. The subject matter that he wrote about was composed mostly of the individual and democracy. The poem that we are now reading. "When Lilacs last in the Dooryard Bloomed", is very complicated to understand, the subject matter being immortality. We discover that Whitman speaks through symbols and metaphors.

Since last week, every day has been devoted to our work book in bookkeeping. Last week it was only the worksheet, balance sheet and profit and loss summary that we were working on in our workbook.

We have been discussing, in sociology, the prejudices of races that exist in the United States. Our main prejudices in the United States is that whites think they are superior to the blacks. There are several other such as the whites are superior to the Orientals and Indians.

Junior Class News

Government: We have been studying about monopolies and commerce with other state and foreign countries.

Literature: We've been studying the Victorian Age and are now starting to study novels and the authors who wrote them.

Typing: We are learning how to write the "modified block form" of letter with mixed punctuation. We are also having timed writings which increase our speed and accuracy.

Home Ec: The girls are making ideas for Christmas gifts, such as clown dolls, Christmas socks, and candles.

Shop: The boys are working on their projects.

Business Training: Discussing all the types of insurance and working hard to keep our workbooks up to date.

Chemistry: We are experimenting on distilled water and making pure oxygen.

Girls' Sports

The last couple of weeks in P T we have been getting a lot exercise playing basketball. There have been small classes this week as the band members have been in some thing or other. There were seven students in one; therefore Mr Westberg helped them out to make an even two forwards and two guards on each team. Guess which side won. Of course, the side of Mr Westberg. He played guard, so he didn't make the baskets, but sure was a lot of help. What a game! It was an experience for some of the girls to try on part of the new football outfits. They were quite heavy and looked very large to us as we have ever had any before. We learned how they were put on. It looks like quite a job. Need any help? Instead of saying: no help wanted, I think the answer will be yes.

Last week most of the classes played basketball also, but some had calisthentics and other exercises. They had sides for some of the exercises. The losing side had to take several laps around the gym. From what I heard it was very tiring and many of the students could hardly walk the next day. They were just "Too. pooped to pop."

Question of the Week

How do you feel about being at the top of the conference? Do you think we can stay at the top of the conference?

Shirley B: I think it's wonderful. We can stay at the top if we keep playing like we have and don't get to self-confident.

Roger B: Each and everyone of us, plan on staying on top.

Anita K: I think it is great, and if the boys play as good as they have been, we can stay on the top of the conference.

Mrs Gorden: All I can say is "Your'e on top now, don't let over-confidence make you fall."

Janice S: I really like it! Well, I think that we can stay on top if they keep paying like they have been, but don't get into your heads that we are so good that no one can beat us. Boys, just keep up the good work.

Roger Johnson: I agree with everyone else. That we should not get over confident. I think if we keep playing like we have we shouldn't have too much trouble in staying on top.

Larry W: I think it is wonderful. I think we can if we don't get to self-confident. I think they will stay on the top.

Cackles from the Coop

We hope that those of you who were in attendance, enjoyed the county band. We know that all of us enjoyed playing. Most of the brass players had lips twice their normal size the next day, but after four or five hours of playing that is to be expected.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The man practiced for nearly ten years a part that took less than ten seconds to play on the highway. In one respect, he played that bit part with such perfection that for a short time he had top billing in a cast of hundreds.

In 1938 he began making house to house deliveries along a route that at one point took him beyond the town limits and along a stretch of highway.

It was a steady job and he was a steady man, dependable in his habits. He was so dependable, in fact, that town motorists learned to give his truck a wide berth when they saw it parked at the curb.

They knew the delivery man had a habit of pulling sharply to the left into the street without looking for cars that might be coming from behind. It got to be something of a town joke.

The driver went on practicing this habit for years. Remarkably, he was involved in only one serious accident during that time. He took one of his quick turns from the curb and met a driver who was apparently a stranger in town.

No one was hurt, but that accident was a full dress rehearsal for the delivery man. His big scene came up less than a year later.

He had made his last delivery along the highway section of his route and started a full left turn across the road to head back to town. The unseen car coming from behind was traveling 70 miles an hour when it hit the light truck on the driver's side and rammed it nearly 80 feet down the highway.

The years of practicing a dangerous habit ended in about ten seconds of violent action. The delivery man was dead. For a few short hours his name topped the list of all those who had died before him on the highway.

Practice can perfect many things—even the fatal traffic accident.

Jeanne and Larry sure have been seeing a lot of each other lately. It looks like it is going to be quite a steady romance. How about this Jeanne and Larry?

It looks like Coleen has finally decided who she wants to go with. She must have decided on Herb because she has been with him quite a bit lately.

There couldn't be a new romance starting between Donald Kramer and a certain senior giirl could there? It seems he has been going with her quite a bit.

What's this we hear about Myrna B sitting on Ronnie B's lap and Ginger K sitting by Jerry L on the way home from the game the other night? I guess we will have to watch those four a little closer.

What's this we hear about Jerry L and Dorothy R sitting in the back seat of the bus? How about it?

I guess Roger B took Ruth P home after the game the other night. Do you suppose this could be another romance starting?

It looks like Anita and Roger W have been going quite steady lately. How about this Anita?

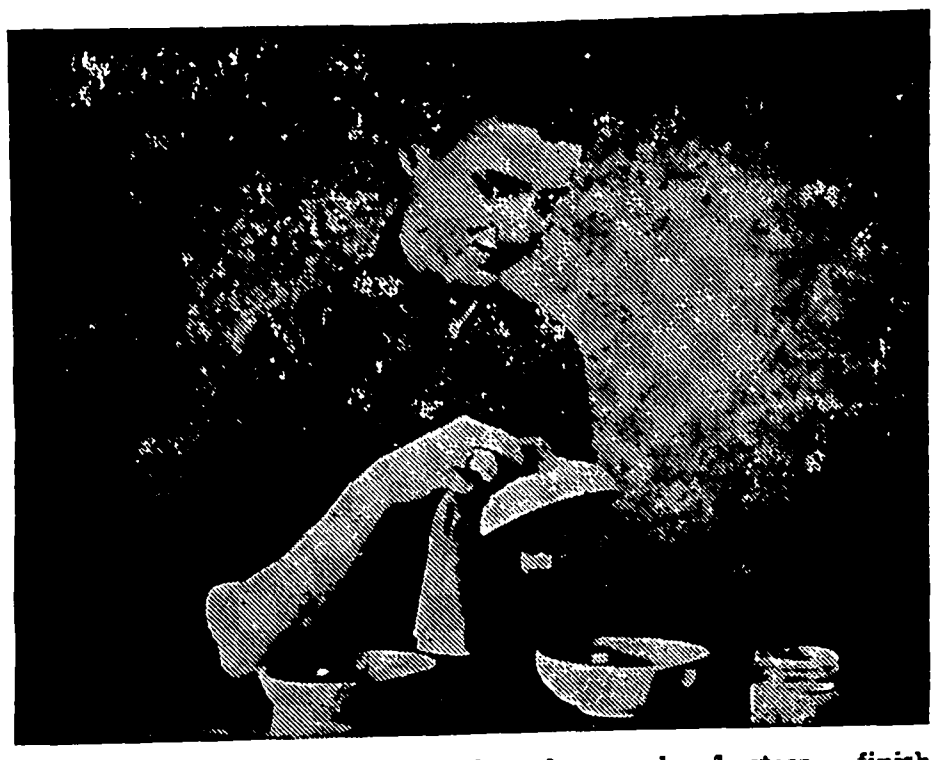
Salad Bowls for Christmas Gifts



For a lovely gift ideal for the homemaker-hostess, finish some wooden salad bowls. Professional looking and lustrous bowls are the results of a job that's done with speed and ease.

It's nearly time for Santa Claus and his reindeer to sail through Iowa's skies again. And, that means you are probably in the midst of buying Christmas gifts now.

June Brown, extension home furnishings specialist at Iowa State College, suggests that you buy some unfinished individual wooden salad bowls for gifts—then finish them yourself. You'll be surprised at the costly, professional look these inexpensive bowls can take on—and what wonderful gifts they make!

Here's how to do it: First you must prepare the bowl for finishing. To do this, first dampen the bowl with clear, warm water. Wipe off surplus water. This will raise the wood's grain. Let the bowl dry; now you are ready to sand. Use a 2/0 to 6/0 garnet finishing paper for this; then dust off the bowl. Before you apply the finish, wipe off the bowl with a tack rag. This will remove dust an ordinary cloth cannot catch. You can either buy a tack rag at your nearest drug store or make one yourself.

FIRST COAT SEALER

Now you are ready to apply the first coat of wood sealer finish. Strain the sealer into a small clean, dry container. A piece of old nylon hosiery does a top-notch straining job.

Use a piece of clean nylon hosiery for your applying cloth, too. When you apply the sealer, use a circular motion. Instead of applying the sealer with the grain of the wood, as you might think, apply it against the grain. You will want to smooth off the surplus sealer. Take your piece of nylon hose and smooth along with the wood's grain. It's very important that you wipe off this excess sealer (any which isn't absorbed by the wood's surface). You do this to prevent an accumulation of a heavy sealer coating on the surface of the wood.

DRYING METHOD

Now that the sealer's on, it's time to let it dry. You can drive some small finishing nails into a piece of board, set the bowl on the nais and allow it to dry for 24 hours.

After this 24-hour drying period, you're ready for the second coat. Either steel-wool or sand the bowl lighty. Do this on both inside and outside surfaces of the bowl. If you plan to steel wool the bowl, use a 3/0 steel wool. If you sand, uses a 6/0 garnet paper. Now dust the bowl with a dry cloth; wipe off with tack rag; strain the sealer; apply sealer with a clean nylon hose and smooth off the surplus, just as you did with the first coat. Allow to dry 24 hours.

THE TIME IS NOW

Bowl preparation and sealer application is done the same on the third coat as it was on the second. However, the drying period is stepped up from 24 hours to 1 week. So, if you plan to finish these for Christmas, begin now.

After the week's drying period, rub it onto the bowl. When you oil. This produces a smooth, lustrous finish. You can use a number 10 motor oil, parafinn oil or lightweight mineral oil. Mix the oil with a finely powdered pumice (grade FFF or FFFF. Blend to the consistency of a thin cream.

Remember to keep stirring the oil and pumice mixture as you rub ti onto the bowl. Whehn you have finished applying the cream, rub it off with either your hands or a cloth.. This removes the shine and produces a satin-like luster. If you want to re-use pumice and oil solution, you may store it. Just make sure it is kept in a tightly covered container and stir the substance well before using it again.

ACP Meetings Called Conservation Practices

Applications of Hancock County farmers for government cost-sharing on soil and water conservation (ACP) practices to be carried out in 1956 may be filed at community meetings which have been arranged by the county ASC commitee.

Farmers will be notified by letter of the date and place for sign-up and at that time farmers should have the estimated number of units for each practice requested.

Since there will be no farm-to-farm canvass to take cost-sharing requests for 1956, farmers should make it a point to attend their meeting and be prepared to file their requests at that time if possible, it was declared this week by Jesse Smith, chairman of the county ASC committee.

He emphasized that attendance at one of the meetings is one of the best ways to get detailed information on the program and the requirements for cost-sharing participation. He also pointed out that all farmers, owners or tenants, are eligible to file requests.

Early filing is desired as a means of helping the county committee to make its plans for the year, including arrangements for necessary technical services and equipment. Early filing means early approvals so that farmers may get their conservation work under way at the beginning of the new year or as soon thereafter as weather permits.

Farmers unable to attend a community meeting may file their requests at the county ASC office during the program year.

Hancock County has been allicated $77,600 of federal funds to share the cost of authorized ACP practices next year. Following are the practices to be offered in this county:

(1) Establishment of additional acreages of vegetative cover in crop rotation; (2) Lime; (3) Initial establishment of contour stripping; (4) Initial improvement of an established permnent vegative cover; (5) Controlling competitive shrubs necessary to permit adequate and desirable vegetative cover for protection on pasture land; (6) Constructing, enlarging, or sealing dams, pits or ponds for livestock water; (7) Initial establishment of permanent sod waterways; (8) Initial establishment of permanent vegetation; (9) Constructing standard terraces to detain or control the flow of water and check soil erosion on sloping land; (10) Cnstructing diversion terraces to intercept runoff and divert excess water to protect outlets; (11) Construction of erosion control dams to prevent or heal the gullying of farmland and to reduce runoff of water; (12) Construction of permanent open farm drainage ditches; (13) Tile; (14) Surface drainage; (15) Establishment of vegetative cover for green manure and for protection from erosion; and (16) Initial establishment of contour farming operations on non-terraced land.

The bill presented by the Garner Ready-Mix Concrete Co. for sand was not allowed because the contractor was to furnish all materials he used in building the spray house at the disposal plant. Town Clerk was instructed to bill the Klemme Community School for the sleeve secured from Mason City Waterworks.

Anton Erdman of Belmond made verbal application to solicit patronage for a garbage collection route in Klamme. The Clerk was instructed to draw up a permit for Mr. Erdman to do so.

Clerk was instructed by Council and Mayor to send registered letter to the delinquent water patron giving three days notice of discontinuance of water service unless delinquent bill is paid in full.

Ordinance No. 46 was read and adopted as follows:

ORDINANCE NO. 46

AN ORDINANCE CONCERNING THE WATERWORKS SYSTEM AND ESTABLISHING WATER RATES, RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR THE TAKING AND USE OF WATER, AND PROVIDING A PENALTY FOR VIOLATION THEREOF.

Be it ordained by the Council of the Town of Klemme, Iowa:

Section 1. That the water rates, rules and regulations in force from time to time, for the taking and use of water, shall be considered a part of the contract of every person who is supplied with water through the waterworks system of the Town, and every such person by taking water, shall be considered as expressing his assent thereto, and be bound thereby, and may be cut off from the building of any person violating the same and shall not be turned on again until all expenses therefor have been paid.

Section 2. All persons desiring to take or use water, shall make application therefor to the Town Clerk stating the name of the owner and the location of the premises, which application shall be signed by the owner of the property to which water is to be supplied and shall provide a stop and waste cock properly located inside the building. Each person desiring water from the waterworks system shall provide a curb box and valve and corporation cock of a pattern approved by the Council for each service pipe, the curb box to be placed twelve inches from the street side of the sidewalk, except in the business district, where it shall be near the curb line and the property owner shall provide lead or copper pipes from the street main to the meter allowing one foot extra length to prevent rupture by settlement, such pipes to stand a service pressure of not less than two hundred pounds to the square inch, and all joints to be wiped or swaged joints, provided, however, that in all cases, the property owner is to pay all costs for material and labor from the street main to the meter.

Section 3. No person shall tap any Town water main except under the authority and supervision of the person appointed to supervise the waterworks system. Mains must be tapped near the top and not in any case at or within six inches of the hub. All service pipes must be laid at least five feet deep and in all cases, must be protected from freezing. Within forty-eight hours after tapping the water main, the person making the connection shall make a full return to the Town Clerk, showing the location of such connection, the placing of the water meter, the corporation cock, the water meter, the curb box and the stop and waste valve, and water shall not be turned on to such premises until all complete returns have been made.

Section 4. When two or more houses are supplied from the same water tap, the service pipe must be so arranged that the water service to one house may be cut off without interference with the water service to the other house

Section 5 The person appointed to supervise the waterworks system or his duly authorized agent, shall have the righth to enter upon the premises of any consumer of water for the purpose of examining the pipes and fixtures, and it shall be his duty to inspect the same and all connections and aappliances, meter, stop and waste valves, and to see that they are placed in a convenient place or location where they will be protected from frost, and no water shall be turned on to the premises, except for testing the connections, until the provisions of this ordinance are complied with.

Section 6. Any person desiring to lay extra large pipe or to install a system of fire protection using the Town water therefor, shall first secure the permission, entered of record from the Town Council.

Section 7. No hydrant, except public drinking fountains, shall be placed on any street unless the same is securely closed and protected against general use, and no person shall open any fire hydrant, except by authority of the Street Commissioner, or for the purposes connected with the Fire Department, as in case of fire.

Section 8. The Town reserves the right to shut off the water at any time for the purpose of making repairs to the water works system, or to any fixtures connected therewith, or for any purpose that may be necessary, and to prohibit or ration the taking of water to water lawns and gardens Should any repair be necessary to any pipes or connections from the Street Main to the meter, regardless of whether or not the pipes and connections are in the street or in private property, the Town shall have the right to shut off the water at the corporation cock or the curb box until repairs have been made. The cost of repair and digging shall be paid by the user or property owner.

Section 9. Rates shall be charged and collected for water furnished as may be determined from time to time by the Council and entered of record in the Minutes. The Council shall also determine and provide for the dates of reading meters, the issuance of bills and the dates of payment thereof, and they shall have authority to provide for shutting off the water to delinquent users and the property subject to delinquent claims and to fix a service charge for turning on the water after it has been shut off for delinquency and authority for providing a penalty for delinquent payment or a discount for prompt payment, not in excess of fifteen percent of the amount due, determined by the rates.

Section 10. Water meters shall be placed so as to measure all water passing through the service plate or water tap furnishing water, and so readings may be readily obtained without difficulty. Each property owner or user must furnish his own meter of a type and size approved by the Council and the Town must service and repair all meters at no expense to the property owner or user.

Section 11. All bills for water shall be claims against the property owner where water is supplied, as well as against the user thereof. When the user of town water moves from the property where it is being supplied, it shall be the duty of such user and also the property owner to notify the Town Clerk of such removal, and the person so moving and the property shall be liable for all water used on the premises until such notice has been given to the Town Clerk.

Section 12. Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

In all the hustle and bustle of Christmas preparations, we sometimes lose sight of the true meaning of the day. Fortunately, most of us come to realization before the season is over, but we'll bet you'll be as surprised as we were at the following information put out by the University of Iowa:

The General Court of Massachusets ruled in 1659 that "anybody who is found observing, by abstinence from labor, feasting, or in any other way, any such days as Christmas Day, shall pay for every such offense five shillings."

In 1861, this mandate was repealed, but as late as 1855, the New York Times reported that only half of the city's churches were open on December 25th and accepting the day as a Holy one. Christmas was recognized by an Act of Congress.

Quite a change from the old-time mandate against Christmas is the 1936 ruling handed down by Judge MA Musmanno of the Allegheny County Criminal Court of Pennsylvania. Citing doubters of Santa Claus as being "in contempt of court," the judge declared that "Santa Claus is not a figment of the imagination. He is actuality . . . the symbol of kindness . . . the token of smiling charity . . . the badge of all that is cheerfully benevolent in the makeup on man."

My Neighbors

"What's the matter, Pop? You WERE expecting him, weren't you?"

Remember the cartoon character who used to say, "Come over for a duck dinner. You bring the duck?" Well it happend. Lester Neubreger passed the remark to Alvin Lass of Rockwell, recently. The result was that Sunday noon the Lass family showed up at the Neuberger home with a complete duck dinner. "Les" said you could have knocked him over with a pin feather.

Klemme has a group of councilmen who apparently take their jobs seriously. The council met seventeen times during the past year and four members had perfect attendance. One member missed one meeting. Pretty good record!

Speaking of pretty good records, we hope that motorists will make a better driving record over the Christmas weekend than the one predicted for them. The National Safety Council expects more than 500 traffic deaths over the weekend and that's going to make for a lot of unhappy folks at Christmas time. We hope that they are way off the beam in their prerictiion.

"—TIDINGS OF COMFORT AND JOY!"

A Christmas Wish

I like to think that there will be
On Christmas Day, around each tree,
A feeling of the presence of
The Child God sent us with His love;
That there, beside each girl and boy,
He'll be, and sharing in their joy.

I like to think that, all the while,
The gifts unfold, I'll see Him smile;
And that He'll hear our carolling,
And know it's for the thanks we bring
To God the Father, for His birth,
To be among us on the Earth.

O, may our Christmas time be gay:
But let's remember it's His Day—
Let's find a place for prayer in it,
And so have Jesus share in it.

—Carl Helm

Thieves Take $350.00 At Co-op. Oil Station Get $1200 at Goodell

Thieves gained entrance to the Hancock County Co-op. Oil Station here Sunday night by way of a back door and made off with some $240 in cash which was locked in a safe. The loss was fully covered by insurance.

The safe was kept in the office at the station, but the thieves rolled it into the rest room where they covered the window with a coat, closed the door, turned on the light, and chiseled the hinges off the door. They then pried the door open and took the cash. A number of checks were in the safe, also, but the thieves left them behind.

Thieves also entered the Goodell Grocery and Locker Sunday night, taking about $1200 in cash and some 160 cartons of cigarettes. Entry to the store was gained by prying open the front door.

They also broke into the office of the Green elevator at Goodell, but took little of value, being frightened away by Walter Boller, who had seen a light at the elevator and was on his way to investigate.

The breakins are being investigated by Sheriff L M "Dutch" Brower, and an official of the State Bureau of Investigation has been on hand.

300 Children Get Treats At Party

Approximately 300 children were on hand for the annual Christmas party sponsored by the Klemme Commercial Club at the high school gymnasium Saturday afternoon.

The party is an annual event, and one that always sends the children home happy.

Franklin Cons. Bows To Shamrocks 83-47

Last Friday night, the Klemme Shamrocks were hosts to the Franklin Consolidated basketball team and took an easy 83-47 win. The victory is the fifth straight in North Star competition for the Shamrocks and lfet them at the top in the conference standings as the only undefeated team. Their only loss this year has come at the hands of Luverne in a non-conference game early in the season.

Friday night's game saw the Shamrocks jump into a first quarter 24-12 lead and add to it as the game progressed. Coach Westberg made generous use of his substitutes and all of his players but two broke into the scoring column. Kramer led the scoring for the locals with 28 points, while Heafner had 21, and Bachman 17. Sprau was the big gun for Franklin with 18 points.

The Little Shamrocks had harder going in their game with the Franklin reserves but managed to win by a score of 29-24. Nuehring led the way for the locals with 18 points.

Friday night's action was the last for the Shamrock until after the holidays when Rockwell will be at Klemme on January 3rd for a conference game. The locals will go into that game with a season's record of nine wins and one loss, one of the best halfway mark records for the Shamrocks in a number of years.

In any case, if you are going to travel for Christmas, take it easy and keep your eyes open. There will, no doubt, be a lot of traffic moving and a little carelessness can make a big accident. Stick around. You may want to celebrate New Year's Eve.

Marvin G "Mike" Lemke and the gang at the Klemme Co-op. Grain Company have really got the Christmas Spirit. They are going to serve free coffee or milk and donuts from 8:30 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. on Friday, December 23rd. "Mike" says he would like to have everyone stop in and visit while they enjoy the lunch.

The Klemme Lions Club would like to have you save your Christmas trees until January 4th. At 8 o'clock that evening, after their regular meeting, they are going to have a tree-burning ceremony, and they invite everyone to be on hand and join in the fun. The more Christmas trees, the bigger the fire, so save your tree for the event.

If all the good will with which we become imbued at Christmas time could be spread out over the world throughout the year, our troubles would all be over. No one would want to do any harm to anyone else, there would be no hungry people in the world, no power mad men to keep things stirred up, and no cause for fear of war. We're all for it.

CHRISTMAS STORY

'Twas the week before Christmas, but all was not quiet.
In fact, the whole household resembled a riot.
From upstairs and downstairs the family sprang
To answer the telephone each time it rang.

Mom came from the kitchen. Before she returned,
The coffee had boiled and the dinner was burned.
Sis ran from the bedroom and slipped in the hall:
Down cellar Dad could seldom hear it at all.

The calls were important. From both far and near
They brought voices of friends that were welcome to hear.
But Sis, Mom and Dad all exclaimed with a sigh,
"If only the telephone could be nearby!"

That night as they nestled so snug in their beds,
The same bright idea danced through three sleepy heads.
Each woke up the next morn, so sly and so quick
And dashed off a letter to good old St. Nick.

'Twas the day after Christmas, and all was serene,
For the telephoneman had appeared on the scene.
As neat as a pin and as quick as could be,
He connected extension phones—one, two and three!

Now Sis in her bedroom can talk to her beau,
And Dad answers his calls in the basement below.
On the wall in the kitchen, quite out of her way,
Is a phone that saves Mom many steps every day.

Take heed, gentle reader, the moral is clear,
Your telephone serves you well—all through the year.
Dependable, speedy, by day and by night
It stands ready to hurry each call on its flight.

But convenient extensions—at least one or two—
Can make sure that the phone's always handy to you.
For this extra value you pay little more,
And your phone serves you better than ever before!

Each year we greet the Christmas Season with great gladness because it is the opportune time to extend our thanks to those whom it has been our privilege to serve.

Senior Class News

We are always kept quite busy in bookkeeping class. Reading assignments in our books, working on an assignment in our workbook, or reviewing for a test. At the moment, we are reviewing for a unit test.

We received another test in literactre over Walt Whitman. We finished the chapter on Whitman by reading his poetry in his last stage, in which his topic changed from the individual and democracy to mankind and immortality. Now we are studying about Samuel Clemens whose pen name is Mark Twain.

In American history we are studying the events leading up to the Civil War. The main events were the South's withdrawal from the Union, the slave issue and tariffs. Some of the events that led up to the slave issue were the book "Uncle Tom's Cabin", the underground railroad, and the abolitionists. Lincoln's presidency was the cause of the South's withdrawal from the Union.

In sociology we have finished the chapter on eugenics and prejudice, and are now ready to begin a new chapter dealing with farmers.

Chemistry: We are studying the development of the periodic table. The section we are now on is relating mostly to physics, giving us a better background for further study. Besides these we are also becoming more and more thoroughly confused?

Algebra II: The quadratic equation is now doing it's best to confuse us. We have successfully finished a chapter on graphing, with a curved line (as if it wasn't hard enough to draw a straight line on a graph).

In general business we have found that through insurance the loss is distributed among the other policy holders in the same company. Through the present Social Security Law, you begin receiving payments after you reach the age of 65. We also have learned the reason why we should invest our money carefully.

May We Quote You?

The following are quotations from great well known authors which we have found very characteristic of some of K H S's students.

"Though I am always in haste, I am never in a hurry",—John Wesley . . . Martin Brinkman.

"And sadly reflecting that a lover forsaken,
A new love may get,
But a neck when once broken, can never be set."—William Walsh . . . Don Kramer.

"Angling may be said to be so like mathematics, that it can never be fully learnt." Isaak Walton . . . Freshman Math Class.

"Every drop of ink in my pen ran cold."—Horace Walpole . . . Senior literature class.

"Life is one long process of getting tired."—Samuel Butler . . . Marvin Michelson.

Question of the Week

What new courses would you like to have offered next semester?

JoEllen and Carol: Some foreign language, speech and girl's basketball.

Anita and Lois: Spanish, German, and maybe a little Latin.

Gracka: Speech for sure, and although I know it would be impossible with such short notice, but in the future I think it would be nice to offer some foreign languages, art, and psychology. Also FHA and FFA.

Larry W and Don A: Auto mechanics and FFA.

CONCRETE

When the old Clarke county courthouse was torn down, two huge chunks of concrete were left over. Weighing some 15 tons each, and heavily reinforced with steel, they were too heavy to load and too tough to break up. The contractor solved the problem by burying them in the courthouse yard, at Osceola.

Don't feed grain alone to save on hog production as you will lose money. It takes 12 bushels of corn alone to produce 100 pounds of pork. Twelve bushels of corn at $1.18 equals $14.16.

Make cheap pork profitable by lower production costs with Swift's hog concentrate. This way it only takes

5 bushels of corn at $1.18 ---------- $5.90
35 lbs. Swift's Hog Concentrate at $4.12 cwt. --- $1.44
Cost to produce 100 lbs. pork the Swift way ---- $7.34

There is no reason to lose money on hogs. Try some Swift feed on your hogs this week and see how much less feed they need to get the job done. Then order a month's supply next week. Also remember that feed bought this month can be deducted from income tax this year.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

We are glad that all the nation's Christmas weekend traffic fatalities did not happen to Klemme folks. If they had, the town would be wiped out! Just think of it! Over 600 people killed between Friday night and Monday morning! Klemme wouldn't have had quite enough people to go around for all these fatalities.

It may have been a merry Christmas for most of us, but for the families and friends of those who in one chaotic instant became statistics, this Christmas and many more to come, have been spoiled.

Isn't it strange that the things which are of most benefit to us are the ones that, uncontrolled, can causes us the most trouble?

Take fire, for instance. It keeps us warm and cooks our food but look at the damage it can do when it gets on the loose. And look at what's happening in California. Water, without which none of us could live for long, is really wrecking things. And then, our cars. They have made travel easier and made it possible for us to see many parts of our country and understand it a little more fully . . . but look what they do when they get out of control! Over 600 people, more folks than we have in Klemme, gone in one long weekend.

And now comes another long weekend. We hope that the tragic record of the weekend just past will make people a little more conscious of their responsibilities on the highway, but we are afraid that some folks will feel that "it can't happen to me", and will go out and make their last mistake. We hope that neither ourselves or anyone we know will be among them.

In the small world category is the automobile accident in which the Thomas Roths, Jr family was involved in Texas. They were on their way to San Benito, Texas last week where they were to visit over Christmas with Jr's parents, the Tom Roths, Sr. Some 200 miles from their destination, they were involved in an accident with another car, and we understand that both cars were pretty well demolished. Theh small world part of the affair is that the driver of the other car was the brother of Dr Frank Bonnstetter of Goodell. We don't know how badly hurt the occupants of the Bonnstetter car were, but we understand that Jr. and his family were able to continue on to San Benito, when Tom, Sr. drove up to get them.

Terry, 3-year-old son of Mr and Mrs Delbert Bachman had been awaiting the arrival of Santa Claus for some time, and he was wanting a gun and holster so bad he could taste it. Come Christmas morning he and his brother and sister had quite a pile of packages to open. It so happened that the first package Terry opened contained the much wanted gun and holster. His eyes lit up and he turned to his mother and said, "Put this thing on me. I'll play with it awhile, I can open that other stuff after while."

Two-Car Crash Puts Six In Belmond Hospital

Cars Collide at Rural Intersection

Cars driven by Harold Albers 34, and Cecil Larson, 17, son of Mr and Mrs Elmer Larson, collided at an intersection 1 mile south and two miles east of Klemme about 4 o'clock Monday afetrnoon. As a result, six of the eleven people riding in the two cars, are in the Belmond Community Hospital.

Cecil Larson's four brothers were riding with him when the accident occurred. Wayne, 7, was not hurt, but Keith 14, received a severely lacerated tongue and lip, John 12, a fractured thigh and possible pelvic fracture, and Gearld, 10, concussion and a lacerated lip. Cecil received some internal injuries.

Harold Albers received contusions of the chest and left arm, and Mrs Albers, 25, a lacerated scalp and fractured ribs. Their two daughtes, Cheryl, 5, and Charlene, 21 months, and two nephews, Milo Miller, 7, and Stephen Albers, 6, both of Mason City, escaped with minor injuries. Charlene was missing when help arrived at the scene but she was found unharmed in the snow beneath the rear axle of the Albers car. She was apparently thrown into the ditch by the impact of the collision and then the car came to rest directly over her.

The picture at left shows the Albers car which was traveling east at the time of the accident, and the other picture shows the Larson car which was traveling north. The telephone pole was snapped off when one of the cars apparently hit it after going into the ditch. Damage to both cars was severe.

Dates Announced For Taxpayers to Meet Assessors

Cooperation Will Cut Assessment Costs

Blanks for the 1956 personal property assessments are in the process of being mailed to rural tax-payers in Hancock County.

Fieldmen from the County Assessor's office will meet taxpayers in each township on specified days to list personal property, take applications for Military Service and Homestead Tax Credit Exemptions and applications for dog licenses. Military and Homestead Tax Credits must be applied for annually between January 1st and July 1st, under a recent Iowa law.

Hancock County Supervisors have fixed license fees on dogs for 1956 at the following rates: Male dogs, $1.50; female dogs, $4.00, except in towns having their own license fee, where the rate is $1 50 on male dogs and $3.00 on females.

All farmers are urged to have their crop report ready for the fieldman when they appear in township centers. Costs of making assessments can be materially reduced if taxpayers will meet fieldmen on the dates and places specified.

Assessors will be at the following places in this area on dates set between the hours of 9 a m and 4 p m to list personal property for the 1956 assessment.

January 16, Avery Township, (South-half), Miland Cafe in Goodell; January 17, Avery Twp, (North-half), City Hall in Klemme; January 18, Twin Lake Twp, (North-half) City Hall in Klemme; January 19 Twin Lake Twp, (South-half), Miland Cafe in Goodell; February 1 & 2, Liberty Twp, Courthouse in Garner; February 3 & 4, Ell Twp, Courthouse in Garner.

Shamrocks Sport Fine Record At Mid-Season

The Klemme Shamrocks are sporting a fine record after having played just half of their regular scheduled games for the season. They have won nine of the ten games they have played, losing only to Luverne in the second game of the season. This loss was an eight point 64-56 game played at Luverne, and saw the Shamrocks trailing 24-6 early in the second quarter. However, they didn't give up, fighting back all the way, only to lose by the eight points.

In the North Star Conference, the Shamrocks now have the distinction of being the only unbeaten team in conference play. They have won five games while every other team in the conference has suffered at least two defeats. When they go back into action after the holidays, they will play four conference games, beginning Tuesday, January, 3rd, when Rockwell comes here. Then they will take part in the Hancock County Tournament at Garner, beginning January 17th.

They should be a top contender for the tournament title this year, with undefeated Hayfield as the main stumbling block in their path, and a strong Woden team liable to cause trouble.

In the ten games the Shamrocks have played so far this season they have scored 641 points for an average of 64.1 per game while, their opponents have scored 458 points for an average of 45.8 per game. Hence, they have outscored their opponents an average of 18.3 points per game.

Although Don Kramer and Denny Haefner have pretty much shared scoring honors thus far in the season, still there are four other men who have played a lot of ball and deserve a good big share of the credit for the team's success. Mart Brinkman, Warren "Butch" Terhufen, Roger Bachman, and Bob Larson, all have turned in some fine defenisve performances, played good floor games, and occasionally have climbed pretty high in the scoring column. One man has appeared in no games, but has played a major role . . . Coach "Bill" Westberg.

Condition, team play, and spirit have helped the team gain their fine record, one that brings pride to the school and community.

For Bargain Eating—

Serve Plentiful Pork Often

This is the season for that all-time favorite—pork. The largest pork supply in years makes pork the big news—the big value—when you shop for meat.

Morning, noon and night—there's hardly a meat on our Iowa markets that can top pork as a savory, tasty, plentiful and econmonical meat. So take advantage of all the pork that is being retailed right now.

Pork is one of the leaders on the list of meats which offer many nutritive food qualities. Because of its high protein content, pork's fat has good digesttibility and high energy values. It's also been found to contain some of the most essential fatty acids needed for growth and good skin condition, says Jewel Graham, extension nutritionist at Iowa State College.

The thiamine content of pork is several times that of liver, and its content of riboflavin and niacin are on a par with other meats. As you know, liver takes top honors for being the richest source of organic iron. But, did you know that pork liver contains two or three times as much iron as other liver varieties?

Pork for Breakfast

Breakfast brings to mind crisp bason, sizzling ham slices or spicy little sausages. Give the How does this sound?—link sau-family an early morning treat. sauges and pineapple, hot corn bread, butter, milk or coffee.

This morning meal is a snap to prepare, and the family will really go for it! Simply place little link sausages in a frying pan. Pour a ilttle water over them, cover, and let simmer until they are done. Then remove the cover and let the sausages brown. Dredge pineapple rings with flour which you have seasoned. Now, brown the pineapple in the sausage fat. No more lagging appetites when the family takes a look at this taste tempter

Luncheon Suggestions

Luncheon brings to light lots of pork possibilities: creamed ham in patty shells, salt pork with baked beans or ham hock with lima beans, toasted hot ham sandwiches, deep-dish sausage pie. How would ham and sweet potato rolls strike you? Serve them with cauliflower au gratin, spiced beets and stewed apricots for dessert. Plentiful brown rice is a tasty accompaniment for pork chops. To serve, place the rice in a mound on each chop.

For your evening meal, pork possibilities are limitless. Pork roasts, the shoulder, the loin and the ham are always admired when cooked properly. Remember that all pork must be cooked slowly and for a long period of time. This is to produce top-notch flavor and destroy any trichinea—those pesky parasites which cause the disease tricinosis. Cook your pork roast in an oven set at 350 degrees F. If a meat thermometer is used, cook the meat until the thermometer registers 185 degrees F. If you are not using a thermometer, allow 30 to 40 minutes per pound of pork. Perhaps the cut has been rolled and boned. If so, allow from 10 to 15 minutes more per pound.

Pork Chop Varieties

As we think of pork along with supper, the chop and all its variations come to mind. Pork chops should be braised—that is, they should be browned in a heavy, hot skillet. then covered and allowed to cook until done on top of the stove, or placed in the oven to finish cooking.

You might accessorize the chops with your favorite bread stuffing or a corn stuffing. Brown the chop first; then place a mound of dressing on the top—and pop it into the oven to finish baking.

Jolly Workers Club

The Jolly Workers Club held their annual Christmas party at the home of Mrs Glenn Bruhl. A pot luck dinner was enjoyed at noon. After the dinner a business meeting was held. We had a gift exchange and our mystery friends were revealed.

Mrs Virgil Waddingham is the club president for the coming year and Mrs Leon Gilpin will be secretary and treasurer. Mrs Walter Blumer will take care of the cards that we send to the sick each year.

The January meeting will be at the home of Mrs Harlow Helps with Mrs Glen Schlicting as co-hostess.

4-H Girls Have Highest Enrollment in History

This year the Hancock County 4-H girls topped all previous enrollment. There were 297 girls enrolled in 19 4-H clubs this past year. There were 236 of this total that came from farm homes, 13 from non-farm homes and 48 from town homes. There are 41 girls' leaders this year.

The demonstration program is one of the outstanding parts is the girls' program. In order to make this the suscessful program that ti is, we give credit first to the girls participating and secendly to the adults who take their time to train the 56 teams in the county. Elimination contests were held in the local clubs and 33 teams were selected to enter the county centest at the County Junior Fair.

The girls' exhibits at the County Fair totaled 549 entries. The judges placed 245 in the blue ribbon class and 188 in the red ribbon class and 57 in the white ribbon class. This shows that our girls are good cooks. The project for last year was "Foods and Nutrition".

A new activity was added this year. It was a food judging contest. The 19 girls participating in this contest had very high scores. The girls in each club enjoyed participating in the judging contest. Judging work outs were held in the local club meetings during the year. This activity will be carried on through the coming year for the home furnishings project.

There were 15 4-H girls attended 4-H convention in the Iowa State College Campus and 29 girls attended the District 4-H camp held at the Methodist Camp Grounds at Clear Lake.

the Highway Story

THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

New Year's eve is a night of illusion for many of us. When whistles and bells break the night into separate parts maybe we are inclined to think we've automatically become finer people with better habits, brighter prospects.

That whimsical lapse from reality doesn't last long. No certain clock hour can change of itself the usual nature of the events our habits breed. For example:

At 3 o'clock on the afternoon of December 31, 1954, a prominent and respected woman died at the intersection of a gravel road when two cars smashed together.

Her death was number 612 and the last traffic fatality in Iowa in 1954.

A few hours later, the whistles and the bells brought in the New Year. Two hours and five minutes after that a 24-year-old driver crashed off a dead-end road.

His was the first of what may be, again, more than 600 traffic deaths in the state this year. Who will be the last and who will be the first to go during the coming New Year's eve is yet to be written.

But we can be sure that whistles and bells and the change from an old year to a new year will have no magic effect on our highway death rate.

Which leaves the question: Are we setting out to kill another 600 persons in Iowa traffic accidents in 1956? Or, are we going to recognize that possibly too much of our safety programs in past years has been "whistles and bells" and not enough aggressive action.

Senior Class News

In Bookkeeping the last week we have been doing a practice set in our workbook illustrating the entire accounting process. It includes all the work of a fiscal period for the Hunter Wholesale Grocery, they illustrate the application of general principles of accounting that apply to all business.

In General Business we are studying how the United States saving bonds have advantages and disadvantages. The most disadvantage in loaning money to your friends or neighbors is that they usually don't pay you back, the main reason for this is because they don't put it down on paper.

The advanced Algebra class has been busy studying imaginary numbers. By now they are very completely confused.

In Chemistry we have learned that an atom is composed of electrons, positrons, protons, neutrons, mesons, antiprotons, and empty space. Mostly the later.

The Sociology Class has been discussing reasons why the people from rural areas are decreasing and the city population is increasing. We find that the farms now days can be run by one farmer, so the people from the farm move to the city and work in factories.

We finished the chapter on the Civil War and we are looking in the encyclopedia for information that has something to do with Christmas all over the world.

In Literature we finished reading the short essays by Mark Twain. All of them seem pretty humorous, especially the life of Mark Twain.

Typing II: We are still working on our projects. We had to have 7 lessons done by Christmas.

The lady tourist clasped her hands in ecstasy. "Isn't this just the most heavenly scenery you have ever seen!" she cried. "What's wonderful about it?" grumbled her tired husband. "Take away those mountains and that river and lake and forest, and what've you got?"

Question of the Week

What are you going to do during Christmas vacation?

Mrs Gordon: I'm going to spend Christmas with my in-laws, after Christmas with my parents and New Years at home.

Ginger: I'm going to Kansas City with my sister.

Joyce T: I'm going to stay home.

Mrs Griesy: Enjoy my family who will be home for the day.

Eva T: Have dinner with the Albers and the Thiemanns. Then stay home and rest.

Miss Beardsley: Meet my folks at the home of friends in Greenfield, Iowa. I will spend my entire vacation there.

Herman: Work!

Shirley: Move!

Mr Westberg: Enjoy my family and continue working with our fine basketball team.

John D: Visit my grandparents or else stay at home and work.

Date Tips For Girls

If he osks for a date, tell him you have one and then call him back and tell him you can go out with him. He always likes to play second fiddle.

2. If he tells you he will come for you at 7, be ready at 7:30. He always likes to wait.

3. Always make him spend plenty of money. He will be glad he spent it on you—what better way could it be used?

4. If he comes in a '56 Cadillac, tell you how you like to ride in a '46 Chevy. If he comes in a '46 Chevy, tell him how you adore Cadillacs.

5. When you go out with him alway tell him about the many handsome fellows you've dated recently. He likes to know you are popular.

6. If he takes you to the Sno Kream and offers you a coke, ask for a hamburger instead. He'll probably have enough money.

7. After a date, when he takes you home, jump out of the car before he can open the door for you and run into the house without saying thank you or goodbye. No use being old fashioned.

May We Quote You?

"I am not one of those who do not believe in love at first sight, but I believe in taking a second look." (H Vincent)

"We give advice by the bucket, but take it by the grain." (Alger)

"Conceit may puff a man up, but can never prop him up." (Puskin)

"Win hearts, and you will have all men's hands and purses." (Burleigh)

"A kiss from my Mother made me a painter.' (West)

" If nobody loves you, be sure it is your own fault." (Doddridge)

"Men are but children, too, though they have grey hair they are only of a larger size." Seneca)

"Men should keep their eyes wide open before marriage and half shut afterwards." (Scureri)

"Nearly every folly committed by woman is born of the stupidity or evil influence of man." (Michelet)

Girls' Sports

This week we have started to play badminton in P T which gives us a lot of exercise and pep. This game is played something like tennis but instead of a ball we have a birdie to hit back and forth. Also some of the classes are playing basketball. This is a favorite game of most of the girls. We still are doing a lot of calisthenics. I guess Mr Westberg wants to keep us in shape for Christmas vacation.

Cackles from the Coop

We hope you enjoyed the vocal concert as much as we enjoyed putting it on.

If Mr Whitford doesn't seem too happy these days, there is a good reason for it. He passed out new music to the bands, and some of it is a long ways above our heads. Eventually we will be able to play it (we hope), but right now it sounds terrible.

Gossip Around KHS

It seems Winola and Mart were holding hands in English class the other day. Maybe a new couple. huh?

Say Anita, it seems Roger's car ran out of gas last Wednesday night? Did it have to be so close to home??

I suppose Herb won't get to wear his new class ring the rate he and Coleen are going. Is this true?

What were Martin and Myrna doing parked in front of West Side Grocery in Garner last week?

Marcella N seems to be holding out on us. It seems that she still likes Bobby E from Minnesota. How about this??

The clerk had pulled down blanket after blanket, until only one was left on the shelf. Then the customer remarked sweetly, "I really don't want to buy today. I am only looking for a friend."

"Well, madam," sighed the clerk, "I'll be glad to take down that last one if you think she's in it."

A KILOWATT HOUR OF ELECTRIC POWER

Yes, That's the astounding fact! Now it takes less than a pound of coal to produce a kilowatt of electric power. In 1927 it required nearly two pounds to produce the same amount of electric power! We may well thank modern science for this great advance in technical progress which has kept down the cost of electricity.
